YOUNG LAD SHOT BROTHER BY ACCIDENT

Duck Hunter Killed When Gun Exploded--Hallowe'en Vandalism

WILD PRANKS ON THE CITY STREETS

Much Innocent Fun But Some Malicious Damage Was Done

FENCES DESTROYED

Car Owners Suffer From Slashed Tires; Other Wanton Destruction

'Twas a grand night for Hallowe'en and literally thousands crowded the downtown streets last night. Girls dres sed as men, men dressed as girls, negroes, gypsies, clowns, Pierots and Pierettes, young people, old people, all were in costume and one would think that one had stepped into a page from Fairyland had they been on Front street about nine o'clock in the evening.

There was loads of innocent fun, such an organization as the Y.M.C.A. putting on a splendid party to keep the youngsters off the streets and out of mischief. But there was considerable hoodlumism running rampant as the evening grew later and a good deal of property damage was done in the city. For instance, the beautiful fence that runs along the front of Mr. Gerald Jenkins home, East Bridge St., had its pickets been deliberately wrecked, and pieces of cement thrown at them.

Deliberate Damage Done

Two heavy wooden fences on Moira street were pulled up and on Catherine street a green wicker chair had been placed on top of a telegraph pole. One of the most wanton destructions of the night was the breaking off of four basket ball posts at Ann street school and the perpetrators of the deed piled two of them up against the south door.

Dangerous conspicuous might have resulted to two lanterns being taken off the barricade at Everett's street and the lights were removed from a steam roller at the corner of Bridge and Henry streets. Mr. F. E. O'Flynn was a heavy sufferer from hoodlums. About twenty feet of a line fence which extends from Bridge street Charles was ripped up.

There are only a few of the many acts of vandalism created in the city last night. Several automobile owners complained this morning that their tires had been hacked with a knife, and one stated that the ignition wiring in his car had been cut. A few cars were moved a block or so away, but no harm was done in these cases.

Shannonville suffered, too. The sidewalks in that village are built of cement and a good many feet were ripped up some time after midnight.

BASKET BALL IN GOOD FOR GOOD YEAR

Annual Meeting Held At Kingston—Local Men On Executive

The annual meeting of the Eastern Ontario Basketball Association took place at the Kingston Y.M.C.A. last night, and Mr. Ralph Morden of the local "Y" A.A. represented the Belleville branch of the organization. The local young men were elected officers at the meeting, Mr. A. W. Armstrong re-elected vice-president, and Messrs. R. B. Morden, of this city, D. Loomis of Petrboro, Lieut. of R.M.C., and Mr. Mutart of the Kingston Collegiate Institute will be representatives composing the executive.

In the intermediate basketball group there will in all probability only be four teams Peterboro, Petrboro, Napanee will not be represented this year. Kingston Y. Bell Ivrille Y. M. C. A. intermediates will compose the group. Part of the schedule which is yet to be drawn up may be played during the month of December but the New Year will see the majority of the games taking place.

Locally, the basket ball situation is promising. Nearly all last year's players are available and are not participating in an industrial league which will help to condition them for the Ontario series.

London Girls Offer Evidence

Above are shown sketches of the two young women, Dorothy May and Evelyn Staley, London, whose affidavits were responsible for the appeal of William Haskins sentenced to five years for manslaughter at London, Ont. Haskins was found guilty following the death of William Claiborn, found killed in an automobile.

The two girls then took out affidavits swearing that they had been in a car driven by Arthur Ward, London, which had struck a man on that road the same night. As a result Haskins asked for a new trial. The sketch was made during the court hearing yesterday.

NO BRICKLAYER

Union Refuses To Accept Winslow's Application For Membership

London, England, Nov. 1.—Executive committee of the Building Trades Union has decided that Winston Churchill, Chancellor of the Exchequer, is ineligible for membership as a bricklayer. Churchill was accepted as a member by the local union. The committee decided he did not intend to make his living by laying bricks, or take part in the affairs of the union.

Voyage Was Profitable, The Ship's Earnings Over $343,000

Friedrich Shafen, Germany, Nov. 1.—The German air liner, "Graf Zeppelin" after successfully conquering the winds and storms of the Atlantic for a record breaking dirigible crossing almost met disaster in landing at the hangar at 7.06 a.m., (1.06 a.m. Eastern Standard Time) today when thousands of eager welcomers threatened to rush the goodies.

The ship returned exactly three weeks after her start October 11 and the crew was given a tumultuous welcome by the crowd despite the early hour of landing.

Earned $343,000

New York, Nov. 1.—Revenue earned by the "Graf Zeppelin" on the round trip from Germany was estimated at $343,000. It was uncertain how much was profit. Dr. Hugo Eckener estimated the expenses of the trip at $100,000 but repairs to the damaged fin must have raised this.

No Place To Sleep

Friedrich Shafen, Germany, Nov. 1. (Clarence Terhune, Chicago year-old aideaway on the Graf Zeppelin was given a triumphant reception by the big crowd here. Terhune said he did not know what he would do but that he would not remain in Europe long. He was maid of all work on the trip, and said while he had lots to eat he had no place to sleep.

ELLIOTT DINNER IS DAY'S EVENT

Manager of Standard Bank Dines Cheese Board For 22nd Year

Dr. Christie, President of the Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph was the main speaker at the twenty-second annual dinner tendered to the Belleville Cheese Board by Mr. John Elliott at the Hotel Quinte, to-day. The toast to the Provincial Institutions was proposed by the Rt. Rev. (C. A. Seager, Bishop of the Diocese of Ontario, and responded to by Mr. R. A. Rumley, Assistant General Manager of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, Toronto, and Mr. Norman C. Stephens, Assistant General Manager of the Standard Bank of Canada, Toronto. Mr. J. A. McKinney, President of the Cheese Board, Mr. Morley Duff, Mayor, Mr. S. B. Rollins, Warden of the County, and Col. W. W. Ponton, K.C., also proposed toasts. Mr. J. Arnold Thompson and Mr. J. D. Bankier contributed solos to the afternoon's entertainment.

A bounteous repast was served in splendid style to enhance the reputation already achieved by this annual event.

Runaway Trenton Lad Found in Hamilton After Four Day Search

Harry Hyatt, the young man who left home so suddenly on Sunday and disappeared from sight completely for four days, after buying a motor way ticket to Toronto, has been discovered. The boy was found in Hamilton by the police and today his parents left for the Ambitious City to bring him home.

Chief Bain, of Trenton, said today that no statement had been made by the boy, so far as he knew. No word had been received of the young boy, who is only a grade school student, until this morning.

HARD LUCK DOGS PATH OF FAMILY

Strangers To Country, Sick And Unable To Work On Farm

GOING BACK HOME

Trenton People Are Kind When Sad Plight Becomes Known

Ill-health and grim hard luck are spectres that have stalked the path of Frank Kenwood and his wife since they left their comfortable little home in Benenden, Kent County, England, in April of this year and with their two small children set out to seek their fortune in the new country. "I had not been enjoying the best of health," said Mrs. Kenwood, " and we had read such glowing accounts of Canada that we decided to sell every thing and emigrate."

But misfortune after misfortune befell them till they found themselves in Trenton penniless and at the mercy of the stone house which they occupied while Mr. Kenwood was working as a farm laborer for Mr. Everett Little, a farmer, residing about a mile from Trenton. Now their scant possessions they and their children were taken to Trenton this morning.

Here, people became interested in their sorry plight, and through friends or money, and after some investigation they were finally reinstated in their former home at Little farm where they will remain till their crop has been thoroughly taken up with the Immigration authorities at Toronto when it is expected they will be sent back to their old home in England.

Different Conditions

The small family,—arrived in this country in April of this year under the impression that they had no friends in this country whatever but had made some coming out on the boat. They were separated from Mrs. Kenwood's brother, Frank Lamb and upon coming home was ordered to the Little farm by Mr. Little. Here he endeavored to take up his old duties he was again stricken and found himself utterly unable to do the work. Then he was informed that his house was required by another tenant.

SQUIRES WINS IN NEWFOUNDLAND

Four Cabinet Ministers Were Defeated In Last Monday's Election

Sir Richard Squires

Former premier of Newfoundland who has ousted the Government in last Monday's election. Twenty-one seats are now definitely decided for the party standing: nine for the Union, Newfoundlander. Ten ridings are to be heard from yet.

Among the polls declared this afternoon was St. John's City East, where Hon. Mr. Alderdice led the poll with a count of 3,826 votes. His colleague G. Byrne, was also elected with a total of 3,687 against 2,360 for W. Brophy, and 2,704 for F. Churchill, the Opposition candidate. The result in St. John's East was the opposite of that in St. John's West, where Dr. Alex Campbell, of the Opposition, led with 4,435 votes. Sir Richard Squires' election in Humber had previously been declared.

Hon. W. J. Howley, Minister of Justice and Hon. S. J. Foot, Minister of Finance and Customs, went down to defeat in St. John's West, and Burin West, respectively. This has made four Cabinet members to be defeated.

RED CROSS WILL ASK FOR FUNDS

Big Campaign To Open In Belleville On November 26th

$275,000 is the object towards which the Canadian Red Cross Society, Ontario Branch, is striving and Mr. Chas. F. Johnson, a representative of that organization was in the city today with the view of making arrangements for a campaign to be put on in the interests of the society from November 26th to December 1st. Those who will be distributed over all the cities, towns and villages in Ontario.

Mr. Johnson was in the city today with the officers of the various men's and women's organizations in the city and hopes to have them behind him in his gigantic appeal for funds. If the memberships in the coming Red Cross campaign desire a Red Cross society branch in Belleville Mr. Johnson stated today that one could be organized later.

The Red Cross does splendid work in Ontario. They support twenty-six outpost hospitals, one of them at Bancroft, where many soldiers, crippled for life from the last war, and do other good work, such as the forming of a Junior Red Cross in the schools of the province. The money that is raised in this campaign will be placed towards the support of these efforts.

Mr. John Elliott, manager of the local branch of the Standard Bank, is chairman of the campaign, and Colonel Reeoe or Vandewater is vice-chairman. Mr. Johnson expects to leave this city tomorrow but will be back to organize his campaign in the city.

Hallowe'en a Gay Night With Dances And Entertainments

All Hallow's Eve has passed into oblivion again for another year, but the memory of this long looked for and happy night will linger long in the memories of most of the youngsters of this city.

At the Y.M.C.A. well on to eight hundred children, boys and girls were entertained by the Association officials and the Y's Men's Club. Each member of the Club was given some particular task to do to make this Hallowe'en Frolic the best in history and frolic-like laughter and nappy fun which the children showed all evening, there was no doubt that they were enjoying themselves to the utmost.

The purpose of having this Frolic for the kiddies each year is to keep them off the streets, where they are in constant danger, and place them under supervision where they can have a good time without harming anyone. A program of stunts was arranged and prizes distributed to those lucky ones who were adjudged the best. Mr. Duff and M. F. Armstrong acted as judges and although there was a lot easy task, they fulfilled it to the satisfaction of everyone, including the youngsters.

Some person who was at the Moose Hall last night at the Hallowe'en Dance of the Utopia Club has the wrong overcoat today, and may or may not be liar richer. The owner of the missing coat was the one the left at the hall, has no desire to say that which does not belong to him, and if the other party feels the same way about the matter, he can call at the Police Station and an exchange made.

Mistakes like this have been made before, and there seems to be some chance for this one, probably due to the wonderful October moon. The owner of the lost overcoat who has left his hat in the exchange, is the rancour to the other man, whoever he may be, for he apparently thinks he got the best of the exchange,

TRAGEDY IN HOME

Young Lad Shoots His Brother While Cleaning Father's Gun

Two shooting accidents in the County of Hastings yesterday had tragic endings in the Belleville General Hospital during last night. John Allinson, 28, married, of 4 Burley Ave. nue, Toronto, died at one o'clock this morning from the effects of gunshot wounds received when a weapon exploded accidentally discharging the full contents into his head while he was returning from a hunting trip on the Trent River at Percy Boom, a few miles from Warkworth.

James Henley, age 15, a school boy residing at Milbridge, Ontario, forty miles north of here, died in the hospital at 7.10 this morning despite the fact that doctors had worked nearly all night in an effort to save his life. Henley was brought to the institution last night at about midnight as a result of a shot-gun wound in the head which he was holding by the muzzle exploded. The charge entered the trigger was caught on a sharp stone or some other object.

Blood Transfusion Failed

The charge lodged in the right side of the abdomen, penetrated the liver and punctured a lung. Dr. Pre ce Campbellford was called and ordered his immediate removal to the Belleville Hospital. The proprietor of the summer hotel brought the man to Belleville by motor and Dr. Preece Gibbie was called to attend him. Dr. Stobie made a blood transfusion last night and while his condition was critical it was felt that if he survived the night he had an even chance of recovery. However he died at one o'clock.

It was announced this morning that an inquest will be held and the hearing will be opened tonight at Tickell's undertaking parlors, Allinson who was

OFFICIAL VISIT TONIGHT

District Deputy Grand Master J. O. Henry will make his official visit tonight to the Belleville Lodge 123 A. F. and A.M., the meeting being scheduled to start at seven-thirty. Several speakers, prominent in the Craft will be on hand to deliver addresses and a banquet will be held after the general meeting is over. Past Grand Master Col. W.N. Ponton is expected to attend for the first time since his accident some months ago, and will no doubt speak for a few minutes. Mr. Henry goes to Brighton next Tuesday to pay his official visit to that lodge.

INQUEST TONIGHT

The inquest into the death of John Allinson, of Ameliasburg, who was shot at Percy Boom on the Trent river yesterday and who died in the Belleville hospital during the night will be opened at the Tickell Undertaking Parlours this afternoon at five o'clock. At five-thirty, the inquest into the death of James Henley of Hillsbridge will be started and will be held at the same place. It is thought that identification of the remains and the swearing of the jury will be all that is done today.

NEW ORCHESTRA TO PLAY

Tabernacle Church Sunday School Hall tonight will be the scene of a concert put on by the "Kitchen Klub Funny Orkestry." This orchestra which is a new addition to the ranks of Belleville's musical fraternity, is expected to bring down the house by their playing, and from advance notices they are about correct in that same thing. Anyway it would be well to drop in and hear them tonight at eight-fifteen.

HALLOWE'EN SUPPER HELD AT FOXBORO

Under the auspices of the Foxboro Presbyterian Church a delightful Hallowe'en supper was served in the school house at that village last evening. The long tables were tastefully arranged with decorations in the Hallowe'en colors of orange and black and bowls of grapes and shining apples added to their attractiveness. Following the supper an entertaining programme was put on with the Rev. Ernest Mr. Duncan occupying the chair. The chief entertainers was Mr. Everett Smith of Belleville, assisted by Mr. Frank Knight. Miss Bethel, Point Anne, contributed some interesting readings and Miss Grace Symons of Foxboro and Miss Duncan gave delightful solos. Mrs. C. Vermilya acted as accompanist for the evening.

Shot By Young Brother

James Henley, aged 15, a school boy residing at Hillsbridge was shot to death by a shot-gun with his brother, William, when the accident occurred which culminated in his death. At five o'clock yesterday afternoon the two boys procured the gun from a closet while the father was absent in the fields and the mother attending a funeral in Belleville. The younger brother was under the impression that the gun was not loaded and pointed it directly at his brother. It was half-cocked and suddenly exploded, the whole charge striking the young Henley's abdomen and legs.

He was immediately rendered unconscious and the father was called from the fields. The boy was suffering intense pain and a local physician was called. He was ordered to the Belleville General Hospital where Dr. Connor was given charge of the case. The unfortunate lad was placed on a cot in the institution at nine o'clock last night and survived until 7.10 this morning.

It is understood that the boys had returned from school and planning a duck-shooting expedition they purposed to clean the gun while the parents were away. The mother was attending the funeral of the late Mrs. Kennedy in Belleville and when notified of the occurrence remained here. The inquest to inquire into his death will be opened at the Tickell Undertaking parlors tonight. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. William Henley.

the Imperial Army. Before the war, he was stationed in India and during the Great war he served overseas for four years with the Rifle Brigade and was a German prisoner in Belgium for the last four months of the struggle. "If we go back to England said Mrs. Kenwood, "I can't see a home with my mother till we get on our feet, then I can find work myself and Ken can get a job as chauffeur or gardener or something which will be easier for him."

"Conditions are different there," she added, "they have a state insurance fund which we pay and they look after us when we are ill or up against our luck." Kenwood is coming to Canada and during the illness of her husband, Mrs. Kenwood has worked when convenient. She said that the little money went for clothes and necessaries for themselves and the children, so they have just existed," she said.

Two lovely little children, Frank William, aged 5 and Jean a little over a year, whose golden hair and blue eyes bear testimony to their English birth, seemed laughingly unconscious of the plight of their parents. "Pro tem rooms were very good to us," said Mrs. Kenwood" and if we can only get back to the climate in England I am sure things will work out all right. Her husband seemed to feel his position very keenly. "I have never come to this before", he said, "in the old country we even managed to keep a little money in the bank."

They were both nicely mannered, conservative and refined and no one for the hard luck that has come upon them, but they are hopeful of the future in their own land.

band was suddenly grasped by an invisible spirit and thrust into a pan of cold liver. Pandemonium, by Pompney, the screeching mob was brought to the Corn Floor, where the program was held. Many prizes were given besides for everyone, and the best eight were awarded various prizes for their part in the program. Y's Men's Club are doing a good work with the children, and to say that they are popular is to say a small done and has been done for them is no more than the truth.

Utopia Club Dance

Another popular Hallowe'en Dance was held under the auspices of the Utopia Club last night when with Rex Brockhurst and his Ace High Orchestra dispensing music at their best. Over one hundred and fifty couples were present, most of whom were in costume, and a very large depleted was one of colour and charm. Novelties, horns, hats and other articles of fun makers were passed around.

Prize winners were as follows:

Ladies Euchre, Mrs. Green, Mrs. Atkins and Mrs. G. Connors. Gentlemen, Morris, R. Harrow, A. Rolls. Best costume, ladies, Miss Kitty Torrence; Gentlemen, Mr. Lamb. Stirring Best comic costume, ladies, Miss Summers; Gentlemen, Mr. W. Thompson. Spot Dance, Miss Nettie Ronsky, Mr. Samuel Campbell.

Shannonville Masquerade

A successful masquerade dance was held at Shannonville last night in the Orange Hall, the Bon Ton Orchestra of Belleville supplying dressed as the music. Mr. H. McDonald of Point Anne won the first prize for the best ladies costume, being dressed as a ballet girl, while Tommy Pepping of Marysville carried off the men's prize, when he impersonated a cut of to-day George Garrison won the comic costume prize, when he took the part of a tramp, while the spot dance was won by Miss L. Cambridge and T. Parrington. Music of the popular type for the success of the dance should go to Robert Little and D. Mulligan, who were on the Dance programme for a short period of their time to make it a success.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Dixon, of Crier Co., held a most successful Hallowe'en party at their home last evening, a number of the guests being in costume. The house was tastefully decorated for the occasion as well as a long table trimmed with black cats and covered with candles. The dining room certainly looked "spooky" enough when the lights were turned out and a happy evening was spent by all present. The time was spent in playing games and holding contests, and all the guests voted Mr. and Mrs. Dixon to be ideal hosts.

Social and Personals

Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Bollton and family of Kingston, motored to Belleville and were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. D. Freeman recently.

Head lettuce, always expensive, is a delicacy the thrifty housewife will try to conserve. When it comes from the store, remove decaying parts, wash it gently by letting water run on it and wrap it in a cloth wrung out of cold water and put it in a paper sack in a cold place.

One head lettuce may be made to serve three meals. Wash, dry and chop the outer leaves, mix with French dressing and serve as a relish with meat. Use the crisp outer leaves as a base for some combination salad, as celery, apples and nuts, or pineapple and cheese. The crisp and tender hearts serve as head lettuce salad with dressing.

Mrs. Richard Skillen will return to Fort William with her daughter Mrs. W. F. Lester, for the winter. Mr. and Mrs. W. Hill will occupy the home of Mrs. Skillen during her absence.

Some Helpful Hints For Busy Housewives

— Hang out in the sun and air furs and woolen garments. The moths are very active at this season.

To prepare raisins for cookies wash in warm water. They separate easily then and may be chopped or added whole.

Soak a piece of cotton wool with paraffin and place it in the bottom of a clock that has not been cleaned for some time. The fumes of the paraffin penetrate the works and clean them.

When the family is very fond of filling in a fowl, try making an extra dressing and putting it in a muslin bag, laying the filled bag alongside the fowl in the roaster. Baste it as well as the fowl.

Washington, Nov. 1.—Events are campaign which closes with the election a swiftly in the presidential tion on November 6th. The increased registration is hailed with delight by the Republican managers. Everybody who registers does not vote but it is apparent that seven million more men and women will go to the polls on this election than voted at the presidential election four years ago. Probably four million women who never voted before will vote next week. It is safe to say that nearly all of them are going to vote because they feel deeply one way or the other on the issues of prohibition and religion. The Republicans take it for granted that the great majority of women will vote for Hoover, and they may be right.

However, it must be said that Democratic prospects are brighter today than they appeared to be a week ago. The welcome which Smith received in Boston and throughout the New Rhode Island and Connecticut went beyond his fondest anticipations. In the Republican city of Philadelphia there was an outpouring of the people and a manifestation of enthusiasm which sent cold chills down the backs of the Republican managers in Washington. Moreover, while Smith is making his intensive drive for votes in cities in the east, Senator George W. Norris, of Nebraska, a life-long Republican, is stumping for Smith among the farmers of the west. Already the revolt of Norris has impelled Mr. Hoover to promise an extra session of Congress to implement his programme of farm relief legislation. That programme includes an upward revision of the tariff and the construction of the St. Lawrence deep water way.

Eastern Front Crucial

It is none the less plain that the battle will be won or lost on the eastern front. Smith may salvage the Solid South, and I think he will; he may pick up a few states west of the Mississippi River including Missouri, but in order to win he must carry New York, Massachusetts and some other big industrial state like Illinois or Pennsylvania.

These pictures were taken during the progress of the expedition which recently explored and portaged through the Yampa canyon in Colorado, being the first white men ever to accomplish the feat. No. 1 is A. G. Birch, leader of the party, photographed after a four-day trek without food to bring aid to his comrades in the gorge. No. 2 shows one of the party's specially-designed cypress boats shooting the first rapid, with Charley Mace at the oar and Frederick Dunham in the stern. No. 3 shows Dunham clinging to the overturned boat in one of the numerous rapids.

The are debatable states, such as Rhode Island, Connecticut, New Jersey and Maryland, which would help out Smith if he carried them, but he can scarcely carry them all, and some of them have only sparse representation in the electoral college. In the three New England states above mentioned, naturalized French-Canadians and their children hold the balance of power. If all or nearly all of them voted for Smith he would carry these states.

In all the industrial states of the east, Smith's position on the wet and dry issues should be to his advantage, especially in the big cities, and if Smith is to be elected the big cities must turn the trick. He must roll up in New York city a majority big enough to overcome the Republican majority up state. In Boston he must have a larger majority than the Republicans can secure in the state of Massachusetts outside of Boston. It would be possible for him to carry Illinois if he secured a tremendous majority in the city of Chicago, and he could even carry the mighty Republican stronghold of Pennsylvania if there were a big enough Democratic landslide in Pittsburgh and Philadelphia. The situation in Maryland is both striking and typical. Maryland has a population of one million five hundred thousand and half of this population lives in the city of Baltimore. In Maryland, outside of Baltimore, the religious issue cuts so deep that the Democrats can see a majority for Hoover in every country outside of Baltimore. Smith will undoubtedly carry the city of Baltimore, because it is Democratic, contains a considerable Roman Catholic population and is unmistakably wet. However, in order to carry the state of Maryland he must have a majority in the city of Baltimore sufficiently large to overcome the combined majorities for Hoover in all of the counties outside of Baltimore.

Smith More Popular

That Smith is personally more popular than Hoover no one can doubt, and his superiority as a campaign orator is beyond dispute. However, there are many more Republicans than Democrats in the United States. The Democrats would have had no chance at all if they had nominated anybody except Smith. If Smith be elected it will be a personal rather than a party victory. It might be easy to figure out Smith's election were it not for the religious equation. You run up against that whatever you commence to figure on any city or on any state. Nobody knows how dry it is going to cut, but everybody knows that it is the one element of uncertainty, for example, in Missouri, Nebraska, and Minnesota. It is the bete noir of the Democrats in the big cities, where Smith is personally popular and where his attitude on the liquor question is almost universally commended, liquor and prohibition issues are so

It is true in some sections the reinforced that in many minds they are hopelessly confused. It is probable that many Democrats, and Republicans for that matter, will vote against Smith on account of his religion without fully realizing that they are voting against him on that account. Prohibition is of course an issue and one on which many good people are intensely interested. At any rate, I think it is safe to say that if Smith were wet and a Protestant and if Hoover were dry and a Catholic, then Hoover would not be elected.

It is only fair to add, however, that many business men, Protestant and Catholic alike, will vote for Hoover because they believe his election will make permanent the amazing prosperity of the United States. In spite of Smith's protestations there is an uncanny feeling about what the Democrats may do with the tariff if they are returned to power. There are no doubt many people owning securities of electrical companies who view with disfavor Governor Smith's proposal to have the United States Government construct power houses and distribute electric energy. That the Republicans will poll more votes than the Democrats is reasonably certain but that does not necessarily mean that they will carry the election. The election is by the states and not by the direct vote of the people. The many important states the big cities are dominant. So it all works back to the starting point that Smith can only be elected if the big cities give him record-breaking majorities.

LAXATIVE FOR BABY THAT "STAYS DOWN"

Baby's tiny system rebels against castor oil and strong purgatives; but here's a medicine that just suits him. And it goes to work quickly and eagerly—that Baby doesn't feel it. Fletcher's Castoria is soothing, effectual babies and children to sleep and making the feverish, constipated, sour ones well and happy, in millions of homes today. Castoria is purely vegetable, harmless and endorsed by the medical profession. Avoid imitators. The Chas. H. Fletcher signature marks genuine Castoria.

Heard the other day of a chap in Belleville who has got that's up dazzled recently that if he doesn't like the tenor in a quartette—he just tunes him out.

He's honest enough, though, to say it's harder to get rid of the baritone.

Anybody that claims that Al Smith is a low-brow and not well educated should have listened to this gentleman tearing into Herb Hoover at Mahlmers the other night. He never called Herb or the Republican party the same thing twice, but he said plenty.

Hoover's too polite to listen to over the radio.

SPORTOGRAMS

Tough luck, Albert, it was only hard luck that beat you.

That three points shouldn't be hard to get on Saturday, the boys say—scrap like they did yesterday. It's all over but the cheering.

No doubt the referee acted according to his own lights when he did not allow Jenkins' touchdown, but the lights appeared sort of dim.

There is one thing that can be said about yesterday's game, it was clean right from beginning to end. There was no "dirty work" whatsoever pulled by any member of either team.

It doesn't always pay to be too eager. Maybee, two or three times was so hot after the play that he landed offside and caused a ten-yard penalty.

A number of High School students turned out for yesterday's encounter. Good sportsmanship, I call it. And they rooted just as hard for Albert as did the College boys.

Albert got the afternoon off to get the game tarted early, and then when they arrived in Peterboro found that principal of the P. C. I. wouldn't play, even so much as an hour or school.

This bird Jenkins has got a gold medal coming to him. Yesterday he turned in about the best game on the field, bar none.

It's a fine set of foul posts they have in Picton. Youll, of Albert College, reached up and caught hold of the piece of string that acted as a cross-bar.

Glad to see you back, Harton. Played a darn good game, too. None better.

ALBERT BETTER TEAM BY FAR; REFEREE'S DECISION IS DUBIOUS

Local Boys Beaten Out Even After Jenkins' Touch-Down

SCORE 7-5

Should Overwhelm Picton In Belleville On Saturday, Next

(By E.C.W.)

It cannot be denied that the best team lost yesterday. Yes, Albert College was beaten by Picton 7-5, but the real score should have been ten to seven in the College's favor, if the referee, McVille, of Deseronto, pulled one of the prize boners of the year in everybody's estimation with the exception of his own. When Jenkins, the hard-hitting lineman of Albert College crashed across the line with the ball, the referee declared no touchdown, stating that Jenkins had juggled across after the whistle had blown. He stated further that the Albert boy was just on the line at the time he blew his whistle. It certainly was very to all the spectators, for the old ball was reposing serenely behind the Picton line one foot over. Besides this, I don't think that any of the Albert team at least heard any whistle whatsoever. The Albert College coach took the matter like a man and does not intend to protest the game although he has more than point upon which he could. For instance, the goal posts, with pieces of string as cross bars could be rejected by any tall player and the cross-bars torn down. However, from the appearance of yesterday's game, Albert College will meet the ground with the Picton crew when they arrive in Belleville on Saturday. It only requires three points to win the series on points and they shouldn't be hard to get.

Albert outplayed the Prince Edward County aggregation in every department. The ball was in Picton's territory about seventy-five per cent. of the time and several times the visitors had them backed up right on their own yard line. After half-time, Albert had everything their own way and smashed and split the Picton line to pieces, scoring five points, three of them garnered on a beautiful field goal. It looked as though Albert would be able to win the game up. They were going strong at the time the referee's decision on Jenkins' touchdown was able to good. Albert got the other two points by beautiful kicks by Earle.

The first half saw Picton score early, by what then, was to purchase was rumbled by that star performer and he was safely told behind his own line giving one point to Picton on a rouge. In the second quarter, Harrington, of Picton, got a beautiful touchdown, having only to practically walk across the line to win his five points. Everybody on the Albert team seemed to be somewhere else and he had a clear field in front of him, prancing some fifteen or twenty yards to plant the ball down behind Albert's line.

After half-time, however, Albert came back fighting and broke the local boys to a standstill. In the final few minutes of the game the Picton-ites were so dazed and dizzy that they could hardly stand up, but managed to keep the College lads from scoring. The full time whistle was the only thing that saved the game for them. Two lovely kicks by Earle, one of them a returned punt, gained the College two more points, bringing their total up to five, but beyond this they could not go. It was in the second quarter that Jenkins' touch was taken away from him.

The famous Picton end-runs did not work very smoothly yesterday and were completely broken up by the visitors. Their line plungers, too, did not garner them any yards. Wright, in Picton's backfield, did a famous day's work and so did Harrington, one of the ends. In fact, Harrington played one of the nicest games on the field. Picton's quarter back, Yadower, did not gain many yards whenever he elected to carry the ball, but played a good, heady game. In fact, the boys from P. C. I. played a good game all around, but were not quite up to the standard of the local lads. Reid cannot be spoken of too highly.

Jenkins, of Albert, most especially is to be commended for the plucky fight he put up yesterday. When he took the ball, and he was called upon often, someone on the opposing line came and gave hard. Jenkins' tackling, too, was a thing of beauty and a joy forever, or whichever way that goes. Simpson, Thompson and Earle shared the kicking and made a good job of it.

Both Youill and Mabee played a splendid game, being more than effective when they hit the line, but both were slightly injured during the fracas. But, to Anglin, is considerable credit given because he just couldn't be stopped most of the time and worried his way through a mass of players like a University veteran. Purchase also, was in good form, but appeared to be slightly nervous for the first few minutes of play. However, this passed, and when he took the ball a little later on he astounded both the spectators and the opposing team with his uncanny broken-field running. It's hard to praise one boy and not another, for they all battled gamely and tried to do the best of their ability to even up that score. Sutherland handled himself and played a stellar game, and Mc-Snap doesn't have much chance to show off to advantage.

Well, Albert has a good chance, and in my opinion should beat Picton, and took them badly, here on Saturday. Nevertheless, three points will turn the trick and if they fight like they did in Picton yesterday should garner them early in the game.

ADVISE LOANS TO FARMERS

Buenos Aires, November 1.—President Yrigoyen summoned the managers of several exporting firms yesterday to discuss with them joint action in order to obtain the best prices for foreign market for Argentine products. The managers suggested that the Government should grant loans to farmers to permit them to await a favorable opportunity to sell their crops.

YOUR EYES and Our Service

By

Often the results of eye strain are attributed to other causes?

Yes, as the eyes themselves are often not affected, the results of eye strain are often attributed to other causes.

It is likely that many who see well, and who believe their eyes to be normal, really need an eye service?

It is certain that many enjoying apparently perfect sight really see at the expense of an excessive consumption of energy.

Explain.

Seeing well with normal vision in natural and without strain. But doing so when the eyes are abnormal results in strain and eyes and the accompanying troubles.

RELIGIOUS CULT IS BROKEN UP

"Brother Isaiah" Founded Society In Florida Ten Years Ago

Fort Myers, Fla.—Ten years after "Brother Isaiah," grey-haired and bearded "faith healer," had founded a colony on an 80-acre tract near here, the cult today was facing dissolution because of a court ruling which ordered the property vacated within three days.

A love tangle, it was revealed, proved the basis of the cult's trouble.

Dissension broke out in the ranks shortly after "Brother Isaiah" had departed recently for California with two young women members of the colony, leaving "Brother" Helder, in charge as leader.

Soon after the colony had been founded, Mrs. Eric Younger, who husband owns the tract, became a member, but it is alleged she eloped with "Brother" Ernest Alden, one of the members, who claimed to be a "God man" and to possess divine powers to rule the universe.

Younger, who obtained a divorce following his wife's elopement, alleged that Alden promised to make his wife a "God queen." The elopement prevented speculation. Alden preventing Younger from pursuing by the use of a shot gun said to have been thrust in to his hand by Mrs. Younger as they fled from the camp. Alden later was arrested, but was released.

The last chapter of the cult's history here began when Younger and "Brother" Helder, who had barred other men from the women's quarters of the colony, engaged in a fist fight, when the latter was acquitted of the charge of assault and battery, Younger entered suit to oust the colony from his property.

The colony has now dwindled to a dozen men and women.

Marcus Garvey, who as international president of the Universal Negro Improvement Association, is in Canada conferring with colleagues on association plan. He is lending his moral support to Al Smith in the United States presidential campaign. Garvey is known as the "President of Africa." He pleads for a nation for his race and has laid plans for the founding of a nation in Africa.

CASHIER BATTLES ALL NIGHT WITH BANDITS

Argyle, Mich., Oct. 31—Henry Prentiss, of the local bank and his wife are in the hospital today as the result of an all night encounter with would-be bankrobbers. Two men and a woman called at the cashier's home and spent half the night trying to force him to open the bank safe. When told that the assistant cashier, Mrs. Herdell had the combination the robbers after breaking in the Prentiss home took him to Mrs. Herdell's home. There they met opposition and shot Prentiss in the leg. Mrs. Prentiss is suffering from nervous shock.

BROCKVILLE LAD IS VICTIM KNIFE ATTACK

Brockville, Oct. 31—Bernard Dooley, aged nine, is in the hospital in a serious condition from wounds to his head and body and Joseph A. Burns, aged 21, is under arrest charged with inflicting the wounds. The child disappeared yesterday from the home of his grandfather, Charles George and was next seen at the door of the house streaming with blood and clad only in underclothing. The child's condition is serious.

"COLLEGIATE CHATTER"

By Farley Faulkner

The Belleville Collegiate is now out of the Interscholastic running as a result of losing to Albert College on Saturday. The Collegiate, though weakened by Coulter, the quarterback, and Alan Sprague, regular middle, put up a great fight against the Albert team. They tried hard to stop the fast going Albert team but it was too much. The Albert team all worked together and came through for yards almost every time. By the score, one would think the contest was one-sided but nevertheless the game was very interesting. Yolull, Purchase, Maybee and Jenkins all starred on Saturday for Albert College. These boys need watching by any team as they constitute the body of the Albert College team. By a few bad breaks and bad plays pulled off by the Collegiate, helped them to be defeated. "Mike" Gillen and Louis Marsaise, two products of Coach Shiels coaching were the stars for the Collegiate. Marsaise, who is a substitute made the points for the Collegiate and saved them from a whitewash. "Cy" Williams had to be carried off the field when he was kicked in the ribs. The Collegiate team have no alibis to put up only that Albert College was the better team.

You are as welcome as the commercial traveller at the Antiseptic Barber Shop, Hotel Quinte, managed by J. M., Spiker.

Picton won their group by defeating Deseronto, on Saturday, 3-2. They have a record of 4 wins and 0 losses in their group. They will play Albert College in the near future for the championship of the Bay of Quinte League.

The 3rd annual Convention of Editor's of Collegiate publication, sponsored by Sigma Delta Chi, Men's Professional Journalistic Fraternity and assisted by Sigma Phi, Women's Journalistic Fraternity, was held at Convocation Hall, University of Toronto, Friday and Saturday, October 26 and 27, Belleville Collegiate sent as delegates Alan Sprague, President of the Literary Society, Kathryn Gallagher and Don DeMorgole of the "Tercentenary" staff and Miss B. Billings of the Collegiate staff.

A very interesting programme was arranged for Friday. The address of welcome was given by Sir Robert Falconer. During the day the delegates were addressed by J. H. Cranston, Editor of the Star Weekly, Hon. Dupuan Marshall of the Publisher's Service, Mrs. Lareine Ballsptine, Edi tor of the Dry Goods Review and Mr. Denver of the photo engravers and Electro-Typer Ltd. A field trip to MacLean's Publishing Co. proved very enjoyable and instructive. Friday evening a banquet was given for the delegates in Burwash Hall, with J. E. McDougall, Managing Editor of the Goblin the speaker for the evening.

Saturday morning was taken up with discussions of the Literary orginization of the High School Magazine. Malorice Eab, B. A. Headmaster of London Commercial and Technical High School, was chairman. In the afternoon the delegates attended the Queen-Varsity game.

There was a great arrival of furniture or equipment for the Collegiate. The equipment was mainly for the Chemistry and Physic Labratories. New desks were installed in every form. They are of dark grained oak structure. This will add to the beauty of the new school as the other desks were not in very good condition.

BRITISH WOMEN BELIEVE IN REST

Canadians Have Not Learned The Art of Sitting Still

When it comes to taking thought for their bodily and mental health, the women of Great Britain have it all over us. Even the so-called working women, hinks about her rest time and the English servant is expected to take her hour, sometimes two hours, off, the mistress knowing that, apart altogether from the humanitarian aspect, she will get more good of her for the rest of the time.

The average woman in the old land applies this principle to herself. She knows that to be up to par, either physically or mentally, she must refresh, her mind and body. So she walks, she reads, she lies down, she keep's a cir ain period, when short of sudden death or fire, nothing is allowed to disturb her.

But the women of this continent have no such wisdom. There may be many times when plenty of our women are not working or doing anything useful, but neither are they resting or recreating themselves. They may be doing nothing, but they are restlessly busy at it, with nerves taut, and not a quarter-inch of them relaxed. It is were not for the blessed moments when they are under the hands of the hairdresser, our women would snap oftener than they do. For they have not learnt the art of sitting still, they have not learnt the delight of lying down and letting everything slip. They don't realize the refreshment that they could gain from half an hour in the absolute quiet of their own room, with a book that they read with enjoyment and digest with relish.

Our women are wonderful, they are marvels of industry and capability. They are magnificent in emergencies, and wizards in management. But they are too often lacking in that elusive thing called charm, too often wanting in cultivation. And the chief reason is because they do not take time to acquire poise and restfulness of manner. They do not stop in the busy rush to assimilate the beauty, the art, the literature, with which they come in contact. The influence of these things cannot penetrate, for they are tearing too wildly from one occupation to another to allow the intellectual, the artistic, to sink in. They don't take time to stand and stare, as a modern poet says.

WHAT'S NEW

(From a Woman's Standpoint)

Lucien Lelong is stressing the sheath silhouette.

For day-time wear the jersey fabrics are presenting themselves in a new guise, and the latest suggests a soft tweed appearance, while a herringbone design, for instance, is in two contrasting shades running parallel.

Grey, whether in its cold or warm shades, seem to be making a strong bid for favor just now, and unquestionably it looks its best when the entire ensemble is carried out in the one color.

Newest felt hats worn at Longchamps illustrate the fashion of designing one side in a totally different manner from the other and also the importance of the brilliant ornament and in some cases the ornament on the hat is matched by the slide for the fur neckpiece.

Advice to Girls

By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I went steady with a fellow for two years. We are of different religion. When he asked me to keep steady company with him, I consented, with the agreement that he join my faith before we married.

A short time ago he came to me and told me he couldn't join my religion as he didn't believe in it, but asked me to go to his church. I refused to do that, he gave me up and he is going with another girl.

Do you think he cares at all for me? And is there any way I can win him back. OLIVE.

OLIVE: Really, Olive, I cannot see that you can do anything. You have broken your engagement, but as the question of religion seems to be the stumbling block and neither of you are willing to be tolerant of the belief of the other, there is nothing I can say that will help you. As long as the young man feels that your decision is final, he feels it tinal, he naturally, has turned to some one for company and I don't think he is doing it to hurt you either. Probably the other girl is of the same faith as himself, so things will go along without nagging and bickering, which all mean so much. Why not try to find someone of your own religion so that you, too, can be happy. Your vanity is probably piqued because the young man seems to forget so easily, but you are foolish to feel this way. Go and find some other friends, and I am sure that in time you will find THE man who will bring you happiness.

TWO CHILDREN ASPHYXIATED

Syracuse, N.Y., October 31.—Two children were asphyxiated yesterday morning when they were trapped by flames in their home. Their parents, both of whom work, had left the house. Francis McAllister, 2 1-2, and Lillian, 4, his sister, were the victims.

Gay Adventurers By Mildred Barbour

"I've a car. Come with me and motor up."

"Oh, I think I'd better—" she was beginning hastily, but he cut her off.

"Don't be silly. You know perfectly well that it takes hours for the train to get there. And it's a peach of a day. We'll get to Paris in time for a late lunch."

She accepted reluctantly. It sound so alluring, that promise of a drive through the French countryside in the freshness of a summer morning, but she realized her danger. Fitzgerald would undoubtedly talk about things of which she knew nothing.

"Shall you be alone?" she asked.

"Sure. Except for my chauffeur. Why? You're not getting convention al at your age, are you, Connie?"

"Oh, no. I only—and then she discovered that her turn had come before the passport officials, and she held out Constance Kerr's passport with fingers that trembled slightly.

Tommy, who was just behind her, rallied her a bit about that. "Too many late nights, Connie. I see what did you do with your Count?"

Sheila's gaze was fastened on the man who was examining the passports, but she answered carelessly: "Left him in New York."

The official lifted his gaze to her face, and she held her breath moment arily. Then, apparently, he saw nothing amiss, for he returned the passport and muttered, "Next," as he was congratulating herself that the worst was over, when a smartly-dressed woman rushed up to him, kissed her impetuously.

"Constance Kerr, whatever are you doing on this boat, and why haven't I seen you before?"

Sheila stared blankly. Who was this?

CHAPTER 11

FRESH DANGER

"Don't look at me as if I were a ghost, Constance," said the stranger laughingly, while Sheila fumbled wildly for some way out of the situation. "Remember that I did you keep yourself during the voyage, and why weren't you on the passenger list?"

Sheila's first thought was to say that she'd been ill and had kept to her cabin, but second thought told her that, if this woman knew Constance, she probably knew Tommy Fitzgerald also, and would soon hear the story of the tourist cabin and the reason for it.

So she repeated this story carefully and was rewarded by gales of laughter.

"Isn't that like you, Constance! You always do the strangest things. But you must have decided to cross on the spur of the moment, because I saw your mother only two days before I sailed, and she said you were booked for a summer of house-parties in the States."

"Oh, yes, I—I decided quite, quite suddenly," declared Sheila brightly.

The woman's gaze wandered around the salon suspiciously.

"You are alone? You didn't—er—the Count de Bellefonte is not aboard, is he?"

"No, oh, no!" denied Sheila hastily. "Well, it would be a great relief to your mother to know that.... Oh, Tommy," she beckoned that young man to her, and Sheila had occasion to thank her stars that she had listen ed to the prompting voice within her and stuck to the same story. "Will you look who has been with us all the time, and we never suspected it!"

"I suspected it. In fact, I knew it," he grinned buoyantly. "But I let her think she was hoodwinking me.... I Connie's going with me, but I've say, Myra, want to motor to Paris? plenty of room in the car for you."

"Myra!" Sheila recalled the list of names that Constance had given her, but she couldn't remember a single Myra. The woman's name was probably on the passenger list, but if so, why hadn't Constance notified it? Sheila hoped sincerely that "Myra" would decline Tommy's invitation, but such luck was not for her. Myra accepted with alacrity. "Splendid, Tommy! I'd adore it. The boat train always seems so stuffy, after a week on the sea." She turned to Sheila: "You are a darling girl to break all your engagements at the eleventh hour, just to pay a bet. Where was your first house party?"

Sheila realized with a shudder that Constance hadn't told her that. She would have to take a chance. She murmured: "At Newport," with an assurance she was far from feeling.

"But it's frightfully early for Newport. Whom were you going to?"

It seemed to Sheila that the boat and the waters of the port were reeling dizzily. Why, she asked herself, hadn't Constance told her where she was supposed to have gone that summer?

Mrs. Townsend.."

She picked a name at random. "To In a second she knew that she had made a bad guess. Myra's expression was puzzled. "But Jane Townsend is at Deauville at this very moment, and she's going on to Germany for the summer."

Sheila caught at a straw. "Y-yes! I know," she stammered, feeling horribly certain that the assured Constance never stammered over her explanations—probably never made explanations at all. "That's one reason why I could make the trip. The house-party was called off when Mrs. —when Jane Townsend decided to go to Europe."

"Well, that's really funny," declared Myra emphatically. "I never knew Jane to do a thing like that. She's a perfect stickler in the matter of her social engagements and, besides, she told me as early as February that she was coming to Europe in May. That shows how little you can trust your friends. But I'm certainly going to ring her about this when I see her at Deauville."

Sheila felt as though she were sinking into a very black pit. She could only hope that Myra wouldn't encounter Jane until after Constance Kerr had arrived in Paris and assumed her own identity. The only thing she had to be thankful for was the fact that she had named some one who actually gave house-parties at Newport. It would have been rather awful, if she had hit at random on a person whose summer home was in Bar Harbor or in the Adirondacks.

To her vast relief, Tommy marshalled her and the talkative Myra out of the salon and across the deck and down to the pier. Then several reporters descended upon Sheila, addressing her as "Miss Kerr", and voicing quite loudly their delight at the click of camera-shutters and realized why Constance Kerr hadn't dared risk coming to Paris before undertaking her errand to London.

She could almost have kissed the mustachioed French custom officials who, at the moment, demanded the keys to her luggage and thereby created a fortunate diversion.

Tommy seized her, after the inspection was finished, and hurried her to the street, where his car was waiting. Myra was already seated in it.

EXAMINE PLANS ON FUNDY IDEA

Govt. Looks Into Plan To Harness Tides In Noted Bay

OTTAWA.—The plans of the Canadian Dexter F. Cooper Company, which envisage the harnessing of the tides in the Bay of Fundy by the construction of dams in Passamaquoddy Bay and thus developing from half a million to 700,000 horse-power, are being closely examined by experts of the Federal Government. The plans were filed with the Department of Public Works a few weeks ago, but since then considerable objection has been taken to them by representatives of the fishing industry. It has been advanced that such a development would destroy the sardine fisheries of Passamaquoddy Bay, and that the haddock and pollock fishery would also be seriously affected. It is thought that some modification of the plans will be required before permission to proceed with the project can be secured.

The scheme, which calls for an expenditure of $75,000,000, is comparable to the huge power development at Niagara Falls in its magnitude.

When the Canadian Dexter F. Cooper Company was incorporated in 1926, a stipulation was inserted in the articles that the project must satisfy the three federal departmental levied—the Marine and Fisheries, Public Works, and Interior, consequently all angles of the situation are being subjected to the closest scrutiny. The project contemplates the construction of a dam in Letite Passage to Deer Island, and from there to the international boundary. It will be so built that the power machinery will be maintained in motion by the force of the tides for 24 hours a day.

Against the proposal however, it is objected that the dam will prevent the natural churning of the water which brings food to the surface for fish and that the sardine fishing grounds will be dispersed. The present equalization of temperatures between winter and summer resulting from the churning currents may also be affected, it is claimed, and greater extremes of climate may follow.

PRINCE GAGARIN AGAIN SOUGHT

Alleged Russian Nobleman Married a Young Dancing Pupil

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 1.—Mrs. Arthur Berghoff, of Detroit, so-in-law of St. Louis Mo., police to investigate the reported marriage of her daughter, Helen Quigley, 17, to a man who claimed to be a Prince Alexis N. Gagarin, former Russian nobleman and later a university student in America and a dancing instructor in Toronto, Ont. Mrs. Berghoff revealed she has received a telegram from her daughter yesterday announcing her elopement with and marriage to the so-called prince formerly her dancing instructor and stating that her clothing be sent to St. Louis in care of Mrs. Edward Hussey.

The mother, plainly angered, did not send the clothing but instead, said she would insist upon a thorough investigation to determine whether Gagarin was an impostor.

Gagarin now is said to be conducting a class in dancing in St. Louis.

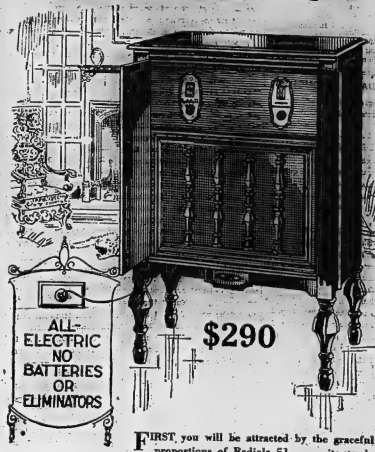

The romance between the Prince and Miss Quigley began a year ago in Toronto when the girl, visiting her aunt in the Canadian city, decided to attend his dancing school. When she returned, Dr. Detroit Gagarin followed her. A few days later he was arrested at the request of Toronto authorities on a charge of failing to pay rent on a motor car. He was released following an investigation in which he was held to be legally in this country. Mrs. Berghoff said Gagarin told remarkable stories claiming, among other things, to be a son of the late Czar of Russia. He told the family, she said, that when the imperial family was taken by revolutionists he fled, later served in the Cossack squadron and then came to the United States with the aid of President Masaryk of Czechoslovakia.

Prince Gagarin will be remembered by Belleville people since he was seen at a local Theatre some months ago in the role of a dancer.

HE WALKED OFF WITH A GARAGE

Giant In Florida Was Six Feet Eleven Inches Tall

New York.—William Cleare, 31 years old, 6 feet 11 inches tall and weighing 270 pounds, appeared bored when he was arraigned before Magistrate Bushel in Tombs Court as a fugitive from Tampa, Fla., on a charge of stealing a garage. Cleare, whose home is in Boston, had been a prisoner in the Tombs nine days, pending the arrival of extradition papers from Tampa, and during his stay had experienced considerable difficulty in adjusting himself to the short cot and low ceiling of his cell.

He had been unable to furnish the $5,000 bail demanded at his first arraignment before the Magistrate, and when he completed that he had not had a comfortable sleep since he first was taken to the Tombs, the Magistrate sympathized with him and reduced the amount to $250. The sympathy of Joseph Marks, a spectator in the court, of 146 West Seventy-first Street, also was aroused, and he offered to obtain the bail before Cleare's next arraignment.

Cleare, who formerly was a seaman in the navy, was arrested on October 11 as he was working as one of the crew of the Clyde Line steamship Seminole, which had just arrived from Florida. Detective Dement took him into custody on a bench warrant from Tampa charging him and Nathaniel Sharpe and a Captain Davis of carrying away the garage which was the property of F. L. Bryan.

"What, stole a garage?" asked Magistrate Bushel at Cleare's arraignment. "As big as you are, they appeare to me to have been quite a task."

"It was a portable garage, your honor," interjected the detective.

"What would I do with a garage?" inquired Cleare of nobody in particular, and then, addressing the Court: said: "I never stole anybody's garage."

WOOD ENGRAVINGS ARE ON EXHIBITION

Ottawa, Ont. (CP)—A good deal of interest is being manifested in the exhibition of British wood engravers' work now being held at the National Gallery here, the exhibition embracing about 150 works of artists and illustrating the trend among wood-engravers and color print makers in Great Britain at the present day. The selection of the prints was made by Herbert Ernest Augustus Furst, author, associate and member of the Council of the Faculty of Arts, London, Eng., who, according to a writer in the Citizen, "has made the selection with a view to revealing tendencies rather than to displaying any particularly outstanding work of the artists represented."

ART GALLERY FOR MANITOBA ARTISTS

Winnipeg, Man., (CP)—Success has crowned the efforts of the members of the Society of Manitoba Artists in the matter of an Art Gallery here, and the opening of the new gallery will take place at the end of October. Development of an art movement in Winnipeg and the province has been growing very noticeably as a result of the untiring work of a sub-committee of the society, and it is expected that the exhibitions held in the gallery will not only place before the public of Winnipeg what is being done in other places in the line of art but will encourage and develop local art work to a considerable degree. The funds for providing exhibitions will be furnished by the society's membership.

Manitoba artists have exhibited at some of the most important annual exhibitions in Canada and the United States and also at the Royal Academy, London Eng., and the Walker Gallery, Liverpool.

With reference to the woodcuts the writer in question says: "They stand out conspicuously from the rest and indicate a return to the methods of the early wood engravers, and the abandonment of the polyglot mediums of nineteenth century illustrators. An interesting century illustrators. And they give more than a hint of the rich possibilities there are in the wood cut used as a form of artistic expression. The contrasts of black and white mass and line, give to the genuine woodcut 'a beauty all its own.'

And to the colored prints, they are more decorative and have a greater literary appeal, he says, most of the examples shown being charming.

The exhibits will be shown in Montreal, Toronto and other cities in the Dominion.

TO-DAY'S THOUGHT

Standing on the maiden's cheek
Young roses kindled into thought.
MOORE.

DIDN'T WORK

Some weeks ago an experiment was tried of making complaint cards available so that a motorist could report complaints which came under his notice where traffic laws had been broken.

Something over 10,000 of these cards were distributed, and only 7 have been turned in bearing complaints. Only a few of these were of any use because many of them gave no location or time.

The driver of a car has not much chance to take the number of another car; he is busy looking out for himself, and cars pass so quickly that it is easy for a number to get away. Back of that, too, is the feeling of a good many drivers that what another driver does is none of his business; he doesn't want to have to appear in court as a prosecutor, so he just mutters something about another fool driver and lets it go at that.

Getting 11 cards out of 10,000 is sufficient reason for deciding that the complaint system has been a failure.

DOMESTIC SERVANTS

The Lady Mayor of Liverpool, England, Miss Margaret Bevan, is deserving of the thanks of a large class of female workers, the domestic servants, for the high appreciation of the place which they occupy in the social realm. She opened her views when saying farewell to a party of 150 girls bound for Australia to enter domestic service. After warning them not to remain spinsters, as she had done, but to take a husband in a few years time, so as to avoid a lonely old age, she spoke of the status of their profession, saying:—

"You are all going out to a new land to take up domestic service, and I don't think you realize how much you count. I know how much, and I am going to have a reception at the town hall for the domestics of this city. Domestic workers are the builders of the home. It is not a poor service by any means, as one of the highest orders in the land."

Such words must be encouraging to those girls who are seeking their livelihood in domestic service. Time and again one reads letters in the women's pages of various newspapers written by domestic servants who find themselves cut off from companionship because of their occupation, and looked down upon by workers in stores, factories and offices. Miss Bevan speaks truly when she says that domestic service is one of the highest orders in the land, for the workers whose duty it is to make comfortable, cheerful and happy homes for their employers are performing a much higher function than those who find their livelihood in business, commerce and industry. The domestic servant should be honored, rather than sneered at, for her place is one in which she comes in close contact with the most intimate of human relationships, and in the realm of social values she ranks as high as those of her sex in other fields of labor.

SUNDAY SPORTS

There will be few to sigh about the failure of those who tried to introduce Sunday football in the Border Cities. The autumn pastime has a remarkable hold upon the people of Canada, probably attracting a more rabid and enthusiastic gallery than any other sport. In Hamilton, the famous Tiger team is a municipal institution. This year the Tigers are enjoying one of the most successful years in the history of the club, acclaimed by press and public as the super-team of Canadian football, but there is no yearning to see them in action on the Sabbath. It is understandable, however, that an attempt was made to get a football for the sport on Sundays in the Border Cities. Across the river, in Detroit, Sunday football has been countenanced for many years. And it is interesting to note, too, that it is the United States football rules that have been adopted by the teams of Western Ontario. One reason for this is that a uniform code permits the teams of the neighboring cities, in Michigan and Ontario, to engage in international tilts. It is one thing, however, for the big motor metropolis to Americanize football in the Canadian border cities and something else again for it to Americanize the Canadian Sabbath. We, on this side, have gotten along very nicely for a good many years without noisy entertainment on the day of rest. It is a happy medium that has been struck in Canada in the matter of Sabbath observance. There are those, of course, who contend that our Sundays have not a sufficient "Sabbath" tinge and others who would make it a wide-open week-end, but the existing policy is one that appeals to the majority. We are neither Puritanical nor raucous. Believing in the fitness of things we have dispensed with all forms of boisterous entertainment, but have not gone in for straight-laced sanctimoniousness. In other words, it has been demonstrated in Canada that it is possible to observe the Sabbath respectfully and continue to be an honest-goodness human being.—Hamilton Spectator.

CRUDE METHOD

Apparently the widow of Ambrose Small, or his sisters, residents of Toronto, are not supposed to have any human feelings. Or if they have they are not worth considering.

A stranger, Langsner, so-called "Doctor," came to that city, claiming in advance that he was going to solve the Ambrose Small mystery. On the heels of that some local sleuth rushed into print and said he was prepared to bring forward cheques which would startle the province, claiming that they had a bearing on the disappearance of the unfortunate Small nine years ago.

Interviews were freely given by Langsner in which the question was bantered as to what Mrs. Small would put up in the way of cash assistance to help on with the inquiry; then again it was discussed how much cash might be secured from the sisters of the late Ambrose Small.

Langsner has left Toronto to go on a lecture tour in the west, where it is claimed he will receive $200 per week. He announces that when he gets more money he will return to Toronto, but quietly, so that no one will know he is about. Possibly he will take his books off when he comes to the outskirts of the city.

Apparently he had no hesitation about telling the people in Toronto that he needed money and must have a great deal of it to carry on his investigations; he seems to have talked about that as much as anything else.

It is to be hoped that Langsner proves himself to be all that he has claimed and that he can solve the mystery that has baffled others for a period of nine years, but from this distance the affair looks to have been handled in a way that is rude to the point of being cruel.

PASSING YEARS
(From The Intelligencer of this day 20 years ago)

Messrs. Henthorn and Marsh were in Toronto yesterday where they have a large contract in connection with the erection of the smelter there.

Messrs. Fred Ashton and James Wallbridge secured twenty ducks in a few hours on Monday.

A large and enthusiastic meeting was held in the Royal Templars' Hall under the auspices of the R. T. of T. last evening. Addresses were delivered by Rev. Mr. Hill, Rev. Mr. Walch, Mr. Brown, Mr. Chiletti and Mr. MacTavish.

Last evening Mr. C. O. Wenley of Campbellford, Grand Superintendent of Prince Edward District, paid an official visit to Moira Chapter R.A.M.

Mr. F. E. O'Flynn's orchestra assisted at the anniversary concert held in the Bridge Street Methodist Church last night.

Mr. Fred Wheeler of Chicago, formerly of this city, is visiting relatives in the city.

HAVE YOU HEARD THESE?

"Is he fond of work?" was the inquiry of the manager of the printing works concerning a young man who had applied for employment.

"Fond of it? I should say so. I never saw a man who could take such good care of work as he does. One piece of work will last him for a week."

Father—I should have thought that a night club was the very last place a daughter of mine would go.

Daughter—It usually is, darling.

The crowd milled and surged about the morgue. A new body had been brought in. A murdered man.

Suddenly a dazed gentleman pushed and elbowed his way through the throng and into the building. He spoke quietly to the caretaker and was admitted into the inner recess. Shortly he reappeared.

"Was he your brother?" asked the caretaker.

"Yes," came the sorrowful answer. "But how did you identify him?"

The man wiped away a tear as he chokingly replied, "He was deaf."

Hey: "Aren't you wild about bathing beauties?"

Hay: "I don't know, I never bathed one."

"Where are you going, Sam?"

"I'a leavin' town, Mr. Jawn. Jest received a unanimous letter from dem Ku Kluxers."

"You mean an anonymous letter, don't you?"

"Naw, suh, I mean unanimous. De Klan tole me to leave. I says I's goin', so dat makes it unanimous."

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

HOW DID YOU TAKE IT?

You have suffered a severe business loss, have been disappointed in love, or have tried for some goal and have failed to reach it.

Now it is the way you "take" this loss, disappointment in love, or failure to reach your goal, that determines whether you have a "neurosis" or not. A neurosis, as Dr. Joseph Peterman defines it, is a "disheartened reaction to a physical or social reverse."

You may remember the lines.

"For a trouble's a ton, or a trouble's an ounce
A trouble is just what you make it.
It isn't the fact that you're hurt that counts,
It's only 'how did you take it?'"

And so when your doctor says that you have a neurosis you know what he means. His first thought of course is the cause of the neurosis.

"In one case it may be sudden ill health, in another it may be "love", it may be financial reverses, and in a fourth it may be due to an injury."

In speaking of these cases due to injury he says "in the susceptible individual the neurosis born in fright, is fed-by fear, and then as it grows it develops as its aim, getting for the patient sympathy and shekels".

Who are "susceptible" individuals? Nervous individuals.

As has been said "every normal person is a little neurotic or nervous, and every neurotic much normal."

After an injury, whether slight or severe, these very nervous individuals develop a neurosis. There is sleeplessness, rapid heart beat, and general symptoms whereby hope is replaced by fear, and calmness by anxiety.

And the treatment and prevention of a neurosis?

Courage must be taught to the young.

When the injury or accident occurs the treatment must be physical and also mental.

Everything should be done to the injured part so that the patient can't claim there was carelessness or lack of attention, but the patient's mind should receive equal attention.

"Fright should be lessened; fears should be calmed; all the worries anticipated if possible." I believe that Dr. Peterman's ideas will appeal to my readers.

INDIAN SUMMER NIGHT

(A.R.U. in London Spectator)

Over the flat roofs
Of the white-walled city
Glowers the last moon
Of the dying month;
Moonlight as clear, black shadows cast as deep
As if a day were only half asleep.

Heavy the air is
With the smell of dry dust,
Cooked ghee and mangoes;
The rash scent of biris
Floats on the stagnant breeze which seems so stale
Even the leaves must cease their rustling tale.

On all the house tops
Lie brown, sun-tired bodies
Stretched on bare charpoys;
Only is the silence
Broken by some one murmuring wearily,
Seeking for sleep where sleep can never be.

Near the air is Thick the smell of the city
And the echo
Of the jackals howling,
Shrieking in triumph
Round some carrion morsel
Just that, and silence; as remorselessly
The stifling, sickening hours come crawling by.

Over the city
In its deathly stillness,
Patiently waiting
Through a sleepless darkness,
Till, rolling up towards the dawn,
Split sky,
Rings from the minaret the muezzin's cry.

SUSPECT LAD SHOT BROTHER IN ANGER

Trio Who Slaughtered Geese in Sanctuary to Learn Fate Monday

JUDGMENT RESERVED IN CASE OF SLAYING OF GEESE IN SANCTUARY

Third Man Concerned Is Father of One of Younger Culprits

ADMIT SHOOTING

Magistrate Mikel Will Give His Decision On Monday Next

David Mattis, father of James Mattis of Consecon, was the third man in the party which shot the geese in the Sanctuary just north of Belleville some two weeks ago. James Mattis, the boy, gave a signed statement to the Provincial Police admitting that he and George Miller were the perpetrators of the act which caused such a furor in this city, and which called forth a storm of protest from the city press of Belleville and vicinity.

James Mattis was the only one call ed to the stand this morning when the three appeared by Police Court before Magistrate Mikel, and he pleaded not guilty to the charge of theft which was read to him. Mr. Payne immediately objected to the manner in which the charge was read.

"I take the preliminary objection that the charge is bad, that it is not incorporated, and is not a legal entity, and therefore according to law could not have ownership of the geese."

Mr. Donnan: "May I have the information amended so as to read, "the property of Mr. Walter Turner, president of the Jack Miner League, R. R. No. 4, Bellevilla, Ont."

Mr. Mikel: "I allow the amendment".

Mr. Payne: "I take the same objection. As president of the Jack Miner League he has no more right to the property than the League itself".

"To Protect Wild Birds"

Walter Turner then was called to the witness box. On being sworn, he declared that he was the president of the Jack Miner League, whose function was to protect wild birds in the Throgh-Mr. Don Bleecker, the league had acquired a three year option to buy the tract of land where the Sanctuary now stands, and Jack Miner had set aside seven Canadian wild geese. These geese were pinioned, that is their wings had been so fixed that they were unable to fly, and would never fly again as long as they lived.

He had received his permit from the government to keep these seven geese, and for one year had kept them at his home. When the Sanctuary was opened, however, they were transferred there. This Spring, Mr. Turner went to Mador, where he secured sixteen more geese from the Stone Sanctuary, paying five dollars a pair for them. Three of these were also pinioned, but had had their wings clipped. He had then put a wire fence around the Sanctuary, and had paid for its construction out of his own pocket the same as when he had bought the geese at Mador.

Clipped Wings of Geese

While he was away this summer, the birds started to fly, and when he returned that was the end of their fun over. He trapped six and clipped these. Turn to Page Two

ST. ANDREW'S IS 101 YEARS OLD

Anniversary To Be Marked By Special Services On Sunday

Rev. W. Orr Mulligan of Sydney, N.S., is to be the preacher for the one hundred and first anniversary to be celebrated in St. Andrew's Church on Sunday, Mr. Mulligan is a distinguished scholar and an eloquent speaker, a native born Scotsman holding degrees from prominent Canadian Universities and Theological College.

St. Andrew's Church is a venerable institution that has played a spiritual force in the life of that community for over a hundred years. It still retains the original geographic position assigned it by the Crown. The member ship is naturally proud of the church's achievement and its claim to distinction, for it has stood to be a real church home with a positive message and a friendly atmosphere.

Mr. Mulligan is to preach twice on Sunday, and to deliver a lecture on Monday night on "The Wit and Humor of the World".

The minister and membership of the church will extend a welcome to all of these services.

FIRST NEW SHIP READY TO SAIL

C. N. R. Steamships Building Five Vessels For West Indies Route

London, England, Nov. 2.—The S.S. "Lady Nelson", first of the five ships which are being built for the Canada-British West Indies service of the Canadian National Steamship Company, who is at present in England.

Her sister ships, the Lady Hawkins, Lady Drake, Lady Rodney and Lady Somers, which also will be used in the service between Canada and the West Indies are progressing well in advance of what is called for in the contract and in the opinion of marine engineers who have inspected the Lady Nelson and the other ships they are a credit to Canadian and British engineering skill and will give Canada one of the finest cargo and passenger services on the new West Indies fleet.

The first sailing in the new service will be from Halifax on December 7 when the Lady Nelson will start on the maiden voyage. She will be followed December 28th by the Lady Hawkins and on January 11th by the Lady Drake thus inaugurating a fortnightly service between Canada and the West Indies. On their return voyage the journey will terminate at St. John where passengers will disembark. Afterwards the steamers will proceed to Halifax and start the voyage from that port. The first port of call for steamers both to the eastern and western groups of islands will be Hamilton, Bermuda.

NIGHT CLASSES FILLED UP WELL

Hundreds Anxious To Take Advantage of Educational Opportunities

Belleville Collegiate Night School opened last night, and every indication points to an even more successful term than was enjoyed last year, the attendance at the opening classes being the largest in the history of Belleville night schools, and with a staff of teachers who are second to none in the province.

Mr. S. McLaurin when interviewed by the Intelligencer last night declared that the registration this year far exceeds that of any previous year. Already two hundred have signified their intentions of taking one or more classes, with seven thirty the rush was so great that Mr. MacLaurin advised at least the more to wait until Tuesday before commencing their classes.

Citizens from all walks of life are taking advantage of the wonderful opportunity which is presented to them at the new Collegiate of advancing their education in their spare time. We see a minister learning the secrets of manual training, and housewives taking class theories a step further in carpentry, as well as others who are seeking into the mysteries of Household Science and Dressmaking. Classes in Bookkeeping, Shorthand, Typewriting and Arithmetic are crowded, while motor mechanics, woodworking and show card writing are other classes well patronized.

Filled With Enthusiasm

There seems to be little doubt that the night school classes at the New Collegiate will be a success, for all who have enrolled and many others who were not able to do so last night seem filled with enthusiasm over the new school and the way they are going, and with a competent staff of teachers such as has been engaged, nothing will be able to stop them.

Following is a list of the courses which may be taken with the names of the instructors who are the capable to teach the subjects on the curriculum.

Bookkeeping—A. D. Armonald, 267 John St., and Fred H. Henry, 176 Charles St.

Business Arithmetic—M. w. Mott, Queen Alexandra School.

Business English—A. C. Wilkins, Queen Victoria School.

NEWFOUNDLAND TO JOIN STATES?

Sir William Coakers, Chief Lieutenant of Squires Intimates Course

NO STATEMENT MADE

Old Crown Colony Has No Friendly Feeling Towards Canada

Halifax, N.S., Nov. 2—Sweeping victory of Sir Richard Squires in the New foundland elections on Monday results an interview with Sir William Coaker, his chief lieutenant, published in a local paper last July in which a disposal of the Labrador and adjacent Island of Labrador and the possibility of Newfoundland joining up with United States, are discussed and the fall of the Government predicted.

Sir William is reported thus. "The present Government will probably dispose of Labrador timber and miner al wealth. American interests are active and a figure of $100,000,000 mentioned."

"Newfoundland has not forgotten Canada's position regarding the Bond-Hilaine treaty 30 years ago when Canada stepped in and protected the British Government against the contination of the treaty negotiated by Sir Robert Bond, Premier, and Sir Charles Hilain, and is in no humor to consider confederation with Canada.

Stand Is Clear

"If the day comes when the people must decide our destiny apart from the present constitution, it will be to the United States they will look and not to Canada. Newfoundland will never revert to a Crown Colony and as she is free to choose her own course is coming round to the idea of being a state in United States.

"At present if a referendum were taken on this subject it would carry 75 per cent. of the whole electorate not because she has forgotten the flag, but because of a tendency to consider dollars and cents.

Sir Richard Squires issued no manifesto during the election campaign and in speeches made no mention of disposal of Labrador of a scheme in union constitution. "The interview of Sir William Coaker therefore can not be taken as a statement of policy of the incoming government.

The true destiny of Newfoundland with her fisheries, mines and mineral wealth lyes in the direction of the United States."

Recalling the fact that the Quebec government had turned down an offer of Sir William Coaker of $15,000,000 in 1925, Sir William said "that Quebec would have been wise to have taken the whole of Labrador turned over to an American syndicate.

No Knowledge In Quebec

Quebec, Que., Nov. 2—The purchase of Labrador, would be in question for the Province of Quebec, Premier Taschereau, commenting on the statement of Sir William Coaker, but the result of the election in Newfound land would be the sale of Labrador to the United States, was uncertain. The premier said he had no intimation of a sale.

HOLD INQUESTS IN TWO DEATHS

Both Investigations Held To Secure More Complete Details

Two inquests were opened yesterday afternoon at the Tickell Undertaking Parlors on Front Street, the first being that into the death of John Allinson of Trenton, who died from the effects of gunshot wounds received yesterday afternoon while hunting on the Trent River north of Frankford.

The jury in this inquest consisted of Coroner Dr. Hanley Emerson, George Keichson, S. Weldon, J. Lafferty, B. White, C. Watson and W. Balance. They viewed the body which was identified as J. Tickell through Mrs. George Allinson, a brother of Mr. Toronto, mother of the deceased man. Mr. Allinson was 28 years old and was born in England 28 years ago. He had lived at the above address ever since coming to Toronto.

Coroner Constable Jack Trusloch had not yet completed his investigation into the case and so the inquest was adjourned until Monday evening November 5th, at the Police Court in this city at eight o'clock.

William Henley was the first witness called in the second inquest. This inquest was to investigate the death of James Henley, 18 year, old school boy who died from gunshot wounds received at his home near Millbridge Wednesday. William Henley was the father of the dead boy and identified the remains. After being sworn he said he saw his son at his home at six o'clock in the morning and at that time his son was asleep in the bed where he left him. He saw him before the accident occurred, late in the afternoon.

He was away at a neighbour's home all day working for him and the first he knew of anything being wrong was when his little girl Violet, aged nine years, came over to this neighbour's home and told him that Jimmie had been shot. He immediately called the doctor, and then went home, where he found the lad still conscious, lying where he had fallen after being shot.

The lad told him it was all an accident, that they, meaning his brother Harry and himself, had not known that the gun was loaded. The witness stated that the gun had been used for some time and he was sure that there was no gun in it when he left it in the house in the morning. He did not know how the accident had happened as he had come right to his home to Millbridge from the Coakers. During the evening Mr. Cokers gave a short account of the proceedings and evidences with the Telephone Company since he started in 1888.

BURNED SELF IN POLICE FURNACE

Lakehluff, Ill., Nov. 2.—Elfrieda Knaak, 30, book agent, and physchology student, died today, three days after she voluntarily thrust her arms, feet and head into the furnace of the police station.

While through three days she stuck to her story that she inflicted the burns herself to prove "her spiritual exaltation" police searched for some other explanation. Her death blots out any hope of finding out what actually happened.

Provincial Police Brought Harry Henley To Belleville Today

Provincial Police Sergeant Roy Clarke went to Millbridge this afternoon to bring in fourteen year old Harry Henley, the young lad who shot his fifteen year old brother Wednesday, afternoon. No definite charge has yet been laid but it is under stood that the shooting was not accidental by done as at first believed but was the result of a quarrel between the brothers.

The two boys with some younger members of the family were left in the house while the father was working at a neighboring farm and the mother was attending a funeral in Belleville. Two little girls, children of a neighbour, were also playing around the yard. It is alleged that the older boy, James and Harry became involved in a fight in which stones were thrown and that the younger lad rushed into the house secured the hatchet put into effect and pointing it out the window fired at his elder brother.

Frightened Other Children

The other children became frightened and one of the girls started over to where William Henley, the father, was working to tell him that Jimmie was shot. Hurrying home the father rushed the boy to Dr. F. Hickle, of Madoc who resulting his arrival Wednesday, rendered first aid and sent him on to the Belleville Hospital where he died the following morning. The dying boy maintained right up to the end that the shooting was accidental and that "Harry did not know the gun was in it."

At the inquest which was opened last evening little evidence was brought out by Crown Attorney Bryson Donnan halled the inquiry in order to get the story of the children who were present at the alleged accident. Full investigation was made and this afternoon Sergeant Clarke went out to Millbridge to bring in Harry Henley for further questioning.

Large Family of Henley's

The Henley's are a family in rather poor circumstances living about a mile out from the village of Millbridge on the farm on a small holding which they work but the father also works out with neighboring farmers at times. There are seven or eight children of whom James was the eldest, Wednesday's shooting was the oldest. Harry was the next and the ages of the others run down to the youngest who is just a baby.

Eckener hopes to organize a transportation company with United States financiers to finance the building of larger ships.

JUDGE CAN'T AFFORD AN AUTOMOBILE!

London. (C.P.)— Judge Crawford, who has long been known for his outspoken criticisms of modern extravagance, especially as shown in the purchase of a motor car, declared at the session of a police court recently that "not one man in every ten who rides in a motor car can properly afford it if he looks to the future." The salary of a county judge is $7,500, and Judge Crawford sometime ago stated that even a county judge had not the right to buy a car unless he had private means because his salary alone was not sufficient.

Judge Crawford does not own a car.

"There is gross extravagance all around nowadays," he said at Brampton, and the great bulk of the people who come into court are living beyond their means. As' has been said, 'people marry on credit and live on judgment summonses.'"

CANTEENS ALLOWED TO SELL LIQUORS

London. (C.P.)—A case of considerable importance to Canadian soldiers is heard at Worthing recently, when a major and 10 other members of the Canteen Committee of the 10th Royal Battery of Territorial Artillery were prosecuted under the Licensing Act, for selling intoxicating liquor without a justices' License.

Sir Eric Pole, defending, contended that regimental canteens did not require such an order as they were subject only to military law. The Canteen committee was purely an advisory committee, he argued, and since they had no disciplinary powers as such they could not be summoned for an offence under the Licensing Act. For any offence committed under the regulations they were subject to military law, he said and would be dealt with by the military authorities.

The magistrates accepted this view, stopped the case and dismissed all the defendants.

TODAY'S MARKET

MARKET STILL RISES

New York, Nov. 2—The stock market today successfully withstood the flood of selling inspired by the unexpectedly large increase of nearly $125,000,000 in federal reserve brokers loans. While the price movement was by no means uniform in all issues, there were wide spots in the list, major speculative operations continued on the side of rising prices. Trading was of a protective in character with activity centring in a small assortment of rubber, oil, farm implements and communications shares.

Call money was in plentiful supply at renewal rate of seven and a half per cent. Time money market displayed a firm undertone. There is a huge increase in federal reserve loans led to a belief in some quarters that the total would reach $4,000,000,000 by end of October 31, which will be made public in a day or two, may set a new high record above $4,000,000,000.

DEATHS & FUNERALS

OLIVER HUBBLE

Oliver Hubble died this morning in the Belleville General Hospital. He was forty-three years of age and had lived in Ontario all his life. His home was at Highland Grove.

MRS. KENNEDY

The funeral of the late Mrs. Kennedy took place yesterday afternoon from the family residence to Cannifton cemetery under the auspices of the Ladies' Orange Lodge. The services were conducted by Rev. Mr. Kennedy, assisted by Rev. Mr. Hanna, Rev. Mr. Morgan, Rev. Bell, C. Reid, F. Paul and L. Soule.

MISS EDNA BERKELEY

The funeral of Miss Edna Berkeley took place from the home of her sister, Mrs. E. A. Hubley yesterday afternoon. The services at the home and at the Belleville Cemetery were conducted by the Rev. F. E. Malott, assisted by the Rev. George Brown.

The bearers were all members of the Junior League of this city. They included C. Countryman, W. Van Tassel, H. Ellis, L. Fairall, H. Ridley and D. Ridley. A large number of floral tributes testified to the esteem in which the deceased was held.

LUCINDA WANNAMAKER

There passed away last night, at College Street, Mrs. Lucinda Wannamaker, wife of the late Albert Wannamaker, who predeceased her four years ago. The deceased had lived the most of her life in Marmora township, but had been in Belleville for the past year. She is survived by four daughters, Mrs. Alex Bonter, of Belleville, Mrs. P. Caverly, Bancroft, Mrs. Wilfrid Mayo, Prince Edward County, and Mrs. A. G. Gough, Port-Mr. Amos Wannamaker.

their wings, and had placarded the Sanctuary with signs which read: "SANCTUARY, KEEP OUT". After that Wednesday, only two hunters could not fly were left, one which was pinioned and one whose wings were clipped. The clipped wing bird was wounded, but seems to be recovering now.

"Wild geese mate only once in a life time, and are always faithful to their mates. Both male and female birds are mates, and they will be of no use as far as breeding purposes are concerned," declared Mr. Turner.

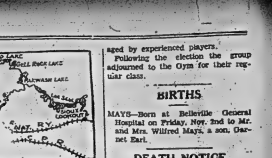

Bruce Turner, 11-year-old son of Mr. Walter Turner, shot a wild goose and dead geese in the Sanctuary, four in one pile and three in another. He also found two loaded and three empty shells on the ground there. The two loaded shells had not been disappeared, but seven of them came back the next day.

Irvin Lyons, Fish and Game Inspector for this district and treasurer of the Wild Life Protective Club, heard the signs were and what they looked like.

Admitted Shooting Birds

Herbert Mammer, Provincial Constable of Belleville, appeared. He admitted he had admitted being one of the party and gave the officer a statement which he signed. Officer Constable Miller. He would not say who the third man was, but said that the latter had been turning out to be his father. The defence counsel did not call the latter to give his evidence, but attacked his defence on several intricate points of law.

He contended that no theft had occurred, as the men had left the geese inside the wire enclosure. He also contended that these geese had not been made to become tame, but that they have become committed, the geese must be tame. Mr. Turner's evidence showed that the geese were tame with him, but not with everyone. Mr. Mihill then enlarged the case for judgment until Monday afternoon.

Parkvale Lake, a dangerous part of the water route into the Red Lake district, is said to have taken the lives of a total of 25 prospectors and others since the field was opened two years ago. Five of the victims have been recovered.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES

The annual Thanksgiving Day events sponsored by the Y.M.C.A., namely, the inter-public school relay and the three-mile race open to runners of Hastings and Prince Edward County will take place again this year. Last year's winners of the Public School Relay Race were the team representing the On'wio School for the Deaf. These boys are very fast, and it will be difficult for any one of the school teams to take the cup from them unless they practice faithfully for this event.

Bert Girling was the winner of the three-mile event last year and is a likely candidate for this event again, although he will no doubt have strong opposition from other Hastings and Prince Edward County.

Cliff Barber will not be entered in this event, as he is training for the Guelph where he should make a good showing amongst some of the best runners of the district. It is probable that Barber will be accompanied by several other local runners.

"Y" Basket Ball Team

The four leaders among the boys and girls groups in securing members during the recent membership drive will be rewarded with a trip to the "Queen's" game on Saturday afternoon. The winners are as follows: High School Boys, Garnet Rowsome; Employed Boys, Morgan Sills; Junior Girls, Miss Sara Sullman, Miss Marion Fairbairn. These will be accompanied by Gordon Ross, Boys' Work Secretary; transportation being supplied by Sergeant W. R. Clark. The trip is made possible by the generosity of local citizens interested in Association work.

Business Girls Organize

The Business Girls of the Y.M.C.A. held their first supper meeting of the season last evening in the Association rooms, with Miss Rita Stevens, the President, presiding. Following the supper the General Secretary gave a report on the recent membership campaign. Thirty-one new members have united with the Business Girls group for the first time; over twenty of these were present at the supper and were introduced last evening. In the membership campaign the New York team, under Miss Rita Stevens, beat the St. Louis team, under Miss Marion Woodley, by a score of 66.23.

The election of officers of the club then proceeded with and resulted as follows:

President—Miss Marjorie Sherman.
First Vice-Presidents, Social and Physical—Miss Irene Hallam.
Second Vice-President, Y.W.C.A. Work and World Brotherhood—Miss Pearl Campbell.
Third Vice-President, Educational and Religious—Miss Muriel Parry.
Fourth Vice-President, Membership —Miss Helen Calzbeth.
Secretary Treasurer—Miss Phyllis Darte.

The following were appointed to captain Basket Ball groups—Miss L. Curry, Miss Laura Mumby, Miss Lena Haines, Miss Marion Code. These teams will be organized into a league, play the regulation basket ball rules, and will be coached and managed by experienced players.

Following the election the group adjourned to the Gym for their regular class.

DID NOT MAKE ANY OFFER TO TROTTIER

New York, Oct. 31—In connection with reports from Montreal that Dave Trottier, Olympic hockey flash, was here over the week end considering an offer from the New York Rangers, Col. J. S. Hammond, owner of the club, emphatically denied yesterday that he had made any offer to Trottier.

Col. Hammond admitted he would like to have the Varsity Grad luminary on his team. "Trottier," he said "has been a bone of contention for some time among the Toronto, Boston and Montreal Maroon clubs. So far as I know, he would rather play in Montreal than anywhere else; but the Montreal Bruins have a prior claim on his services.

It was because of Boston's claim to Trottier's services and because the Bruins were already negotiating with him, that he made no offer to the player, Col. Hammond stated.

Trottier was down here with Joe Sullivan of the Toronto Grads, to see Madison Square garden and the rodeo.

Dave Trottier, much sought Olympic hockey star, worked out Tuesday night with the Victorias of the senior group of the Quebec Amateur Hockey association. Although no Official statement was made by the club, it is now believed that the former Varsity Grad will line up with the Vics this season.

NIAGARA GRAPE CROP REPORTED HEAVY ONE

The grape crop in the Niagara district is most promising for a heavy yield, being estimated at 52,000,000 pounds, against 34,560,000 pounds in 1927.

Bunches are sizing up well and are of good color and quality, with the possible exception of red varieties, which have been affected by mildew in some sections. Cutting commenced on Concords on October 8, the majority going to the wineries.

Satisfactory prices are promised. Complaints have been received from various markets that early varieties of grapes are being shipped slightly immature, apparently because a few shippers were anxious to obtain benefits of early market. This is a short-sighted policy and should be discouraged. Well matured grapes of good shipping qualities give both larger tonnage per acre and satisfaction to consumer and wineries.

50-YEAR-OLD WOMAN INHERITS $60,000

Arden, Ont.—Mrs. Wm. Pringle, 50 years resident of this city, is heir to $60,000. At almost 70 she still lights a coal oil lamp by which to do her knitting. She is crippled with rheumatism.

Before her marriage she was Jenny Crozier, one of a family of 10 sons and daughters of a pioneer settler in Oldon Township. By the will of her sister, the late Mrs. Emma Dodge, widow of W. F. Dodge, New York publisher, the surviving members of the family inherit the bulk of a million dollar estate.

Alexander (Sandy) Crozier, who inherits $85,000 from his sister's will lives on one of his holdings, a beautiful 200-acre farm north of the Kingston Highway, and east of Napanee, son, and relatives tell of his marvelous ability at curing strange diseases. Talking about "Sandy", his brother-in law related instances of curing "thick neck" by touching the spot with his hands. He told of several people who had been cured. "And they never knew when it went away," he assured.

ATTITUDE TO WOMAN STILL TOPSY TURVY

London (CP)—"The man who is cid-fashioned in his views about women is nevertheless much more pleased with himself when he has danced or dined with a woman who helps to diploma in surgery than when he has danced or dined with one whose diploma is for housewifery. In fact, he would perhaps be ashamed to mention the latter diploma to his friends. The attitude to woman is still topsyturvy."

These remarks were made by Mrs. F. Grossett, in Geneva, when she addressed a meeting of the National Council of Women at Southport on The future of women.

Mr. Gresswell went on to say that however excellent a pastrycook a woman might be, or however neat a needlewoman, if when engaged in these employments she could not answer her child's questions—such as why a fly can walk on a ceiling, why it is not always summer, what makes rain, what stars are made of, or why the window is always cold—her training as a wife and mother was incomplete.

"We want intellectual equality in marriage in the future if marriages are to be ideal and if true friendship is to exist in them. The more intellectual a woman is the more quickly she will be able to make herself a capable housewife."

Last year twenty-three languages were used in the correspondence of the International Labour Office.

WINNIPEG HAS BIG FUR MARKET

Of Late Years Has Been Primary Market In Dominion

Winnipeg, Man. (CP)—Independent trading in raw fur in Winnipeg dates from 1870, the year the Dominion Government took over from Hudson's Bay Company the administration of law and order in the great northwest territories, also the year of the arrival of the first railway in Winnipeg, according to the Manitoba Free Press. The Free Press quotes a local fur dealer as saying that this city has been the main primary raw market in Canada during the past 11 years.

"The fur-trading activity of the northwest was practically controlled by the Hudson's Bay Company prior to 1870, the company having eliminated competition, to a large extent, earlier in the century. Until that year a large part of the company's duties lay in the administration of law and order, as stated. With the advent of the railway traders and fur buyers from Eastern Canada and the United States began to find their way into this section of the Dominion, with the result that instead of the fur trade being confined almost exclusively to the Hudson's Bay Company, as had been the case, independent trading began and developed greatly in the course of time.

"Shipments of raw fur are attracted to this market from traders and trappers throughout the northwest, from the international boundary to the Arctic circle and beyond,' says the Free Press. "Buyers from the great centres of this continent and Europe attend the Winnipeg auction of raw furs regularly and take up large quantities of northern skins for their principles in New York, Montreal, Chicago, London and Paris. Climatic conditions in Canada also result in a large domestic consumption of furs for manufacturing and retail furriers, dyers and dressers are all kept busy catering to the needs of the Canadian public. There is also a considerable export business in manufactured goods to which the evergrowing tourist traffic is contributing."

PRICES GOOD AT CATTLE DISPLAY

Farmers from all points in the province were in attendance at the annual livestock sale at the Ontario Agricultural College.

Prices on the whole were satisfactory, beef cattle bringing exception ally good prices. The top price at the sale, $250, was paid by John McKay and Sons, Lagunitas, a college bred Shorthorn bull, while the highest priced female, "Warrior's Flora," a Shorthorn cow, went to Earl Carter, Guelph for $230.

Shorthorn males brought an average of $186, the average price for Shorthorn females being $195. The average price realized on dairy cattle was $138 for females, and $153 for the males. Seven fat cattle sold at from 13 cents to 21 cents a pound.

Total sales of swine amounted to $2367.50, 78 head selling at an aver. age of $30.35.

Among the buyers were: Wesley Jackson, Drayton; D. Cotton, Hawkestone; H. Griffith, Cookstown; Acland & Bowes, Markdale; R. H. Smith, Fergus; J. W. Gould, Essex; John Wilson, Oakville; A. E. Woodley, Milton; T. C. Wilson, Bluevale; J. P. Weber, Kitchener; Stevenson Farms, Alliston; H. Stalke, Barrie.

Hon. John S. Martin, provincial minister of agriculture, was also present.

MENTAL DEFECTIVES SHOULD NOT MARRY

London (By The Canadian Press)—Although no immediate steps are likely to be taken by Parliament, the conclusions published by the Board of Control concerning the marriage of mental defectives are considered highly significant. The Board of Control is the authority responsible for administration of the lunacy laws, and their observations on the subject appear in their annual report.

"A careful study of the information before us," the Board state, "leads to the conclusion that the marriage of defectives has disastrous consequences to the community, and that the time has come when definite legislative steps should be taken to prevent the marriage of those under normal.

"Children born to such parents are not likely to become healthy and useful citizens.

"Some of them while still children will need special and expensive provision in special schools, in industrial schools, in charge of probation officers, or in Borstal institutions."

"Many of them will develop criminal tendencies, and in one way or another, as they reach man's estate, they must become a permanent charge on the community."

MANY ARE UNFIT TO DRIVE CARS

Says The Chicago Tribune; Cause of Huge Amount of Accidents

Constantly mounting lists of serious accidents, involving many violent deaths, due to bad driving, point unerringly to an abuse which underlies the revolting conditions now prevailing on the public thoroughfares, asserts the Chicago News.

That abuse is, of course, the presence at the steering wheels of motor cars of hundreds of persons who manifestly are morally or temperamentally unfit for that employment. It is nothing short of barbarous that such persons are permitted to invade the teeming traffic of city streets armed with high-power projectiles on wheels.

It is foolish for any one to expect that a reasonable degree of protection will be afforded either to motorists or to foot passengers so long as every sort of person with every sort of twisted brain is free to mount a motor car, throw it into gear and recharging down the traffic lanes.

Licenses granted only after proper examinations and made an essential part of the equipment of all drivers of cars would exclude many potential killers. If it were known that the licenses would be forfeited as part of the penalty for disobeying traffic rules, their possessors would be careful not to break the rules.

Orval Shaw, alleged "post bandit" of Skunk's Misery, a barren tract near Rockwell, Ont., was arrested Saturday at midnight after a two-year search. On one occasion police from Kent Middlesex and Elgin counties, with provincial officers, motorists and swarms of farmers combed Skunk's Misery in quest of his secret cave, but they didn't find either Shaw or his hideout. Picture of Shaw is shown in (3). CRITICISES THE BIG DIFFERENCE IN EDUCATION

Between The Two Sexes In India Says Wife of Viceroy

Guildford, Eng. (CP)—Criticism of the "worship of ugliness" in modern art was made recently by Sir Frank Dickson, President of the Royal Academy, when he opened the guildford Art Exhibition. There was a curious spirit abroad of restlessness, of deploring all the best traditions, and of denying the accepted standards, he said. We saw it not only in art, but to a certain extent in literature and music.

There was a worship of ugliness instead of the spirit of beauty and a certain contempt for beautiful form. Even Greek Art, which was the most perfect art in the matter of form, no found on many sides derided, and it was even called pretty. Pretty was a term which was assuming a different aspect. He thought we still tolerated a pretty girl—laughter—but anything else which is pretty is considered beneath contempt. He preferred beauty to prettiness in art, but he preferred prettiness to ugliness. Any sort of crime was committed to free the artist from any suspicion of prettiness.

Prettiness was a term of reproach in art, and if the artist was though to lean in that direction he was utterly damned, and could win a place in the world of evil. Only representing something which was utterly hideous.

He would only be too pleased to support a movement which would retain art on sound and wholesome lines, and there were two ways in which that could be brought about—by knowledge and by the exercise of the feeling of sincerity. There was a great deal of false, artificial atmosphere in art which he would like to see blown away. He thought it would be blown away by the common sense of the English people.

KOOTENAY WOMEN 100 PERCENT STRONG

Creston, B.C. (C.P.)—Women in all walks of life of the Kootenay Coun ty conferred at the District Women's Institute annual meeting. They discussed many important issues affecting rural and industrial life in the entire district. The attendance was 100 percent, and reports on the twenty-four institutes were full of accom plishments for the past year.

Over 8,000 had been raised by the individual bodies and all this amount was spent again in making living in the Kootenay more pleasant. School fairs, building community halls, financing community enterprises and promoting social entertainment in the varied districts were some of the activities undertaken.

UNVEILED MONUMENT TO FINDER OF GOLD

Victoria, B.C.—In connection with the unveiling at Leechtown, by . Honor the Lieutenant-Governor of a monument to Lieut. Peter Leech, who discovered gold there in July, 1864, the explorers' daughter, Mrs. Fauscult (Fanny Leech) and her son, were present as the special guests of the Historical Society, which erected the cairn. Part of the ruins of the old gold commissioner's house, erected in 1864 formed the background of the scene, and immediately over the little platform was one of the two apple trees which, history records, one of Governor Kennedy's daughters planted in 1865 during a short residence in the mining camp. Although there were in its heyday some two thousand miners living in Leechtown, and several hotels, stores and saloons, the place has long since reverted to forest following a devastating fire which swept through the country about 2 years ago.

ONTARIO COWS WIN IN MEMPHIS

Ontario Jersey Exhibit Makes Big Hit At Tennessee Show

The Ontario Jersey exhibit made a big hit at the National dairy show at Memphis, Tenn., according to W. Elmo Ashton.

"We had the best position, our animals made a great showing, and for every person who looked at the Jerseys from other places there were ten who looked at ours. The Ontario government supplied us with blankets, dark blue in color, on which were the coats of arms in red, an these, with the red, white and blue bunting which decorated the line made an excellent and striking impression.

"Then, too, our winnings brought us into the limelight, we had 26 animals in the exhibit, and despite the fact that this was the most keenly contested dairy show in my experience, we carried away 17 prizes, including three firsts and two seconds, as well as third in the state herd class. Moreover, many of the other prize-winners in the show were animals which had been bred in Ontario and bought by United States breeders."

OCTOGENARIAN COULD STILL PLAY TENNIS

Vancouver, B.C.—Alfred Bedding of Clapham, England, 80 years old, has a daughter living here who is proud of the fact that he could challenge any man of his age to a game of tennis—a world-wide offer. Mrs. Mabel Crisford of this city says: "My father attributes his agility at his age to having always engaged in some sort of sport and led an active, energetic life. And above all and most essential to having been consistently optimistic when days were dark. In this I believe lies the great secret of contented old age.

"My father came in a London paper, advising men who do not shirk work to come to Canada. he himself pioneering when Toronto boasted but one small hotel on Yonge street. In 1924 when my parents came back with me from London, to Winnipeg, my father joined in all the sports on board ship. They stayed in Winnipeg two months, in which city, being noted for its hospitality, they were both invited here, there and everywhere. Apparently it is their intention to try and come to Vancouver from England next year, when I hope my father will issue his challenge, to meet any man his age at temple here, as he is now doing in London."

DON'T BE SPINSTER WOMAN MAYOR SAYS

London, Oct. 30 (C.P.)—"You are all young and in a few years time you will be married. Don't remain an old spinster like me. You get more out of life although it's all right when you are young. When you are getting on a bit, it is then that you would like a man to look after you."

These remarks came from Miss Margaret Bevan, Lord Mayor of Liverpool, when she bade farewell to 150 girls going out to Australia under Salvation Army auspices. Among the Lord Mayors of great cities here who will retire on November 9th none has had a more successful year of office than Miss Beavan. Miss Beavan is the only woman yet to have been called to such an office in one of the great mercantile cities, although Norwich, one of the most ancient cities in the country, had the privilege at an earlier date of having a woman as Lord Mayor. For many years Miss Beavan has devoted herself to good works on Merseyside, and her care for children has earned for her the title of "Liverpool's Little Mother."

Miss Beavan added, "You are all going out to a new land to take an domestic service, and I don't think you realize how much you count. I know how much, and I am going to with a fellow player in the above photo tic workers are the builders of the home. It is not a poor service by any means. It is one of the highest orders in the land."

This year marks the Jubilee of the production of "Lamei Deronde," one of George Eliot's most famous novels. The great Victorian writer, it is said, took more pains over this work than any other.

People of forty-five and fifty years of age are regarded by some experts as being at the most valuable age to the community.

How to Strengthen Any Stomach

POSSIBLY that sour condition of your stomach is due to an over-stimulation of the gastric acid. A sour stomach isn't pleasant, and it isn't easy to excuse, when there is so simple a way to remedy it. To neutralize the harmful acid and put your stomach in good order take a little "Pape's Diapepsin"; after meals, or whenever the need is felt.

This fine remedy removes the cause of the trouble and promotes normal, healthy digestion. "Pape's Diapepsin" is sold by all druggists at 60 cents a package, and is the remedy which is recommended by millions because it gives immediate relief in all cases of difficult and painful digestion.

So, just be sure you provide yourself with "Pape's Diapepsin" today, so that stomach pain and digestive troubles need never worry you again. Or sour stomach cause you discomfort. This form of relief has helped many who thought their disorders could not be helped.

FEDERATION FOR AFRICA POSSIBLE

Says Premier Moffat of Southern Rhodesia At Luncheon Recently

Capetown, South Africa—Some kind of federation in Africa from the south to the Cape is possible in the future, but it will not be in his time, Premier H. W. Moffat of Southern Rhodesia, said at a luncheon at the University Club here given in his honor.

Meanwhile the policy of Southern Rhodesia was expansion to the North, he declared, and its ambition was to make a strong British state in Central Africa. This did not mean any antagonism to possible union with an African federation with South Africa. Premier Moffat said.

There was no doubt that a union between Southern and Northern Rhodesia must occur, but the Southern portion must avoid feeling that union. Premier Moffat said. (Northern Rhodesia at present is administered by a Governor appointed by the Crown, whereas Southern Rhodesia has its own Government).

Great importance is attached here to Premier Moffat's statement concerning an African federation in view of a speech delivered recently in London by Sir John Chancellor, former Governor of Southern Rhodesia, in which said he believed South Africa would be happier to live in as a federation of equal states than as a union.

Here and There

Employment officials at Regina state that out of the 6,000 British harvesters brought to Saskatchewan, at least 75 per cent. will remain in the West to become permanent Canadian citizens.

A 700-pound sea cow was shot the other day on the shore of Sea Cow Pound, Prince Edward Island an inlet which once swarmed with these gregarious, aquatic mammals but which are now a rarity. The animal was bought by a Summerside manufacturing concern which used the hide for leather, the flesh for the meat and the fat for lubricating oil.

A wool pool in Alberta is now a possibility. Premier Brownlee met a number of representatives of the industry in this province the other day and the subject was opened up in a preliminary way. It will likely come before the executive council for further considerations in the future, the Government being interested in all co-operative efforts by way of advising and encouraging.

The Department of Public Works, at Ottawa, will shortly invite tenders for the first part of the public undertakings, designed to make Prescott, Ont., the transfer terminal for lake traffic. The ultimate outlay at Prescott is estimated at approximately $5,000,000, covering rail facilities, docks and elevators. It is understood that plans are now being prepared for the railway layout in which both the large railway companies are concerned.

The Lord Nelson Hotel, containing 200 rooms and decorated in the Georgian style, has just been opened in Halifax, Nova Scotia, facing the city's beautiful Botanical Gardens. The opening ceremonies were marked by a dinner given by the Board of Trade to E. W. Beatty, chairman and president of the Canadian Pacific Railway. Up to date in every particular and quietly and tastefully decorated in the period of design recalled by its name, the new hotel will fill a long felt want in the province.

Snow and dog teams are lacking in "Pica Destiny" a seven reel film produced by British Canadian Pictures Limited of Calgary, stated Guy Weadick, general manager of the company. The mountain scenes shot around Banff and Lake Louise are the finest background possible for an outdoor picture, he said. The Governor-General and Lady Willingdon appear in the part showing the Calgary Stampede, and 600 horses are used in a round up scene in this all Canadian film.

An interesting and remarkable feat in railroad engineering is now being effected on the main line of the Canadian Pacific Railway near Toronto. Span by span the old steel bridge built in 1888 is being dismantled and replaced by heavier girders resting on new concrete piers without causing any interruption to traffic. During a six hour interval in the train schedule during the daytime the old spans are ripped up, an old span removed, and a new section weighing 46 tons is swung into place by a great crane especially constructed for the purpose. The short gap left between the new and the old spans is temporarily filled by special girders, new ties and track are laid by gangs of workmen, and the bridge is open to trains again. Preparations are then made to tackle the next of the thirteen spans.

Mr. John Elliott Dines Cheese Board For Twenty-Second Successive Year

ANNUAL DINNER AGAIN EXCEEDED ALL PREVIOUS RECORDS FOR SIZE AND INTEREST TO CHEESEMAKERS

Dr. Christie, President of Ontario Agriculture College Chief Speaker

FINE OBJECTIVE

Bringing Together Men of Country And City For Good of Both

A GENIAL HOST

who is a friend to more farmers than perhaps any other man in Eastern Ontario. Since coming to Belleville as manager of the Standard Bank, he has made a close study of Agricultural problems. Yesterday's dinner was his 22nd annual dinner to the cheese makers.

The twenty-second annual cheese banquet, given by that truly great banker, Mr. John Elliott, of the Standard Bank of Canada, who perhaps knows more about the cheese business in every department that the cheesemakers and exporters themselves, was held in the Hotel Quinte yesterday afternoon with a huge host attending from every corner of the province practically, with such fine speakers as Dr. Christie, of the Ontario Agricultural College, His Lordship Bishop Seager, of the Diocese of Ontario, R. A. Ramsay, assistant general manager of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, Mr. N. C. Stevens, assistant general manager of the Standard Bank of Canada, and several other well known speakers present. There is no budget that is held in Belleville that so truly shows the co-operation between the city and the country, the business man and the farmer, the bank and its customers. No, probably not in the whole dominion of Canada. For a banquet of this kind held with such lasting good results in knitting more closely together the men who in respectable, and very prosperity of Canada, the farmer, and the dwellers in the city, the bankers, the merchants, the lawyers, the doctors, in fact every branch of commercial life.

A Great Work

As was said at the banquet yesterday by Colonel W. N. Ponton, the finest toastmaster that Belleville has, and one of the best in the province who knows the manager of the Standard Bank and Mr. Elliott as everybody be is John Elliott, plain John Elliott. And, as Warden of the County of Hastings, he spoke more truthful words than S. B. Rollins when he said "There is no man in the county of Hastings who has done so much to bring together the country and the city. There is no man so equal John Elliott!"

Mr. Elliott's cheese banquet has passed its majority and by the looks of things will continue for another twenty-one years. God willing, and the cheesemakers and cheese exporters in the surrounding district will look forward to the next banquet, a red-letter day in the year.

Dr. Christie

Dr. Christie, president of the Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph who knows no peer in agricultural matter and who heads one of the finest colleges of its kind in the British Empire, was guest speaker yesterday, and he proved to be a great speaker. His exhortation to his listeners for co-operation between the farmers and the city business men was a treat to hear. "There is a great reason for this banquet," he said in opening his address, "and the only one I could think of is that Mr. John Elliott has done much to break down the barrier between the country and the town. I think this is one reason that has to be learned in great many districts at present. If the town is to succeed, agriculture must go forward in a bigger and better way. In every walk of life the important, the main thing is whether we are bringing our forces together or whether we are filling our souls with selfishness and greed. When we learn how to work together we have learned a great lesson."

"I am glad," he continued, "to hear you speak of your Chamber of Commerce (referring to Mr. Elliott's address which had immediately preceded his own.) Whenever we have a poor spirit in the town or city we never get the farmers to trade there. If your Chamber of Commerce puts "no parking" signs up all over the place how can you expect the farmers to want to come into a city on a Saturday evening or anytime? When the Chamber of Commerce and other who "lives on the concrete streets and the man who tills the soil. I believe I recognize here in Belleville that spirit of co-operation that is bringing you here together in a great work.

Cow a Necessity

"Every time you show me a community that keeps cows," he said changing his subject, "I'll show you a community that keeps growing richer day by day. In our community where I lived as a boy some men believed in taking everything out of the land and putting nothing back. When these men died they turned over a farm to the next generation that was so poor it couldn't be hard by worked. But when I went to other farmers and found men who kept cows, and kept plenty of them, kept the land fertile, grew clover, that farm became more prosperous and more prosperous."

"This is a wonderful cheese district. It is a great thing for a community to be able to show something to the world of which we can be proud. If Belleville stands for cheese you are making these people wealthy, you are furnishing food for thousands of hungry mouths across the seas in the old land. Even in your hands you are doing better task, that of going on, of carrying on the great industry of cheese production.

"The cows you have on your farms," he said in conclusion, "are worth better than when I was here some years ago. If we are to support the best we can get rid of that "border" cow, though, the one that is not making profits.

"On the Toronto markets we have seen tomatoes rotting, a loss to men and women who grow the tomatoes. We must change our ways in many respects and go the markets. The thing that makes a country great is co-operation. Ontario holds its agriculture above every other industry. I have been wonderfully delighted with the men who are considering the problems of agriculture."

Mr. Elliott's Address

Mr. Elliott, who was the first speaker and charmed his listeners with his inherent Irish wit. In opening he said:

"Today for the twenty-second time I have the privilege of welcoming as my guests many of the most prominent citizens of the Bay of Quinte district who are connected with the cheese business, either as producers, buyers or exporters—men who have made the name, "Belleville cheese" famous throughout the empire."

"As I have mentioned on former occasions the first of these cheese dinners dates back to 1907, and was a very small gathering; less than forty guests attended. . . In this occasion over two hundred an- fifty gave honored me by their presence, and amongst not only the agricultural interests, but the learned professions and leading business men of Belleville and surrounding counties, as well as many from outside points, including Hamilton, Toronto, Montreal and intervening cities.

"It has been my desire to give those present an informal evening, and with the co-operation and assistance of my friends I have succeeded in doing so. Several speakers in the past have noted some of the most prominent men in Canada, even the premier of this province, Hon. Geo. H. Ferguson, addressed my guests in 1926, and last year His Lordship Bishop Seagre was the chief speaker. These events will long be remembered by those who heard him.

"We are indebted to the Ontario Agricultural College for two excellent speakers, as Dr. Grenham and Prof. Reynolds, past presidents of that institution, have been with us, and today the present president, Dr. Christie, is here. We give him a most hearty welcome, and thank him for coming. I take it as a great mark of respect that so many of those who are here today have been present at almost every one of the cheese dinners. In fact, some have not missed one. I extend a special welcome to those senior guests.

Champion Cheese Maker

"The gathering this year is unique in that we have so many champion cheesers present, including Mr. R. J. McLaughlin of the Sidney Township Cheese Factory who is Canadian champion cheesemaker, Mr. McLaugh- lin's cheese enjoys a high reputation attained this enviable position, particularly so as he had many keen competitors, which is a tribute to the high class of cheese sold on the Belleville Board, nearly all of which grades No. 1. It is a sample of the efficiency of the makers in the Belleville district. I mention one factory whose maker manufactured and sold cheese at over $400,000,' less than $200 worth of which graded under No. 1. With a record such as this, it is any wonder that the Belleville district is so famous, and that the cheese sold in this city is eagerly sought by British importers and commands the highest market price.

"The season of 1928 has been one of the most favorable the Bay of Quinte district has ever experienced; prices have been good, and best of all —the British importers have realized that Belleville is the logical centre for storing cheese. This has been made possible by the excellent cold storage facilities supplied by the Graham Cold Storage Company, whose plant this year was filled to capacity.

Canada Progresses

"In 1927 you were good enough to

R. A. RUMSEY

Assistant General Manager of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, one of the speakers at Mr. Elliott's "Cheese" Dinner.

ply me with a beautiful value. It was in a suggestion that you expected me to travel, and bring a report on conditions as I found them. Last June I attended the annual meeting of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, which convened in Quebec City, where we were cordially received and generously entertained. The delegates were given an opportunity of visiting the Saguenay and Lake St. John district to observe the marvelous transformation taking place there by the erection of pulp and paper mills and power plants. I have electricity is generated and supplied at very low rates, the details of which time will not permit me to give today.

"In October I had the honor of being a representative of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce at the annual meeting of the Associated Boards of Trade and Chambers of Commerce of Eastern Ont. Mr. Thackeresu, premier of the province of Quebec; Dr. Roy, president of the Canadian Pacific Railway and the Hon. Jas. Malcolm, minister of trade and commerce, all federal government. Some of the figures are submitted for your consideration, as they prove conclusively that our country in the world is making greater progress than our own Dominion.

Canada's progress during the next few years will be marvellous. I have visited the east and west, and come back to the city of my adoption, and can truthfully say there is no place quite so nice and so well located as Belleville, surrounded as it is by one of the best dairying districts in the world.

A year ago I prophesied the price of cheese in 1928 would be good. I made no mistake then, and now venture to state prices In 1929 will be equally as good or better.

May I urge you to increase your herds, and take advantage of the splendid market which we have in Great Britain. It is not unfortunate that for the lack of milk several of the cheese factories are being closed. Do not allow this state of affairs to continue, gentlemen. No class can do more for the prosperity of Canada than the farmers. Will you not take advantage of the opportunity to increase your output. Our market for our dairy products offers in Canada, Great Britain and the United States? These countries need increased quantities of cheese, butter and cream. A few years ago we exported a large quantity of butter; now the home demand is so great that we have none to spare, but, on the contrary, so far this year we have imported over 15,- 000,000 lbs. of butter from New Zealand.

Remedy this condition by employing more farm help throughout the year. Keep more cows, and increase the output of cheese, butter and cream. By following this course you will be co-operating with the plans of the immigration question, and do more than you realize to promote the welfare and prosperity of the Dominion.

In concluding may I say that for twenty-two years it has been my privilege to co-operate with you in increasing the prosperity of this fine district. I hope our pleasant relations along the same lines will continue for many years, and that I may have the honor of representing will extend to you for the future the same accommodation that you have received in the past.

Bishop Seager

His Lordship Bishop Seager, of the Diocese of Ontario, was the next speaker, who proposed a toast to Canada and Belleville. His Lordship's address was short, and, furthermore very witty. He simply explained what he knew absolutely nothing about financing or financial institutions but that his father in 1899", he said, "told me if I didn't do better at school I must look into trouble, the trouble into the bank. Well, I went into the Bank of Commerce and served twelve years there, and I have studied those twelve months above anything. I think that the world and our town and our young men, aspiring to the clergy said I mean no disrespect to the men here of the cloth here, if they could see a little service in the bank."

"Mr. Elliott," he continued in a more serious vein, "is a great citizen a great banker and also a great churchman. He is not only useful in the Diocese of Ontario but in the whole land."

"It is a great thing that the financial institutions stand by the farmers. I believe that this is the case. I believe Canadian people feel towards financial institutions as they should. We believe that they are sound; we believe that they are public spirited; we believe in their usefulness as a great industry."

R. A. & C. M's

Two assistant general managers. Mr. Rumsey of the Bank of Commerce, and Mr. Stevens, of the Standard Bank responded to this toast heartily. Mr. Elliott began Mr. Rumsey, "and I are both members of two financial institutions. Although situated for some years in Montreal I don't think that amalgamations hurt anybody. I think it is better our country should have and be served by a few large, strong banks than by many small ones."

"The managers of the Standard banks are to be left in charge of their present branches. I would like to say this—I esteem it a great privilege to be here. I consider this a unique instance in the life of Canadian banking."

Mr. Stevens was the second speaker. "We are beginning", he said, "to see labour and capital co-operating. The co-operative movement is welding the people together. The foreigner in this land has got to make-his living. Co-operative spirit has got to be encouraged to assure a successful future for Canada."

Mrs. Elliott since the banquet last year.

So the banquet ended, but it was one of the most successful ever held in Belleville. To enliven the proceedings such musicians as Mr. Leo Biggs, J. Arnold Thomson and Jimmie Bankier rendered several selections. Mr. Thomson was community song leader.

Mr. H. F. Ketcheson was the chairman of the meeting. He spoke most highly of Mr. Elliott. "John Elliott" he said "has been a leader in business. He is a leader of men.. He has taken his part in the government of the city. After 22 years he is still with us today and we hope he will be here a good deal longer."

DO YOU KNOW?

That over 98% of the cheese made in Belleville in the past year was No. 1 grade?

That it brought the highest price on the British market?

That Mr. James Balcoquel has not missed one of the Cheese banquets?

That he is probably the Oldest cheese man in the district?

That Canada is prosperous beyond comparison.

That the Belleville Cheese Board stands second to none in the British Empire?

That since its, of June, 1928, about 43,000 boxes of Cheese were sold on the Belleville Board?

That this represented roughly about 4,000,000 pounds of cheese?

That this represented some $825,000 in cash, hard cash? -.

That when the Standard and Commerce are finally finished with their amalgamating they will have total assets of $700,000,000?

That a most humorous telegram was read from Mr. Rowley, another Assistant General Manager of the Bank of Commerce containing Bubbling references, which no one expects from a hard-hearted banker?

That there was a goodly sprinkling of clergy among the guests from the entire countryside, Belleville included?

That John Elliott is one of the best liked men in Belleville and has no peer among business men?

But that is well known already.

Now is the time to take

TO-DAY'S THOUGHT

Put golden padlocks on Truth's lips, her callous as ye will,
From soul to soul, o'er all the world, leaps one electric thrill.

LOWELL.

POLICE OF PROVINCE ALL UNDER ONE HEAD

Considerable interest has been aroused by the announcement that General Williams, head of the Ontario Provincial Police, is going to England to study police methods at Scotland Yards, and the assumption that on his return there will be a reorganization in Ontario by which the county police will be brought under provincial control.

It is thought that the policing of the Province, except in urban centres, will, under the new system, be assumed by the Provincial Government.

At the same time there is a feeling that the highway traffic police at present under the control of the Department of Highways should also be absorbed into the Provincial Police Force.

There does not seem any reason why these officials should not be full-fledged Provincial Police with the same authority and power as the Provincial officers, and like them under the direction of the Attorney-General's Department.

Such a rearrangement would simplify and make more effective the general policing of Ontario and give the Province more capable protection against the modern criminal.

In the words of the Attorney-General: "While the police of the large cities and towns will always be centres from where good operations can be taken the Province itself must keep an active positive and aggressive police force capable and willing to handle the criminal when he gets beyond the urban centres."

KNOCKERS A MENACE TO A CITY'S FUTURE

The London Free Press finds it necessary to put in a good word for its Chamber of Commerce. Apparently in that city, with the municipal elections drawing near, it is considered a popular thing to knock the Chamber of Commerce and prospective municipal candidates are acting in such a way as to make the Free Press suspect that they are looking for a popular horse upon which to ride to victory.

Chambers of Commerce and Boards of Trade have a hard time to keep in public favor. People are looking for "action" these days and when a Chamber of Commerce or a board of trade fails to do big things every year, public opinion is apt to regard it as useless, and popularity-seeking municipal candidates do not help matters with their criticism.

Lack of big outstanding achievement do not rob such an organization of its usefulness. Such bodies have an opportunity for performing their greatest work, through being transformed into popular forms through which the general public may bring their influence and their opinion to bear upon civic questions. If they should be the people's civic court, where public opinion and public sentiments is formed, and brought to bear upon those who have the responsibility of municipal government. If it were only realized public opinion is a greater force in the community than legal enactements—for public opinion can and does compel the enactment of laws.

The Free Press points out that co-operation, not knocking is needed, and this is true of every community. If a number of commerce or board of trade is failing in its mission it would be far better for the knockers to interest themselves in trying to put it on a proper footing, rather than to condemn it. It is easy to tear down an institution through criticism but it amounts to wanton and even criminal destruction unless some effort is made to put something better in its place.

PROBLEM OF UNION OF SUB-NORMALS

One of the great problems which calls for solution in the present age is that of the inter-marriage of mental defectives. It is not a problem which is peculiar to any one country, and different countries have different methods of dealing with it. In Great Britain, although no immediate steps by parliament are considered likely, the conclusions which have been published by the Board of Control, after an investigation of the subject, of the marriage of mental defectives are considered highly significant. The Board of Control it might be explained, is the authority responsible for the lunacy laws of Great Britain, and their observations on the subject, in the annual report, are, in part, as follows:

"A careful study of the information before us leads to the conclusion that the marriage of defectives has disastrous consequences to the community, and that the time has come when effective legislative steps should be taken to prevent the marriage of those under normal.

"Children born to such parents are not likely to become healthy and useful citizens. Some of them, while still children, will need special and expensive provision in special schools, in industrial schools in charge of probation officers, or in Borstal institutions. Many of them will develop criminal tendencies, and, in one way or another, as they reach man's estate, they must become a permanent charge on the community."

There has always been a disinclination in nearly every country to take any legislative action in the direction suggested, yet, for the safety of the race, one might quite reasonably assert that such action would be justifiable. The report of so authoritative a body as the British Board of Control is worth heeding, particularly as it bears out exactly what mental specialists in Ontario have for many years been telling the government. The reproduction by mental defectives of children of their own type is one of the gravest of crimes which can be committed against humanity and society, and the time is surely coming when governing bodies will have to take cognizance of that fact, and pass legislation to prevent it.

PASSING YEARS
(From The Intelligencer of this day 30 years ago)

Shortly after 11 o'clock this morning a team of horses, owned by Patrick McDonald, a farmer of Tyendinaga, became unmanageable and dashed down Front Street. They were luckily caught by Edward Keating in front of Mr. Corby's office.

The new boxes in the post office were placed in position last night.

RAINBOW-GOLD

A child he sought a pot of rainbow-gold
That fabled fortune which old tales have told Lies waiting there
Where bright hues flare
With vivid banners up the sky unfold.

The rainbow-gold through all his childhood days
Kept luring him, kept beckoning always;
But now at last,
With childhood past,
He gleans true riches from the rainbow's rays.

He knows all gold the rainbow has for man
Is in the beauty of that airy span,
Its promise bright,
Its lifting light,
The whisper of its hope since time began.

THEN ALL-BRAN SAVED HIM FROM CONSTIPATION

A message for people who use laxatives

Mr. Skites wrote us a voluntary testimonial after Kellogg's ALL-BRAN had saved him from dreadful constipation. Read his tribute:

Port Hope, Ont., June 11, 1927

"For years I have been constipated. After trying all kind of remedies, I could only get temporary relief. I became discouraged and gave up. Then a friend told me about Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. I tried it and in a few months I had no fault. I am one of the citizens of Canada who can say he is a friend of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN."

—ARTHUR SKITES. (Address on request.)

If constipation is preying upon your health, check it before too late. If you are using habit-forming laxatives, stop it before this harmful practice fastens its grip too tight.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is guaranteed to relieve constipation. Just eat two tablespoonfuls daily—chronic cases, with every meal. Doctors recommend ALL-BRAN. A 100% bran cereal—delicious with milk or cream—fruits or honey added. Use in cooking too. Sold by all grocers. Served everywhere. Made by Kellogg in London, Ontario.

WORKS SO HARD SHE CAN'T PLAN WEDDING

Toronto, Oct.—To have so much pressing work on hand that one has to neglect preparations for one's wedding has been the fate so far of Miss Lisl Hummel, soon to marry Dr. Borsook, of the staff of Toronto University. A guest of the Heliconian Club the other day, Miss Hummel (the Viennese artist whose work in silhouettes has made her internationally known as an illustrator) was afraid to venture on a speech in English; but privately she admitted it was rather hard to have to concentrate on illustrations for a promised book, and have to give up the delights of planning a trousseau or helping to search for an apartment.

Mention of the fair sex reminds me of the handsome sailor and his predicament. His pal, noticing the worried expression one day, said: "Tell me all about it, chum, get it off your chest."

"Wish I could," groaned the A.B. "I've got 'Marguerite' tattoed there and the girl I'm engaged to marry is named 'Helen.'"

Judge: "That's the federal tax on amusement."

Two weeks ago, Fred Graham of Pontypool, Ont., bought a $1 ticket in the Cambridgeshire pool organized by the Army and Navy Veterans in Quebec. Last Saturday he was told his ticket had been drawn on the home Baytown in the handicap. On Wednesday Baytown won for him the second prize, $10,800. Graham is shown (1) and his Pontypool home in (2). That Body of Yours

LIQUIDS AND OVERWEIGHT

In examining boxers to see if they are round and fit at 2 o'clock the day of the bouts, it has often been a source of interest and amusement to find out just what is on their minds when the weighing and examining is completed.

Almost without exception they are thinking of the big drink of water, with perhaps a good steak, until is to be their portion between 2 o'clock and the scheduled hour of the bout in the evening.

Most boxers, before they begin active training, are usually carrying a few pounds of excess weight or fat. By getting rid of the fat they also get rid of considerable water because an overweight folks the "tissues tend to retain water."

Accordingly after they have reduced themselves to the required weight by hard exercise and cutting down on their fluid intake, they are naturally anxious to get a little extra fluid back into the tissues. Now this should be a lesson to our overweight folks because the majority are fond of liquids and drink great quantities of water. They have been told, and told correctly, that water is good for them, but they do not seem to know that water increases weight. Because when they do take exercise they give up this water first instead of the fat on their bodies.

Another point is that while most fat folks very wisely cut down on fat forming foods: bread, potatoes, and other starchy foods, they fail to eat sufficient meat.

They have been told, and told correctly, that water is good for them, but they do not seem to know that water increases weight. Because when they do take exercise they give up this water first instead of the fat on their bodies.

Another point is that while most fat folks very wisely cut down on fat forming foods: bread, potatoes, and other starchy foods, they fail to eat sufficient meat.

What is the thought?

That overweight folks should eat regularly, and then get outdoors and take as much exercise as possible, as the extra oxygen in the air outdoors helps to burn up tissues faster.

And to remember that when thirsty, and water must be taken, that small quantities, just a mouthful, be drunk, rather than a pint or half pint. Boxers and jockeys who "must" keep weight down should be an object lesson to our overweight friends.

Just For The Feminine Reader

NO HUMOR IN VULGAR SONGS

It seems the time has come to raise her voice in protest against some of the so-called popular songs of the day. The other day we heard a youngster not more than five years old at the piano, singing with a lustiness that could be heard a block away, "Hallelujah, I'm a bum," and so on. At first we thought it was a parody on the old Methodist hymn, that he had heard someone sing. It was of course, but we didn't realize it had been combercialized until we heard it again, this time being played on a victrola record, again we heard it over the radio, so its popularity is undoubtedly established.

Now there is humor and humor, and we can appreciate a comic song as well as anyone we hope, but to be funny is not to be sacrilegious, and somehow this "Bum Song" has a distinctly jarring note to anyone who has heard the original hymn sung at church or Sunday School. The song is not the only one overstepping the bounds of decency, but is a typical example. A good many songs are direct steals from sacred hymns, some times with the metre changed or some variation from the original thme, but easily recognizable, nevertheless sorry some steps could be taken to prevent this, and we have learned through conversation with several people that many recent "this and that" songs are based on the Hymn book. Let us continue to have funny songs but let there be a line drawn between these and sacred songs that have been made through history and have lived through persecution, and opposition as a heritage to us of the finer things of life.

MAKE CANADA INDEPENDENT ECONOMICALLY

Women are the sex which spends at least 80 per cent. of the nation's money and they will ponder over the message delivered by Mr. R. B. Bennett this week to the Women's Conservative Association's reception in his honor.

For Canada's Conservative leader there reminded the audience, "is a month one travels in this great country, like Nova Scotia, that is brimful of tremendous possibilities, and with the great future Canada must play in the history of the world."

We are richer in natural resources than any other country in the north temperate zone," he continued. "We must see that these resources that those who come after us may not reproach us with having given away their heritage. We must, by the development of these resources not only enable the country to prosper, but also persuade those Canadians who have left their country to return to it."

Mr. Bennett, Mr. Bennett pleaded that Canada must become independent, so far as her economic life was concerned. It must not export its raw material and its people to many factors that new material across the border only to buy it back again.

"Are our boys to grow up in this country only to leave it in order to find employment in the United States or are they to find employment here?" Mr. Bennett asked.

"The problem of Canada is not so much immigration as the prevention of emigration."

FULL YOURSELF UP PHYSICALLY AND MENTALLY

Stand in front of a mirror and size yourself up. Are you the shape of a letter S? Do your shoulders droop and does your abdomen sag? If these things are true, it is not so much a matter of reducing diet as mental stamina.

What you need is to yank yourself up physically and mentally. Those defects are probably the fault of wrong posture. The right posture is: head erect, chin drawn in, chest high, weight on the balls of the feet.

Remember these four items. Memorize them and see if you are living up to them hour by hour, and walking up to them as you stroll down the street. Or do you always ride in the car? That is one thing which all us moderns. We are taking it too easy and letting our bodies and our stamina slump.

We need to make ourselves more taut, both physically and mentally. We need to get over that chronic "tired feeling." We need to throw out our chests and draw in our chins and our "tummies." There is no royal road to good posture. We can not buy it at the store nor get it by proxy. Nobody but ourselves can prop ourselves up; and it is not done overnight. It is a matter of long habit, persistent in day after day. Are you ready to undertake it or would you rather have that flabby paunch?

Advice to Girls
By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a girl of sixteen and have gone out a few times with a fine boy a little older than myself. He also takes other girls out and this fact never bothered me until now. My present worry is caused because my friends say that I have no pride going out with a boy who takes a different girl out the following day.

I have a very good time when I do go out with this boy and I do not think I should refuse invitations from him, do you?

WHAT'S NEW
(From a Woman's Standpoint)

Dressil-Beer are showing flat tiers of coals.

Bright pailettes are still fashionable in spite of their long spell of favor.

Worth is showing sheath-like evening gowns with many black satin types slim to below the hips, and the Spanish note was a favorite at his mid-season opening.

Twenty-eight ushers were chosen for the Salisbury Cathedral wedding of Lady Patricia Herbert to Lord Hamilsden, and the bride wore a medieval robe of ivory velvet with silver lined train and the five bridesmaids were in yellow chiffon dresses with petal skirts, and their wreaths of yellow buttercups and bouquet of carnations of a similar color struck a novel note.

In Molyneaux's supplementary fall showing for his private clientele, black and beige are most important; the one color that stands out is the dark carmine red which is used for several of the new velvet evening gowns, and one of two of the afternoon costumes.

Red moire is particularly good for evening gowns.

The new shoe-string shoulder straps, narrow tailored belts of tulle with brilliant oblong buckles, shoulder sprays of flowers posed at back from the shoulder almost to the waistline, bodices of novel design, silver lace with skirts of white or Nile green tulle, are outstanding fashion points in the new evening frocks.

A group of very unusual Spanish frocks is being featured by Agnes for the winter season and the bodice is either square, round or pointed at the decolletage, is fitted and then finished off by a transparent net yoke at the top while the skirt, which is most voluminous, is gathered at the sides, and has a hem which either dips down at the back or else drops evenly all either side.

Some Helpful Hints For Busy Housewives

Sprinkle clothes with hot water and they may be ironed almost immediately.

A cold in the head can often be relieved by adding a few dops of eucalyptus to a jugful of hot water and inhaling the fumes.

Salted meat requires longer boiling than fresh. Put it into cold water, quickly bring it to a boil, then let it simmer.

Soap jelly made by dissolving a large bar of soap in two quarts of boiling water and two tablespoonfuls of kerosene is a great aid in cleaning and shining.

When enameling do not add turpentine to thin out the enamel. Put the can in which it is sold in a dipper of hot water and let it stand until quite warm. It will then go on easily and give good results.

The meat grinder need not be confined to meat. It makes splendid bread crumbs. Dry the stale bread in the oven and then put through the grinder. Real economy.

Gay Adventurers By Mildred Barbour

Sheila was tucked into the tonneau between Myra and Tommy, she realized uneasily that Myra was regarding her closely. "You look ever and ever so much better than you did the last time I saw you, Sheila. You're young er and prettier and fresher. What have you been doing—taking a rest cure?"

"On shipboard — yes," laughed Sheila, with a deliberately casual air. Tommy laughed knowingly, and she demanded to know why. "I was just thinking," he said, "what a peach of a story this will make for the gossips in our set. Can't you just hear the chatter?"

CHAPTER 12

Slippery Ground

The drive from Havre to Paris in Tommy Fitzgerald's car was pleasant enough. Sheila almost forgot her apprehension as they swept through picturesque little villages, and as the palsied dark crop of ... and ... kzchief gardens, where French wo ... past green fields and pocket-handkerchief ... sunlight.

At eleven o'clock, they stopped for coffee at an inn. Sheila found herself sitting opposite Tommy and Myra, whose back name she hadn't yet been able to ascertain, although there was "D" on her smart dressing-case in the full sunshine of the garden. Her heart almost stopped beating when Myra said:

"Do you know, Connie, you look awfully different? I can't say just what it is, but you've changed a lot, I haven't seen you since 1925, have I? We've been stationed at Bucharest since then, Ned and I."

Ned was probably "Mr. D," thought Sheila. Being stationed at Bucharest signified, most likely, the diplomatic corps.

"It must be love," chimed in Tommy. "I can see the difference, too. That's how she came so near fooling me. But then I haven't seen you for ages, Connie. You knew I'd been in Japan, didn't you? ... Shot, of course you did. You had the nerve to keep me in line when I sailed. Now give us the dope on the change in you. Did you take a cure or something?"

She endeavored to change the subject by chattering feverishly about a lot of exceptionally beautiful marionettes that bordered the garden. "We have that same variety in the garden at home," she said.

"Where?" promptly demanded Myra. "Not at Kerrwood?"

Sheila remembered that Kerrwood was the Connecticut summer home of Constance's family. "Yes. At Kerrwood."

Myra started. "But, dear child, you must be mistaken. You have no garden there, because your mother generally spends June at Kerrwood, and flowers near the house give her hay-fever."

Sheila, feeling as though the ground were giving away beneath her feet, stammered: "Oh, she ..... she doesn't have that any more. She—er—she's had a cure."

Tommy burst out laughing. "Connie, you've been using little fibber in the world. I met Mrs. Kerr at tea, a couple of weeks ago, and she told me she was suffering terribly from hay-fever and could hardly wait to get aboard the yacht and a million miles away from a flower-garden. She had to leave the tea-party, because there were roses in the room."

Sheila laughed again, though she was feeling rather ill. "You let Mother fool you, Tommy. She probably lured that as an excuse to get away, because she was bored."

Constance Kerr, since when have you begun to call your female parent "Mother?" demanded Myra, who was, in Sheila's eyes, assuming all the qualities of a spider ready to pounce on an unwary fly.

Sheila couldn't think of a retort, to save her life. What on earth did Constance call her mother? There were so awfully many things she Kerr believed had forgotten to mention.

Tommy saved her by announcing dramatically: "It's the Count who'll done it, Myra! Connie's getting European and respectful to the elder generation. She thinks it's no longer proper to call her mother 'Pat'."

Sheila assumed a mocking air. "How clever you are, Tommy, to have guessed it."

Myra dropped that subject and began on another. "Tell us the truth, Constance. Are you really engaged to the Count de Bellefonte?"

In view of the circumstances, Sheila decided it was best to hedge. Constance might have to admit, after all, that she was married to Bellefonte. So she said, with demurely lowered eyes:

"Well, I don't say I am..... but I don't say I'm not."

"Spoken like Papa Kerr when some one asks him if he's worth a billion dollars," laughed Tommy. You're a chip of the old block, Connie."

Sheila decided that she'd been grilled long enough, so she drawled: "Why are you both picking on me? Why don't you tell some things about yourselves for a change? I think it's my turn to ask questions."

They laughingly conceded her that point, but she didn't dare to ask questions after all. She might reveal her complete ignorance of them and their lives. She was relieved when the chauffeur brought the car around and they resumed their journey to Paris. She comforted herself with the fact that she would soon be rid of them and their questions, because Myra was going on to Deauville the next day, and Tommy's itinerary would take him to Brittany.

By the time they reached Paris, her fears were calmed and she had resolved not to let anything spoil the thrill of her first view of the magic city. She even forgot the presence of her two companions as they rolled smoothly down the Champs d'Elysees, a part of the procession of the smartest motors in all the world. The gay shops on the sidewalks, the reflection of the sunlight on white marble and sandstone and plate glass, the glimpses here and there of bright flowers and the brighter costumes of the feminine population, and, most of all, that elusive air that is Paris, filled her with a feeling of gaiety.

She came to earth, however, after she had been at her hotel for a few hours.

With grave discussions on Indian problems occasionally relieved by the fierce dances of an earlier day the Six Nations Indians held their annual pow wow in the long house of their Tuscarora, Ont., township reserve. Representatives of American tribes were present and the Great Spirit thanked for a good harvest. The photographs above show: (1) Chief Levi Jacob, grand old man of the reserve, whose booming voice was frequently heard in the councils; (2) Mrs. B. Jamieson, who from special mark of favor was the first woman permitted to join the rattle-dance, which broke up the first pow wow on Tuesday; (3) Chief Levi Jacob, Jr., huskiest of the band, who is also son of a chief; (4) Chief John Brewer who takes his tribal love seriously and at first resented the invasion of white men in the person of the photograph-er; (5) Chief Charlie Hill, who led the war dance; (6) the Long House of pine logs in which the pow wow is being held; (7) Chief Jerry Blue Eye (his real English name) who is poison to the theory that Indians are always serious and quiet. Jerry was the life of the party.

REGENT

"Cameo Kirby" is just the type role that Gilbert plays best. There are romance, action, real drama and through it all Gilbert battles his way to better things than being just a gambler, albeit a "straight" one.

Are scenes of the steamboat days on the Mississippi, with the tang of adventure. Picturesque old New Orleans is the locale of much of the action, which involves the honor of an old Southern family and Kirby, a gambler, becomes a crooked gambler and winning the belle of New Orleans after an exciting duel.

Gertrude Olmstead plays the girl. Others in an excellent cast are Alan Hale, Jean Arthur, Eugene Pallette, Richard Tucker, John Ford director.

2 Feature Pictures.

Buster Keaton and his pinto pony Rags, were seen last night at the Regent theatre in another whirlwind drama, "The Fightin' Redhead," an FBO production. The little thirteen-year-old Western star again cavorts through the paces of a typical Western picture today can do. Buster is a versatile on his pinto as the aerial gymnast of the circus is on the flying trapeze. There is nobody like young Buster canot do on horseback.

CROP REPORT

General

Threshing has been practically completed under ideal conditions and grain deliveries are unusually heavy. While the more authoritative estimates all place the wheat yield at well over 500,000,000 it is now apparent that frost in the latter part of August and early September did more damage efficiency in heat circulation. You than was at first feared and grades are disappointing as a result. In Quebec farmers generally have had to contend with adverse weather conditions throughout the year and on the whole crops are somewhat below average. In Ontario a satisfactory crop has been harvested although not equal to that of 1927. During the harvest season the rainfall was excessive especially in the northern and eastern sections of the maritime Provinces crops on the whole have been excellent, strawberries alone having been a partial failure. In British Columbia favourable weather prevailed throughout the growing season and crops generally have been satisfactory. Details follow:

Prairie Provinces

An extensive acreage of summer fallow and fall ploughing was completed last year. Seeding on a larger scale was completed under favorable conditions. Those conditions continued throughout the Summer with excessive rainfall in a few low-lying localities which caused damage by flooding. On the whole crops made rapid progress and growth was exceptionally heavy. There have been frosts and hail storms which did damage in Alberta, more serious damage in Saskatchewan, but neighbouring Manitoba. Weeds were prevalent. There was little rust in evidence and new varieties and early maturing seeds are nominal. Hot dry weather in early August brought crops along rapidly. Harvesting was delayed by mid August and good progress was made although rain hindered operations in some districts. With the completion of threshing over 225,000,000 bushels have been delivered in the Prairie Provinces since the 1st. of August. This is almost three times as great as the quantity delivered to same date last year and some 40 per cent greater than the previous record set in 1923. There is a large amount of hail damage for next year's crop although unusually dry weather is impeding fall ploughing operations in some districts. Jobs Free Press 534,631,412 bushels The Northwest Grain Dealers Association on the 8th. October gave their estimate at 558,450,000 bushels. The Dominion Bureau's final figures for 1927 were 474,000,000 bushels. The Dominion Bureau estimates the oats crop at 311,174,000 bushels or 61,781,000 bushels more than last year and barley at 121, 089,000 bushels being 45,243,000 in excess of last year. The crushing of sugar beet in Alberta of 7300 acres of land is proceeding. A yield of 42,000 tons is estimated compared with 31,000 tons last year.

Province of Quebec

Harvesting has been completed and threshing is well advanced. While reports vary widely the yield of cereal crops is generally below average. Oats particularly were affected by unfavorable weather conditions. The potato crop is estimated at about the same amount as last year but it has suffered to some extent from rot. Hay, pasture and fodder crops are satisfactory. The yield of apples is estimated at about 50 per cent of last year's crop. Pasturage which has been abundant throughout the season is still good. Vegetables are average and root has been damaged to some extent by rain and frosts.

Province Of Ontario

From a backward start hay made good growth during the last two weeks of June and developed into an average crop. According to Government figures compiled on August 28th the estimated yield of fall and spring wheat, oats, barley, rye and peas for the year is 14,174,700 bushels as compared with 144,332,207 bushels the final estimate for 1927. Fall wheat shows a decrease of 10 per cent; spring wheat 8 per cent; oats 4 per cent; rye 12 per cent and oats 3 per cent.Barley is the only crop to show an improvement being 13 per cent. better than the previous year. Turnips and mangles are yielding well. Potatoes while a heavy crop are showing rot owing to excessive moisture. The fruit crop has been below the average yield over a period of years. This includes apples which however in some sections have been up to many recent seasons. Tobacco with an acreage slightly below 1927 is in quality entirely satisfactory the estimated yield being 17,000,000 pound which is a decrease of 6,500,000 pounds from last year's figures. Pasturage has been good throughout the season and plenty of roughage is available for winter feeding.

Maritime Provinces

Potatoes are of good quality and the yield will above the five year average. Over half of the Prince Edward Island potato crop is now classed as certified seed stock. This is a comparatively new and fast increasing development, especially in that province. A fair average crop of oats and an above-average crop of hay both of good quality have been harvested. Grain in the Valley apple crop is estimated at 850,000 barrels which is 75 per cent' of the five-year average but, apples are grading out higher than for several years past. Pasturage has been good throughout the season.

British Columbia

Hay and grain are of excellent quality and well above the average in yield. Roots suffered somewhat from dry weather and are slightly below average. Small and soft fruits were a good crop. The apple crop estimated at 3,700,000 packages is 130 per-cent. of average but grade and colour are below the usual high standard. Cherries are estimated at 90 per cent average; plums, prunes and peaches 85 per cent; pears 90 per cent; and apricots 120 per cent. Pastures and ranges are in good condition and there is sufficient fodder for winter feeding.

Neuritis

Neuritis is an inflammation of a nerve but when more than one is involved it is known as multiple neuritis. When a nerve becomes inflamed the excessive heat thus produced causes dilatation of the blood vessels and a slow vascular exudation of serum into the nerve sheaths. This serum eventually dries up and the nerve degenerates and as a result of the degeneration of the nerve the muscle to which the injured nerve is distributed becomes paralyzed.

A Chiropractor can restore normal transmission of heat impulses to the affected nerve by removing the cause. When this is done the inflammation subsides, the nerve undergoes repair and in which the nerve structure is repaired.

A GREAT DISAPPOINTMENT

The World of Sports

WILL OBJECT TO ONLY ONE GAME

Rinkey Dinks Are After Home And Home Games

Toronto, Oct. 31—From North Bay comes an objection to the delay in deciding the women's intermediate softball championship. The Rinkey Dinks are taking the stand that the fans who have loyally supported them all summer in their quest for supremacy should be given an opportunity of seeing them in a final game. The North Bayites object strenuously to the sudden death game idea.

The intermediate softball play-off has taken a long time and North Bay has been sitting on the side lines waiting for a winner from down-town to meet them in the finals. North Bay has played two games—both with Oshawa—and they did not play through any league games to arrive at the point where they could get in the play-offs. With the Sellerring Nationals it has been a horse of another color entirely. This team has played through the Sunnyside League, thirteen games, and then has met and defeated Kodaks, Populars, Owen Sound and Galt, making a grand total in all of twenty-three games that the Toronto team has played to date in their quest for Ontario honors. Their successes have been heavy and the team has willingly played in all kinds of weather in order that the play-offs for the title may be rushed through. It is unfortunate that it has taken such a long time to get through to the finals in this series, and both teams should be willing to give and take a little.

From all appearance to date, the Toronto Nationals appear to be the team that has the biggest kick coming. The idea of a sudden death game somewhere on neutral ground is the logical solution to the problem and both teams should be glad of the opportunity of having the Ontario title decided quickly under the uncertain weather conditions prevailing at this time of the year.

RECREATION BOWLING

The Hustlers got away to a good start by winning the first game from the Maple Leafs in a Ladies' League game at the Recreation Alleys last night, but in the next two games they weakened somewhat and with the Maple Leafs getting better as the game progressed they won the next two games and total, final standing being Hustlers 1 and Maple Leafs 2.

Ladies' League

Hustlers—M. Bly 362; D. McDonald 276; M. Charlton 316; P. Charlton 291; K. McDonald 314. Total 1659.

Maple Leafs—W. Reppard 438; M. Aschelins 442; P. Brodhurst 272; L. Cook 321; S. Doyle 375. Total 1845.

In a Junior League game the Stevens-Adamson won the first game from The Gang by 5 pins and the second by 97 pins; in the final game The Gang came back to life and not only won this game but won out on the total. The Gang rolling 1113 in this game which would be a creditable

YOUR EYES and Our Service

By

J. A. McFEE, Optometrist

Belleville

Explain further about abnormal vision.

A fact which many should note is that it is possible to see perfectly with imperfect eyes. This means that the muscles of the eyes overcome automatically the errors of vision, resulting in excessive strain.

That fact is important?

Very. Many thousands of cases of eye strain can be traced to the above cause.

The Optometrist is trained to detect the above conditions.

Yes, with his instruments he can at once detect all abnormal eye conditions.

Then correct them?

Yes, any unnatural condition of the eyes, not caused by disease, he can overcome.

NINE-YEAR-OLD LAD BRUTALLY ASSAULTED

Brockville, Ont., Nov. 1—No change is reported in the condition of Bernard Dooley, the nine-year-old lad, who is in the hospital in a serious condition as the result of a most brutal assault by a man armed with a pocket knife.

Joseph A. Burns is held on remand charged Burns with the case. It is alleged Burns entered the home of the boy's grandparents with the intent to rob, but encountered young Dooley who was confined to his bed with the chicken pox.

SPORTOGRAMS

Albert College, from all accounts were outlucked in their game at Picton on Wednesday, and should be able to take the second game, which will be played at the Old Fair Grounds tomorrow afternoon at three o'clock, by a wide margin. Points count on the round, and as the score in Picton was seven to five, the College should have little trouble in winning the fray by enough to give them the league championship.

Albert has a snappy Rugby team, they are heavy and they are in good condition, which tells the story of their victory in winning their half of the schedule from the Belleville Collegiate. In Purchase, the Albert quarter, is a potential "big leaguer" when he leaves the prep school and goes on to college. If the Albert team comes through with a victory by three or more points tomorrow, they will travel west, probably to Cobourg, to meet that town's representatives. It is to be hoped they do, for the fact that the college can produce a championship Rugby team will help the school itself greatly next year. Albert is growing steadily, but they still need more pupils to make it the preparatory school which it can be. More power to the Green and Gold.

All basketball games in the City Industrial League were postponed Wednesday night because the Gym floor was needed to look after some eight hundred odd youngsters who swarmed all over the building at the Hallowe'en Frolic. These games will likely be played some Monday night in the near future.

An organization meeting will be held soon to discuss the City Indoor Baseball League problem for the winter. Several of the teams which were in the K.D. League this summer have expressed their wish to be entered in the City League this winter, and if more come in it may be necessary to run two leagues.

Hildegarde Carballeria, a Spanish child prodigy of Madrid, has completed the school work for her bachelor of arts degree at the age of 11 years.

IRISH COLORS NOT LUCKY FOR PRINCE

London, Nov. 1.—Colors of the Irish Free State failed to bring luck to the Prince of Wales in the horse race at El Doret, Kenya colony, Africa, according to word received here. The Prince won two races, however. The colors were presented to him by the daughter of Thomas O'Shea, leading Sein Feiner in Ireland in 1919.

LAD CHARGED WITH SHOOTING BROTHER

Three Year Old Child Is Injured By Truck-Country Club's Big Year

YOUNG CHILD HIT BY LOCAL TRUCK

Suffered Painful Injuries But Serious Results Not Anticipated

PARENTS BOTH ILL

Father In Hospital From War Complaint—Mother Ill At Home

While the father sick in the Bellevi's Hospital suffering from an old complaint acquired during the war, while he served with the Canadian Forces and the mother ill at her home from influenza, relatives of the family of James Shephard, of 97 Station St. The growing blue full yesterday afternoon about four o'clock when the little three year old son, George was struck by a truck in front of their home and badly injured.

Walter Rose, driving east on Station St. failed to see the boy and ran over him as he came from the driveway beside the house, and before he could bring his car to a stop, had struck the child, who stood in the road, paralyzed with fear and unable to move. He was thrown high in the air and to the front of the car, coming to the pavement with a terrific impact, while the car passed over him, luckily none of the wheels touching the body.

Severe Injuries

Dr. Cronk was called, who, after a hurried examination had the child removed to the Bellevile Hospital where an X-ray was taken. It was found that he had suffered one badly fractured rib, apparently where the car first struck him, and severe bruises all over his body. The knees and elbows especially were badly bruised and scuffed with reckless driving. Five witnesses to the accident state that he was not watching the road but was looking across the street to where another car was parked. He was remanded for one week this morning by Magistrate Millet, at the end of which time he will answer the charge. The brakes, when tested by the police, were found to be in satisfactory condition.

LIBRARY GROWS IN GENERAL USE

Every Department Showing a Gratifying Increase In Popularity

There were 1111 more books loaned to the past month of October than in October of last year, and 2,000 more members joined in the month, according to the regular report of Mr. Mowat Llewellyn, to the Library Board which met last night. There is now a total active membership of 2587. The list states that 8583 books were used by the patrons of the Library during the month. Of these 7060 were adult and 1288 were juvenile, with 12.1 per cent of the total from non-fiction shelves. One hundred and twenty-seven books were added during the month.

The English department of the College has supplied a list of approximately four hundred standard books recommended for supplementary reading. These have been gathered together in a special section, so that they may be readily available for the students.

Y'S MEN HEARD M'LAURIN TALK

Speaker Presented With Full Membership In Club As Compliment

P. C. MacLaurin was the speaker at the weekly luncheon of the Y's Mens Club last night, and delivered a fine address on "Educating Y's Men in War work". Mr. MacLaurin stressed the fact that the Y's Mens Club was at all times training the young men who were members for leadership in the community. "The leaders of today are the head of yesterday" declared the speaker, "and this club will in the coming years turn out a goodly percentage of leaders into this community.

Mr. MacLaurin was then given a full membership into the Y's Mens Club, the presentation being made by George Pauley, president of the Club, in recognition of the great help he has been to the formation of the club in Belleville and for the manner in which he has helped at any time that he was able.

The Misses Luscombe then favored with a piano solo and vocal solo, after which the members practised some of the selections which they will give Sunday evening at Holloway Street Church. Well over thirty of the members will be present to take over the duties of the Choir at the above church Sunday evening, while a quartette, and several solos will also be rendered. The speaker next week will be Col. Barragar, of Queen Mary School.

PRINCE HENRY HEADS MISSION TO JAPAN

Tokio, November 3.—It is reliably learned that Prince Henry, third son of King George, will head a mission to Japan early next year to present the Order of the Garter to Emperor Hirohito.

It is recalled that Prince Arthur of Connaught came to Japan on a similar mission after the Russo-Japanese war to bestow the same order upon the Emperor's grandfather, the late Mikado, there is a hospital, store, and Emperor Meiji.

START BUILDING EARLY IN WEEK

Building operations on the New Queen's Hotel addition will commence on Monday or Tuesday, when a large gang of men will be put to work digging the foundations. It was also informed the Press today that the preliminary work of digging the cellar will be completed before the cement will be done by day work and already a large number of men have made application for work.

When the foundations are complete and the walls will let out by contract and the work will then be rushed to early completion. A president remark about the city today had it that the Quinte Hotel was also planning an addition but the story was absolutely refuted by those in authority at the latter Hotel.

ROUMANIAN PREMIER QUITS

HOOVER'S POLICY IS HIGHER TARIFF

Urges More Protection For The Farmer To Lift Depression

FORM FARM BOARD

Favors Immediate Building of St. Lawrence Deep Waterways

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 3.—Herbert Hoover, Republican candidate for President, last night included "more effective" protection for American farm products. He was outlining his scheme to meet that agricultural depression which in the Middle West has played so prominent a part in the Presidential campaign.

The focal point of his speech was the creation of a Federal Farm Board. The board would be composed of men in sympathy with agriculture. It would be clothed with the broadest powers to determine facts, causes and remedies.

The board would be authorized to assist in the further development of co-operative marketing; in the development of clearing-houses for agricultural products, and of adequate warehousing facilities; in the elimination of waste in agriculture; in the solution of other problems as they arose.

Stabilize Prices

In particular the board would build up, with advances of capital from the Government, farmer-owned and farm co-controlled stabilizing corporations, which "would protect the farmer from depressions and the demoralization of summer and periodic surpluses."

"It is proposed," Mr. Hoover said, "that the board should have placed at its disposal such ample appropriations as are necessary to make its action effective.

St. Lawrence Waterway

And, as further factors in the solution of the farm problem, Mr. Hoover emphasized the necessity of adequate protection for agriculture and the speedy development of a great system of inland waterways, of which the St. Lawrence waterway scheme would be a part, giving cheap transportation outlets to the sea.

PRESIDENT OF E. B. EDDY CO. DEAD

G. H. Millen Was One of Leading Industrialists of Ontario

Ottawa, Nov. 3.—George Henry Millen, president of the E. B. Eddy Company, died today, aged 70. He was one of the leading industrialists of Ottawa and Hull.

Beginning as a mill-wright, earning 58 a week he climbed steadily up the scale until he was head of one of the greatest industries in the country. A personal friend of the late John R. Booth, lumber king, of Ottawa, he was of much the same character. Born in United States he came to Canada at the instance of E. B. Eddy, founder of the Eddy concern.

CHILD DIES FROM BURNS

Kitchener, Ont., Nov. 3—Helen Mar Stall, 3-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Marshall, died at her home near Crosshill today from burns sustained yesterday when she stood too close to a kitchen stove, her clothing catching fire.

NO OPPOSITION

General Gerardo Morales

who was re-elected president of Cuba on Thursday in an election in which he was unopposed at the polls. Though there are divergent political elements in Cuba, General Machadc was agreed upon several months prior to the national elections as the candidate of each of them. Actual re-election of President Machado will take place in manner similar to that employed by the United States Electoral College when the "compromise arties Presidenciales" sits in April. He will be inaugurated at noon May 20, 1929, for a term of six years.

COUNTRY CLUB'S YEAR BEST EVER

Shareholders Hear of Profits And Expansion At Annual Meeting

SUGGEST 18 HOLES

New Directors Meet Next Wednesday To Elect a President

At the shareholders meeting of the Bay of Quinte Country Club, held at the clubhouse last night, reports were presented showing the most successful year in the Club's history both from the financial and playing standpoint. Despite the wonderful improvements made during the year there is a net profit of $650.00 after setting aside $450.00 to be applied to the reduction of the mortgage and interest. The result of the year's activities was a pleasant surprise to the members.

Directors for the coming year will be Messrs. Geo. Graham, G. A. C. Weir, R. D. Ponton, G. Sinclair, T. P. J. Powers, R. J. Wray, O. A. Parfitt and Dockers G. Stobbit and W. Chalmers. The new directors will take place in manner similar to that employed by the United States Electoral College when the "compromise arties Presidenciales" sits in April. He will be inaugurated at noon May 20, 1929, for a term of six years.

SUGGEST 18 HOLES

It was suggested that the directors consider the advisability of laying out 18 holes. This matter did not get beyond the stage of talk and Dr. Hudson, chairman of the grounds committee, urged that the present course be improved and extended into a permanent first-class nine hole course before arranging to add the other nine holes.

The club now has three hundred members so that a waiting list has been opened which is also another sign of the club's popularity and success. Contrary to general expectations, the dining room service turned in a profit of about $450.00 instead of being run at a loss which is usual in country clubs. Mr. G. K. Graham, Chairman of the House Committee, was warmly complimented on the showing for the year.

TALK HYDRO POWER NEXT MONDAY NIGHT

Prince of Wales School, on Monday night, will witness a meeting of members of that community to discuss matters with regard to the Hydro Electric Contract demands. The committee and Mr. J. Hill, M.P.P., are expected to be in attendance as this is an important meeting.

MANY BABIES AT FRIDAY'S CLINIC

Belleville Mothers Anxious To Learn To Care For Children's Health

There were three new babies at the Clinic yesterday afternoon, held in the Council room at the City Hall. The favorable weather brought a large number of the mothers with their babies. Thirty-six children under nine pre-school children in all were examined by Dr. Morgan and Miss Spot. Cases of defective vision were noted by Miss Scott. Babies of all sizes were there, and ranged in ages from a few weeks to six years. One pair of twin babies was in evidence.

The children were weighed, and their height from the previous week duly recorded. The mothers received helpful instruction in the care of their young. At the close of the session the mothers were served with a cup of tea and cake. It augurs well for the future of the juvenile population that these clinics are so well attended.

PLANE CRASHED IN LONELY WOODED SPOT

Chico, Cal., Nov. 3—Power station at de Sabla, twenty miles from here, reported that the missing Portland-San Francisco passenger plane with six passengers and two pilots crashed in heavily timbered mountainous country near there. Two persons are reported badly injured and rescuers have been rushed to the scene.

CHILD FACES HIS TRAGEDY ALONE

Harry Henley, Nearly Thirteen, Charged With Killing His Brother

A BRIGHT YOUNGSTER

Is Placed Under Care of Capt. T. D. Ruston At The Shelter

Charged with killing his brother, little Harry Henley just going on thirteen years of age is being held at the detention room at the children's aid shelter. The lad made a brief appear ance in police court this morning to hear the charge read but was immediately remanded until next Wednesday. In the meanwhile Crown Attorney B. C. Donnan left for Toronto to day to confer with Attorney General Price as to what course the law will take. While Harry will be confined to the detention room at the Shelter he will be under the kindly care of Captain T. D. Ruston.

The small prisoner was a pitiable figure when he was brought to Belleville by the Provincial Police last evening. Sergeant Clarke drove up to Millbridge during the afternoon and brought the lad in just as he was, rather dirty, dressed in ragged clothing and evidently appalled at what he had done in a fit of temper. He was given in charge of the Children's Aid, and was taken away a little so that this morning in Police Court he made a more attractive appearance. He is a small boy for his age but looks bright. He seems to have progressed fairly well at school being in the third book in spite of more or less interruption and attendance.

Child Is All Alone

Neither father or mother accompanied the child to Belleville. They are no doubt fully occupied with the elder boy's funeral which takes place at Millbridge this afternoon and besides they were not in a position to attend to it. So young Harry, still a child, faces his tragedy alone.

While the charge against Harry is virtually manslaughter and it is understood that he has given a full confession the authorities have a difficult problem on their hands. It is possible that Harry will be sent to the house of correction until he is twenty-one if he is convicted and then released under parole. Every effort will be made to see that he turns into a useful citizen if at all possible.

There is no doubt that the youngster was playing with loaded rifle when a Police Court this morning it was apparent that he had spent a good part of the night in crying and by those who have him in charge he talks of little else. That the grip of the law is being made as kindly as possible. It is felt that perhaps the child has not had a fair chance possibly as his parents are in poor circumstances and there is a large family to care for.

GOOD PRICE FOR EGGS ON MARKET

Attendance Poor Owing To Weather—Prices All Held Up

It was a poor market today, but eggs were selling at no price for a poor man's purse. Sixty cents the dozen was being asked, and one or two were even suggesting sixty-five cents the dozen. Butter's price did not fluctuate and was [illegible] cents the two pound roll, but chicken appeared to be slightly cheaper, some offered at the low price of $1.10 the pair.

In the line of vegetables, potatoes were ninety cents the bushel, onions were ten cents each, celery ten cents, seventy-five cents the peck, turnips, 75 cents the bushel and carrots twenty-five cents a peck. Celery was five and ten cents the bunch, while apples were rather poor looking ones, varied in price.

BOTH SIDES ARE SURE OF VICTORY

Leaders In The Presidential Race End Their Campaigns Tonight

New York, Nov. 3—As United States presidential campaign draws to a close both sides are claiming a sweeping victory for the final day of the fighting is the most bitter in doubtful states, such as the east states bordering on the north are due to the far west. Prohibition, religion and tariff are hurled back and forth in a mad jamboree of electioneering.

The Republican campaign was brought to a climax by President Coolidge's message of confidence to Herbert Hoover, who is now on his way to his home in California to await the result of the vote.

Governor Smith, Democrat, is spending the day in his home in his home state. New York, and is making few speeches. The campaign for both candidates practically ends with speeches tonight.

WORK STARTED ON UPPER DAM

Of New England Power Ass'n; Make Lake 12 Miles Long

Littleton, N.H.—Work on the huge upper dam of the New England Power Association, which will impound 79 billion gallons of water and create a lake 12 miles long and will cost approximately $40,000,000, will be started early next summer, according to S. C. Moore, vice president and general manager of the association. Many were of the opinion that the upper dam would not be started until the lower dam at Monroe and Barnet was completed.

The dam at the so-called upper development will be 175 feet in height and the length of the crest will be 1,309 feet. It will be 820 feet above sea level. The water at the power house will be conducted through penstocks 21 feet in diameter and about 150,000 horsepower will be turned out.

Rapid progress is noted at the lower development. Coffer dams are now being put in and, over 800 men are now employed. This number will be increased as soon as possible to 4,000 who will be employed for several years on both the lower and upper project. In about two weeks the five miles of railroad will be completed. This runs from Lyndon to the C.P.R. to the lower dam site at Monroe and Barnet. The road will be extended further up the valley to Littleton and Waterford and will make a permanent standard gauge railroad of about 20 miles. It will be one of the longest stretches built in New England for some time.

A large village, which will be the sixth in size in Vermont, is now being built at Barnet. In addition to barracks in use in Vermont, is now being hearing plants, etc. Lester V. Branch, who put in the Conowingo project, is the resident manager.

TROPICAL MUSHROOM GROWS IN NEW YORK

New York, N.Y.—A curious orange-and-white mushroom, native to South America, has bobbed up at the New York Botanical Garden in Bronx Park. It is called the "Stinkhorn" because of an offensive odor.

This is the second known discovery of the fungus in the western hemisphere, says Dr. Fred J. Seaver, curator of fungi.

"How the fungus gets to this country can only be surmised," Dr. Seaver says. "Perhaps it comes in ship's board, the spores being transported on plants. But this theory does not fit the case of inland Pennsylvania.

"At an early stage the mushroom looks like a small puffball. Then the puffball bursts open, and at the fruiting stage the fungus elongates and consists of a stem with three or four arms united at the top and covered with dark-colored spores.

"The odor is thought to be a device of nature's to attract insects, who eat the slimy material on which the spores are bedded, and carry the spores around on their feet, distributing the fungus. The insects attracted are flies that feed on flesh."

Silver chains or other silver jewelry can be kept bright by boiling up frequently in aluminum pans. Shine with a chamois.

Gurney Arcadia

This range embodies many features and conveniences which may be found in the larger Gurney Ranges. Fitted with either flat or duplex grates, the deep fire-box provides a good oven heat at low fuel cost and a minimum of attention. The flue passages completely around the 18-inch oven, insuring no cold spots in it. The oven door, fitted with a thermometer, drops flush with the bottom of the oven, forming a convenient shelf for basting and other similar uses. The cooking top is supplied with either six 8-inch covers or four 9-inch covers.

RADIO NEWS

Program of radio entertainment from the Providence Journal: 6:30 p.m. Baseball scores. 7 Lucky 4 Girls Rhythm. Ealm in a twelve." What is the use of trying to eliminate static when they are actually broadcasting at this year! We surrender right now.

When WRNY went on a regular schedule, August 12 last, with television, a tremendous amount of interest was created immediately in business quarters. One leading department store rent its representative to the station, to find out if it were possible to televise a fashion review which the store was sponsoring. The management was told that, unfortunately, this is not as yet possible, because the set has not progressed sufficiently and, even if it had, there are not yet enough television receivers to make it worth while to put on such a review.

Fans who have radio receivers using the old-type non-illuminated vernier dials are often faced with the problem of lighting the front panel of their sets. In this connection it should be pointed out that an inexpensive yet neat panel light may be made from a standard brass drawer-pull, a 6-volt, 6-candle-power automobile lamp and a piece of sheet brass.

The first step in the construction is to cut a mounting plate out of a piece of sheet brass; the mounting plate should have the same width as the drawer pull, and should be about one inch high. Three holes must be drilled in the mounting plate; two have a diameter of 1-8-inch and are located in the lower corners, so that they correspond to the holes in the drawer pull, and the third has a diameter of 11-16-inch and is located in the center of the plate. Nothing are filed on opposite sides of the large hole, to allow the pins of the lamp to pass through. Next, holes identical with those in the plate are drilled in the panel of the receiver; the mounting plate may be used as a template.

The outstanding electrical advantage of the electrodynamic speaker unit over other designs is found in the fact that the forces on the moving coil are dependent only upon the current in that coil. The magnetic field of the speaker is of great strength and the coil in the field has no effect upon the reproduction. Also, there is no iron armature to saturate. These facts result in complete freedom from distorting harmonics introduced by the speaker itself.

A transformer is a device for transferring electrical energy from one alternating-current circuit to another, and for changing the voltage from one value to another. The usual transformer consists of two coils of wire bound on an iron or steel core. The coil through which the current is supplied to the transformer is called the "primary", and the coil from which the electrical power is taken is called the "secondary." The alternating current traveling through the wire in the primary causes the iron core to become magnetized. This produces a varying magnetic field in the core, and because of the movement of this field, a corresponding voltage and electrical current is produced in the secondary by "electromagnetic induction."

Directions included with tubes by S. S. Kresge Co.: "It is essential that a grid battery be used, otherwise the tubes and the loud speaker will probably be turned out." Oh, Mr. Tube, have pity on a poor old speaker, who has no other place to lay his diaphragm, and don't drive him out into the cold.—Anonymous.

Thousands Of Mothers Use No Other Medicine

Baby's Own Tablets Are the Ideal Remedy for Babies and Young Children

Canadian mother are noted for the care they give their little one—the health of the baby is most jealously guarded and the mother is always on the lookout for a remedy which is efficient and at the same time absolute by safe. Thousands of mothers have found such a remedy in Baby's Own Tablets and many of them use nothing else for the ailments of their little ones. Among them is Mrs. Howard King, of Truro, N.S., who says:—"I can strongly recommend Baby's Own Tablets to mothers of young children as I know of nothing to equal them for little ones."

Baby's Own Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

MASQUERADE PARTY.

A masquerade party was held at St. Thomas' Church last night, and a most successful evening was the result. There was a large number in attendance, and dancing in the Parish Hall was greatly enjoyed by all.

CONDITION MUCH BETTER.

The condition of Master Roy Cooke who was hurt in an automobile accident, recently and taken to the Belleville General Hospital, is greatly improved today, it was stated. Roy's condition for a short time was considered to be critical.

HUNTING TRIP

Messrs. F. Domenico, R. L. Zufelt, J. Thompson, P. Orlando, Swartz and S. Turner will be leaving on Saturday for Grimsthorp Lake for their annual hunting trip. The party expect to make the trip in one day. S. Turner will be looking after the boys to see that they are well fed while they are away. The party expect to remain the full two weeks.

VETERANS PARTY

Last evening a delightful euchre and dance was held at Veteran's Memorial Hall and proved a most successful affair with a large number in attendance. Following the euchre refreshments were served and dancing was then continued and continued till an early hour. Reg. Brockhurst's Ace High orchestra furnished excellent music. Prize winners at euchre were as follows:—Ladies: first, Mrs. Jordan; second, Mrs. Simpson; Consolation, Mrs. Trottier. Men's: first, Mr. Simpson; second, Mr. Bradshaw; consolation, Mr. Lidster.

HEARD JACK DEACON.

The reception was rather poor on the local radios last night, but several citizens tuned in on CFCA, Toronto, and heard Mr. John Deacon, Belleville's tenor, accompanied by Mr. Leslie Hodgins. "Drink to Me Only with Thine Eyes," and a dainty spirit ual "Water Boy" were two of the num bers which came through the air quite distinctly.

RECOVERING FROM ACCIDENT

Splendid progress is being made by Miss Hattie Harvie, a student of Ontario Business College, whom, it will be remembered, was sent to the Belleville General Hospital as a result of a motor car accident 12 days ago, recently.

It is expected that she will be able to leave the hospital in a few days to resume her studies at the college although the break in her shoulder is not completely knit as yet.

CHANGES IN DIRECTORS

The Deacon Shirt Co., Ltd., announces that Mr. Fred H. Deacon and Mr. E. Reginald Hinchey have been added to the Board of Directors. Mr. Fred H. Deacon will be Vice-President and Director of Sales and Mr. E. R. Hinchey will be Director of Manufacturing Department. Mr. Fred H. Deacon has been a Director for some time and has been representing the firm in Toronto, Western Ontario, and the Western Provinces, but, will now have charge of the sales organization. Mr. E. R. Hinchey has been connected with the firm for the past 23 years and by strict attention to business carned a well merited recognition.

HUDSON SUPER 6

A thrilling NEW DISCOVERY in performance—and in value

"It made a Hudson owner of me."

"It changed my whole idea of motor values."

"It showed me that high price is not necessary to own a great car."

Thousands of riders talking like this. A great Hudson program of personal demonstration brought these values home with the impact of a new discovery.

Even those who owned and admired Hudson Super-Sixes of previous issue, have no conception of the superlative quality expressed both mechanically and in body beauty of the great Hudsons of today.

The extraordinary speed of Hudson getaway is but a single expression of the brilliant activity of the New Hudson Super-Six, which is carried on to every phase of performance. And with it a gasoline efficiency that alters all previous standards.

A single ride will explain why this has been the most enthusiastically accepted Hudson ever built.

Social and Personals

Mr. Walter Gerow has returned after a two days' visit to Bancroft.

Miss Margaret Graves of Picton, will be a guest at the Donahue-O'Neill social which takes place in Hamilton on Monday.

Mr. Arthur Donahue left today for Hamilton to attend the wedding of his brother, Clarence Donahue, to Miss Anna O'Neill formerly of this city.

Mrs. Ernest Summers left for her home in Toronto after visiting her parents and friends in the city for the past three weeks.

LAYMEN TO ADDRESS HOLLOWAY CHURCH

At Holloway Street Church to-morrow evening there will be held one of the most interesting services celebrated in this year. It might be called a "Layman's Service, for three well-known local men are to each give ten-minute addresses. The addresses will be: given by Messrs Harry Ackerman, W. J. Graham and A. D. Archibald, a member of the High School staff.

An unique feature of the service will be the rendition of thirty members of the local Y's Men's Club in the choir. There will be a special quartette to render selections, and also be several soloists.

The response to the Reference library's request about 250 books ending with Canadian Topics were placed at it's disposal of the public has been very gratifying, not only these books but from adults as well. On two occasions students have been permitted to use on or two of these books after the late as eleven o'clock, in order that they may take advantage of the books and also to compensate for the fact that the material is not loaned for use at home until after book week.

PRETTY GIRLS WILL HELP ON "POPPY" DAY

Next Saturday will be Poppy Day and already preparations are rapidly being completed for a big drive in Belleville. The cards for display purposes were on sale in the city this morning and the windows of the various merchants in the city will soon carry the appeal for help for crippled soldiers, the wives and children of men who lost their lives overseas and other philanthropic work.

A number of the city's prettiest girls will be enlisted for service and this year it is expected that one of the best drives ever held will be put over with complete success.

MODERN DRAMA STUDY COURSES

Librarian A. Mowat Institutes Interesting Classes At Library

Two study groups to include both sexes, have been planned by Mr. A. Mowat, librarian at the County Public Library. These are to consist of representatives from the Collegiate, from the Public Schools and from Albert College, chosen at the discretion of the Principals, and from the local press. for the purpose of studying modern drama in conjunction with the extension department of Queen's University. Each group is to cohsist of not more than ten members, to facilitate the problem of individual attention. There will be no charge for this series of studies other than a group collection for any literature that may be required. The meetings are to be held in the library rooms, each group to meet once a week.

As this is the only study course of this nature in Belleville, which is studying extra mural work as a group it is expected to make an instant appeal to those who are eager to improve their literary learning. In the event that these meetings are successful the groups will expand or new groups will be formed to include branches of science.

The Library Board has approved of this experiment, and the first meeting will be held on Monday evening, November 5th, when Professor Roy of Queen's University will be the speaker.

PRESENTATION MADE TO VALUED EMPLOYEE

Mrs. W. M. Doyle was the recipient of a purse of gold from the management and fellow employees, of the Intelligencer, on the occasion of her leaving the staff after the completion of nine years there.

Mr. L. Hill, superintendent, in making the presentation expressed the regret felt by Mrs. Doyle's fellow workers in parting with her. Mrs. Doyle graciously accepted the gift, and reciprocated the feeling of regret.

BASKETBALL

Belleville's first game in the Bay of Quinte Girls' Inter-Collegiate Basket Ball League was played last evening at Deseronto. The evening's work proved very successful as both B. C. I. Seniors and Juniors won over the Deseronto teams with a score 17-14 in the Senior game, and 30-8 in the Junior game.

The Junior game was played first with Belleville going basket after basket from the minute the starting whistle blew till the end of the game.

The play was fast and B. C. I. Juniors showed skill in competent passing.

The Senior game was more evenly matched and the Deseronto girls work hard to keep down Bellville's score. The score was a very close one and interest was kept throughout the game.

It is to be hoped that both B. C. I. Seniors and Juniors carry on the good work of last evening in the league games that are to follow.

After the game dainty refreshments were served to the teams. A large number from Belleville attended the games

The Literary Society are again purchasing the Christmas Cards which will be for sale in a few weeks. The purchase of the piano for the new auditorium has not yet been made owing to the difference of opinion in make. Plans for the editing of the Spectator are again under way and we hope to make this year's edition larger and more creditable than ever. A meeting for all those interested in the "Elevator" will be held at a later date to be set by the "Elevator" staff.

You are as welcome as the commercial traveller at the Antiseptic Barber Shop, Hotel Quinte, managed by J. M. Spiker.

The Literary Society is very proud of its new "board room." It is at the southern end of the school and on the second floor, room 202. There are also large cupboards and several desks. We hope the members of the Literary Society will remember to come up to our new room for the next meeting.

Try William Clarke for the best cut meats and pork sausages.

The Junior and Senior Basketball teams played in Deseronto on Friday night. The Rawson bus line was the means of transportation to Deseronto. At first it was thought that the Girls' would not enter a team in the Bay of Quinte League. The lights were installed in the Gym and the girls formed two teams, they decided to enter a team and they played their first scheduled game in Deseronto. Two weeks from Friday, on Nov. 16, the Girls' Athletic will entertain the Napanee team in the new Collegiate. They will play two games with the visitors and afterwards there will be some refreshments served by the girls and a dance. The Girls' Athletic Society have a lot of expenses this year and they could appreciate it if you would come and cheer the team on to victory. We should give them our support, they are certainly worthy of it!

For prompt service in gas and oil try Lloyd and Evans, corner Dundas and Front Streets; Coleman and Bridge Streets.

See "Waterfront" at the Capitol Theatre also professional vaudeville.

Shooting has started in the new shooting gallery of the Collegiate. This is carried on under the supervision of Capt. Howard twice a week. The turn has been chosen and they are asked to come to practice regularly. There are going to be two teams this year and we hope to make it the best yet. The team will shoot in the near future for the Laura Secord Trophy.

Picton is playing Albert College this afternoon on the Old Fair Grounds. On Wednesday Picton defeated Albert, but this afternoon the college boys are determined to reverse it. With such players as Yousil, Mayhew, Jenkins and Posthaus they will be hard to beat. The winner of this game will play Peterboro Collegiate for the right to represent Eastern Ontario in the inter-scholastic play-offs.

The annual Old Boy's rugby game will be held on Thanksgiving day. This is an annual event and this year the team will do their best to defeat their former colleagues.

The Night School Classes have already begun. They will be held every Tuesday and Thursday in the New Collegiate. People who wish to take courses but are unable to do so during the day will have a great opportunity.

WESLEY THE KEY TO NEW WORLD

Founder of Methodism One of Greatest of Englishmen

London, Nov. 3— One key toward an understanding of twentieth century America is the life and character of John Wesley, said Premier Baldwin a grandson of a Wesleyan clergyman, at a meeting at the Mansion House which celebrated the 150th anniversary of the founding of Wesley's chapel in City Road, London, the mother church of 100,000 Methodist churches, principally in the United States and the British Empire.

The Prime Minister and the Archbishop of Canterbury were the principal speakers at the rally.

A Great Gentleman

Mr. Baldwin said Wesley was one of the greatest Englishmen who ever lived, and that "historians who filled the pages with Napoleon in writing of the nineteenth century and had nothing to say of John Wesley, now realize that they cannot explain eighteenth century England unless they can explain Wesley, and I believe you cannot understand twentieth century America unless you understand him, in that great country ten per cent. of the people are Methodists."

Both the Prime Minister and the Archbishop stressed the point that it was not in the founding of a religious organization that Wesley was greatest.

Practical Religion

"Wesley's supreme legacy, as I see it," said Premier Baldwin, "was his conception of practical religion for the ordinary man and woman. The younger Pitt once said, 'England is not to be saved by any one man.' That is true, but if any one man stood between England and the monstrous upheavals of the continent it was John Wesley, a spiritual descendant of the Friars themselves.

"To Wesley Christianity was primarily a way of life, and not an organization."

Charged Nation's Outlook

The Archbishop of Canterbury said it was not too much to say Wesley had changed the whole character and outlook of the British nation. He thought that the various Methodist sects in Great Britain were now uniting, and he saw unification as a step toward the reunion of Christendom for which appeal was made at the Lambeth Conference.

Crowds thronged the services in Wesley's historic chapel, where the pulpit and other relics of the "evangelical centaur" are cherished.

The anniversary is the occasion for a campaign of $25,000, half to be raised in England and half in the United States, for completing the restoration of the building and enlargement of the church work now carried on there.

Great Skill And Daring Showing By Privateers In War Of 1812

While our Gentleman Adventurers of the Seas were picking up rich prizes off Boston Light, theirs were doing the same by us off Halifax.

By William Arthur Deacon

Squarely on the middle hatch of fallen swag. At two her crew took to their oars, and after three hours rowing were abreast again. Starting a bombardment, the Matilda only succeeded in bringing militiamen from shore aboard the Loyal Sam, now within a mile of the Light and drifting rapidly. It was a case for risking all by boarding.

The Sir John Sherbrooke, too far away for identification during the day, and but sight of during the firing had followed tenaciously from the seaward side; and her men swarmed aboard the Loyal Sam at the same moment as the Matilda's men, to meet them halfway across the deck. Between the crew and passengers of the Loyal Sam there were forty persons to be removed from her, including several founded; and Joseph Freeman, captain of the Sir John Sherbrooke, proposed that the Matilda take half. Not daring to appear less than a full partner, Burkett took them. Besides he had only one barrel of flour. Yet with a dying breeze the Matilda had no one starved. When the Matilda's

McLagan Cabinet No. 2 $145.00. Illustrated. A Cabinet of exceptional beauty.

The Sir John Sherbrooke, too far away for identification during the day, and but sight of during the firing had followed tenaciously from the seaward side; and her men swarmed aboard the Loyal Sam at the same moment as the Matilda's men, to meet them halfway across the deck. Between the crew and passengers of the Loyal Sam there were forty persons to be removed from her, including several founded; and Joseph Freeman, captain of the Sir John Sherbrooke, proposed that the Matilda take half. Not daring to appear less than a full partner, Burkett took them. Besides he had only one barrel of flour. Yet with a dying breeze the Matilda had no one starved. When the Matilda's anchored at Digby a week later, completing her first cruise, she brought in with her two American sloops of nearly double her size, captured on the way home.

Such is one of the incidents of the part played by privateersmen of the Maritime provinces of Canada in the War of 1812, which Mr. C. H. J. Snider has collected to fill a lively volume called "Under the Red Jack" (Macmillan; illustrated, $6). There are thirty-seven active Canadian privateers in all, ranging in size from Sir John Sherbrooke, carrying eighteen 9 pounders, and a complement of 150 men, to the Crown, smallest of the fighting ships. She was less than forty feet long, her deck was only thirty inches out of the water and her square stern so narrow that the tiller crowded the helmsman against the bulwarks. Her armament consisted of one 3 pounder.

The privateer sometimes fought until the ship sank, but not often. His position was peculiar. He had no navy to avenge him. The ship was fitted out at the expense of individuals, and received from the government letters-of-marque and reprisal," authorizing it to prey upon enemy commerce for personal profit. Payment of a bond of 1,500 was required to secure good conduct; and whatever vessels were taken had to be brought in for inspection and judgment before a prize court. If the seizure was found legitimate, the Admiralty "condemned" the captive and ordered her sold, the price the ship and cargo realized, less court expenses, was handed over to the captors—usually about two years after the event. Of this sum, the owner, who bore all the expenses, got half, the crew the other half among them.

The navy resented bitterly this irregular assistance. In 1804, Nelson said: "The conduct of all privateers is, as far as I have seen, so near piracy that I can only wonder any civilized nation can allow them." Mr. Snider claims that the cause of the navy's hatred was the competition the privateers offered in winning prize money. The crews of the privateers, he author says, were of better stuff than he average man-of-warsmen," because the privateers were volunteers while the navy hands were impressed into service. Further, the latter had no way to find one instance of cruelty, of wanton robbery, of insult to women, or of wanton slaughter, chargeable to the privateersmen of the Maritimes in the War of 1812.

The big Sherbrooke was withdrawn after a few trips and put back at freighting, which took only one quarter the men and paid better. Smaller vessels, at less expense and risk, were the more satisfactory sea-rovers. In that venture was most profitable and most effective as warfare.

Privateermen on both sides were brave and often gallant foes. It was common practice of flying enemy colors and wearing enemy uniforms, in order to sneak up on a victim unawares, does not show the business in its most favorable light. Nor are the numbers and sizes of the catches as great a matter for pride as the ratio of one vessel to another. Built for speed, privateermen were armed, and in relation to their size carried far heavier crews than the fat merchantmen they chased. The frequent helplessness of the freighters to defend from the fact that attacks on them were often made by six to twelve men in a rowboat sent out from the privateering ship.

The danger came from the proximity of enemy warships. Freighters remained as well as they could within reach of land forts and men-of-war. And as they must congregate at their chief ports, the privateers took to hanging about these busy spots, which were also the places of greatest danger. The Canadians swarmed around Boston, Portland and Salem, while the Americans lingered hopefully in front of Halifax.

The Liverpool Packet was the first Canadian privateer to be commissioned. Originally a Spanish slaver, she was of the pilot-boat model, fifty-three feet four inches from stem to stern, eighteen feet, eleven inches beam and six feet six in the hold. She was put to sea as a privateer, with a crew of forty-five men on November 24, 1812, and returned on December 21st, to find twenty-one prizes, for which the Admiralty paid 101,814, making about $40,000 net profit for the owners, and $1,000 for each man aboard. The plumpest prize was the Columbia, which brought £4,771. She was the last one taken on that cruise, and the Liverpool Packet had had "to stand right in in the flicker of the Chatham Lights to get her."

This little ship overhauled more than a hundred enemy vessels, of which she got fifty before prize courts; of which forty-four were condemned and sold. Americans estimated the total damage she did to their shipping at 1,000,000 but Mr. Snider thinks the figure around $262,500. On June 11, 1813, she was captured and sent to sea as an American privateer. On the 5th of October she was recaptured by the Shannon, and on November 9th bid it again by Enos Collins and his partner Joseph Allison for £430. She went back to her old trade under Caleb Seely as captain, who in four days captured vessels and carried valued at $100,000. He had her out eleven months and would only have come home then he ran out of rum—the drain being the number used as prize crews to take the booty home. Some he had to burn as he could not man them; and he came back with only twenty of the crew on his ship. Besides the resolution and seamanship of her master and men, speed was the great factor in the Liverpool Packett's success. Thus on a certain Sunday, "practically under the bows guns of the United States brigs-of-war Argus and Enterprise," she captured the American schooner Lydia at Halfway Rock off Portland, Maine and on the Monday she was 250 miles distant on the Vineyard Sound where she captured the Consolation and Elizabeth.

Stories of this kind, gathered from the original documents with care, and told in sprightly fashion, make up the entertaining "Under the Red Jack." The volume is a noteworthy addition to the series Mr. Snider had done on the naval side of the War of 1812. It will be welcomed, as it is natural that little known historic facts be presented as well as those who relish rousing tales of adventure and derring-do.

Women Of Middle Age

Need Rich, Red Blood to Maintain Good Health

After passing the age of forty every woman has reason to grow anxious about her health. This time of trial with it attacks of faintness and fits of depression, its often violent headaches and back pains is rightly dreaded by many but if reasonable steps are taken to safeguard the health, its sorest ills effects will arise. At this turning point in life Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have given a helping hand to thousands of suffering women who were fighting a hopeless battle against poor health and waning strength.

The very best help for any woman of middle age is the health help given by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These pills reinforce the blood, enriching and purifying it. In doing this they nerves and give new strength and vitality to the whole system. By this natural process Dr. Williams' Pink Pills completely dispel all pains and weakness, and a better, happier condition of health and spirits arises.

Every woman of middle age should take advantage now of the wonderful health-help of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They are sold by all medicine dealers or will be sent by mail at 50 cents a box, by The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

SHANNONVILLE

The ladies of the Melrose Institute had an all-day meeting at the home of Mrs. Walter Morden, on Thursday, for the purpose of sewing for the Children's Shelter in Belleville. An contributed something towards the dinner and two tables were filled at the noon hour. Many pillow slips were made and when they were completed the ladies gathered in the parlor and had their regular monthly meeting. In the absence of the president, Mrs Bert Sherman, the vice-president, Mrs. Sam Sherman, very ably conducted the meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. Luke Murphy, of Queens N.Y., are visiting friends in the village.

Miss Helen Topping, of Marysville, is the guest of Mrs. Jean Kent.

Mrs. Margaret Campbell, of Marysville, called on Mrs. Albert Mark on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Kingsley, of Belleville, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley MacDonald.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Thompson, of Indian Point, are spending a few days at their home here.

Cascara is Your Doctor's Choice

When physicians pronounce cascara the PERFECT laxative—why experiment with things that lash the system into action? Cascara, you know, is candy Cascara; gives us pure cascara, the bark of a tree. A natural and normal stimulus to the bowels.

The Indians, who used to chew this bark, had no word in their language that meant "constipation"!

Perfect regularity is possible today, and to all of us. We have cascara in it has helped at least a million people to habitual regularity. Millions of others, unfortunately, have stuck to stronger things and required only the ideal form; the very delightful-tasting laxative habit.

Your first Cascaret will demonstrate how THOROUGH this gentle laxative is, after all. Your next surprise will be the length of time before you need another. Eventually, you'll see that cascarizing tends to make the bowels move thereafter of their own accord!

A modern drug store must stock many laxatives, but for your own good the druggist would rather have you ask for the irrepressible little box of Cascarets than anything else.

CASCARETS They Work While You Sleep!

PICTON

Mr. Reburn Scott, of Brockville, formerly of Picton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Manly Scott, Paul Street, was quietly married in Brockville on Saturday, October 27, to Miss Margaret Wilkinson, of that place. Mr. and Mrs. Scott are on a honeymoon trip to Toronto and Buffalo and will stop off in Picton on their return to visit his parents and other relatives.

Picton friends extend congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Albert Dunkley. A little daughter was born to them in St. Michael's Hospital, Toronto, on Saturday, Oct. 27.

Prince Edward County friends were shocked to hear of the passing of Mr. Edward Purtelle, at his home, Sunnybrook Lodge, Kingston Road. Although he had reached the advanced age of seventy-eight years he was of sprightly mien and active and had visited Picton and called on old friends within the past month. Surviving are his widow and four sons, Clayton of Bloomfield, Earl and Wilbur of Sophiasburg and Gladstone at home. Interment was in Glenwood on Tuesday.

Guests with Mr. and Mrs. H. Frank Hallover the week-end were Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Parsons and two sons and Mrs. Miller Parsons of Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hill have left for their home at Ramsgate, England, after a very pleasant visit with Mr. Hill's sister, Mrs. Dave Collier.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Clarke, of Lon Lon, Ont., were in town Sunday for the funeral of the late Emory Scott of St. Catharines.

Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Green, Toronto, are guests of Mr. and Mrs. B. A. Bear ish.

Mr. Jos. Solmes went to Bancroft for the funeral of his sister, Mrs. Richard Robbins which took place on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Collver, Mrs. R. E. Collver, Mrs. H. F. Grimmon, Miss Freda Grimmon and Mr. Harry Huff motored to Toronto for over the week-end and attended the Queen's-Varsity game.

Rev. W. S. and Mrs. Smart are receiving old acquaintances at Cherry Valley.

Miss Nellie Rose, one of the most popular members of the younger set, was tendered a shower by the young ladies of Cherry Valley on Monday afternoon. The affair was held at the home of Miss Evelyn Moore. The home was decorated in a pink and white color scheme and many pink and white wedding bells were used throughout the rooms. Forty of Miss Rose's intimate friends were present. On arrival of the bride-to-be, all her friends had gathered and were seated along a pathway, marked by pink and white streamers. A sign on the back of a gaily-decorated chair proclaimed this to be the Rocky Road to Matrimony; and Miss Rose's journey to the chair was indeed "rocky" for the gifts were strewn all over the road.

Little Miss Mary Fergemore, in a dainty dress of pink and white, gathered the gifts and handed them to the bride-to-be, who unwrapped each one, reading the verses attached, and thanking each one personally. The gifts included china, silver, linen, etc.

A dainty lunch was served with Misses Millie Dodds, Eva and Vera Moore assisting the hostess in serving. An enjoyable social time was spent and all joined in wishing Miss Rose many years of happy wedded life.

NAPANEE

Mr. J. Alan Walters, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Walters, East street, who is attending Toronto University, had the honor of being one of the winners of the Inter-Faculty Harrier Race held in Toronto last Saturday.

As a result Mr. Walter will be present at the University in the finals to be held between the University of Toronto, McGill, Queen's and R.M.C. on Saturday of this week.

The members of the Napanee Rotary Club were hosts to hundreds of kiddies at a Halloween Frolic held in the Armouries on Wednesday night. That Hallowe'en is a great night for the children as well as grown ups was demonstrated by the large throng which gathered at the Market square and, led by the Citizens' Band, paraded through the principal streets and then to the Armouries where the fun took place. A large platform had been erected at the west side of the Armouries and among the Rotarians on the platform were L. S. Battle, Wilfred Wilson, U. M. Wilson, R.S. Wahs, L. P. Graham, W. A. Grange and Cyril Wable.

The latter was the director of ceremonies and he proved to be the right man in the right place.

The platform was well bedecked, in Hallowe'en garb and the frolic was witnessed by a large concourse of people. The Rotarians certainly excelled themselves in the many and generous prizes which were given to the kiddies.

Prizes were awarded for best costumes for varying ages for both boys and girls and each group was requested to come to the platform where the judging took place. Then there were contests for eating fried cakes which are no suspended cords, pie eating contests, marshmallow contests and other various forms of amusement. The children certainly had a gay night and the Rotarians are to be warmly commended for the special night given to the kiddies. The festivities came to a close about 10 o'clock.

All Saints' Day was solemnly observed yesterday in St. Patrick's R.C. Church when a large congregation assembled at nine o'clock when a solemn high mass was observed. There was a large throng of people in town and the various stores as a whole were quite busy.

A large truck in backing up at the post office corner on Wednesday completely demolished the hydrant and knocked down Mr. Lee Norris, Dundas street, who happened to be passing. Mr. Norris sustained a few minor bruises only and workmen were busy yesterday putting in a new hydrant.

POINT ANNE

The Ladies Guild of St. John's Church met at the home of Mrs. A. Womens on Thursday.

The Ladies Aid of the United Church met at the home of Mrs. A. Baxters on Thursday.

The Catholic Women's League held a card party and tea on Tuesday afternoon, a large number attended. Mrs. Arthur Long won first prize and Mrs. John Fleming won second prize.

Mr. Frank Cassidy who met with a serious accident on Saturday morning is much improved although he is in a very serious condition yet.

Mr. A. B. Warner and Ira Warner of Rochester were recent callers in Point Anne.

Miss Jennie MacDonald who is suffering in Belleville General Hospital from the effects of a serious operation is somewhat improved.

Miss Mary Palmer, of Point Anne is now employed by the Bell Telephone in Belleville.

The many friends of Mrs. Don MacDonald are sorry to hear that she is in Belleville General Hospital with pneumonia.

Mr. and Mrs. John Bulbert, motored to Toronto last week.

Mr. and Mrs. F. H. McDonald, Mr. and Mrs. B. Armstrong, Mrs. T. Williams and Mr. Earle and Elmo McDonald were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. Williams of Big Island.

Prospects are good for abundance of turkeys in lower Delaware.

Sir Frank Dickeee, the president of the Royal Academy, who is 76, has undergone a successful operation at a London nursing home.

Sinical Sadie says in 50 years she won't care!

A gentleman who was in the habit of giving lectures always had a long glass of cold milk on the table to have a sip now and then.

On one occasion somebody managed to put a double whisky into that glass of milk before it was put on the table.

The temperance lecturer took a sip now and then, until at the conclusion of his lecture he held up the tumbler, and when it was emptied, looked as it and said, "Good cow."

It is only the boy with a mean nature who on Hallowe'en night, will cut tins and wire or cars. Such fellows are like the blind Belleville needs for their future citizens.

A scotsman and an American struck up acquaintance in a hotel lounge. After the former had had several drinks at the American's expense, he said to him: "Well, will you have a drink or not sir?" "Sure," replied the other blandly. "I guess I'll have a drink of champagne." For an instant the Scotsman was staggered. "Ay, well, you can guess again," he said at last, "and guess nearer sasprence."

—A Mis-Deal

A young married lady had just acquired a new set of silver and called four to match, "John" she said, one day, "we will drive out to make a few calls. But it hasn't got out of the car you will, therefore, take the cards when you go, say 'good-afternoon' and leave one of them at each house we stop at." "Very, good, ma'am," answered John, and he was upstairs to fetch the cards. After they had driven about for some time, and cards had been left at a great number of houses, the lady remarked, "Now we must call on the Robsons, the Greys, and the Browns." "We can't do it!" broke in the chauffeur in alarm. "I've only the ace of spades and the ten of clubs left!"

JIMMY CHIPMUNK

He is only a chipmunk, yo' may say,
Frolicking 'round in de hay;
But he chatters joy with his merry
j-ay,
Wherever he may go.

He it only a chipmunk, yes, 'tis true,
Blinking his bright, dark eyes;
But h' whispers all sorts of thoughts to you
Tender and rather wise.

He is only a chipmunk sent to cheer
His humane day by day,
Hopping about, growing ever more
dear
In his delightful way.

A GRAY DAY

The little lane was lonely,
The skies were dull and gray;
The day was dark and overcast
Until you past that way.

And then, between the scudding clouds,
The sun peeped out to smile,
And flood the lane with all the joy
Of summer for a while.

But all too soon the little lane
Was lonelier than before,
And all the sunshine vanished
When you shut the garden door.

You never saw me standing there,
You just went on your way,

MABEL DEAN.

ARISTOCRACY AND THE COMMON PEOPLE

Said Mrs. Puff, well garbed in silk
Well kept, well housed, and fed on milk,
"Who's that strange cat across the street?
Now, really, did we ever me.t?"

"My dear, your eyesight must be poor;
That short-haired cat before the door
Is Mrs. Meow; ain't not our style,"
Said Mrs. Puff, with cattish smile.
"I fear she's rather underbred,
And common cats I really dread.
She hobnobs with the lower man
And lunches from the old scrap can."

"Dear me, of course, we needn't call
She's really not OUR kind at all.
It's not her fault, my dear, you see.
She hasn't any P-E-D-I-G-R-E-E."

Just then a mouse, a tiny thing,
Across the pavement made a spring.
Plain Mrs. Meow and Mrs. Fluff
And, sad to say, Mr. Puff,

All made a rush, and such a blur
Of cats and claws and mouse and fur
Which goes to prove that some fine
We find we're all of common clay.

Baked Oysters

Put a round of toasted bread into a small baking cup or dish; spread with butter and fill with oysters; season with salt, pepper and butter. Fill as many cups as required, place them in a baking pan in oven, cover with a pan and bake about ten minutes.

Pineapple Flaff.

1-2 Cup shredded pineapple; 1-3 cup white sugar; 1 white of egg; 2 teaspoons lemon juice; 1 cup heavy cream.

Cook pineapple pulp and juice with the sugar to soft balls tag, then pour it in a fine stream over the egg white, beaten until stiff; add lemon juice when thoroughly cold, and fold in the cream, whipped until stiff. Set away to chill thoroughly, and serve plain or with custard sauce.

Corn Fondue

1 Cup milk; 1 cup bread crumbs; 1 cup grated cheese; 1 cup grated or canned corn; 1 tablespoon melted butter; 1-2 teaspoon salt; 1-4 teaspoon pepper; dash paprika; 3 eggs.

Mix together the milk, bread crumbs, cheese, corn and butter, add seasonings and yolks of eggs which have been beaten until thick. Fold in carefully the stiffly beaten whites of eggs. Bake in individual dishes in a moderate oven.

"Sure Thing" Cake.

1-4 Cup butter, 1 cup sugar; yolk 1 egg, 1-2 cup cocoa, 1 1-2 cups sweet milk, 2 cups flour, 1 1-2 teaspoons baking powder, 1-2 teaspoon soda, white one egg. Work the butter until creamy, add sugar gradually; then add yolk of egg well beaten, and cocoa. Mix and sift flour, baking powder, and soda, and add alternately with mild to first mixture. Beat thoroughly and add white of egg beaten until stiff. Pour into a buttered and floured cake pan and bake in a moderate oven Use pastry flour (once sifted)

WOMAN IN AFGHANISTAN

Now that the King of Afghanistan has returned home, the virile monarch has set about the introduction of Western methods to his subjects, with a view to the general improvement of life. Naturally, his innovations are arousing some disquietude among those who are saturated with the superstitions and traditions of the East, but King Amanullah is made of stern stuff. His first action on arriving home was, to the courtiers, a startling one. Offerings which were brought to him as a token of thanksgiving were but there is in Afghanistan a constitution whose title in English is the "Woman's Party," and this party is supporting the King, with the argument that, according to the law, a man is allowed to have four wives if he can "love and cherish them in equal degree," and the Woman's Party assert that to the average man this is an impossibility. On the whole, perhaps, it may be conceded that the party is quite correct in its contention. Loving and cherishing is a delicate subjectin on which to debate, given to the poor of the capital, by his order.

The Royal Innovator has determined to have the natural resources of his country exploited to the full; he will establish State workships, and will also see that an improved system of transport for goods is brought into operation.

But among the changes which King Amanullah is bringing about none has caused such a commotion as the unveiling of women at the Afghan Court and his pronouncement against polygamy. The native priests are in state of consternation and alarm:

ONE-DISH DINNER

In many families it is a problem to serve up a simple meal on one course. Here is a dish that will please a family of six, besides having the indispensable elements of nourishment:
2 cup cooked macaroni.
1 cup cooked carrots (diced).
2 tablespoons grated onion.
2 tablespoons chopped parsley.
2 tablespoons chopped fresh red pepper.
1 cup chopped ham.
6 tablespoons buttered crumbs.
1 cup Gorden's St. Charles Milk.
1 cup water.
2 tablespoons butter.
2 tablespoons flour.
1 teaspoon salt.
1-8 teaspoon paprika.

Cook macaroni in boiling salted water 35 minutes. Make a white sauce of butter, flour, milk, water, salt, paprika. Place a layer of macaroni in well-greased baking dish. Sprinkle with ham, carrots and seasonings. Repeat until all are used. Pour over all the white sauce. Cover top with bread crumbs and bake in a moderate oven for 40 minutes.

IF THEY COULD have a smell like flowers—
White soil, sparkling.
So beautiful they hurt you—
Not proud and grand.
Just little and friendly—

Stars every side of us,
Like the whole Milky Way
Feel down around us—
AND THE WAY the blooms smelled—

THINGS TO TEACH DAUGHTER

Teach her that 100 cents make a dollar.

Teach her to dress for health and comfort as well as for appearance.

Teach her to say "no" and mean it.

Teach her to have nothing to do with intemperate and dissolute young men.

Teach her to pay regard to the character of those she would associate with, and not how much money they have.

Teach her a high sense of personal dignity, so that she may regard familiarity of touch or speech as an unpardonable affront to her womanhood.

Teach her that marriage is sacred and any interference in another woman's life or home is one of the unpardonable sins and places her beyond the pale of decent society.

KNOCKERS.

It takes a sharp knock to break an egg from the outside, yet a weak, little chick, with its soft bill can break it easily from the inside. It is the same way with a town. The knocks from the outside have little effect. It is the knocks from the inside that hurt. It would be a good thing for any town if the home-knockers would do the same thing as the little chicks do—get out.

WOMEN AS TRAVELLERS.

Miss Rosita Forbes is a great traveller; she has been where no other woman has penetrated. In the opening chapter of her recent book, "Adventure," she writes a passage which explains much of her success— her ready acceptance of those hardships which every born traveller must endure.

"Habits are our jailers and pourcions our prison walls," she writes. "A wanderer can have no household gods, and he must also be indifferent to such unimportant things as food, sleep and washing. I've slept on anything—nothing on a sloping shelf of rock above the red rose city of Petra in the Hedjaz; on a table in a Tongan hotel; on a mattress in Fiji; on an opium couch in Siam; on desert sands in Africa and Arabia; in the mausoleum wagon of the a Chinese troop train; in an armoured car in Kasbistan; on the decks of innumerable junks, sampans and dhows; on the earthen floor of as many huts, stalls and caves.

"Once, I couldn't wash my hands for seventeen days. Often I haven't had a bath for months. I've lived on dead camels, locusts, sea-worms grilled on the tip of a hot spinach, on tepid fish floating in oil, its inside scooped out and filled with garlic, and once, in a famous lake, on what my host described as a 'leetle sick horse,' which tasted like sucking pig."

After reading of Miss Forbe's amazing dietay on; can agree all the more readily with a later passage in her book:

"Women," she says, "ought to make good explorers, because they haven't enough dull common sense to know that they're beaten. Their imagination will always show them that, if possible or impossible way out. I think women bear our city pain, but disconnect better than men, and I agree with a certain traveller who, when asked her husband's reasons for panicd her, replied: 'Oh, no! It's not the safety of country you can take a man to!'"

The brightest wedding procession of this season in London was that of Lord Hazlebarden's sister, whose seven bridesmaids were red roses dresses with wreaths and bouquets of red roses, and the same bright color pages were repeated in the costumes of the 10 pages, little Lord Andrew Cavendish and, Master James Molloy, who wore knee breeches of white satin, red tin, red stockings, and white lawn shirts.

Antiquarians and archeologists of France attend what is call d the antique school at Nomes.

The whole world knows Aspirin as an effective antidote for pain. But it's just as important to know what there is only one genuine Aspirin. The name Bayer is on every tablet, and on the box. If the name Bayer appears, it's genuine; and if it doesn't, it is not! Headaches are dispelled by Aspirin. So are colds, and the pain that goes with them; even neuralgia, neuritis, and rheumatism promptly relieved. Get Aspirin—at any drugstore—with proven directions.

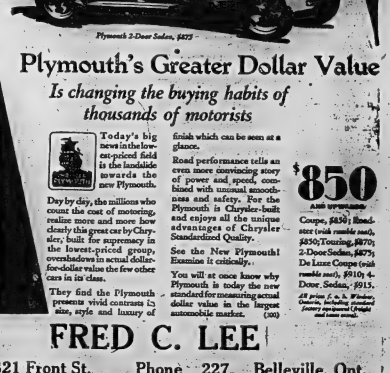

Physicians prescribe Aspirin; it does NOT affect the heart

Aspirin is the trade mark (registered in Canada) indicating Bayer Manufacture. While it is well known that Aspirin means Bayer manufacture, to assure the public against imitations, the Tablets will be stamped with their Bayer Cross Trademark.

Plymouth's Greater Dollar Value

Is changing the buying habits of thousands of motorists

Today's big news in the low-est-priced field is the landslide sweep of the new Plymouth.

Day by day, the millions who count the cost of motoring, realize more and more how closely this great Chrysler dealer, built for supremacy in the lowest-priced group, overshadows in actual dollar-for-dollar value the few other cars in its class.

They find the Plymouth presents vivid contrasts in size, style and luxury of finish which can be seen at a glance.

Road performance tells an even more convincing story of power and speed, combined with unusual smoothness and safety. For the Plymouth is Chrysler-built and enjoys all the unique advantages of the Chrysler Standardized Quality.

See the New Plymouth! Examine it critically.

You will at once know why Plymouth is today the new standard for measuring actual dollar value in the largest automobile market.

TO-DAY'S THOUGHT

I have sped by land and sea, mingled with much people, but never yet could find a spot un-enriched by human kindness.

TUPPEI.

BELLEVILLE SHOULD NOT BE SO SMALL

When the question of erecting a gasoline service station on the main corner of Belleville was first raised, the Daily Intelligencer felt that perhaps it was not good policy to use this busy corner for that purpose. However, the permit was issued, the building erected, and everything is now ready for the using of the station except that the City Council has not yet given permission to the owners to ramp the sidewalk on Front Street so that cars may enter and leave on that side.

To permit Messrs. Bros. Limited, to spend their money to build a service station and then childishly refuse to let them make use of it would be to show a mean and carping spirit, unworthy of the city of Belleville. We understand that the original plans as submitted to the City Engineer show entrances from both Bridge and Front streets and every member of the City Council and every city official must have understood that such was the intention of the Motor Company in building on this corner. Permission to make an entrance from Front Street should be granted at once and the incident closed. After all, the new service station is a most artistic building and certainly the corner it not less attractive for the removal of the shacks which formerly stood there.

TRAGEDY OF AGE WHEN FRIENDLESS

A home for aged people, as a rule is not the kind of place where people would willingly choose to spend their last days. In most cases its inmates are people who entered only as a last resort, when in danger of homelessness and starvation.

A report from the Welfare Council of New York city reveals the fact that there are, in New York, at least 6,000 people most of them over 80 years of age, awaiting their chance for admission to one or another of 82 homes for the aged in that territory. The situation is probably the same in most other large cities, although it does not exist to the same degree in small centres.

What a tremendous tragedy lies behind that statement. One can only imagine the broken hopes, the despair, the loneliness that it represents. Homes for the aged are good things in their own way, but one would think that welfare organizations and society in general, had a duty to see that everything possible can be done to soften or avert these tragedies. The coming of old age pensions in Canada will be a Godsend to many who would otherwise be compelled to spend their declining days in an institution and, through their payments, many of the aged people of this country will be able to avert the tragedy which comes to those who are left alone, friendless and without means, in their old age.

LITTLE MEN SEIZE ON LITTLE ISSUES

Liberalism is a spirit and an outlook not a label or a profession. We fear that Mr. Sinclair forgets this when he goes on his little crusades. His recent choice of a topic indicates lack of the breadth of vision which one expects in a real leader. Premier Per-guson lately endorsed and put into circulation a book called "Great Men of Canada," and Mr. Sinclair has pounced upon it as a political issue. The whole thing is too petty for political argument, and is unfortunately given to seizing on petty issues of this description instead of taking up the big questions which would rally seriously minded people to his support.

Mr. Sinclair thinks the book in question is Conservative propaganda. It is a book of historic biography written in an impartial manner and giving an impression of the era of Confederation and the events leading up to it which cannot be objected to by anyone accustomed to reading. The only objection to the book that can be made is that it is not big enough to suit Mr. Sinclair's taste. It does not include any names beyond the Confederation period and the omission of Sir Oliver Mowat and of Sir Wilfrid Laurier is put down by Mr. Sinclair to partisanship on the part of the author.

Perhaps Mr. John Henderson could be persuaded to get out another volume written in the same impartial spirit in which other eminent figures of Canadian history than those here dealt with could be described for the benefit of the country. It will be difficult to number as many men of eminence as these eleven, besides the explorers who have a chapter to themselves. Simcoe, Durham, Macdonald, Brown, Cartier, Howe, Galt, Tupper, Tilley, McGee, Strathcona, constitute a list which should not excite the hostility of any but the most narrowly partisan type of mind. We would not be surprised to hear some rabid, Conservative objecting that Sir John Thompson and Sir Mackenzie Bowell have been omitted. Mr. Sinclair did himself and his party less than justice in giving a political turn to a literary criticism which a perusal of the volume he condemns will not justify.

Rheumatism Crippled English Girl

But Gin Pills soon Brought relief

A stranger in a strange land, only nine months out from England and six of these a cripple with Rheumatism. No wonder Miss Florence Hallett was despondent. Writing from Ottawa she sums up in a few sentences those dreary, painful months—three doctors, a foot specialist, a month in hospital—then well again when she "should have been in bed."

Gin Pills cure Miss Hallett's warmest praise. "I found an improvement after the first box," she declares gratefully. "I shall always keep your pills by me. I think they are wonderful."

The great value of Gin Pills lies in their soothing and tonic effect upon the kidneys. The relief they give sufferers from Rheumatism, Sciatica, Lumbago, etc., is wonderful. But these acute conditions should never be allowed to develop. Take Gin Pills the first time symptoms of trouble show themselves—backache, dizziness, spots before the eyes, swollen joints, headaches, brick dust in urine, a burning sensation attendant on scanty or too frequent urination. 50c. a box at all druggists. That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

COLD WEATHER CLOTHES FOR MEN.

I wonder how many years must pass before men will show the same amount of sense as women in regard to the clothing worn indoors during the cool weather?

What one should, or needs, to wear outdoors, may differ with the individual, but there is no question but what the degree of heat in stores and factories, there is no need for the heavy clothing now worn by men.

Dr. E. Freidberger has been comparing the winter clothing of men and women, and he tells us some straight homely truths.

A man, aged 33, height 5 feet 8 inches, weight 125 pounds, is compared with a woman aged 30, height 5 feet 6 inches, and weight 125 pounds. The weight of the man's clothing was found to be about seven, and the woman's less than two pounds.

Now aside from this difference in the weight of the clothing, what about the degree of heat or temperature under the clothing?

In the man the temperature was nearly 90 d. F. whereas with the woman it was found to be 80 per cent. Then as to the humidity or moisture of the body under the clothing. In the man it was found to be 70 per cent, and in the woman just 55 per cent. Or as Dr. Freidberger points out, the man is living in a tropical climate and the woman is enjoying the cool dry atmosphere of the Alps.

The idea, of course, is that protection against the cold of winter should be obtained by heavy outer garments to be removed when indoors.

Another point he demonstrated was that with modern woman's dress, unlined, and of thin or porous material, beneficial light rays can penetrate to the body, whereas with men's heavier clothing these light rays have difficulty in penetrating.

It is now up to garment or clothing manufacturers to supply men with cloth, that is lighter and more porous, women, to be more indoors, leaving the heavy closely woven material for the outer garments; to be worn outdoors during the cold weather.

This would mean more comfort indoors, with less likelihood of the cool weather outdoors causing a chill.

Too Much ACID

Many people, two hours after eating, suffer indigestion as they call it. It is usually excess acid. Correct it, with an alkali. The best way, the quick, harmless and efficient way, is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. It has remained for 50 years the standard with physicians. One spoonful in water neutralizes many times its volume in stomach acids, and at once. The symptoms disappear in five minutes.

You will never use crude methods when you know this better method. And you will never suffer from excess acid when you prove out this easy relief. Please do that—for your own sake—now.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. Each bottle contains full directions—any druggists.

HERO CROSS STEAK OF VITAL IMPORTANCE

We noted, with interest, in yesterday's paper, that the Red Cross Chest is to make an appeal to the people of Belleville. Their's is a worthy cause, close to the heart of every woman, and the name recalls those knitting needles, mufflers, socks and mittens of the hectic war days. Every woman was anxious to do her bit (how familiar these words sound—like the echo of far-off days) and feverishly the knitting needles clicked as yards of khaki or grey material took shape. But what—the reaction came after the armistice several of these societies subsided or became inactive. Some, however, were the nucleus of greater movements which came to include woman's interests, political and domestic. Now is a great work yet to be done, for the aftermath of the war has left a terrible problem on the hands of us all, and even though ten years have passed since the cessation of hostilities we can see the need of those who will spend the rest of their lives handicapped as a result of their heroic part in the war. So it is with interest that we see this attempt to revive interest in the Red Cross, and we will watch the response of the women of Belleville.

A USE FOR DISCARDED CLOTHING

Nearly every housewife has gone over her family's winter clothing, discarding here, shedding there, and altering some other garment. Not in many homes is the clothing complete worn out. Perhaps it has gone out of style or has been outgrown by the children who do spring up wonderfully from one season to the next. Right here is your opportunity to do six, and even though ten years have passed since the termination of hostilities we can see the need of those who will spend the rest of their lives handicapped as a result of their heroic part in the war. So it is with interest that we see this attempt to revive interest in the Red Cross, and we will watch the response of the women of Belleville.

Advice to Girls
By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

When in a car, with a young man, who should get up and get down from the car first, young lady or young man?

PUZZLE.

PUZZLE: The young man should alight first and help the young lady. Sometimes, however, it is not convenient for him to climb across the young lady, and then she gets out of the car first.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

Please answer these questions:

1—In introducing a girl to a boy friend, is it proper if the girl is seated for her to stand up as she is introduced or should she remain seated?

2—Should a girl invite her boy friend to come to the house or should the boy friend ask?

3—In calling a fellow on the street, should a girl speak first or should the fellow speak first?

DOT.

DOT: The young lady should remain seated, unless she is being introduced to an elderly man or woman.

2—The young man should ask permission to call. But if you are giving a party and would like to number him among the guests, then it is proper to extend the invitation.

3—The young lady always speaks first.

WHAT'S NEW
(From a Woman's Standpoint)

Pitch is a new means of vitalizing brown costumes.

London now insists that the smartest frocks must shine and sparkle.

Cross-over blouses are very popular this season and as a rule they give a rather long-waisted effect, with unusually arranged folds of supple stuff to indicate the waist line.

There is a new vogue for green bedrooms but the new greens require careful lending or contrasting, as the case may be, if the effect is to be soothing.

The death of the Dowager Empress of Russia has made one London editor observe: "I always thought her refusal in 1918 to take advantage of General Hoffman's offer of a permit to travel through Germany in order to escape from the Bolsheviki one of the bravest and kindest moral hardy acts which any woman has ever performed."

So she restrained her natural impulse to say "Oh, please don't incommodience any one on my account," and with an assumption of Constance Kerr's arrogant manner, said distinctly: "This will be all right. Send me a maid, please, I didn't bring mine."

"I will send you the one who attended you last time," the manager said to be bowed himself out.

Soon there was a tap at the door. Sheila opened it. In filed a uniformed maid standing there. The maid smiled, in a hesitant fashion and said: "Non, pour Mademoiselle Kerr." Sheila gulped. Here was another problem. Of course, every one would expect her to speak French like a native. And she could manage only a few commonplace phrases. It would never do to let the maid retire as in French. She did decided on a bold stroke, and said casually "Do you speak enough English to enable you to serve a lady who speaks very little french? I have a friend who wants a maid, and if I thought perhaps, you would do."

The problem was solved. The maid explained, in a miniature of French and English, that such a position was exactly what she wanted. She would love to go to America, but her English—would it do? Sheila pondered. "Tell you what," she said, "I'll talk English to you, and maybe you'll learn enough to get by."

The maid was most grateful and Sheila thanked her stars that she had skirted another crisis. As for keeping her promise to the girl who had left on the proposition in good faith, she would worry about that when the time came.

While the maid unpacked, Sheila wandered about her bedroom and sitting-room. The beauty, the luxury of her surroundings fascinated her. As she stood before the great marble mantelpiece, studying the exquisite tapestry that hung above it, she compared her life with that of Constance Kerr. And now, if only for a few days, she was to have all the things that she had wanted.... all the things that Constance Kerr had always had, and had taken for granted. Well, she would make the most of her good fortune. Few girls were lucky enough to have their dreams come true, in Paris, of all places!

She made a leisurely toilette, and it was not until the afternoon was half over that she was ready to go out.

Just then the maid appeared to say that "Monsieur Pezzegrand and Madame Dodge" had come. Myra Dodge! Sheila had a feeling of relief and anxiety combined.... relief at knowing who Myra was, for she now recalled hearing Constance speak of her.. and anxiety at remembering that Constance had characterized her as "a nuisance, if ever there was one."

But Tommy was calling: "Come along, Constance. Let's go and eat. I've been telling Myra that you know all the interesting places, we'll've you can get real French food and see some sights. Not that she deserves anything for our hands, for she's kept us waiting for ages while she dolled up."

As Myra Dodge and Tommy entered her sitting-room, Sheila smothered an hysterical giggle. Interesting places! French food. "Not today, Tommy," she said. "Some other time. I ate so much on the boat that I gained three pounds. I'm dieting until I get back to my usual weight."

"Be This Is Paris!"

When Tommy Fitzgerald's motor-car drew up before the Palace Hotel in Paris, Sheila had not yet learned Myra's surname, or her status in Constance Kerr's social life, and, although that worried her considerably, she forgot the situation in the excitement of her first experience with luxury. Never in her most extravagant daydreams had she imagined anything like this.

For a moment she half-expected some one to rush up and denounce her as an imposter. She could fairly hear the excited French voice crying: "You say you are Constance Kerr? Nonsence. I have known her from child hood. You are trying to take away your resemblance to her."

But nothing of the sort happened. Instead, the name of Constance Kerr had a magical effect on the hotel attendants. Porters whitened Sheila's bags from the car, and, in a jiffy, she was conducted to a beautiful suite of rooms. The manager was bowing before her and saying: I thought that you would prefer this suite, Miss Kerr. The Princess Benoundi reserved it by wire last night from Nice, but I will put her elsewhere."

The thought of snatching a reservation from a princess filled Sheila with consternation, and, at the same time, she wanted to laugh. A few weeks ago she had been little Sheila Allen, living quietly, simply. Now she was a person of importance, some one to be pleased and waited upon. The adventure she had longed for was here, with a vengeance!

MUCH CONFUSION IN REALMS OF RADIO

Washington, D. C.— Requests for changes in wavelengths, increases in power and alterations in hours of operation are pouring into the federal radio commission daily, and the resultant confusion is rendering the work of the new allocation effective November 11 a difficult one.

The commission plans to start hearings about October 17, when a protest is received from a station, the commission forwards an application blank to the station owner. The application must specify what frequency, powers and hours of operations are desired by the applicant, and no application will be considered which fails to comply with this requirement, the commission says. Stations directly interested in the proposed changes are notified of the hearing.

Going Up!

Nightly, now, her smile is winning new hearts all over America. She is lovely Corrine Burton, whose New York home is the New Weston Hotel. Her march to fame includes a season each in "The Music Box" and "The Scandals," and now, under Chas. Bowers' direction, she's going up in the movies!

"I don't believe in overlooking any point which may help make your presence pleasing," says Miss Burton. "Recently, I learned the method of caring for the hair, which is all the rage among New York girls, now. It's so easy. All you do is put a little Danderine on your hair every time you arrange your hair. It makes my hair so easy to dress and holds it in place wonderfully. It has gotten rid of my dandruff. It keeps my scalp and hair so clean and comfortable that I don't shampoo half as often as I used to. It gives my hair such a silky, soft, and lustrous appearance that friends comment on it."

Danderine is not oily. It removes the oily film from each strand of hair, restores its natural color, gives it new lustre, it dissolves dandruff, vigorizes and invigorates the scalp. It is delightfully fragranced. All drug stores have the generous size of bottles. Lovely, gleaming hair and a healthy scalp for a few cents.

"The Dramatic Story of a Gruelling Test of the World's Finest Motors in which ONLY ONE survived

AT the Mocordrome Nationale, Paris ... the world's finest motors submitted to a block test of 240 hours ... under the supervision of the French Government ...

Hour after hour with throttles wide open ... with no adjustments or repairs permitted ... they roar out their songs of power. One by one they break under the terrific strain ...

No test ever conceived could be more gruelling. None more certain to reveal every defect in mechanism, material, design.

Finally one motor alone is running ... sweetly, smoothly as ever ... the Knight engine!

Then came the closing hours! The foremost automotive and aviation engineers of Europe, stop watches in hand, stand silently around. The motor purrs and does not slow—then jerked wide open—instantly the power-box responds ... The Knight entry finishes the 10 days of uninterrupted running, developing 350 horse-power at 1800 revolutions per minute ... and true to its tradition, becoming smoother, sweeter, quieter as it runs.

The Climax of the Test

When the engine had cooled, skilled mechanics took it apart, piece by piece, examining every smallest part for the least flaw or sign of wear. They found none! Their report proved that this engine, without a minute's time for attention, could have been restarted on a similar test at once!

The Knight engine won—hands down—and the secret lies in the simplicity and efficiency of its patented sleeve-valve principle.

The Simplicity of Sleeve-Valves

In the patented sleeve-valve engine of the Willys-Knight, there is nothing to get out of adjust. Nothing to replace or repair .... No carbon to remove .... No valves to grind .... Simply two single sleeves in each cylinder working smoothly, silently up and down, one within the other, in a protective film of oil ... that is all.

For fine automobiles, the ultimate engine is the simplest engine. And the Knight sleeve-valve engine—the power plant of the Willys-Knight—is the simplest of them all ... yet it possesses every modern feature.

Before you decide on any car, arrange for a demonstration of one of the many beautiful Willys-Knight models.

Willys-Knight Sixes range in price from $1395 upwards. F.o.b. factory, taxes extra.

EX-POLICEMAN SHOT IN FIGHT

Chicago, Nov. 3.—Patrick McIntyre, who had been dismissed from the police department, theorized that crime paid better than law enforcement. Today he was dead from wounds received in a gun fight with two policemen after he had struck a man in a cigar store and fired at the officers.

Oxford City Council have decided to prohibit flower selling in the principal shopping streets.

News Of Movies

REGENT

"The circus is coming to town!"—what thrills that gives the youngsters and what escape it gives the older folks to go along with them, when, if the truth is known they get more fun out of it than the kiddies. The circus, which this announcement heralds, is a regulation three-ring and two-stage affair, with all the animals, the sawdust, the funny clowns, the acrobats, everything but tickets of it being presented on a lot about a mile out of town it will be seen on the screen at the Regent Theatre Monday when the latest Gotham production, "Tenderfeet and Spaghetti," is featured. Don't miss it.

BELLE THEATRE

Bebe Daniels, in her latest Paramount starring picture "Take Me Home," essays the role of a dancing girl. In preparation for this part it was necessary for Miss Daniels to perform all the dancing, bending, twisting, hand-stunts and nip-ups which are an every day requirement in the life of a chorine.

Miss Daniels was instructed in this work under the direction of Bobbie, noted dance director of the West Coast stage presentation team, Rose, Rose and Maree. Her preparation work was fully the most arduous the star has been called upon to do in many months of picture making.

After a siege of training her instructor pronounced her adept at the art, and many days of scene taking followed. These scenes were filmed on the stage of the famous Million Dollar Theatre in Los Angeles, under the direction of Marshall Neilan, famous director.

Her part as Peggy Lane is as full of pep as the Bebe Daniels' roles in the past, and in addition has a strong undercurrent of romance and dramatic incident. The star has Neil Hamilton for her leading man, with Lilyan Tashman and Joe Brown, famed stage favorite, in the supporting cast.

"Take Me Home" is the current attraction at the Belle theatre Monday

TO FIGHT OUT RADIO PATENT

First Big Case of Kind To Reach High Tribunal

Washington, D.C.—The De Forest-Armstrong controversy, the first big patent case to reach the bar in the nation's highest tri bunal, will be fought out in the Supreme Court this month.

The case involves invention priority rights of Lee De Forest and Major Edward H. Armstrong, distinguished radio inventors, to the "feed-back" or regenerative circuit in receiving sets. It was carried to the Supreme Court by the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company, purchaser of the Armstrong patent, which asks a review of the decisions in federal courts awarding patent rights in the circuit to the De Forest Radio Telephone and Telegraph Company.

The Westinghouse Company contends the latter of making and selling lends that a final decision is imperiling apparatus using the "feed-back" amounts to millions of dollars annually. The case has been in litigation for eight years, with both sides winning court contests. In 1920, a New York court ruled that Armstrong had prior rights. This decision was affirmed by the Circuit Court of Appeals and in 1923 the Supreme Court commissioner of patents awarded priority of invention to Armstrong.

On appeal, De Forest won a reversal of the decision by the Circuit Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia, and Pennsylvanian and Delaware courts subsequently held Armstrong's patent to be in conflict with two De Forest patents. These opinions were affirmed by the Circuit Court of Appeals' forthe third circuit.

Arguments before the Supreme Court will be made by a formidable array of opposing lawyers, including Charles Evans Hughes, chief of counsel for the De Forest company.

MOORE, PERRY READY TO START

Montreal Men Will Face Tigers This Afternoon At Home

With the probable exception of Dr. Cliff Howard, Montreal will be at full strength for the clash with the champion Hamilton Tigers at the M.A.A.A. grounds this afternoon. Gordie Perry, lightning halfback of the Wheelers, was in uniform for the first time since last Saturday's Ottawa game last night. Red Moore, Perry's galloping partner on the Montreal catching division, was a spectator only, but Moore will don a uniform today and go through the signal drill with the team, the final brush up before the "big" game of the Interprovincial season locally.

Montreal went through a spirited dummy scrimmage practice last night after their heavier drill of Wednesday and are now set for the battle to which they have been looking for all season. The players as keen now as they have been at any time this season and are apparently primed for a dashing contest. After a week of cool weather, the gridiron at the M.A.A.A. is in perfect condition—hard enough to allow the fleet players all the leeway they want, but spongy enough on the surface to reduce to a minimum any chances of injuries through heavy falls after a tackle.

The ticket sale keeps briskly alive, with every appearance that there will be only a few, if any, reserved seats remaining unsold today. From all indications, if the weather is fine tomorrow, the crowd to witness the Montreal-Hamilton clash will break the attendance record for football at the M.A.A.A. grounds, set in the Montreal-Toronto Argonaut battle here early in October.

Coach Mike Rodden's announced plan of demonstrating that Hamilton can run the ends as well as crack the line is attracting interest, not only for the effect it may have on the contest here tomorrow, but as means of gauging the real strength of the Tigers. Up until now their power has been in terrific line plunging and consistent punting by Huck Welch. If Tigers can show a variety in attack by producing ground-gaining extensions plays, they are going to be the team of 1928 in Canada.

In Welch, Gibb and Glenn Small, the Tigers have three fleet halfbacks. If Ernie or they have a snapback who can get the ball out properly. They have a big line that can charge the opposing front rank. Tigers have everything necessary for an all-running shirtfield combination.

If Hamilton get extension plays going, there should be a merry battle that everybody will be able to enjoy.

YOUR EYES and Our Service

By

J. A. McFEE, Optometrist
Belleville

In correcting an error of vision how does the Optometrist proceed ?

He decides WHY an eye is abnormal, how far it deviates from normal and prescribes lenses which supply the power which the eyes lack

This is called correcting the error of vision ?

Yes, the eye functions with the lenses as if the error did not exist.

What is the usual result of the correction ?

A reduction in the amount of nerve force required to see, with a corresponding increase for other parts of the body.

Then normal vision is desirable ?

Nothing could be more so. Eyes strained from whatever cause is a common source of the ills already mentioned.

SHE DIDN'T WANT TO GO IN PATROL WAGON

Vancouver, B.C. (C.P.)— "Surely you are not going to take me in the patrol wagon! Why—I have never been in a patrol wagon in all my life," was the indignant protest of a lost-9-year old girl.

She was assured by the constable who found her that no indignity was meant and that many others in similar plight had honored the wagon by riding in it, so she finally consented to go to the police headquarters, where she was later claimed by her mother.

READY TO START McGILL READY FOR TRI-COLOUR

Their final practice completed, McGill senior football team embarked yesterday for Kingston where this afternoon at Richardson Memorial Stadium they encounter Queen's in a league tilt that will virtually settle the 1928 college race. It is generally agreed that the team which wins today will clinch the title for, if McGill defeat Queen's they will be overwhelming favorites to down Varsity here the following Saturday and so take the cham pionship.

The McGill team left by the Inter-City Limited just after noon, thus enabling the squad to get a good night's rest in Kingston before their all-important struggle. The practice of most leg the Kingston trip one day ahead of the contest was started last year and was found to be more practical method than that of past years when the team journeyed to Kingston on the morning of the struggle.

Followers of the team less practically all use wake of the squad, for many of those who went by auto started in late afternoon to spend the night in one of the towns enroute, continuing their trip in the morning.

The final practice of the McGill team was a peppery affair and, although Queen's are heavy favorites to win today and the red team knows full well that they are tackling a strong and well-drilled squad, there is quite optimism in the McGill camp that the tricolor colors can be lowered today. It will come as no surprise to those who have watched this week's practices if McGill team plays as they have never played before this season.

RECREATION BOWLING

In a Ladies' League game at the Recreation Alleys last night, the Crescents won all four points from the Ramblers, the winners rolling up a nice tidy score of 2568. Miss A. Kelleher of the Ramblers rolled the highest score with 559, followed by V. Rainbird with 534.

Ladies' League

Crescents—V. Wheeler 503; Mrs. Belnap 520; V. Rainbird 534; W. Halsey 492; M. Lynch 519. Total 2568.

Ramblers—L. Reid 448; P. Way 495; M. Bland 361; A. Kelleher 559; M. Kelleher 345. Total 2139.

The Senior League got away to an auspicious start with all six teams bowling. In one game the Kiwanis won the first game from the K. of C., by 202 pins but they couldn't hold this big lead for the local as they lost the next two games and lost out on the total score by 47 pins. A. Wesley with 557 and L. Barrett with 553 were the best scores.

In another good senior game the Mackenzie won the first two games from the Rovers and had a nice comfortable lead when the Rovers came to life in the last game to win this by 219 pins but fell just 8 pins short for the total score. T. Austin was the big noise in this game with a total three string score of 763.

Senior League

K. of C.—T. Barrett 534; C. Bawden 509; Donahue 535; O'Callaghan 518; L. Barrett 553. Tr al 2169.

K. Kiwan—O. Lee 517; W. Welsh 498; A. Legault 527; A. Wesley 557; Domenico 528. Total 2626.

Mackenzie—Rossetti 536; Orlando 553; Kemp 562; Barnett 518; Morrell 544. Total 2753.

In the third and final senior game of the night the Hardware not only won four points from their opponents, the Ponies, but won the first weekly prize of $2.00 when they rolled the best score of the night, namely 2281 which will take some hard bowling to be believed before the season is over. Harris with 693 and Mitchell 653 were the best scores for their teams.

Hardware—Tobe 658; Harris 693; Whalen 455; Dorn 667; Anderson 508. Total 2281.

Two games were played in the men's junior league, the Carlings pulling the surprise of the night by defeating the Ale-Lite boys in both games for three points, the Ale-Lite taking the final game. High bowlers were Phillips, 633, and Kerr, 612.

In the second junior game the Peerless broke into the win column at the expense of the Prudential to the tune of 4 points, the losers having an off night, but should come along with a little practice. Shields and Moore rolled the best scores.

INCREASE RATIO OF STRENGTH TO WEIGHT IN FORD

Rear Axle Shaft New, Model Is Good Example

Increasing the ratio of strength to weight has been one of the outstanding recent tendencies in the automobile industry. In The factory of the Ford Motor Company of Canada, Limited, this tendency has been carried to lengths which have resulted in some revolutionary process, and some original applications of old processes. The rear axle shaft of the Model A Ford and Model AA Ford truck is one of the interesting examples of how substantially increased strength is being obtained in a piece of material of given weight.

The story of this Ford rear axle shaft is the story of how a bar of steel from the rolling mill, having the same properties throughout its length, emerges from the factory as an axle shaft, containing no less than three distinct conditions of steel in one piece each condition designed to perform a different kind of work. It is all a matter of heating and re-heating, tempering and hardening, in auto matic furnaces that insure absolute uniformity of production.

The shaft begins as a bar of special carbon manganese steel, of uniform diameter throughout its length. It goes first to a forging furnace, where one end is heated for the upsetting machines which forge the differential side gear blank. This does away with the use of a separate steel gear blank forging, and makes possible a gear which is one piece with the axle. It is then conveyed to the gear cutting machine everything possible moves on conveyors, and the teeth are cut in four gears at a time on each machine.

Leaving the gear cutting machines, it passes a rigid inspection as to length, diameter and accuracy of pitch of the gears, while on its way through several finishing processes. It then goes to the furnaces where the magic of making three kinds of steel out of one takes place. The gear end of the axle receives a treatment which gives it the extreme hardness and wear. The central portion, which is subjected in service to severe torsion, is tempered for toughness and elasticity, while the outer end, containing the key and threads is given a treatment for great toughness.

What really happens is that the entire axle is first heated to a temperature such that, when cooled rapidly, it will have as high a degree of hardness as the steel is capable of. This would mean, however, that while the gear end would be correctly tempered, the remainder of the axle would be too hard for the work to be performed. Therefore, in the process this first hardness is dropped to the desired degrees in the central part of the axle and on the hub end the gear is given the necessary strain removal without loss of wear hardness; so that the part finally emerges from the furnaces and passes through the tempering furnace with the exact degree of temper inneach of the three portions that is required for the work to be performed.

The question most frequently heard wherever metals are treated in the Ford plant, is: "Does it do anything?" In other words, what is the task to be performed, under conditions of actual service, of each piece of metal in the Ford cars and trucks? If a single piece of steel performs two or more different tasks, requiring different physical properties in the parts of the piece affected, those work ing parts are given the properties that will make them best perform as required.

Emerging from the quenching bath, the shaft passes through a final straightening and on the finishing machines. One feature of this quenching bath rarely fails to excite comment from visitors to the plant. As the shaft enters the bath it is gripped firmly between rollers at various points, and revolved continually while in the solution. The function of these rollers is to prevent warping of the shaft during the rapid cooling in the bath.

When an axle shaft has finally passed many rigorous gaging inspections it is ready to take its place in the rear axle assembly—three distinct conditions of steel in a single bar, designed and tested to perform far beyond any thing that may be expected of it as the final link between the power plant and the rear wheels which drive the automobile over the roads.

GREAT LOT OF MONEY SAVED, VULCANIZING

Thousands of dollars are thrown away by motorists every season, according to Al Hitchon, expert Tire Vulcanizer, of Coleman Street.

The average motorist wouldn't willingly throw away dollars—he couldn't afford to, and wouldn't if he could; so why throw away those tires when for a comparatively small amount they may be vulcanized by Al Hitchon and put in first class shape, ready for a few thousand more miles.

It won't do any harm anyway, to drive around to Al's shop at Coleman near Moira St. and have him look over your tires right now.

EYE TROUBLE IS INDICATED BY SIGNS AS THESE

Poor Vision Demands Very Prompt Attention

Most all of our knowledge comes through our eyes. Sight is the only sense that puts us into touch with the outside world all the time we are awake. Constantly there is a picture in our eyes of thousands of things that are in front of us, and the picture is constantly changing as we or our eyes—eye feet away—a hundred feet away—a mile, or more. We are constantly touching things with our eyes and the panorama is continually changing.

The mind may be concentrated on only one thing—but a picture of all is in the eyes—ready for the mind to single out any particular thing. This goes on from the time we open our eyes in the morning until we close them at night.

The eyes have no method of telling how much work they are doing and how much nervous energy they are using, but the following few symptoms will let you know that the eyes are overtaxed or ill-nourished:

When the letters blur and seem to run together after you have read a little while. When the eyes feel easily smart, ache, water or feel scratchy. When you squint, frown, or hold the head tilted to one side when looking at objects. These are signs that you eyes need help and you should have no time in having them examined by a competent Optometrist.

Hall-Kirkpatrick Opticians specialists examine your eyes now and advise the correction. 288 Front St.

PROPER BATTERY WATER TYPE IS DISTILLED ONLY

There is a rather general but mistaken impression that the only care necessary to a storage battery is an occasional squirt of water, observes Mr. Chris Lewis, of the Quinte Battery Service, local Willard dealers, Dundas St.

"The worst part of it is that most car owners are not even fussy about what kind of water they use in their batteries. While anything but distilled water may in many cases do do what it should be an unfailing rule to use only distilled water. In most communities, tap water contains various small amounts of mineral matter, which reacting with the chemicals in the battery are detrimental to the proper functioning of a battery. You very seldom hear any one who uses any old water for his battery boasting about the wonderful satisfaction he has had from it. They just don't last," concludes Mr. Lewis.

GOOD OYSTERS HAVE WHOLESOME VALUE AS FOOD

Brown the Fish Man says that oysters are now in season and he always has a fresh supply on hand. He advises buying as you need them by the half pint, pint, quart or gallon. When you are arranging an oyster supper and you require delicious meat Oysters absolutely fresh talk it over with Brown the Fish Man at phone 1222 for all particulars.

The oysters handled by Brown are grown under careful Government supervision which gives them absolute and assured purity. Oysters are a delicious and nourishing food from the sea, and a food which provides a delightful way of supplying minerals iodine, Glycogen and Vitamins. Their wholesome value as a food and the ease with which they are assimilated makes them an ideal food for young and old alike, as well as for invalid and convalescent.

The market beds of the well known firm of H. C. Rowe and Co., from which Brown the Fish Man procures his supplies of oysters comprise the choice deep water areas off the Eastern end of Long Island, swept by the cool ocean tides from the open Atlantic. Here the fat tender Northern oysters are grown, feeding on the microscopic plant life which exists for them in these cold sea waters. From these cultivated farms 40 feet under water quality oysters are brought ex pert by steamer to the Company to sanitary, government inspected packing houses. Here they are opened by skilled workers, scrained and packed in ice and shipped to Brown the Fish man who supplies you with this delicious food. His store is just across the lower Bridge on the South side of Bridge Street.

STYLE, COMFORT MAIN FEATURES FOR CAR BODY

New McLaughlin Buick Is Distinctive In These Points

Style and comfort are the two most desirable features in an automobile body from the buyer's point of view, say Fisher designers, in pointing to their recent achievement of combining both style and comfort in the 1929 McLaughlin-Buick. Without style a motor car is deprived of all personality, and can make no appeal to the buyer's imagination. And as to the second requisite, they say nothing less than the maximum of comfort satisfies the exacting motor car purchaser of today.

In producing the 1929 McLaughlin-Buick with a distinct style personality Fisher designers believe they have achieved the last prevailing trend in body design by at least two years. And the enthusiastic reception which has been accorded to these cars lends the weight of authority to their belief. The McLaughlin-Buick bodies have broken away from conventional lines and attained an individual appearance marked by no other motor car, becomes increasingly apparent.

In the case of these bodies, Fisher designers say, the visual appeal exerted by the exterior design has been coupled with a degree of interior comfort and luxury transcending all previous high standards of body manufacture. Roominess, without which there can be no comfort, is apparent from the first. The single second coupe will accord three adult passengers a degree of roominess hitherto unknown in bodies of this type. The generous roominess is equally apparent in the five and seven passenger sedans which are noted for accommodating a full complement of passengers without even a suggestion of crowding or squeezing. The amount of leg room and head room in 1929 McLaughlin-Buick bodies is claimed to be truly remarkable and this roominess has been obtained without the loss of a single desirable feature.

The result is achieved, it is explained, because Fisher has taken full advantage of the fact that in applying engineering feature, built into the McLaughlin-Buick chassis, permits the body to be two inches wider.

Adam Hendricks and Mrs. Eva Curtis, neighbors, celebrated their fiftieth birthdays at Manitowac, Wis.

WATCH REPAIRS REQUIRE EXPERT

Watch repairing, like watch making, requires the services of a man who knows his business thoroughly, and it is a foolish person who will trust a valuable watch or clock to someone about whose ability he is uncertain.

J. A. Rowntree, Bridge Street, is an English watchmaking expert and as such is perfectly capable of repairing that watch of yours properly. A graduate of the British Horological School, Mr. Rowntree has been engaged in the watchmaking business for many years so that you may give him the watch or clock with perfect confidence. Since opening his Belleville store on Bridge Street, Mr. Rowntree has gained a wide and favorable reputation in this line.

So next time your watch or clock requires attention, have Mr. Rowntree look after it for you.

BITTER FIGHT TO FEATURE SESSION

British Commons to Open To-Morrow—Last Sitting Before Election

RELIEVE INDUSTRY

Churchill's Revision of Local Government Act Coming Up

London, November 5.— Tomorrow King George will ride in his gilded coach of state to Westminster to open the last session of Parliament before Great Britain's general election.

The session bids fair to be one of the most important in recent years, because it will grapple with drastic revision of the Local Government act foreshadowed by Winston Churchill in last budget.

The Chancellor of the Exchequer made "derating" in British industry the Conservative Party's principal proposal before the election for remedying stagnation in great sections of the nation's trade and hastening the day when unemployment will no longer be a grave national ill. "Derating" means exemption, or partial exemption, from local taxation. "Rates" are the British equivalent for America's local taxes.

Relieve Basic Industries

The Chancellor Churchill proposed to relieve agriculture and other basic industries of the burden of some £100,000,000 they have been paying annually as taxes to the Governments of the localities where they are situated. Naturally such relief meant that the national Government—that is, the nation's income taxpayers—would have to make up that sum annually for carrying on local governmental functions.

Inasmuch as the local Governments, particularly those in the depressed areas where it is hoped the chief relief of taxation will make itself felt, have been notorious for their antiquated methods and extravagance, Mr. Churchill and his associates in the Tory Cabinet knew their proposal would rouse a terrible howl from the income taxpayers unless reforms were instituted immediately.

Change Local Systems

Nothing daunted, they have worked on a complete change in the machinery of village and borough administrations. The areas administering poor law and relief funds have been widened from the borough or village as the unit to embrace whole counties. The whole system of national grants to local authorities has been revised.

Such a sweeping change in the machinery of government naturally affects all manner of persons and institutions. Small portions of the nation's money have been going to help local Government help run the police, schools, hospitals, almshouses and even build their streets. More of the national money is going to these purely local purposes.

MINOR MISHAPS TO MOTOR CARS

Trenton Has Series of Crashes Over Week-End. —None Serious

Trenton enjoyed a full series of minor motor mishaps over the week-end. On Saturday afternoon a car driven by United States tourists turned a complete somersault into a ravine on Dundas street, but thanks to its wheels, was driven off before any inquiries could be made. Apparently, neither car nor passengers suffered any injury.

Dr. George, of Oshawa, broke two wheels of his automobile when he ran over the curb and on to a lawn inside the city limits. Sunday morning a representative of the Canadian Postal Company at Montreal crashed into a truck driven by Frank Castleman, of Trenton, and broke two wheels of his car.

In police court this morning Mr. Gordon, of Trenton, paid $10 and costs for reckless driving following an accident when he crashed into Mr. Clem Nugent's car causing considerable damage.

At first it was thought his wound was serious, but recent reports show that he is progressing favourably.

ROTARY NOT FOR FUN ALTOGETHER

Rotarians today heard an excellent address from the Reverend J. B. Webb of Kitchener, and president of the Rotary Club of that city. Mr. Webb spoke on the subject of "Rotary." "Rotary," he said, "is not a Church. It has never professed to be. There are some people who think that nothing is worth while unless it is a church. But I am a gospel minister, and proud of it. I am also, however, a member of the Rotary Club, and I am not ashamed of that. Both are needed. A minister is a worker. I work as hard as any man in this club, but I like on Monday to go to Rotary and have fun, some laughter.

"Rotary, however," he continued, "is not a carnival. The members of the Rotary Club who think that songs and laughter are the sole object of Rotary, are buffoons! No man has the right to go through life happy—unless he tries to right wrongs. How can men be happy while crippled children run around? They can be happy if they work to help those who need help. Rotary is a mighty big business."

"Rotary, th' definition of Rotary, is an alliance of successful men who recognize their obligations to society.

One Of Party of Five Killed During Search for Bear

In another shooting accident yesterday in Hawrey Township, a few miles north of Peterboro, Rosa Lytle, a native of that district and a son of Reuter Lytle, was shot and killed by a bullet said to have been fired from a rifle in the hands of Jack Ireland, also of Harvey Township. The party of five consisting of four brothers, Jack, Charles, Kenneth and Nelson Ireland and the dead man, Lytle, were out hunting a bear which had been doing some damage around their homes, and it was while on this expedition that the accident occurred.

It is understood that only two shots were fired, one of them from the gun of Lytle, which passed over the heads of some of the other hunters, and struck a tree some distance beyond. Another shot, said to have been from Jack Ireland's rifle was then fired, and Lytle was struck in the temple, the bullet passing completely through his head killing him instantly.

Provincial Constable Harry Thompson of Peterboro, investigated and the post mortem examination was conducted by Dr. Willis of Buckhorn. Coroner Dr. Smith of Lakefield soon arrived on the scene and an inquest will be held.

Jack Ireland was arrested and charged with a breach of the Lord's Day Act as well as a breach of the game laws, shooting on Sunday, although the shooting is thought to have been purely accidental, he will be held until the result of the inquest has been heard.

CLOSE FINISH TO ELECTION FIGHT

Hoover's Chances Appear Better the Eve of the Polling

SMITH CONFIDENT

Democratic Leader's Personality The Best Asset of His Party

Washington, November 5.—The turmoil and the shouting dies. There will be an exchange of kiss between the presidential candidates to-night, but they will be separated from each other by 2,000 miles. There will be last minute rallies, but the campaign oratoric fuss, but by this time there can be little doubt, that the people of the United States have decided in their own minds who is to be their next president. The Literary Digest poll which gives Hoover 43 out of the 48 states, is evidently far astray. Hoover may be elected, and probably will be, but not in such overwhelming fashion.

The Democratic National Campaign Committee claims that Smith is certain of 260 electorial votes or six less than the required majority. The committee also has decided that the additional six votes will be picked up in states which for the present they mark "doubtful." However, it is by no means certain that Smith will carry all of the states labeled Democratic in the committee's forecast.

Doubtful States

The state of New York is still fighting ground for the Republicans. In Maryland, I think the chances are in favor of Hoover. In Massachusetts, Connecticut and Rhode Island if the cold French vote plumps in his favor, but the feud over the school and language question between the French and Irish Catholics is a fly in the Smith Ointment.

In Rhode Island the Republicans are running Jim Herbert for the United States Senate. Some of the Western States, claimed with confidence by the Democrats are at least doubtful and they face the possibility of going Republican. Only a Democratic landslide, of which there seems no way they see no sign or portent, can prevent Mr. Hoover's election as President.

HYDRO FIGHT ON COLLEGE HEIGHTS

This evening at the Prince of Wales School residents of the district north of College Hill will meet to discuss the proposed sale of the Hydro Electric Commission. The trouble has arisen by the fact that the residents in this vicinity do not want to sign a twenty year contract with the Hydro. If they do not sign the Hydro people will have to do without power.

Mr. J. H. Ellis will be at the meeting this evening, but stated to the Intelligencer today that he was not going to speak as he thought there would be any speakers. A similar meeting was held at the school last year.

AVIATION FIELD IS IN COURSE OF CONSTRUCTION AT LEAVENS' FARM

Planned to Provide Runways for Planes of All Sizes

Another development in local aviation is announced by the Leavens' Brothers to-day. They started work this morning on a new privately owned aerodrome at their farm, three miles east of Belleville on Provincial Highway No. 2. It is understood that they have joined two fields together making a landing field of about sixty acres, which will be leveled and which will be equipped with runways for landing heavy planes as well as light.

Since returning to Belleville last year, Arthur and Walter Leavens have done a great deal to advance aviation in this district, and now that they have started a field of their own will no doubt do an even larger business. They failed to interest the City Council in starting a municipal airport in Belleville, and it is due directly to the apathy of the general public in this district that they have started a field of their own. They expect the work on the new field to be finished in about six weeks.

Wellington, New Zealand, Nov. 5.—Commander Richard E. Byrd, arrived here on the first stage of his south pole expedition. Beginning to a civic welcome, Byrd said he would carry the British flag on his flight to the pole in honor of Scott and Shackleton.

Insp. Lougheed's Visit To North Causes Sorrow To Moon Shiners

District Inspector Lougheed, of the Provincial Police accompanied by Excise Officer McLenaghan made a trip to Bancroft Friday and arrested George Rosebush, of Bancroft, who was charged with having illegally manufactured liquor in his possession and with selling it. Magistrate Jarvis sentenced him to a term of three to six months in the Ontario Reformatory and in addition fined him two hundred dollars and costs, the fine being paid.

William Parks and Harold Landon were also charged with the same offence and were fined two hundred dollars each with costs. In default of payment they were sentenced to spend three months in jail, but the fines were paid.

Harold Reid, who was charged with the same offence had his case withdrawn, as it was shown to the satisfaction of the Crown that he had been an innocent party to the offence.

CALL TO WINNIPEG

Dr. F. E. Maiett is Wanted by One of the West's Biggest Churches

Rev. Dr. F. E. Maiett, who for the past six and a half years, has been the pastor of Bridge Street United Church has received a call to Young United Church in Winnipeg, one of the largest churches of that city. It was in this church that the General Council met this year when Dr. Maiett was a delegate. Although Dr. Maiett has not made a decision as to whether he will accept the call, it is understood that he is giving it favorable consideration.

FORM A LADIES AUXILIARY HERE

Grand Lodge of Prentice Boys Approves of Organizing Branch

A special meeting of the Grand Lodge of the Protestant Association of Prentice Boys was held Saturday in the True Blue Hall for the purpose of organizing a Ladies' Auxiliary to the organization. Formerly there has been no women's auxiliary to this club in Belleville. Thirty-four delegates were present and after discussing the question it was decided that such an Auxiliary would be decidedly advantageous and accordingly a committee was appointed under the chairmanship of Grand Master D. J. Bannon. This committee is to draft rules and regulations and will report back to the next regular meeting of the Prentice Boys to be held in the near future.

MOUNT ETNA STILL ACTIVE

Catania, Sicily, Nov. 5.— Recent eruptions of Mount Etna had a violent recurrence today when a new mouth opened. Large quantities of lava flowed toward Nunziatat and the Commune of Nascala. These regions are inhabited by the population by order of the authorities.

GEESE KILLERS GUILTY OF THEFT

Two Who Invaded Sanctuary Are Convicted on First Charge

OTHERS PENDING

Sentence Deferred For A Week—Men Are Given Freedom

Magistrate Mikel this afternoon in Police Court found James Mattis, one of the three men who was charged with stealing geese from the Belleville Sanctuary a few weeks ago, guilty on this count. As a consequence the other two men, one of them the father of James Mattis, and the other George Miller, will also be found guilty of theft.

Two other charges which were laid against the men may or may not be proceeded with, depending on whatever judgment is handed down from the present charge. They are charged with trespassing and with shooting before dawn, both being charges under which they may only be fined. The charge under which they were convicted today calls for a term of imprisonment up to fourteen years, with no option of a fine.

Mr. Mikel had a hard time to decide whether or not the men were guilty of theft when they did not take the geese away with them. However, in James Mattis' confession he declared that "we went to the Sanctuary to shoot some geese. We shot them, picked up seven and then got scared and ran away." This led the Magistrate to believe that they knew they were doing something wrong, or they would not have dropped the geese and run.

Melville, were, week-end guests of Mrs. Sentence was deferred for the three men until a week from today, when they will be brought into court to hear the Magistrate's decision. In the meantime they will be able to go about their ordinary business as they are being held on individual summonses, which require that they appear at that time the Court may sit. Meanwhile, were, week-end guests of Mrs. Mattis and intended to be of high standing in their own community.

STEAMER ON ROCKS IN HEAVY NIGHT FOG

St. Pierre, Miquelon, Nov. 5.—Halifax steamer "Skipper," with a cargo of dull and produce was wrecked off the rocks of Cape Au Diable today while boats were endeavouring to remove the small load before she went to pieces. The skipper became stranded in a night fog. The crew and passengers were removed safely.

MARMORA WILL HAVE GOLF CLUB

Nine Hole Course Laid Out Along Shores of Beautiful Crow Lake

Marmora's next spring will have a modern, up-to-date in every way golf club with links laid out beside the water. Considerable stock has been sold for the venture and Marmora residents are now more enthusiastic over the prospect. Colonel Mills, a golf authority from Toronto, has paid two visits to Marmora this fall to look the ground over, and he has mapped out a modern nine hole course situated in one of the beauty spots of the county of Hastings, near Crowe Lake.

The course is to be the property by the lake for two reasons. Marmora residents state. One for its natural beauty, as the course will run along the lake front for the greater part, and the other for the natural adaptability of the land, with no artificial hazards, but real ones. The country is level near the lake and it will not be hard to make a splendid golf course.

Too Many Eggs In One Basket Brings Grief To Male Shopper

While the busy marketers hurried homeward Saturday, misfortune stalked the footsteps of one of them—a male shopper by the way. Crossing Campbell St. with his market basket firmly clasped firmly in his hand, suddenly he was aware of a shower of eggs, poultry, etc., about his feet and to his consternation beheld that the bottom had fallen out of his basket.

It was a case of putting all one's eggs in one basket, and at the price that eggs are selling at now, one could ill afford to scramble them in the middle of the road. However, miraculous by a few of them remained unbroken, and the family may still have omelet for supper.

TO-DAY'S THOUGHT

The severest punishment suffered by a sensitive mind, for injury inflicted upon another, is the consciousness of having done it.— Hosea Ballou.

TRADE UNIONS FILL AN IMPORTANT PLACE

There are many people who have the erroneous impression that the chief functions of trade unions is to stir up strife between employ's and employes, and to foment industrial strife. That, of course, is by no means the work of trades unions, although they have at times, felt impelled to call strikes in order to achieve some aim which had not been granted them. In some of these strikes, they were ill-advised, and gained no advantage by them, but in others there has been some justification, and they have attained their ends.

Toronto, labor officials, however, in a recent statement, made known to the public another, and a little known side of the trades union work. Five of the largest unions of this continent, it is pointed out, have for years been carrying on a system of old age pensions for retired and disabled members. In Toronto alone, the International Typographical Union is paying pensions of $8.00 a week to 52 members. The bricklayers' Union in the same city has 33 members or widows of members, drawing pensions averaging $364 a year. The International Union of Electric Workers pays $40 a month to members on reaching 50 a year and at the same time, allows them to carry on any trade other than electrical work. More than $40,000 a year is the total of the pensions being paid to aged and disabled printers and bricklayers in Toronto alone.

This is a side of trades union effort which is worthy of commendation, and shows the broad nature of the work these bodies are doing. It is of moment, too, to note that the coming into effect of the Ontario old age pensions scheme will not halt this work, but it will be continued, and will thus lighten the burdens of the province in carrying out the new legislation. And yet, this is only one phase of the worth-while effort of the trades union movement, which has, in the past, been much misunderstood.

NEWSAPERS WIN THE FIRST PLACE

Two striking instances of the recognition given to newspapers Chowadays as advertising mediums have been brought before the public in the last few days. The first was when the Yakima Fruit Growers' Association paid a splendid tribute to newspaper advertising campaign, the status to their members constituting their 1928 campaign. Referring to their newspaper advertising campaign, the directors of this organization said:

"There is no waste—no lost motion. So the advertising for the season of 1928 has been built along these lines—advertisements appearing in the local newspapers where they will do the most good."

The second tribute to the efficacy of newspaper advertising came from the annual convention of the Association of National Advertisers in an address delivered by the manager of the Association of Canadian Advertisers. Giving his views of the value of various advertising plans, he said:

"The usual order of consideration in large Canadian campaigns is first, newspapers; second, magazines, including farm papers; third posters and perhaps radio, with direct mail placed where the advertiser wishes it. In Ontario, for instance, we have found that the intensity of newspaper circulation varies from .18 to .36, while magazines have a fairly even distribution of .04."

Due credit to tributes, it should be remembered, do not come from men advertising with newspapers, but from advertisers, from men who, from years of experience have learned where their advertising brings the best results. The fact that in both cases the newspaper is placed first is proof of the value of that medium for advertising, for these men base their expenditures on the results achieved, and not on mere guesswork.

FEAR OF DISEASE CAUSES SICKNESS

An interesting psychological point was raised in an address delivered to the Eastern Homeopathic Medical Association this week by Dr. Milton J. Rainbeck, of New York city, when he declared that the fear of disease was often more harmful to people than the disease itself. He was supported in this by another prominent doctor, who asserted that in many diseases fear alone was a causative factor.

There is a great deal of truth in this viewpoint. In fact, it might be said that fear of disease is responsible for a good deal of the average doctor's practice. A person may have the idea that he or she is suffering from some disease, simply because of irregularities which make themselves apparent and drive the person noticing them to the doctor's office. Yet, according to Dr. Rainbeck, many of these so-called irregularities are perfectly normal conditions. For instance he said:

"Many people become alarmed unnecessarily at the skipping of their hearts. As a matter of fact, each heart cell is able to originate heart action, and this varies. If a person sits down or exercises strenuously, there is a variation, which is the natural result of different pressures exerted upon the heart. Many people, in my clinical experience, live to a ripe old ag with marked irregularities of heart beats."

In spite of this assurance, however, people will continue to have fear of disease. This is natural under the present economic scheme of things, under which disease often means loss of employment, and of the means of maintenance. Under this scheme, it is but natural that the average worker should have a dread of disease akin to fear, and that the first sign of what appears to be ill health trouble creates a mental attitude which is favourable to the development of disease. Yet there may be some comfort in Dr. Rainbeck's assurance, providing it can be taken to heart sufficiently to enable the average man or woman to remember it the next time they feel the fear of disease making itself felt.

TOMORROW

What of tomorrow, tomorrow?
Vespers are tolling the doubt,
Voicing my heart in its sorrow,
Seeing the sun plotted-out.

What of tomorrow, tomorrow?
Beats the panged pulse of my heart;
Nature next morning will borrow
Sun-tints transcending all art."

—But is that all?—comes my mutter.
"No, nature blossoms and grows;
Yesterday's rosebud," you utter,
"Opens tomorrow, a rose."

—But is that all?—I say chiding,
Grief is your answer in scorn;
Lured into life from its hiding,
See the white butterfly born.

"All through the rare summer hours
Ravished, for nectar it roves;
Resting on fresh rosy flowers,
Happy through gardens and groves."

Likely you think my doubt shaken,
But, I insist, in my sorrow,
Knowing the dead do not waken:
—Ah, but we have the tomorrow!

PASSING YEARS
(From The Intelligencer of this day 50 years ago)

Mr. C. E. Lyons is able to be about again after his recent illness.

Mr. H. F. Keigheson is spending a week hunting partridge in the vicinity of Bancroft.

Miss Grannie of Lancaster, who has completed a course at O. B. C. returned to his home yesterday.

A successful concert was given by the Marmora Anglican Church on Monday evening last. Prof. Willmott and Mr. J. Pattison Way assisted.

James Shappoe, eldest son of Mr. James Sharppee, Strachan Street, died last evening, aged 14 years. He was taken ill Monday night with scarlet fever and became steadily worse until the end came last night.

Mrs. R. J. Graham and child had a narrow escape from serious accident while driving on Trenn Road last evening. The horse ran away throwing them out but they escaped with a few scratches.

The Women's Christian Association met November 1st, 1888. The Hospital Board reports 23 patients have been treated during the month of October. At present there are nine in the hospital.

HAVE YOU HEARD THESE?

"The police think they've uncovered a new murder mystery."

"What are the circumstances?"

"Over at the library they found a man's nose buried in a book."

"Vera isn't speaking to Stella for saying that Thursley is only an apology for a man."

"Why should that worry Vera?"

"Haven't you heard? She's just accepted the apology."

"Hawgh! you heard? She's just for a late vacation: The Joneses are going to mind the cat, aren't they dear?

Wife: Yes.

Husband: And the Browns are taking care of Fido and the parrot?

Wife: Yes, that's the arrangement.

Husband: And baby is going to your mother's—so what about a nice quiet rest at home?

Students Capture Subway Train And Frighten Passengers

New York, Nov. 5—Several Columbia University students took possession of a subway train last night causing passengers to flee to the treets. The students extinguished the lights in seven of the ten cars, ripped down advertising signs and terrified passengers with shouting. Two students were arrested but later released.

GREAT FUTURE FOR YOUNG LOCAL SINGER

Belleville may justly take pride in the accomplishments of her sons and daughters in the realm of Art Literature and Music and the latest name to attain distinction in the outside world is that of Mr. John Deacon. Mr. Deacon has been heard in Belleville on two occasions since acquiring special notice in the world of music and it was the concensus of opinion that he possesses one of the finest tenor voices produced in this city in some years.

In company with Mr. Leslie Hodgson, noted pianist, Mr. Deacon has been making a concert tour of the cities of Western Ontario and has everywhere been highly acclaimed by music critics. The Brantford Expositor, speaking of Mr. Deacon, says of one of his numbers, "Here his tenor voice, powerful expressive, of good quality and natural resonance, was utilized to great advantage." Much may be expected of this popular young Belleville man in future years.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

LIVER NOT REALLY A NEW TREATMENT

Just now as the medical profession is feeling rather pleased with itself for discovering that liver will cure pernicious anaemia, Dr. H. R. Harrower calls attention to the fact that a record of medicinal uses of liver among the ancients was made as long as twelve hundred years ago by Paulus Aegineta of the seventh century.

This old writer stated that if the liver of a mad dog be eaten, it is said to relieve those who have been bitten by him. The liver of goats relieves epileptic attacks; the liver of a lizard when put into decayed teeth relieves the pain; that of the bear relieves the bites of reptiles, and so forth.

Dr. Harrower says the above sounds "absurd" to us, and yet in a very few years ago our present knowledge of liver treatment would have sounded just absurd.

He points to the three preparations now made from liver that have definite effects in the treatment of human ailments.

As you know, the liver manufactures bile which breaks up fats, kills harmful organisms, and is a natural purgative.

It is now possible to secure these bile salts from animals and use them in patients who have an insufficient supply.

Then the liver cells themselves destroy harmful substances. The liver serves as a great filter whereby the waster carried to it from the circulation may be disposed of, and quickly removed from the circulation and from doing harm.

The substance in the liver that does this work was discovered by Drs. Macdonald, Major Harrower, and others. It was found that this substance lowered the blood pressure simply because it destroyed or broke down the waste products that had been increasing the blood pressure.

And Liver, liver itself, as you know, simply eaten as food, stimulates the bone marrow to manufacture more red blood cells, thus enriching blood and curing anaemia.

So you see that the liver of animals is now doing some of the work for man that should be done by his own liver.

PREACHES AT MARMORA

Rev. Chas. W. Bishop, M.A., D.D., Principal of Albert College, was the special preacher at the United Church at Marmora, yesterday, on the occasion of the church's Anniversary. In the morning Dr. Bishop delivered an instructive sermon on "The Meaning of Providence" and in the evening he took as his subject, "Christ the Only Hope." An augmented choir from Deloro rendered suitable music for the occasion. Large congregations were in attendance at both services.

STUDENT MINISTERS HERE

Rev. Mr. Greenwood left the "Y" accompanied today by Trois-Ayo Boy Members of the Associated School groups in the town of Tweed. The boys were accompanied to Belleville by Mr. Lawrason Newton and Bob Sargent, the Y. Secretary, Joe Shortt, took the boys on Gyro floor and gave them an interesting hour and a half in clean and group games and other contests. This was followed by the use of the showers and a series of events in the big swimming pool. The boys thoroughly enjoyed the evening's programme and gave three rousing cheers as they departed for home, at 10.30.

MINISTERS MEET

The Ministerial Association met in the Community Hall, Bridge Street this morning, with Rev. J. A. Black, of Plainfield in the chair. Arrangements were made to hold services at the House of Refuge on the fourth Sunday of every month, Rev. Dr. F. E. Maiolet to be in charge of the first meeting. Rev. W. G. H. Smyth, M.A., B.D., of Wellington gave a very instructive address. Mr. Joe Shortt called the attention of those present to the Attention offered by the Trois-Ayo Boys' Work Conference, held in Toronto this month. Mr. Shortt referred to chaperone any group of boys sent from the Belleville district.

57 YEARS SPENT IN BELLEVILLE

"Chief" John Newton Has Watched Many Changes In This City

Fifty-seven years ago today, ex-chief of Police John Newton arrived in Belleville from the Old Country. At that time he was simply a lad. Since then, a strapping young man full of life and vigor. Some seven years later, on the 15th day of March, 1878, he received his appointment as an officer on the Belleville Police, later becoming chief of the force.

The same year that Belleville became a city, 1878, was the year that "Chief" Newton, as he is called by his hundreds of friends in this city and district first wielded his beat in Belleville. Nine years later he took the position of Chief of Police, a position which he filled to the satisfaction of every one in Belleville until the exception of the law-breakers. At the present time, however, he has chosen and watch the world roll by, "Chief" Newton is Police Court Clerk and talk to his friends on the bench whenever the need arises.

Great Changes in City

Speaking to the Press today, Mr. Newton declared that the changes which he had witnessed in his fifty-seven years in Belleville were remarkable, mentioning especially roads and streets in Belleville and district. "Front Street was a mud hole in my day, the worst street I ever saw," he declared. "With mud sometimes a foot to two feet deep. The stores have changed with the times, too, as well as the difference between then and now."

Mr. Newton remembered the old Fire Engines, manned by a crew of volunteers which would come tearing up the street to the scene of the fire, and the hard work which was entailed by those who were in charge. At that time there were not water-works, and all the water used had to come out of wells by the buckets full made on the hand pump. "Belleville has certainly made enormous strides since those days," the veteran engineer wishes to congratulate Mr. Newton on his fifty-seven years of faithful service to this city.

MEN OF BRIDGE ST. CHURCH MEET

Bridge St. United Church Men's Association meeting yesterday afternoon was addressed by Rev. Seymour, Field Rep. of Albert College. His theme was "God in Our World". It proved to be a very helpful gathering and hearty singing of favorite hymns was manifest. Capt. Thos. Huston presided for as president of this organized body.

"Through Jesus, His Son, God spoke to our world, said Rev. Seymour and why not also His Spirit through man. His crowning creation? In His keaer creative nature of vegetation and the mineral kingdom we cat discern the hand of God, likewise in provision for His beings we acknowledge Him. Through worship and the sacraments we get in touch with the Christ and we ought to be careful as to how we challenge others because they contend the Divine Host comes in contact with them in such occasions." Rev. Seymour discussed personal feelings of the minister as to what worship meant in the pew. "God is also in true science" further remarked the speaker, "and the way He is best revealed to the world was not through miracles but by how mankind saw God exemplified in the lives of His followers. They may at times tend to deny his perneat ing influence as Christians can know the Redeemer and instil Him into the lives of others." At the close Rev. Dr. Maiolet led in discussion of this important subject which is coming to the fore front in modern times.

WILL NOT TAKE BACK MEN WHO LEFT JOBS

Eleven men in the plating department of the Springer Lock Works who staged a "walk-out" on Friday, with no apparent reason, and refused, according to the company officials the reason for their sudden exit, were back bright and early on Saturday morning looking for the r jobs again. Their positions, however, had been filled and they were not re-engaged.

Speaking to the Intelligencer today, Mr. Loyal R. McLean superintendent of the Springer works said that the positions of the strikers were filled almost immediately after they had left. "Why," he said, "we have to date over fifty applications for their jobs. They were not skilled workers and were not hard to replace. They gave us no reason for their sudden departure and when they came back asked re-applied for their positions, we naturally refused them. I am sure I dont know what the matter was, but I believe that they didn't like a new foreman that had been placed over them. There was nothing to do with money or wages, in the matter so far as I know."

HEAD OF HUDSON BAY CO. VISITED RELATIVES HERE

Pleased and Surprised at Growth of the Canadian West

Mr. Charles V. Sale, of London, England, Governor of the Hudson Bay company was a distinguished visitor to Belleville over the week-end, stopping off here to visit his sister-in-law, Mrs. F. Wilson, William Street. Mrs. Wilson entertained a small party of distinguished friends in honor of her brother-in-law on Saturday night.

Interviewed by the Intelligencer on Sunday morning, Mr. Sale did not care to talk "shop." Humorous little anecdotes, a glowing tribute to this country to which he hoped and wanted to come back next year; the story of the unveiling a tablet to the memory of the George Simpson, on Bath Road to Lower Bell Windermere, and the flourishing condition of Winnipeg were what he seemed to want to discuss.

Mr. Sale arrived in Canada in August, landing at Montreal and going immediately west to visit the principal cities where his company has posts. He spent some time in Winnipeg where they have opened one of the finest retail establishments in Canada, Mr. Sale declared that the heart was the unveiling of the memorial to Sir George Simpson on the Banff-Windermere highway. This plaque was unveiled on the 100th anniversary of Sir George's arrival at Fort St. James, on the 11th of September, 1828. On this spot was established by the Historic Sites and Monuments Board of Canada.

A tall, upright, kindly figure, the governor of the Hudson Bay Company, Mr. Sale does not appear to be as being the head of a big commercial concern. He has more the appearance of a retired professional man. Before Mr. Sale made the return trip from Winnipeg via Chicago. He left yesterday afternoon for the city of his birth from where he will sail to England.

HOLLOWAY HELD LAYMEN'S NIGHT

Y's Men to the number of over this were present at the Y's Men's meeting evening at the Holloway Street United Church, the whole service being directed by Mr. Lawson Graham. Archibald and Ackerman who were representing this Bay of Quinte Conference at the Layman's Convention some few weeks ago in Toronto made their reports in ten minute speeches. Mr. Graham then in a few words mention the need for the support of Home and Foreign Missions, as well as the Superannuated Ministers giving to the Bay of Quinte Conference.

During the evening three solos were rendered, one by Jack Andrews, one by Harold Howard and the fourth by Richard Arnott. A quartette composed of Messrs. Andrews, Howard Arnott and Cole also gave a rendition for the Y's Men's Club. On the whole, this first effort of the Y's Men's Club in mass singing was beyond expectations and should be a first step in the right direction for the formation of a Glee Club among the members of the Y's Men's Club.

PRINCE EDWARD MAN ON SERIOUS CHARGE

Albert McCoy, a former resident of Prince Edward, is held in the Bathurst-Colebi jail charged with manslaughter as the result of shooting a man in Sudbury. He has been gone from this territory a little less than six months, and although the name of the victim is not known here, it is understood that the two were on a hunting trip when the shooting occurred.

ALBERT COLLEGE FANCY

A most pleasant evening was spent at Albert College on Saturday night, following the rugby game. A "Hallowe'en" party was given by the students and about fifty masqueraded couples played games, marched through the buildings, and had a supper shortly after eleven o'clock. This is the second year that such a party has been given at the college.

New Life in an Old Back

A back is only as old as the nerves that control the back muscles permit it to be. A youthful back is possible all through life if care is taken to keep these nerves free of spinal irritation.

If a nerve suffers pressure between the spinal joints, it is unable properly to control the muscles in which it terminates. But spinal pressure can easily be removed if Chiropractic spinal adjustments are taken in time.

By my Chiropractic health method I correct dis-eases of the eyes, ears, nose, throat, lungs, heart, stomach liver kidneys bowels and lower organs.

Just For The Feminine Reader

LEARN TO LOOSEN APRON STRINGS

Many excellent mothers to small children are not successful mothers to big children. They forget that the boys and girls are growing up so fast and have minds and wills of their own and are able to exercise some judgment—and are bound to do so. It is not wise for a mother to boss her older children too strictly, to plan for them every little detail of their lives and always tell them to get on their rubbers or come home early.

The nagging mother, who is too exacting with her growing children, will find them beginning to deceive her. They want to avoid a "fuss" or a "lecture" and they will argue that "mother doesn't understand;" so they will not let her know. It is safer for the child and makes for better companionship between mother and son or daughter, if mother begins gradually to loosen the reins, as the child begins to develop in experience and wisdom.

A mother never really does her duty by her child until she teaches him how to get along without her. This is best done by giving him more freedom to think for himself and to make his own decisions and become self-reliant. If you want your children to mind you, make your orders sufficiently elastic. "If you want to hold them close in confidence, learn when it is wise to be deaf and dumb and blind.

HAPPY BABIES
MEET AT THE CLINIC

"Hello Sweetheart," said the Victor Ian Nurse to a small visitor at the Baby Clinic, on Friday afternoon. "That ain't sweetheart. That's Hazel Aldine," corrected the older sister with the superior knowledge of four-years-old. They were all there yesterday. Little bundles of pink femininity and bundles in blue shawls that were boys. They cried in all notes of the scale from the piercing crescendo of the new babies to the deeper wails of the old-timers. But the nurse had a smile for them all, and they all had a smile for her. The worried new mother learned valuable information and the experienced mother brought her difficulties as well, and all went away wiser. We would like to suggest a visit to the clinic for more of the women in Bellevilleven if they have not children of clinic age, that they may appreciate the valuable work done in our community since the establishment of the Baby Clinic.

EVERY WOMAN SHOULD BE ATTRACTIVE

Many women, especially mothers of young growing families, pass quickly over the beauty hints in the daily papers as an unworthy distraction, their chief interest seems to lie in new recipes and how to make the home attractive. Now these are both necessary and laudable pursuits, every woman owes a duty, to not only her husband and family, but to herself, and that duty is to make herself just as attractive as she possibly can. Not all of us are beautiful, alas only the privileged few have been so favored by the gods, but every woman, with very few exceptions can make herself attractive especially in the eyes of those who love her. Care and attention to the little details is necessary. The hair should be thoroughly attended, everybody can spare a little money for a marcel if that be becoming. Cosmetics, subtly, are not to be lavishly applied, are always an improvement. A certain touch of rouge enlivens a pale complexion—and no nose should be shiny. If you need a new dress, mother, or if that, year's hat is shabby but still—no don't make it do another season, therefore the new dress for the living-room window, let them go till next month and get that new hat, you will feel more cheerful and happier and the family will reflect your mood. Everybody else pulls out for themselves and so should mother.

The New GURNEY CHANCELLOR RANGE

For many years steel ranges have been compared in value with the Gurney "Chancellor", as good as the Chancellor, has been the objective, but life have attained it.

During the years Gurney has been making the Chancellor, new ways of improving it were being found. This new model is the outcome of experience, and is primarily designed as the house-wife's range—every feature is for her convenience; nothing has been left out that would lighten her work.

Some Points of Interest

1.—The Chancellor has a full 20" oven; six nine-inch covers (one reducing); a choice of either flat or fluted grates; a well designed firebox of ample capacity for economy and a reliable even thermometer. A waterfront, or a large enamel type reservoir, can be supplied.

2.—The Chancellor provides a choice of finishes to suit everybody.

3.—When fitted with a high closet the Chancellor is equipped with the Gurney "Economizer"—the easy fire regulator.

Advice to Girls

By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE.

I am a girl of eighteen and I have been going with boys for about three years. I finished high school last year.

For the past two years I have been going with a certain boy. For that time no one could be so happy as we were. We were always together and he would never speak to other girls, and he said he didn't care to, for it was me that he wanted. Now, for the past eight months, I have been going with another boy. All of this time I continued to have dates with both of them. Since the first boy was so jealous of me, we began to have fusses, but we loved each other, too much to let it stand. We were planning on getting married when he finished school, which will be in about two years. For the past three weeks he has been acting indifferent. He came to me and told me that he didn't love me be no one did and didn't care to foll me. Now he very seldom speaks to me and I just can't stand it any longer.

How in the world can I win him back? I don't care for these other boys I went with, I never went with them to pass away the time and I didn't think it would or could ever break up.

BROKEN-HEARTED CHERRY.

BROKEN-HEARTED CHERRY: A girl always makes a mistake by going out with one man to be the confidant of all others, unless she is engaged. To begin with, I don't think the young man should feel as he does simply because you went out with someone else. He is not in a position to marry you yet, as you say he has two more years of school. Therefore, I think that he is extremely selfish to try to keep you from your other friends. I shouldn't make myself unhappy were I in your place, my dear. As you say, it is absurdly jealousy, and even though you may think how much your heart is hurt it will soon mend if you try to forget. Don't wear your heart on your sleeve: if the young man truly loves you he will come back some day, but as he has told you that he doesn't care as much as he did formerly you should have too much pride to throw yourself at him. There are plenty of aching hearts in the world, my dear, masked with a gay smile, and you are very young. Therefore, I'm hoping that in time you will forget and find your great happiness with someone else. Perhaps it may be with the one of whom you now speak. At any rate, try to forget for the time being at least. However, always maintain a friendly attitude toward the young man.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

Last summer while at camp, I met a young man whom I came to love dearly. When I came home we corresponded for about two months. The last letter I received seemed a little cool. Lately, I wrote a very "chilly" one in return. Was that right, I'm sorry now for what I've done, but I can't imagine why he acts so. What shall I do?

BRIGHT EYES.

BRIGHT EYES: I don't think there is anything you can do, my dear. However, I do think you were in the wrong in writing in the same vein as did the young man. Many things may have happened to make his letter seem cold and your reply may have hurt him very much. So just wait and see how his next letter sounds.

Gay Adventurers By Mildred Barbour

CHAPTER 16
THE RECKONING

Never will Sheila forget the hours that followed her hurried exit from the Palace Hotel on leaning that the Count de Bellefonte was in Paris and wished to see her—that he, he wished to see Constance Kerr, and, since Sheila was impersonating the heiress, she was the person he would see. And, then the game would be up!

The Count would realize at once that the girl who called herself Constance Kerr was, in reality, an impostor. He would summon her to the manager of the hotel, and would summon the police. Then jail, and heaven knows what else. So Sheila reasoned, at any rate.

"Why had she allowed herself to be dragged into Constance's mad scheme?"—she asked herself, for the hundredth time. With the consequences of her folly staring her in the face, it was so easy to see that she should have said: "No, Miss Kerr, even though we are so much alike in appearance that our own mothers couldn't tell us apart, it would be sheer insanity for me to attempt to impersonate you, even for a few days. Something would be sure to go wrong."

And why had she not foreseen the possibility of Myra's taking a fast boat and reaching Paris before she did? Her adventure did not seem half so alluring now. For a moment she almost wished herself back in her gokey home town.

But neither Myrn nor Tommy had any idea of the thoughts that were whirling through their companion's mind that afternoon as they set out to explore Paris. For no one had told them that she was not Constance Kerr, they would have dismissed the statement with a laugh. They were bent on having a good time.

As for Sheila, she had no idea to stay away from the hotel as long as possible. She thought she would return after midnight, pack a bag, and go to some obscure little hotel until Constance arrived, according to her promise. She would bribe the maid to keep her secret. That was the immediate problem was to keep Myra and Tommy so amused that they wouldn't want to go back to the hotel. And that was a difficult task, for she didn't know Paris.

Myra wanted to visit the Latin quarter and dine there; Tommy was for having Montmartre. Sheila suddenly became inspired. "Why not visit both sections?" she asked herself. She seemed to remember hearing some one say that they were some miles apart. While Myra and Tommy wrangled, she signaled a taxi and told the chauffeur that she and her friend wished to visit Montmarte and the Latin quarter. The trip would be a surprise for them. Nothing loth, they started off for the left bank, chatting gaily.

But presently Tommy grew uneasy. "I say, Constance," he protested. "Where's the Montmartre? Weren't in the hill? That section is the highest point in Paris. This driver's crazy. And I'm starved."

"Why, Tommy" said Sheila, with an air of surprise, "I must have misunderstood. I'm terribly sorry. I thought you wanted to dine in the Latin quarter. How stupid of me!"

But Tommy refused to be mollified. "You did it on purpose," he growled. "I know you. I bet you're trying to hunt up some old beau who used to live around here."

Sheila spoke to the driver, and he started off at a furious pace in the opposite direction. The occupants of the taxi were thrown violently against the jolts and bumps, but Tommy managed to say: "I'm famished. Don't know but what we'd better go back to the hotel. Won't take so much time."

"Nonsense," Sheila protested. "don't be a spoil-sport. I know just the place. And—"she suppressed a shudder as the taxi shrank of the snails, with garlic sauce, and the eels, and the frogs' legs.

"Oh, all right," he muttered, "but let's make it snappy. I want to get back to the hotel fairly early. I'm leaving tomorrow, you know."

"So am I," said Myra. "Let's step on it."

As the cab tore down Place Pigalle, Sheila was wondering how she would make good on her promise to find just the right place to dine. Then, when her quick eye caught a glimpse of a sign in the window of a tiny cafe that evidently catered to the artistic trade. In letters a foot high was printed the word "Snails."

"Here we are," she cried, and the cab came to a stop. When dinner was over and they were on their way back to the hotel, Sheila tried to persuade her companions to make a tour of the cabarets. Myra withered her with a look. "At this time of the year?" she cried. "Sheila, I thought you knew Paris."

At that moment the press of traffic halted them beside a huge bus that was half-filled with tourists. A guide took advantage of the halt to drum up business.

"See Versailles by moonlight," he urged. "Fifty francs—"

Sheila jumped out of the cab. "Come along," she called to Myra and Tommy. "This is rare. Let's go."

"Constance, you are mad," they said, in one breath. "This is just a ride to the palace gates. You can't get into the grounds at this hour."

"But the ride's lovely," she argued desperately. "Mother and I took it once, and she adored it."

"Bridge," said Myra. "Your mother wouldn't drive to Versailles in that truck, M. Louis XIV was waiting for her. What's the matter with you?"

But, in the end, Sheila had her way. "I'll go alone," she threatened. "That record Tommy is so terrible." "Alone on Myra," he said. "We can't leave her. She's apt to do most anything."

On the return trip, several miles from the city, the motor stalled. It was finally forced into action, but the bus had to crawl along at minimum speed. It was after midnight, when the weary trio reached the hotel. With hardly a word, they went to their respective quarters.

The maid was dozing in a chair when Sheila entered her sitting-room. She awoke and sprang up, fumbling in her apron pocket.

"A note for you, please," she said. "The gentleman he wait in the saloon near the staircase."

"Tell him I'll see him in the morning," said Constance, staring at the card.

The maid nodded and then a loud rap sounded on the door.

"Might as well face the music," Sheila to herself. To the maid, "Open the door."

The next second the Count de Bellefonte stood before her.

SINCLAIR'S

WHAT'S NEW

(From A Woman's Standpoint)

At the present moment there is a regular Napoleon vogue in France and every night it is possible to see all the four Napoleons represented on the French stage at the same time.

Among a recent London broke's presents the most interesting was the stole of stone marten lined with ermine, which was a gift from some forty girl friends, among whom are Miss Phyllis Astor, Lady Anne Cavendish, Miss Phyllis Spender-Clay, Miss Rachel Spender-Clay, Lady Jane and Lady Anne Egerton, Lady Alexandra Haig and Lady Rachel Howard.

Paris reports that wrist watches are smaller than ever and to add to the loveliness of their size are mounted on two very fine black silk cords which make a double bangle around the wrist and narrow black ribbon is used in the same way, while for sport use the last word is a flat octagonal gold watch set in two narrow thongs of pigskin.

One of the most striking features at a recent big London wedding was the lack of decoration within the church, for this consisted almost entirely of sinnias, great jars of which were placed on carved wooden pedestals by the chancel steps and in the chancel itself, and it is being noted that the custom from being regarded as a somewhat humble and nonde. script-flower, has leaped into popularity, and is used for bridesmaids' bouquets as well as for church and home decoration.

Lewis Coe, Canada.

The Democrats made no mistake in nominating Smith. Their only hope was a candidate of such power and personality that he would attract millions of voters who had no great confidence in, or respect for, the Democratic party. Smith's conduct of the campaign has been magnificent and he has made no blunder from the beginning to the end of it. His speeches have been heard over the radio by millions of people and they have undoubtedly created a most favorable reaction. The intelligentsia of the country, the writers, musicians, philosophers are in the main supporting him in the large cities at least, he seems to be the idol of the common people. He has lazy good the imagination of the young people to an extraordinary degree. Smith has been the dominant figure in this campaign. The only way to elect Hoover or Age at Al Smith, Nobody seems for or against Mr. Hoover personally, but there is no way to beat Smith except by electing Hoover.

Hoover Loses Popularity

Sir Auckland Geddes says Hoover was a great personality. He made a strong appeal to the business men who got control of the big war jobs and to the smaller fry—the Babbitts, the Rotarians, the Boosts of Trade, and the Chamber of Commerce. And with communists still hitching up with the Republican party and with Republicans like Hoover the apostle of standardization, the perversion of efficiency, the party has lolled backward.

Yet at the same time he made a powerful appeal to the more westernprogressive element. Only a few years America stood fifty or more a gigantic war was being waged for the preservation of democracy. The cold spiritual outlet, the American people "out during the long period was of effort to feed the starving people of Belgium and to his work Mr. Hoover took a commanding part. He was the self who not popular in many parts of the United States and when it was over the people showed no disposition to make a military hero president. but there was considerable sentiment in favor of Hoover for a time as early as 1920. One would have thought six months ago that the personality of Mr. Hoover would be the great asset to the Republican party in 1928.

But events moved faster than men. Mr. Hoover, who is shy and self-contained to the point of aloofness, inspired no enthusiasm. He was the first to feel that the Hoover public appearances he made the better it would be for his campaign. Moreover he was handicapped by his association with the "old" school to 60. The Republican National Campaign Committee never ceased to function except in a perfunctory way—and the battle for the White House was almost entirely carried on by the National Anti-Saloon League and the Ku Klux Klan.

With neither of these organizations, nor with their propaganda, was Mr. Hoover sympathetic. Neither of them cared a straw about him except as the perquisite of Smith. And Hoover personally faded from the public gaze and developed no strength because he was not a politician. A politician candidate would have developed.

On the other hand Governor Smith has steadily grown in influence and personal popularity. Governor Smith he has been unable to make the aggressive campaign which his friends and which, if carried out, would have secured him many of the big industrial states now counted as safe Republicans. The unexpected happened in the Democratic state convention as the prohibition issue was concerned, they would have given him no trouble. Then was practically no Republican can party in the south, and the Democratic Democrats would, in most, have refrained from voting. Smith would then have been free to press the wet and dry issue all the Industrial states from Massachusetts to Illinois, and would probably have carried them all. But it soon appeared that he and his southern supporters had absolutely underestimated the anti-Catholic sentiment in the south. The Ku Klux Klan soon fanned the smouldering sentiment into a furious flame.

Spt Point at Issue

It seemed at one time as though Smith might win enough states to carry every southern state. The issue

Many local radio fans were surprised to tune in on Saturday afternoon and hear announced from one of the Toronto stations the fact that Albert College had Beaubien Piston by 31-0.

Belleville is being appreciated at last.

Few people had great reception of Jack Beacon's reception over the air the other night and sonhe, a good many in fact, couldn't find the station at all. CFCA is hard to locate in Belleville for some reason.

Reception over the past wood coil, wasn't so good. On Saturday night it wasn't up to a great deal, but Sunday saw some good programmes brought in.

A nice compliment to the Victor Radio Company that their sets were installed in all radio-carring Canadian National Railway trains, preference another company model.

Television broadcasting sounds very much like a video ray. The main difference is that it isn't so vicious.

City Boarder (watching Farmer Timothy milk the cow): "Oh, yes, that set has four tubes, hasn't it?"

Soon offered to the wearied ex-perimenter by Handley-Carry Limited: "Sterling Power Outfit transformer—$2.94" We have sent for this and will set it to work clearing the old five-tuber into an A.C. percolating superhet with tone-filter attachment. While one is transforming the outfit, the job might as well be a thorough one.

NOVEMBER TO BE WET AND COLD

Veteran Predicts a Short Mild Winter But a Late Spring

Kingston, November 5—Frank Dow, the veteran weather forecaster of Ogdensburg, N.Y., says November will be cold, wet and stormy and a very bad month. Dec. struck it right in that respect. It was cold, stormy, and wet boots and the rubber coat and umbrella handy, for it will be very much the unsettled side.

Indian summer in November will be almost to much. Get the wet coal shovel out and don't forget the famous snow shovel. The coal men will get in a good stroke in November. December will be a 'better month' with fair and frosty weather. Winter will be short and very much on the mild side. But spring will be late. Don't plant for early frost spring, for your efforts will be wasted. Spring will be late, cold and wet. Christmas, clear; New Years, fair and cold; St. Patrick's Day—Oh what a fine day, with mild wind, rain and temperatures.

What traffic will not be held by much with snow, for the rains will sweep it off from time to time. The only thing that will cause a delay is just decorate the sidelines this year until January 1. The winter is going to be mild, just short cold spells and there will be no danger at all of creeks, rivers or lakes freezing over during this rainy month just ahead of us."

Sir, religion was so interlaced with the prohibition issue that something had to be done to save the Solid South. Hence the change in Democratic religion, but he could and did not repeal his views on prohibition. Moreover, the issue was not then pressed with any force or fire even in the big industrial states. It is not today a major issue in the campaign. Meanwhile the religious issue in the south has since grown in bitterness. Charles Noble MacCracken, president of Hendrix College, Arkansas, issued a statement that in one thousand churches this coming Sunday night and Sunday evening services will be followed by or held in conjunction with, a meeting of the Ku Klux Klan. Many advertisements announcing meetings of this kind are appearing in the local newspapers of nearly every small town in the state of New York.

Boy, 18, of Cacho-Slovakia, toured every state in U.S., in less than five months.

REGENT

There are many big thrills in the picture but the drowning one is when Robert Gordon as the clown faces ruination and Dorothy Dale one of them actually sprigs off him and throws him to the ground. He falls in the lake in an unusual manner.

An intimate behind-the-scenes atmosphere prevails and the director has a great scene inside views of circus life that reveal things about the tent dwellers that are not usually known.

"Hearts and Spangles" is from an original story by Norman Hanford and Ralph Graves and was directed by Frank Tuttle. He also directed "The Speed Limit" and "One of the Bravest" for Gotham Productions. Today at the Regent.

BELLE THEATRE

Miss Daniels' role in "Take Me Home" is an entirely different one from those in which her fans have watched before. She is cast as a chorus girl in a New York musical comedy who helps a young man win a job in the show and then falls in love with him. Her characterization is an outstanding performance for film. Comedy has been chiefly with drama emphasized.

Richard Arlen and Jack Oakie complete the star with Joe E. Brown, Julyan Tashman and Doris Hill sharing up the honors in the featured roles.

"Take Me Home" is the current attraction at the Belle Theatre.

COLDS

Some people wonder why they have a cold nearly all the time while other people seldom have colds. The answer is simply this: people who are subject to colds are in a run-down condition. That means they are not getting enough fresh air into their lungs, that the organs of elimination can't carry them off. The stomach is disordered, the bowels sluggish, the kidneys overworked and you have contracted a cold.

But a clean cut and definite cause for the gradual accumulation of waste or poison in our bodies?

We would be glad to explain to you the cause also how you may be removed, if you will call at our office.

ALBERT PLAYED BRILLIANTLY TO WHITEWASH PICTON ON SATURDAY

College Lads Win Game By Big Score of 21-0

MUDDY FIELD

Sutherland Plays Splendid Game For His Team, Jenkins Too

(By K. C. W.)

The invincible, unbeatable fact. Picton Collegiate Institute team was scrapped, ragged and rolled in the mud on Saturday afternoon to be whitewashed by Albert College, whipped by the ingenious score of twenty-one to nothing. From the opening whistle until full-time, Picton never had a shot at a show, the team standing ten to nothing at half-time and after that it was easy for the local lads. Albert played a brilliant game both on the offensive and defensive. Only three times were the P. C. I. positioned any closer to the Albert goal than twenty yards and in most of the game were battling in their own territory fighting hard to stop the score from assuming much greater proportions than it did.

There are some players' names that should go down on the Albert College sport annals for evermore. Youill, Mabee, Jenkins, Purchase, Thompson, Hart, Anglin and Sutherland. There are many names to remember. Young fifteen-year-old Thompson, who only kicked, out-started and outplayed the Picton punter, a man older and more experienced than himself. Youill and Sutherland (better known as "Rads"); who broke through a strong defence to smother a punt and both got touch downs. Jenkins, who is so surely that he is right by the receiver's hands long before the ball ever gets there, a marvellous tackler and line plunger. Youill and Mabee, two husky linesmen, both adept "murderers" and good for yards every time, and plenty of yards! Hart, a brainy kicker, and brilliant tackler and strong back-field man; Purchase, the "head-seeker" of heads of the team, who on Saturday twice broke away and gained some lengthy for twenty-five yards, the best and most brilliant quarter-back seen around here in years and the finest broken-field runner in the district.

And little "Chink" Anglin, scoring a rugby helmet, can weave his body in and out of more tight corners and through more holes to the opposition than a good many. In fact he found one so big he got a touch-down! They were all good. Jenkins excepted, Reid, played an irreproachable game and Clement hit the line more than once for a good gain. Harton, Edwards and all the subs, they were all right on their toes on Saturday and showed just how rugby should be played.

There were decidedly no brilliant players of Picton, on Saturday, although they fought hard and tried to save the game. The whole team, perhaps, stood out head and shoulders above the rest was Wright, the wicky flying wing, and it generally is talk about these Albert players to other than once she had started. His running mate, Hyatt, and Hicks and Van Deusen, in the backfield, put up a nice show, but couldn't go much, or really anything at all with the Albert line. I don't think that the Picton team made over twenty-five yards in gains the whole game and they continually had to kick to save themselves. A solid scrum will, in the form of the Albert College line, absolutely and utterly broke up any plays that Picton tried to shoot through the line.

The Purple and Edward aggregation this year has been noted for its many scrums. Saturday's field was a fine one muddy and wet to make an end run feasible, although one or two were tried, and came to grief. Picton's end runs worked much better in Picton, on Thursday, on a dry field.

The first half opened up shortly after two thirty and it was only a few seconds before Albert had scored on a lovely kick by Thompson, Jenkins downing his man behind the line. A few minutes after Thompson kicked again, and yet a little later again, all counting one point. Before the quarter has ended "Onnie" Earl had booted a lovely one over the line to bring the score up to four to nothing.

In the second quarter, shortly after it began, with Picton fighting against their own goal line, Youill plunged through to smother a kick and fell over the line behind the touch line, another five points to his team's credit. Mabee, an expert drop-kicker, converted, to make seven points. The half-time whistle blew with no more scoring, but the Picton goal was continually menaced.

Eleven points were garnered in the last two quarters and the Albert boys played even better football in the latter half of the game than they did at first. It was in the third and fourth quarters that the subs were given a chance, and it was in the fourth quarter that Purchase twice, broke away to gain about twenty or twenty-five yards, and Youill twice nearly making a touchdown. Jenkins, too, was just pulled down in the nick of time after a splendid twenty yard dash.

In the third quarter, with Picton backed right up against their two yard line, "Rads" Sutherland smashed through with the same results, as Youill, he smothered the kick and got a touchdown. He recovered the ball in the stomach, by the way, and for a short time was slightly out of breath.

In the last and final quarter "Chink" Anglin completed the good work by scarcely dashing some ten yards or so through the whole Picton team to get a third touchdown. Twas all over but the cheering. Shortly after this, the game ended.

Post Mortems

(By K. C. W.)

Patting the old back today!

For who prophesied in Thursday's edition that Albert College would overwhelm Picton on Saturday?

But the local lads have a coming to them. They did Picton proud in everything but the goal posts and soon battered it into submission.

This Snap "Buds" Sutherland, of Albert, played the game for the first time in his life this year. Who would not think so to see him on Saturday.

Got to give a snap credit when he can get a touchdown all on his own hook.

Albert boys claim that their win on Saturday was due to the presence of Mrs. Bishop on the field.

This boy Jenkins is about the hardest fighting man on the team. He's short, but oh! built right close to the ground. And weight about a hundred and sixty.

Oh when he hits the old line, something happens, usually.

Howard Purchase is another and miniature edition of Harold "Red" Orange. There is absolutely nobody in this district that can equal him in broken-field running. He's ashamed of himself if he doesn't make twenty yards or so each time. Orange of Picton, is somewhat of the same calibre.

Well, they're off to Cobourg next Friday or Saturday. Peterborough will need to play a good, keen game to come out top dog.

YOUR EYES and Our Service

By J. A. McFEE, Optometrist Belleville

Classified from Saturday

The Optometrist is a potential factor in public welfare?

Yes, his profession is of great value in the improvement of health and efficiency.

What is essential before the Optometrist can exercise his influence toward public improvement?

A recognition on the part of the public as to the value of Optometry.

Who may practice Optometry?

Only those who have given proof of their ability.

Besides the detection and correction of errors of vision, what other studies must the Optometrist pursue?

He must be familiar with the construction of the eye, its functions, its effect upon health, its influence as a cause of functional disturbances, and other subjects, all tending to assist him in rendering a beneficial service to his patients.

"News In The Air"

By R. T. C.

Published Fortnightly

In the October issue of the Canadian Air Review, one of Canada's fine aerial magazines, is listed the fact that Walter T. Lowrens was granted a commercial air pilot's license on the 13th day of July, 1928, and that Arthur D. Leavens, also of Belleville, was issued an air engineer's license on the same day. Both these lads have made rapid strides in their chosen profession, until now they are rated as two of the best in this section of Ontario.

Importance of Hangar as an Aid

A definite recognition of the growing importance of an airport for Halifax has been granted by the City Council in the form of a resolution adopted without a dissenting voice, as follows: "Resolved that the committee or works together with the city engineer, be appointed, as an aviation committee to take steps to ascertain if suitable land can be had, and submit a report on its cost at the next meeting of the Council." It is understood that an airport is planned at Middlewitch, near St. John, New Brunswick, and that a hangar is said to provide a large and up-to-date commercial flying field, with facilities for both land and sea planes.

Speeding up Mail

The "Le-Be-France," a Transatlantic liner, has been fitted up as an airplane carrier by the French Government, and a similar one is to be made in this place, calling at commercial centres of Victoria where the first mail is to be delivered by plane, states that these flights are being made as a test, and if successful six "Moth" planes will be purchased for the maintenance of a systematic service in sections of the State.

At that, it begins to look as though there was going to be a mail service which went up from the Albert players that they should have won the first game, had they been treated half fairly.

Albert now journeys to Cobourg next Saturday to meet either Peterboro or Oshawa in deciding semi-finals in a sudden death game for the championship of Central Ontario. Should Albert win this game they will next meet the Eastern Ontario representatives, probably Ottawa.

That is looking rather far ahead, but Albert has shown that they are a team to be feared. Some of the boys have been through. There are no particularly fast runners on the team, but they all know what to do when they get in, ball and they know how to take advantage of any break which may come their way.

On the whole, these Albert College boys look like the makings of champions. Delta Collegiate, last year's champions, were eliminated this year, not even winning their own group, and who knows but what Albert College may not be the team to take the vacant seat?

McGill caused much sorrow around Queen University over the week-end, and the one armed hunters in the Dominion City are well filled with meat. Last time Three McGill fans were not at all delighted, and the boys must be taking dental courses, for they sure were good at "extracting."

NON PARTISAN FAMILY

Triplets Named After Three Presidential Candidates

Passaic, N.J., Nov. 5.—There is at least one strictly non-partisan family in this municipality.

Triplets, all boys, were born to Mrs. E. B. Calvert today. They were named Herbert Hoover Calvert, Alfred Smith Calvert and Norman Thomas Calvert after the Republican, Democratic and Socialist presidential candidates respectively.

BUILD HOUSES WITH CHARACTER

Individuality Is Predominant Among New Builders of Homes Here

Toronto, (CP)—"One thing that impresses anyone who travels over Canada, Newfoundland to the Pacific people, everywhere, are beginning to build houses with character and individuality." So declared Mrs. Fergus Hume, of the Helicolan Club. He then took his audience into several houses, one of which was Mrs. Fergus Hume's home on the Island of Orleans, with its terraces and its lyrebirdness, and its ornamentation, reared by Mr. Fergus from an old Toronto house that was being torn down. In this house there are many recommendations from the hands of many Canadian artists, who have visited it for a few days and left a happy memory behind. Some of these murals represent homely scenes on the island ploughing, sugar-stirring, fishing, and so on—and Mr. Hodgins pointed out the moral that our houses should be built in the atmosphere of our life. He gave an amusing picture of the standardized house with its chesterfield suite and went on to examine critically note in house furnishing, declaring that it had awakened us from men tality sleep as an alarm clock wakens us from beauty sleep.

CREDIT COMING TO ALBERT COACHES

To two men at Albert College, Mr. Pierce and Mr. Taylor, is due a whole lot of credit for the remarkable show that the college rugby team has made this year. Both these men have laboured long and with much patience with considerable raw material and the result is a team of championship calibre. It is now some time since Albert has gone as far in inter-scholastic rugby and it is due to the expert coaching for a great deal, of Messrs. Taylor and Pierce that the squad is on top of the heap at present.

Aviation Notes

Niagara Falls Company Will Operate to Toronto and Windsor.

A Niagara Falls, N.Y., company which is at present operating an aerial sightseeing service over the Niagara region is planning to expand its service into passenger, express and mail lines between Niagara Falls, Ont., Toronto and Windsor, and between that city and Buffalo, provided the airport acquired in this city is adopted at the tax election to be held here July 21. The company plans to have seven planes of the cabin type on each side of the border made so soon as the Buffalo Airport Council gives the company permission to use the Buffalo airport for a terminal. The service to that city will be started, using the Canadian landing field for the present as the Niagara Falls terminal.

2,000 Crossed by Air.

Over 2,000 people crossed the English Channel by air in one week during the recent holiday season. Including passengers and crews, 2,148 persons left Le Bourget, 1,974 paying fare agents — actually travelled by air from the Continent. British machines carried 873, the remainder travelling on Dutch, German, Belgian and French airliners. Altogether 236 machines crossed the channel during that week, the greatest number recorded in one day being 40. By a coincidence, the first day of the record week was the 19th anniversary of Blériot's first cross-Channel flight at a speed of 23 m.p.h.

Wed In The Air

Air-minded couple, wedding to the ranks of the lovers, took Paul B. Lassigonde, 21, pilot, and Miss Ruth, both of Arkansas City, far above Wichita Sunday afternoon or the First Methodist Episcopal church record. After the ceremony which was performed by Rev. Ben Newton pastor of the College Hill Baptist Church, the newly married couple climbed into the plane in which they will make their home.

The ceremony was performed in the WARREN Company's Travel Air biplane piloted by Charles Lander. Lander thrilled the bridal party as low as possible while Reverend Newton pronounced the ceremony. Miss Pauline Ruth of Wichita and Al Stevens of Arkansas City were the witnesses. All said that none of the motor interfered but little with the service.

McGILL FLASHED TO A BRILLIANT RUGBY VICTORY

(By Staff Reporter)

Queen's were within one game of the Intercollegiate rugby championship on Saturday bit the unexpected happened and now it appears as though the honors will go to old McGill. The red and white virtually blasted the hopes of the tricolor on Saturday when before eight thousand fans they downed the Presbyterians by a score of 8-2. It was one of the biggest surprise of the current season and the fans came home in the belief that the Montrealers have defeated the Queen's team at Richardson Memorial stadium. In order for Queen's to get back in the race it is necessary for Varsity to win from McGill at Montreal next Saturday and it is the opinion of most of the critics that the blue will be unequal to the occasion.

McGill deserved to win on Saturday. They played fine football both on the defensive as well as the offensive and the wedge of their attack left gaps wide in the Queen's front line. The visiting team took advantage of th breaks and made them count. The one and only touch-down was of the "Duke" variety. Warren was forced behind the posts to take Tremain's long hoist and unsure of his footing the sogey pig-skin bounced to the ground and quickly a McGill man pounced upon it. It was the straw that broke the camel's back and try as they might they could not score the equaliser. With the exception of the last six minutes the Queen's team was backed up within the shadow of their own goal-posts and were always on the defensive. They uncorked two or three bursts of speed which carried the McGill men out of their feet but lead by Tremain the winners held back to earth in time to avoid catastrophe. In the dying moments the Queen's team fighting defeat forced the McGill team into their own end but the big red machine managed to save the fighting tricolor until the final whistle.

Queen's made yards three times in succession but they were promptly sent back into their own territory when one of the players made a costly fumble and Tremain punted back. It was a nice game to watch, with plenty of action attached. The hotel sters tried some daring strategical plays but it was slippery going on the quagmire and the Queen's team had the unhappy faculty of making the errors at the critical time. Tremain out-booted Carter and had the Queen's back hooting it all-afternoon.

REV. MULLIGAN AT ST. ANDREWS

Anniversary At Presbyterian Church Marked By Special Services

Yesterday was the 101st anniversary of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church and it is doubtful if any finer speaker than the Rev. W. Orr Mulligan, of Sydney, Nova Scotia, could have been found to preach to the congregation on this auspicious occasion. Mr. Mulligan preached both morning and evening and both times filled the church to overflowing.

For his morning subject he took his theme from the 8th chapter of Deuteronomy, the 2nd verse, "These are those today," he said in opening, "who look upon the leadership of God as something far removed." And Mr. Mulligan's sermon concerned this subject. "Let us," he said, "look at it from four standpoints. Philosophical, theological, Biblical and practical."

"As we look back, it should be to get instruction from the past to guide us in the present. When we look at the books of philosophy we see philosophers trying to give us the idea of life in a general way. Now, a good memory is a valuable source which we may draw the treasures of the past from. God teaches by experience just what is good and what is bad. In the heaven we look at the gorgeous panorama in the skies and think that for about one thousand years men have been able to tell exactly the time of eclipses, the times of tides, etc. We cannot escape the purposes of God in nature. We cannot escape it in our own lives."

Mr. Mulligan touched upon the subject of predestination. "Almighty God," he stated, "is supreme in heaven and earth, and who are you to defy the Deity? You cannot escape in doctrine of predestination. You cannot reconcile good and evil, but they are there always. No father, no mother, can direct the legacy that they leave to their children. We belong to the human race, but we have no choice in this matter. We live in the 20th century, but is that our fault? We couldn't choose to be born in the twentieth century, even if we wanted to. We were born into a certain environment, but we most certainly had nothing to do with it. And so philosophy merges into theology for the purpose of the leadership of God. God tells you to remember the Sabbath Day, to keep it holy. Remember God's leadership on God's Day. We are living in an age when we think man and woman can violate the moral conventions. Yet, if I violate the laws of nature, I will suffer from ill-health if I violate the laws of society, I am ostracized; is God going to be an exception to this rule? I think not.

"The wages of sin are death; the way of the transgressor is hard. Christ tells us: "This do in remembrance of me." What is the value of such philosophy in practice? It is most practical. If we remember the right things, it subconsciously puts us in the right kind of mind. Take evil memories. Did they ever make anyone strong? No, decidedly no. They stirred up hates, spites and fears."

"In the church where I come from," he said, in closing, "some labour agitators came and some of the finest men and women in the district were bothered by them. The scoundrel who does evil and leads others into evil, is indeed a scoundrel. It is absolutely wrong. Our memories of God's leading and keeping can work marvels for us. Memory is ever youthful. And so on your 101st anniversary look back to the days and seasons of the gift of God."

This, briefly, is Mr. Mulligan's address of the morning, and it made a profound impression upon his hearers. The Rev. Mulligan, as Mr. Stewart explained, is an Irishman. At the first of the services he gave a special short sermon for the many children who were present.

The anniversary celebrations will be carried on to-morrow when a meeting is held in the Sunday School rooms of the church.

HUDSON STRAITS IS FREE OF ICE

Likely To Be Open For Navigation Until December This Year

Ottawa, Nov. 5—Radio messages received from the federal stations in Hudson Straits report that there is no longer visible in this 500-mile stretch of water. Last year the ice did not appear in the straits until the middle of December. It was said at that time that the season was unusually late, and that in normal years the Straits probably would be closed to shipping because of ice by the end of October. So far this year there is no ice and it would be at least two weeks, supposing that ice was to begin to appear now, before navigation could be affected.

As a number of fact the season this year in these northern waters has not varied to any noticeable degree from that of last year.

Hoover Appeals For Unity —Smith Is Pledged To No Man

New York, Nov. 6.—Barages of speech making ended, the voters are having their innings in the United States election today. Forty-three millions are on the voters lists and the heaviest poll in history is expected. besides the President, 34 State Governors, State Senators, Representatives and officers in endless numbers are to be elected.

Anticipating trouble special precautions have been taken at many points. In Chicago 11,000 civilian watchers and four thousand armed scrutineers and federal agents are on guard. When the polls opened nine machine gun squads of detectives were covering the areas where trouble was feared. Near the Mexican border Texas Rangers were on duty.

Appeals for Unity

Palo Alto, Cal., Nov. 6.—Herbert Hoover, in his final utterance of the campaign, last night appealed to the electorate of the country to disregard sectional lines in balloting at the polls today.

"It is contrary to our national ideals that any party should represent any section of the country, and this election more than any that has gone before gives hope for the breaking down of sectional lines," the Republican Presidential candidate said.

"There ought no longer to be any North, South, East or West in our national thought. Our ideals in America have been moulded and welded under the leadership of men and women from every section of our country. The greatest progress can come in advancement of our institutions, our ideas and our ideals by the common contribution of every section."

Pledged No One

New York, Nov. 6.—Turning to the radio to carry a final appeal to the voters of the nation, Alfred E. Smith declared last night that he could "enter upon the duties of the great set office in the world without commitment to anybody except the American people."

In his campaign valedictory, specifically prepared for delivery through the microphone to an unseen audience, the Democratic nominee threw open to detail his record in public life, and then delivered what he described as "my last spoken word before the American people start in the morning to make their decision."

"It is this," he said. "At no time during my long public career have I given active effort or ever made a promise for a vote. I have made no promises to any man or to any group of men. Nobody was authorized to make any promises for me, and, in fact, none has been made."

SHEEP STEALING CASE UP TODAY

Two Men Accused Appear In Tweed This After-noon

Albert McCaw and Joseph Willet appeared in Tweed Police Court this afternoon at two o'clock to answer a charge of stealing sheep, it is said on three different occasions from James Trudeau, a farmer residing near Madoc, the charges being laid by the Provincial Police.

It will be remembered that these two men were arrested some ten days ago by the Provincial Police, who by their investigations had connected them of the thefts which had been going on for some time. They were arrested in Police Court before Magistrate Mikel on the 29th of October and were remanded until today, the case being tried in Tweed, however, as the thefts occurred in that district.

E. Hall, 2nd Con. of Thurlow, Charles Bungay, of Thrasher's Corners, and Tom Blue, of Madoc, each bought some of the sheep, all in good faith the two accused men representing themselves as butchers. B. C. Donnal of Belleville was in Tweed prosecuting while McCaw and Willet were represented by Tweed counsel.

ZEPPELIN BACK HOME

Berlin, Nov. 6.—Graf Zeppelin after a visit to Berlin, was headed back to Friedrichshafen, her home port.

"BE A CANADIAN"

Arthur Stringer

poet, and novelist, visiting his native country in connection with Canadian book week, advises young Canadian writers to be Canadian in their work. "Don't be afraid of a strong Canadian note in your writing," he says, "even if you go to New York. If you stick to your own environment you'll find your work appreciated so long as it is true and distinctive."

Arthur Stringer, who has published thirty-one books and written about twenty movie scenarios, in addition to having published seven volumes of verse, says that an artist's productivity is apt to be restricted if he too much "petting." He works better under some form of irritation," he says.

GAVE BUSINESS TALK TO KIWANIS

Mr. Joseph Dutton, of Peterboro Spoke on Co-Operation

Mr. Joseph Dutton, Presid ent of the Peterboro Chamber of Commerce, delivered an intresting and timely address to Kiwanians today on the subject of "Co-operation in Business." The speaker pointed out the advantages of co-operation in buying, in advertising, and in research work, stating as it does today in the production and sale to the public of better goods at lower prices.

Competition is a good and desirable thing as long as that competition is fair, with the various firms in any particular line of business closely estimating costs and setting prices amply to provide a decent margin of profit, without which no business can operate. Mr. Dutton cited examples of the fact that volume of business alone perhaps satisfying personal vanity might readily be costly, if selling prices were such that profit was practically eliminated.

Thus one firm might decide to increase its volume, and in doing so cut down its profit; two or three others in the same line might think it necessary to adjust selling prices, etc., to keep pace with the price cutters with the inevitable result that the business of all would be spoiled.

At the Directors' meeting this week Kiwanis voted $100 to the Boys' Training School at Bowmanville, and $100 to the Boy Scouts here.

ELECTION DEC. 3RD

Nominations For Civic Vacancies Set For November 26th

Monday, Dec. 3rd, is the day set for the Civic elections when mayor and aldermen face the voters for a renewal of their terms of office. Nomination day will be Nov. 26th. A by-law to this effect was passed at last night's meeting of the City Council.

HEROIC FARMER DIED OF BURNS

Suffered Terrible Injuries Rescuing His Three Sons From Fire

North Bay, Ont., Nov. 6—George Ferguson, Dentzio Kerns township farmer, died in the New Liskeard Hospital last night from burns sustained while rescuing his three young sons from a burning house on Sunday. The eldest son Lloyd is still in a critical condition.

After warning his wife and four small daughters who slept on the ground floor, Ferguson ascended a trap door to the flaming upper story to get out his sons. His body was burned almost to a crisp and he was naked when he finished. No decision has yet been made as to an inquest.

Will Hold Inquest

North Bay, Ont., Nov. 6—Inquest will be held into the death of George Ferguson, Kerns Township farmer, fatally burned in the rescue of two children from their burning house on Sunday. Provincial police obtained a statement from Ferguson before he died and are investigating causes of the fire. The hearing will be held when the children are well enough to testify.

ENTIRE FAMILY DIE IN BURNING HOME

Bridgewater, N.S., Nov. 6—Entire family of five persons was wiped out in a fire at South Brookfield, near here last night. The dead are, Albert Mass, his wife, two children, Annie 14, and Viola 11 and Leblanc, a brother of Albert. The tragedy was discovered when a neighbor saw smoke rising from the mass farm. No one escaped the house to tell the story of the fire and the cause is unknown.

BOXER HELD AFTER INFLICTING INJURIES

Chicago, Ill., Nov. 6.—Billy Showers, St. Paul, middle-weight boxer, is in a critical condition today from an injury sustained in a vicious ring battle with "Shuffle" Callahan of Chicago last night. Showers collapsed unconscious after taking heavy punishment. Efforts of physicians and pulmotor squad failed to revive him. Callahan was arrested on a nominal charge pending the outcome of Showers' injuries.

STOLE CAR FROM IN FRONT HOTEL

John Sergeant, of Madoc, reported to the police last night that a car belonging to Sedan, the property of the Hopkins Garage at Foxboro had been stolen from in front of the Crystal Hotel about seven-thirty when he went in for a few minutes. On his return, according to his story, the car was gone.

The car is a 1927 model, licence No. 367481, and is in good running condition. If any person sees a car answering this description they should communicate with the nearest police officer.

Blustering Winds Cause Blushes And Some Profanity On Street

A blustering forty mile an hour gale did, dust and leaves in miniature whirlwinds Belleville's centre of shopping their hats,—modest maidens striving to keep from looking embarrassed —such was the scene presented to the ordinary eye on Front Street today. And such a wind. Creaking signs high above the wayfarers heads gave every indication of falling on those below while in numerous sections more than one gimlet had narrow escapes from falling limbs of trees.

Belleville the Beautiful was certainly none too beautiful today, for the dust which seems to still be on Belleville's streets even though we have a new street sweeper seemed to take particular delight in getting in one's eyes, while on Front St. piles of leaves cast up by the windy blasts collected in front of the merchants doorways. Most of Belleville's citizens hope, however, that the Wind god's fury will abate soon.

CALL BY BIG CHURCH

Board and Entire Membership Loathe To Have Him Leave

Dr. F. E. Malott has made no decision in the matter of accepting or rejecting the call he has received from Young's United Church in Winnipeg, he told the Intelligencer this morning. He has been so happy in his work in Belleville that he dislikes the idea of leaving but he admits that Winnipeg and the West interests him and the decision will be hard to make.

The call to the West came as a surprise to Dr. Malott. When he was in Winnipeg in September attending the General Council of the United Church there was no intimation that a call was coming and he was not assigned to that church to preach on the Sunday he spent in the West. He did preach at St. Andrew's Presbyterian and it is understood that some of the officials of Young's Church were present at the service to hear him speak.

Big Western Church

The church calling Dr. Malott is among the six strongest of the fifty United Churches in Winnipeg. It was organized in 1907 and the United Council as it has the largest seating capacity in the City, having accommodation for 2,000. It is not an old Church, being erected about 18 or 20 years ago and was named after one of the pioneer missionaries to the West. Previous to Church Union it was rated as one of the strongest United Churches in Winnipeg.

The present pastor of Young's Church is leaving his charge at the end of the next year so that Dr. Malott will accept the call it will be to assume his new charge on the 1st of next July. Last June he received a wire from the Board of Young Church asking if he would supply the month of July during the minister's holidays, but Dr. Malott had made other plans and was unable to go.

THREATEN JURY

Twelve Good Men and True Would Like to Quit the Job

Mexico City, Nov. 6.—Following threats of death made against the jury hearing the case of Jose De Toral charged with the assassination of President-Elect Obregon and Mother Conception his alleged accomplice, when the crowd broke into the court room last night, Mexican authorities today prepared to use troops to preserve order. The jury has threatened to quit.

KING OPENS THE BRITISH HOUSES

Expresses Satisfaction At Progress of the Peace Pact

London, England, Nov. 6.—With the usual brilliant ceremony King George opened Parliament today. Foreign relations and particularly the Kellogg-Briand pact recounting war, were the chief topics referred to in the King's speech from the Throne. The King expressed his satisfaction at the endorsement of the pact by all his government and other leading nations.

It is the last session of Parliament before a general election and His Majesty had little to say about proposed legislation. He did, however, wish Parliament to relieving agriculture and industry from the burden of taxes Parliament would be asked to enable the railways to make lower charges on important traffic.

Labor Makes Amendments

London, Nov. 6.—Can. Press Cable —The Labor party today took to make two amendments to the speech from the Throne. One will deal with unemployment and the industrial relations, and the other with the Anglo-French accord on naval armament limitation proposals.

FRENCH CABINET RESIGNED TODAY

Paris, Nov. 6.—Poincare cabinet, in office since 1926 resigned today after four hundred Socialist ministers offered their resignation. The Socialists, Edouard Herriot, Minister of Education, Albert Sarraut, minister of interior, Henri Queille, Minister of Agriculture and Leon Perrier, minister of Colonies announced that the party programme made continued co-operation with the union cabinet impossible.

Grim Law Relents A Little For Bewildered Little Harry Henley

When Harry Henley, the 13-year-old boy from Marmora, appeared before Magistrate Mikel tomorrow morning, charged with killing his brother, he will not be without friends in his hour of need. Even the officers who in the course of their duty were forced to arrest him and bring him to Belleville are sorry for the lad, who most certainly shows the remorse which reveals for the act which he has admitted committing.

Chief Constable J. R. Webb, of Kitchener, president of the Rotary Club of that city, exhorted local Rotarians at their luncheon yesterday to lend a helping hand to those in need always and to "help the lame dog over the style," although not in those words.

Mr. Webb mentioned the above case in particular where the local Rotary club could do a world of good. "The boy is in trouble," he said, "perhaps the most serious trouble he could possibly be in. Try to give this boy some help, cry and comfort and cheer him in his hour of desperate need."

the famous prospector, who plans to go to Fix Inlet Baffin Land, during the Winter. He is seeking the biggest silver, zinc and lead proposition in the Hudson Bay area and bases his hope of finding it on information received from Major Burwash, chief government geologist. Johnny says that there will be about eight men in the party as fell as a supply of husky dogs and his arctic outfit is a specially constructed machine capable of about 60 miles an hour. Asked what area looked the best to him in the north now, Jones said: "Porcupine; it hasn't any equal. There are some more Hollingers on the way, and, by the way, Hollinger isn't by any means done."

AGED WOMAN IS FOUND IN CREEK

Clear Case of Suicide, the Coroner Decides—Left A Note

Mrs. Mary Rutter, an aged lady living with her brother, John Lisamore, at Actinolite, Ont., committed suicide some time Sunday night, by drowning herself in a creek just back of their home. The deceased lady according to her friends, had been acting queerly for the past several months and it is thought that her mind had become deranged.

Leaving a note in her bedroom saying where her body could be found the unfortunate woman apparently disrobed and then went to her death. When her brother arose this morning he found the note, and later the body lying in about three feet of water in the creek. He duly reported his find to Coroner Mrs. Rutter was a widow, her husband having predeceased her some twenty years ago. Dr. Mather of Tweed was called, but it was decided that an inquest was unnecessary as it was a clear case of suicide.

BURIED TO NECK IN RUINS OF THEIR HOME

Toronto, Nov. 6.—Mrs. Fanny Finkelstein, and her thirteen year old daughter narrowly escaped death today when part of their home collapsed burying the mother to the neck in bricks and mortar. She was rescued by firemen. The daughter was in an other part of the house and was untouched.

Build Wooden Ramps To Let Cars Leave By Front Street

LITIGATION POSSIBLE

Mayor Duff Will Not Commit Himself As To Possible Action

Last night the City Council refused permission to McColl Bros., Limited, to ramp the sidewalk on Front St. opposite their new gas station so that cars could enter or leave on the Front St. side, but this morning cars were entering and leaving on this side over wooden ramps, hastily constructed by the order of Mr. Milton W. Delong, manager of the station. Mayor Duff did not know, when spoken to this morning, just what the City could or would do in the situation as it now stands.

Bright and early this morning, Mr. Walter Patterson, who was the contractor who erected the building/ drove his car over the wooden ramp to be first customer to buy gasoline at the new station. McColl Bros., Limited, used full page advertisements in both the local newspapers yesterday to announce that they would be in business with a steady run of customers all day.

May be Litigation

No official statement on the opinion as to whether litigation is likely to result from the action of the Council in refusing the request of McColl Bros. for an egress onto Front St. City Council were guided in their action by the report of a special committee consisting of Alderman Donaldson, Ketcheson and Reid who investigated the possible dangers involved in having cars cross the sidewalk and which report was adopted without issuing a permit. There was also a petition signed by property owners in the vicinity who have stores on Front St., asking that a permit be not issued. There was little discussion on the matter when the report of the special committee was presented. Alderman Cherry said there was the only two dissenting votes. They based their stand on the fact that the station had improved the appearance of the corner and that after allowing the Company to erect their station and get already for business it seemed like mean and small tactics to hold them up at this stage.

Creates A Danger Zone

Alderman Williams became in supporting the report which the committee presented, said: "I don't wish to antagonize McColl Bros., Limited, but I do think this is a danger zone. Peo-

TO-DAY'S THOUGHT

A speech was given to the ordinary sort of man, whereby to communicate (and, mind) but to wise men, whereby to conceal it.

BOUTH.

THERE MAY BE VOTE AGAINST PREJUDICE

There is some speculation as to whether the religious prejudice against Governor Smith felt in some quarters will not cancel itself to-day among the great mass of people who feel that they would also be subjected to a similar prejudice, should any of their members be nominated to the presidency.

Is there to be an unwritten law that no one but a member of a Protestant Church shall be President of the United States? This was certainly not the intention of the signers of the Declaration of Independence. Jews, Turks and heretics of all kinds, Mormons, Swedenborgians, Spiritualists, besides all the unclassed free thinkers who, include many of the cleverest men in America, will hesitate to support any such unwritten law, and may vote for Smith in protest against those whose practices violate the first principles of the Constitution of the Republic. In this, as in much else, Canada is ahead of the United States.

READING IN BED A NEW LUXURY

Among the conveniences, not to say luxuries, that electricity has given us is the unspeakable delight of being able to read in bed with adequate light and comfort and no danger. In the days of our youth reading in bed was absolutely forbidden on account of the risk of fire from candles or paraffin lamps. Falling asleep over a book, was regarded as the most probable end to any such attempt in the opinion of our elders. They probably knew by experience themselves over their books. Well, we did not read that kind of a book.

Then gas came in, and there was some satisfaction in a light which had no risk, though the consumption of gas at times and rates when all reasonable people were supposed to be asleep called for denunciation. But often the gas was situated across the room and while getting plenty of illumination, when the time for extinguishing the light arrived, one had to arise in the cold winter atmosphere, for there were not hot water radiators nor any such comfort, and expose oneself to the chill of a dash across the room and back. How many youthful students of those times rig god up lever arms on the gas-tap and with a string led through eyelets around the room by a fork from the bed put out the light? Among all the boons that science has given us none can surpass the new luxury of reading in bed electric light.

KEEP THE BOY OR GIRL OUT OF PRISON

Hon. Mr. Price, the Attorney-General, has been thinking over the juvenile crime problem and has come to the conclusion that putting a boy or girl into jail on his first offence is the wrong way of dealing with the problem. The late Hon. W. J. Hanna when he became Provincial Secretary spent a lot of time over the criminal problem and it was due to his investigation of the Mansfield prison in Ohio that he adopted the farm prison idea. The whole conception of penology has been turning away from punishment to a nobler and more useful conception of reform, and the essence of reform is the very simple process of changing one's mind.

If this were not so much obscured by the theological phrasing the world would have taken hold of its simplest long ago. But all that is involved is a change of mind. How can this be brought about? Putting people in prison does not change their minds. It usually hardens them confirms them in their attitude. Punishment does not change a man's mind.

People can think out for themselves how their minds are most easily changed on any subject. Some yield to reason, some to suggestion, some to kindness or some other camouflaged form of bribery, children being especially susceptible to this form of treatment, though it is not encouraged by the ethical teachers. Mr. Price has been impressed with the new conception, and he is convinced that it is better by far to halt a youth on the prison steps before he gets inside, and march him off with a chance to make good and free from the stigma that jail environment fastens on.

If Mr. Price can work out a satisfactory plan of action to achieve the end he has in view he will have the hearty congratulations of the whole province, and he will add much to the citizenship of Ontario through the reclaimed lives he may count on saving to the community.

LAKE ONTARIO

Alone with thee!
The tossing, tawny waves of thee,
Breaking on the rocks and sands,
Sands of the lonely heart of me,
Rocks by tears and temper rent,
Shifting sands of selfish discontent.

Alone with thee!
The cool, green light of thee,
Searching all the hidden depths,
Depths of the longing thoughts of me,
Hidden thoughts of hatred, stilled,
Depths of longing unfulfilled.

Alone with thee!
The pale, purple hills of thee,
Lifting the valleys and shadows,
Shadows of the shattered dreams of me,
Valleys of desolate doubt and dread,
Haunting shadows where love lies dead.

Alone with thee!
In the soft gray mist of thee,
Softening all the hardened pathways,
Paths of the wayward will of me,
Hardened paths of vain regret,
Wayward ways I would forget.

Alone with thee!
The quiet, quiet peace of thee,
Holding in thy clear water stillness
The fading, fainting fear of me,
Stillness of hushed and spent desires,
Courage for unknown chastening fires.

The meek little man was going home from the funeral of his big and masterful wife. Suddenly a dislodged slate whirled down and landed with a resounding crack on his head.

"Oooh," he murmured, looking up "Sarah must have reached Heaven already."

Little Jones (who had just finished a book about the wonders of nature): Nature is marvelous! When I read a book like this, it makes my readings how puerile, how insignificant is man.

His Bigger Half: Huh! A woman doesn't have to wade through 400 pages to discover that.

"I knew a man who knew before hand the exact year, month, day hour and manner of his death, and whose premotion was fulfilled to the smallest particular."

"How did he know all that?"

"The judge told him."

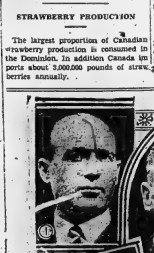

The sad looking man stopped at the lunch counter and said: "Five ham sandwiches, please."

"Will you eat them here or take them away?" asked the counterman.

"I hope to do both," was the reply.

STRAWBERRY PRODUCTION

The largest proportion of Canadian strawberry production is consumed in the Dominion. In addition Canada imports about 3,000,000 pounds of strawberries annually.

LIME BURNING

Lime is burned in every province of Canada with the exception of Prince Edward Island and Saskatchewan. Both high-calcium and magnesium limes are produced from the limestones of Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Ontario and Manitoba, but in Quebec, Alberta, and British Columbia high-calcium limes only are produced at present.

That Body of Yours
By James W. Barton, M.D.

THE BROKEN NOSE

As long as Jack Dempsey was fighting regularly, that is before he was engaged in moving pictures, he didn't bother to have his nose straightened. So if you had seen his nose before, you would scarcely believe that it was possible to get such good results from operation.

In boxing, a blow on the nose is a frequent occurrence both during training and in actual bouts, and many boxers do not bother to get the nose "fixed" until they are finished with the boxing game. However in football and other sports, getting an accidental bump from a full collision, can fracture the bones of the nose. In fact they are really so thin as a shell and crack into a number of small pieces.

The usual procedure under such circumstances is to try to mould the nose back into the best possible shape and then let a nose specialist complete the job.

When the injury occurs, an ordinary small household size, with cellophane removed, is wrapped with closely absorbent cotton, and put up each nostril. The fingers then rub down the outside of the nose, and thus it is brought back into the best possible shape.

The matches should then be removed and the patient sent to a nose specialist because the nose is such prominent feature, and a clear passage is essential for proper breathing.

If you are not a physician it is not hard to get the broken egg shell feeling with your fingers, when the nose has been broken. If the injury has been severe, and you can't get the feeling of broken bones it is best to treat it in above manner anyway.

There is often much clotting or blood inside the nose, and even if the specialist doesn't see it for a few days he can still make a good job of it.

So whether it is your nose or that of a comrade, do the best you can to mould it into shape, because this gives the specialist a good chance, and gives a better result than a wax doll beauty type of operation.

Not that all good job cannot be done later, because Dempsey's case proves that it can, but the simple method outlined above can be performed by anyone, if done carefully.

CONSUMPTION OF LIQUOR ON WANE

London, (By-the C.P.)—What is the cause of the decreased consumption of alcohol in Great Britain? The Daily News asks the question in an article in which it says that for some years the official figures have revealed a steadily reduced consumption both of spirits and beer. The News says.

In 1913 the people of England drank 22,004,432 gallons of spirits, compared with 10,412,231 last year. Beer shows a similar decline—30,758,200 bulk barrels in 1913 compared with 24,418,640 in 1927. The figures for the present year are believed to show a further decline.

Opinions vary as to the cause. One view is that the greatly increased taxation since the war, which has trebled the price of a bottle of whiskey, and doubled that of a glass of beer, simply explains it. The other view is that there is a genuine change in the attitude of the people. It is significant that the Earl of Iveagh, head of a noted brewing company, presiding at a meeting of the company recently, said that a "change in the habits of the people" was one of the chief causes of decreased consumption. Motoring, the general desire for physical fitness,

SALT IN CANADA

Common salt (sodium chloride), is obtained in two forms, in solution in a saturated brine, from which the salt is extracted by evaporation, and in lump or solid form by direct mining. During the year 1927, salt was produced in southern Ontario, and in the Malagash salt district, Nova Scotia. Ontario salt is obtained from brine wells, while Malagash salt is recovered by mining rock salt. A small quantity was also shipped from stock from the McMurray field in Alberta.

TALKED TEMPERANCE AT W. C. T. U. MEETING

Rev. Robert Hall Urges Necessity of Education in Public Opinion

The first of the season's parlor meetings of the W.C.T.U. was held yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. W. Woodley, Dundas St., with a splendid attendance. Two vocal solos were rendered by Mrs. McMullen and a piano duet was given by Mrs. McKinnon and Miss L. Brown.

Robert Hall, of John St. United Church, addressed the meeting on temperance matters. His address was interesting and forceful and the facts were gathered from recent war experiences, from residence in England, particularly college life, and from his recent pastorate in Montreal. Mr. Hall urged the necessity ofeducating the public as to the real facts in the question. Quoting from the colleges, Montreal Medical Director of Hospitals for the Insane, Mr. Hall pointed out that much had been done along medical health lines in the prevention of disease and its consequences. "The big pocket flask," said Mr. Hall, "requires to be given short shrift."

During the afternoon Mrs. (Rev.) Baker explained the Dominion-wide plan of the W.C.T.U. in carrying on the many campaigns among the officials it is understood that nothing stands in the way at the present time for the completion of the contract.

COUNCIL CLEARS MANY MATTERS

Dealt With Several Petitions and Handled Much Routine Work

At City Council last night under the head of inquiries Ald. Cherry asked if the Canadian Departmental Stores could be interviewed with the hope of inducing them to unload their goods on the frontage passageway by other than the busy hours. He stated that the trucks interfered with pedestrians coming to work in the morning. He said the City had a nine-years lease and something should be done to relieve the situation.

Ald. Collins asked the Chairman of the Finance Committee what was with the petition filed by the residents of Pinnacle Street with regard to the removal of the C.N.R. tracks. Ald. Woodley replied that it had been sent to the City Council board. He made reference to the parking bylaw and asked if a Committee had been appointed to look into matter. He was informed that nothing had been done. Ald. Wetten suggested that some bulbs be presented before any action be taken.

The request of the Victorian Order Nurses Committee for an extra $200 to complete this year's work was granted.

A committee composed of Ald. Reid, Collins and Woodley, with Mayor Ellis was appointed to meet a committee from the County Council on the re-adjustment of the suburban roads on any matters concerning same.

The City Treasurer has been authorized to forward to the City Treas. of the Lost Post fund at Toronto a cheque for $15.00 toward defraying the expenses of the funeral of the late H. Campbell, a member of the overseas Canadian forces. This amount being payable by the municipality in accordance with the hospital and Charitable Institutions Act.

The Special Committee appointed to deal with the application of V. M. Bell for a lot fronting on Bleecker Ave. for purchase thereof for the sum of $150.00 be accepted. Mulr undertook to erect thereon, three residences within one year.

FIRE THREATENED THE ARMY CITADEL

Fire broke out late this afternoon in the living quarters of Ensign and Mrs. Rawlins in the upstairs of the Salvation Army Citadel. Mrs. Rawlins discovered the fire when she entered her kitchen and saw flames pushing some work in the hall below. Flames were beginning to envelop the kitchen in the kitchen and by the time the firemen arrived they had gained considerable headway, burning the shelves the walls.

No stoves were lighted in the place, and it is thought that defective wiring was the cause. Mr. Rawlin's cat in a shed behind the building was rescued with sparks and was pulled to safety by the firemen. The damage is understood to be covered with insurance.

A NEW RESTAURANT MAY BE OPENED HERE

If all goes well, Belleville is soon to have a new restaurant, one similar to many of those which are now running in most of the larger centres. Mr. Nicholas Spealis, of Toronto, was recently looking over two or three sites for the business, and seemed to feel that the store recently occupied by M. J. Lynch, in the Canadian Legion Memorial Hall, would best suit the purposes of the man who are using their financial backing to the ven ture.

According to Mr. Spealis, the new restaurant will be finished with white tile floor, white tile walls, and unlike many other restaurant or cafe in this city, will have no "curtains" but be open at all times if the necessary licence can be obtained, which should not be difficult. Although the final agreement has not been yet signed with the Canadian Legion Memorial officials it is understood that nothing stands in the way at the present time for the completion of the contract.

DEATHS AND FUNERALS

F. W. DAVIES

The remains of the late F. W. Davies will arrive in Belleville this evening from Toronto. Mr. Davies died in the Toronto General Hospital. The funeral will be under Masonic auspices. He was a member of St. Albans Lodge No. 391. His widow, Mrs. Davies is a former Belleville girl, a Miss Stanton, of Everett Street.

GUN STRUCK ON ROCK IS FINDING

Jury's Verdict of Accidental Death Exonerates Companions

Accidental death was the finding brought in by the coroner's jury last night to enquire into the death of John Allison, of Toronto, who was shot by a gun which his companion, Willis duck hunting on the morning of the 31st of October. The inquest was resumed at the Police Court before Dr. Tennant, Coroner.

William Stanton, Jr., one of the party which was hunting ducks at Percy Bloom on the Trent River, was the first witness called. He told of the party leaving Toronto two weeks ago last Saturday and of their meeting on the morning that the shooting occurred to hunt ducks.

They had all gone out about six o'clock and on returning about eight o'clock they had breakfast and then went on to the cottage to wash his hands. A few minutes later he heard a shot and on looking saw Allison sitting on his boat, but step in the immediately to the boat. Allinson by this time having fallen to the bottom of the canoe.

Gas Station Is Closed

William Wilson, Sr., the witness' father was just coming out of the cottage the morning hunt at that time, and he called to his son to run for a doctor. Stanton left in the motor boat and a few minutes later after phoning for the doctor, Wilson arrived on the conscious, and told him that the gun had hit a rock as he was getting out. William Stanton, Jr., was in the boat as the one Allinson had been using.

Dr. Johnston, who was called to the stand. He told of treating the deceased man early on the morning of the shooting which was some eight hundred yards away, and found the deceased man lying in the bottom of the boat. Allinson died before the doctor he had slipped. Witness picked up the gun and found that the safety catch had been discharged, and also noticed a mark on the hammer which would indicate that it had been struck on a rock. He ten took out the other barrel which he produced at the inquest.

Mr. B. White, one of the jurors, explained to the court that the hammer of the gun was in a very dangerous position as the pin also struck in such a manner that almost the slightest jar would send the gun off. Dr. Fisher, a chemist of R. H. Ketcheson, foreman, G. Ketcheson, S. Weddon, C. Mowery, B. White, C. Walters and W. Vallance.

ORANGE DANCE PLEASANT PARTY

Open New Hall in the Robinson Block on Guy Fawkes Night

The opening dance of Loyal Orange Lodge No. 274, was held last night at the lodge rooms and was successful in every way. The evening took the form of the annual celebration of Guy Fawkes night and incorporated in the celebration was the opening of the new Orange Hall in the Robinson Block. Euchre was played at the beginning of the evening by a few followed by the dance and for the latter entertainment over two hundred guests were present.

Mrs. C. Johnstone was the winner of the first prize for ladies' euchre and Mr. W. Gray, second. Mr. D. Asselline carried off first honors among the men and A. Palmer was the second prize. A light supper was served about midnight and dancing was then resumed, until one in the morning.

ple driving cars and having the red light against them would in trying to gain time, drive across the gas station corner and create serious danger for both pedestrians and other traffic."

Committee's Report

The full text of the committee's report is as follows:

Belleville, Ont.

October 10 1928.

To His Worsh'p the Mayor and Members of the Council:

Your Committee appointed at the regular session of the City Council on Monday evening the 8th inst., to investigate and report on the application of Messrs. McColl Bros., Ltd., for a driveway over the sidewalk on the east side of Bridge Street, directly south of Bridge Street to the Company's proposed Gasoline Service Station, Met and after hearing representatives of the Company consulted with the City Engineer and City Solicitor and viewed the site, most respectfully report as follows:

1. That the ramping of the sidewalk as proposed would make it more dangerous for pedestrians.

2. That driveways over our main street are dangerous at any location but particularly so in the proposed location because of the extremely heavy traffic at this point, the building immediately south marring the view of pedestrians approaching from the south and the further fact that at this point the pedestrian attention is drawn to the traffic at the street intersection and he is therefore unmindful of dangers from proposed driveway.

3. That motor vehicles leaving said gas station driveway as proposed would cut into motor vehicular traffic immediately south of our busiest corner of civic work. It is our opinion conducive to accidents and making it impossible to regulate traffic at said intersection.

4. That at this busy corner this section of the sidewalk should be reserved for the safe use of pedestrians.

5. That the City Solicitor has advised your Committee that the Company has the right to refuse such concession.

The undersigned members of your Committee respectively recommend against granting the privilege sought and further object to any driveway at this point on Front Street.

Wm. Donahue

P. E. Wetten

Geo. A. Reid

Merchants' Petition

The merchants' petition against permitting the company to have an exit on Front St. side of their service station urged, that in addition to the danger to pedestrians, that th's right-of-way would be a nuisance to prospective business and would discourage people from crossing at that danger point. Those signing the petition were: Chas. E. Bishop, C. S. Reeves, T. Jackman, George Dellow, Mrs George Dellow, W. J. Cook, Wm. Carter, Mrs. Carter, Lee, B. J. Black, W. E. Clarke, H. A. Boyle, H. A. Boyle, Mrs. S. J. Taylor, J. Fahey, T. Hutchison, J. R. Grotto, and W. H. Horton.

No one disputes that the service station is an attractive building and much improves the appearance of the main corner of the city, particularly at night when it is brilliantly illuminated. The station cost in the neighborhood of $52,000 to erect.

Company Changed Plan

Mayor Duff claims that the original plans for the station called for entrance and egree both on Bridge St. with the building well up to the corner of the street and the gasoline pumps to the rear which he says would have made a much more attractive corner and situated much of the danger to pedestrians, as the traffic on Bridge St. is not as heavy as it is on Front St. The Company, he says, altered the plan without consulting the city and it is entirely for the worst. If they are put to loss and inconvenience through the city's refusing to sanction these alterations by giving them an entrance on Front St.

There the matter stands, he presented. The Company has already let the new station and is rushing out the Front Street side. Mr. Fearing, the local manager, is confident he can cheerful although he considers the city Council's action as unfair and intolerable.

Malott's pastorate at Bridge St. Church and during that time the Church has grown remarkably, its present position being the most prosperous both in the matter of membership and finances in its history. It is no particular secret that Dr. Maloit has received calls from many prominent churches in different parts of Canada during the past few years. These calls have come from widely separated points, including Toronto, Ottawa, Stratford and Moncton, N.B.

The official board of Bridge St. Church will hold its regular meeting tomorrow night at which the question of losing or retaining their pastor will be discussed and Dr. Malott has promised to make some statement at this meeting. An informal committee meeting was held yesterday afternoon in which the matter was discussed and pressed deep regret at the possibility of losing their minister and there is no doubt that the entire Church membership will be delighted if he decides to stay in Belleville.

Active in Civic Life

During his time in Belleville Dr. Malott has interested himself in many phases of civic work. He is largely responsible for the healthy condition of the Boy Scout movement in Belleville and it was through his efforts that the fine hall in the rear of Bridge St. Church was erected for the Scouts. He is also a prominent member of the Kiwanis Club, having served as its first President and has taken his full part in any work which that service club has done. He is perhaps best known with the boys as a valued minister and Belleville a fine citizen.

PROFESSOR ROY AT NEW STUDY GROUPS

Professor Roy of Queen's University, was the speaker at the initial meeting of the Modern Drama Study groups, held at the Public Library last evening. The professor outlined the study course, and explained, what an interesting time the groups could have this winter. He compared the drama of the different countries, contrasting the Greek drama, with the realistic drama. The American stage, the English, Scotch, German and Russian drama will be considered. Professor Roy read some delightful extracts from several representative plays. Sir James Barrie, John Galsworthy, Burns, Eugene O'Neill, and many others came in for discussion.

At the close of the meeting the representatives present were divided in to three groups, under the leaderships of Miss Young, Miss Merry, and Mrs. Anderson. The plan is to have each group meet once a week.

It is said New York City has 600,000 drug addicts.

Just For The Feminine Reader

A REQUEST TO OUR READERS

A woman of Belleville who is interested in philanthropic work telephoned to express her appreciation of the article dealing with discarded clothing which appeared in this column. She stated that just previous to reading it she had received a request at the door from a man who was in need of warm bedclothing for his family. If any of our readers are in circumstances to supply bedclothes for this needy family, we shall be glad to refer them to the woman in question who will see that they reach the intended persons.

FAREWELL TOOTH ITS OWN ADORNMENT

Now don't misunderstand us, it is far from our intention to decry the use of cosmetics, but if one is sensible that pretty pouty lips that we meet on the street should be almost metamorphosed under a disguise of every powder, rouge, lipstick and all the rest of man's (or should we say woman's) aids to beauty. But the question at issue is, do these really add to the beauty of the one who uses them. Youth whose very charm lies in its happy carefree attitude needs no further adornment. One cannot help but notice the young school girl as she passes on the street, some of them as brilliantly colored as a display ad. If they could but realize how they defeat their own purpose. If they start this now, what will they be 20 years hence. But perhaps it is just a passing fad. The others are all doing it, so why can't I? We can just scorn to hear the plea. We suppose girls will be girls and if they want to do this, they probably will till it becomes the fashion to do or be something different. Or as they become a little older they may at least show a little more subtlety and discretion in aiding and abetting Nature in the beauty which she may or may not have given to them.

ALREADY MAKING PLANS FOR CHRISTMAS

The other evening while at a friend's home we noted her working at some exquisite Italian cut-work and she informed us it was intended for a Christmas gift. It was something of a shock to be reminded of Christmas already, but we do think upon consideration that she had the right idea. Probably most of us resolve after the hectic inevitable rush of the last few days before Christmas each year that we will start earlier next year. Usually that year even said she was starting right with the new year to make presents. If we did spread out our Christmas preparations over a little more time we should not dread the approach of this busy season as some people do. Also, the installment paying it does not seem so hard on the pocket book. Not that we approve of installment paying, but that is a story for another day. To get back to Christmas, now that the evenings are getting noticeably longer, a piece of embroidery or sewing that one may pick up is often a source of enjoyment as well as profit. And one's own handiwork is so much more appreciated than a gift purchased at the store, because it embodies one's own personality to a certain extent, and carries with it a personal touch which is otherwise lacking.

WHEN COMPANY ARRIVES UNEXPECTEDLY

For the family hands thrown together when unexpected company arrives, we must draw on that "everpresent friend in time of trouble," the emergency shelf. It should be supplied with packages of wafers, small cakes and crackers, with the makings of various spreads and fillings, to transform them into mysterious delicacies.

Such "makings" might consist of marshmallows, candied fruits, chocolate, nut meats, peanut butter, cocoanut, raisins, olives, salad dressing, various spices, canned fruit, jams, jellies and lemons. Loaf and powdered sugar, canned milk, honey, cheese, celery and some kind of canned or cold meat, with a head lettuce, of course, are other necessities.

With these, salads, sandwiches and sweets are available and you can have the drink be iced tea, coffee lemonade or punch.

To the plain crackers add peanut butter and icing, or cheese mixed with chopped olives, pickles, nuts or salad mixtures. Place a marshmallow on each cracker or sweet wafer and set in the oven until the marshmallow is melted and browned. Toast bread and spread with butter and cinnamon.

Cakes are delicious put together with an icing made by adding canned milk to powdered sugar. This may be enriched with nuts. Crackers are good warmed in the oven with a chocolate drop on them, until the chocolate is melted. Cookies may be baked on a griddle and served hot just as pancakes are. This is a novelty any company will enjoy.

To give food in a different taste, use candied rose petals, violets, or mint leaves or assorted fruit jellies.

Advice to Girls
By Annie Laurie

We are two boys in our teens and we are in love with two girls of our own age. We have been going with them for two months.

We are not very accurate in keeping our dates with them and they get very displeased over it.

Do you think that this should make any difference between us as it does not occur very often.

Please advise us.

NORMAN & GORDON

NORMAN & GORDON: They have a right to take you to task for breaking an engagement with them. However, if you have a good excuse they should listen to reason.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

We would appreciate it a great deal if you would answer these questions for us.

(1) Is it right for a girl to let a fellow kiss her good-night if she is keeping steady company with him?

(2) Is it right for a girl to ask her boy friend when he is coming to visit her again?

(3) Is it right for a girl to tell a fellow she cares for him?

Please advise us.

TILLIE & TOOTS

TILLIE & TOOTS: (1) You have probably heard this often enough so let your conscience be your guide.

(2) He will generally tell you when he wishes to see you again.

(3) You will be wise to wait till he asks you.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

We are two girls in our 'teens and have been keeping company with two boys of our own age.

We have only one fault to find with them.

——— have two big chums that they have been going with for two years and they make a date with us for one night, but instead of keeping it, they go with their chums, and come to see us the next night.

We know they care for us as a great deal and we care for them. Do you think we should forgive them?

TWO LONESOME PALS: No gents man should break an engagement with a lady without giving her a good reason for so doing. You are certainly entitled to an explanation and an apology.

ANNIE

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a young girl of twenty. I have had lots of boy friends. I used to go to all the dances in town, and was always a good dancer. But I had an operation and since then I have not been getting out much. About one month ago I was to a dance and I met a young man, his age is twenty-two. We have been keeping company with each other since then, but he has been used to girls who drink and I don't. He says if I did he would hate me. But now he says he loves me and some day we will be married. One night we went out and were out rather late. My father was angry and told him if he could not bring me in earlier, I could not go out any more. The next night he came he said he didn't feel like coming any more. That he was going away. But some day he would come back for me. He told me not to stop loving him no matter what I heard. Since then I have seen him once. He came a week ago last Sunday night and he has not been here since then, but he is still around town. I saw him last Saturday. He has not been seen with any other girl. I still love him, and I can't understand why he don't come, do you think he is worth me thinking of or loving.

Please tell me, should I do something to get him back. I can say he still loves me. Please tell me what to do as soon as you can.

CHAPTER 15
AT BAY

As Sheila looked at the Count de Bellefonte, she saw a dull flush rise in his cheeks. His manner was perfectly calm, but she knew that he was furiously angry.

"He's a mad-tempered brute," she said to herself. "He's angry enough to beat me. Still, there's something to be said in his behalf. He thinks I'm Constance Kerr, whom he married, and, when you remember that she ran away from him within a hour of her marriage, without a word, there's some excuse for his rage."

It hardly seemed possible to her that he would accept her as Constance Kerr, but he did, and without a single doubtful glance.

As he bowed and kissed her hand, he said: "Please dismiss your maid. I must talk to you."

When the maid left, he paced up and down the room. "Now, Constance, be good enough to explain this you marry me, then you leave me flat, as you dare not deny, and then by some passage abroad, leaving me to guess what has become of you. Finally, when I follow you and locate you here, you tell your maid to tell me that you're not at home. I'll not take, that you've left for London. You—you—" He paused for want of a suitable epithet.

Sheila suppressed a wild desire to laugh. That French maid, with her scant knowledge of English, had faithfully repeated every word that Sheila had said when she was making her hurried exit from the hotel after learning that Count was on the wire. What explanation would fit this situation? Obviously, nothing but the facts, and Sheila could not reveal them without betraying Constance Kerr. And that she couldn't do.

Walking up to the fuming Count she smiled at him in her most coaxing, wary manner. "Please, Jean," she begged, "don't be so angry. I can't bear it." She paused and looked at him closely. He was very handsome, she decided. It wouldn't do any harm to tell him this.

"Jean," she said softly, "you are the handsomest man I know."

Instantly his expression softened. Then a look of suspicion crept into his eyes. "What are you trying to do?" he asked. "I want an explanation, Constance!"

She gazed at him appealingly. "I'm trying to tell you what happened," she began, when suddenly a terrible thought struck her. "Jean," she cried, "you haven't told any one that we're married?"

"Hardly," he rejoined stiffly. "That would involve such questions as to your whereabouts, and what bridegroom cares to admit that he doesn't know where his bride is?"

Sheila sighed with relief. "As long as no one knows about our marriage everything is all right. Now, Jean, this is what happened. After Aubrey's yacht had left New York, one of his old busybody friends must have seen us together at dinner, and the result was a wire to father that I was in Paris, instead of at my boarding-school, and in your company. When I returned home, after we were married, there was a furious message from father—'Marry that fortune-hunter and I'll cut you off without a penny, etc., etc!' Well, what was I to do? We were already married. I radioed back that I was leaving for Europe shortly and would meet the yacht at Whatever Mediterranean port he touched. Then I left for Europe. Oh, I admit that I wasn't very clever in the way I managed things, Jean. I should have taken you into my confidence, but I was afraid that I would never have the courage to leave you, once I had seen you again, so I just rushed off. I wired mother's secretary from the ship to tell you that I would communicate with you, and I suppose she just didn't do it, knowing how mother feels about you."

Bellefonte, by this time, was completely placated. "My poor Constance," he murmured, seizing her hand. "I've been very unjust to you. Forgive me, Constance."

But Sheila silenced him with a gesture and went on. She knew his weakness and she played upon it carefully.

"I don't want father to disinherit me," she continued. "For myself I don't care. But you—I want you to have a career, to enter the diplomatic service, perhaps, and that means money. I can see you as an ambassador—"

"And you," he interposed, "will help me with your tact, your talent for social leadership, your gift of diplomacy."

"Yes, yes," she murmured to herself. "That's only half of it."

"And now," he cried, "let me tell you how I found you. When you didn't return that day, something told me you had left for Europe. I made a tour of the steamship offices and found the clerk who had sold you your ticket. The rest was easy. I obtained the last reservation on a fast boat, bound for England. When you did not leave your ship at Southampton, I knew you were going on to Paris. So I flew the channel and watched the papers here for news of your arrival. And how glad I am that I've found you."

Sheila suddenly felt that she had reached the limit of her endurance. She held out her hand. "You must Lonesome but to my mind he has a rather peculiar way of showing it. Ask him for an explanation of his actions and if his answer does not satisfy you I would try to forget him.

SINCLAIR'S

Some Helpful Hints For Busy Housewives

Leather straps on trunks or suit cases get very stiff if they are not used frequently. If they are soaked in hot soapy water and dried in the open air they will become pliable again. If they are then well rubbed with Vaseline oil this will preserve the leather.

Save your coffee grounds, dry them in the oven and use them on the knife board instead of knife powder. You will be surprised at the result. A pinch of carbonate of soda sprinkled on the knife board with the grounds saves time and labor.

If you are troubled with a damp smelling cupboard or cellar, break up a lump of lime in a box and put inside. All dampness and smell will then disappear. The lime should be removed as soon as the smell is gone because if left too long it will cause rot in woodwork.

WHERE SALT IS USED

The Canadian production of salt, except for small exports, is sold in Canada principally to the dairy, meat-curing, fisheries, and chemical industries, and as table salt for household use. The market for salt in Canada is steadily increasing.

WHAT'S NEW
(From A Woman's Standpoint)

Beige in middle range maintains its vogue in hosiery, while gunmetal in both light and dark shades is also good.

Low gadets in coats and broad pleats in the dresses are features of the newest Paton models.

In the new Vionnet models the fullness has a tendency to be concentrated at one side of the back in evening dresses with the corsage crossed at the back.

Some new models for afternoon wear are finished at the neck with cape-collars which give an almost Parisienne aspect to an otherwise smart little frock.

The wife of Dr. Mansfield Robinson of London objects to his sending or receiving radio messages from a girl in Manila, and New York editor asserts either married women think that she doesn't know her luck—he might be calling up a girl much nearer home.

London reports a vogue for carpets which either at one or more corners, or else, either at one o more corners, terminate a spiky or clump of flowers growing in a natural manner, and these flowers are in bright colorings and all sorts of textures are used, such as sweet pea, hollyhock, cornflower, stocks, dahlias, delphiniums, and wild flowers.

London notes the increasing number of brides whose bridesmaids wear gowns which, as regards style are exact copies of the wedding dress, and four or five brides whose weddings take place within the next three or four weeks will be followed by maids in dresses made on the same lines as their own.

Windmills are said to have been first used in Persia.

EXHIBITION OF DUTCH ART TO BE HELD SOON

Promoted By Anglo Batavian Society; Will Show Art Gems

London, (By the C. P.)— A wonderful exhibition of Dutch art will be held at Burlington House from January 4 to March 9 next. The exhibition is being promoted by the Anglo Batavian Society and a strong English and Dutch committee has been formed to carry the project through. The Dutch minister in London, Dr. R. de Marees Swinderen, is honorary chairman of the committee and Lord Albermarle, chairman. Lord Albemarle, who has held a distinguished military career and is a colonel on the reserve of officers, is a son of the 7th Earl of Albemarle and Sophia Mary, daughter of Hon. Sir Alan Napier McNab, one time Premier of Upper Canada, and he succeeded to the title on the death of his father in 1894. He was born in London in 1858.

Consisting of between 400 and 500 paintings and about 200 drawings and etchings, the exhibition will occupy all the galleries of the Royal Academy. The per od covered will be from about 1450 to the end of the 19th century, thus permitting a special representation of the Hague School—the brooding inclusion of a large group of seascapes by Maris, Israels, and Mauve—and by Van Gogh, many of the pictures being lent by private members of the Dutch family. Among the countries, besides England and Holland, contributing to the exhibition are the United States, France, Germany, Switzerland, Belgium, Finland, Rumania, and it is hoped, Portugal.

King George is lending five pictures "The Magi Adoring Christ," by Rembrandt; "The Letter," by Terborch; "Morning Toilet," by Jan Steen; "Lady and Gentleman Playing the Virginals," by Vermeer; and "The try will be Sir Herbert Cook's "Boy

In the village of Notre Dame, de Lac, in Quebec province, the black smith has a pet deer which is attracting a great deal of attention. The young animal is shown on the RIGHT playing with the cat at the home of D. Moncoin. The latter's son is pictured at the LEFT with the family dog and the deer, also good playmates.

Card Players," by Pieter de Hooch. Among the others principal contributors in this country are the Duke of Buccleuch, Lord Crawford, Sir Otto Beit, the Duke of Wellington, Lord Swaythling, and Sir Joseph Duveen—who is bringing over some very important works from United States. About 114 pictures—excluding drawings and etchings—are coming from Holland, the directors of the Rijksmuseum, the Mauritshuis, and the Rotterdam Museum keeping in close touch with the English committee and crossing over at a moment's notice.

Rembrandt will naturally be the great figure of the exhibition. From Holland are coming "The Jewish Bride," "The Dead Peacock," "Susanna in the Bath," and "Landscape with Bridge;" and among the famous examples of the master in this country are "Titus" and "The Man in Armour," from the Glasgow Gallery. I. de Stuyer of Swinemund, who is the hon. treasurer of the exhibition, is lending his famous collection of Rembrandt etchings, and they—with the rest of the drawings and etchings—are to be arranged by Campbell Dodgson and A. M. Hind, of the British Museum.

INDIAN BOY LEAVES HIS FOSTER PARENTS

Provincial Police of this city have been asked by their headquarters to be on the watch for a young lad of fifteen years of age, who disappeared from his foster home toward the last of September. He is of Indian birth and although born in Cornwall, has lived for the past eight years with A William of Longford, Simcoe County Mr. Williams declared that the boy might be going by the name of Abraham Williams or Abraham Jacobs. If any one answering this description should be seen, please communicate with the nearest Provincial Police Office.

LONG SLEEP MAKES BABY HAPPY AGAIN

"Our baby kept waking" us several times a night, until we started giving him a little Castoria after his last nursing," says an Iowa mother. "He slept soundly from the first night and it made him look and feel worlds better." Baby specialists endorse Fletcher's Castoria; and millions of mothers know how this purely-vegetable, harmless preparation helps babies and children, with colic, constipation, colds, diarrhea, etc. The Fletcher signature is always on the wrapper Be genuine Castoria. Avoid imitations.

PRODUCTION OF GRAPHITE

Canadian graphite is marketed as refined flake, the product of concentration of disseminated ore. No lump crystalline graphite (plumbago), is produced in Canada. The mines and mills are situated in the Perth, Barrett and Calabogie districts in Ontario, and in the Buckingham, Ouresite, and St. Remi districts in Quebec.

FLEW OVER HUNDRED MILES

Berlin, Nov. 6—Graf Zeppelin flew here this morning after a four hundred mile flight from Friedrich Shafen.

ALL READY FOR MAMMOTH FAIR

Over 40 Carloads of Live-stock From Western Canada.

Over forty carloads of blue-blooded livestock, the pride of Western Canada's flocks and herds, will make a triumphal progress to the Royal Winter Fair at Toronto, according to estimates made by the railway companies. Reports from the different Western Provinces indicate an unusually strong representation in the livestock and poultry sections at the Royal this year. Manitoba will be exhibiting in cattle, heavy horses and sheep. Saskatchewan will have fifty horses, the pick of the Clydesdales, Percherons and Belgians in the province, in addition to other livestock entries. The University of Alberta, which was a heavy winner at the 1927 fair, is arranging with the cooperation of the various breeds of beef cattle in Alberta to establish in the market steer classes at the 1928 Royal.

The 1928 Alberta contingent will include nineteen head made up as follows: seven junior yearlings, one senior calf and one junior calf in Shorthorns. The Herefords will be represented by three junior yearlings and one senior calf. Two junior yearlings and one junior calf will complete the entries in Aberdeen-Angus. In addition there will be three animals in the grade and cross-bred classes. British Columbia is sending a strong entry of Holstein cattle.

In addition to the livestock entries the Western Provinces will be well represented in seeds and grains, dairy products, poultry and in the case of Manitoba and British Columbia, in fruit and vegetables.

HAMILTON FIRM GETS BIG ORDER

Hamilton, Ont., November 6.— The National Steel Car Company of this city, announced today that it had received an order for cars totalling $2,- P.R. valued at $2,000,000. It will build 12 passenger car frames and 250 refrigerator cars.

WEDDINGS

WAITE—DENYES

At two o'clock Saturday afternoon a pretty wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Denyes, Trenti Road, when their second daughter, Ruby Irene, became the bride of Gladson Griffin Waite, son, of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Waite of Sidney. Rev. Butler officiated at the ceremony. The bride entered the drawing room on the arm of her father and looked charming in a frock of white satin with trimmings of pearl stones. Her tulle veil was caught with orange blossoms and she carried a shower bouquet of sweetheart roses and lily-of-the-valley. The wedding march was played by Mr. Wm. Lee.

Miss Hazel Denyes, sister of the bride, acted as bridesmaid and was becomingly attired in a gown of maize crepe de chine and she carried sunset roses. Mr. Sherman Babbitt was best man. During the signing of the register Miss Elma Pinkie of Trenton, and Mr. Duke sang appropriate solos. After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride which over a hundred guests in attendance. Mrs. Denyes, mother of the bride, received in a gown of navy georgette with pin tucking.

The groom's gift to the bride was a fox fur, to the bridesmaid an onyx and pearl ring to the soloist a bar pin and to the groomsman and pianist, gold cuff links. After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Waite left on a wedding trip to Rochester, Buffalo and Marion, Ohio, the bride traveling in pretty ensemble of amber brown, the dress of filigreed crepe and the coat of duvetteen with collar and cuffs of mole skin with a small hat to match. Mr. and Mrs. Waite were the recipients of many beautiful gifts.

DODDS—ROSE

On Thursday, November 1st, 1923, a very pretty autumn wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Rose, Woodrous , when their only daughter, Nellie May, was united in marriage to Samuel Pedley Dodds, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. S. P. Dodds of Cherry Valley. Rev. Lawrence B. Smith, B.A., B.D., performed the ceremony in the presence of the immediate relatives and a number of intimate friends of the bride and bridegroom .

The bridal party entered the drawing room to the strains of Lohengrin's wedding chorus, played by Miss Evelyn Moore, who wore a becoming dress of green crepe de chene. Miss Margery Dodds, sister of the groom, was bridesmaid, and was gowned in pale green crepe de chene with rhinestone buckle, with sprays of pearls. She carried a beautiful bouquet of Sweetheart roses and fern, and wore black satin shoes with rhinestone buckles. Mr. Eugene Rose of Oshawa, brother of the bride, assisted the bridegroom.

The bride who was given away by her father, wore a becoming gown of rose-beige georgette and lace with blonde shoes and stockings. She wore a wreath of pearls and carried a shower bouquet of Sweetheart roses and fern. The ceremony was performed in an alcove, the beautiful autumn view through the window, forming a lovely background, together with decorations of evergreens and bright red and autumn berries. Throughout the house were arranged bowls of lovely chrysanthemums.

Following the ceremony, and the extending of congratulations and good wishes, dinner was served in the dining-room. The bride's table was centered with a three-story wedding cake and bowls of pink snapdragons. The small guest tables were also centred with pink snapdragons. The assistants were Miss Millie Dodds, in sand georgette and lace, Miss Josie Dodds in blue crepe de chene, Miss Evelyn Moore and Miss Hero Dodds in green crepe de chene.

The ceremony of cutting the wedding cake was carried out and Rev. W. S. Smart of Greenwood, Ont., proposed the toast to which the groom and best man responded.

On the advent of the newly-weds to the lawn to be photographed, they were showered with rice, confetti, and streamers. The bride's bouquet was caught by Miss Josie Dodds.

During the ceremony a number of friends of the bride and bridegroom, had proceeded to the home and decorated the bridegroom's car—with ribbons and bows, tin cans, old shoes and what not. The best man, acting as chauffeur, with the bridesmaid started the happy couple on their wedding trip to Toronto, Detroit and points west by taking them for a drive through Main Street, Picton, and to Bloomfield, where the gaily decorated car with its tin cans, etc., caused much attention. On the r return, Mr. and Mrs. Dodds will reside at Woodrous.

Among the guests were Rev. and Mrs. W. S. Smart of Greenwood, Ont., formerly of Cherry Valley; Misses Marjorie and Hero Dodds of Toronto; Mr. Eugene Rose of Oshawa; Mrs. R. Purcelle, Belleville Road; Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Tripp, Point Petre; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kinney, Picton, and many others.

The bride and bridegroom rece'ved many lovely presents including chest of silver, cheques, china, silver tea service, cedar chest, cut glass, linen, etc. The bridegroom's gift to the bride was a handsome leather purse with sum of money; to the bridesmaid an evening bag set with rhinestones; to the pianist a bracelet and to the best man, gold signet ring. The bride's gift to the Misses Millis and Josie Dodds were gold and silver compacts.

DEATHS & FUNERALS

Mrs. Carrie M. Kennedy, wife of William Kennedy, passed away at the General Hospital last week after a lengthy illness which was borne with a true Christian spirit. Deceased was born in Rawdon Township and was the eldest daughter of Mrs. Howe and the late J. Howe. After her marr age she made her home in Carmel where she resided up till fifteen years ago, when she came to Belleville. She has many friends in the city where she was well respected. She leaves to mourn her loss her husband and two daughters, Mrs. W. J. Carson and Miss Elizabeth, one son Clare, an aged mother, two brothers, two sisters and two grandch ldren.

The late Mrs. Kennedy was a member of the Tabernacle Church and was interested in all church work being a member of the Church Ladies Aid and Ladies Bible Class. She was a willing and untiring worker and will be greatly missed by the members. She was also a member of Lydia L.O.B.A. 350, being its first worthy Mistress and one of the founders of the organization and a faithful attendant at all the meetings, till about two years ago, when ill health prevented her attending.

Rev. A. E. McCutcheon conducted the services at the house assisted by Mr. A. L. Geen and Rev. Geo. Marshall and the favorite hymns of the deceased were sung The L.O.B.A. met at the house and accompanied the remains to the graveside where the impressive services of the order were conducted. The bearers were F. Paul, C. Reid, E. Bell, J. Hanna, L. Doolittle, Morgan. The large number of floral tributes and letters of sympathy testified to the esteem in which the deceased was held.

THOMAS FROST

Tuesday, October 23rd, the entire community was shocked upon learning of the sudden death of Mr. Thomas Frost, of Sidney Township. Less, as he was generally called, was born in Rawdon Township about 37 years ago and was an extremely popular boy, who always had the happy faculty of making friends which was quite in evidence when at the service held in Trinity Church, Frankford, many were unable to obtain entrance to the sacred edifice.

On October 18th, he and his devoted wife formerly Miss May Pollard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Pollard, Frankford, attended the Confirmation service where both knelt together at the altar to receive the Sacrament of the Body and Blood of our blessed Saviour.

In the afternoon a banquet was held in the Orange Hall in honor of his Lordship, the Right Reverend Dr. Seager. Mr. and Mrs. Frost sat at gilt left conversing freely about church affairs and apparently enjoyed everything to the full.

Naturally one felt the shock severely, when only a few days later word was transmitted that he had passed to the great beyond.

He was a devoted husband and most affectionate father.

There are left to mourn his loss, a sorrowing widow and two small children, besides his father, mother, sisters and four brothers to whom the sympathy of the whole community goes out in their bereavement.

The Rector of the Parish, the Rev. R. P. Byers, conducted the service, assisted by the Rev. Wm. Doggett, pastor of the United Church. The choir sang those inspiring hymns "Abide With Me," and "When our Heads are Bowed with Woe."

After the committal of the Orange Order of which the deceased was a member held a short service.

When J. Ely Williamson, New York, married recently he devised a novel way of combining his honeymoon with a business trip. The inventor of a helium tube with a glass chamber at the base, for the purpose of underwater photography, he and his bride went to the south seas for their trip and spent the first days of their married life at the bottom of the sea together. Above are shown Mr. and Mrs. Williamson and a diagram illustrating his peculiar invention.

W. M. S. MEETING AT SHANNONVILLE

The regular meeting of the W.M.S. of the United Church, Shannonville, was held at the home of Mrs. Taylor Morden on Thursday, Nov. 1st. Mrs Harry Murphy had charge of the devotional exercises and chose as the opening hymn, "Jesus Saves," the then read the Scripture Lesson, from the 35th Chapter of Matt., after which Mrs. Stickney, Mrs. Clarke and Mrs. Murphy lead in prayer. It was moved by Mrs. Stickney and seconded by Mrs. Murphy that the delegates' fees be paid. After the business of the meeting was over, Mrs. Robertson gave a report on the sectional meeting held at Canniffon and received a hearty vote of thanks from the ladies.

Roll was then called, the members answering their names with a new item. Miss Sara Stickney then gave an interest by reading and the meeting closed with prayer lead by Mrs. (Rev) Clarke. Twenty-three ladies were present and the collection amounted to $2.10 and Thank offering envelopes contained $11.50. Lunch was then served and a pleasant half hour was enjoyed. The next meeting takes place at the parsonage on Dec. 5th. And a full attendance is urged as election of officers is to take place. All mite boxes should be handed in as the president would like to close the business for the year.

REGENT

Bigger and better than ever—the greatest, grandest most glittering and gorgeous gathering of grandiose splendor ever assembled under one roof—we mean tent.

This time it's a bit different. You won't have to sit cramped up on a hard wooden bench or get a twist in your neck trying to watch three rings at once.

Just come down to the Regent Theatre tonight and see "Hearts and Spangles" in a comfortable chair and you'll get all the thrills of the circus plus a lot of other enjoyable things.

Wanda Hawley, little Eraskie Darrow, Barbara Tennant and a lot of real film stars portray a most interesting drama of circus life.

There will be a great time for the youngsters—and you'll enjoy it your self as much as they will.

BELLE THEATRE

"Take Me Home," the latest Bebe Daniels picture which opened at the Belle Theatre last night, turned out to be a delightful surprise. A surprise in the sense that Bebe Daniels has cast off the slapstick type of role for a better dramatic one, and her characterization in her new role as a stage actress was exceptionally well done.

Those of her fans, however, who like Bebe giving one of her characteristic performances in a light comedy vein will not be disappointed with the latest offering. There is comedy in the picture, and it is handled by Miss Daniels with her usual "comedy touch". There are many light moments when the audience last night was lifted with laughter proving that comedy has not been clipped out of the Bebe Daniels' acting altogether.

"Take Me Home" is a comedy drama of back stage life. It is a story of a chorus girl and a love affair which brought her stardom.

There is a smashing climax to the story. The spectacular fight between the chorus girl and her lover, Miss Daniels and the leading lady of the show done by Lilyan Tashman, is one of the classics of the screen.

MILK FOR DAIRY FACTORIES

McGILL EXPECTS RECORD CROWD

Team in Good Shape and Tickets for Varsity Game Going Fast

McGill football officials are preparing for a record crowd Saturday when McGill makes its bid for an intercollegiate title again Varsity. Season ticket purchasers have already secured a capacity house and extra seats will be placed around the cinder track and in front of the main stand will be erected this week.

The McGill ticket offices opened for business this morning with a long line of customers eagerly awaiting the lifting of the wickets. In the first half hour, over a hundred tickets were sold and all day long telephones buzzed with orders for seats. The Thanksgiving Day game with M.A.A.A. for the city championship appeared also to be a big attraction and many orders for the city championship title were also filled.

The footballers themselves lost no time in getting back into action. As soon as school rugby play-off game was finished the regulars went through a fast signal practice, Scrimmage drills will be resumed this afternoon.

All members of the team who went through last Saturday's gruelling struggle with Queen's with the exception of Dave Munroe reported themselves in good shape. Munroe had to be helped off the field early in the contest and it is doubtful whether he will be ready to play Saturday.

McGill are of the opinion that this home town jinx that has played havoc with the fortunes of all three college teams so far this season is about ready to die a natural death. The thing can't last for ever by all the laws of probability and the red team figures best Saturday is about as good an occasion as any for Mr. Home wrecker to run Town Jinx to be laid to rest.

There is another suspicion, too, that McGill is determined to smash into small bits against Varsity Saturday. Ever since 1922, McGill and Toronto have broken even in their contests with each other. Ever in the days when the blue had much superior teams to McGill, the red footballers always managed to take one fall out of the "T". This year they are pointing to throw them for a double loss and so take the championship.

It is almost certain that if McGill wins the college title they will not enter the play-downs for the Dominion title. Nothing definite has been decided but the McGill faculty are strongly against any participation in football after the regular college schedule has been completed. Absences from lectures during practices and out-of-town games are condoned by the faculty on the understanding that when the season is finished the footballers will attend strictly to their studies.

Johnny Fitzpatrick, former University of Toronto track star and member of Canada's Olympic team, and also on the Hamilton Tigers Big Four club, may enter McGill next year, according to friends he visited here over the week-end. Mr. Welch, the Tigers kicking star, may go to Queen's next fall, according to the same source.

YOUR EYES and Our Service

By J. A. MOFET, Optometrist Belleville

What about industrial eye examinations?

That subject is of great importance. Tens of thousands of workers in shops and factories would increase the volume and quality of their output if they received the help of Optometry.

These workers are below par because they see imperfectly?

Yes. Much investigation has proceeded along these lines. And the results show that a high percentage of industrial workers need eye assistance.

Is this service needed equally in other lines?

It can be stated with truth that close to half the total population of the country at any given time would be benefitted by the help the Optometrist is waiting to give.

SEAPLANE DOES 350 MILES HOUR

Trial Flight Gives Lieut. Greig Speed—Figure Unofficial

London, November 6—Flight-Lieut. J. Aloysius Greig drove his super-marine Napier seaplane 350 miles an hour in a trial flight at Calshot Saturday, preparatory to attacking the world's record. He thus probably attained the at speed yet reached by man in the greatest speed yet reached by man in his air.

It is, however, an entirely unofficial figure, due to achieve Lieut. Greig lived from a height of probably 2,000 feet, whereas in an officially recorded flight a pilot must not exceed a drive of 1,200 feet. On the other hand, Lieut. Greig made the flight with his throttle partly closed, and it is thought that he may be able to better that speed in an official test and easily break the existing record of 318 1-2 miles an hour held by Major De Bernhardi, the Italian flier.

Lieut. Greig, who has been waiting at Calshot for six weeks for the most favorable weather conditions possible, remained in the air twenty-two minutes and showed complete mastery of his machine even at terrific speed.

HOCKEY LEAGUE TO PLAY THIS SEASON

A meeting will be held in Belleville within the next two weeks with the hope of re-organizing the Bay of Quinte hockey league which functioned last season. Mr. W. R. McLaughlin, Manager of the Napanee Club Last season this loop embraced the clubs communicated with Managers in Belleville and Trenton on the matter. Intelligencer Black Hawks, the Canadian International Films of Trenton, as well as Picton and Napanee. It is proposed to organize another group composed of these four teams. Mr. Howard Jarrett, of Trenton is Secretary of the League.

The Trenton team won the Bert Cann Cup last season after a close fight with the Napanee Club. The Belle Hawks will again be represented by the club and it is expected that all the other clubs will join again this year. Mr. Bert Kenny managed the Trenton club and L. Cook the Black Hawks.

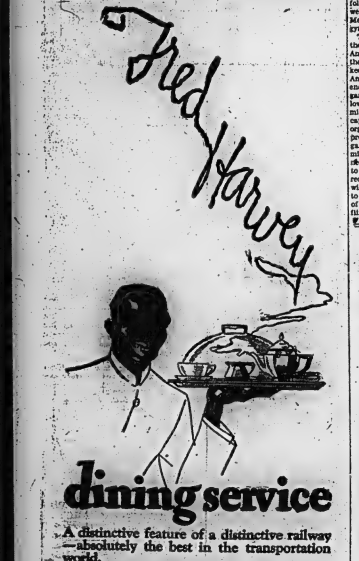

BROCKVILLE MEETS OTTAWA

Brockville, November 6.—Brockville Collegiate Institute, conquerors of Kingston Collegiate in the Interscholastic Football League, will meet Ottawa University in a sudden death game in the Eastern Ontario semi-finals here on Wednesday. Brockville Collegiate defeated Kingston Collegiate, 24-2, on the round.

INDUSTRIAL LEAGUE BASKETEERS RENEW ACTIVITIES

Tomorrow evening will witness the renewal of activities in the Industrial Basketball League at the Y.M.C.A. following the postponement of last weeks fixtures on account of the Y's Mens' Hallowe'en activities on the gym floor.

The opening fixture will be between the Stephens-Adamson Co. and the American Optical. The former won their opening game and are intent on keeping the slate clean but in the American Optical dainiels they will encounter plenty of opposition. This game will commence at 8.15 p.m. followed by a "nightcap between the Ashmile and the G.N.R. Johnnie Kerr captain of the "Lubricators" has reorganized his team and this contest promises to be a battle royal. Both games will go the full time of forty minutes so that the managers will need to have available subs in order to sustain the fast pace they will be required to travel. Basketball fans will be well rewarded by turning out to witness these games as the calibre of game played is on a par with the fixtures in the provincial series.

A Sudden End to Stomach Trouble

ADF or discomfort following a meal doesn't mean you must go on a "diet." Nine times out of ten indigestion, acidity, flatulence and heartburn are caused by excess stomach acid and food fermentation.

After too hasty a lunch, or too hearty a dinner, a little "Pape's Diapepsin," instantly neutralizes excess acidity, stops that fermentation, and soothes and heals the acid-inflamed stomach lining as if by magic. Your recovery is quick and complete. Make a special point of getting a 60-cent package of "Pape's Diapepsin" from your druggist today, and so follow the example of millions all over the world who use "Pape's Diapepsin" to end indigestion and allied stomach troubles.

With "Pape's Diapepsin" handy you can eat and enjoy whatever you fancy without fear of pain or discomfort to follow. As say rate, it's worth the trial, for lots of folks have found a new freedom at the table.

Henley Child to Stand Trial at Spring Assizes - Attend School Here

FATHER'S EVIDENCE SHOWS JIMMY HENLEY WAS NOT NORMAL CHILD

Dead Boy Had Become A Little "Queer" in Last Few Months

TEASED CHILDREN

Small Sister, Violet, Tells of Quarrel Leading up to the Shooting

That James Henley died from peritonitis, on November 18 in the Belleville General Hospital, the result of gunshot wounds from the discharge of a gun in the hands of his brother, Harry Henley was the finding of Coroner's jury at the inquest into Jimmy Henley's death last night. Harry was in the courtroom himself but was not called into the witness box by Crown Attorney Denison, although he made a confession to the Provincial Police was read.

It was an inquest that brought a lump into the throats of all who were present. Police Constable Cowle's evidence, bringing out the fact that James, eyes on his death bed, claimed that the two boys were trying to load the gun and that the shooting was purely accidental, to the damning evidence, in many ways, of little ten-year old Violet Henley. Pathetic inquiry was tinged with pathos.

She children, only one of whom had been away from home in his life, and at that time only a matter of ten miles, a handsome, upright boy of but twelve years of age sitting in one section of the courtroom, a father, broken hearted, yet giving his evidence in a monotonous monotone, straight looking into space of friendship these were but a few of the touching points that were to be observed.

Had Been Rabbit Shooting

For it certainly appears that the affair was not an accident. Violet Henley's evidence, and Violet gave it bravely although her voice trembled while she talked, was enlightening to say the least. Violet said that on the day in question, the 18th of October, there were only the children at home. The father was the mother in Belleville attending the funeral of a relative and she was looking after her younger sisters. The boys had been rabbit shooting, she said, and they carried with them a bunny as a trophy of the chase, James was carrying the gun.

Then she described the quarrel, how James had thrown stones at Harry, who picked up one or two and threw them back, and then had run into the house. Jimmy had continued to throw stones and "he nearly broke the door down." As it was he smashed holes that one could put a fist into to the wall, she stated, and took the gun down.

Heard Gun Fired

"Did you see him open the breech?" asked the Crown.

"No", she replied.

"Did you see him put the shell in it?"

"No."

"Did you see him put the gun up to the window and shoot it?"

"No."

"Did you hear the report?"

BULLS RALLY ON HOOVER VICTORY

Many Stocks Set New High Prices For Year To-Day

New York, Nov. 7.—Wall Street celebrated the election of Herbert Hoover today by staging a vigorous bullish demonstration in stock prices. Early gains of two to ten points were fairly well maintained in the face of heavy profit taking, with more than a score of issues, fourteen of them old, setting new high records for the year.

Lowering of the call money renewal rate to six per cent., the announcement of stock split-up by National Sugar Rining and a few smaller company and the prediction of at least two more years of good business by Arthur W. Cotten, one of Wall Streets largest market operators, all helped to stimulate bullish enthusiasm.

SIDE OF BRIDGE IS TOO HARD FOR CAR

About one thirty o'clock yesterday morning a touring car driven by a man driven at a fast rate of speed east on Bridge Street crashed into the north side of the lower bridge, and although not much harm was done to the bridge, the car was considerably damaged. It was also torn from the markers that the car was owned by Harry Mattis of this city although it not known who was driving at the time. After telephoning the Riggs Garage to come for the wreck, the driver disappeared.

BELLEVILLE ON AIR NEXT WED.

Splendid Program Has Been Arranged- By Well Known Artists

There will be an "All-Belleville Night" on the air from station CKGW Toronto, Wed., Nov. 14th, a week from tonight, through the courtesy of the Seth Finish Hardwood Flooring Ltd., a period has been allotted to Belleville from ten to eleven o'clock p.m. during which some of Belleville's best musical talent will be heard and Mayor M. P. Duff will deliver a radio message telling of a few of the noteworthy features of our city.

During recent weeks a number of progressive towns and cities in Ontario have broadcast programs through the medium of the high class station at the King Edward Hotel Among the most excellent of recent programs have been those contributed by the cities of Peterbrough and Galt.

Plenty of Talent

Belleville is known all over Ontario as the home of musical talent that is not surpassed in eastern Canada. Several of our leading musical artists have consented to contribute to this program. The Radio Four, who were recently broadcast from station CNRM, Montreal and who also made several recordings for the well known Apex records, will journey to Toronto and contribute several numbers next Wednesday night. Mrs. C. H Stobie who has an excellent former reputation as broadcasted from Toronto stations, will also be prominently featured in the Belleville program. A Mr. Bankier, with his marvellous lyric tenor, will be heard in a double number. Members of the Radio Four, in addition to their quartet numbers, will render solos as will be seen by the entire program given below. Mrs. Riggs, Belleville's peerless pianist, will act as accompanist for the even ng and will also herself render a piano number.

Splendid Program

The City Council, acting in conjunction with the Chamber of Commerce, is giving the people of Belleville and of Ontario the advantage of being able to listen in on this superb program.

The program as arranged, follows:

1. "John Peel" Andrews, Vocal Quartet, The Radio Four (Messrs. Bill Billman, J A Thompson, H H Bowerman, Dr. A. B. Hepburn)
2. "Old Black Joe" Foster, bass solo and chorus, Harry Moorman.
3. Selection of Venice Trio music, soprano solo, Mrs. Helen Stobie.
4. "Open up the Gates of Glory," Gellert, tenor solo, A. S. Bankier.
5. Fantasie on a Theme from "Rigoletti," Liszt. Piano Solo, Leo B. Egan.
6. A few words about the city of Belleville—His Worship, Mayor M. P. Duff.
7. "When You and I Were Young Maggie," tenor solo, Dr. A. B. Haffner, and "My Laddie," Thayer, bass solo "Wholl Buy My Lavender," German, Mrs. Helen Stobie.
8. "Cornfield Medley," vocal quartet, The Radio Four.
9. (a) "The Maid of Malabar," Adams, and (b) "Lesley," Burns, Messrs. D. Bankier, tenor solo.
10. "Swing Along," vocal quartet, The Radio Four.
11. "Annie Laurie," baritone solo, J. Arnold Patterson, accompanist.
12. "Sical Sav'," vocal quartet, The Radio Four.

—Leo Riggs, Accompanist.

Car Reported As Stolen Was Just Taken By Company Who Owned It

The car which was yesterday reported to the city police as having been stolen from in front of the Crystal Hotel was taken from that place, but was not stolen. According to the police, the car was taken by a salesman of the McLaughlin Garage in this city who was on the lookout for the car, which was a Chevrolet sedan.

In reporting the loss to the Police the complainant, John Sergeant, of Madoc, declared that the car was the property of the Hopkins Garage at Belleville, but apparently the automobile was owned by the McLaughlin people. At any rate, they have secured their property again, and the suit cases and battery which were found in the car when he had by applying at the McLaughlin Garage.

BOY OF TWELVE TO FACE ASSIZE

Harry Henley Committed To Stand Trial For Killing His Brother

RELEASED ON BAIL

Rotary Club and Other Kindly Hands to Look After His Interests

Charged that he did unlawfully kill his fifteen-year-old brother, Harry Henley appeared in Police Court this morning before Magistrate Mikel for his preliminary hearing, and was sent up for trial at the next court of competent jurisdiction, which will be the Spring Assizes. Harry was represented by Chas. A. Payne, of this city, and the 12-year-old lad was allowed out on bail, he being released in custody of Captain T. D. Ruston, of the Children's Aid Society.

Mrs. Emma Connor was the first witness called, and told of attending the injured lad. James Henley, on the evening of the 31st of October. He died early on the morning of November 2nd. He had received wounds in the gunshot wounds in the abdomen and legs. All the time that he was conscious as the doctor declared that the dying boy had told three in attendance that the shooting had been an accident, that he and his brother Harry were cleaning the shotgun when it went off. The evidence did not know whether or not the lad knew he was not going to get better.

Sergt. Clarke Test Confession

Sergeant Ray Clarke, of the provincial Police, Belleville, told of investigating the shooting on November the 2nd. He had gone to the Henley home, some three miles south-west of Millbridge, Ont., in Tudor Township, County Hastings. The residence was an old log cabin, and the sergeant described a sketch showing the cabin and giving measurements. He had interviewed the father, mother, Harry, the accused lad, and Violet and Laura, aged ten and seven years respectively. He had also taken a statement from the accused boy. Harry, and produced it in court as an exhibit. Over pencilled on the clothing of the dead boy, James, as well as the shotgun, cartridges and barrels.

Violet Henley was the next witness called, the ten-year-old sister of Harry and James. She was also sworn. Her story remained practically the

The outstanding feature was the complete rout of Communists who suffered heavy losses in many places.

MOTOR LICENSES NOT TO BE CUT

But Gasoline Tax Will Go Up Two Cents A Gallon In 1929

Toronto, Nov. 7.—Premier Ferguson stated definitely last night that there would be no general reduction this year in the price of motor licenses.

The Government intends, he stated, to place "two-pumper" cars in the same category as the small passenger car, but outside of the license reductions involved in this change no cuts are contemplated by the Cabinet.

GASOLINE INCREASE

During the fiscal year of 1928-1929 the Government will, the Prime Min ister pointed out, spend $10,000,000 on its general road transportation program. The most it can expect from all sources of revenue pertaining to highways not excepting the two-cent increase in the gas tax which will be legislated at the next session of the Legislature, and will be effective likely from April 1st, is $10,00,000. In other words the time is not ripe financially for a general reduction in the markers

He was taken immediately to Dr. Chant, who found that the cornea had been penetrated and that it was quite possible to lose the s ght altogether. Much of the injury d in the eye had been drained out, but the attending ophthalmic specialist informed the Intelligencer today that unless the eye becomes infected there is a good chance of saving it.

Belleville's Poet Completes His Arrangements To Forsake The City

"Belleville, the Beautiful" has been forsaken. Wallace Havelock Robb has made final arrangements for his removal from this city, "hall dead" as he so quaintly describes it. Perhaps many of Belleville's citizens are of the opinion that the "Birdland Poet" is heaping his outraged feelings a little too heavily on Belleville, for it has been shown that the act of vandalism which was perpetrated in the Belleville Cemetery was not done by any Belleville citizen, but by three men from a village twenty-five miles away.

Be that as it may, however, Mr. Robb has purchased the three hundred acre farm of Graham L. Sibbitt, R. R. No. 1, Kingston, and intends to start a similar sanctuary there. The farm is situated on the north side of the Kingston-Gananoque Highway, and adjoins this road almost immediately opposite the Eastview Park. Belleville will miss the departing poet joy in his new home which will be called "Abbey Dawn".

FEWER TOURISTS SIGNED REGISTER

But Merchants Say Past Summer Was the Best Ever Enjoyed

There were one hundred and twenty more registration of tourists at the Chamber of Commerce in the tourist season of 1927 than up to date this year. Five hundred and thirty-two tourists signed the registration blotter from Mr. J. O'Herty's office last year and four hundred and sixteen th's year, although there will probably be a few more signatures before the year is ended. The middle of November saw the final registration last year.

Belleville's visitors were from many parts of the United States and Canada while one or two were from Europe. There were twenty states in the Un ed that were represented this year and every province in Canada fell into line, there being even one registration from Prince Edward Island.

1928 a Big Year

1926 saw the best registration, with 2 de hundred and ninety-eight tourists stopping into the Chamber of Commerce. For all three years New York state predominates among United States visitors, while Ontario leads the list in Canada.

One tourist registered from California this year and one from Bideford-Devon, England, the mayor of that town Mayor Gosnell made up the general opinion of Canada among tourists when he said it is "a wonderful country and a kindly people."

Although there was a drop in the registration this year this does not mean that there was any decrease in tourist business. Interviewed by the Intelligencer a short time ago, one majority of Belleville's merchants were enthusiastic over the summer's summer saying that this was the best season they had ever enjoyed.

CUT INTO SOUTH

Smith Only Sure of a Handful of States in Final Count

New York, Nov. 7.—Republicans crept the country from coast to coast in yesterday's elections and elected Herbert Hoover, President of United States. They have enveloped states bordering on the solid south and driven a wedge into the south itself. Overnight returns add to the swelling Republican tide.

As the figured stood at nine o'clock today, with many votes still to be counted about four fifths of the states carrying nearly the same proportion of electoral votes had either toppled to the Republican column or gave evidence of doing so.

By the irony of fate it was Governor Smith's own state of New York which first wrote his doom. Hoover might have lost New York's 45 electoral votes and still won the Presidency, Smith had to win New York to be elected.

Hoover Elected

Democrats found one bright spot in the New York returns in the election of Franklin D. Roosevelt as the governorship over Albert Ottinger.

The Democratic campaign in the farm country above all signs of splitting Smith a single electoral vote. Farm states steadily piling up Republican majorities. Wisconsin, where it was thought the combination of Democratic and LaFollette elements would materialize, swung to the Republicans after giving Smith a nearly eight to one majority over Albert Ottinger.

In the south, Virginia Democrats lost for the first time since reconstruction days. Two other states of the Solid South, Texas and North Carolina, also showed Republican tendencies.

If Smith captures Massachusetts he holds only nine electoral votes by which he has good leads, Louisiana, Arkansas, Mississippi, Alabama, Georgia and South Carolina. Hoover's electoral college vote will be 444 out of a total of 531, the high mark for all time.

TO-DAY'S THOUGHT

The greatest of faults is to be conscious of none.

CARLYLE.

EVERY HORSE-DRAWN VEHICLE NEEDS LIGHTS

A newspaperman who went on a trip of inspection over the provincial highways in three counties of West-ern Ontario recently gained considerable information regarding the construction and operation of high-ways. For instance he discovered that when Premier Ferguson made the statement that the Ontario highways are the best in the world, he was not so very far from the truth. If there are better highways in the world, then the terms of perfection has been reach-ed in the art of roadway construction.

Safety is the keynote of the depart-ment in the construction of provincial highways. Hills which obstruct the full view of the road ahead are cut. Trees are felled at points where they interfere with the vision of approach-ing cars, and curves so planned that the utmost safety is preserved in all difficult positions where blind spots in the arcade are necessary. Nothing seems to have been overlooked especially in the pavements which have been laid during the past couple of years.

All of this has been done to pro-mote the easy and safe transporta-tion of automobiles and other ve-hicles to meet the need of the pres-ent day when traffic is one of the most important considerations in the lives of the people.

Travelling home at night, however, the newspaper representative engaged in the inspection noted a grave grow-ing menace to traffic—the unlighted horse-drawn vehicle.

In one county no less than three or four unlighted buggies were encount-ered, and in each case, had it not been for careful driving, an accident might have resulted. The motorist who drives on the highway there, taking it for granted that the law with respect to the lighting of horse-drawn vehicles, is being adhered to in ensuring trouble, apparently. It was different in another county. Several buggies were met, but in each case there was a light to warn the motor-ist of the presence of the buggy. This at least shows that a fair proportion of buggy drivers in some places are living up to the law.

The lighting of all vehicles at night is a mighty important factor in the preservation of safety. It is true that there are speed limits which, if prop-erly observed, would make it compar-atively safe for even an unlighted bug-gy to make its way along the road after dark-ness; but we cannot have officers everywhere to enforce the speed lim-its. Good pavements are demanded by the modern needs of traffic and as long as we have beautiful smooth roadways there will always be a num-ber of motorists who will disregard the speed laws. We might as well ad-mit this fact, and adopt measures to meet such a condition with caution. The lighting of horse-drawn vehicles at night is a wise and sane bit of legislation, and the authorities should take every step necessary to enforce it, in the interests of the motorists, it is true, but also for the benefit of the drivers of such vehicles.

POOR FELLOW COULD NOT GET A THRILL

One of the passengers who came over to this continent on the first flight of the Graf Zeppelin has re-turned to Paris by steamship, de-claring that he never again wants to see a dirigible. "Our lives were in the greatest danger all the time," he told the Paris reporters. "There was only one parachute aboard, and if the airship had touched the ocean we would all have been drowned. After the airships fin was ripped, said this weary traveller, the trip was "a nightmare." It was impossible to sleep, bathe or shave," he continued. "The passengers lay huddled around the big laminals, many almost unconsci-ous from exhaustion, illness, foul air and the way the ship rolled in the calm made us think it was going to fall to pieces any minute."

It is hard to withhold sympathy from this gentleman. No one is quite so unhappy as the man who wanders into a situation for which he is not fitted temperamentally, and this man had the misfortune to board a trans-Atlantic airship when he should have been occupying a luxuri-ous suite on an ocean liner.

But there is another reason for sympathy. This man had the exper-ience of a lifetime and he did not know it. He was pitched into one of the greatest adventures of the age as an active participant—and all that he could think about was that it was cold. And that is cause for real pity.

Most people have moments when they feel that they were really meant to be bold, daring and intrepid. They feel that they could have sailed with Columbus through the Ana-zonian swamps with Raleigh looking for the lost city or followed Cortes down the barbaric Tenochtit-lan, but they never have the chance. They live, they dress in office and shop and never know the thrills of carrying through a dangerous achieve-ment against long odds.

The Graf Zeppelin's flight was an epic in the days. This man had the rare privilege of being a part in it. It was an experience to be stored up in memory, an experience that could lift a man out of his prosaic self and test him to the limit by confronting him with cold, darkness and death for one hundred hours at a stretch. And this luckless man never guessed it! One could not get a decent chair, the ship rolled and pitched considerably; below was a foaming expanse of hostile ocean: it was not at all comfortable.

Of all people one can read about there are few who are more deserv-ing of pity than the airship passen-ger. He had the experience of a world's lifetime, and is simply bored him and made him unhappy.

Miss Mary Lockeries was in re-ceipt of the news today that her sister had died in Brockville.

While Mr. C. P. Smith was at church last night thieves broke into his residence on Charles St. and stole several articles and a small amount of cash.

Mrs. Mary Ann Frome, widow of the late Henry Frome died at the resi-dence of her son on the Cannifton Road today.

Emmanuel R. C. Church was filled last night when the congregation gath-ered to hear Rev. J. S. Trotter preach his farewell sermon.

The following officers of the I.O. O.F. band were elected: Pres. O. Brick man; Manager, L. R. Terwilligar; Secretary, J. Fenn; Leader, W. B. Riggs; Managing Committee, A. Lew-is, James Brown, Geo. Cornish, Her-bert Brown, E. Hould, W. Hart, W. Hawley, E. O'Rourke, R. Bland, C. Smith, D. Cronkwright, N. Duffin, M. Keat, Leo Riggs, Lester Riggs.

I WONDER?

I wonder if when little leaves
Are romping merrily,
They sometimes send a sideways smile
To the old mother tree;
And when the glaring lights come out,
All down the big black street,
They'd like to scamper home again,
To warm their little feet?

I wonder if on her lone bed,
When night begins to pall,
The mother tree inclines her head,
To listen for a call.
And if when winter's biting jest,
Is keenest, cruel and warm
She gathers to her cold bare breast
Her empty aching arms?

RECORD BIRTH RATE

Islington, Ont., (By C. P.)— In one long, but thinly populated street in this village there are seven houses and seven babies were born there since January 26 last. One house had no birth and one produced twins, the other five had one child each—all sons, and all first sons. All seven children are living.

That Body of Yours

APPENDICITIS IN CHILDREN

When grandfathers have pains in the stomach or abdomen most parents are apt to give them a dose of castor oil and keep the food for twenty-four hours.

This of course, is the best possible treatment and the family doctor usu-ally advises it.

However physicians are finding that children may have appendicitis, just as with adults, and the symptoms are much alike, from the light cathartic form to the severe type with inflam-mation of the appendix and surrounding structures.

In fact Dr. Bourg, of Belgium, reports that severe pus conditions are much more frequent in children and show a higher death rate. Unfortun-ately a younger of 2 to 3 years of age, or even a little older, is unable to describe his pain, and this makes it more difficult for the physician to make the diagnosis.

However, in young children, vomit-ing always occurs at the beginning of an attack, and there is practically al-ways constipation. Some Physicians can detect the condition by the ex-pression on the youngster's face, just as they know the "typhoid face" when they see it. Fever helps in the diagnosis in the increase in the num-ber of white corpuscles in the blood.

In an ordinary "stomach ache" or other innocent abdominal ailment, the white corpuscles are not enlarged up to eight, off any trouble, so there is no need for any increase in their num-bers.

Of course Dr. Bourg recommends operation at once in these severe cases, and it is the point about time. That if your youngster has abdominal pain with vomiting, that the family doctor should be called in at once. Castor oil, salts, or other purgative, should not be given in the meantime, nor should any food be given. If it is appendicitis your youngster has an excellent chance of recovery. If it is not appendicitis and just some simple intestinal dis-turbance, it is worth the expense to know it.

BRIDGE ST. W. M. S. REGULAR MEETING

The Autumn Thank Offering Meet-ing of the Bridge St. W. M. S. was held on Friday, November 2nd, with a large attendance. Mrs. Deroche pres-ided and conducted a response ser-vice appropriate for the Thanksgiving season. By request Mesdames M. Sprague and Hosking sang a duet, "Sun of My Soul."

The speaker for the afternoon, who was introduced by the president was Mrs. McCulloch of Toronto, treasur-er of the Retirement Fund. Mrs. Mc-Culloch expressed her pleasure in be-ing in Belleville and for the privilege of speaking on the work of the W. M. S. She spoke of the privileges and blessings that Canadian women enjoy and referred to those where women and children live cramped and love-less lives because they have not had the love lives for they have not had the blessed the value of our Missionary literature and urged a liberal use of it for the purpose of information and in-spiration. She told us of some of the problems that the Board had to meet in making appropriations for all the stations when it has workers.

The offering for the afternoon was $103.25.

A social half-hour with the group of ladies under the leadership of Mrs. Day, as hostess, closed a very success-ful meeting.

LEGION ENJOYING BUSY TEN DAYS

Armistice Week Provides Opportunities For Fun and Service

Commencing Saturday last and end-ing Nov. 12th, the local branch, Post No. 56, Canadian Legion is having ten busy days.

The Ladies Auxiliary made a splen-did start with a Rummage Sale, held at the Memorial Hall on Saturday evening, this was a great success. The general meeting for the men took place on Tuesday evening and the ladies will hold their meeting on Wed-nesday, at these meetings final ar-rangements will be made for Poppy Day.

The usual Friday euchre and dance will be augmented by a door prize, this being a Thanksgiving Goose; then comes Saturday, Nov. 10th, POP-PY-DAY. This is the most important day in the making of these poppies here the sale by which our unfortunate com-rades in the Veterans Workshops can obtain a living, also it benefits those locally who are in need at times and are assisted over the rough spots by the local branch. The public are here warned against a firm known as "The Transcontinental Poppy Co. who are importing paper poppies and sell-ing them at a quarter or less price which our disabled men can make them. BUY LINEN POPPIES they are a beautiful product.

Following Poppy-Day, comes ARM-ISTICE DAY— Sunday, November 11th. The 10th anniversary of that day when we really did have Pritzie on the run and the Armistice was sign-ed, saving him from perhaps a worse fate than that which he did receive. That day will be observed by the local branch by a trip to Madoc to attend the interesting service. War Memorial there, this makes about the tenth oc-casion that the Belleville boys have as-sisted communities around this dis-trict in this good work. Perhaps the public is aware of the fact that per-mission has been obtained to use the corner of the Armouries lawn as a War Memorial site if it is wanted.

To wind up this period of extra ac-tivity, a Saturday afternoon Dance is being held on Monday, Nov. 12th, $5.00 Gold Piece being the door prize. Other prizes for the dancers are being arranged for. If the hall is not large, enough to hold the guests for the evening, another floor is at the ser-vice of the Legion, so come along to help a good cause.

COLDS
Some people wonder why they have a cold nearly all the time while other people seldom have colds. The answer is simple this people who are subject to colds are in a run-down condi-tion. That means they are pro ducing waste in their body more rapidly than the organs of elimi-nation can carry them off. The retention of waste, of course, suddenly check the process of elimination, with the result that you have contracted a cold.

But is there not some definite cause for the gradual accumula-tion of wastes or poisons in our bodies?

We would be glad to explain to you the cause and also how it may be removed, if you will call at our office.

POETRY ENQUIRES

Among the members of the Intelligencer this morning, as to the outcome of the American Presidential election was why the Hoover family own home was in Pennsylvania. She had been with this country and deeply regretted the fact that she had been unable to return home in time to cast her vote. When it was learned that Hoover was the new President of the country she seemed considerably disappointed. "I am sorry that I did not home yesterday," she said, "it was the most interesting and exciting campaign in years."

HOOVER'S

Rhode "Solid" South

New York, Nov. 7.—Mr. Hoover is assured of at least 324 electoral votes. It is certain that his majority will increase as further returns are received. He has broken the Democratic Gibraltar "Solid South" for Virginia, returns show a majority for him in that State.

Governor Smith has only 88 electoral votes to his credit. According to the returns received, Massachusetts, Maryland, Missouri, Wisconsin, Montana, Nebraska, New Mexico, North Dakota and Arizona are still in the doubtful column, with returns from inadequate returns or an account of the closeness of the contest as the count progresses. Governor Smith may add to his Electoral College showing by carrying some of these.

Smith's Hopes Fall

Governor Smith's hope of victory began to fade within a few hours after the polls closed in New York State, when it was indicated that he had carried New York City, his great stronghold, by less than 450,000, which was much short of the estimate of his managers. As returns began to roll in from up-State, it soon appeared that the Hoover plurality in that strong Republican area would materially augment the total for Governor Smith in New York, with the Republican Governor carrying the State by a lead in the neighborhood of 100,000.

Twenty New York's 45 electoral votes placed in the Hoover column; it became clear early last night that through the full returns determined what the Republican candidate's majority would be in the Electoral College.

Republican Sweep

The overwhelming success of the Hoover following was emphasized when State after State in which the Democrats had placed hope of victory went over into the Republican Camp. Never in history has the Republican national ticket by a heavy majority. Maryland followed suit. Late returns show that Maryland had also taken Missouri. Of other border States, Oklahoma overwhelmingly for Hoover. Minnesota, which the Smith management was also hopeful of bringing into account of the doubtful, went overwhelmingly for Hoover. Among Republican voters because of bad running mate in McNary-Haugen bill, gave him a heavy plurality.

Smith's Only Certainty

As for Governor Smith there is no question that he had carried only his State outside of the South. With the results in Florida, Texas and Virginia still to be heard from, he is certain of having carried only Alabama, Arkansas, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina and Tennessee. His victories in Alabama and North Carolina were a setback for Senator J. Thomas Heflin and Senator Furnifold M. Simmons who deserted their party allegiance to oppose him. Simmons, on the grounds of Governor Smith's anti-prohibition policy, and Heflin for the openly stated reason that Smith was a Catholic.

DRESS TO SUIT YOUR TYPE

This modern day's beauty philosophy has made such a to-do about pretty faces and bodies, has so stressed the fact that clothes do not need to make the woman, but that soft skin, bright eyes, glistening hair, white hands and an alert, alive consciousness of beauty are all any girl needs that many a woman with possibilities of beauty has been handicapped by forgetting what a big part of beauty the right clothes are.

Then too, despite the reams of style and fashion advice scattered everywhere, the fact remains that the clothes problem is more bewildering than ever in this day of hectic commercial world competition. Competition launched an avalanche of cheap clothes, too, for the average modern girl seems to prefer quantity in her clothes to quality.

But to achieve beauty by clothes, it is not necessary to have 20 costumes in a wardrobe.

A woman's colors rarely change and if she has learned that browns bring out the gold lights in her hair and eyes and that greens do the same thing, and also make her skin white and clear, lotions and salves are of secondary importance. If the girl with little money who spends her $5 a week in the 5-and-10 parlor, rain or shine, for marcel, manicure, eyebrow plucking and facial fang shell be lucky if she gets all that for $5!) would save a little of this money toward clothes of better quality and fewer of all the gew-gaws that the commercial world is eternally inundating—if she would study her coloring and her type and find her correct dress gait and stick to it, she would find herself a much nearer realization of her own beauty possibilities.

TEACH YOUR CHILD TO TELL THE TRUTH

One of the most difficult problems that a mother has to deal with is young children is the habit of untruthfulness. There are many reasons why children are untruthful. Sometimes over-excitement causes a child to tell a falsehood simply for the pride forbids admitting the fault and the first statement is stubbornly adhered to. Exaggeration is sometimes the result of a desire to tell a bigger story than a playmate. Many children crave notice or applause. Often a lie is told to get out of a difficulty or to avoid doing some duty. Most of us can recall times in our own lives when we used similar tactics under the same circumstances. It is well for parents to check up on the examples they are setting every day. Very often children hear their parents telling "white lies" to break an engagement that is undesirable. They interpret this in their own minds. It pays to cultivate the truth-telling habit in children. It is very unsatisfactory to try to settle any child-problem by threatening punishment. Nor is it much better to command them to be truthful. It is only by establishing a respect for the truth that any progress can be made along this line.

ARMISTICE DAY
A TIME OF REMEMBRANCE

Another Armistice Day will soon be upon us. This year shall mark the tenth anniversary of the closing of the great la struggle in the history of the world How most we. In the world forget Tragedies come and go and still the world goes on in the race old way. Perhaps those horrible days of sorrow and suffering did not enter personally into the homes of some of us but there are other homes and other hearts on which they have left their indelible mark. The women, the mothers of the world, had perhaps the hardest part to play, for they gave what was dearer to them than life itself, their sons, their loved ones. On Armistice Day, or as it shall be, known in the future, Remembrance Day, we are to spare two minutes from our busy lives to meditate on those for whom the armistice came, too late. All the local churches are to stop for the two minutes silence since the day falls on Sunday, and the congregations are urged to come early so there will be no confusion during the short time of meditation. And while we are pleading our brave dead who gave their lives in defence of their country, let us not forget the women who served in spirit by the side of their loved ones for duty also serve who only stand and wait.

Advice to Girls
By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I like dancing very much, but my sweetheart objects to it. He doesn't want me to go to dances. Shall I do as he says? We have been going together for quite a while. LOU

LOU: If you are engaged, my dear, it is not proper that you should go out unless accompanied by him. If you are not engaged, then you are free to go where you will, and if the young man tries to tell you what you must do, he is indeed very selfish.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a married woman with two children. We've been married eight years. I was engaged to the man I was going with before I met and married my husband. This man met and married a girl before I married. I do not know the girl he married and have seen neither since our parting, as I moved a great distance away when I married.

I have often thought I'd like to know his wife and family and her friends, as I always knew and liked this man's people.

I was wondering if at Xmas I me If I would be right for me to send an Xmas card and address it to "Mr. and Mrs." and send it from my husband and myself. What is your advice?

WESTBROOK.

WESTBROOK: I can see no harm at all in your sending a Christmas card addressed and signed as you suggest. However, no answer should then come from the man and his wife, not you. If they care to accept your friendly gesture and follow it up—well and good. If not, then I am afraid there is nothing more you can do.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

We are girls in our early teens and would like to know the answers to these questions:

1—When a girl and boy promise to correspond should the girl write first

2—Should a girl allow herself to be kissed after she has been taken home from a dance or movie show her affection for him?

3—Should girls in their early teens go out riding with boys

4—Should a girl invite boys to go over to her house when her parents are away from home?

Thanking you in advance.

CHUMS

CHUMS: 1—If the young man goes away, then he should write first. If the young lady, it is her place to write a card or a friendly note. But don't begin a silly, sentimental correspondence for it sometimes leads to most embarrassing situations.

2—She certainly should not.

3—That depends on whether their

CHAPTER 16
THE COUNT MAKES PLANS

It was four o'clock the following afternoon when Sheila awoke, she lay motionless for a few moments trying to gather her faculties. Had she dreamed some fantastic thing about meeting the Count de Bellefonte? And who were Tommy Fitzgerald and Myra Dodge? There was something about a moonlight ride to Versailles, and snails, and Montmartre.

Gradually her memory of the events of the previous night returned. She was Sheila Allen, posing as Constance Kerr, the heiress, whom she resembled so closely that no one suspected the hoax, and Constance's husband, the Count de Bellefonte, was waiting to see her, never dreaming that she was not his wife.

The odor of flowers came to her. She opened her eyes and saw that the room was filled with roses. "The Count does things in style," she said to herself.

A maid entered the room noiselessly and approached the bed. "Will Mademoiselle have her bath now, and shall I order coffee?"

Sheila, who was accustomed to turn big on her own tub and drinking her own coffee, stretched luxuriously and yawned. "I'll have a shower," she said, "and, by all means, order coffee and bacon and scrambled eggs and melon and toast and jam."

The last words were rather muffled, for Sheila was already turning on the shower. She had caught a glimpse of the clock and was horrified at the lateness of the hour. A whole day wasted! The maid was horrified, too—at the amount of breakfast her mistress proposed to eat, and at the way in which she waited on herself. Something of this communicated itself to Sheila, and she hurriedly explained, "I must watch my step," she told herself, "or my laborer's appetite and my ability to do my own chores will betray me as a commoner."

When she sat down to breakfast fresh and rosy from her bath and clad in a silken peignoir, she felt equal to any situation that might arise. "Silk is the only armor I shall ever need," she told herself, as the maid opened several envelopes and laid them beside her plate.

Sheila examined their contents eagerly, hoping for some word from Constance, but there was none. There was a derisive note of farewell from Tommy, taunting her good-naturedly about the Versailles expedition, and a gauntic line or two from Myra Dodge—something about Sheila's skill as a Paris guide. Sheila had an uneasy feeling that she had not seen the last of Myra, but she refused to worry about that now.

Where oneonth was Constance? She had had ample time to see Harry Edmonds in London and explain everything to him. Why wasn't there at least a cable from her? How much longer might she masquerade, continue?

Those were the questions Sheila was asking herself as she unfolded the last note. It was from Bellefonte. He hoped she would see him or her early est convenience. Some hasty to come to his attention that must be discussed immediately. He sent his love. He kissed her hand, etc., etc.

Sheila laid the note aside and turned to more interesting matters—the question of what to wear. It was now after five o'clock. She decided that she might as well dress for dinner. She suspected she would dine with Bellefonte. Then they would go somewhere to dance, and later they might drop in at the opera.

Beautiful clothes, good food, entertainment, a handsome escort, even though his presence caused her great uneasiness—what more could she want? Sheila asked herself. She thought of her evenings at home—a simple supper, followed by a visit to a movie, or a call from Malcom Baxter, who was always late, because of an emergency summond to the bedside of a patient.

This situation may worry me to death, but, at least, it doesn't bore the life of me," she concluded. "I've had enough peace and seclusion to last me all the rest of my days. What I want now is adventure."

She dispatched a note to the Count, telling him that she would see him at seven o'clock. Then she gave herself up to the ministrations of her maid. When she descended to the glittering lobby that evening, it was filled with beautiful women, exquisitely dressed. But she was, nevertheless, conspicuous. It was not her exquisite gown, or the costly evening wrap that made other women look at her with envious eyes. Rather, it was her youth, her genuine enjoyment in all that went on before her.

On Bellefonte's arm she went into the stately dining-room. They were a handsome pair. He was not unaware of the admiring glances that other men cast at her. As he congratulated himself on having won such a prize, he almost forgot the thing that had so completely disturbed his peace of mind that day.

When they were seated and had given their order, he drew a newspaper clipping from his waistcoat pocket, and said with a flash of temper that he could not, for the life of him, restrain: "Read this, Constance, and then tell me what it means."

Sheila read:

"Harry Edmonds, of London, arrived in Paris today. Some months ago it was rumored that he was to marry Miss Constance Kerr, who arrived here yesterday."

"Constance," said Bellefonte, before she had time to say a word, "you know that I detest Edmonds. I regarded him as my only rival for your hand. I don't know his purpose in coming here now, but I want you to promise me that you won't see him. If you refuse, I'll send the announcement of our marriage to the papers and cable your intimate."

Sheila gasped. What a high-handed individual this chap had turned out to be! Well, Constance Kerr would know how to manage him.

Smiling innocently at Bellefonte, Sheila said: "Of course, I won't see him. If you don't wish me to, I'm sure he didn't come here to see me, anyway. Probably—"

She stopped and turned cold with fear.

If Edmonds was in Paris, where was Constance?

Some Helpful Hints For Busy Housewives

Wallpaper can be cleaned by rubbing it with thick slices of a very stale loaf. Rub the paper lightly with the bread in a downward direction.

If a new broom is soaked in hot water in which a handful of salt has been thrown it will touchen the bristles and make the broom wear much longer.

Stick cloves all over an orange and dry it slowly in the oven. This fragrant ball will keep away all moths and scent the clothes pleasantly.

WHAT'S NEW
(From A Woman's Standpoint)

Royal purple chiffon is being featured on Fifth Avenue for the opera opening.

Much metal tube furniture is being featured by French decorators.

Lanvin is featuring coral and flame and Chanel dresses scarlet for evening.

New coats from Paris feature the princess silhouette in velvet with Kerman mink.

The newest hats leave the whole brea exposed and the long back line is also favored.

A striking note on the new black hats in an ornament of ivory or white crystal, while the use of ivory in ornamental jewellry is new.

Wool and silk crepe and velveteen and crepe are two of the favorite combinations seen in Paris models.

Many shades are ever again being used on hats in Paris, not outstanding, but lining the back brim or applied as trimming.

The new honey-beige shade called chiffon was designed primarily to look well under the season's brown fur coats.

Parents permit it, and it is always best to have someone older along as chaperon.

Realization of this unconscious offense distresses many women. Now such offense is unnecessary. This remarkable sanitary pad deodorizes completely.

IN the world of business, in society, women often find themselves embarrassed at certain times. Sometimes they offend without knowing why. When they learn, miserable self-consciousness follows. Make-shift efforts to counteract the difficulty seldom succeed. Now a discovery made in Kotex Laboratories ends all these fears and worries. Science has discovered a way to counteract a serious offense.

Kotex new completely deodorizes

Kotex has brought a new idea of feminine hygiene to women all over the world. In the past ten years they have learned new comfort, new ease-of-mind through this sanitary protection. Now, after years of work, a process has been perfected that completely ends all odors. The one remaining hygienic problem in connection with sanitary pads is solved.

Shaped to fit, too

Because corners of the pad are rounded and tapered it may be worn without evidence under the most clinging gown. There is none of that conspicuous bulkiness so often associated with old-fashioned methods. And you can adjust the filler, make it thinner, thicker, narrower—to suit your own special needs. It is easily disposed of, no laundering is necessary. A new process makes it softer than ever before.

GENERAL CHANG YOUNG LEADER

Head of Manchuria, Hsueh Liang, Is Son of Chang Tso-lin

Mukden, Manchuria. The little black-jacketed and skirted interpreter turned from the military figure who had just finished speaking in jerky Chinese and adjusted the interviewer.

"The young general says," he began, and continued with an English rendering of what General Chang Hsueh-liang had just said.

So, down to his face, the titular head of the government of Manchuria and heir to what it left of his stern old father's dictatorship over this land of 25,000,000 inhabitants is still the "Young General." The contrast between himself and the memory of the "old Marshal," his father, Chang Tso-lin, the indomitable, medieval-minded little ex-bandit who ruled Manchuria with stern and terror and failed and died in his failure to rule the rest of China in the same way, sticks in all minds and is an ever present handicap to the son.

Very young indeed is the appearance of the "Young General", young, bewildered and afraid. He is thirty years old and hardly looks it. His glance is timid and distrustful, his speech disjointed and nervous. A year ago, in Peking, he was filling out

Here are shown two of Ottawa's loveliest debutantes. approaching stoutness. Now, in Mukden he is worn thin. His mustache is new and sparse; his hair formerly worn in a sleek black pompadour popular with young Chinese has been close clipped in military fashion and is now in an uncouth, cub-like stage of growing out.

Thrust into his heritage by a mysterious and treacherous Japanese assassination of his father on June 4 as the old dictator's train approached Mukden from Peking—young Chang manifests strain, bewilderment, even terror of the position in which he finds himself. Whether he knows who killed his father, the correspondent could not learn, but certainly he is oppressed by the fear and mystery involved in that murder.

But of none of these fears and worries will he speak for publication. "My position is so difficult, so delicate, that I cannot talk of these problems," he said once. And again: "I do not wish to give you a false answer; please do not insist on a reply." But he made it clear that a unified China, including Manchuria, was one of his ideals. "I am a Chinese and a patriotic Chinese," he affirmed. He expressed admiration for General Chiang Kai-shek, commander of the Nationalist armies which had routed his father from Peking. He spoke of old Chang's admiration for Dr. Sun Yat-Sen, father of the Nationalist revolution, and pointed to the fact that a Kuomintang newspaper was published without hindrance in Mukden as proof of his acceptance of the principles of the revolutionist party.

Of his hopes of escape from this web of intrigues which had rooted internal intrigue he talked more freely "I have been in the public service under my father for ten years," he said, "and I am tired." And he looked it. He became a general at twenty and for the last two years has been the field commander of the Third and Fourth Manchurian armies, the power on the northern military machine. "I hope soon to be relieved of these burdens and to travel abroad with my wife," he continued a little wistfully. "If not this year, then next. I want to visit Turkey and Germany."

The correspondent was surprised. The Chinese who goes abroad nearly always turns to America, the sentimental friend of China. "Why Turkey and Germany?"

"Turkey was once bound by unequal international obligations, just as China is today. She has shaken them off and made the powers recognize her as an equal. She has become an independent, united nation, as we hope to become. Germany, broken in the Great War, was shackled and crushed by the burdens imposed by the victors. Under the stress of defeat she changed from an imperial to a republican form of government. She is rising superior to all this. It is from such nations that we Chinese must learn."

NEW QUARTERS FOR EXCHANGE

Standard Mining Market Will Have Splendid New Edifice

Toronto, Ont. (By C. P.).— An important step forward in the history of the Standard Mining Exchange, the largest mining exchange in the world, has just been made. After less than two years in what were expected to be commodious quarters, the Exchange is preparing to move into a new building, purchased at a cost of $250,000. Another $100,000 will be spent to convert the new quarters into a modern stock exchange and they will be occupied in about six months.

The growth of the mining industry with consequent numerous new listings has been so rapid as to render entirely inadequate the present quarters on Richmond Street, near Yonge. The new headquarters are the former property of the Bell Telephone Company on Adelaide Street, between Yonge and Bay, not far from the Toronto Stock Exchange.

Tentative plans for the remodelling of the building show that the top floor, in addition to the trading area, which will be twice as large as that in the present quarters, executive offices and a lounge room will be established. The roof is to be raised five feet, and while alterations are under way, the acoustics of the room will be improved. The quotation board will be 90 feet in length and will face a large gallery for spectators. It will be possible to accommodate at least 70 telephone cabinets and an improved call system is to be provided.

Improvements in the trading system will be possible in the new quarters. The use of trading areas, only newly commenced, will be extended and page boys will be engaged to collect reports of transactions from the members.

The history of the Standard Stock and Mining Exchange dates from 1896, when the Rossland mining boom was at its height. The present organization is a consolidation of the Toronto Mining and Industrial Exchange and the Standard Stock and Mining Exchange, the latter being founded in 1899. The first board room was located in the offices of Currie and Campbell, 52 Yonge Street, but, following a brief period of sessions there the Exchange met for business in the old Board of Trade building at the corner of Front and Yonge Streets. Following the merger of the two exchanges an extension of trading facilities became necessary and premises were leased at Scott and Colborne Streets. This was the home of the Exchange until 1927, the present quarters at 15 Richmond Street West were engaged in the belief, as stated by an official at that time, that "the new quarters provided ample space and equipment for the future as well as the present." The Bell Telephone Company has not occupied the new building or some time.

WINNIPEG LADY'S THRILLING JOURNEY

Winnipeg, Man. (By C. P.)— The story of how Mrs. Edith Clarke, who went from Manitoba to the Chinese mission field twenty-two years ago, transported eight thousand dollars of Red Cross money in Chinese silver dollars through several hundred miles of Chinese territory swarming with bandits at the time of the great famine in Northern China, in 1921, was related by her on her return to Winnipeg, recently.

Mrs. Clarke, known as the Lady of Golden Benevolence in China, was decorated by the Chinese Government at Peking with the first class Order of Mercy for the relief work she did at the time of the famine. At the time of the famine she opened a refuge for Chinese women and children and another one for boys.

The Chinese themselves were reluctant to transport the money and Mrs. Clarke undertook the dangerous mission, requiring two days and two nights during which time she did not stop a moment for sleep, the reached Wuan safely where the money was safely deposited in a bank.

HOLDOUTS MAY SECURE RAISES

"Benny" Leonard Has His Hands Full With Players at Pittsburgh.

It's a case of fan catch 'em at Pittsburg. Mr. Benjamin Leinert, "pilot" Leonard, owner of the Pittsburg hockey team, has one trounse and "nuth ing but" since he took over the Pirates. As a lightweight boxer good enough to battle his way up through the ranks to the world title, which he defended successfully time and time again, he knows something about the art of dickering for terms. As soon as he transferred his robust bank account from New York to Pittsburgh the hockey players set about jesting something for themselves. But the undefeated lightweight champion sparred and stalled until he had all hands signed except Darragh Mills and Worters. The latter, unanimously elected the best goalkeeper in the league, is said to have demanded a salary of $,000 for the coming season. Leonard asked for a conference with the trio, but they failed to appear by the appointed time so last night the owner slapped an indefinite suspension on the three ones, and issued a statement to the effect that they will not be sold or traded. The recalcitrants probably figure that this was the thing to do under the circumstances—a thing they might have done themselves had they been in Leonard's shoes. But they also figure, no doubt, that the Pittsburg hockey club cannot get along very well without them. There is something to be said for that—end of it, too, especially as Worters is the idol of the Smoky City fans, and the team is not too strong even with all of its men under contract and on the ice. The situation is interesting, to say the least, and as long as the holdout trio adhere to their present position they would seem to have none the worse of the argument. Sheldon current had reason that the Pirates were the lowest-salaried team in the league.

SPORTOGRAMS

The race for premier honours in the Intercollegiate Rugby Union is nearing the end, but it will be wide open from McGill, which is possible, this Saturday, the three teams, Queen's, Varsity and Mc-Gill will be in the same position they were before the schedule started, deadlocked.

If McGill comes through according to the dope, however, the city fair is all over for another year, and the Dominion Championships can be paid off between Hamilton Tigers and probably Balmy Beach, last years Dominion Champions, who has definitely decided that if they win the Intercollegiate they will not go into the play-offs, which is perhaps one reason why ordinarily neutral fans will be pulling for Varsity to come through with a win this Saturday.

Albert College will have a rest this Saturday, as Peterboro and Oshawa are playing off at Port Hope, and Bracebridge and Orillia deciding the winners of that section of Eastern Ontario. Whether or the Green and Gold will meet the winners of the Peterboro-Oshawa tilt or the winners of the other section is not known at the present time, but they will give a good account of themselves with either team.

Two more games in the City Industrial Basketball League will be run off at the Y gymnasium tonight, when the Shepherd-Adams team take on the C.N.R. and the Alemite hook up with the Amateurs Optical. Some good basketball is seen in these games and "the crowds who turn out get their money's worth and then some."

MANUFACTURING OF GYPSUM

Probably the most important developments in the gypsum industry in Canada have taken place in the products manufactured from gypsum. A number of years ago only a small proportion of the gypsum mined in Canada was calcined in this country. In 1827, approximately 182,000 tons were calcined and made into wallplaster, gypsum wall board, gypsum blocks, and insulating material.

YOUR EYES and Our Service

By J. A. McFEE, Optometrist Belleville

An appreciation of Optometry is largely a matter of public education?

Yes, a recognition of the value of Optometry must precede the general appreciation of the profession.

That means that Optometry could be more help ful than it is?

Yes. Most of the fifty per cent. spoken of as needing an eye service could be helped far more than they realize by a short and harmless optometrical examination.

Examination of the eyes is not a complicated procedure?

It is as far as the patient is concerned very simple. Half an hour to an hour suffices. No distress arises therefrom as the Optometrist uses no drugs.

INJURIES CAUSE DELAY IN DRILL

Injuries, the seriousness of which cannot be judged at the moment, are playing havoc temporarily with the preparations of the McGill football team for their titular struggle with Varsity here Saturday. While there is little doubt that all the injured players will be fit and ready for the game with the blue, their absence from practices interferes with the drills calculated to perfect team play in the red ranks.

Chic Church, the husky Ottawa "inside," is still in the hospital suffering from a leg injury incurred in the Queen's game and yesterday he was joined by his Coach Dr. Cyril Flaherty. The McGill mentor, however, did not get his malady in a scrimmage drill, and the stomach trouble that brought him to the hospital is not expected to "keep" him confined long. In the meantime, the McGill inside wing and coach are roommates and have plenty of time during convalescence to discuss Saturday's campaign.

Dave Munroe was out in uniform yesterday, but did not get into scrimmage drill. Munroe's shoulder is still bothering him, and a week's rest has been ordered so that he may be in condition for Saturday.

Yesterday's drill added another to the injured list. Captain Cherry Littlefield received a kick in the head just after practice had got under way to the height of the field. Just how serious the red captain has been hurt will be known today, Jim Young, who is also out with a leg injury, is expected back to drills today.

HUNTING GROUND IN OLD ONTARIO

This Province Lures Thousands of Big Game Sportsmen Every Year.

Toronto, Ont. (By C. P.).— Northern Ontario, with its deer and other big game, now a magnet to hunters that is almost irresistible, and thousands of sportsmen will spread the open season there this year as in previous years, having the time of their lives hunting and fishing. Big game abounds throughout the immense wilds in the hinterland and reports indicate deer are plentiful this autumn, hence the hearts of the hunters are cheered and lovers of venison who stay at home are looking forward to the annual treat at the table.

One of the interesting sights at the railway stations in the older sections of Ontario in early November is the gathering of the hunters arrayed in their "hunting rags" and armed with rifles ready to take the train to the happy hunting grounds. Many a tired and worried business man joins the throng flocking to the north, the throng being comprised of farmers, artizans, professional and business men and men from practically every walk of life, all of them holiday in the year to many of them, a holiday that results in invigorated bodies and renewed nerves, and satisfaction. If the hunt has proved successful.

North and west of North Bay, in a vast expanse of forest and lake, where there is a continuous woodland of approximately 100,000,000 acres, is a hunting field that is regarded as ideal. It is nearly all open to hunters who are so widely scattered that there is little, if any, danger to any of them from careless shooting. "Taken for a deer" is not apt to occur in this region, and that is a big consideration in the annual hunting season when fatalities through the excitement of the hunt inevitably occur in smaller hunting areas.

In these days sportsmen can travel to the hunting grounds by rail with comparative ease, or within easy reach of the hunting grounds by most places. In the majority of cases the hunter is able to get his moose or deer in comparatively short time, with allotment of his game within the ordinary luck, and obtaining the legal prescribed period of time is not the difficult thing it used to be when the railways were further away from where the game abounded than they are now. The lines north and west of Ottawa lead to exciting sport, and north of Lake Nipissing the sport is even better and the results surer. While rail-lined deer are now to be found almost as far north as Cochrane and west and north of Lake Superior even as far as the boundary line between Ontario and Manitoba.

The moose is a wary creature and to bring out down with a rifle shot the hunter must pit his skill against the animal's instinct, which is a contest that sometimes results in favor of the moose. Lake Temagami is a favorite "swimming hole" for moose in autumn time and they may be seen on the smaller lakes also, but the majority of them seem to sense the danger of the open season for game in the autumn and betake themselves to the uplands where they feel safe. Some of the largest moose obtained in Northern Ontario are still secured in the Lake Temagami district, however.

Red deer are found in the territory north North Bay, and Temagami district is fairly large numbers but they are scarce in the immediate neighborhood of Lake Temagami.

Bruno and Vittoria Mussolini, photographed on their visit to Tripoli, Italy's African colony, where they saw the sights and took some pictures. Note the striking resemblance of the larger boy to his illustrious father.

When the Prince of Wales and his younger brother, the Duke of Gloucester (Prince Henry), reached Nairobi on their present African tour they saw the greatest human ever staged in Kenya colony. Over 2,000 chiefs and native fighting men had assembled from Somali warriors having trekked down 400 miles from the north to review their allegiance to the white princes. After the various tribes had performed their war dances in front of the residency there was a grand review. The Prince of Wales found some difficulty in suppressing a smile when he recognized the march past tune of the King's African Rifles as "The Men of Harlech." Following the inspection he addressed the assembled tribesmen, speaking several of the east coast of equatorial Africa sentences in Swahili, the lingua franca. This barbara was exceeded in interest only by a persons or native dance settlement at Nairobi, Kenya's principal city and seaport. Here the native women added an extra bit of chic to their barbaric costumes by donning tinted sun glasses. As the princes were leaving the dance the women sang in Kiswahili "God Bless the Prince of Wales," and then this having failed to give vent to the full exuberance of their pent-up enthusiasm they broke into a medley of all the scraps of English songs they could recall. Above the bedlam the princes could detect some of the more vigorous-voiced chanting snatches of "Yes, We Have No Bananas," and "Mademoiselle From Armentieres." In the illustration the Prince of Wales is seen on the left receiving the homage of a coast chief who bears a cer emonial wand of office.

C'NE OF NICEST FOOTBALL PLAYS

Gazette Sports Writer Describes Best Play Seen For Some Time

About as interesting a bit of college football as has been reported this season, or for many seasons, in fact, comes from Montreal, in a game this week between the teams representing the Loyler Canada College and the Montreal High School. It was pulled off by the latter in the clash, but it gave the winners something to think about for the rest of the game. The L.C.C. won the game by the tidy score of 13 to 5.

The play is thus described by the Gazette sports writer:

"The collegians worked into position to kick for a rouge. Caisbourg booted the ball over the Montreal line, and well behind his own goal. L.C.C. wings were down the field to kick and headed for Farmer. He worked out of the zone and, tackled, ran for six yards crossfield and passed to his halfback partner, Lamb. The L.C.C. man dashed to flat-footed and Lamb broke like lightning. Very big slightly forward his right wing line he came galloping out from behind and was 50 yards up the field before anyone was near him. Instead of being caught, he passed to Hillard. The Montreal outside was being surrounded, and he did not hold the ball long. He travelled about 10 yards and then passed to Smart, who was clear and who completed the remainder of the distance unimpeded. Ross failed to convert."

RECREATION BOWLING

Two games were played last night in the Ladies League. The Turn-Ups taking three points from the Alemite. For the Turn-Ups Miss L. Melchoir was high and for the Alemite Miss V. Brown was high.

The Tigers took three points from the Claco. For the Tigers Miss E. Whalen and for the Claco Miss L. Alexander took the best honors.

Alemite—C. Flagler 409; I. Dryman 297; E. Cocolter 368; V. Brown 489; L. Curry 444; total 1905.

Tigers—E. Whalen 472; E. Benedict 387; I. Ethier 466; A. Ross 364; H. Reddick 419; total 3106.

In the Junior League the Moose took four points from the Moose Jr. For the Moose W. Gerow was high with 637 and for the Moose Jr. Meens was high.

Moose—Gerow 637; Weir 612; Meens 571; Young 478; Meagher 563; total 2871.

Moose Jr.—Meens 575; Mangold 564; Wells 511; Delaney 426; Dougherty 386; total 2443.

Col. Charles A. Lindbergh holds the record for four jumps, while Captain Frank Hunter and the late Lieutenant Eugene H. Barksdale each jumped twice, making up for the discrepancy between the number of jumps and lives.

PARACHUTES HAVE SAVED 100 LIVES

Washington.—The product of the little silk worm has saved the lives of 100 persons from disabled aircraft in flight.

The War Department announced today that the parachute jump made Tuesday at San Diego, Calif., by Lt. Harry W. Williams of Spokane, Washington, when his airplane collided with one piloted by Lieut. W. G. Cornelius, of Ardiers, Okla., the second of the army's "three musketeers" killed recently, brought the life-saving parachute jumps in this country to an even hundred.

Airmen who have made it aircraft by the parachute route automatically become members of the caterpillar club.

Gear Grease that will not CONGEAL

It is congealed grease that makes gears so hard to change and your car so stiff to move in winter. Ease of driving and, what is just as important, economy of operation, demand a grease that won't congeal.

Any ordinary grease will stiffen the moment the temperature drops.

Whiz Sub-Zero Gear Grease will flow freely in the coldest weather—even at 40° below zero.

You need WHIZ Sub-Zero Grease. In the coldest weather it will keep a protecting film on every gear and every bearing, preventing the damage that's sure to be done without it.

Drive in now where you see the sign illustrated here. Have the gear cases flushed out completely and the old grease replaced with WHIZ Sub-Zero Grease—don't mix WHIZ with other grease.

CHANGE FOR COLD WEATHER

Whiz SUB-ZERO GEAR GREASE

YOUR GEARS WILL SHIFT EASILY

Contains no kerosene or other thinners. WHIZ is all pure lubricant.

HAL. DeGRUCHY WILL NOT PRESS CHARGES

Hamilton, Nov. 6.—The report of Referee Hal DeGruchy on the Ottawas-Montreal game of Saturday last reached President George Ballard yesterday, and, contrary to reports sent out from the eastern city he did not today. DeGruchy does not ask for the expulsion of player Radley from the Interprovincial Union for life, in his report Mr. DeGruchy points out that he had trouble with Radley and that the Ottawa player struck him, and he (DeGruchy) put him out for the remainder of the game.

But, despite the fact that DeGruchy did not press for any suspension in his report, the Big Four Governors will take up the case immediately and it is expected that Radley will know his fate before the Ottawa senators line out against Argonauts at the Capital on Saturday.

Republican Lead Is Larger --- Fell Sixty Feet And is Still Living

HOOVER'S TOTAL GROWING LARGER

Has Popular Plurality Now Of Well Over Five Million Votes

HOLD BOTH HOUSES

No Change in Electorial College Vote As Forecasted Yesterday

New York, Nov. 8.—Late returns from Tuesday's election continue to swell the majority of Herbert Hoover in the popular vote, but as yet there is no change in the electoral stand of Hoover will have 444 electorals vote and Smith 87.

The Republican party in the elections augmented its senate majority in the senate beside electing the president. While Democrats still have a strong block; they lost some seats to their opponents.

The full measure of the overwhelming victory which sent even rock-ribbed Democratic states into Hoover's column, was still to be ascertained, but it was evident that the new president would come into office with the greatest electoral majority ever given any candidate and with a popular vote exceeding any before it.

FEWER BORN IN OCT. THIS YEAR

One More Death and One More Marriage Than In 1927

For four months, July to October inclusive, there were fifty-nine wedding licenses issued in the city of Belleville, according to the vital statistics issued at the city hall today. There were also in these four months, 60 male children born and 64 female. The Orim Reaper carried off 76 in this period, 35 males and 41 females.

Thus there were 79 more births than deaths in the city. In October alone there were twenty-six male children born and thirteen female, sixteen marriages and forty-two deaths.

The following are the statistics for October.

Deaths as in Years

Stillborn	2
Under 1 year	4
From 1 to 10 years	1
From 10 to 18 years	0
From 18 to 30 years	4
From 30 to 50 years	5
From 50 to 70 years	7
Over 70 years	7

Comparison with October 1927

Births—1927, 30; 1928, 26; decrease of 4 for 1928.

Marriages—1927, 15; 1928, 16; increase of 1 for 1928.

ANGLICAN CHURCHES TO MEET TO-MORROW

A meeting of the Finance Committee of the various Anglican churches in this district which includes Trenton, Bellevile, Picton and many other churches scattered throughout the countryside, will be held in St. Thomas Parish Hall to-morrow evening. His Lordship Bishop Seager, of the diocese of Ontario, will preside over the gathering. The meeting is being held to discuss the financial affairs of this part of the diocese and dealing particularly with the problems of each parish.

CANADA'S DEBT IS COMING DOWN

Ottawa, Ont., Nov. 8.—Net debt of Canada decreased by $54,922,297 during the seven months of the fiscal year ending October 31. For the same seven months last year the decrease was $78,516,605. Ordinary revenue of the Dominion increased by $20,826,004 and ordinary expenditure by $11,572,523.

These figures are based only on receipt and expenditures which passed through the books of the finance department up to October 31.

THE WEATHER

Fresh northerly winds, clearing and colder with local snowflurries. Friday, moderate northwest winds, fair and rather cool.

CALLES ONCE A SCHOOL TEACHER

May Go Back To His Old Vocation, But Not School

Mexico City, Mex.—Plutarco Elias Calles, country school teacher who became President and declined to be dictator, may go to teaching school again.

He will not be called professor if he accepts the new job offered him when he leaves the presidency, November 30. His school will not be listed in any department of education. His title will be head of a new political party, his job the political organization of the people.

But, actually it will be a new kind of school teaching—all the Mexican republic for a classroom; all its 1 fteen million inhabitants as pupils. The blackboard will be the election ballot. The lesson Calles will try to teach will be that enormous area comprised one of democratic constitutional government and political party organization.

Calles has been asked to become the leader and director of a proposed new "Gran Partido Nacional," dedicated to preserve the "revolutionary principles" of the Obregon-Calles governments of the past eight years, by co-ordinating the various "revolutionary parties,"

THREE MILE ROAD RACE ON MONDAY

It is very likely that the cross mile run open to residents of Hastings and Prince Edward County, which the Y. M. C. A. is promoting on Thanksgiving morning at 10:30 will be run as a road race unless the track at the exhibition grounds is in good order. This also applies to the inter public school relay event scheduled for the same hour. Contestants are asked to assemble at the Y.M.C.A. not later than ten o'clock where dressing room accommodations will be supplied and the use of the showers and plunge following the running of the events.

BASKETBALL

Both games which took place at the Y. Gym last night in the Industrial League were chock full of action, the caliber of the game being much in advance of the opening fixtures of the league. The small group of spectators were well repaid for their visit to the Y gallery.

The opening between Stephens Admission and the American Optical saw every individual of being a star for the former until on into the second half. At the half way mark, the Opticians' forward were leading by the count of 17—11 and it appeared as if they might be able to carry through. Putting on a veritable scoring rampage the "Orticalites" lead by Davison and Armstrong soon cut down the lead of their opposition and forged to the front to win by 48—35.

The Atlantic C.N.R. game was a fight all the way with but little periods giving then the game by the score of 28—20. Had the Atlantic defense been able to hold Vern Weir in check there would have been a different story to tell, for although checked hard, Capt. Weir was the heavy producer of the winners. The scoring of the Atlantic Quintette was well distributed amongst the members of the team.

The Teams

Stephens Admission—P. Faulkner, A. Byrne, A. Sheffield, J. Gates, K. Chadwick, M. Davison E. Walters

American Optical—A. W. Armstrong, H. Woods, S. Curry, T. Byrne, K. Davison, A. Ritchon, F. Symons, A. Weir.

Atlantic—J. Kerr, M. Clarke, R. Scott, V. White, P. Cole, O. Miles, C. Kinnear.

C. N. R.—V. Weir, O. Duff, J. Redfern, O. Pinkston, M. Morrison, J. Alexander, E. Buchanan, H. Redfern.

WARM CONTEST FOR MANITOBA

Only by going back a good many years in the history of Manitoba would it be possible to find a by-election so hotly fought as the present contest in Lansdowne.

The Bracken government, created as an implement and expression of the farmers' economic solidarity, is for the first time engaged in a contest where the main issue contains no appeal to rural self-interest. The government is for the first time on the defensive; its integrity is in question, and its customary "holier than thou" attitude in no wise, but a handicap.

"We always thought," said one Lansdowne Progressive, "that the Bracken government was serving the farmers' interests, but this deal has convinced us that they have formed a gang of their own down in Winnipeg." The conservatives have had considerably larger audiences than the government campaigners.

The ministers engaged in the campaign are obviously frightened and in full retreat. Their "denials" of the labor charges are without force or conviction, and their whole argument is based on the assumption that "Mr. Bracken can do no wrong." Mr. Bracken is the Taylor charges are "absolutely false," but he does not say what is false about them. Mr. Bracket has denied anything which Col Taylor has asserted as fact; the phrase "absolutely false" Mr. Bracken apparently intends to apply to Col. Taylor's deduction from those facts. Col. Taylor invites the voters to make their own deductions from the facts and there are those who make the deduction a clear and simple matter.

Col. Taylor points out that his deduction that a secret understanding existed between the Bracken government and the Winnipeg Electric Co. has not been proved, because the proper place to prove it is an official investigation, and Mr. Bracken has not consented to such an investigation.

Hon. W. J. Major, attorney-general seizes upon this and assumes that Col. Taylor said "I have no proof," which is so palpably sharp and petty that Mr. Major has injured his cause. The government speakers are helping to convince the Lansdowne voters that where the Colonel has pointed out smoke there must be some fire.

PARTHENON NOW BEING RESTORED

Was Wrecked By A Powder Magazine Exploded By Shell

Two and a half centuries ago, at the wars of the Turks, a Venetian shell exploded a powder magazine in the temple of the Parthenon in Athens ays an exchange.

That one small trouble did more for the destruction of the most notable remaining example of Greek architecture than had the preceding centuries of decay. But the world is assured that the work of reconstruction of the Parthenon, which has been going on, with lapses for want of funds, for a dozen years, will be carried to completion through the generosity of Otto Kahn, a well-known New York banker. The man who has done so much for classical music is to do equally as great things for classical marbles.

From the debris of frozen columns will be reared once more the structure in its full integrity, that in the dimensions, glorious in its art, the Parthenon is the nearest approach to perfection that mankind has ever attained.

The work of restoration is taken up where the Greek government was forced to lay it down.

MOOSE DANCE-WAS USUAL GOOD TIME

One of the always successful Moose dances, the second to be held this season, was given at the Moose Auditorium last night. The first part of the evening was taken up with euchre, the prize winners being, 1st ladies, Miss L. Adamson; 2nd, Mrs. A. Cooper and 3rd, Mrs. M. McKenna. Mr. C. Clapp was first in the men's section, Mr. H. Palmer, 2nd, and 3rd Mr. V. Hoffman.

A huge crowd was present for the dance and it was estimated that about two hundred and fifty were on the floor. The Ace High orchestra furnished the music. Supper was served about midnight and dancing then continued until the early hours of the morning.

SIAMESE WOMEN TO HAVE THEIR FREEDOM

Oxford, Eng. (By C. P.)— A niece of the King of Siam who has been to Oxford University to study the language and manners of England, says that the modern young women in Siam is keeping pace with her English sister in the race for freedom and progress. In an interview she instructed that the "new ideas" in Britain about the place which women might fill were not so very new in siam.

"The women of my country have always been free," she said. "They have always done exactly the same work on the farms as the men have done. And they have never been separated from the men, like the women of India."

PLENTY OF RUM IS STORED "RUM QUAY"

London, Nov.—(By C. P.)—Enough rum to intoxicate the whole of England's population for a short order is stored at Rum Quay, a grim and ferrous-like building at West India Dock, where more than 4,250,000 gallons of the spirit lies aging and maturing in the gloomy vaults carpeted with dust, says a writer in the Port of London Authority monthly.

"By far the greater part of Rum's supply is stored at the Rum Quay," the Monthly says. "There is a potential value of nearly £5,000,000 to be watched over and cared for by Majesty's Customs and the Port of London authority. Such precious liquor needs be carefully tended. Small wonder that the quay is isolated from its surroundings by massive iron doors."

The administration of the Port of London is under the Port of London Authority, the chairman of which is Rt. Hon. Lord Ritchie of Dundee.

Mrs. Minerva Elliott—first Canadian member of the British Interior Decorators' Guild, is shown above sailing to Canada, where she declares Canada is woefully retarded in the field of interior decoration.

ST. THOMAS CHURCH SUPPER

The evening supper will be given in the Bridge Street Church Hall by the men of the church. The Reverend R. Armstrong of the Church of the Redeemer, Toronto, will be the main speaker. Rev. Mr. Armstrong has not been in Belleville before to address such a gathering.

It will be remembered that last year His Lordship C. A. Seager, Bishop of the Diocese of Ontario, was the speaker at a similar gather ng.

FINISH COLLEGIATE WALKS

Finishing touches to the sidewalks leading up to, and around, the new Collegiate Institute were added early this morning. The new walks start at both ends of the school property on Church street and while the one leads up to the north door, to the girls entrance, the other forms a "Y" at the south end and branches off around to the back of the building.

KITCHEN FLOWER BED

William Wallace, of 2262 Bloor St. West Toronto, last night while driving north on Front St. at the Upper Bridge hit the cement base of the flower bed, and badly smashed his car. It appears that as he turned east on Station St., another car cut him off, with the result that he piled up on the concrete. He was unable to get the number of the other car, which kept right on going after the accident.

Miss Florence Barter, of Grand Canopedia, Que., has come to Belleville to attend Ontario Business College.

A pleasant party was given on Tuesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Knight, Foxboro, in honor of the birthday of their daughter, Eva. The guests included Percy H. Jones and the young lady's fiancee, Miss Mildred Wilson, Victoria Avenue Baptist Church, Belleville. After an entertaining programme supper was served, the supper table being centred with a birthday cake with eighteen lighted candles. The gathering broke up at a late hour. Miss Knight received many beautiful presents.

DEATHS & FUNERALS

F. W. DAVIES

The funeral of the late F. W. Davies of Toronto, took place from Tickell's Undertaking Parlors yesterday afternoon, under Masonic auspices. The bearers were C. Cochrane, J. Hall, W. H. Ketcheron, C. S. Sharpe, Harry Thompson and W. J. Thompson. The Masonic services were conducted by Messrs. Newton Dulmage and Hall. Interment took place in the Mausoleum Vault. The many beautiful floral tributes testified to the esteem in which the deceased was held. The service was that of the United Church.

TODAY'S MARKET

"Prices Still Mount . . ."

New York, Nov. 8.—The "Hoover market" which got off to a flying start yesterday continued its press forward today under an avalanche of buying lit. copper, o l, motor, merchandising, and food issues. Fears that technical relax reaction would follow the initial celebration of Hoover victory inspired profit taking in few issues which ended low to eight points but general tist pointed upward with grains ranging from one to twelve points.

General motors again became centre of speculative interest. Heavy buying carried it up more than three points, to 224, but heavy profit taking was encountered around that level and part of gain was cancelled. All sorts of guesses as to dividends action were circulated. Mack trucks and Chrysler also moved up smartly and Brockway Motors retained new peak.

Call money was in plentiful supply at renewal figure of six percents but monu uneasiness was apparent over the weekly federal reserve bank loan figures to be published after the close.

Wheat Prices Lower

Chicago, Nov. 8.—Sympathizing with more of the down turn in Liverpool quotations than expected, wheat averaged lower today during early dealings here. Declines were accompanied with favorable crop prospects for new south ern hemisphere wheat and in addition ed large offerings of old crop wheat from Argentina. Opening 1-8 to 3-8 off, Chicago wheat later sold near to initial figures. Corn sold only scattered firm. Corn starting at 1-3 to 3-8 setback but afterward scoring gains.

POLES RECALL HERBERT HOOVER

Pleased, For Greater Part, He Was Victorious In Elections

Warsaw, Nov. 8—Poland expresses satisfaction that the man who headed the Children's Relief Mission in that country and as such, paid them a visit in 1919, has been elected chief executive of the United States. Mr. Hoover is an honorary doctor of three Polish universities, Cracow, Warsaw, and Lemberg. The city of Warsaw even chined a medal in his honor nine years ago.

While the papers do not give any political comment, it is evident that their sympathies are almost equally divided between the victor and his succumbed opponent. Mr. Hoover is loved and admired for his work in children's relief, and knowledge of European affairs, while Governor Smith had the sympathies of a large part of the Polish population as a Catholic, anti-prohibitionist, and friend of immigrants. Though Mr. Hoover is a man who knows the world thoroughly, the press thinks it would be unwise to expect any changes in American policy and say:

"We Poles are quite satisfied with the benevolent attitude of the United States toward our country."

FOUND TRAMP HAD HIS HIP DISLOCATED

A tramp was found injured in a farmer's barn east of Smithfield on the New Road this morning. Trenton police stated to the Intelligencer today. It appears that the vagrant had fallen through the barn floor and dislocated his hip and was in great pain when found by the owner. He was taken to a Trenton doctor and the provincial police from Brighton were called later.

GANG LEADER HAS 11 BULLETS IN HIM

Philadelphia, Nov. 8.—William Dennil, alleged leader of an underworld gang is in the hospital today, his body riddled with eleven bullets. Believed victim of gangster guns, his recovery is doubtful. Dennil was shot from an automobile as he stood on the street corner last night. Police connect the shooting with the testimony given by Dennil in a recent murder trial.

PARADE MINUS ARMS

Proposal of Labor Member for Armistice Day Rejected

London, Nov. 8.—(CP)—Suggestion of E. FIDDLER WAS HIT OVER THE HEAD

Toronto, Ont.- (By C. P.)—Because the bridegroom at a Russian wedding in this city simply could not stand a moment longer the music a fiddler was providing, the former slid two of his guests languished for a night in police cells. When the fiddler declined to try another selection some one hit him with a bot- man.

Unfortunately for him he could not say just which one it was who came to the rescue of the annoyed groom. But there is evidently a lesson to be learned here—the ornamental artist is not always victorious in such scenes. Or, he gains what may decidedly be termed a Pyrrhic victory.

DR. H. D. MAJOR SEES TROUBLE

Church Is Suffering From Growing Pains Is His Claim

London, Nov. (By C. P.)—"Modern Problems of the Church" is the title of a book written by Dr. D. A. Major, principal of Ripon Hall, Oxford, who next to Bishop Barnes of Birmingham is probably the most prominent leader of thy Anglican modernists. Published by Cassell, the work is certain to arouse widespread discussion, for Dr. Major does not enter into discussion on the Virgin Birth or Resurrection. His views on these points were the cause of protests by Viscount Halifax and the latter's adherents against the inclusion of Dr. Major as an official speaker at the recent annual Church Congress at Cheltenham. Dr. Major however appeared at the Congress and his remarks were received with entire respect.

Concerning the op sion which is often heard nowadays that religion is "high and vanishing," Dr. Major is disposed to think that it is undergoing a transformation, for rel gn has passed through many stages. He thought then, that the problems of the Church today, and the controversies they excite, are not the death-struggles of a doomed communion but the growing pains of a vigorous and consequently youthful religion, underlies my treatment of them," he writes.

On the subject of Re-Union Dr. Major says economy rather than strictly religious reasons voiced the call to reunion in the colonial churches. "The advent of illiberal criticism, which dissipated the Protestant ideas of Biblical infallibility and Biblical inerrancy wrenched enormously the position of sects which largely owed their existence and systems to this self-created conception of the Bible."

After discussing the Malines Conversations and other efforts, Dr. Major remarks that though some profits to be discouraged by slowness of the negotiations and the paucity of results it is probable that the next age will take a more optimistic view. But, adds the Doctor, "a reunion of Christendom which began with submission to the papacy and ended with absorption into it, would prove a d aster of the first magnitude to the moral and spiritual influence of the Christian Church. To have the Christian Church governed absolutely by a single hierarchy, and the infallible head of that hierarchy the most influent al potentate in the world, would be as fatal to democratic ideals as it would be to Christian ideals. If achieved, such reunion would be followed by a condition of stagnation which would steadily invade every department of life and this stagnation would certainly be followed by violent disruption of the reunited church."

In discussing educational problems of the day Dr. Major remarks: "There is no more potent cause of the failure of traditional Christian teaching to win intelligent and enthusiastic support, or indeed any support, as all, than the large admixture of falsehood in traditional Christian teaching. The young, particularly are repelled by this element of falsehood; it leads them to distrust and reject the whole. Age may make allowances; youth will not."

JOHN STREET CHURCH W. M. S. IS GROWING

The monthly meetings of John St. United Church W. M. S. are growing in attendance and interest the variety of program presented each month by the different "groups" into which the society has been divided contributes very much to the added interest.

The November meeting was held in the lecture room on Wednesday after noon, Mrs. Cook presiding. After the singing of a hymn, Mrs. Sherman read the Scripture lesson and Mrs. Moore offered prayer. The meeting was then open for business excellent reports for the month were given by the Secretary and Treasurer.

Mrs. Moore gave a very interesting report of the Sectional meeting held in Cramilton on Oct. 11th, which all enjoyed. The meeting was then left in charge of the "group", under the leadership of Mrs. Moore.

Mrs. Gerrie sang very effectively, "He Wipes the Tears from Every Eye". The Treasurer of the Group reported a number of new names for membership, also a goodly sum added to the funds, after which a humorous play was put on entitled "New Eyes for Old", the following taking part: Mesdames, Boulter, Buchanan, Miller, Sherman, Catcher, Hall, Benson, Gerrie, Cook, which was much enjoyed. The singing of a hymn and the Lord's Prayer in unison concluded a fine program. Dainty refreshments were served by the Group, and a social half hour followed.

C. N. R. ADDS TO ROLLING STOCK

Placed Orders This Month For More Than 3000 New Cars

Montreal, Nov. 8—More than three thousand m hwy cars of various types have been ordered to be added to the rolling stock of the Canadian National Railways, it was stated by Vice President R. C. Vaughan. The orders have been divided between three companies, viz: the Canadian Car and Foundry Company, Ltd., the Canadian National has ordered 1500 box cars of 50 tons capacity, 30 tank cars and 30 standard sleeping cars of which five are single room sleeping cars introduced into Canada by the Canadian National.

National Steel Car Company have received orders for 23 first class coaches and for 750 box cars of 50 tons capacity. The eastern Car Company has received the order for 500 refrigerator cars of which 150 will be fitted with wire baskets for holding ice. These cars were designed for the handling of bananas the trade in which is expected to be greatly increased through the operation of the new steamph ps between Canada and the West Indies by Canadian National steamships. The balance of the cars on this order will be equipped with brine tanks.

CAGE LEAGUE

Canadian Nationals this morning stand on top of the City Industrial Basketball heap, as by their win over the Almetite last night they won two points and Sirgfits Athenson lost to the American Optical. Both were good games, showing little of the roughness of the first night. A good crowd was on hand and it is hoped that they will continue their patronage through the season. At the end of the schedule, the first and second teams play off for the Championship. Standing now is as follows.

CHURCHILL IS NOT ICE BOUND

Information to That Effect Yesterday Was Greatly Exaggerated

Ottawa, November 8—Inquiry at the Department of Marine today brought out the information that the statement, appearing in a press dispatch a day or two ago, to the effect that navigation through Hudson Straits had closed and that the harbor at Port Churchill was closed by ice was misleading.

It was learned that daily telegraphic reports to date show no ice in sight in Hudson Straits to interfere in the slightest degree with the movements of vessels. It is presumed that the inference that navigation had closed was drawn from the fact that as all the vessels in the Bay and Straits had come out, there were none moving.

With respect to conditions obtaining at Port Churchill it was further learned that the telegraphic report received at the Department today shows the harbor open to navigation. The view expressed at the Department of Marine was that it is difficult to determine that may possibly arise fine with certainty the date at which navigation may be said to be closed, not only at Port Churchill but at any other port where the forms of ice is moving. The case of the harbors at Port Arthur and Fort William was instanced, where navigation would doubtless be closed at a much earlier period than is now the fact, but for the service rendered by ice-breaking vessels under contract with the Government. Owing to the rise and fall of tides at Port Churchill it is not anticipated that any ice-breaters, up to the end of December, will be more difficult to deal with by ice-breaking vessels than that which sometimes happens at Port Arthur and Port William.

Before the terminals now under construction at Churchill are completed and ready for operation, the new ice-breaking vessel under way for the Department will be in commission and will, if necessity arises, prolong the period of navigation.

FOOTBALL

The postponed game of last week between Deloro and Belleville will take place tomorrow on the Pine Street school grounds, kick off at 3.30 p.m.

A collection will be taken in aid of The Poppy Fund.

A good game is assured as Deloro are in fine form, having twice taken cups away from Peterboro this season.

The locals will rely on the following players.

Goal, Bayden; Backs, Ballinger and Taylor; Halves, Cross, Robinson and Hatfield; Forwards, Howard, Norridge, Colclough, Kennedy, McCleary and Bailey. Referee—Chas. Summers.

That piquant, mellow smoothness of a fine Japan tea cannot be appreciated unless it is tried in the cup. Try this delightful green tea.

REFUGEES ARE BLOCKING SALE

Get Injunction Restraining Soviets From Seizing Any Estates

Berlin, November 8—Following the lead of Prince Dabischi-Ostromenila, pretender to the Croatian throne, a number of other Russian refugees obtained injunctions from German courts today preventing the private property of the former Russian aristocracy being sold by the Soviets at Leipzig fur auction.

Nearly one hundred art objects were attached by the bailiffs, this morning, pending the final decision of the courts. The judge, in granting the injunctions after the lower court had refused, based his action on the sworn statements of the defendants that the property was not acquired by the Soviets by the dispossessment process prescribed by Soviet law, but was illegally seized.

Some articles mentioned in today's injunction were under the hammer yesterday among them a valuable Gobelins and sets of antique furniture. The court ordered the sale to be stayed until Nov. 26th.

The affair is expected to have an official reaction, and there is a belief among many that the present cases will be dropped after further investigation as the compound that the evidence is insufficient to establish the case. It is hoped to avoid unfriendly relations between the Soviets in discussing the details.

A few minutes before the auction began, Prince Dabischi-Ostromenila in the hall and seized in the name of the German courts two paintings and a valuable set of toilet articles claimed by Prince Dabischi Ostromenila, known as "Prince of Montenegro." He says these valuables belonged to his ancestors.

The lower court rejected the Prince's petition for an injunction to prevent the sale of private possessions seized by the Soviets after the revolution. The higher courts sustained the Prince on the ground that his sworn statement tended to show that the Soviet did not obtain possession of these valuables lawfully. The court will hold the three pieces until a final decision is made.

Despite the slackening sale in the market by the court's action, prices for furniture were from 30 to 100 per cent. above what had been estimated. Roentgen furniture brought the fantastic price of one sewing-table bought at 72,000 marks (about $18,000.) A Roentgen clock cost the purchaser 1,000,000 marks ($250,000.

Yesterday's total sales which included furniture, bronzes, and Gobelins totalled 2,000,000 marks ($500,000.

REGENT

If I Were Single

Warner Bros. present May McAvoy and Conrad Nagel as stars at this mid-financial farce by Robert Lord. Myrna Loy and Audrey Ferguson are also in the cast. Directed by Roy Del Ruth.

Newspapers are given their usual hilarious comedy form in Warner Bros. production of "If I Were Single," by Robert Lord which opened today at the Regent Theatre, and Tim McCoy in Bud Reisger.

BELLE THEATRE

Brooks Benedict, one of the champion pipe smokers of the movie colony at Hollywood, is the villain in "Moran of the Marines," Richard Dix's new starring picture for Paramount now showing at the Belle theatre. Benedict was the sly chap who plotted with the tractor company to take Harold Lloyd's horsepar franch's from him in "Speedy," and also played the reporter in "The Gorilla" a recent role of menacing wax in "The Drop Kick."

"Moran of the Marines" shows Dix in the character of a "Devil Dog" Ruth Elder, the trans-Atlantic flyer, plays opposite him. Frank Strayer directed.

Radio Air Gleanings
by Static Bug

Here's a tip to hotel managers.

A Yankee tourist telephoned this office yesterday to find out the results of the elections. Said Belleville wasn't up to date as there were no radios in the hotel rooms.

Jam's what she wants.

It should be interesting to tune in and listen to an "All Belleville" program which will be broadcast over CFCH, Toronto, next Wednesday evening.

The Radio Four, who are no strangers to the "mike," Mr. Stobbs, J. D. Bankier, who has also been on the air before, and Mr. Leo. Rigs, all will be heard.

Should be the best programme of the year.

"Radio Wireless," they're called, these wires of ours, even in art.

It was brought to our attention that the dinner night selection might be an exact one of Belleville's most prominent citizens fell fast asleep while listening to the returns and his wife had to wake him up at four, thirty-five in the morning.

Reception last night was of the best.

That's one compensation; this winter's coming around.

Can't be much fun to have a radio set in Florida!

RECREATION BOWLING

Dunlop Tire and Rubber Company Honor Long Service Men

Dunlop Night, an annual function conducted by the social and athletic associations of the Dunlop Tire and Rubber Goods Co., Limited, was held at Columbus Hall, Toronto, Friday night. How, find. This event took a measure of activities of the Dunlop Amateur Athletic Association and inaugurated a program of social entertainments to be held during the winter season.

The features of the evening consisted of dancing to the music of an orchestra; selections by the Dunlop Harmonics Band; while euchre and bridge occupied the attention of many members of the Dunlop family.

The big event of the evening was the distribution of Service buttons. The Dunlop Company is now in the 24th year of its organization and emblem for the form of jeweled buttons, awarded every fifth year of service starting at 10 years. Members of the Dunlop industrial family, to the number of 253 are now wear ng forty service badges, with a total of 3,707 years of service to their credit.

Four employees have served 30 years' service, totalling 120 years; 4 have served 25 to 30 years totalling 114 years; 21 have served 20 to 25 years totalling 460 years; 28 have served 15 to 20 years, totalling 1,274 years; 147 have served 10 to 15 years, totalling 1,693 years.

WEDDINGS

CLAPP-GUNION

A quiet but pretty wedding was solemnized on October 27 at 3 o'clock at the home of Mrs. John Gunion, when Miss Agnes Dickson (Kinsey) Gunion was married to Mr. Geo. B. Clapp, of Bayside. The bride entered the drawing room on the arm of her brother, Mr. Andrew Gunion to the strains of the wedding march played by Miss Gertrude Rathburn. The bride was becomingly dressed in beige embroidered Georgette. She wore the gift of the groom, a necklace, and carried a bouquet of white carnations and heather. The niece of the bride, little Miss Dorcas Steinburg, looked sweet in pale blue silk and carried pink carnations. The grooms gift to her was a gold bracelet, and to the pianist a hot pin. The house was decorated in lovely autumn flowers. The long table centred with a large wedding cake was tastefully decorated with ribbon from the corners to the ceiling. Lunch was served to about twenty near relatives. The bridal couple left amid showers of confetti for Niagara Falls and points West.

alled upon Hon. E. R. Ryckman, K.C., M.P., President of the Dunlop Company and John Watern, Vice President and General Manager, to present the 47 buttons to members who this year complete another five years with the company.

SHOWER AT BAYSIDE

A shower was held for the bride-to-be, Miss Nancy Canyon, last Tuesday evening at the Farmers Club rooms in Trenton, when over one hundred of her friends gathered to do her honor. Miss Crews and Miss Broach were dressed in comical costumes representing the bride and groom and escorted Miss Canyon to the platform where the beautiful gifts were undone and duly admired, among them being a china dinner and tea set of Limoges, and many pieces of silver and a wonderful lot of useful and expensive household articles. Miss Gunyon made a charming little speech of appreciation. A pleasant social evening was spent, lunch was served and they departed for home about one o'clock.

NOVEMBER MEETING HOLLOWAY W. M. S.

The November meeting of the W. M.S. of Holloway St. Church took place Wednesday afternoon, Nov. 7th, with a good attendance. In the absence of the President, Mrs. Wight, Mrs. Hall took charge of the meeting, which opened with the singing of the Doxology, followed by the Lord's pray er repeated in unison. Hymn No. 37 was then sung and was followed by prayer in which Mrs. Hall led.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and business matters disposed of. Reports of the various secretaries were submitted. It was decided to have the W.M.S. service on the last Sunday in November. The devotional leaflet was then read by Mrs. Kerr followed by the reading of psalm 103.

An interesting Thanksgiving reading was given by Mrs. Turnbull and a vocal duet by Mrs. Mott and Mrs. Blackburn was much enjoyed. Mrs. Clarke gave a splendid report on the Convention held in Cannifton in October. Hymn No. 28 was then sung and the meeting closed with benediction.

WELLINGTON

The Chicken pie supper held in Wellington United Church was a great success both socially and financially. The sum of two hundred and seventy dollars being realized. There was a good program.

Mrs. Van Alstine of Port Hope and Miss Taylor of Bloomfield and Messrs Gordon Knight and Garnet Taylor were the soloists for the evening with Miss W. Pearce accompanist. Mr. Lockyer of Picton played several musical selections on the organ which was much appreciated. Rev. Scammith of Sydney gave an address: "Symptoms of Insanity" which was instructive as well as humorous. The supper was excellent.

Mrs. Echert of Toronto is visiting Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Wright and Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Boyle

Mr Richard Middle and his two sisters of Toronto came to Wellington to attend the funeral of Mrs. Bailey as did also Mr. Ernest Bailey of Toledo, and Mr. Alfred Bailey of Renfrew.

BRITAIN NOT A MUSICAL LAND

Sir Thomas Beecham Criticizes Country at Leeds Luncheon Club

Leeds, Yorkshire, (By C.P.)— An indictment of Great Britain as a musical nation was made recently by Sir Thomas Beecham, noted orchestra leader, at the Leeds Luncheon Club, England, he said was the only country in the civilized world which was not only immeasurably below the standard of other nations, but had fallen back terribly below the level of 25 years ago. The level of English singing was not what it was 25 years ago.

"I have a clear recollection year by year of the musical life of this country, and I say that the level of singing is far lower than it was. The level of choral singing may be about the same as it was took rank with the best on the continent. Now there is not in the whole country one in the first rank according to the estimate in most continental countries. As for composition, the most precious mind in music in this country has produced for the last 50 years the greatest composer today is an Englishman. But the bulk of his work is quite unknown, not only in this country, but in the country of his birth. This man is Frederick Delius. It is the most difficult thing in the world to find a singer, but there are great English singers; they are to be heard, but it is in every other country under the sun. These great artists do not think it worth while to live in this country.

"You have in this country that supernaturated, obsolete, beastly, disgusting, noisy, horrid method of making music in sheer abundance known as the brass band. Th's grinding, disgruntling music. There is plenty of the gramophone. Look at the profits of the gramophone companies. Oh! I don't mind the profits, I've got shares in them all. I make records, but I have never heard one yet I considered to be music. Then think of all the incompetent musicians in every cafe and hotel in the country, and in broadcasting there is distorted music committed by all sorts of orchestras, making the whole of life wretched as a result of this filthy sound. But for real music, what on earth have you got to show in this country? Germany has 135 opera houses and 210 permanent orchestras. Italy—poor old Italy under the yoke of Mussolini—70 opera houses. Paris five in the city alone, London, with 8,000,000 of people, has not an opera house, not a permanent institution.

"Opera properly done is the most appropriate medium of conveying not only music but other arts to the unsophisticated mind of the average person. Opera is an amalgam, a combination of all the arts. You cannot have great singers relying round the music life of the country without opera. Yet, I fear that England in ten years' time will not have even a skeleton of the musical life it has today, and today it only exists in attenuated form."

TORONTO CHILDREN ARE WELL CARED FOR

Toronto Ont. (By C. P.)— No money has been spared to give Toronto sick children the benefit of sunlight treatment. The new hospital just outside the city, opened recently has cost $375,000; its equipment and interior arrangements will make it the greatest of its kind in the world. It is surrounded by 100 acres of beautiful rolling countryside. "In a few months," predicted Dr. W. L. Gaslle, "we will see changes in results from treatment here which would have been considered miracles before. Internally," he continued, the building was a triumph of science. The staff was superb. The hospital combined efficiency with a minimum cost. The wards were unequalled in any other children's hospital. They were small, consisting of eight beds each, and were in the nature of verandahs so that patients could spend most of the day out of doors. "It is the greatest advance in the treatment of children's diseases in my time," he affirmed.

"News In The Air"

(By F. T. C.)

NEW SEAPLANE COMMERCIAL SERVICE FOR AUSTRALIA HAS BEEN PROPOSED

The service will be between Sydney and Newcastle, a distance of 60 miles. Both cities are on the sea coast, and using flying boats of British manufacture, it is expected to cover the distance in 45 minutes, as compared with 3 hours by rail. It is proposed to make 3 trips a day from each end, the planes being capable of carrying 15 passengers and 500 pounds of parcels. The fare will be £1 each (slightly more than the railway fare) with a charge of 1s. per pound for parcels. Under the proposed arrangements 700 passengers and 2,000 lbs. of freight can be handled daily.

AERIAL BATTLESHIP

An Aerial Battleship is a fitting description of a new type of multi-engined monoplane for which a large order has been placed by the French Government. Known as the Bleriot 127, this powerful fighting machine has a gun turret mounted in the nose in such a manner that two machine guns can easily be swung by a gunner whilst flying at 150 m.p.h. In most high-speed machines considerable strength is required to swing the guns against the rush of air. The machine also has two other gun positions for defence against attacks from the rear.

NEW WORLD'S HEIGHT RECORDS ESTABLISHED

New world's records for altitude have just been established by Junkers aircraft fitted with a "Bristol" Jupiter Series VII, supercharged, radial air-cooled engine. Carrying 1,000 Kgs. of useful load the machine reached an altitude of 7,925 meters and with 500 Kgs. of useful load a height of 9,215 meters. These exceed the previous records by no less than 1,121 meters in the first case and by 627 meters in the second case.

These figures await the official confirmation of the F.A.I. but there is no doubt that the previous records have been substantially exceeded and that it will be extremely difficult for any other type of present day engine to attempt to vie against the newly-established records.

DU PONT'S PLANE WINS TWO EFFICIENCY PRIZES

Los Angeles, Cal. (I.N.S.)—Out-performing every plane in the unlimited class Hirsty Du B. Du Pont's Bellanca plane, powered by a 200-horsepower wright "Whirlwind" engine, won the efficiency prize at the Aeronautical Exposition held here. Planes entered in the contest were equipped with motors up to 525-horsepower.

In addition, the same Bellanca won the $1,200 efficiency prize offered by the Aviation Town and Country club of Detroit. In both events the craft was piloted by Victor Dalfi.

MASTER PILOTS

Master Pilots of the air is a new grade which has just been introduced to denote a pilot of exceptional experience. In an amendment to the Air Navigation Act, 1920, it is laid down that in certain cases "the person acting as pilot shall, in addition to being the holder of a license as pilot, be the holder of a special certificate to be called 'a master pilot's certificate'." The qualifications to obtain such a certificate will be described later. A fee of 10s. is to be paid for the issue of a master pilot's certificate, and a further fee of 10s. if the applicant is required to undergo an examination.

New Harmony in gayest Colors!

A new and extraordinary musical instrument clothed with a beauty as unusual as the music of the new Orthophonic Victrola itself

In performance, this instrument has no peer in its field. In design, it is new as tomorrow, yet it embodies design principles two hundred years old. Inspired by the recent Exposition des Arts Decoratifs in Paris,—color is its keynote, rich vibrant and harmonious color. Newspaper illustration fails utterly to convey its beauty—you must see it.

In Orthophonic tone quality Orthophonic Victrola 8-36 is approached only by the well-known "Credenza" model, which made the Orthophonic famous overnight! The Victor-controlled principle of "Matched Impedance" or "Smooth Flow of Sound" is of course, embodied in this new instrument. Go into any His Master's Voice dealers and compare it with your idea of the old style talking machine.

The new Orthophonic Victrola is made in a range of beautiful models, artistically designed in fine walnut or mahogany. Electrically driven, if you wish, at slight additional cost. All instruments are self stopping. Prices from $1400 down to as low as $115. On convenient payments at all His Master's Voice dealers.

TO-DAY'S THOUGHT

Bad men excuse their faults, good men will leave them.

BEN JONSON.

WIDENING SCOPE OF COMMUNICATION

A rather remarkable event occurred the other day when the Hon. James Malcolm, Canadian minister of trade and commerce, sat in his office at Ottawa, and, by means of trans-Atlantic telephone and radio, addressed a gathering of thousands of people gathered at a great Empire Exhibition at Cardiff, Wales. His voice, too, was carried to radio listeners all over the British Isles. The message he carried to these people was one of closer Empire relationships, but the message itself fades into insignificance in comparison with the fact that such a feat was possible.

It is not too much to say that this marks a new era in imperial communication. It will soon become quite common for the people of Canada to listen to epoch-making addresses delivered by British statesmen in the Empire's capital and elsewhere in the British Isles, and for statesmen of other parts of the Empire to make their voices heard all over the world. While a few years ago such a thing would have been declared incredible, there is no telling what further advances in this direction the future may bring.

CUTTING INCOME TAX A POPULAR MOVE

Ontario Associated Boards of Trade and Chambers of Commerce have decided to memorialize the Dominion Government, asking that the Federal income tax be reduced to the same level as that of the United States.

Despite the partiality of the Canadian Council of Agriculture and similar bodies for the income tax, the resolution of Ontario's Boards of Trade will have a large measure of popular support.

In the first place it is manifestly a handicap to Canada that the income tax here should be higher than the rate across the border.

And secondly it has been the experience of our neighbor, and our own for that matter that a slash in the income tax does not necessarily mean a loss of revenue; in fact it has been proven that a reduction has such a beneficial effect upon business and industry that the revenue collected from this source is greater than ever.

There is some reason to hope that the resolution of the Boards of Trade will be acted upon when the next Budget is being prepared.

Mr. Robb will in all probability be in a position to do some further slicing along this line in view of the results that have followed the reductions he had already provided for the Canadian people.

PAY SILENT TRIBUTE TO OUR DEAD HOSTS

Premier King has broadcast through the press, to the people of Canada the message of King George asking the people of this country to join with the rest of the Empire in observing a two-minute period of absolute silence at 11 a.m. on Sunday, Nov. 11, the tenth anniversary of the signing of the armistice, a day now observed as Remembrance Day in honor of those who gave their lives in defence of the Empire.

The people of the world this year have a remarkable opportunity of paying this respectful tribute to the honored dead who fell in the war, or there could be no more appropriate place for this tribute than within the walls of the places of worship. In other years, there has been, in some places, difficulty in halting the wheels of industry and progress for the observance of these two sacred moments, but this year their celebration should be more general than has been possible in the past.

It only remains for the people generally to take solemn heed of the king's message, to so regulate their affairs next Sunday as to be in church at a time for the occasion, and in the case of those who are not at church to take steps to pay the proper tribute at the time which is now recognized as the most momentous two minutes in the world's history.

PROTECTION NEEDED AGAINST GUN PLAY

So far this year two police constables, one in Ontario and the other in Quebec, have shot and killed men who were suspected of offences and who refused to surrender peacefully. In each case, sober court juries have exonerated the constables, finding that they were justified in their actions.

Chief Justice Meredith, however, remains to be convinced and he has made representations to Hon. Ernest Lapointe, minister of justice, which, if they are endorsed by that official, will make promiscuous gun-play by policemen a serious offense. It is one thing for a policeman whose own life is endangered to kill in self-defense, and something else again for him to reach for his gun every time he encounters opposition in the effecting of an arrest.

In the Quebec tragedy, the slain man was wanted only to answer to a charge of violating a provincial enactment. Convicted of the breach of by-law, he would have been subjected to a fine, instead, capital punishment meted out by a limb of the law, was his fate.

Chief Justice Meredith's observations are always meaty. In his representations to the minister of justice he makes out what seems to be an air-tight case. To kill a suspect defeats the purpose of bringing the criminal to justice, he points out, and he emphasizes the right of man to claim his life to its last merited moment for the salvation of his soul.

Policemen in England are not armed, and yet there is no country in the world in which the representatives of law and order operate with more success in the campaign against the criminal class. Hon. Mr. Lapointe has not yet commented upon the recommendations of the chief justice. It is altogether probable, however, that when he does he will be found to be in complete accord.

VICTORY

A million, crosses stood on a hill,
A deadly wood against the sky;
An open grave & wound to kill,
A million lads that would be still—
A million lovely lads that lie
Where they can never die.
And who are you,
And who am I—
That we shout walk about at will,
And a million other lads should lie
Under a hill beneath the sky?

MAKING UP LOST BLOOD

When the Flu epidemic was raging in the later part of 1918 and beginning of 1919, small quantities of blood were taken from those patients, who had recovered, and injected into other patients seriously ill.

The patient who gave up the blood did not feel the loss in any way, in pneumonia and other ailments, when the heart seems to have too much blood to pump, it is not unusual for the physician to open up a vein and take a considerable quantity of blood away from the patient. When less blood to pump, the heart often regains its tone or strength. In past years physicians frequently bled their patients to relieve fevers and other conditions.

Now what happens to an individual when a quantity of blood is removed from his system?

Will the blood making apparatus make up the entire amount of lost blood?

Two research men, Holander and Pellathy, studied the picture of a sheep from which nearly a cup of blood was taken, twice each week, for over three years.

The animal was about 5 years old and weighed about 100 pounds. During the three years therefore, the animal had lost four times its total volume of blood.

In the human being this would be equal to losing pint blood each month. Blood from this sheep and a sheep from which no blood had been taken was examined.

In the sheep from which the blood had been taken during the three years

RURAL KIDDIES LIKED DENTIST

Toronto, Ont. (By C. P.)— Children in two rural districts of Northern Ontario visited this past summer by Dr. W. J. Carson, travelling dentist for the Ontario Department of Health, not only showed a keen interest in the dental work done for them—chiefly in the schools during the summer vacation—but they seemed to enjoy it. The district covered by the dentist took in small settlements in sections of the province far distant from the centres of population, the ages of the young people treated being from 4 to 12.

"The children carry things in from the car, bring water, put on a fire and are always anxious to do something, Dr. Carson said. "When it comes time to start work they are so anxious to get their teeth fixed that I have to send them all out of school.

There was nothing to show that a single drop had ever been removed.

The number of red corpuscles was the same, there was no change in their shape, and the amount of haemoglobin (or food contents) was found the same as in the animal from which no blood had been removed.

I feel we you'll agree that Nature is a wonderful force, a most "friendly" force indeed, when she can make up with a large amount of blood regularly what is lost, and all that is required is that good food be eaten, and a sufficient amount of rest be taken; for rest, by conserving the cells or tissues of the body, helps the food to make blood.

To obtain the confidence of the pupils it is necessary to humor them at times and a good method I found, was to carry a softball and bat, and in that way show them that a dentist is human. When we got started to work in the chair it seemed to be a lot of fun for them. The dental equipment I carried was all strange to them and they wanted to know all about everything. By keeping a child's mind on the instrument, I often had a cavity filled before he knew it. Then we would have more fun letting them all look at it.

"Sometimes when a boy had an anterior deciduous tooth to be extracted, I let him do it himself, after I had the forceps on, and the other children would have a great laugh. Sometimes the patient would not be strong enough, but he would never give up until he had to.

"There were always a few mothers present with pre-school children and being dental work for two of two to four years ti of a different character entirely. They are never frightened but just sit by, and have to be won over by a little coaxing."

KIDDIES LEAD A MUSI BUSY LIFE

Montreal, Que., (By C. P.)— "Children in really lead busy lives and there is not much time for books and reading, therefore, it is important that those provided should be carefully selected," said Mrs. M. D. Carter, assistant director of the McGill Library School, to an audience of women. Mrs. Carter proceeded to show some slides of children's libraries in Paris, British Columbia and the United States, pointing out that despite the difference in countries the libraries specially set aside for children looked very much alike, adding that it would be a splendid thing for the future citizens of this city if they could have a special library for their use in the years with impressions were created which had considerable bearing on their future careers.

FOURTH INSTALMENT

MATTER OF TEMPERAMENT

From time immemorial the search for eternal youth has been a problem in the lives of mortals. The ancients believed that such a thing was the gift of the gods and could be attained. We moderns hold somewhat similar beliefs but in a modified form. Women especially are interested in retaining the beauty and charm which characterized their girlhood, but the methods some of them use to retain or regain these charms are as foolish and hopeless as the age-old search for the fountain of the gods. It is a time worn statement that "beauty lies in the eye of the beholder," but it is, nevertheless, just as true today as it was when the lines were first penned. There is much talk in these days about holding the husband's love and to do this some women think it is necessary to keep their figures down to a girlish slimness, to have their faces lifted and massaged till they are fairly weary of the struggle, while at the same time their dispositions, the only real thing that matters, become so cramped and irritable that home is made an unbearable place. A pretty face may and certainly does attract a man but to say that this will suffice to hold a man's love through the trying years of married life is an absurdity. A woman may think she is cute and girlish when she wears the manners of sixteen year old boy, per, when to say the least her years are a contradiction of such conduct, but she is morally an object of pity. Let a woman realize that youth is a matter of temperament and that at fifty or sixty she can still be as beautiful in spirit and as much beloved as she was at twenty and she will be much happier and as well all those with whom she comes in contact.

APARTMENT HOUSES AND PAPER BAG MEALS

There is a very great deal of unsettlement in the marriage state today. Both men and women are feeling that they have a perfect right to get out from under a condition that they dislike, and the clamorings are for easier divorce.

But, as Madge Macbeth points out in a crisp and sane article on the subject in the current issue of Chatelaine they are not calling for simpler divorce in the hope of getting free from the marriage tie, for in the vast majority of cases they hurry to assume a fresh tie at the earliest possible moment. Mrs. Macbeth suggests many causes for this marital unrest—the impermanence of things in general, apartment house life, quoting as saith unto by this point of view the opinion of a lawyer who has had a surfeit of unhappy marriages on his hands, who also blames the "paper bag meals," and the fact that the wife's address is more often the club than a house number.

If we have any fault to find with this writer's conclusions it is that she seems to throw the greater share of the blame on the shoulders of the woman. Possibly the woman is more often at fault than the man. Mrs. Macbeth says a well-cooked meal can draw any man away from a pretty face one hundred times out of one hundred! Perhaps so, but you see, there are occasions when the pretty face is wise enough to put up a good meal too. What are the wife's chances then, when a man has been brought up to think that whatever he wants he must have and have it the minute he wants it?

Some Helpful Hints For Busy Housewives

Mildew on cheese can be prevented if a lump of sugar is placed in the cheese dish.

Spiced fruit, mint or currant jelly, mint or caper sauce are excellent relishes to serve with lamb.

To prevent milk from burning sprinkle a little sugar over it before boiling.

To prevent grease from splashing when frying, put a piece of bread in to the pan, and fry at the same time.

Overgrown cucumbers are delicious if sliced and left to remain in salt water a few hours and then dipped in egg and flour or cracker crumbs and fried.

Enclose a walnut or blanched almond in marzipan and then dip in hot toffee when making home-made sweets.

WHAT'S NEW

(From A Woman's Standpoint)

Reboux continues to stress new brim irregularities.

Sport jacket suits are again in vogue in Paris.

Many of the foremost Paris houses are replacing stress with bead embroidery.

Red is now the foremost evening color in Paris, including the tangerine, ruby and petunia shades.

Chiffons often combined with lace, and flowered effects particularly in large patterns, are featured in the latest Paris showings.

Flat crepe still leads for afternoon frocks at the mid-season openings in Paris and crepe satin is second while georgette leads in sheer silks.

A smart New York shop is featuring wing red, hunters' green and navy blue sheer silk hose to wear with sheer effects tones.

Strong encouragement is given to scarfs in the Paris midseason collection as an accessory to both dress and coats.

Newer than the all-black dress is black with touches of color, and a Paquin copy in black crepe is shown with turquoise blue.

Advice to Girls
By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I have been going with a boy for four months. In that time I have learned to love him dearly. It seems that I can't live without him. I am desperately in love with him. He told me that he loves me, but his mother does not care for me. I only spoke to his mother once, and it seems as though she has drawn a wrong conclusion about me. My boy friend says that his mother has nothing to say about the girl he chooses, but sometimes she is talking and knocks me to him. I need your advice so one by. What shall I do?

HERATBROKEN.

HEARTBROKEN: There is only one thing you can do, my dear, and that is prove to the young man's mother how wrong she is in her estimate of you. Show her by your actions and deportment that she has been hasty in her judgment and I am sure everything will come out right in the end.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

CHAPTER 12

Further Complications

The Count de Belleforte looked closely at Sheila, for he did not expect her to agree so readily to his request that she refuse to see Harry Edmonds during his stay in Paris.

Sheila understood, and despite the complications that Edmonds' presence in Paris implied, she almost laughed aloud. "It is a mean trick I'm playing on the poor Count," she thought. "His doesn't guess for a moment that I'm not Constance Kerr, and he is puzzled at my docile manner. She is not a fire-eater."

She had gauged the situation accurately. The Count, accustomed to Constance's bursts of temper, had expected a scene to follow his request. His more than one occasion she had treated him to a display of temperament that had left him gasping. He was at a loss to explain her present mildness of manner. What game was she playing now? Then, with characteristic vanity, he decided that she had conceded the point because she really loved him.

Until now he had felt that he must make concessions to her, but having come to the conclusion that this was no longer necessary, a subtle change took place in his manner. He had obtained the upper hand, and he meant to keep it, he felt, he wouldn't let her know his decision. He'd flatter her and pay her all the little attentions that women like. Accordingly, he leaned toward her and said, in his gallant manner:

"Constance, you are lovelier than ever. There isn't another woman in the world like you."

Sheila stifled a giggle. She wanted to astound him by saying: "You're wrong, as usual, my dear Jean," but she restrained herself. Instead, she took refuge in her own thoughts, much amused at his efforts to play the master without seeming to do so.

"I wonder," she mused, "what this poor deluded male would do, if I were suddenly to say: 'My dear Jean, don't you realize that this whole situation is a complete farce? If you think I'm Constance Kerr, the heiress, whom you married in New York, and you evidently do, I simply can't understand your lack of perception. I'm only an ordinary person who happens to be her double in appearance.'"

The arrival of a waiter with the first course put an end to her musings, and she gave herself over to the enjoyment of French cookery. When the Count had consulted her preference before ordering, he had been amazed at her appetite. Constance Kerr was a very abstemious person. Well, she had changed, both as to dis position and taste in food. Before the meal was over, Sheila had made way with an alarming amount of salads.

"But you always said you disliked sea-food," the Count protested, when Sheila asked for lobster thermidor. "In the days when I was wondering whether you loved me, I didn't know what I liked and what I didn't. Now that that's settled, I'm my normal self once more. You don't know me, really."

"I'm beginning to think I don't," he muttered.

Sheila grinned. "I might as well have some fun out of this mess," she said to herself.

A moment later the Count exclaimed in horror when she said she wanted the dessert that was being served to a woman at the next table. "That stuff? he cried. "Never. I won't permit it. You'll be deathly sick, and I can't have that."

"But what is it?" she persisted.

"Oh, some American dish—Baked Alaska is its name, I believe. Terrible stuff. Ice-cream and pastry. Try some of this cheese. I can vouch for it. It will make your mouth water."

Sheila gave in gracefully. The cheese was set before her. It was so strong that it took her breath away. Her eyes and eyes water, instead she muttered. "Jean, I hope you know more about women than you do about cheese."

She slipped her coffee and looked about the beautiful room. This was an experience she would never forget. What a lucky girl Constance Kerr was to have had such luxury all her life. And where was Constance Kerr now? That question was uppermost in Sheila's mind.

"A penny for your thoughts," said the Count, trying his best to be agreeable. "By the way, my purpose in wanting to see you—for especial purpose, that is, was to lay before you plan to reconcile your parents to our marriage. Now I suppose—"

He stopped speaking as Sheila choked in her coffee cup. "What's the trouble?" he said. "You're white as a sheet. You look as if you'd seen a ghost. Are you ill?"

"It's that cheese you were so ready to vouch for," she managed to say. "I feel as if I'd swallowed a pot of pepper. Maybe I'd better go to my room."

He gave her his arm and led her to the elevator. "You look as if you'd seen a ghost," he repeated. She shook her head. No, she hadn't seen a ghost, but she had seen, in the doorway of the dining-room, a moment before, a young man who looked very much like the pictures Constance had shown her of Harry Edmonds.

JACK DEMPSEY AGAIN TO TRY COME-BACK TO SQUARED RING

First Fight Scheduled to be With Jack Sharkey Of Boston

MUCH BALLYHOO

Four Days Ago Dempsey Was "Out of the Ring. Forever"

New York, Nov. 8.—Three days ago William "Hammer Them" Dempsey, told the press that he was ready to sign an affidavit that he has retired from pugilism for ever and ever, amen.

Yesterday he told George Tex Richard that he would delay his departure for California until George could reach New York from Florida, if George was sure that his proposition was as interesting as all that. George couldn't tell him what it was all about over the telephone, but he was sure it would be worth his while, etc., etc.

So the Dempsey, Estelle and Jack, have decided to wait here until Tex arrives from Florida. His is due within four days. And that isn't all.

Rumors began to spread last night that Dempsey is ready to return to the ring and that negotiations have reached a stage where Jack Sharkey has been agreed upon on as his opponent.

Dempsey, it will be remembered, expressed great respect for Sharkey after he knocked him out. Also, he has picked Sharkey as the leading contender ever since Tunney retired. Furthermore he was playing in Boston recently and he chummed around with the Boston boxster. They had their pictures together, and they said all sorts of nice things about each other.

Make whatever you wish of it, Watson. Honestly, we don't know what to make of it. All we can do is to print what they do, and let the reader use his and her judgment.

We gave up trying to suiguess Dempsey a long time ago. For that matter, he isn't to blame. He never knows one minute what he'll be doing the next, and it's really out of the question to expect him to remember what he said four whole days ago.

Yes, he works in harmony with natural laws. His instruments cannot fail in their detection of errors. And the lenses he furnishes produce the most comfortable and most nearly normal vision possible.

The Optometrist's services cannot CURE an error of vision ?

Nothing and no one can secure that result.

No other method than the wearing of glasses can overcome the correct an error of vision ?

There is no other way. No possibility of altering an abnormal eye exists, nor can be conceived of. The eye must remain as it is. But the manner in which it focuses light can be changed instantly by placing lenses before it.

LEAFS TO OPEN SEASON FRIDAY

Will Play Tricolor in First Game of Year at London

London, Nov. 8.—When London's Tri color team of the Canadian Hockey League opposes Toronto Maple Leafs in the N.H.L. in an exhibition game here on Friday evening, "Rolly" Boucher, Stan Jackson and Tom P'more will be back on the local front line. Manager Bert Corbeau has several speedy forwards available, and they will receive a real test when they face the Leafs. Corbeau expects either Jerry Lowery or Joe Primeau of the Leafs to join London following the exhibition game. The Leafs have signed experienced forwards and will farm at least one of these players here.

The locals have one of the strongest defenses in minor pro hockey. Joe Ironstone, who was the sensation of the Canadian Pro Hockey League last season, will guard the net. Ironstone looks exceptionally good in the workouts and should have the best season of his career. Carl Voss, "Buck" Moore and Corbeau will comprise the defense. Voss and Corbeau were with the Toronto Ravinas last season while Moore was popular locally. He has benefitted by one year's experience in the pro league, and is due for a good season.

The spectators who have been attending the workouts have been impressed with the speed and team work of the forwards. Corbeau has carefully trained the front line men to play combination.

Connacher, who played with Toronto Marlboros last season, is showing good form at centre ice. Plimore, right wing player, who is a local product will make a strong bid for a regular berth. Jackson who is playing for London for the third season, should be a real goal getter.

George Lever and Lloyd McIntyre, former Iroquois Falls forwards, are improving daily. They were late in reporting but are rapidly getting in condition. Wes King promises to have a good season. Lever, McIntyre and King compose one line in today's workout. Mike Brophy, a left wing player, and Jack white, centre man, are also available.

Four amateur players are with the locals and will be signed or disposed of by the end of the week. Corbeau will have more players than the limit calls for but will not cut down until the season is under way.

The double forward system was inaugurated today. All players were in attendance in the morning, while in the afternoon the newcomers trained for one hour.

The Canadian Hockey League series will open here on Monday with Hamilton the visiting team.

PLAYERS MOVED HOCKEY SEASON

Fans Will Need Program To Figure Out Transfers

Montreal, Que.—(By C.P.)—Of all the pre-season trades, purchases, and other deals, made by various teams of the National Hockey league in efforts to build powerful winning combinations for the 1928-29 season, the deal whereby John Ross Roach, diminutive goalie of the Toronto Maple Leafs was traded to the New York Rangers for Lorne Chabot, regular goalie and cash in the vicinity of $10,000, stands out as the feature transaction of the pre-season player mart.

Roach has been with the Toronto team since his entry into professional hockey some years ago, while Chabot is entering upon his third year in the mosied ranks, having come to the "big-time" from the Port Arthur amateurs, champions of Canada and Allan Cup holders. Both goalies hold enviable records, compiled between the net posts of their respective clubs, and the verbal battles between the fans, as to which club got the better of the deal, still waxes hot.

The deal was brought about, when the Maple Leafs would not pay the salary their star goalie demanded and began seeking a new net minder. Then along came the Rangers, Stanley Cup champions, but always on the lookout for players to strengthen their already powerful club. Reports have it that Chabot and Manager Lester Patrick, while on speaking terms, were not pulling together. The Rangers heard that Roach was a hold-out and likely to stay as such unless he was traded or sold, and immediately offered to trade Chabot for Roach. After some dickering between Connie Smythe, the dynamic little leader of the Toronto team, and Ranger officials the deal whereby Roach and Chabot switched homes, was brought about.

The Rangers evidently think that Roach is a better goalie than Chabot, owing to the fact that they threw in a big cash consideration, and they are upheld in this belief by many fans. However, Connie Smythe knows hockey players, and has a wholesome respect for the goal tending of Chabot, who was with Fort Arthur the year they won the Allan Cup from University of Toronto, who all time had a powerful team with Connie Smythe as their manager. Chabot, too, has a strong following amongst the fans who take their hockey seriously.

The Chabot-Roach deal is the third player traffickation between the Rangers and the Leafs since the close of last season. Butch Keeling, regular Leaf winger, was sold to the Rangers soon after the close of the 1927-28 season, while Alex Gray, substitute centre with Rangers last year, has been sold to the Leafs. Chabot and Gray played with Port Arthur together.

With the exception of the above deals, and the acquisition of Myles Lane, former Dartmouth star, the Rangers will have the same line-up as carried them to the Stanley Cup last year. Ching Johnson and Taffy Abel are still available for defence duty, while Frank Boucher, and the Cook Brothers, Bill and Bun, will form the front rank. Boucher was a holdout but has accepted terms.

'PEP' LEADLEY IS BACK AGAIN

For the first time this season Frank "Pep" Leadley sat on the Hamilton Tiger bench in uniform, the occasion being the Big Four game at Montreal on Saturday. Leadley went to the rescue of the Bengals when Ray Broadway was unable to play and Brian Timmis was so ill that it was feared he would not be able to get into action. Timmis, however, went to work near the end of the first half and signalled his appearance by opening a hole that permitted Eddy Wright to amble through for a twelve yard gain. On that excursion, incidentally Wright's twin brother, "Beano," stopped Eddie's march and then patted him on the back. In the second half the Tiger Wright got clear away again only to have his brother bring him to earth. They are a great pair these Wrights but on Saturday Eddie outplayed the Wheeler star.

With Leadley back in the camp Tigers are stronger than they have been since the war and they should take a lot of beating in the national series. First Saturday they wind up the Big Four campaign when they entertain the Senators at Hamilton. It therefore looks like six wins in a row, a record equalled only by the powerful 1920 Argonaut team that featured Lionel Conacher, Harry Batstone, "Jo Jo" Sirrell, "Shrimp" Cochrane, Laurie Wallace, "Cap" Pear and other mighty stars of the gridiron.

VARSITY'S NEW HOPE

Toronto, Nov. 8.—There is new hope in the University of Toronto senior team this week and Coach Les Blackwell plans to give McCill a strong argument at Montreal this Saturday. Although a win for the Montreal collegians will give them the Intercollegiate title, the Blue and white will be playing for a win, and a three-cornered tic. McGill resumed practice last night following the victory over Queen's on Saturday, and will put everything into the game against U. of T.

Hima's Fiery Stream of Death Wipes Out Entire Countryside

Catania, Sicily, Nov. 9.—Mascali, once the home of ten thousand persons was today a mass of lava and shooting flames. Three persons whose escape was cut off perished in the molten stream pouring down from the slopes of Mount Etna.

This morning the flow of liquid death seemed to have diminished slightly and it was felt that the worst was over. Disaster so stunned the people of the town, that gendarmes and firemen, sometimes had to use force to drive them to places of safety.

PONTON'S FIELD DECLARED BEST

Aviation Expert Finds That It is Suitable For Flying Field

O. G. Wakeman, of the Department of Civil Aviation, Ottawa, who was in Belleville yesterday for the purpose of looking over the available flying fields in this district will make a report to the department on the best flour fields in or near Belleville.

Coleman's Field were first visited by Mr. Wakeman and the Directors of the Chamber of Commerce, along with Mayor Duff. He found that this place was too wet and rough to be of much use for a landing field, so proceeded to Ponton's Field, which was used by the Leavens Brothers all year, and if they considered a field of their own.

Ponton's Field Best.

This field was declared by Mr. Wakeman to be the best he had encountered yet. Although it was still quite rough, this field had the required acreage for large planes. Telegraphs and telephone wires would have to come down, as each wire and tree is a menace to the birdmen, especially at night, and long runways would have to be constructed. The larger aeroplanes nowadays need some three or half mile run before they can safely take off, and this was the only field which was large enough for the biggest planes.

The Bleecker Farm on the Foxboro Road was visited, but was found too small, and Stoney Lonesome was much too rough. The Chamber of Commerce passed a resolution asking the City Council to appoint a committee of three to meet a committee from the Chamber of Commerce for the purpose of finding out their opinions regarding the establishment of a municipal airport in this city.

IDENTIFY VICTIM OF LOSS OF MEMORY

Hamilton, Nov. 9—Inquiries about the man brought to the Ontario Hospital here suffering from loss of memory brought to light the fact that his name is J. Patrick Gorman, of New York City. He said he was born in England and had served in the British and American armies during the war. He is a confirmed invalid, can eat and as his condition is improved he will be deported to New York.

Y. M. C. C. DANCE SLATED TO-NIGHT

Prospects Are For Biggest Event of the Season—Special Orchestra

One of the outstanding social events of the season is the Young Men's Conservative dance which is being held tonight at Johnsone's Academy. To add to the attractiveness of the dance a special orchestra has been secured and many novelties will add to the enjoyment. These dances have always proved so popular that preparations are made long in advance for the ball.

A specially enlarged orchestra will furnish the music for the evening and it is expected that a record crowd will be on hand for the occasion. Always popular, always well patronized, this year's Young Men's Conservative Club dance bids fair to be the best ever held.

Passed Resolution Ordering McColl Bros. to Take Up Wood Ramps

COMPANY TO FIGHT

May Call Another Special Meeting Before Regular Scheduled Date

Our City Council held a special meeting last night to pass a resolution with the object of forcing the McColl Brothers limited to remove the wooden ramps which they are using on Front street, opposite their service station on that street to effect an entrance from that street. At least they thought they did. But this morning, City Clerk Holmes informed the Mayor and aldermen that owing to the shortness of the time and the fact that four of the aldermen were out of the city it was impossible to officially notify the whole council and so the proceedings of the meeting are washed out.

The abortive meeting of last night only lasted for about half an hour. They passed a resolution that the City Solicitor be instructed to tell McColl Brothers to remove the wooden ramps from street within twenty-four hours of receipt of notice and in event of failure to comply, that the city engineer be authorized to take the necessary steps to remove the same by the by-laws to enforce the removal.

A May Call Another Meeting

It is understood that a legal meeting of course no action can be taken on it. Asked at noon today by the Intelligencer whether he intends to call another special meeting of the City Council before the next regular meeting on Monday the 19th, Mayor Duff was non-committal. He said a special meeting might be called if fact probably would be but he would not say definitely. If the meanwhile the wooden ramps are removed the property quite well as an emergency entrance.

From a source quite close to McColl Brothers it is learned that that Company is quite prepared to spend a lot of money to enforce what they claim are their rights. Their attitude, it is understood, is that it cost over $30,000 to build the station there, so they might as well spend another $30,000 to use it and they cannot use it without the double entrance they have.

Litigation Is Probable

From all appearances, therefor, the City of Belleville is going to be involved in litigation.

BANDMASTER OBJECTING TO SLUR CAST ON HIS BELOVED A.I.I. BAND

Bandmaster Alfred E. Zealey evidently thinks that the Argyle Light Infantry band is plenty good enough to be included in the programme for Belleville's "night on the air." He thinks the bandmen are getting a "raw deal" in that they were called on to stay up after midnight to welcome the victorious baseball team, but are not good enough to be included in the trip to Toronto to take part in the broadcasting to advertise Belleville. His letter to the Editor expresses this view forcibly:

The Editor,
The Intelligencer
Dear Sir,—

Belleville is to have a night on the "Air" Wednesday, November 14th, and I should like to know why the band of the Argyle Light Infantry has been ignored on this occasion.

Apparently the "Charmed Circle" think the A.L.I. band—only fit for Bally-Hoo purposes such as meeting a Ball Team in the early hours of the morning etc but I should like to inform the Citizens of Belleville they have nothing to be ashamed of with the present band of the Argyle Light Infantry and it is quite capable with the rest of Ontario bands in giving a first-class performance.

Sincerely yours,
ALFRED E. ZEALEY.
Dirgctor of Music 15th Argyle Light Infantry Band.

HUDSON BAY COMPANY LOSES LAST APPEAL

London, Eng., Nov. 9. (C. P. Cable)—Judicial committee of the Privy of the Hudson Bay Company from the decision of the Supreme Court of Canada in favor of the Dominion Government in a dispute over the ownership of precious minerals in the Hudson Bay Company lands.

The court denied the company's claim that in surrendering its lands in Rupert and Western Canada Confederation it retained the mineral rights.

EIGHTEEN DEAD AND TWO MORE MAY DIE

Lynn, Mass., Nov. 9—Death of Lewis Ingalls in the hospital today brings the toll of the explosion which yesterday wrecked a shoe factory and nearby houses to eighteen. DELAY AT COLLEGIATE IS RESULT OF LATE ORDERING OF EQUIPMENT

Hope to Have Formal Opening Set for Some Time This Month

INVITE PREMIER

Dissatisfaction Developes Over Interference With Night Classes

Equipment for the new Belleville Collegiate and Vocational School is still being held up, and that reason alone is what is holding back the official opening, which will take place some time between now and Christmas. It seems that the Advisory Committee of the local Board of Education found when they ordered the equipment for the school that several others had placed their orders ahead of them, and for that reason the local school has been held back.

As the matter now stands, there is little hope of the school operating with full equipment and consequently with full efficiency until after Christmas, and the taxpayers of Belleville are paying their money for a full term's work and getting only about half a term's work. The Department of Education at Toronto is even talking of holding up part of their grant until the school is operating with full equipment.

To Give Address

Another matter which is causing much controversy is the act which is credited to Mr. Rutherford, the Night School Inspector from Toronto, who was in Belleville Tuesday night. On arriving at the Collegiate, he found that some ten or twelve ladies had enrolled in the woodworking class of the Vocational School, as he claimed that there was nothing in the regulations which said that ladies could take these classes, they were refunded their fees and asked to leave.

Although there is nothing in the regulations which say that ladies can take the woodworking course, still there is nothing there which says that they will not be allowed to take them, so why should an Inspector have the power to dictate to the Belleville Board of Education as to who shall take certain classes? The only reasonable thing for him to have done and for the Belleville Board to do would be to give these ladies the classes until Christmas at least, and then inform them, if the conditions called for it, that they could take no more classes. These ladies en-

HOSKINS TO GET ANOTHER TRIAL

Court Grants Petition Based On Evidence Brought To Light

Toronto, Nov. 9.—William Haskin, London, convicted and sentenced to 5 years imprisonment in connection with the death of William Thompson who died by a hit and run driver and following Haskins' conviction, two girls made affidavits implicating another man. The prisoner appealed on two grounds, that there was not sufficient evidence to convict, and that since his trial, new evidence in his favor had been brought to light.

OPENING DATE NOT DEFINITELY SET YET

Ceremony to Take Place When Premier Ferguson Can Be Here

It was left to the hands of the Chairman of the Board of Education to set the most convenient date for the official opening of the new Collegiate Institute at a meeting held yesterday afternoon. The chairmen of the various committees of the Board, Mr. Elliott, chairman of the School Board, Colonel W. N. Ponton and Mr. G. A. C. Weir were in attendance yesterday. Mr. Elliott will write to Premier Ferguson to find out what day will be convenient for the Minister of Education to be in attendance.

WANTS TO SEND US UNEMPLOYED

British Minister of Labor to Open Negotiations With Canada

London, Eng., Nov. 9.—(C. P. Cable)—British Government is to negotiate with the Canadian Govern ment so that the doors may be opened to people who want to go as workers to towns in Canada without agricultural training, Sir Arthur Steel Maitland, Minister of Labor declared in a debate on unemployment in the house of commons today.

He said it was hoped at least four thousand such persons will find Canada within the next six months. He also hoped to send five or six thousand miners trained in agriculture for farm work in Canada in the same period.

The Minister intimated that unemployment in the mining areas would be reduced by at least 45,000 men in the next six months. Unemployment in Germany, Russia and United States is at least as great as here."

Flat Passage Rate Asked

Ottawa, Ont., Nov. 9.—A flat ten pound rate for British emigrants to Canada is being negotiated in London between Hon. Robert Forke, Minister of Immigration and the British Government. This rate would be applicable to all workers who passed medical inspection whether town workers or agricultural.

MARKET SWEEPS UP AGAIN TODAY

Sales Outrun Ticker by Three Quarters of an Hour at Noon

New York, Nov. 9.—Bull movement on the stock exchange, which interrupted by heavy selling late yesterday was resumed in today's market under the leadership of motor shares, with nearly a score of which advanced three to twelve and a half points. Extreme irregularity existed in the industrial list as a result of the usual week-end profit taking, but the general list pushed upward with merchandising, Independent Steel, food and high priced specialties in the buying movement.

Trading facilities of the exchange were again inadequate to handle the volume of trading the ticker lagging 45 minutes behind the market by noon yesterday. Total sales crossed the 2,500,000 share mark before the end of the third hour.

Call money renewed at six and a half percent, as against six yesterday and advanced to seven at noon. Bankers announced offers of $15,000,000 in loans to meet the weekend currency require ments. Time money and commercial paper rates held steady.

QUINTE DIVISION MOOSE MEETING

Mr. M. G. Heyd Supreme Past Dictator, the Main Speaker

Quinte Division of Ontario Legion No. 1, which is the Second Degree of the Moose here in Belleville, held a very successful meeting at the Moose Auditorium last night.

The guest speaker of the evening was M. G. Heyd of Toronto, the Supreme Past Dictator of the Moose who related some of the experiences he had while attending the World Fraternal Conference held some three months ago in Cardiff, Wales, under the auspices of the Loyal Order of Moose. He also spoke regarding the welfare work which is being done by the Moose all over the country, by the "Fraternal Service" as well as the service at Mooseheart, and he said that the Moose members here in Belleville should be proud to know that through some little self denial on the part of them, were bringing sunshine and happiness in several homes here in Ontario.

Four new members were initiated into the Second Degree after which lunch was served and then dancing was the order of evening until the wee small hours of the morning.

Brothers from Peterboro Lodge—Ladies of Peterboro Chapter, Belleville Ladies Chapter Subordinati Lodge members and the Junior Order all attended this meeting and they all voted the Legion members as good hosts.

MADE PRESENTATION TO FAMILY LEAVING FOR BELLEVILLE

On Monday evening a number of the members of Oakdale Rebekah Lodge of Madoc met at the home of Mrs. Wellman to spend a social evening with Mrs. A. L. Connor before she leaves for her new home in Belleville. After a social hour Mrs. Connor was presented with a beautiful art pottery jardiniere and the following address:—

"Madoc, Ont., Nov. 5, 1928

Dear Sister—It is with much regret that we learn you are about to sever your connections with Madoc and take up your residence elsewhere.

For many years we have met together in the Rebekah Lodge. You have always taken an active part and we feel that you have always had the interests of the Lodge at heart.

We shall miss you, at our meetings but trust that what may be a loss to our Lodge may be another's gain. As a small token of remembrance we ask you to accept this little gift, not for its intrinsic value, but as a slight appreciation of your efforts here. We trust that you may be happy and prosperous in your new home and that at some future time it may be our mutual pleasure to meet again.

Signed on behalf of Oakdale Rebekah Lodge, No. 134, Ruby Nichol, N.G., Mary Wellman, V.G.

Mrs. Connor replied in a few well-chosen words thanking the ladies for their kindness and expressing her regret at leaving the Lodge.

LARGE ATTENDANCE AT THANK OFFERING

The Autumn Thankoffering meeting of the Tabernacle W.F.M.S. was held in the Sunday School rooms Wednesday evening with a splendid attendance of members and friends.

Mrs. J. E. Walmsley acted as chairman for the evening. After a few introductory remarks, the Hymn "Jesus Shall Reign", was sung led by Mrs. Duff at the piano, followed by a Scripp ture Reading and Prayer by Rev. Mr. McCutcheon.

A splendid program was then given as follows.

Reading—Mrs. A. H. Fisher.
Solo—Mrs. Horton Brown.
Recitation—Miss Helen Findlay.
Duet—Mrs. McMullen and Mrs. Duff.
Reading—Miss Muriel Wardner.

Mr. Walmsley gave a short talk on "Thanksgiving" citing various reasons why we should all be thankful.

The Thankoffering was then received.

Pictures depicting the home life of Japan were then thrown on the screen by Mrs. Cousdin at the lantern, and explained by Mr. McCutcheon. These proved very interesting and instructive. Refreshments were then served by a committee of ladies assisted by some of the gentlemen. The Society is very grateful to all those who contributed in any way to the program, thus helping to make the evening one of enjoyment and profit.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES

Tomorrow morning four members of the local Y. M. C. A. Messrs Archie Boyd; Gordon Miles, Harry Morgan and Robert Royle, will leave for St. Catharines, Ontario to attend the annual Y.M.C.A. Employed Boys Conference which will be conducted in that city from Saturday evening until Monday afternoon. The delegates will be accompanied by Mr. A. Hall, the General Secretary.

Among the leaders at the Conference, where topics of vital interest to all Employed Boys and young men will be discussed, will be Mr. Henry Jaquinet of Geneva, Switzerland Secretary of the World's Committee on Employed Boys Work; J. H. Fowler, Detroit; W. R. Cook and R. E. Davis of the Canadian National Council. Belleville will be represented among the Associations of Ontario and Quebec by this fine delegation.

The local Employed Boys Group is much stronger this year having a large increase in membership and attendance. The information and inspiration brought from the Conference will be a wonderful help to the local group.

ST. ANDREW'S W. M. S. MET ON WEDNESDAY

Elders' Thank-Offering Given At A Well Attended Meeting

The Thankoffering meeting of the St. Andrew's W.M.S. was held in the Sunday School room of the Church on Wednesday evening, Nov. 7th with a good attendance. The president, Mrs. Morrice, occupied the chair. Meeting opened with the singing of the hymn, "Hark the voice of Jesus Crying." Rev. Mr. Stewart conducted devotional exercises. Mrs. Agnes Bell then sang a delightful solo.

The Mission Band attended and helped with the programme. Bobby Kidd read a piano solo, Betty Charsley, a recitation; Helen Diamond, a piano solo; and Miss. Wallace, a reading. Mrs. Morrice then introduced the speaker of the evening, Mrs. J. W. Hill, of Toronto, member of the Council. Mrs. Dill first told the Mission Band a story, then gave a most thrilling address in the Auditorium on the work, past and present, and the growth of the W.M.S.

After a hearty vote of thanks a liberal offering was presented and Miss Pratt sang acceptably for Miss Torrence. A life membership was presented to Miss Margaret Mowbray and the closing hymn sung, "Lord of the Land". The Lord's Prayer was then repeated in unison and the benediction pronounced by Rev. Mr. Stewart. Refreshments were then served and a social half hour enjoyed by all.

MOOT S. S. SERVICE FROM VANCOUVER

Ottawa, November 8—Hon. James Malcolm, Minister of Trade and Commerce, will leave for Vancouver next week to examine the possibilities of a direct steamship service between Western Canada and Australia and New Zealand. He will also look into the advisability of establishing a service to the west coast of South America.

It is believed trade with all these countries can be substantially increased. British Columbia merchants feel they could secure a larger share of the Australian business if the Canadian National Steamship would restore the direct service formerly given between Vancouver and the Antipodes, especially as there is a possibility of the trade arrangement between Canada and Australia being extended. At the present time lumber interests in Washington, Oregon and California have an advantage over the British Columbia lumber men, both by reason of better steamship services and an Australian tariff which favors the redwood of California as against British Columbia cedar.

TASKS OF THE ROYAL FAMILY

May Have To Do Anything From Washing Babies Upwards

London, (By C.P.)—When the Duke of York, during a visit to a publishing house, printed a page of a book dedicated to his baby daughter, he thus called attention to the wide variety and unusual nature of the tasks the royal family is always called upon to perform.

From bathing babies to operating locomotives, the royal family's duties run the gamut from the usual to the weird.

Although one doesn't think of a Princess in the role of washing babies, even if they be her own, yet Princess Mary has bathed dozens and dozens of them. When she was training at the great Ormond Street hospital, the mothers of the babies there took it as a great honor if the Princess washed their infants. Princess Mary was expected to bathe every child at least once during his stay at the hospital.

Princess Mary frequently called upon to act as saleswoman for this or that charity affair. She usually serves at a needlework stall. She is one of the very few salewoman who sell their goods, for if there are any left over at the end of the sale, she buys them herself.

King George, however, doesn't have to buy the leftovers when he works in a charity shop; the reason is that there aren't any leftovers.

The King's favorite odd job is driving locomotive. He is a keen engineer.

Very few people know that the King holds a clerical appointment at St. David's Cathedral, as Prebendary, holder of the office is required to preach once a year.

The Queen is a busy woman indeed, considering merely the sum total of her odd jobs. Large quantities of clothing are made by the Queen in her sewing room at Buckingham Palace. They are packed into bundles and sent to hospitals.

The Prince of Wales is undoubtedly the busiest members of the royal family when it comes to these odd jobs. The Prince has made chocolates, blown glass, iced cakes and stuffed woolen animals. He has eaten dinners in probably more places in the kingdom than any other man.

rolled in good faith, and were accepted by those in charge, but on investigation of notice from the Inspector, were told that they could not continue.

No Pupils Under Sixteen

Even though the Department at Toronto may have allowed a third of the cost of the new Collegiate, that is no reason why they should dictate to the citizens of Belleville, who are paying the other two thirds, and to the Belleville Board of Education. Another matter which is said at the door of the Inspector is that he objects that all pupils who wished to take night school work but who were under the age of sixteen were not to be allowed to register.

Our idea of night school is to give those who have no chance to get to school in the day time their opportunity of getting an education, and for those who were going to Collegiate in the day time to keep their work up in classes in which they were behind.

Grain Prices Stiffen

Chicago, Nov. 9.—Adverse weather both over the wheat harvest region in Argentina and the United States corn belt tended to lift all grain prices early today. Besides, corn traders were expecting the government crop report this afternoon would show a reduction of yield compared with latest un official figures. Opening 1-8 to 5-8 up, wheat later scored slight additional gains. Corn started at 1-8 to 5-8 advance and afterward hardened little more.

AUXILIARY MEETS AT PLEASANT VIEW

On Thursday afternoon, November the first the Pleasant View Auxiliary met at the home of Mrs. Frank Harris with an attendance of eleven. Mrs. Detlor, the president, presided and opened the meeting by singing Hymn 99. The minutes of last meeting were then read and adopted. After the business was disposed of Mrs. Ed. Phillips read the Scripture lesson, Cal. 1, 16-20. Psalm 24: 1 2. The devotional exercises were in charge of Mrs. H. Jeffrey. Prayer was then offered by Mrs. Detlor and Mrs. Bex smith. Mrs. Scramlin then gave the report of the convention at Cannilton and a vote of thanks was tendered her for her splendid report.

As the auxiliary are now following the study book on Afr.n "Drums In the Darkness" papers on it were given by Miss Mildred Phillips, Mrs. A. Woods and Mrs. C. Holmes. The meeting was brought to a close by repeating our watchword. The business was then next lunch assisted by Mrs. J. McPherson. Offerings amounted to six dollars.

NEW TYPES OF DWELLING HOUSES

New York, NY.— Plans to erect a new type of dwelling house, heated and cooled by the same gas fire, are being developed by the American Gas Association.

The projected house is normal size, with probably eight rooms, for example, and basement. Its location has not been fixed, but is likely to be in the midwest. The objective is to work out the possible economic practicability of houses heated and cooled by processes which now exist mainly as laboratory experiments.

The windows of the house will be used for daylight, but not for ventilation. The plan is to make them airtight except for small occasions as window washing. The doors will be somewhat of the bank safe pattern, of stepped edge, in sufficient numbers to be virtually air-tight. One reason for the window closing is a laboratory discovery that, in an artificially regulated room a random draught such as might stray through an open window can cause virtual rain in the room. Ventilating fans are planned to care for foul air at all times.

Another novelty is insulation of the entire house, calculated to require about 30 per cent less heating energy than in a similar uninsulated dwelling. The insulation will be equivalent to the protection afforded by one of thirty materials, ranging from eelgrass from Boston harbor to bits of paper mashed and sprayed on by air gun, with sodium silicate as a binder. The paper insulation would run a depth of about three inches.

The ultimate objective, heating and cooling with the same gas plant will not be attempted at the start. The heating and the cooling plants at first will be separate, it is planned, finally to combine them in one plant.

SMOOTH GENTLEMAN ENDED UP IN JAIL.

London, (By C. P.)— "Where have I seen you before?" With this pretty Leslie Raymond, a South African mechanical engineer, struck up an acquaintanceship in a restaurant here with Mrs. Elsie Brooks, a young widow, of Birmingham; and in a short time he borrowed £15 from her; borrowed her wedding ring and her wrist watch, though she did not remember having seen him before. He pawned the ring. He told her he would take the watch to a jeweller to have it adjusted because he feared there was too much electricity in her system, and she acquiesced.

The £15 and ring were handed over by the confiding widow to help her new friend out of temporary financial difficulties. He told her he had just come from Canada, and had been shipwrecked and had lost all his belongings, and the Canadian Pacific Steamships had arranged to pay him $25,000 compensation. The compensation was to be paid the next day, but in the meantime he had no money.

Mrs. Brooks met Raymond the following day and went with him to Canada House, where he was to be identified before receiving the money from the steamship company. However, after entering the Canada Government headquarters, he disappeared, and he was arrested on a charge of theft was convicted and sentenced to twelve months imprisonment with hard labor.

CANADIAN PEOPLE HAVE APPRECIATION

Toronto, Ont., By C. P.)— Appreciation of the finer things in art, literature and music is being steadily developed among the people of Canada, according to Sir Robert Falconer, President of the University of Toronto, in a recent address here "Art is a practical result of culture, or culture produces art," Sir Robert said. "and Canadian artists are nobly expressing the spirit of Canada in their charming and interesting work." The cultural achievements of Canadians were considerable, Sir Robert said. Through the blending of Latin and Anglo-Saxon cultures which the Dominion presents, he believed a culture of finest flower was in process of development.

PHILLIPS MIGHT BE SECRETARY

Hoover May Go To Ottawa For Secretary Of State

Washington, D. C., November 9.—When President-elect Hoover chooses his Cabinet he may go to Ottawa for his Secretary of State. One of the possible appointees to the highest Cabinet post under the president is Hon. William Phillips, United States Minister to Canada.

Mr. Phillips is being talked of because of his qualifications and his lack of handicaps from the political point of view. His connection with politics has been nil. Before he went to Ottawa last year he had represented the United States in Belgium, the Netherlands, Luxemburg and China, and had acted as first secretary in the American Embassy at the Court of Saint James. He has also had considerable experience in the State Department in Washington, was an assistant Secretary of State during the war, and has represented the United States as delegate to several international conferences.

Other possible appointees to the state portfolio are Hon. Dwight Morrow, American Ambassador to Mexico and former partner in the J. Pierpont Morgan firm; Atlanson B. Hough ton, Ambassador to London, until he contested the New York assembly in this week's election and was defeated, and Senator William E. Borah the Progressive Republican, who gave Hoover strong support in the election.

"Absurd," Says Envoy

Ottawa, November 9.—"It is utterly absurd," was the comment of Hon. William Phillips, on the report from Washington that he was possible appointee for the position of Secretary of State when President-elect Hoover selects his Cabinet.

POPULARIZING CANADIAN APPLES

Canada as usual took a most prominent part in the Imperial Fruit Show which has just closed in Manchester, England. Samples of the apples on display in the Canadian exhibit were distributed to those visiting the exhibition on the last day, and this method of advertising our apples is extremely popular judging by the demand.

The new cub-variety, the Crimson Gravenstein, came in for a lot of very favourable comment, and the Canadian Fruit Trade Commissioner W. A. Forsyth Smith, says this variety has captured the attention of the British importing trade. The variety has all the fine flavour quality of the original Gravenstein, in addition has a bright red colouring, and can be shipped to arrive in England about the middle of September.

Prince Arthur of Connaught opened the Imperial Fruit Show this year, and remarked upon the remarkable number of important fruits which could be obtained from some part of the Empire all the year round. He further remarked that the exhibition was a most encouraging augury for the development and increasing prosperity of all the fruit growing districts of the Empire.

A box being used in England in the Advertising of fruit reads. For your health's sake, eat more apples; for Empire sake, choose Empire fruit.

A KNIGHT Motor Heater

Ends Winter Starting Troubles

Enjoy freedom from difficulties of winter starting—Install a Knight Motor Heater and say good-bye to cold morning starting troubles.

The Knight Motor Heater keeps the motor warm when standing in a cold garage—makes a heated garage unnecessary.

The warm engine—no easy start—saves wear on the motor —saves run down batteries—reduces crank case dilution troubles—saves your time—your temper—your self-respect. You need a Knight Motor Heater—the saving is greater than the cost.

It is Winter starting with a cold engine and the consequent necessary flooding which washes the lubricating oil off the cylinder walls and ruins the engine.

Knight Motor Heaters reduce or eliminate all these winter troubles, and increase the life of your car—save fuel, time and temper and add to the joy of winter driving.

Get one on before you strip the ring gear of the bendix drive.

FIFTY AVIATION CLUBS AT CLOSE OF SECOND YEAR

Montreal, Nov. 9. — Thirty-seven light aeroplane clubs have been organized in Canada within the last twelve months, or are in the process of formation, and the Federal Government has already made a grant of one or more machines to fifteen of these, Captain W. S. Lichthall told members of the Lion's Club. The speaker is the president of the Canadian Light Aeroplane Club, and managing director of the Reid Aircraft Company, Limited. Dealing with the short history of aviation in this country, outlined the developments now taking place in the aircraft industry, and predicted that fifty light aeroplane clubs will have been incorporated by this time next year, so great is the growth in the enthusiasm for aeronautics.

Club Formed Sept. 1927.

The Montreal Light Aeroplane Club, which was organized on September 1, 1927, was the first in Canada. Montreal's lead was taken from similar institutions in Great Britain, where the sport was developed by the British Government with a view to creating a supply of trained airmen for use in an emergency. The Canadian Government adopted the same procedure, and these efforts have been fostered. Captain Lichthall pointed out, and it is liable to become one of the foremost in this country. Should an occasion of national stress or emergency arise, where Canada would be in a position to protect herself against enemy attack, she should be ready to mobilize no inconsiderable contribution to the aerial defence of the Empire. The aircraft industry must be supported for this reason, it was explained, as the Dominion must be prepared in the position of depending on possible opponents for her armaments. Canadian Vickers, Limited, were the pioneers in the Canadian aircraft industry, Captain Lichthall said, but the Reid Aircraft Company, Limited, is now in the production stage, and thereby placing Montreal in the lead

WORLD'S GREATEST TRAVEL SYSTEM

TO MAKE CLEAN BOROUGH SWEEP

President-Elect In Queen's Says- He Will Oust All Crooks

New York, November 9.—A major of the famous "lost battalion" of the A.E.F., today was consolidating his forces for another fight to the finish in the heart of the enemy's country.

The major is George U. Harvey, who as a Republican alderman in the strongly Democratic Borough of Queens unearthed the $15,000,000 scandal, and in return has been elected by the borough as its first Republican president since greater New York was created.

"I'm after the crooks," said Mr. Harvey when his election became assured. And he added: "I'm going to get them."

It was Alderman Harvey's demand on Governor Smith for an investigation of the affairs of Maurice E. Connolly as borough president that led to the latter's resignation and an investigation that resulted in his conviction of conspiracy to defraud the city. Connolly was sentenced to one year's imprisonment, but is at liberty under bail pending an appeal.

Harvey was elected borough president by a majority of about 4,000 over the present incumbent, Bernard M. Patten, his Democratic, opponent, and his victory was one of the surprising upsets in the New York election.

"When I walk into the Borough hall on January 1, the old borough crowd will trot out," he said. If they don't, then they'll run out. It will be a clean sweep.

"All department heads not covered by civil service rules, and all who owe their appointments to Connolly or to the Democratic machine must go. I intend to complete the work I began a year ago, when I filed charges with Governor Smith against the former borough president."

NO REASON FOR CHILD'S LEAVING

Scotland Yard Official Mum On Subject Of Retirement

London, Nov. 9.—No reason had been given by Sir Wyndham Childs, retiring assistant commissioner of Metropolitan Police and head of the famous criminal investigation department at Scotland Yard, for leaving the organization, stated Sir William Joynson-Hicks, Home Secretary, in the House of Commons this evening.

Jack Hayes (Labor, Edmond, Liverpool), a former policeman, asked if Sir Wyndham Childs' retirement was for his retirement.

The Home Secretary stated that Sir Wyndham gave no explanation to him when expressing a desire to follow Sir William Nott-Bower, chief commissioner, into retirement.

"We are aware that he had been feeling the strain of the heavy responsibilities to which he was appointed seven years ago after long and strenuous military service," the Home Secretary said. "That there may be no misunderstanding of this I am probably right in saying that I should state that Sir Wyndham Childs' retirement is in no way connected, directly or indirectly, with any matters into the affairs of the criminal investigation department."

FOX CAME TO GRIEF WITH A MOTOR CAR

Kingston, November 9—While driving from Tamworth to Arden, Leslie Marshall and G. Wentworth overtook a fox in the road. Mr. Marshall stepped on the gas, the fox did not budge and the auto ran over it. On returning to the spot the fox was found dead on the road.

Mr. Marshall received $15 for the pelt.

for some time to come, though there is every possibility that other firms will start up in other parts of the country.

In tracing the history of Canadian aviation, Captain Lichthall explained that the built of machines were obtained from the British Government directly after the war, most of these being old army planes, though the country depended on American-built models subsequently, and until recently. Of the 17,000 Canadian fliers who returned from France and other theatres of war, some endeavored to continue their flying activities, but found that sufficient public interest had not been created to support them.

It was not until an airmindedness was crystallized, following several spectacular trans-oceanic flights last year, that aviation in Canada was able to make any considerable progress. The Federal Government had kept the fly ing fires burning, however as they employed planes in carrying out forest protection.' in surveying and in developing sites and localities that were almost unattainable from civil ization without the use of canoes and dog teams. Parts of Manitoba had been opened up some 25 years in advance, by the employment of aeroplanes, it was pointed out, whole com munities, stores, etc., having been taken in by air. Foundations of flying were well laid by the Canadian authorities in charge of aviation, and the country was now thought to be on the threshold of extraordinary developments.

DAIRYMEN OF DISTRICT HELD A DISTRICT MEETING AT FOXBORO

Robt. McLaughlin Re-Elected Director to Eastern Ontario Association

Mr. Robert McLaughlin was re-elected director to the Eastern Ontario Dairymen's Association at a district meeting held at Foxboro yesterday. There were about fifteen dairymen present, the majority of them cheese makers, the principal product of this district.

The first main speaker at yesterday's convention was J. Irwin, the official grader for the district. Mr. Irwin gave some interesting statistics in his address and also some good advice. Mr. Irwin spoke of the high quality of cheese that has been maintained throughout the 1928 season. He told about the different grades and qualities of cheese, particularly with reference to rancidity, log mould, mil. gas, improvement, the benefit of rings etc.

Mr. Irwin's address was full of interest for the local cheese makers. "We need the hoop about a half inch larger than the wax wrapper," he said. "The special grade cheese should be 1-2 a cent more expensive than No. 1," he said.

- Cheese Is Better

"There is a wonderful improvement in the quality of cheese," Mr. Irwin stated. "What is the reason?" The makers are getting together for the best solution of their problems. They are putting into practice what they know. They success is a result of co-operation."

"The cheesemaker is the main factor in the business," he continued. He then quoted some statistics—

"What about 1929," said Mr. Irwin. "1929 Should be a greater year than ever before!"

J. A. Barr

Mr. J. A. Barr, Dominion Dairy Inspector, was the next speaker. Mr. Barr was from Toronto. "There is little need for a government this year," he said, "at least as far as the dairy branch is concerned. The cheese makers have just wakened to a little of the opportunity that has been there for years. They have never got behind their own work like they did this year. Never before has this district experienced such a successful year as the past."

"You are handling your own business," he said. "When we get to the point where the producers of milk and cream handle their own business like the cheesemakers do, there will be has use for the government, especially of the dairy branch. Barring all these years has been done under pressure of the government."

"What started the co-operative movement," he asked. "The cheesemakers meet in Perth," was the answer. "Nothing for the past twenty five years." Mr. Barr said, "has had the same result as the cheesemakers' movement. Buttermakers and milk and cream handlers have started to handle their own business and they have less use for the dairy govern ment inspector."

Co-operation is the secret of the whole success in the dairy business. But there isn't much for the Government always. There is always a certain number of men need moral persuasion. I think for that reason there is a place for government work. There is no government in the world but wants to help its citizens.

"Today we are ahead of the world in regard to cheesemaking and butter making certificates.

AFGHAN KING A HAPPY MONARCH

Pleased With Establishment of Friendly Relations With Britain

Peshawar, India, (By C. P.)—Gratification at the establishment of friendly relations with the British Royal Family was a marked feature of King Amanullah's recent important speech to the Afghan capital, more detail accounts of which are now coming to hand.

His Majesty laid stress in his appreciation of the reception accorded him by the Government and people of India and particularly on the enjoyment afforded him by his voyage as guest of the Government of India on the "Rawal Pindi."

Giving detailed account of his experiences in the various foreign countries he visited, King Amanullah expressed gratitude to their governments and people for the hospitable reception he and Queen Souriya met with. He made special mention of the degree of doctor of law conferred on him by Oxford University which he remarked, was not inappropriate in view of his own endeavours to reform the laws of Afghanistan.

Among important reforms foreshadowed was the formation of a cabinet. His Majesty intimated that as Sher Ahmed Khan, whom he had entrusted with the formation of a cabinet, had failed to do so, he would himself for the present discharge the functions of Prime Minister. The appointment of Ghulam Sadip Khan as Foreign Minister and Mohammad Wali Khan as Permanent Regent in the King's absence from the capital was also announced.

Other measures foreshadowed were the reform of municipal law and the judiciary, the foundation of public libraries and factories, the compulsory co-education of girls and boys between the ages of six and eleven years of age in Kabul and the introduction of European dress in Kabul.

Discussing social reform, the King reiterated his well-known views on the emancipation of women. While denouncing superstitious practices, he affirmed that he intended to carry out the true doctrines of Islam.

On the question of Purdah he indicated a preference for the wearing of modern veils in Kabul at least, while leaving it to the discretion of the people in the provinces to adhere to the old or adopt the new fashion.

A dramatic incident occurred when Queen Souriya and other Court ladies removed their veils.

The speech was cordially received by the large audience of Afghan officials and diplomatic representatives.

Ruins of vast buildings, statues and other signs of a once prosperous civilization have been found on Easter Island, in the middle of the Pacific.

You have three central organizations now in the province. Isn't there one more link? Why not have a central committee where you can bring the ideas of the local groups to a central organization. That's one of your jobs.

Whenever you get the opportunity, hitch on with the milk and cream producers. This is the last and best suggestion I can make for you.

ASKS PEOPLE TO GET ACQUAINTED WITH TELEPHONE

Company Sending Personal Letters to Subscribers to Explain System

Today, C. P. Sise, President of the Bell Telephone Company is sending a personal letter to all telephone users announcing a series of informative advertisements, the first of which will appear in the "Intelligencer," next week.

Mr. Cokers, Manager of the Company, in Belleville, explained this morning to the "Intelligencer," that the purpose of the new advertisements is to assist in a better acquaintance between the public and the telephone system.

"By thing w, ought to be well acquainted," Mr. Cokers said. "Because the telephone and the public are closely related and have mutual interests. On one hand we have the telephone company which consists of over 14,600 shareholders, of whom 85 per cent live in Canada. On the other hand, is the telephone system which is really a great co-operative body of people who talk with each other through more than 700,000 telephones.

"If thing most of us accept the telephone service nowadays pretty much as a matter of course. We seldom thing of the 19,000 trained men and women and the work they do behind the scenes. There are things we would like to have understood and we know of no better way to tell the story than through the newspapers."

The text of Mr. Sise's letter to telephone subscribers is as follows:

In next week's newspapers you may see an advertisement entitled "He Works With Magic."

It tells about putting a telephone line, through new country and is the first of a number of advertisements in which we shall try to tell you something of the telephone business and the people in it.

We are doing this because we have found that the workings of the telephone system are not well understood. We think this is not a good situation, either for you or for us, because the telephone business and the public have a mutual dependence on each other and are equally concerned in the growth of the country.

As the advertisements continue we shall also deal with certain subjects of particular public interest, including the financial record and policy of our Company, its relations with the American Telephone and Telegraph Company.

I am writing you in the hope that because you are in daily contact with the telephone system, you will be interested in reading our advertisements.

RURAL ALBERTANS POOR CUSTOMERS

Edmonton, Alta., (By C. P.)— If goods manufactured in Edmonton were purchased by the agricultural population of the province of Alberta in proportion to the goods purchased by the people of the city of Edmonton the output of the local manufacturing concerns would be about two and one thirds greater than it is at present, according to B. F. McKee, secretary of the Edmonton board of trade industries committee which was organized a little more than a year ago. In a detailed report of the committee's work Secretary McKee shows that of the output of local factories 43.9 is sold in Edmonton and 43.9 percent in Western Canada outside Edmonton. He takes as the basis of population the following figures: Edmonton nearly 70,000; surrounding district, 277,000.

Mr. McKee states that there are 196 manufacturing firms in Edmonton with capital totalling $13,396,150 and employing 4,867 persons, the yearly payroll amounting to $5,305,329

DEATH ENDED HIS MONTH OF FASTING

Dairen, Manchuria. (By C. P.)—The Rev. Shinjaro Hara, preacher at the Nippon Methodist Church in Nishi Park, here, ended a month's fast on September 7, in death. He was a religious zealot and considered that he had an injunction from the Bible to fast for a long period.

His attempt to go without food for a month evoked a mild sensation in Dairen.

PENNY POSTAGE MAY COME NOW

Ottawa, November 8—United to-day about the possibility of establishing penny postage to Great Britain, Hon. P. J. Veniot, Postmaster-General, said there was a disposition in Dominion Government circles toward such a move, but before it could be accomplished there would have to be an arrangement for similar treatment from the British Isles, the letter postage from Britain to Canada being also three cents.

This question, he added, would be dealt with at the next International Postal Congress which will be held early in 1929 in London, and which he hopes to attend.

EMPIRE'S FUTURE WITH OUR YOUTH

Burden Heavier on Young Men of Canada Than in Other Countries

Montreal, Nov. 8.—How the British Empire's continued progress in the world hinges upon the ability, and willingness of the generation now in early manhood to respond to its traditional promoting world peace, international co-operation and inter-Empire harmony and efforts to maintain British ideals of freedom and justice was stressed by Viscount Willingdon, Governor-General of Canada, in addressing the luncheon meeting of the Young Men's Canadian Club. His Excellency's evident desire to come in personal contact with the generation to which he was addressing his advice and counsels was subsequently seen in the fact that as members of the club filed out they were all introduced and received a vice-regal handshake.

Self-Governing Nations

"The Governor-General drawing on his experience in various parts of the Empire, especially India and South Africa, and more latterly in Canada illustrated his main contention that the British Empire, in his opinion bears the responsibility of showing the way of internal unity among a group of self-governing nations and, further afield, in promoting world peace.

At the outset, Lord Willingdon expressed his regret that his office restricted him in h's choice of topic, but he intimated that perhaps in the future, when he has relinquished the office of representative of the Crown, he will be glad to unburden his mind or problems of India and China.

South Africa A Success

Proceeding to give h's views as one who had served in different parts of the Empire, some of them "outside parts" in the course of which he had concerned certain ideals, hopes and aspirations as to what the future of the British Empire should be, especially in the international role, Lord Willingdon emphasized the valued nature of the constitutional connection the way in which they had been welded together, so that even in South Africa there was some spectacle of English and Dutch-speaking peoples joining loyally to serve this commonwealth of nations. He recalled the time when the late Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman introduced the Bill for the Union of South Africa, and of the fears expressed by English people in the Cape who had told him (Lord Willingdon) that the result would be disastrous. "I can only say that that is one of the things in which I look back in my official life with the greatest satisfaction, that I gave my vote for the Union of South Africa bill," commented H s Lordship. "I am perfectly sure that that bill constituted one of the great principles of our British administration, for offering of absolute freedom and equality to all people under the British Crown."

MADOC MEMORIAL UNVEILING POSTPONED

A meeting of the Great War Veterans was held in the Armories, at Madoc, on Monday, for the purpose of arranging their part in the services of unveiling the Memorial Monument. It was unanimously decided that Wm Hart place the wreath on the memorial.

Mr. Hart, who received a leg wound while on active service, resulting in the amputation of his leg, was made postmaster at Madoc on his return from overseas.

The unveiling which was to take place on November 11, has been postponed owing to a delay at the Marble Works.

LANGUAGE TEST FOR PARLIAMENT

Jugo-Slav Gov't. Sets Precedent in Asking Language Test

London— (By mail.)—The Yugo-slav Skupshtina has established what would seem to be a precedent in Parliamentary practice by submitting one of its members to a language test. The Constitution of the country lays down that its official language is Serb-Croat Slovenes, which is a convenient way of allowing the Deputies from Clovenia to speak their own dialect (which a Serb can hardly understand) without transgressing the principle that the only language used shall be Serbian, which is the current vernacular all over the rest of the country. The German, Hungarian, and Moslem Deputies all speak Serbian.

A new Deputy, M. Nadj, a Hungarian lawyer, whose candidature was fathered by the Radical Party, was recently returned for the constituency of Subotica. It's political opponents reported that he could not, or rather would not speak Serbian. As the charges against him were made with some warmth, a Parliamentary Committee was appointed to look into the matter. The Committee decided that the best thing to do was to examine their new colleague in proper form, and this was done. The official report which was issued after the examination shows that the test was not unlike that which candidates for the Royal Naval College at Dartmouth, have to face before a board of admirals, and its solemnity is exceeded by the wit of the Belgrade journalists.

M. Nadj was requested to describe in Serbian a bathe in the lake at Subotica, to say how many kilometres there were between Subotica and Belgrade, and what was the height of a brick. Other questions concerned the number of his family and his wife's Christian name. His answers were considered satisfactory. A writing test then followed. The President of the Committee proposed to set the candidate off with Latin characters, but M. Radytch, the Peasant leader, seeing a chance of "ploughing" a political opponent, insisted that, as he belonged to a Serbian party, he must know the Kyrillic script. M. Nadj was able to write an sentence of several lines with only one slight grammatical error. One of the Committee, a Serb, even admitted that he could not write better himself. The examiners, finally gave him a "satisfech," with a note that a further study of Serbian was desirable and then followed.

CONCISE LIVE WITHOUT HER PET DOG

In a recent issue of a Montreal paper an article appeared telling of a woman, who, upon losing her pet Pekingese, ended her life by smothering herself between pillows. In a note left for her husband she stated that life held nothing for her now. The woman in question is dead and it is not given to mortals to pass judgement so we shall not speak of her but we can speak of the class of which she is representative. Love of animals is a fine quality but like everything else can be carried to extremes. When one thinks of the thousands of little ones whose miserable little lives could not be brightened and made happy by a touch of human kindness, human love, just a portion of the care and affection which some women bestow on a dumb creature, there certainly seems to be something wrong somewhere. It is such women whose little baby Lambkins is a family kitten or a nasty tempered little pom, who bring ridicule on their sex, and are responsible for many of the uncomplimentary remarks that are cast on our ability as voters and office holders.

DISTINGUISHED VISITOR FEELS AT HOME IN CANADA

A recent issue of a contemporary publishes an interview with Lady Chamberlain, who is at present on a tour of this country, Lady Chamberlain has just completed an extensive visit to the great republic to the south and summing up her impressions, she says she is struck by its "magnificence." Money and all that money can buy is the keynote of life in the United States today. Lavishness is rapidly approaching that of the days of Roman Empire, exists among the wealthier Americans but this does not answer to press the outsider. Lady Chamberlain says that when she reached Canada she immediately felt "at home." Perhaps it is the prejudice of British heritage, but there seems to be something fine and real about an English man or woman. With them it is not the exterior that counts, but the real value underneath. According to the interviewer, Lady Chamberlain is a tall fair Englishwoman with that grace and dignity which makes itself felt in the simple manner of dress which she assumes.

INDIAN PRINCESS CALLED "VICTORIA"

London, Eng. (By C. P.) — The Begum of Bhopal, now on a visit to England with her son the Nawab, has been called the Queen Victoria of India. She is 70 years old and had been the ruler of Bhopal for 25 years when she abdicated in 1926 in favor of her son.

The Begum is a frequent visitor to this country and takes great interest in Western civilization, though she always remains closely veiled when she appears in public. When she secured recognition for her son from the British Government and the Government of India and yielded up the throne to him, she gave the whole of her property, or $50,000,000, for the propagation of Islem throughout India and decided to devote the remainder of her life to that cause. Her enlight ned rule of Bhopal made it one of the most progressive provinces in India.

Some Helpful Hints For Busy Housewives

Keep a small bottle of kerosene oil in the bathroom closet, where it is handy for polishing the porcelain bathtub and wash bowl.

If the candle is too large for the holder just hold the end in hot water and you will be able to push it easily into the candlestick. This gives a smoother finish than shaving it with a knife.

Lamb croquettes are nice served on a bed of rice that has been well cooked in stock and it will improve the flavor to brush the rice and the croquettes with a little very stiff aspic jelly that has been heated.

When you make lemon jelly wash the lemons and squeeze out the juice, remove seeds, put skins in cold water and boil. Use this water to dissolve the gelatine which has been soaked in cold water and fewer lemons need be used.

We recognize this year as 1928; the Mohammedans call it 1346; the Jews 5688; the Japanese 2587; and the Byzantine calendar says it is 7436.

Simple Way to Be Rid of Gas

PEOPLE who belch after eating may not realize that the cause is excessive gastric acid. Or may not have been told how easily this may be remedied. Quick and complete relief can be obtained by taking a little "Pape's Diapepsin" after eating or when pain is felt. Remember this for your comfort, and test that constant gas on the stomach does not drift into gastritis!

"Pape's Diapepsin" instantly neutralizes the excess stomach acid and soothes, heals and strengthens the inflamed stomach lining, thus promoting normal, painless digestion and helping to prevent future trouble.

For many years millions have used and recommended "Pape's Diapepsin" for the speedy and sure relief of indigestion and allied stomach troubles. Follow their example! Get a 50-cent package of "Pape's Diapepsin" from any druggist; no matter how severe your stomach troubles you will get relief.

WHAT'S NEW

(From A Woman's Standpoint)

Flat furs on silk or woollen frocks unite in the creation of very modern fashions for street wear.

For the third time, since 1924, York has to have a woman Lord Mayor when Alderman Mrs. Crichton, will succeed the present one, Miss Margaret Beelman.

New York notes that green is gradually finding its way into favoritism, and a shade termed hunter's green is a smart color for accessories such as a hat, belt and shoes.

A welcome change from the sweater is the Angora blouse worn with a tailored skirt and this is bound on all edges with crepe de chine and comes in two tone blue, grey or brown.

Suzanne Talbot's latest decree is that triangular handkerchief collars of flat fur are the correct accompaniment to the collarless sports coat of tweed.

New ring watches set in diamonds and platinum are having a new lease of life and watches are set too under the flap fastener of the new bags in Paris, and sometimes the little watch appears as the center with a fairly rather massive brooches used generally to catch up draperies or as shoulder ornaments, while they are also to be seen in the buckles of the belts which are so fashionable just now.

WOMAN DRIVER BAN MAY BE LIFTED

London, (By C. P.)— The rigid ban on women taking part in any motor trials or races by the Motor Cycling Club, which had lasted for twenty-one years, will, it is expected, be lifted before the end of the year. It is likely that the run at Easter from London to Land's End will be the first competition of the Club in which women will have equal rights with men and be allowed to drive a car or motorcycle instead of as formerly, taking but a courtesy part in the tedious as passengers.

Women have made, at least, four organized attacks to break down the male exclusiveness of, the club, but all have failed. This year another determined attempt is to be made and a resolution will be proposed at the annual meeting a few weeks' time to give women the full membership rights.

ESKIMO MURDERS WIFE

St. John's Nfld. (November 9.—An Eskimo woman at Hopedale, was killed recently by her husband when he met her after she returned from a trip on a coastal steamer, it was learned here on the arrival from Labrador of the steamer Myle. The information contained in a letter from Rev. Hermott, missionary at Hopedale, gave no details, aside from the fact that the husband used a 22 rifle. The authorities are investigating.

Gay Adventurers By Mildred Barbour

CHAPTER 18
IN HIDING

When Sheila reached her suite, she told her maid that she could see no one and that she would not answer any telephone calls. She felt that she had had enough trouble to one day. That morning she resorted to the trick that every woman uses when she can't bear to face her problems. She rang and had pretended to be ill. Belleforte telephoned and called in person and sent Bowers, the d d Harry Edmonds—for it was he whom she had seen the night before—and he sent a note, too. She couldn't bring herself to read it. That seemed too much of an intrusion upon Constance's personal affairs, besides, I might raise new problems. She already had plenty.

The Count was on the wire hourly. Was there anything that he could send her? Would she care to go for a drive in the Bois like old times? He knew an excellent physician. Would she care to have him summoned?

Then Harry would call up with the same crazy suggestions. Sheila alternately laughed and cried, for all the crazy situations! She punched her pillow angrily. "Men are the most unnatural creatures in the world," she told herself. "And the most stupid. Apparently it hasn't occurred to either of these that I'm trying to dodge them. I'd love to be able to tell them the truth."

Then the Count called again. She really must have a doctor. What were her symptoms Sheila's patience snapped. She grinned impishly. "Tell him I have the mumps," she said to her maid. "Tell him my face is swollen beyond recognition—can't see any one for a week."

His lamentations were so hearty that Sheila could hear them three feet from the telephone. She felt a little better then.

The telephone bell rang again. Harry was calling. "Tell him I have measles, black ones, or maybe they're red." Sheila ordered. The maid obeyed orders. Sheila chuckled. "Tell him no visitors for ages," she said. "Must have the room darkened—complete quiet."

She sank down on her pillow, feeling that any more trials would overwhelm her. Constance Kerr was the ultimate. Constance Kerr is the contrary notwithstanding. Here she was, in Paris with plenty of money, and she could get her to be sked, hiding from two men who meant nothing at all to her. The hours that she had hoped to fill with sight-seeing were rush ng by and she had seen very little that interested her.

Afternoon came and still no word from Constance. Sheila was growing desperate. She called for the Paris editions of the American papers. Her eye dropped as she saw the front page of the first one she picked up. There staring at her were these words:

"Miss Constance Kerr who arrived at the Ritz recently was taken suddenly ill last night. Her condition is said to be critical. He name is Sophia Belden, who is now at Baden-Baden. Has been notified. It is expected that she will reach Paris in a few hours."

Sheila gave a scream of exasperation. "Bad business—I'll be getting in a telegraph-blank at once," she told her startled maid. In another moment she had written a message to Miss Belden:

"Don't come. Whole thing a joke. Not ill at all. Letter follows. Constance."

She instructed the maid to take the message to any telegraph office outside the hotel. She was not going to chance having any of the attendants learn its contents.

After that, she read the papers and then began the round of telephoning at Constance's failure to communicate with her. The maid returned and reported that she might care to dine. Sheila studied the menu listless ly. All day she had had seemed so wonderful in anticipation made no appeal to her now.

Memory carried back to the simple suppers she had had at home, alone. Most earnest she wished she were back in those placid surroundings. "Things seem to run to extremes with me," she said. "I'm either perishing with boredom or frantic with excitement. Another twenty-four hours of this, and I'll be crazy. But then, things can't get much worse."

She had hardly spoken when the telephone bell rang again. A radiogram for Miss Kerr had just been received. A page was on the way to her suite. Sheila's curiosity vanished into thin air. A message from Constance. Hurrah! But why was she sending a radiogram? Tant mieux she was going! Well, never mind. Her silence was broken at last.

With trembling fingers Sheila tore open the envelope and drew out the sheet of paper. What she read brought her as near to a faint as she had come in all her healthy life. The message read:

"Sophia says you are seriously ill in Paris. Come by with all possible speed. Mother."

A MESSAGE TO THE WOMEN OF CANADA

THE Canadian Goodrich Company offers to you, through the leading footwear dealers of Canada, a 1929 line of Winter Footwear which will win your instantaneous approval.

We fully appreciate that you now require of Winter Footwear something more than protection — that Overshoes and Rubbers have become an item of Dress—that you want style, fit, beautiful harmonious colors, and our best efforts have been in the direction of satisfactorily fulfilling these wants.

Our Artists and Designers are in constant touch with the advanced trends of Leather Footwear—with the color tendency of hosiery—with the style and colors which will be popular in this year's dresses, and Goodrich Footwear is made to fit the new shoes and to harmonize with the new colors and dress styles.

TO BE SURE OF THE VOGUE DEMAND GOODRICH

Therefore, Goodrich Footwear becomes an item of dress and to be in vogue must also be an ordinary black Rubber or a colorful Overshoe.

We particularly recommend for your consideration, this season's range of Zipper Overshoes—you will be delighted with the appearance, and you can secure a color to blend properly with the rest of your attire.

Zippers are the highest quality Overshoes in the world yet their advantages are available to everybody through the introduction of popular-priced lines.

You may be comfortable in the assurance that your Goodrich Footwear is in vogue if you wear Zippers or Goodrich Rubbers.

Protection and Style for Dainty Feet

Advice to Girls By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a girl of sixteen years and have been going with a very nice boy for about three years. I love him very much and he says that he loves me also.

What I want to know is this. Is there any harm in kissing him if he should ask me? I would like your advice very much

BLUE-EYED BILLY

BLUE EYED-BILLY: I think it would be much better if you saved your lips for the ONE man when he comes along, my dear. There is no actual harm in a kiss, but it is always better to keep a check on your emotion.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a young man in my late teens and am very much disgusted with home conditions. My folks are not the type of people who keep up appearances. They never have a good word to say to me, although I have never done anything to warrant their action.

Kindly advise me as to what course I should take, as I have almost made up my mind to leave.

Thanking you in advance,

BEAU BRUMMEL

BEAU BRUMMEL: It wouldn't do for the whole world to go modern as the saying is, but instant, fame and perhaps your people dont agree with the extremes of things, as so many young people do nowadays. If you must be terribly modern, be it on the outside, but in your home try to conform to the standard of your father and mother. Some of these standards will carry you far and you will do well to adopt some of them. There comes a time in the life of every one of us when we feel exactly as you do, but there's only one thing to do and that is—get over it. You'll laugh at yourself someday for feeling as you do. Your parents are not a good home and care for you as no stranger ever would or could. So try and be a little more contented and don't argue. Perhaps that's where your trouble lies.

SHE DIDN'T WANT TO RIDE PATROL WAGON

Vancouver, B.C., (By C.P.)—"Sure ly you are not going to take me in the patrol wagon? Why—I have never been in a patrol wagon in all my life," was the indignant protest of a lusty 5-year-old girl found one night recently by the downtown section of the city by Sergeant W. Thompson.

The girl was assured by the officer that no indignity was meant and that many others in similar plight had honored the wagon by riding in it, so she finally consented to go to police headquarters where she was later claimed by her mother.

11,000,000 Visit Ontario

Toronto, November 9—More than 11,000,000 tourists visited Ontario during 1928 and spent about $100,000,000 according to figures obtained at the provincial Parliament building today. This is an increase of over 20 per cent over the record made last year.

Syracuse, N.Y., is placed 16th on list of large universities.

Fisherman Wrecked

Peter was a dory sea fisherman from one of the Maritime Provinces who came to Ontario, married and made his home here. Peter, in the commercial fishing, but he says the fishing was better in the Maritimes than among the rocks and hills of the old fishing grounds. Of course, he was working harder because there were now two people dependent on him, but he was happier. Peter was a good man with a net and boat because he is a ninety-willed Canadian as he would give to his wife, fought on, at home, for over a year. Then he got sick and had to give up and said he would have to take hospital treatment—his only chance. So here Peter is in the Muskoka Hospital for Consumptives, where thousands of the best men and women are trying to hold their hold to the ways of health and cleanliness and to the fate that has overtaken the victims of the consumptive germ. Would you like to help in this great work? A subscription to the Muskoka Free Hospital for Consumptives, Gravenhurst, Ont., Chairman, Charles Carlton, of A. E. TO-DAY'S THOUGHT

"There are two freedoms — the false where a man is free to do what he likes; the true, where a man is free to do what he ought."

CHARLES KINGSLEY.

NEW SCHEME FOR MAKING A LIVING

The Chatham News has found an easy way to make some money. Some person residing in Kent County cites personal items from the paper, sends it forward a card to the person whose name has been mentioned, saying that for the payment of 25 cents there will be forwarded an article from a Canadian newspaper referring to the individual. Quite a number fall for the bait, they are curious to see the article in question, and send along the money. Then they receive the item taken from the News.

The Chatham editor stuck on his bait and ran over to the lawyer's office to see what could be done about it, and the answer was that the scheme was quite within the law. The clipper said he had an item to sell and when he received his pay he carried out his contract.

Yesterday as the editor shoved a couple of personal items in the box going to the composing room he shouted to those below, "Here comes another half-dollar!"

NEGLECT OF WEEDS A COSTLY MISTAKE

A subscriber living in the neighboring county complains that the Weed Control act is "absolutely ignored" in his locality. He declares he has drawn the attention of responsible officials to the neglect, but can get no action. He has also appealed to the Ontario department of agriculture, and been promised that the matter shall be investigated to. In the meantime the weeds have gone to seed and nothing has been done.

"Weeds are a greater peril than forest fires, and a greater loss," writes our correspondent, with the request that we do our best to arouse public interest to the seriousness of the menace. It is proverbially hard to get a reform started, and the usual difficulties and being experienced in the enforcement of the Weed Control act.

The government, however, is satisfied that, since the act was passed there has been a substantial improvement in conditions. Here and there, no doubt, there are instances of neglect and apathy in the part of the councils of those responsible for the carrying out of the provisions. If there are cases of deliberate refusal to cooperate with the government in its effort to reduce the weed menace, an example should be made of the delinquents.

The consequences of such neglect are far-reaching. Our correspondent declares that a seed mill in this neighborhood "has a big patch of weeds upside." It is easy to imagine what widespread damage such conditions would cause.

READERS AVOID THE SORDID CRIME NEWS

There are definite signs of improvement in the matter of reporting crime and the grossome in the newspapers. Yellow journalism, it is being discovered, does not pay, after all. The vast majority of readers are self-respecting citizens, who want the news of the day, but object to the sordid being played up by sensation-mongers.

There was a time when an event like the hanging of William E. Hickman would have furnished columns and possibly pages of lurid description for the demoralization of readers, but the greater number of newspapers confined their accounts to a bare record of the execution, unconsciously placed among the news items. The Editor and Publisher, commenting on this restraint on the part of American newspaper publishers, mentions some of the papers in which a bare reference of a dozen lines or so covered the story.

The Syracuse Post-Standard carried only six lines in an inside page, and in managing editor frankly explains why. "We have found our readers want only the shortest possible stories of execution," he told the Editor and Publisher, "and that they are quite satisfied with the bare news that the criminal has paid the penalty for his crime. While there is, undoubtedly a large morbid class which seeks and relishes that type of story, it is steadily diminishing, we think, as in other class grows. The latter class is more substantial and its friendship once obtained by a newspaper. Is more enduring. The everyday life of people is more interesting than any sordid affairy of the abnormal. If newspapers try to get the right focus."

This is a great tribute to subscribers as it is to the management of the paper in question. If crime news has to be published, there will be less crime to report. The testimony of this editor is not an isolated opinion; it represents the conclusions of those in closest touch with the public pulse.

PASSING YEARS
(From The Intelligencer of this day 20 years ago)

Three young boys were up on a charge of trespassing on the property of and stealing a ladder from Rev. G. J. Dingman. The offense was committed on Hallowe'en.

The Misses Channell gave a pleasant At Home to their friends yesterday.

As a result of Saturday night's blow the city clock is two and a half minutes slow.

Mrs. William Spencer returned to Brockville from Belleville. While here she was taken ill with typhoid fever, and though not entirely recovered, is very much improved.

OTHER MEN'S THOUGHTS

Feeling runs pretty high just at present, but the election will be over in a little more than two weeks, and time is a great healer, and three weeks from now our ardent dry voices and our earnest wet voters will be drinking together, as usual. — Ohio State Journal.

Living in the city may have its advantages but just now while the season of hot fowl suppers is on in the rural churches, the argument is all in favor of the country. One doubts it.

THE INARTICULATE

We who have words
Intimate and unsure
Even in this unmitigated thunder
Are scure.
But the inarticulate throats,
The songs lost on the first notes,
The tongues tongue
Gone under earth,
The dearth of voices
Even to blunder
From the inescapable girth
Of pain
Binding the breast
Where no words rest,
These feel the dark rain.
The white lightnings flare
With a dumb stare,
These are the lost.
The utterly damned
To whom no man
May reach a hand.

FEAR OF MENTAL AILMENTS IN THE FAMILY

A member of a family is afflicted with a mental ailment, and when the family begin to investigate matters they find that an uncle, a cousin, a grandparent or other relative or relatives has also suffered with some mental condition.

The question naturally arises as to whether the ailment is hereditary, is being handed down in the family.

Dr. H. C. Solman tells us that "in the ancestry of a group of families with severe mental disease is studied, it will be found that some mental disorder or "peculiarity" will be found in about 60 to 70 per cent. of their relatives of previous generation.

However if one takes a random group of ordinary well persons and searches their ancestry in the same fash ion, we will find evidence of mental disorders of the same variety in the first group in almost the same percentage, although not quite as high."

He says further "When there has been a considerable amount of mental disease in several generations, the probability of the continuance of a mental disorder in future generations is fairly great."

When, however, there is just a few cases occuring, that is skipping a generation here and there, no regularity at all, there is little reason to be fearful of the result of the continuation of such a family group.

Now as heredity is not such a big factor, then environment must be important.

As Dr. Solomon defines en-vironment it means "every influence that bears upon the individual from the time life starts until death, including various disease conditions, poisons with which he comes in contact, living conditions, and mental atresses and experiences.

That the matter of heredity should not distress or discourage you if a mental ailment affects a member of the family, but proper mental and personal hyg ine for the patient and other members of the family should be the first thought.

And if any little peculiarity begins to assert itself, see your family physician and have it investigated.

DOING FINE WORK IN MUSIC WORLD

Several Belleville Artists Are Achieving Fame on Concert Stage

Friends of Miss Vallere Wrightmyer will be glad to hear that she has been chosen as one of the soloists in the Boston Grand Opera Company, and will probably make her debut as "Nancy" in the Opera "Martha" under the eminent pianist and conductor, Leginska, in the near future.

Miss Wrightmyer is a Belleville girl having received her education at the local High School. When quite young she started the study of music with Mrs. E. A. MacColl, who laid the foundation for her splendid musicianship. Five or six years ago she began the serious study of singing with Mr. S. M. Anglin. Under him she took the degree of A.T.C.M. with first class honors, the highest marks in the Dominion and subsequently the gold medal. Two years ago she went to Boston to prepare for Opera with Vincent Hubbard as teacher. Incidentally, three other pupils of this studio were given roles in the Boston Grand Opera Company.

Miss Wrightmyer is also Contralto Soloist in the Broadway Winter Japanese Church, Gerrard St.

Gave Recital Here

Since going to Boston Miss Wrightmyer has sung in one recitals here, a year ago with James M. Booth, a Belleville boy, now in Boston, who is climbing the ladder of fame as a concert soloist, and last September with Evangeline Adams, Belleville's favorite vocalist who is in a fa'r way to become a great pianist.

Word has just been received that Miss Strethel Walton, a Belleville singer, who has recently gone to Montreal to take singing, has been appointed Contralto soloist in the Dominion Douglas Church of that City.

John Edwards, tenor, another son of this city, has been giving a number of concerts throughout Ontario with Leslie Hodgson, pianist, prior to his going to New York to study for Opera.

Belleville should be proud of this galaxy of young music'ans, who are honoring their native place by their splendid work in the larger cities.

ARREST SECOND MAN IN COURT

Two Are Given Three to Nine Months For Garage Robbery

Charged with breaking and entering the garage owned by D. A. Burkitt in Stirling on July 18th, 1928, Wilmer Windsor, Peterboro, appeared before Magistrate Jarman at Stirling today. It is alleged that Windsor entered the garage, stole a quantity of tires, tubes and spark plugs to the value of $35,00. He was arrested by Provincial Constable Thompson of Peterboro.

The accused, whenhe was arraigned, elected to be tried summarily and pleaded guilty to the offence. Sergeant Roy Clarke, of Belleville, took the following statement from Windsor subsequent to his arrest:—

Made a Confession

"I am aged 19, live at 317 MacDonald Ave, Peterboro, I was working in Stirling at the garage owned by Mr. Burkitt last Spring. Later I became acquainted with a man named Hedrards at Marmora and he suggested the break-in to the garage of D. A. Burkitt. So the night of the 18th of July we came to Stirling. Edwards forced open a back door and I followed him into the building. We then stole the articles listed inthe charge and these were taken away in Edward's car and hidden by me under the bed in my room at my home in Peterboro.

"For about two weeks following this we toured the country and went as far west as Sault Ste. Marie, camping along the road. I returned to Peterboro and secured a job with the Peterboro-Toronto Transport Co. and have been working with them since that time and I haven't seen Edwards since that time."

Arrested in Court

Edwards who was in the Court room, was arrested by the Provincial Police and charged with the same offense. Both were sentenced to not less than three months and not more than nine months in the Ontario Reformatory.

FIRST SHIPMENT OF AUSTRALIAN FRUIT

Vancouver, B. C. (By C.P.)—Ten weeks after a shipment of British Columbia box shooks were shipped from New Westminster to Australia, they arrived back in Vancouver filled with Australian Valencia oranges—the first of this variety of Australian citrus fruit to come to British Columbia.

When the mammoth Australian dock ed here last week she carried three carloads of Australian oranges in her cabin as an illustration of the condition Winnipeg, Alberta and Saskatchewan points and British Columbia.

While the shipment is in the nature of an experiment, it should prove popular with Australian growers on account of low prices for the California article, according to the Vancouver wholesalers. The shipment has a further point to be the wealthiest man who ever "made trade" that is the trade between the two Dominions.

The box shooks were shipped on the last outward voyage of the Aorangi, the setting up, filling and shipping being accomplished during the week of the vessel, was in Sydney harbor.

COURT'S ROMP WASTED

Toronto, Ont., November 9—The general sessions of the peace for York County opened with all due ceremony in the court room today with judge Coatsworth in his official robes, supported by other officials of the court, but solemnly adjourned when it was discovered that the man to be sentenced had been freed on suspended sentence and three years' probation last Thursday.

FELL FROM ROOF SIXTY FEET HIGH

While Working on Rack At Corbyville Distillery —May Die

William Van Allen, 63, a farmer, residing at Latta on the Tweed road is lying in the General Hospital in a critical condition as a result of a fall from the rack house at the Corbyville plant of Hiram Walker & Sons Limited. Dr. Van Allen, a carpenter, was in the employ of the Dickie Construction Co., and was engaged with Harvey Harrison in building a track.

In some unknown manner he fell from his position to the ground a distance of some 60 feet and suffered a fractured arm as well as serious internal injuries. He is a married man and has been residing at Latta for three years where he purchased a farm. Mr. Van Allen has four daughters all of whom are married.

He was rushed to the Belleville hospital and Dr. G. S. Cronk was called to attend him. At press time the condition was such that recovery was very doubtful.

VETERANS LEAVE PLAYING RANKS

Pro. Hockey Loses Services Of Several Well-Known Standbys

Montreal, Que. (By C.P.)—The opening of the National hockey League season on November 19 will see the passing of several of the ancient stand-bys in the major professional circuit as well as the passing of several of the not-so-old, but yet experienced major leaguers.

Heading the list of the players who have seen much service in the major league of hockey, who depart from active service, either to take managerial berths or to play for minor league teams, are Sprague Cleghorn and Cy Denneny. Cleghorn has had nearly twenty years of service as a major leaguer, and last season was playing-coach for the Boston Bruins, one of the leading teams of the American Division of the National League. The games in which Cleghorn actually took part as a player last season were no doubt the last major league contests in which he will play, as this season he has taken the post as manager of the Newark team in the American league, a minor circuit. He may come back to the majors, but if that time comes, it will be only as a coach or manager.

Cleghorn often has been dubbed the "iron man of hockey" owing to the fact that he came back to play a star role after having suffered two broken ankles, one in 1918 and the other in 1917. He has played for Ottawa Senators, the old Montreal Wanderers, Toronto Canadiens and Boston.

Cy Denneny, of late years the snipping left winger with Ottawa Senators, retires from active competition this season to take Cleghorn's position at Boston, where he will act as assistant manager, coach, and scout. In the season of 1923-24, Denneny led the National League goal-getters with 22 goals to his credit. In the years just before and just following that season, he was always amongst the scoring leaders, getting second position on two occasions. His sterling play was a big factor in the championship-winning proclivities of the Ottawa machine in the last ten years.

Another of the real old timers to retire this season, is "Happy" Holmes, veteran goal tender who was with De troit Cougars last year. Holmes has accepted the managerial position with the Toronto minor league team. "Happy" was one of the many players who came east when the Western circuit, which operated on the Pacific coast and the Prairies in 1925-26 was disbanded. Holmes was one of members of the Victoria, B.C., team, with which he played, was sold to Detroit Interests. Holmes was one of the triumvirate known as the "Three Musketeers", together with Walter and Forystone. The latter two are still the property of the Detroit club, and plan many games with the Cougars this season, but it has been reported that they both will see action with the Detroit minor league outfit most of this season.

Before these three saw action in the West, they were members of the old Toronto team in the National league. They have almost always been with the Queen town.

Herb Gardiner, veteran defenceman, who until this season stayed with Calgary and then Canadien, will still be in the National League but will not be with Canadiens, and will not take part in any games. He has accepted the position as manager of the Chicago Black Hawks, the team that acted as doormat for the rest of the league last season.

NEW MANAGERS FOR AMERICANS, HAWKS

Montreal, Que., Nov. (By C. P.)—With two exceptions, the list of team managers in the National Hockey League will be the same as last season.

The New York Americans this season will be guided by Tommy Forman who is well known to hockey fans thru his connection as business manager with the New York team since its inception, and through his position as team manager with the Ottawa Senators prior to that time. Shorty Green, a former player, managed the team last year. At Chicago, Herb Gardiner defence man with Canadiens last season, will guide the destinies of the Black Hawks, who were managed last year by Barney Stanley and later Hughie Lehman.

Following is a complete list of the team managers for the 1928-29 season:—

Canadian section: Canadiens, Cecil Hart; Montreal Maroons, Eddie Gerard; Ottawa Senators, Dave Gill; Toronto Maple Leafs, Connie Smythe; New York Americans, Tommy Gorman.

American section: Boston Bruins, Art Ross; New York Rangers, Lester Patrick; Detroit Cougars, Jack Adams; Pittsburg Pirates, Odie Cleghorn; Chicago Black Hawks, Herb Gardiner.

"YOUR EYES" and Our Service

J. WRIGHT LOST TO ARGONAUTS

Double Blue Snap Out For Season With Bad Ankle

Toronto, Nov. 9.—Joe Wright, jr., the Diamond scuils winner who twirls the pigskin out of the center of the wingline for Argonaut Big Four team, will be on the hospital list for the balance of the season. He injured his ankle in the Ottawa game and will not be available when Montreal invades Toronto on Saturday of for the engagement with the Mic Mac in Windsor on Thanksgiving day. Coach Dr. Frank Knight has not decided on the replacement, but will likely drop the aggressive "Ginger" Hendry into the gap.

The Scullers resumed their daily drills yesterday and wiuf the exception of Frank Durville, who is still nursing a "charley horse" and the full squad was on hand.

Captain Tommy Barrett reports that his injured shoulder is improving rapidly and he expected to get back into action Saturday. He suffered a dislocated collarbone when one of the Tiger tacks plowed into him in Hamilton two weeks ago.

F. W. GRAY PROMOTED

Sydney, N.S., Nov. 8.—F. W. Gray has been appointed assistant general manager of coal and steel operations of the British Empire Steel Corporation, according to an official circular issued by General Manager S. J. Kelley here yesterday morning.

WINDSOR TALKS OF HORSE RACES

Hot Campaign Promised At Municipal Elections Over Race Track

Windsor, Nov. 6—That use of the Windsor Jockey Club property which was acquired a year ago for park and school site purposes, for two race meetings next summer, with William R. Woollatt in charge, will be an issue at the municipal election in December, was indicated tonight, after the park board voted to allow racing.

Ald. Geo. W. Curry, who is a candidate for the mayoralty, and John C. Muxlow, chairman of the park board, clashed in a private verbal battle, which terminated in a near fist fight. Curry accused Muxlow of having "lied about the intention of the park board," Muxlow retaliated with a threat to knock Curry down.

"You are a dirty skunk, and only the fact that you are a cripple saves you," replied Muxlow.

"Don't let that stop you," Curry taunted. "I am willing to let the issue of disposition of the Jockey Club park be decided by the people. Throw your hat into the mayoralty race That's the real way to decide this fight."

The chairman Curry is in favor of selling off the Tecumseh road and Ouellette avenue frontage of the new park. This proposal would cut the lawn of Colonel E. S. Wigle, a member of the park board.

"I'll go on the stump against you, Curry," challenged the colonel, "unless you change your mind about selling part of this splendid property."

"I'll never change my mind, and I invite you, colonel, to place your side of the question before the people," retorted Curry.

Before Woollatt can plan for the race meetings, the agreement he has made with the park board must be ratified by the board of education, which is building a $1,500,000 collegiate on part of the property.

NEW RULES FOR 'PRO' HOCKEY

Montreal, Que., Nov. (By C.P.—In an effort to prevent stalling for time by a team which holds a lead, or by a team which is shorthanded, the National Hockey League has this year introduced a new rule rendered advisable as far as possible this "evil," as it is called by many followers of the game.

The so-called anti-stalling rule enacts that the defending club in a following: "The puck must at all times be kept in motion. A side in possession of the puck must not carry the puck in the area between the end of the rink and the line marked across the ice 60 feet from the line of the defended goal) shall always advance the puck into the opposing goal, except if it shall be prevented from doing so by players of the opposing side. A player guilty of a violation of this rule shall not pass the puck into his defense area for the purpose of delaying the game.

The penalty for infraction of this rule shall be a minor penalty to the last player to touch the puck. The puck shall then be faced in the spot at which the penalized player was given the penalty."

Another new rule will also be on parade before the fans when the season opens on Nov. 15. This deals with overtime play. Heretofore, if the score was tied at the end of the regular time, the teams took a breather and resumed play until one team had scored. If no such score resulted at the end of five minutes the teams changed ends and immediately went at it again. At the end of another five minutes, if no goal was scored, it was called a draw.

The new rule is: "If at the end of the three 20-minute periods the score shall be tied, ends shall be changed, the puck shall be faced at centre ice and play shall be continued for an extra period of ten minutes. If the score is tied at the end of such extra period the game shall be called a draw."

SNOW IN LAKE ST. JOHN AREA

Chicoutimi, November 6.—The Lake St. John district was covered in a mantle of white last night as the result of a five inch fall of snow in the last twenty-four hours. The snowfall was accompanied by a downward movement in the temperature.

CRASH KILLS THREE

Belgrade, November 6—As a military aeroplane was flying over the town of Nevland today, the wings collapsed and the plane crashed in the centre of the town. It struck a building, killing a woman and burned itself in the roadway. Both pilot and observer aboard were killed.

Better Days — Better Ways

MAN'S ingenuity has turned the dreams of yesterday into realities of to-day.

A marked contribution to modern progress has been made by Life Insurance. Among the advantages it affords is that it enables a person to "create an estate immediately and pay for it later."

For example: If you desire a $25,000 estate you can guarantee it by depositing 2% per year. (Age 33, London Life Jubilee Annual Dividend Policy). Even if you lived to make only one deposit the London Life would deliver to your heirs the entire $25,000.

Thus Life insurance makes it possible for you to set up an estate sufficient to provide a life income for your wife—a fund for your later years—a monthly cheque if you are disabled—or money for whatever other needs you may have.

The benefits of life insurance can be secured only while you are in good health. For this reason the agent is your friend when he advises you to take Life Insurance NOW.

PRINTING EARLY ART IN QUEBEC

Introduced Into French Canada Sooner Than Realized

Quebec, Que. (By C. P.)— Recent researches among the documents preserved at the Municipal Library of Montreal revealed that printing was introduced into French Canada several years earlier than was previously believed to have been the case.

Douglas C. McMurtrie, an authority on typography found that the first document printed in what is now the province of Quebec was struck off on a small hand press owned by the bishop of the diocese, in April 1759, when the English were besieging the city prior to the battle of the Plains of Abraham. Another document left the same press at Montreal in October of that historic year. It was previously understood the art of printing was inaugurated by Quebec in 1764 by William Brown and that the first was the product of the press in 1775.

Two specimens from the early episcopal press are included in the valuable collection of Canadian imprints acquired from Philesa Gagnon by the Municipal Library. They are in the form of "mandements," or communications to the people, issued by Richarville Dubreil de Pontbriand, Bishop of Quebec. In the first the citizens of the beleaguered town are enjoined to observe special devotions and pray to God for aid against the British. In the second commemoration services for the fallen French leader, Montcalm, are announced.

Among the copious notes attached to the Gagnon collection was found an important reference to the first printing press in the colony. It states on the authority of another student of Canadiana, The Cure, L. E. Bois, of Maskinonge, that Bishop Pontebriand brought with him to Canada a small hand press presented to him by the King of France.

Strong circumstancial evidence indicatis that the two episcopal communications were given to the public from this press. The first is undated but contains references to the season of the year and to the events immediately preceding the downfall of French rule in Canada. It is known that Bishop Pontrriand made his headquarters at Quebec, in April 1759, returning to Montreal in September. Apparently he took his press and a small stock of type with him, for the second mandement is dated Montreal, October, 1759.

During the first hundred years of the colony's existence all public notices, civil as well as ecclesiastical were inscribed by hand. It is now apparent that the forebrought of a French King and the initiative of a French bishop brought about the inevitable change so long credited to William Brown.

Mrs. H. Filkins, 712, of Herkimer, N.Y., will vote for first time in presidential election.

MORE SCATHING CRITICISM OF CANADA OLYMPIC COMMITTEE

Change In Personnel of Canadian Body Urged By Some Athletes

GREAT CONTROVERSY

Say Swimmers Were Discriminated Against To Their Detriment

Montreal, Nov. 7.—A scathing criticism of the manner in which the Canadian Olympic committee is said to have conducted affairs during the last Olympic games in Amsterdam is embodied in an exhaustive report made by President H. J. Churchill of the Canadian Amateur Swimm ng association, covering the doings of the Canadian team, and sent to the clubs affiliated with the association in Canada.

Accompanying the report is a letter from the secretary, A. E. Sonard, in which it is pointed out that all the five swimmers and divers recommended by the association to represent Canada were point-winners and of the five one was sent by the Olympic committee, the others making the trip thru the generosity of friends and relatives. He also points out that two other swimmers were sent to Amsterdam without assistance from the Olympic committee and made a relatively better showing than a host of athletes in other branches of sports whose trip was financed by the Olympic committee. Mr. S'nard concludes with the statement that the president and John Tierney, president of the Montreal section, went to Amsterdam at their own expense, and that Mr. Herschorn declared to each that his observations as supplementing his report, in which observations Mr. Kerry concurs.

The report of Mr. Herschorn reviews the successes of the Canadian swimmers, pointing out that the success of the Canadians in recommending to the Olympic committee the four men who constituted the relay team. Miss Jean Spence, Bourne, Ault and Thompson adding that this honor would have not come to Canada had only one swimmer been sent over as was decided by the Canadian Olympic committee. It is in his observations following the report and the final questions that Mr. Herschorn makes his criticism, from which the following are extracts:

"After carefully observing the men who make up the Olympic committee, the methods adopted by them in chose ing the Canadian team, their conduct towards the athletes under them and towards representatives of other countries, their demeanor during the voyage, in Amsterdam and their administration of public funds entrusted to them, I am convinced that the re ject of all those interested in the future welfare of sport in Canada should be the resignation of one or more of them by impartial representative Canadians who would reflect credit on the country in their conduct of games.

"The Canadian athletes at the Olympic games constituted an exceptionally fine body and on, with whom it was a pleasure to be associated. It is true, however, that as mentioned in the recommended, they did not all prove point winners for Canada, but one and all showed their best and their conduct on the field at Amsterdam, as well as about the city and on their way to and from Amsterdam was of the highest order. The fine impression created by the athletes, however, was marred by the attitude of one official or a number of whom were entirely unlisted to hold the positions allotted to them.

"The different sections and affiliated clubs throughout the Dominion should now start work at once to see that once the facts about the Olymp committee are known, public opinion will force a change. A change will certainly be necessary if Canada is to be properly represented at the next Olympic games, as at present, no public body or institution will vote funds as long as the present methods are followed.

"If our criticism of the Olympic committee was based only on the unsportsmanlike attitude adopted towards the Canadian Amateur Swimming Association and Canadian swimmers in general, we believe it would be sufficient to turn lovers of sport throughout Canada age nst them. We believe that all genuine lovers of other sports would sanction and intersite a deliberate refusal to send such point-winners to the Olympic games because Olympic officials had a personal grudge against officials of the swimming association, even though the refusal to finance the swimmers might result in the funds being diverted to send more representatives from other sports, whose prospects of success were far less remote.

"Through the loyalty of followers of swimming and the generosity of friends and wives of the swimmers, we were able to appear in Amsterdam with the largest delegation of swimmers that ever went from Canada to the Olympic games, and these swimmers were looked after by a host competent swimming coaches and trainers in the person of "Jim" Rose.

"The grievance of one body of athletes, however, is not the only ground of criticism. After dealing with the treatment of the swimmers, I will go on to other matters. To complete the question of discrimination by Olympic officials against swimmers, please note the following:

"Next to track and field, swimming and diving constituted the most important sport at the Olympic games, from the point of view of the number of countries represented, number of athletes entered, number of events contested, length of time allotted, number of spectators in attendance, and amount of gate receipts. From the point of view of performance, swimming excelled all other sports, the majority of Olympic records being broken The proportion of track and field men to swimmers, counting all counts as, was less than two to one.

"Why not start today? Why not fill out those deep holes in neck, cheeks and chest? Why go on through life with sunken cheeks and narrow chest when you can take advantage of this straight forward offer?

Try them for 30 days if you want to gain five pounds or more. Just bear in mind, if they don't help you in that time your money will be refunded. 60 tablets 75c. Dominion Drug Store $1.00 At Doyle's Drug Store.

Radio Air Gleanings By Static Bug

In the present era the public has been enlightened technically, to such an extent that it is hardly necessary, even for beginners, to state the purpose of a "S" socket-power unit in an article describing its construction. For almost two years "S" batteries have been replaced by socket-power units in a large majority of the radio-equipped homes where 60-cycle A.C. power supply is available, and no longer is there much mystery for the lay mind in such devices. Although much skepticism was manifested, when home-current-operated radio sets were first introduced, these accessories are now considered essential in every modern radio installation.

Television is striding forward, and is today overcoming many obstacles that were once held insurmountable. "Sight" broadcasting is now part of the regular daily programs of a number of stations in the East and the Middle West, and many experimenters are experiencing new thrills in reproducing small, but nevertheless distinguishable, images.

One of the best lineups for a 250-type power amplifier is that of a three stage system, using two stages of standard transformer-coupled audio-frequency amplification with 201A tubes and 2:1-ratio transformers and a power stage with the 250 tube. This last stage should be coupled to the second audio-frequency stage by means of a 1:1-ratio audio transformer.

It must be taken into consideration that, unless the proper associated equipment used for the amplifier and for the reproducer is employed, the results may not be as good as they might be.

LETTERS TO EDITOR

Dear Sid:—

Would you please answer in your columns the following question, which will settle an argument. "What is the title of William Lyon Mackenzie King and was he ever knighted?"

Thanking you in anticipation.

Pellenby waiting

William Lyon Mackenzie King is known as "Right Honorable," a title he holds by virtue of his position as Premier of Canada. No, he has never been knighted.—Editor.

Canada's Olympic committee financed its track and field, five of whom placed in the first half dozen in individual events, the rest taking no points while our relay team got a third. The Swimming Association recommended five swimmers, one of whom was financed by the committee and all of whom were point-winners. The Olympic committee financed four ski kers and five of six critics none of whom placed. They financed nine or ten boxers, one of whom reached the semi-finals. Three of the wrestlers sent over placed, taking a second and two thirds a remarkably good showing.

CANADA PAYS TRIBUTE TO HER DEAD

Bridge Street Church Retains Pastor-Dr. Malott Stays in Belleville

DR. MALOTT TO STAY AS PASTOR BRIDGE CHURCH

Board Unanimous in Urging Minister To Carry On Work Here

TURNED DOWN CALL

Will Send His Regrets To The Young Church In Winnipeg

Dr. F. E. Malott is to remain as pastor of Bridge St. Church. This was decided at last night's adjourned meeting of the church Board when in response to the urgently expressed wishes of the entire membership Dr. Malott announced that he would refuse the call to Young Church in Winnipeg and continue his work in Belleville.

Every member of the board who could possibly be present was in the church parlors last night to hear their pastor's decision. Dr. Malott opened the devotional service, then asked to be excused and Dr. Charles Bishop, Principal of Albert College, took the chair. While the discussion was private it was known that there was only one opinion expressed that if possible Dr. Malott be prevailed on to stay and the following resolution was grafted and unanimously passed:

The members of the Official Board of Bridge St. United church are in no place on record their very great appreciation of the splendid service that has been rendered by Rev. F. E. Malott, D.D., during the seven years of his pastorate, which has been most effective and satisfactory in every department of the work of the church, and has manifested a efficiency with each passing year, with the result that never in its history has the church been in a more flourishing and spiritually vigorous condition than at the present time, especially conspicuous in its effectiveness and lasting impression has been in a work with the boys and girls and young people of the congregation.

LEAVE NANCY ALONE

Lady Nancy Astor

British members of the House of Commons, experts in the art of heckling, are sure to give a licking in the art of sarcasm they encounter. They have decided to "lay off" their fellow-member, Lady Nancy Astor (ABOVE). In the lobby of parliament, House of Commons members undertook to jibe Lady Astor about her enthusiasm over Herbert Hoover's election and the enforcement of prohibition, but she set them at rout. Members believe in prohibition, why don't they bring their physicians therefore with them when they come to Britain?" "Why don't Englishmen take their meals with them when they go to Paris" Lady Astor flashed back at them.

ANGLICANS MET AT ST. THOMAS

Finance Committees Representing All Churches In District Talked Business

Never before has St. Thomas Parish Hall held so enthusiastic, interesting or well attended meeting as the convention of the Finance Committees of the various churches in the district including Picton, Carrying Place, Belleville, Trenton, and many other smaller churches scattered throughout the countryside. About one hundred and fifty representatives were on hand for the meeting which lasted until after eleven o'clock in the evening.

His Lordship Bishop Seager presided over the convention and in opening outlined the work of entire diocese and spoke of the appeal that will be launched in every member of the Anglican church in his diocese in the near future for more funds. Information regarding the financial affairs of each parish will be carried to the parishioners and an explanation of the need of more money, to carry on the work in the mission field, in the parish, etc.

Appoint Committee

A committee composed of three members of each parish to form an executive committee to the entire district was appointed last night. These three men will form the nucleus of a larger committee to be formed in each parish. Mr. John Elliott, prominent in church work in Belleville was one of the speakers and stated to the press this morning that he had never seen a better meeting than that of last night. "I don't think", he said, "there was ever held in the church a more enthusiastic meeting of this nature and considerable territory was covered in such a short time".

BURIED IN MOLTEN LAVA

Rome, Nov. 10—Despatchs from Bisley says an old man and his wife who refused to leave their home were buried to death in lava pouring down the slopes of Mount Etna.

Eighty-Five Pound Sturgeon Sets New Record For Fireside Anglers

Although rather late in the year for "fish stories", here is one for some of the doughty fishermen of this district to shoot at. Yesterday morning Slap and Archie Coyer, two of Belleville's well known fishermen, were out on the Bay of Quinte taking up their gill nets, when they found a sturgeon caught up in one end of the net.

The huge fish, which tipped, the scales at eighty-five pounds when weighed later, had got into the net, in which was a four inch mesh, and in held captive.

trying to free itself, had become so entangled in the meshes that it was held captive. When dressed, there was a little over fifty-five pounds of wonderful fresh meat, which at the price dressed fish is selling at today, makes their mornings work fairly profitable.

A gill net is anywhere from two and a half feet to four feet wide, and may be any reasonable length. Usually the meshes are about four inch es square, so that small fish can swim in and out, while the large ones are

DOORS ARE WIDE OPEN FOR ALL BRITISH PEOPLE

Fare Reduced From $91.15 to $71.50 For Third-Class Passage

WANT $50 RATE

Manchester Guardian Announces That This Is Found Impossible

Manchester, England, Nov. 10.—Manchester "Guardian" says today the third class fare for immigrants to Canada is reduced from $91.15 to $71.50. W. J. Egan, Deputy Minister of Immigration, now in Britain wanted to make it $50 but this the "Guardian" says would be found impossible.

Wants Rate Reduced

Ottawa, Nov. 10.—A fall £10 rate or $50 all emigrants to Canada is under negotiation in London between W. J. Egan, Deputy Minister of Immigration for Canada, and the British Government. The rate would be applicable to all British emigrants, whether work ers in town or not, providing they can pass the requisite medical inspection.

Steps to obtain the flat £10 rate have been undertaken in accordance with the recommendation of the House committee which last session investigated immigration. The committee recommended that "means be found to effect an early date to arrange a conference between the Federal and British Governments and the Atlantic steamship companies, with the object of obtaining a reduction in ocean rates to British immigrants to approximately £10."

Hon. Robert Fske's Comment

"The doors are wide open to British immigration, and have been for several years," Hon. Robert Forke, Minister of Immigration, said, when asked for comment on the speech today in the British Parliament of Sir Arthur Steel-Maitland, Minister of Labor. The British Minister stated that immediately there is to take place between the two Governments to open the doors wider to migrants without agricultural training.

FORGIVING HEART ASKS FOR MERCY

Gibson Pleaded That Man Who Assaulted Him Be Let Off

James Gibson knows that "the qual ity of mercy is not strained", for it was directly due to his pleading leniency that Clinton Wheeler, who had charged with assault, was discharged. Gibson had laid a charge of assault against Wheeler, and when he appeared in Court this morning he still showed the evidence all too plain ly, for he had a black eye and a swollen head.

He had changed his mind, however, about prosecuting the case, and asked Magistrate Millet if the case could not be dropped. After pleading the accused man a little caustic advice, Magistrate Millet did dismiss the case, but made Wheeler pay the costs of the court.

MONTREAL BREWERY FIRE

Montreal, Nov. 10—Fire early today destroyed part of the National Breweries, Limited, plant with a loss of $200,000. Seventy five horses were rescued from the stables which were burning and a large number of motor trucks were burned.

DIED THURSDAY

Hon. John Flint Cahan

Minister without Portfolio, and assistant minister of highways in the Nova Scotia government, who died on Thursday at Halifax where he had been a patient for several weeks, following a recurrence of a serious disability resulting from wounds suffered in the Battle of Courcelette in 1916, while he was serving with the Canadian Engineers in France. He was 39 years old.

PRIZES GALORE AT TORIES DANCE

Young Conservatives Excelled Themselves At Last Night's Party

Fulfilling all its advance notices and more, the dance given by the Young Men's Conservative Club last evening in the Jockstone Academy was a real party. A big crowd, a snappy seven-piece orchestra and plenty of novelty dances with good prizes were to make a pleasant evening. This is just one of a series of dances which the Young Conservatives are planning for the season and they say they are going to make each one better than its predecessor.

To begin with the door prize, a five-dollar gold piece, was won by Mr. Mahlon Moore. The ballon dance went to Mr. Amon, the prize for which was a pair of silk stockings donated by Mr. George Reid. W. B. Tummon, M.P.P. presented the prizes for the spot dance a compact for the lady and a shaving set for her partner and these went to Miss J. Haines and Mr. F. Symons.

In the social circle it was announced that whoever were dance ng with the mysterious Mr. and Mrs. Conundrum at the end of the dance would be given the prize but the identity of the strangers kept a secret. Mr. and Mrs. Harold Bateman were announced at the conclusion as Mr. and Mrs. Conundrum and their partners were Miss Vantassel and Mr. W. Hurst. The prizes for this dance were chocolates and a cigarette lighter donated by Mr. W. H. Ireland, M.P.P. A coincidence was that Miss Vantassel was the winner of the prize for the same event at last year's party.

Mr. Charles Payne, president of the local Conservative Club donated the prizes for the birthday dance. Miss Muriel Rose and Miss Dellbaw were the winners and received gloves and cigarettes.

EMPEROR PLACED ON HIS THRONE

Gorgeous Ceremonies Mark The Cornation of Japanese Monarch

Kyoto, Japan. Nov. 10.—New sover eign today formally took his seat on the age old throne of Japan. Hirohito, 124th emperor of the unbroken line of heirs of the Sun Goddess, who have ruled Japan since before the dawn of history was crowned. Representatives of twenty-six foreign nations were present but only one envoy represented an empire, the envoy of the King of England who is also emperor of India.

The ceremony, for which prepara tions have been made for months was the most gorgeous as well as the most ancient of modern rituals. The central point is the worship of the Sun Goddess who rules the high plain of heaven before the earth took shape and from whom the long line of Japanese Emperors have sprung.

HONOR MEMORY AT THIS TIME OF DEAD COMRADES

Churches to Feature Armistice Day at all Services To-Morrow

TWO MINUTE SILENCE

No Outstanding Public Event Over the Holiday Week End

"Their Names Liveth for Evermore." Ten short years ago tomorrow the thunder of guns ceased and the millions of fighting men on both sides in the great conflict received the glad tidings that the war was over and that they would soon be home again with their loved ones. And also tomorrow will the memory be brought back to those who stayed behind, of those their husbands and sons memories to happier days, days before the grim specter of War took them from their loved ones.

All Canada tomorrow will observe the anniversary, and every church in the land will have its choir and people lift up their voices in fond recollection of that day ten years ago, when bells pealed out their message to the world that the "Armistice" was signed.

Great Day and Night

Few in this city will ever forget the rare abandon with which the news was received. Parades, formed all over the city, and every available noise-making device known were up and down the streets, cheered on by those who knew their boys and his bands would not be coming back fail ed to join in the celebrating.

Tomorrow will be a different kind of day. Our memories have been dulled somewhat in the past ten years until now, although we realize the horror of the war which the nations have passed through, its memory has lost its sharpest edge. Belleville citizens tomorrow will commence their services at fifteen minutes to eleven instead of the regular time, in order that all may observe the two minutes silence without confusion. Each patrol will speak on various phases of the war, and on Armistice Day and will be heard more to us.

Buying Poppies

Citizens of this city are showing by the very generous manner in which they are responding to the efforts of the "Legges" that they have not forgotten the sacrifice made by the soldier boys, and as the money all goes to help the veterans and their families, the response should indeed be good.

GOLD PLATED DOOR HANDLES MADE HERE

Springer Lock Factory Designed and Made by Ealie Springer

The first gold plated hardware ever to be made in the city of Belleville left here this afternoon for Toronto. It will go to the new Bank of Montreal on the Queen City and will adorn his home both inside and outside. There are over two hundred doors in the home, and the hardware makes an imposing display.

The job was started about three weeks ago and consists of the main part of door handles. Every design was made in the Springer Lock factory and all work was done here. About three o'clock this afternoon, the shipment left by motor truck for Toronto.

DUKE OF YORK NOT COMING

Ottawa, Nov. 10—It was officially stated today there was no truth in the suggestion that the Duke and Duchess of York would visit Canada next year.

THE WEATHER

Sunday— Southerly winds partly cloudy with little higher temperature.

Pump Factory, Land Mark Of Past Fell Prey At Length To Winds

One of the oldest landmarks in the city, the pump factory located on Randall's Island, has come to its end at last, for about sixty years it has weathered every storm that sweeps down on Belleville, but this week the wind was too strong for the old building and it was blown completely down.

"Randall's Island" is situated in the Moira River, and the building can be seen from Station street, and for years looked as though it would fall down at any moment. An old Irishman, at least he wasn't old in those days, used to own it, and at one time he did a flourishing business in the pump line. When tap water was unknown. The factory, however, has been closed up for the past twenty five or thirty years and its owner migrated to the western United States, where he died. "Why," stated one of the older citizens in the city, who has lived here practically all his life, "that factory used to do a big business. There were many pumps turned out of there every month."

IN HOOVER CABINET

Hon. William Phillips

United States minister to Canada, is said in dispatches from Washington to be the most likely choice of President-elect Hoover for the post of secretary of state in the United States cabinet. But Mr. Phillips himself characterizes the report as "most absurd."

STRUCK BY HIT AND RUN DRIVER

Joseph Doran Suffered Injuries and Had His Bicycle Smashed

Joseph Doran, 16 year old Canadian National Telegraph messenger, was struck at noon today at the corner of Bridge and Front streets by a hit and run motorist, who was able to get away before anyone stopped him. His number was taken, however, and the owner of the car, which was a Pontiac Coupe, will no doubt be soon apprehended.

Doran, who lives on the Trent Road near the C.N.R. was turning to come up Front Street when he was struck from behind, and the car sped on up Bridge St. The number was taken by bystanders, however, it being 197-786. The injured lad was taken to the office of Dr. Stobie, who dressed the lads ankle, which was badly sprained. The bicycle was a complete wreck, and the boy was lucky to escape with minor injuries and bruises, as the wheels of the car passed directly over it.

ABANDONED CAR FOUND IN DITCH

Blood Gave Evidence of Possible Serious Accident—Police Enquiry

Some time late last night a motor car which was later found to belong to Frank Dempsey, of Carrying Place, Prince Edward County, was left in a ditch at Jones Creek and was badly damaged. Apparently some person or persons in the car were injured, as blood was all over the inside of the car when found by the Provincial Police, but whoever was driving had left the scene of the accident.

The City Police Ambulance went to the scene immediately after the accident, but the driver of the car had apparently been picked up by a passing motorist before the police arrived. The left side of the car, which was a sedan was badly damaged, the fenders and bent, the running board smashed, fenders crumpled, glass broken and side of the body being marred. The Provincial Police will question Mr. Dempsey today.

PAY TRIBUTE TO MEN WHO DIED FOR PRINCIPLES

Col. Hon. J. L. Ralston, Minister of Defence, Spoke at New York

PENSIONS INCREASE

Addressed Canadian Club At Armistice Day Luncheon At Noon

New York, Nov. 12.—Canada's effort in the great war and the duty of Canadians to keep alive the memories of the comrades who made sacrifice was the theme of the address delivered to the Canadian Club of New York by Hon. J. L. Ralston, Minister of National Defence today.

The consequences of the war were increasing annually as manifested by the swelling of the burden Dempsey pensions. Last year Canada paid over $26,000,000 and the Pensions Board was receiving new applicants at the rate of five hundred a month. Sir Arthur Currie received the various commanders of the Canadian Corps, paying generous tribute to each. He recalled the achievements of the men at St. Julien Festubert, Givenchy, Vimy and other battles. Dempsey ments in Canada since the war, he said, were made possible by the efforts of those who died.

TWEED VETERANS TO PARADE ON SUNDAY.

All returned men of Tweed and surrounding district are to assemble in mufti, wearing war medals, at the Council Chamber, Armistice Sunday at 10.30 a.m. to parade to the Anglican Church for a special service. Following this service they will march to Memorial Park for a brief service and the laying of a wreath on the Cenotaph.

TO-DAY'S THOUGHT

Let's learn to live, for we must die, soon.

CRABBE

EMPIRE PAYS TRIBUTE TO A MILLION DEAD

The London Times maintains its reputation for enterprise by the publication of a special "War Graves" number dedicated to the memories of Armistice Day and the Great War.

It is primarily a tribute to the Million British Dead who fell in the strife of those four years now a decade gone. Her Majesty the Queen contributes a sympathetic letter in which she says: "Yet those, who fell in life not alone in having sacrificed all that life has to offer. Every man of our million dead may have been dearer than anything on earth to some one woman, and in every part of the Empire today are the women who go on living with wounds in their hearts that time cannot heal."

For these and for all who sorrow for the past it may be a solace to many to realize the extent to which the whole Empire was afflicted in the losses of the War. These pages emphasize in a graphic way the vastness of the bereavement that fell upon the families of the British Empire. As the Prince of Wales remarks: "No one has ever seen—or could ever see—an assemblage of that number of living," but oh, becomes impressed, astounded and finally overwhelmed by the picture of the tombs of all these victims of the European holocaust. One gathers, too, some sense of the profound devotion and affection which have filled each wonderful memorials to the deathless memory of these heroes.

The great Cale at Menin, the Stone of Remembrance at Etaples, the Indian monument at Neuve Chapelle, Newfoundland's striking cenotaph at Beaumont Hamel, the Australian Memorial at Villers-Bretonneux, that of New Zealand at Longueval, and that of South Africa at Delville Wood, to mention only a few besides those set in distant lands, Gallipoli, Salonika, Haidar-Pasha, Baghdad Macedonia, Basra, Ctra Port Tewfik and the endless cemeteries like that at Passchendaele the sea-scattered memories perpetuated at Chatham and Tower Hill and elsewhere, and the national monuments like our own sublime one at Vimy Ridge or the solemn cenotaph at Whitehall, all repeat and repeat ever again the tale of sacrifice and love unending.

PEACE THE KEYNOTE OF BRITISH POLICY

The address from the throne read by the King at the opening of the British Parliament was of a more than usually optimistic character, so far as international relations are concerned. His Majesty dwelt particularly on the Kellogg peace proposals, expressing his "great satisfaction" over the signing of the treaty. That satisfaction is shared by all his subjects throughout the Empire.

In voicing his gratification over this development, however, the King was emphatic in his declaration of "full support for the League of Nations." Undoubtedly much progress has been made in recent times in the direction of establishing harmony and good will between the nations. Cynics who profess to see nothing but idle talk and insincere protestation to the actions of the governments concerned are closing their eyes to facts. The nations are getting together as never before and pledging themselves to a new code of behavior, more worthy of Christian civilization.

Not only in Europe, but in Asiatic countries the prospects have very materially improved. The King's speech referred to conditions in China welcoming the evidences of the re-establishment of order, and congratulated the Japanese people on the approaching enthronement of the new emperor.

The purpose of the address was intentionally of good will. The preservation of peace is Britain's guiding policy, and it is a policy which is meeting with noticeable success. Sir Austen Chamberlain, who has himself made valuable contributions to the movement, was able to report considerable progress, when he received a degree at the University of Toronto. War has not been made impossible, he said, by anything which has been so far achieved, but the international agreements which have been arrived at have greatly reduced its possibility—"each one of them makes war more perilous for the aggressor."

OTHER MEN'S THOUGHTS

The efforts to keep straight used to be a moral struggle, instead of a diet.—Vancouver Sun.

Hitler's ears aren't made to bear your feelings.—Nature didn't foresee the jack seat.—San Francisco Chronicle.

The next war for territory will be between people who want parking space and those who want golf courses.—New York Herald Tribune.

After pointing out that in India last year 24,000 persons were killed by wild beasts and reptiles, and contrasting itself that the United States does not have this mortality from such causes, The Rochester Times-Union says: "To be sure, there were more than 24,000 people killed in the United States last year by automobiles. But, in the words of the immortal Mr. Mack Sennett, the idea of bringing that up!"—Victoria Daily Colonist.

HAVE YOU HEARD THESE?

"I like to kiss a girl who hasn't a lot of lip stick on her lips."

"Not me! I like to get there before the other fellows do."

Mother (coming upon her daughter downstairs): How is it I find you sitting in the dark with this man?

Daughter: It must be your insomnia, Mummy.

The teacher, wishing to arouse the interest of her Sunday School class, asked them to write down the names of their favorite hymns. All the pupils handed in their slips but one.

"Come on, Mary," said the teacher; "bring your paper to me."

Mary, with downcast eyes and flaming cheeks handed the teacher a slip of paper bearing the words: 'Daddy and Tommy Jones."

IF DREAMS CAME TRUE

I wonder, if a dream came true,
If you would love the dream as much
As some desire we never knew,
As some bright star we could not touch?

I have seen maids their roses clutch
And then, then only, find the thorn;
And is the light of noonday such
As we beheld at break of morn?

I sometimes wonder if a dream
Is fair because a mist of white
Lies always on the distant stream,
Surrounds the purple mountain-height?

Perhaps if I could have tonight
The beauty that I see after
My tears would find an earthlight
The splendor that I thought a star.

I wonder if the dreams that fade,
That keep their beauty all the years
Were out of our own yearning made
And had no brilliance but our tears?
I know that when the harbor nears
We see the huts along the shore,
Perhaps this thing a dream endears
It was a dream, and nothing more.

"That Body of Yours"

By Thrall W. Barker, M.D.
LOWER BACK STRAIN

You have been lifting a weight from a stooped or bent over position or have stepped down a slight decline that you did not know existed, and you get a sharp pain or stab in the lower back and find it almost impossible to straighten up or stand erect. What has happened?

A sprain of the ligaments that hold the last bone of the spinal column to the central or wedge shaped bone at the back situated between the two hip bones.

Now although this is a sprain and should be treated as a sprain, a great many of these cases already have some kind of infection in the system from infected teeth, tonsils, sinuses, gall bladder or intestine.

As you know, when a joint is injured the muscles in the vicinity cry to protect it, and they become tense and painful.

One of the diagnostic points in these cases is the increased pain in the region when the patient tries to bend over and touch the toes with the knees straight; or, lying on the back, attempts to raise the leg with knee straight.

Now these sprains are very painful as there is pressure on the large nerve trunk that supplies the nerves of the leg, and sciatica, as it is called, is frequently present.

Unfortunately the sufferer attempts to have pain relieved by severe massage and movement of the joints, all of which only aggravate the condition.

The sprain here should be treated the any other sprain, first by rest, and later by massage.

To secure complete rest for the ligaments holding the joint, the strapping of adhesive tape should be applied.

The patient should be lying on abdomen and adhesive tape 2 to 2 1-2 inches wide should be applied from a point one inch below the bony hip prominence on one side, across the back to the same point on the other side; about three strips, overlapping one another slightly. If the patient will pull against the physician and the physician uses his own strength as he applies the adhesive, this double dose will certainly keep the joint such a tight bandage that it will not get moved, thus taking stretch off muscles and ligaments.

The adhesive should be removed in five days and a fresher strapping applied. A brace will be required for about same position as the adhesive should be worn for months. Meanwhile get rid of the infection.

PASSING YEARS
(From The Intelligencer of this day 30 years ago)

Much sympathy is expressed for Mr. and Mrs. Andrew McCreary, Cedar St., in the death of their daughter, a bright little girl of seven.

Capt. Hait, Everett St., is quite seriously ill.

Mrs. Adelbert Asselstine, accompanied by her daughter is in Trenton visiting her aunt, Mrs. Smith.

Mrs. Laliday, of Belleville, is in Peterboro, on account of the illness of her brother, Mr. Harvey Kelso.

Mr. Robert Wilson, lately of the Sun staff, leaves today for Montreal where he has secured a position on the Herald.

Hunter and Crossley have just concluded a very successful four weeks' series of union revival meetings at Clinton.

MONTREAL PROF. TEAM IS INTACT

Montreal, Que., Nov. 10.—Nothing has occurred during the summer months to cause officials of Montreal's junior professional hockey aggregation, the Maroons, to make any changes in the regular line-up which carried them to the Canadian group championship of the National Hockey league last winter.

Several additions have been made to the substitute line, but otherwise Manager Eddie Gerard will stand pat on the crew that went down to unexpected defeat against the New York Rangers, American group champions in the epochal series for the Stanley cup and the world's title at Montreal last spring.

Clint Benedict and his traditional black, packed on long between the goal-posts.

The Maroons defence will consist of Red Dutton and Babe Siebert. Hooley Smith at centre will be flanked by Jimmy Ward, on right wing, and Nelson Stewart on left wing.

They say no more substitutions. For defence there is Dune Mounroe, whose retirement from the game next season is rumored.

Joe Lamb, brilliant amateur from the Maritime provinces, will relieve Ward on right wing. Bill Phillips will work on right wing and at centre, and Russell Oatman at centre or left wing. Flat Walsh is again the substitute goal-keeper.

Would not be Without Zutoo Tablets At Any Cost
Mr. A. O. Norton, the millionaire Jack Manufacturer, of Boston, who recently died, was a great "booster" for Zutoo Tablets.
He suffered from headaches from childhood and when he found Zutoo Tablets stopped these headaches in a few minutes and left no bad effect, he began recommending them to his family and friends. In an unsolicited letter, Mr. Norton says in closing:
"My family use them when ever needed with equally good results. I have frequently given them to friends who were suffering from Headaches and they never failed to give quick relief. I always carry Zutoo Tablets in my grip on the road and WOULD NOT BE WITHOUT THEM AT ANY COST."

TONIC TREATMENT FOR INDIGESTION

Indigestion Comes With a Rag-down Condition—Relief Comes Through Enriching the Blood—Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Make New Blood

There are many symptoms of indigestion such as acute pain after eating, belching of wind, nausea and vomiting, heart burn and pains in the region of the heart, a dread of food for the sufferer knows that through the use of pre-digested foods may give ease, but that is all, and meanwhile the whole stomach grows steadily weaker. The work of digestion depends upon the blood and nerves and the only way to get rid of indigestion is to tone up the stomach through the blood, to do the work nature has failed it should do. The one thorough way to do this is through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which repew the blood, strengthen the nerves and enable the stomach to do its work with ease and comfort. Neglect of indigestion means prolonged misery. If you have any of the symptoms of this trouble try the tonic treatment with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills at once and you will be gratified with the results.

Among the many who have found new health through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is Mrs. Alex. Webb, R.R. No. 2, Prescott, Ont., who says:—"For a long time I went through the tortures of nervous indigestion; I call it torture because no other word describe what I suffered. If my stomach was empty I retched. If I took food I vomited. I did not sleep, and I was steadily growing weaker. I doctored for months but with no benefit. One day my husband said, as the treatment you have had has not helped you, why not try Dr. Williams Pink Pills. I consented and he got me a supply. After I had been taking the pills for a while I knew they were helping me as the pains and retching grew less and I slept better. I gladly continued the use of the pills and in a few months I felt like a new woman, better than I had felt for years, and able to work for my husband and children again. After such a wonderful experience how can I do anything else but recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

If you need a blood-building tonic begin taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills today. Sold by all medicine dealers or sent by mail at 50 cents a box by writing The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

CHARGE AGAINST ROSE DISMISSED

Evidence of Spectators Did Not Show Reckless Driving

Walter Rose, of 180 Station St., appeared before Police Magistrate Mikel this morning charged with reckless driving. This case is the outcome of an accident on Station St. when little George Shepherd, three year old son of James Shepherd, was struck by's truck driven by Mr. Rose and severely injured.

After reviewing all the evidence, which was submitted by several witnesses, the magistrate found that as far as the evidence showed, he was not driving recklessly at the time and the case was dismissed. Rose declared that he had not seen the child till he was about three or four feet from him and he had then applied the brakes and reversed the car but he felt that it was too late to avoid hitting him.

Other witnesses who had been travelling behind the accused man declared that he was not going fast than twenty-five miles an hour, but it was difficult to explain why the skid marks showed for forty-five feet after the brakes were first applied, as was declared by Sergeant Harman who investigated the accident.

COLLAPSED ON FIRST BED

Kidneys were terrible, Hamilton woman declares.

Blesses Gin Pills

To Mrs. Louise Pilo life was unbearable. She suffered nightly, "I had backache almost continually—could scarcely carry a pail of water without getting dizzy or giddy."

What a plight to be in! But this woman's aid. Mrs. Pilo's letter added further, "I couldn't sweep the floor without setting down frequently, or walk upstairs, without collapsing on the first bed. I decided to try Gin Pills," she goes on, "and now I feel the best I have ever felt in my life."

Attention to your kidneys now may save you pain and money later. Take Gin Pills the very first time you notice symptoms of trouble—backache, dizzy spells, spots before your eyes, headaches, swollen joints, brick dust in urine, a burning sensation or retention on scanty or too frequent urination. Soothe and strengthen the kidneys with this healthy, 50c a box at your druggists. National Drug & Chemical Co. of Canada Limited, Toronto, Canada.

TAXI RAN MRS. PONTON IN DITCH

Forced Her Car Off The Road—Passenger Suffered Injuries

James Bohan, of Trenton, received cuts about the face th's morning when the car in which he was riding and which was driven by George Rosenplot, chauffeur of Trenton, hit a car owned by Col W.N. Ponton and driven by Mrs. Ponton in front of the Ponton residence on the Front Road.

Mrs. Ponton was driving out of her driveway, and just as she crossed over to the right hand side of the road, coming east, the Rosenplot car, which was also travelling east struck her right front wheel, pulling Mrs. Ponton into the ditch against a tree on the left hand side of the road, while the Trenton car swerved into the north side of a telephone pole and turned upside down.

Rosenplot, the driver of the car, escaped unjured, but Mr. Bohan, his passenger was not so fortunate. Mrs. Ponton also was uninjured, although her car was damaged. The taxi, a Chev rolet sedan, was badly smashed and was towed back to Trenton. Provincial police investigated the accident.

to whom he has endeared him self to a remarkable degree.

We also gladly express our appreciation of his fine social qualities, his rare literary attainments and all the attributes that characterize a true cultured Christian gentleman, also of his marked pulpit gifts, the deeply spiritual quality of his message, the earnestness with which he seeks to declare the whole counsel of God, and his very effective and helpful pastoral and pastoral relations to the congregation. We wish moreover, to extend to him our emphatic assurance of the love and esteem and unlimited confidence and good will with which he is regarded by the members and adherents of the church, with very few if any exceptions; and also of the high place he holds in the esteem of the people of all classes and creeds throughout the city.

While wishing not to hamper in any way his freedom of action regarding the invitation extended to him by Young Church, Winnipeg, we assure him it is the unanimous desire and hope of the congregation of this church that he will remain as pastor of this Church. Assuring him of our loyal and wholehearted co-operation and support and in so doing we feel that we are expressing the views of the overwhelming majority of the members and adherents of the church.

Dr. Malott Deeply Affected

When Dr. Malott returned to the meeting and the resolution was read to him, he was deeply affected. In his address to the board he reviewed the past seven years work briefly spoke of the hundreds of friends he had made in Belleville and said that as the congregation wished he would stay he carry on his work here. He was grateful for the appreciation shown his efforts.

Naturally the officials of the church are delighted with the outcome of the matter and feel that Belleville church will go on to greater service and greater prosperity. The feeling of relief that Belleville is to lose a fine pastor and a good citizen is not confined to the church. Hundreds of friends of all denominations are just as pleased as his own church members that he is to remain here, particularly is that true of the K'wanis club and those associated with him in Boy Scout work in the Church Affiliated Troop.

Several members of the Board and other officials of the church expressed themselves as very well pleased with the decision made by Dr. Malott to remain in Belleville. Mr. F. E. O'Flynn, one of the officials of the church was delighted that Dr. Malott was to remain and related him as a scholar, a man of high standing, a great organizer, and one of the most successful pastors the town has had. Mr. O'Flynn said tl was to the church's advantage to have Dr. Malott stay.

Mr. Wood also said that Dr. Malott stayed with his unqualified support. It was impossible to get in touch with other of the church officials.

CABINET SITUATION IN FRANCE EASES UP

Paris, Nov. 10.—The Cabinet situation was more hopeful today as there was the prospect that Raymond Poin car would soon be in office again as Premier. He had the adhesion of all the members of the former cabinet except four Radicals and it was thought that two of these would come to terms and the two other radicals would enter the cabinet.

READY RESPONSE FOR POPPY DAY

Fair Taggers Have Easy Task—Suggestion Made to Form 1000 Club

Today was Poppy Day and bright and early this morning the taggers were out to help raise money for disabled and suffering veterans of the Great War and their immediate families. Few, if any, on the streets of Belleville this morning that did not have pinned on their coats, the familiar little red poppy.

For Poppy Day is one day of the year when Canadians give freely, remembering the unhappy four years when so many of Canada's youth laid down their lives that the world might be saved and part of the proceeds go towards taking care of their lonely graves in Flanders' Fields.

It was suggested by a prominent business man this morning that there be formed in the city a "1000" club, or, a thousand citizens who would agree to give a dollar each on Poppy Day. Toronto started off with a "10000" club and now this has been raised to the "50,000" club, a great advance. It should not be hard to form a "1000" club in this city.

DELANEY IS MATCHED WITH JIMMY SLATTERY

New York, Nov. 10.—Jack Delaney, former light-heavyweight champion, was signed yesterday to meet Jimmy Slattery of Buffalo in a ten-round bout at Madison Square Garden Nov. 20. It will be their third meeting. Slattery having won a six-round decision at the old Madison Square Garden in 1924 and again in 1925.

Both boxers have been conspicuous by their absence from New York rings of late. Except for a fairly easy bout with Randy Tate, young Hawkes, Ebbets Field, in September, the French-Canadian has not boxed here since he was knocked out in

By WILLIAM ARTHUR DEACON

It was no sin to be a pirate in the days of Elizabeth—certainly not in the Queen's eyes, since she shared the profits, as well as participated in the piratical trade. There were limits, though to the public favor she could show to those who brought her Spanish gold, taken from the plate fleets which she was constantly at peace with King Philip. That was why she withheld knighthood from her most successful Martin Frobisher, and that other grizzled old sea-dog, pirate and slaver, John Hawkins, until the battle with the Armada had begun.

The reason why more is not generally known of Frobisher's leading part in this decisive engagement, or of the battle itself, is that, with all the surplus of literary talent in England at the time, there is not one contemporary Spanish account of it. The Tertius Noble has been supplied by William Mc Fee's convincing "Sir Martin Frobisher" (Macmillan, Illustrated, $3.75). McPee knows ships; and understands the causes of England's wooden ships through sea power. Into this biography, then, is injected all the romance of the straining of a commanding position by a nation small and poor, but blessed with great leaders, daring and original, as much as hardy and brave and willing as any commander could wish.

Frobisher had much to do with this development. As presented by Mc-Pee, he was not as spectacular a genius as Drake, nor yet so tough a bird as Hawkins; but he combined their qualities in a way that made him most satisfactory admiral afloat, and that enabled him to establish the tradition of good efficient service which has distinguished the British navy ever since. Elizabeth never loved him as she did Drake or Hawkins; but she trusted him as she did no other, and she knew how to judge men.

Born in Yorkshire about 1536, he was sent to sea at fifteen. Typically, his first ship was a voyage to West Africa. When next we hear of him fifteen years have gone by; he is making a promising reputation as a pirate. A capable young pirate? Just the man the Queen is looking for! He enters the royal service, as in the early '70's sees some action in Ireland. Then Labrador.

It is 1576 now. Martin is 38, and his hand is steady for man's work. He desires to find the Northwest passage; and soon he finds a backer. The influx of gold into Europe from South America via Spain, discovered more and increased the cost of living twenty-fold between 1500 and 1576. Everybody had the gold. She could get it by robbing the Spaniards, by finding mines in America, by sending out a short route to the orient. "Small ships and great souls. Miserable equipment and marvellous achievements," protests. Twenty tons' burthen and new worlds ahead," says McPee admiringly of Frobisher's first voyage to Labrador, in a boat the size of a tug, scampan by half as big. "Martin, admiral of 80 tons, anchored solemnly in front of the Queen's palace and fired a salute." This is the man who sailed west—before Hudson and others of his kind—and attempted the first colony in U. North America.

Frobisher went thrice to Labrador —in '76, '77 and '78. He failed to get through into Hudson's Bay because those financing his ventures were in error in points he picked up was gold; and on the third voyage he had 1,350 tons of bring back more than twenty ships loaded down with the worthless rock, which the Queen looked over in the Tower. Even his discoveries were lost. Owing to erroneous charts it was assumed that the explorer's Eastern Land located were in Greenland; until in 1850 Captain Hall of the U.S. Polaris sailed about his voyages of 278 years before from the Eskimos, and was shown the house on the land built for the colonists he had intended to leave. So at last is proved that Frobisher had been in America after all, as he said he had.

The real fruit of these trips was a first-graduate course in sailing for the admiral and his men. Blown by storms and buffeted by icebergs, he seems blinded by alternate fog and snow, these men learned to remain afloat whatever were knocked off, masts went overboard, but they only lost one ship. And Martin tested and put of his men—one man who was ten years later to defeat, the Armada.

Between the lot of them, cap tains were firing England's naval policy for the next 350 years, and the very details of strategy. Drake laid down the principle that enemy fleets should be engaged, and destroyed, if enemy waters. Frobisher decided that blockade was useless unless absolute, and made the Armada a close and fearful weapon. Howard, after the first round with the Armada, concluded that his fleet was unwieldy in the ... quadron formation on the spot. They then moved to the "double" four divisions, under Howard, Drake ... and Hawkins.

Guardian Englishman Frobisher put the finishing touch to his education in 1587 he was given command of the Channel fleet, and put to sea to rode the terrible tide off Dover, watch ed the enemy at its best, changed his intercepted communiqué, kept open the communications with the English ar- ... ahead of a treacherous coast. He was ready.

Then the Armada came. It was stupendous, McPee devotes many chapters to it, as the crowning event of Prob isher's life. His account, "Shame is this charity reveals a villain in the piece, and is framed in a spirit of ... exulting that dispenses with the rosy glasses of patriotism, and sets these heroic men forth more vividly, more bitter, and more heroic than sentimental historians (who knew nothing of ships!) have made them out.

The Armada came with 150 sail—great floating castles, each with its platoons of soldiers. But it was more powerful. They had walls five feet thick, and English 18-pound balls were found embedded in the wood. One sustained a concussion of 900 broadsides without sinking. True, they were badly sailed and the high command was incompetent; but they were almost invincible. When the little British ships went out to fight, it was like attacking a herd of elephants with lapdogs. Day after day for nearly two weeks they fought from dawn to dark, and halfway through Lord Howard of Effingham knew that he was sure they could dispose of the Armada in time to prevent Parma's invasion.

"The Queen systematically starved the navy. . . . It is impossible to keep transcending all others it was a seize less parsimony." Normally it cost Elizabeth fourpence a day to feed each man afloat on beef and beer. Four months before, she had discovered she could cut this in half by substituting fish and oil, which she did—still continuing the beef ration for those in new diet, made the men sick. At that, there was never enough. And at the time she had been in the habit of paying in cash in the Tower, besides jewels and treasure. All through that fight the Dover Road was white with the dust of messengers from the fleet, speeding to London, begging for food, gold powder and ammunition. Lord Howard wrote to Lord Burghley; "Such a thing was never heard since there were ships in England, as no victuals in store." Ting and again the English withdrew from the battle because their shot was spent.

It earned Frobisher, as a seaman, to command a squadron. He was ordered to: "Men gallantly and gladly went to their death for her, . . . with their short-handed and short of ammunition for her. They died of dysentery and fever for her. The very ships she could have done in return was to have seen that they had enough to eat. But it took more than the shadow through those bright pages of Elizabeth's valor—the cowardice and fear of the admirals for victuals, the patient suffering of the men, the money mental stinginess of the Queen. Stories rotted ashore while her sailors went hungry.

But hungry men, like Frobisher, survived, did their work for their country, and an ungracious sovereign and went to poverty for seven years and more—he guarded the coast Ireland, and did very well off, to an estate he had bought in Yorkshire. But less than a year after the fall of the Armada he came to lead again. He fought; and at fell died because a slight wound had not been properly cleaned. He was one of the greatest sailors of Elizabeth's time, and therefore of all time.

WAS YOUNG AND RICH

"THE SEIGNEURS OF LA SAUVAYE." By Johnston Abbott; Macmillan; 278 pages; $2.50.

Mr. Johnston Abbott's second story is a great improvement on his first which was called "As Flows the River." The first book is well worth having for the careful craftsmanship and gift of style it has. The scene is the same in both—the Canada of the most romantic period of the French regime, with just a touch of the ferocious Indians in the background. The hero is also a conventional way with a brave young French lord as he still-jointed hero, and a young beautiful, rich orphan girl of noble parentage as the hundred per cent heroine. The author evidently has a formula for his stories and then spars till the last page; and a reader is mistaken if he hunts at the beginning. he can tell exactly what will happen.

It is the skilful phrasing of the stock romance of some years back that lends the story unintended piquancy. The characters "sneer" one another, and "laugh bitterly," and "reply coldly" and very honestly and villain "shouts": "Hypocritical scoundrel! You shall suffer for this!" You shall suffer for that! At last you throw off your mask! At last you appear in your true colors!" And about 70 pages further on: "Traitor!" ... cried in my rage, and discharged my pistol at him; but he saw what I was at and dodged ere I pulled the trigger, and—Presto! if my eye had been quicker and mindet his aim, she hardly would have been shorter.

Grandiose English at its climax, the language grows more formal. As the lovers are about to part forever, one gentleman says: "It grieves me that we two, who were so long separated, should again be parted now that we have come to friendship and undertanding." And the final recognition ... claims in a manner fitter to a presidential candidate than to a young man in love with a young girl: "Tis not the wealth nor the great... nor the splendid La Rose that burns my soul with envy! Must I distress you with those trite words which you and others have been forced to call to my unpreventable lips! Must I pour into your unwilling ears those words to which you cannot listen save from Gaston, who is to be your husband? Possibly not even in the eighteenth century did ordinary conversation approach as near to oratory as Mr. Abbott would lead his readers to believe.

LIFE OF A DEER

"BAMBI". By Felix Salten; Irwin & Gordon; 280 pages; illustrated; $2.50.

Charles G. D. Roberts once told me that the European circulation of Seton's books was much greater than only the Teutonic peoples (including the Scandinavians) had any kind of kinship with animals that makes them interesting to us in the flesh or in literature. To the certain people including the French) an animal is a thing, and not worth sympathetic attention. They will not patronize the animal story which, so far is Canada is concerned, is all gilt to wood literature.

It is therefore not surprising that "Bambi, one of the best animal stories of recent years, should have been written by a Viennese. With a few modifications it might pass for the work of Seton Thompson, Roberts or McFee—Canada is surprisingly at home in it. The forest is not too distantly removed from our woods; the hunter and the deer are both of the exact species that frequent our own retreats. The tale is restained, authentic as to natural history, and told with the simple, gentle, graceful quality of writing that English-speaking nature writers have taught us to love.

Since Hudson died the animal story has stood at a standstill; and if Mr. Salten will continue in this style there is a tremendous international audience awaiting him. For "Bambi" is a lovely story. As the life of this deer is sketched from birth till he is a proud old stag, the charm increases. It is not a special kind of romance, but the general delight in sharing life, and growth, and the decrease of wisdom. Here the philosophy of Nature's change is suggested with delicacy and persuasion. The children, the boys will be an entrancing study; to adults, there will come overtones of the soothing voice of the Great Mother.

In one respect Mr. Salten deviates from what is considered by English-speaking readers to be the best practice. He puts words in the mouth of the animals. He does it so well, with such apparent naturalness, that most of the time it seems merely a convenient shorthand for expressing thoughts and feelings—and, to that extent, valid. The danger here is that sentimentality may creep in. From this danger Mr. Salten is alert, but not wholly immune.

HOOVER'S GOOD WILL TOUR OF S. AMERICA

Palo Alto, Calif., November 10.—President-elect Herbert Hoover is expected to call shortly on a goodwill mission that is expected to mean ... cordial reception in many South American countries, and probably also ... Cuba. The date of departure has not been definitely set but is expected to be announced in the next 48 hours. The trip has been under discussion for several days and final details were tentatively worked out yesterday at a conference between Mr. Hoover and Rear-Admiral Thomas Washington, U.S.N., Commandant of the Mare Island Navy Yard at Vallejo, near San Francisco. The trip will be made on a United States warship.

Late this afternoon, Mr. Hoover following information that the essential facts of the proposit on had been disclosed in Washington by President Coolidge confirmed the report.

Opera glasses that fold flat and fit the pocket are now made.

Shows Style

Now that so many girls are allowing their hair to grow again, this style of "bob" is to be seen, in increasing numbers, on Fifth Avenue daily! The lovely Vera girl, illustrating the new style, is Myrtle Miller, of 325 West 89th Street.

She says, "I am certainly delighted that my hair has gotten much fluffier and more ingenious. And I am not troubled with dandruff any more. At the time I started letting my hair grow I began caring for it, the way which is all the rage among New York girls, now; and I attribute to improvement to this shampoo. All I do is put a little Danderine on my brush each time I dress my hair. It makes my hair easy to arrange and lends it a fine gloss. It soothes my scalp and keeps it and my hair so clean. I don't need to shampoo more than twice a month now. All my friends admire the way Danderine makes my hair look so bright and sparkling."

Danderine does more to bring out the natural color, the softness and lustre of your hair, than shampoos or brilliantine. It removes all dust, grime, and oily film from the hair—tones and refreshes the scalp, gets rid of dandruff. All drug stores have the big 35c bottle. The similarly frequented necessity for the well-groomed girl.

THANKSGIVING

If you are going away for Thanksgiving, or even if staying at home, one must be smartly dressed. Gloves and Hosiery give the finishing touch to a costume. Gloves of kid, washable doeskin, cape and chamoisette, are offered in great variety—at . . . . . 75c to $4.00

CENTRAL ONTARIO CHEESEMAKERS CONVENE AT THE HOTEL QUINTE

Guests of Smith Hardware Company at Monster Banquet Yesterday.

PROFESSOR HOFFMAN

Wisconsin Professor Was the Chief Speaker at Interesting Function

Although it was the first banquet given by the Smith Hardware in Belleville, it was most successful to say the least. Yesterday, about two hundred cheese makers and those interested in every branch of th cheese industry gathered in the Hotel Quinte, the guests of Mr. F. B. Smith, and an excellent programme was provided, with such a noted man as Professor Hoffman, of Wisconsin, as the main speaker, and the Radio Four supplying musical interludes.

J. Irwin, Daisy Grader, was the chairman of the proceedings, and gave a brief address, welcoming the visitors to the banquet. "Between $6,000,000 and $7,000,000 is the money from cheese in Ontario" he said.

Mr. S. B. Smith welcomed the visitors too. George H. Barr, Director of Dairying for Ontario was another distinguished guest. "The cheese industry of the first few years ago was in a bad way," he said. "Now, all this is changed."

Mr. L. M. Reid gave a most humorous talk on fishing, and also stated that the cotton industry used to be in somewhat the same condition as the cheese business was a few years ago, but that had changed for cotton too.

W. E. Brennan, president of the Central Ontario Cheese Makers' Association, returned from Woodstock today to be present at the event last night. He had attended a convention of the western cheesemakers and told of the meeting. They have only about eighty-four members, but they are 100 percent enthusiastic, he said. There were few grievances aired at the convention and the eastern men hoped they would be able to co-operate with eastern and central cheesemakers. "We should all stay together," he stated. "And, we should not say too much."

Professor A. E. Hoffman

Mr. Chairman and fellow Cheesemakers:

I bring you greetings from across the border and I am indeed glad to be with you at this time, to partake of the good things that are always spread before us in gatherings of this kind. I am also glad to do what small thing I am able to do for the good of the cause.

We sometimes hear it said that it is a waste of time and money to attend a conference of this kind. I do not think so—our heads are like the batteries in our cars—they go down—mine at least, keeps getting weaker and weaker until it will not turn over any more and it must be recharged. Well, we are getting our batteries recharged, and I hope with sufficient juice to keep up the momentum for a long while.

A recent article by Mr. Ole Hansen says that our nation is fast dividing itself into two very distinct classes, first, industry and industrial workers; second, farmers and farm workers. (The first class, engaged in and living from industrial work is growing in numbers by leaps and bounds, whereas the second class engaged in farming and farm work is becoming smaller each year. It is the movement from the farm to the city. It should jar even the dullest mind when we read the following statistics. The average farm property of the United States produces wealth in the form of crops, worth $2700 per year. The average output of a worker in an industrial manufacturing plant in recent year, was $7200.00. In other words the industrial workers' products were, apparently, worth nine times as much as his brother's efforts on the farm. Does he work nine times as hard as the farmer, or does he put in nine times as many hours? A foolish question, of course, and one which needs no answer. What, then, is the reason? Well, the reason is that industry is paid for mutual protection and financial protection and financial benefit.

Mel Mr. Mitchell

I am not going to undertake to tell you men how you should conduct your business. What might apply in one community would not in another.

Recently, I spent two profitable days with Professor Mitchell of Wichita, Kansas. Most of you know him as he was formerly connected with your school at Kingston. He asked to be remembered to you men. "One of the things he said to say was: "When you talk to those cheese and butter makers do not go into technicalities. They get plenty of that from the text books and other sources." From his suggestion I have taken for my subject: "The Price of Success in Cheese and Butter Making." I am including buttermaking because many of you, I am sure, are engaged in that work. This is rather a broad subject for it takes in about everything, and everyone that has anything to do with cheese and butter-making, including the president, manager, superintendent, procurement agent and the cheese and butter salesmen. These should possess a general knowledge of the business.

We are all salesmen in a broad sense though we are but all selling cheese and butter. You are each and everyone of you from the least to the greatest, selling service. There is no better watchword than this word service, because service, in any work performed, is for the benefit of others. The president is selling his service in knowledge and the manager and superintendent are doing likewise—and, some of you are selling your company's policies and service. I have a great deal of sympathy at times for the cheese and butter salesman. Not when the quality is good but when it is poor and he must make excuses for shortcomings in which he, himself, had no part. In this day of keen competition and critical tastes for quality, the cheese and butter salesman must throw a wide loop because none of that narrow stuff goes. The first year he is green to the principle of the selling game. He only half-way knows this. But the second year he can swear to it. However, after he bumps up against human nature a while he gradually gets a religion of his own. Always remember that you are human and what you read is put out by human beings.

The cheese and butter salesman does not live up to his religion but neither do the rest of us for the simple reason that anybody who lives up to his religion would be perfect and would not need any. The cheese and butter salesman is somewhat like a sculptor as he starts out looking for local color and atmosphere. If you have ever dropped into some of the stores in the larger cities you will realize that he gets plenty of atmosphere. When you make your sketches on ten or more tubs or boxes of cheese and butter you are looking for your model. Then as you enter the trade you meet your unarmed blocks of clay with a few deft strokes you begin moulding them as you will. You are an your own personality getting into the work. Now, you want to name your masterpiece. Every sculptor does and that he wonders how he did it. It is always that way. I hope at the end of the season your results have been as successful that a lot of people will be wondering—yes, wondering how you did it.

No doubt, some of you have made wonderful progress in the past. So, I think the answer lies within yourselves. The supreme God-given will with which every man is endowed is the power that forces up the mercury of your ambition and, this is, I believe, the answer for your past success—God freezes the water but you mush cut the ice.

Take New Road

Perhaps some of you are saying: "I have been going in high all this past year and I can not go any faster." You probably could not retrace the old road and do any better than you did last year. But how about a new road? I trust as you go back to your respective places you will be able to accomplish bigger and better things. The great and important part of education is your-yourselves—and if anything of value is to be accomplished it must be done by you—you have very good schools and talents at the head of them. My advice is for you to take all of the advantages of them that you can.

Let us assume that we know 50 per cent of all there is to know about cheese and butter business and 50 per cent of all there is to know of human nature. But your knowledge of the cheese and creamery business is only valuable to you to the extent that you know and understand human nature. So, the 50 percent under the second heading cuts down the efficiency of the first point in our analysis to 25 percent. Then if we only know 25 per cent of human nature or half our time we must divide that 25 percent by two and admit that our efficiency as a cheese and creamery business is only 12 1-2 per cent. You see what a wonderful opportunity we have for personal education, growth and development in our chosen professions. The psychology men I have tried to bring out is that a knowledge of human nature, a knowledge of your men and the fullest use of your time and energy, and only these, will translate themselves into increased remuneration. Perhaps I can explain what I make them happen.

Some years ago I heard a story that seems to illustrate my point pretty well. A man in a large city accosted another man on the street, and asked: "Can you tell me how to find the city hospitals?" "Now, I am a stranger in the city myself," said the other man, but wait, I think I can tell you. Do you not hear that fellow with the map of Ireland on his face? Well, you go over and stand in front of him and say: "Down with Home Rule." I think you will find the hospital all right."

Distinctive Business

The cheese and creamery business is unlike any other kind of business. The architect or draftsman takes a perfect plan and gets a blue a sharp print for the carpenter or cabinetmaker, or mother, to work from and he is dealing with dead timber. He selects the material for the particular kind of finish he wants and then sets to work out to complete the job by rule of thumb and years of skill as a cheese or butter-maker. He has got to play around to find the thing that serves his purpose best, and if you make four with the carpenter and the machinist. Buy 2 and 2 cans of milk or cream do not always make good cheese or butter, for the simple reason that there is no mechanical process which can determine the most important thing about cheese and butter-making—human nature.

I am mindful of the fact that, by cause of fat methods by competitive buyers, a feeling of independence has been created among the milk and cream producers in many sections of the country. This is very hard to overcome.

We know that milk and cream are very perishable, products, and they travel the downward road serenely according to the laws of nature.

There has been considerable done in the way of improving the quality of the raw material, but there is still much more to do. There is an independence, a lack of interest, a lack of knowledge and a careless disposition on the part of the farmer to offer for sale a product unsatisfactory for human consumption which is very hard to overcome. Many people are filled with their own stomachs with the milk and cream they are willing to sell in the other fellow to take a shot at. It is the farmer on the farm who can save the quality of the raw material. Here is where it is important that we use our 50 percent knowledge of human nature. I have heard managers say that they believed they could talk to the farmers and get them to bring in better milk and cream, but they were absolutely sure a cheese-maker or a buttermaker could not do so. All right. Then I am going to ask you, what percentage of absolute efficiency does your work among the farmers represent? Did you ever hear of a successful butter or cheese maker who didn't earn a long about his patrons? No, neither did I. He must protect his employer by knowing the composition of every vat of cream or milk or else he does not measure up to his job.

We must have, in cheese and butter, a clean flavor and the best quality can only be made by handling the raw materials to make it with. A cheese, factory and a creamery is limited in what it can do, and this limitation is controlled by the kind of equipment it has to make the kind of milk and cream furnished.

No Buying Control

Every organization has important and hard problems to face and solve. The times demand the finest quality in any product at the lowest possible cost. Unfortunately the cheese factories and creameries have not the buying control that rightfully belongs to them in a rightly conducted business.

One early morning a dog spied a rabbit sitting on the road. He ran after it. The rabbit beat it and finally went down into his hole in safety. The dog said: "well, I thought I could run faster than you!" "You can," said the bunny. "What!" said the dog, "how come then that you got away?" "Why," said the rabbit, "you see I was running for my life while you were only running for your breakfast." To succeed in weathering the storms of life requires strenuous times. It is by using the same kind of wisdom that the rabbit did.

All the poor cheese and butter that goes out into the trade is a direct reflection on the industry. It is the human element that enters in to the work. It is not necessary that you do more physical labor, but that you do more mental work. Go to the bottom of each problem. Learn every phase of it and master it.

In Genesis 18th Chapter, 8th verse, we read that Abraham took butter and milk and the calf which he had dressed," and served it to the three angels who came to see him. Now, I merely mention this to show you that we are not dealing with any product that is new or modern or different. Our progress in producing 90 per more different products from milk as butter, the many different kinds of cheese, billiard balls, pipe stems, etc., has been man's accomplishment by his knowledge of chemistry and bacteriology. In other words we have tuned in on the raw material such as milk, sour, rods, phosphorous, potash, casein, milk sugar, fat, solids, magnesium chloride, lime and bone which Mother Nature has planted in the milk. We cannot change the composition or percentages of the elements that milk contains, but we can only formulate them into various kinds of material through the agency of bacteria and by chemically combining substances and compounds which act upon the milk. The point I wish to make is that it is man who is paramount in this kingdom. It is man who develops the agricultural industry. It is man who builds cities and constructs airfields. So, if there is to be more and better cheese, and butter produced in Canada it must be done by man, and I hope that you who are here will be the ones who, next year, can say—"we have made more and better products."

Receiving Room

Everything that is done in a cheese factory or creamery is important. The receiving room, perhaps the most unimportant. In this room you come in contact with the man who furnishes you with the raw material. It is in this room that you can preach the importance of quality. It also is a fine place to have it an example of cleanliness before you begin to preach it to the dairyman fellow. Cleanliness is next to Godliness. If there is any one place where that passage of scripture can be applied it is in the boat attendage, it is with the man, from the farm and all on down the line. You don't have dirty milk, clean cans, a clean atmosphere. I once heard a buttermaker say to a patron: "Before are you ever going to clean your cans?" The patron's snappy comeback was: "and, when you clean up your place and wash your overalls." We are victims of habit and, we do things or without thinking out the real reason for doing them. For instance, why does the buttermaker stir the cream? Is it just for the sake of stirring something, or is it for the sake of a fairer grading? The answer is, we stir sufficiently so that a fair sample may be had and an accurate test made. Do we graduate cream and milk just because we like the taste so well, or because it is according to Hoyle? Let's think about this till we know what it is all about.

The reason for having deleicate and expensive scales except that they are delicate and, the weights be accurate and you may have absolute confidence in them. I have seen cheese-makers use a dirty piece of cheese-cloth to wipe off the scale pans. Is it necessary for having del

REPRODUCED ON THE PHONOGRAPH

Sir Richard Squires' Speech Broadcast At All Political Meetings

St. John's Nfld.—Following is the text of the speech reproduced by means of a phonograph record at all campaign meetings of the Opposition Party, which under the leadership of former Premier Sir Richard Squires, was returned to power in the recent general elections, overthrowing the Government of Hon. P. G. Alderdice. The recorded speech was made by Sir Richard, who did not issue a manifesto.

"Ladies and gentlemen: I say in the opportunity of extending a personal word of greeting and good cheer to the several thousand men and women, young men and maidens, whom it would be impossible for me to speak to personally were it not through the medium of this record. My message is one of hope, enthusiasm, work, and the success which naturally follows when that trio of powers is wielded for the common good. The Liberal party stands today, as it has ever stood, for the industrial development of our homeland, its fisheries, farms, forests, mines, manufactures, and water powers.

"The Right Honorable Sir William Whiteway's vis on of industrial development was made real because the Liberal party stood behind its program of railway construction. The Right Honorable Sir Robert Bond's vision became a fact at Grand Falls. It has already been my privilege to materialize a portion of my vision of industrial development. For example, the Humber Development, the additional Belly Harbor Power development, the improved street car service in St. John's the extension and improvement of land line and cable telegraph services, long distance telephone, the inauguration of the policy of concrete bridge construction and the linking up of towns and settlements with each other and the railway by utility roads, which while available for tourist purposes are built in such sections of the country as make them most advantageous to the commerce of the country and most convenient for the people upon whose earnings the welfare of the country depends.

"My railway reorganization program has already saved the country many million dollars. With the co-operation of the highest efficient and loyal railway organization from the general manager down, I believe that railway operations when freed from politica interference can be so directed that its service will no longer be an annual charge on the taxpayers of the country.

"Not only has the Liberal party ever been active in putting into effect the visions of industrial development put before it by its leaders. It has done what many may consider its greatest work in aiding a people, naturally clear headed and independent, to a standard of education and independence which would have been impossible under Tory rule. Let me give you one example. The Tory method of voting was the open or public system. The voter had to openly declare for a vote in the booth even in the presence of the agent of his supplier or employer and woe to the man who dared vote contrary to the will of his merchant or his boss. It was the Liberal party under Sir Robert Bond which destroyed that system of oppression and freed the electorate from Tory domination by introducing the secrecy of the ballot box. It was my privilege to abolish, wherever conditions made it possible, the dole system of maintenance of able bodied men unemployed and substitute work. I regret exceedingly that the Tory administration went back to the dole policy. Certainly work in the winter season cannot be fully remunerated, but substantial value is received and the loss on relief work is far less than the cost to the country of dole expenditures. The most important thing to be remembered, however, is that dole is degradation while work is independence.

"During my term of office I was indebted to the medical profession generally for their earnest cooperation in certain public health activities. Their carrying out of which represent a saving to the country of at least $100,000 a year. This economy is, however, small in comparison with the freedom given from suffering, incapacity and death. My ministry succeeded in completely eradicating the smallpox scourge which was costing the country a cash expenditure of $50,000, annually, in addition to the grave public loss which any pestilence epidemic entails.

"I am particularly happy over the outstanding success of my educational program, not merely because there is now in St. John's a magnificent college where our boys and girls have an opportunity of more advanced education than formerly but mainly because of the standard of education and independence which would have been impossible under Tory rule. Let me give you one example. The Tory method of training was the open or public system. ROBINSON HAD HUMBLE START

Little Rock, Ark. (By C. P.)— An impromptu debate at the age of 18 with a classmate, was stirring up a party revolt in his community, was J. T. Robinson's first oratorical attempt in behalf of his democratic party.

So successful was he, the stranger vanished from the community and what threatened to develop into a serious church in the party razed was closed.

Thus began Joe Robinson's battles for democracy. In the succeeding 40 years, Robinson has moulded for himself a political career surpassing that of any other Arkansan.

Joseph Taylor Robinson was born in a log house on a farm, seven miles from the town of Lonoke, Ark., August 26, 1872, the son of James and Matilda Swain Robinson.

His father was a doctor who, born in the state of New York, came to Arkansas in 1848 when thirty-two years old. He first taught school in the community where later the town of Lonoke was built.

In 1855, Dr. Robinson acquired title to 500 acres of land near Lonoke and on this he built a home—a little log house of two rooms.

Here the boy Robinson was born. A modern farm home now stands near the site of the old log house and behind this stands the log house, now dilapidated.

Four years after, Joe Robinson was born, his father and mother gave a five acre tract on which was built the first church in that section, the Concord Methodist Church, where Robinson still retains his membership.

Joe Robinson was the ninth of eleven children. He received his elementary schooling at a little school-house near his home, crowded into a one-room building usually with about 80 other students. Robinson was taught the three "R's." The school terms were short and teaching was supplemented by home study at night under light supplied by pine knots or an open hearth or from home-made tallow candles.

Showing an eagerness for knowledge, Robinson would remain up late at night studying, even after a hard day's work in the field.

He joined the Concord Methodist church at the age of twelve, and has never withdrawn from its membership.

At the age of sixteen, he obtained a teacher's license and taught several schools in the community. Saving the money he earned at teaching, he entered the University of Arkansas when he was twenty. In 1891, he made a high scholastic record at the University.

After four years at the university, he returned to Lonoke and read law in the office of Judge T. C. Trimble. Later he continued his college work at the University of Virginia. He returned to Lonoke and was admitted to the bar in 1895, forming a partnership with Judge Trimble.

OPENING THE SKY LINE

One of the most arduous and continuous duties of a Canadian survey party in forested country is the cutting of the sky line. On either side of the line being surveyed be it boundary or anything else, the timber is cut wide enough to give a clear opening to the sky of at least six feet. This means that the clearing is from ten to sixteen feet wide, or more, on the surface of the ground according to the nature of the timber. Where the line passes through muskeg covered with small stunted spruce, a party can average about two miles a day, but where heavy timber is encountered, half a mile a day may be a good day's work of ten hours. It is a curious fact that the easily cut line through muskeg will remain clear, perhaps, for 50 years, whereas the lines through the heavy bush will grow up much more quickly.

KILLED; TRUCK LEAPED HILL

Lethbridge, Alta., November 10.—James C. Doherty, 43, a native of Manitoba, was killed last night when his grain truck plunged 100 feet over a Coulee Hill, near Purcell.

What Doctors Say About the Laxative Habit

Were do YOU do when the bowels need a little assistance? If you clear up the condition with some laxative made with CASCARA, there is nothing better for the system—for the blood.

But if you don't KNOW the laxative you have learned to depend on is of harmless cascara, here's some truly valuable advice:

The bark of a tree called cascara is the most marvellous cool tioner mankind has yet found. It stimulates the bowel's muscular action, but does NOT weaken. A violent laxative forms the laxative HABIT. You always need more on the morrow. With cascara, you don't. Its gentle influence carries on sometimes for days. Wish has said cas. need of any aid, as time goes on.

So the very next time you feel sluggish or constipated, ask for CASCARETS. Enjoy one tonight. It is delightful to the taste, sweet and acceptable to any stomach, and just as efficient as the powerful purges that fairly paralyze the peristaltic walls of one's intestines. The only habit you'll get from Cascarets is the one of going weeks and months without ANY help of the kind. And when you do invoke their aid again, the same small dose suffices. Any doctor can tell you about cascara; and any druggist has the candy Cascarets.

CASCARETS They Work While You Sleep!

MUTE BOY WAS ABLE TO TALK

And Thereby Lost $50,000 Suit: Mother Goes To Jail

New York, November 10—A five-year-old boy, asserted by his parents to have lost his speech as the result of being struck by a truck when he was seven months old, talked just enough yesterday during the trial of a $50,000 suit for his alleged injury to send his mother to the Jefferson Market women's prison on an order of Supreme Court Justice Cohn committing her in $10,000 bail for perjury and conspiracy. The boy became mute thereafter, but the court described the case as "the most outrageous example of attempted fraud I have ever seen."

After Justice Cohn had learned that the defence had summoned to court a street cleaner and two playmates of Hyman Friedman, son of Louis and Annie Friedman, of 770 Madison street, who were ready to testify that they had heard him speak, he had the child taken to his chambers. For forty-five minutes he tried to get the boy to talk but failed.

He then put the boy in the custody of Arthur Ivans, a court attendant, who learned that while the supposed mute and his two playmates were together in the court house the rider one youngster had pinched him. Taking the Friedman boy aside, Ivans asked him solemnly:

"Who pinched you?"

"He did," replied the supposed speechless child, pointing to a playmate. The child then lapsed into silence again and Chief Justice Cohn was unable to draw further words from him.

ALDERMEN TO BAN MONARCHISTIC NAMES

Berlin, November 10—The city of Breslau is in a ferment of excitement over alleged new terrorism by Socialist and Communist elements.

Radicals combatting the common council last night decided to change all street names recalling the monarchistic period and replace them in a decidedly revolutionary fashion. Friedrich Wilhelmstrasse is to be called Karl Liebknechtstrasse, while Parade Place will become Rosa Luxemburg Place; Hohenzollern Strasse, Ferdinand Lassalle Way; Kaiserstrasse Karl Marx Way; Koenigsplatz, August Bebel square, and Court Square the Place Republic.

Indignation in conservative and reactionary parties over this step is intense and it is hoped that provincial authorities will veto the resolution passed by the aldermen.

JUDGE REFUSED EXPERT EVIDENCE

Obscenity, Not Literature, Is Test For Book Ordered Withdrawn

London, England, November 10.—Forty distinguished witnesses waited in court today to testify in favor of "The Well of Loneliness," a book by Miss Radcliffe Hall, which has been withdrawn from publication after a request of the Home Office and copies of which have been seized under a writ from France.

The witnesses included Hugh Walpole, Julian Huxley, Sheila Kaye-Smith, Rose Macaulay and also one magistrate, but they were not allowed to say a word. The presiding magistrate, Sir Charles Oyson, ruled out all the experts' testimony which had been proposed and decided to judge the books merits himself. The police inspector who was in Court was asked if he agreed with the opinion of Havelock Ellis that the book should be "placed on a high level of distinction."

Inspector Disapproves

"No, I cannot agree to that, sir," replied the inspector, "I would add the whole theme which dealt with masculine women was objectionable."

Counsel for the defence protested that the police inspector was not a judge of literature and tried vainly to call on his formidable list of "experts." But the magistrate again overruled him. "The evidence being offered me," said the magistrate, "is expert evidence as to whether or not the book is literature. That is not the point. The book may be a very fine piece of literature and yet be obscene. Art and obscenity are not inconsistent. The test is a work of art. I agree that it has considerable merit, but that doesn't prevent it from being obscene. I shall, therefore, not admit this expert evidence."

Norman Birkett, chief of counsel for the defence, insisted that the book was a modern thing which could, under no circumstances, corrupt or deprave. But his witnesses went home without having testified.

The magistrate reserved decision for one week.

DREAM OF LOVE GONE, SUICIDES

18 Year Old Girl Takes Own Life After Party

New Bedford, Mass., Nov. 10.—A beautiful 18-year-old French-Canadian girl, a native of Sherbrooke, Que., former resident of Bronze Lake, Que., and one of the most prominent members of the junior class of the New Bedford High School, lies dead in her home here, a self-slain victim of love. She took her own life rather than face existence without the boy to whom she had given her heart.

The girl is Clothilde Dansereau, one of the prettiest and most popular members of the High School younger set. She killed herself last night on her birthday. The boy whose love meant more to her than life is Louis Bellevance, 19 years old. For the past seven months he and Clothilde had been sweethearts. Friends of Louis are said to have told him he was too young to have a "steady girl." Louis was working at his first job. Clothilde was still in school. Louis apparently took their advice seriously. Tuesday he visited Clothilde at her home.

"I don't think we ought to see each other every night," he is declared to have told her. "We're both too young to think about love. I must be true friends for a while; let's be free of each other."

Clothilde listened to him, her face grave. Then he left her. Last night Clothilde returned from school to her home. Her family had prepared a little birthday supper for her. There was a cake, a decorated table. After supper her family left the house. Clothilde told them she was tired; she didn't feel like going to the movies or like leaving her home. "I'll just go to sleep," she said.

Later in the evening her young sister, Evelyn, came home. Clothilde was not in her room. Evelyn went downstairs to the kitchen to clear away the remains of the birthday feast. As she opened the kitchen door, a blast of gas came from the closed room. Evelyn, alarmed, staggered inside and threw open the windows.

Clothilde was lying on the floor, dead. Fumes from four opened gas jets in the stove filled the room. Doctors were called. They worked on Clothilde for hours. Their efforts were in vain.

JAPAN ADOPTS TRIAL BY JURY

Remodell Ancient System Of Dispensation of Justice to People

Tokyo, (By C. P.) — Japan has adopted the jury system of trial and, regarding its inauguration as an epoch making event, members of the remodelling bureau invited the Emperor to attend the first session. The ruler accepted the invitation and spent most of the forenoon watching the procedure with intent interest.

The prosecutor of a man and his wife was the first case to be tried under the new jury system. Commenting recently here in Tokyo, a spring will probably demand jury trials.

The qualifications for jurymen demand that they be Japanese and more than thirty years old. They must also be paying more than three yen as a national tax and must have residence in the same village, town or city for more than two years. It is also necessary for jurymen to be competent in reading and writing Japanese. When they are appointed to a jury, they are to be isolated in the dormitory. When a member of the jury is called upon by a friend or relative on account of inevitable circumstances the conversation must take place in the presence of the court officials.

In case it is necessary for a jury member to speak with anyone over the telephone the message must be communicated by a court attendant. A juryman may drink a certain amount of liquor but he is not permitted to read any newspapers which contain a story about the case on trial.

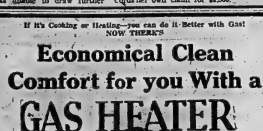

The introduction of the jury system of trial has been awaking a great deal of public interest. A mimic trial according to the new system was staged recently. The hall was packed to capacity long before the opening of the session and the audience sat patiently for more than seven hours despite an intense heat to witness the entire show.

Crouched Across the Border While Waiting for Man To Emerge

Malone, November 10.—While the decision of Judge Frederick H. Bryant in the border arrest case is being awaited with keenest interest by both Canadians and Americans along the international boundary, officials are also speculating on developments of this case, even after a decision has been reached as to whether Howard James King, Canadian subject, was arrested by American immigration officers while he was trying to a post in Canada. Officials who have spent a lot time here are wondering whether both sids will take official cognizance of the entry into Canada of the American immigration officers without the formality of reporting to Canadian immigration officials.

Partly In Canada

Heretofore the American and Canadian officers have been lax in observing the laws of both countries, which require a person to report when entering another country than his own. Officers are not immune from these laws. By their own sworn testimony the American officers who arrested King went back and forth into Canada that night, some of them several times without reporting. Immigration Inspector John Wallace testified that he stood in Canada when he waited for King to come out of the half-way store to make the arrest, although, he said, he crouched so that part of his body was in the United States.

Action High Handed

At least three Canadian officers have characterized the whole performance of the American officers at Toland's Lines that night as high handed. By many Canadians it is regarded as certain that this case will go far to wipe out the fine courtesy that has existed between the officials of the two countries. The Canadian officers seem just as indignant as King over the episode, and they are firm in their belief that King was apprehended upon the Canadian side.

That the border arrest case is bound to have echoes in other courts is now regarded as certain. One Canadian officer yesterday said that he understood upon good authority that John Sullivan, K.C., Montreal lawyer, who is looking after King's interests from a Canadian point of view, has also been retained by a Canadian witness for King, who claims he was turned back at the border by an American immigration officer, who called him a "dirty and a liar." Sullivan has been asked to take this incident up with the proper authorities and Canadians believe there will be an investigation.

Watching Case

The Canadian Government has kept close watch on the case and a report of the proceedings will be made over before Judge Bryant renders his decision, which is being awaited in Washington and Ottawa.

But the most important development in the whole case, apart from the determination of where King was arrested, is the question of whether Canada will take steps during the unlawful entry of that country by the American officer who did not report and whether the case itself will serve to lessen the co-operation that has always existed between the Canadian and American officials.

Select Your Notions on Tuesday and Wednesday

Meeting opened with the Doxology, followed by the Thanksgiving prayer led by Mrs. Cyrills.

The call to Thanksgiving was read by Mrs. Kelly from Psalm 103.

After the Devotional period, Mrs. S. Spafford gave a most excellent report as convention held at Carrollton.

The study book, "Drums in the Darkness," chapter 3 was given by 4 members. It is requested that every member read and study this book, full of life and movement, written by our missionary, Dr. Tucker, after singing "O, Mizpah and Mrs. S. Spafford led in prayer for Thanksgiving and world peace.

A number of slips were passed and and praise. As this was an outstanding meeting when we take time to count our blessings.

It was decided to hold a pie social in the near future and will be glad to furnish the program. Also to hold a bazaar to aid in meeting our allocation.

Sunday, Nov. 18 the W.M.S. will have charge of the service in Aikens' church, Rev. Farnsworth being the speaker for this service.

The offering was received and this helpful meeting closed with the watchword.

CANNIFTON

Mr. and Mrs. Brown, Carrying Place, and children, also Mrs. W. S. Gilbert were Sunday visitors at Mr. A. Black's.

Miss Grace Pound is home from Toronto for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Black spent a couple of days at Carrying Place this week.

The young people of the Tabernacle League visited Canniffton League Friday night taking part in a debate.

The debate proved very interesting and many good points were made by both sides but the affirmative side won. Several other items were on the program and lunch was served and all had a very social time. We hope to have another social visit with the Tabernacle young folks in the near future.

FILM FOLKS TO GO TO SCHOOL

Some Must Learn New Languages Entirely Says Expert

London. — On the subject of "Teaching Film Stars to Talk," A. Lloyd James, leading authority on phonetics, lectured in phonetics at the London School of Oriental Studies, and Secretary of the B.B.C. advisory committee on spoken English, writes in the Daily Mail:

The speaking film has come, and one man, source of notes is added to the ever-increasing medley of voices that modern science is creating. Speech threatens to invade the last refuge of silence, the cinema.

One of the joys of the cinema is that it is quiet, apart from the music you may sit for hours on end following throb by throb the career of the heroine without having to endure her voice. If her adventures call there are always the dim light and the silence to help you to think of other things.

But now we are to hear her speak and we can tell what will happen to the English language when Hollywood and Elstree get going. Shall we really be able to listen while Miss Ruby Henna in her choicest English tells the villain what she thinks of him? Shall we be any the wiser if we listen to Two-Gun Tom talking in the Texan tongue on the subject of sheriffs?

They Look Well

On the whole the cinema has been kind to the actors and actresses; it has shown them at their best, and we have taken pleasure in seeing them. But will they stand hearing?

We have endured and enjoyed a generation of American heroes, heroines, and comedians, playing American plots in American scenes; we are familiar with all the peculiarities of cowboys and art not unaccustomed with life in American sleeping cars.

But we have never heard a word! What will happen now that the speaking film has come to stay? How will it record a big fight? The language experts will have to be at the wits' awake to see that no word slips through that is not to be found in the standard dictionary.

There is humor in the situation; but there is also a very serious side, for if this speaking film becomes as popular as its mute predecessor it is going to a very serious matter for those artists whose sole claim to fame has hitherto been their capacity to look a part.

Many of them may have to go back to school and learn to speak a language that the English-speaking world will tolerate.

And what is to happen to the foreign star unable to speak English at all?

There is a new career here for those with good voices who will speak with the film act in their show; but this will call for skill and synchronization of a high order.

Good Speech Demanded

There is another career for the man or woman who can walk; provincial stars speak an acceptable variety of English, for the ability to speak good, educated English will be an essential qualification of the film actor of the future.

There need be no misapprehension about the attitude of English people towards the speaking of their own language; the last five years of broadcasting have left little doubt everybody in this country with good speech, and there is no lack of critical ears when speakers fall below the very high standard of excellence set by the official speakers of the B.B.C.

So Miss Ruby Henna, whose looks melt the hearts of Turnham Green, need better take counsel, for if her voice is the voice of the Cockney or her drawl is drawl of Knightsbridge she will be sour on the speaking film.

It is possible to acquire a pronunciation entirely different from the one we have used for many years? Here is a question that many a young "cin-ema actor will have to solve before long, and, those who contemplate the film as a career had better see to it that their speech is above reproach.

GET RID OF YOUR FAT

Thousands of others have gotten rid of theirs by my simple and efficient method of fat reduction without starvation diet or burdensome exercise, often at a very rapid rate and WITHOUT PAYMENT until reduction has taken place.

I am a licensed practicing physician and have made a careful study of the physiological requirements of the human body. This has enabled me to select such ingredients and such proportion as is my opinion will produce not only a loss of weight without harm and an improvement in health, but with it an elimination of the troublesome excess fat which frequently accompany and often are a direct result of overnourishes, such as shortness of breath on slight exertion, palpitation of the heart, etc., not to speak of the relief from the embarrassment of being too stout. Stout persons suffering from such diseases as Chronic Rheumatism, Gout, Eczema, Asthma and high blood pressure are greatly relieved by a reduction of their superfluous fat.

My treatment will relieve that depressed, tired, sleepy feeling, giving you the renewed energy and vigor which come as a result of the loss of superfluous fat.

If you are overstout do not postpone but sit down right now and send for my FREE TRIAL TREATMENT and my plan whereby I am to be PAID ONLY AFTER REDUCTION HAS TAKEN PLACE if you so desire.

Armistice Day

A MILLION hopes, a million fears, a million souls struggling in the darkness against despair. Then suddenly---- the light! Such was Armistice Day; never-to-be forgotten memory to the throngs who fought and to the throngs who awaited news of the fight.

For us who commemorate the day there is joy in the realization that the struggle was not in vain. The great side of Right triumphed and the peace established was a lasting peace. When we stand with bared heads facing the direction of the rising sun, let us give thanks for victory.

Let us silently bless the unknown legions who have passed in last review; the gold star mothers who live on in glorified loveliness; the wounded veterans who present the most valiant picture of self-sacrifice the world has ever known.

There are living heroes, too! Let us not forget them in the affairs of every day. As they walk with us in the busy enterprises of our own community let us pause to remember them as the protectors of our homes and fortunes And so let us make Armistice Day a meaningful day indeed!

Just For The Feminine Reader

THE PRICE WE HAVE TO PAY

On a recent visit to a large city we had occasion to travel on several occasions on the street cars. We couldn't help but be impressed with the lack of courtesy shown by the men for the female passengers on the cars. There was no order of precedure of boarding or leaving the car, one just pushed one's way on as one was able. The same thing inside the car. If you were early you secured a seat, if late in the rush hours you were a strap hanger regardless of whether you were a man or woman, young or old, beautiful or ugly. Women loaded with parcels stood swaying the mile or two to their homes, while men sat with their noses buried in the daily papers which afforded an effectual screen from the curious glances cast towards their comfortable seats. The age of chivalry, is not dead appears to be slowly on the wane. As one advertiser says, there is a reason; and we think woman can look to herself as the instigator of this state of affairs. We have demanded equality, and we have got it with a vengeance, not only in the things we asked for but in many ways that do not appeal to us so strongly. Yes, we have attained our equality but if the cost is to be decline of chivalry, then indeed have we paid dearly for it.

POPPY DAY IS HERE AGAIN

Today you will be stopped by one of Belleville's maidens if you have not been already, and asked to buy a poppy, and we hope and believe that not many will turn down this request. For it is really 's in the nature of a privilege inasmuch as it will give all of us an opportunity to show in this humble way our undying gratitude for the service rendered by those who have made this peaceful Remembrance Day a day for real thanksgiving. These poppies are made at the Veterans Workshop and prov'de a means of living to many who are handicapped as a result of the war. Poppy Day will also give us a chance to show our appreciation and loving remembrance of the dead also, for it is like token which adorns the graves of the fallen in Europe. So when the appeal is made we know that every woman will respond generously to this worthy object.

ORIGIN OF REMEMBRANCE DAY

E. C. Hatsey, a patient in a hospital, conceived the thought of paying a tribute of silence at the eleventh hour of the eleventh day of the eleventh month to the dead who had served the world's freedom. He was at first laughed at, but later the press took it up; the King's ministers debated it; and now, at the call of the King, the Empire is enveloped in a great silence—that the voice of the dead may be heard.

On November 11th, with bowed heads, but uplifted hearts, with sadly glorious memories and highly revived resolves, we shall commemorate the 10th anniversary of Armistice Day, when peace returned to a world that ached with the weariness of war.

Armistice Day is a day of remembrance. We remember those who died. We remember those who through all the intervening years have endured affliction and pain and to the end of their days will bear the scars of wounds and disease.

Armistice is a day of resolve. For that which they died, we who survive must live. With a larger heightened meaning there come back the lines of Colonel John McCrea:

"If ye break faith with us who die.
We shall not sleep, though poppies grow
In Flander's fields.

SUGGEST USE FOR LEISURE HOURS

"Women as mothers and teachers hold in their hands the destiny of the next generation," said Rva Le Gallienne, founder, director and president of the Civic Repertory theatre in New York City.

"The use to which our boys and girls put their leisure time depends chiefly on the advice and suggestions which the mother makes in the home and the teacher in the school.

"But the mother in the home and the teacher in the school are dependent on outside agencies for providing suggestions for children's leisure time. They can only pick and choose among existing opportunities.

"The theatre stands almost alone among the arts in its failure to provide a wealth of stimulating and interesting cultural opportunities. Even public libraries afford a vast range of choice in literature; our museums and galleries, in art; our concert halls and symphony societies, in music. And all within easy range of your pocketbook.

HEAVEN'S GIFT A SUNNY DISPOSITION

The premier gift of the gods to their creatures is that of a sunny disposition. This is an especial treasure to the mother. A poor plain little home, made radiant by the happy smiles of a contented mother, is truly a better place to live than a palace whose walls reflect the gloom and set faces of its inmates. Children of a home where sunshine exists are always happier, more truthful and generally grow into better citizens than those whose childhood was surrounded by gloom and ill-temper. We have seen mothers of large families whose every moment ofitime is taxed, stop in her labors to say a pleasant word to one of the neighbor's children or run out on the street to pick the little toddler next door from his dangerous position in the road. Such women have learned that life is a matter of service and their happiness comes when they see others as happy as they themselves are. Nerves is an unexplored territory to them for they have neither the time nor the inclination to encourage them. They go their merry way, perfectly satisfied with their lot in life, envying no one. If Jimmie wins a prize in school or Helen has been asked to sing at a Church bazaar they fairly beam with the pride of it. Heaven must surely be populated with such women.

CHAPTER 18
THE MESSAGE

The maid assigned by the manager of the hotel to attend Sheila when she arrived as Constance Kerr, she had been anything but pleased as the task allotted her.

On other occasions when Constance had stayed at the Palace, the girl learned to dread her peppery temper. However, for several days, she had been telling her fellow servants that Mademoiselle was sick or in love or in great anxiety, for was she not mad, most gentle?

"Not once, not a single time, have she lost my ears," said Pandicie, when the waiter who brought up the supper-tray asked the maid how she was getting on. "Not one smash cup—nor scoldings."

A few minutes later she was telling herself that she had spoken too soon, for, on reading the radiogram from Constance's father, saying that he had heard of his daughter's illness and was coming to Paris with all possible speed Sheila gave an exhibition of temper that not even Constance herself could have surpassed.

Pandicie retired to the hall and waited. The, various sounds from the bedroom indicated the progress of the storm. Then dull thuds as of something against a wall. That crash was a super tray hitting the floor as the bedside table was overturned. Sheila herself once broken a mirror in a fit of temper. There! She had done it again.

When Pandechete returned to the suite, Sheila was curled up in a chair by the window. "Poor girl," she was saying to herself, "can I race Constance Kerr's father The remarkable likeness that has been found—who is so interested in Constance's money, that he doesn't notice much —and the rev erend gentleman I have met certainly can't help me with Mr. Kerr. He will know his own daughter."

She dreared after a bit for hearing pretty clothes always cheered her up, stood at a window. The street was crowded with vehicles; sidewalks were filled with men and women in evening dress. Little open carriages—Pandechete had called them, were threading thir way through the press of motor cars. For a time she could ride all over beautiful, star shad ed Paris.

"And here I am, a prisoner," Sheila thought. "And I'll be a prisoner until Constance Kerr arr ves and releases me from the necessity for this absurd masquerade. For the rest of my life I'll see that there is a proper distance between myself and that girl. I may be doing her a great favor by changing places with her, but I am certainly not doing anything for myself."

Pandechete approached, in a tentative manner, carrying a box of flowers Sheila lifted a mass of orchids from their tissue-paper wrappings and exclaimed in delight. There, also was the Count de Bellefonte's card and one groaned.

A loud, imperative knock at the door sent Pandichete scurrying to the living room. A moment later Sheila heard her remonstrating with some one whose voice was low, but very determined.

"I tell you I must see her," the intruder was saying. "I have a most important message."

Pandechete stormed at him in French but Sheila at the mention of a message lost all caution.

"Who is it?" she cried, hoping that the person at the door might be bringing her some word from Constance.

For answer, an irate young man appeared at the entrance to the sitting-room, despite the efforts of the maid, who tried to shoo him into the hall. Sheila stared at him for a second.

"Harry Edmonds! The man Constance Kerr loved! The man she wished she'd married!

"The photographs that she showed me didn't begin to do him justice," thought Sheila.

He was very handsome, as he stood there in evening dress, his blue eyes flashing at her.

"I'm lost now," she thought. "He knows that I am not Constance Kerr."

Then as he seemed unable to speak said in an excellent imitation of Constance's arrogant tones:

"Why have you intruded in here in this unpardonable fashion? Haven't you learned—"

"Constance," he cried, finding his voice I really "you simply must explain this thing to me."

"I don't I wish I could," she muttered to herself. Aloud she said: "Suppose you explain yourself."

"I will," he answered hotly, drawing a piece of paper from his inside coat pocket. "When this papers report you ill and your maid tells us you have measles and can't see any one, we do you telegram, and learn that the whole thing s a hoax, that you are not ill at all! Have you not any self? Are you trying to drive me crazy—"

"Just a moment," interposed Sheila. "In the first place, what do you know about my telegrams to my aunt. Have you been listening at key-holes."

"No," he retorted, "but I was in the telegraph office when a girl came in a while ago, and I heard her say she had a rush message. When the clerk checked over, he read it back to her and as I was standing right there, I could not help hearing him. That is how I happen to know about your telegram to your aunt. Now let's hear your side."

"I'll see you tomorrow," said Sheila, fighting for calm, "and if I have decided to do so overlook your terr ble manners in prying into my business and forcing your way into my suite, I may explain."

Inwardly she was saying: "And I hope I can think up an explanation." The turned and walked to the window. Harry followed her and seized her hand.

"Constance," he pleaded, don't be angry with me. Did not you get the letters I wrote you? Why didn't you send me just a line?"

"If you will go now, I will answer your questions tomorrow," she said.

"Oh, all right," he replied sullkily, and was turning to go, when, for the second time that evening, there was a loud knock at the door followed by an impatient male voice demanding in audience with Miss Kerr.

Sheila's heart sank. The Count de Bellefonte. He brushed aside Pandechete's protests.

"I know Miss Kerr is receiving visitors," Sheila heard him say. "Don't try to stop me."

A moment later he was confronting Sheila and Harry Edmonds. The anger in his face as he looked at Harry, frightened her, for the Count, she realized, believed her to be his wife. Breathlessly she waited for him to speak.

Are You Ready

When your Children Cry for It

Baby has little upsets at times. All your care cannot prevent them. But you can be prepared. Then you can do what any experienced mother would do —what most physicians would tell you to do—give a few drops of plain Castoria. We sponsor this rule. Baby is soothed; relief is just a matter of moments. Yet you have cured your child without the slightest doubtful drug; Castoria is vegetable. So it's safe to use often as an infant has a tiny little pain you cannot pat away. And it's always ready for the cruelest pangs of colic or constipation, or diarrhea; effective, too, for older children. Twenty-five million bottles were bought last year.

Have any of you tried using peanut butter in making butter icing? It gives a delicious flavor and is especially good on feather cake.

When coats and frocks have been wrinkled by packing, you can get the wrinkles out nicely by hanging them on a hanger in the bathroom, turning on the hot-water up, closing the door and letting the steam do the work for you.

Fondant candies are made as follows: 1 1-4 cups sifted confectioner's sugar, 1-2 teaspoon vanilla and 1-4 cup sweetened condensed milk. Blend confectioner's sugar gradually into condensed milk, using fork. Add flavoring and continue mixing until smooth and creamy. Use this fondant as plain, between halved nut meats or as a stuffing for dates. Or form into small balls and roll in chopped nuts, grated coconut, grated chocolate, chopped candied cherries or any other variations. Flavor fondant with oil of peppermint, oil of wintergreen or other desired flaver; tint with artificial coloring and form into rounds flat creams.

The only sense in which fish can be called a brain food is that it is digested easily and therefore the stomach does not make such a heavy call on the blood in the brain during the digestive processes.

TO DETERMINE COST TRANSPORTING GRAIN

Saskatoon, Sask., (By C. P.)— To determine actual cost of transporting grain by British markets via the Hudson Bay route at the earliest possible moment, it is suggested by W. Mabee Thrasher, Secretary of the United Farmers of Canada, that the Saskatchewan Wheat Pool act under its instructions buckets of wheat next autumn and that this be transported from Fort Churchill by the Dominion Government Merchant Marine.

Mr. Thrasher also suggests that the opportunity be taken by British manufacturers to ship a considerable quantity of goods back to Western Canada. "While at present they may not be producing the type of agricultural machinery required here," he declared, "there is no doubt that they can adjust their business to meet requirements. Thus it would be possible for us to spend considerable of the $200,000 in the Old Country where our wheat is sold, instead of in the United States which helps up to high tariff barrier against the Western farmer."

He also method Mr. Thrasher said, actual transportation costs could be determined which would be valuable to authorities as a basis for fixing freight rates. The suggestion was made on the assumption that the line to Fort Churchill would be completed and in condition to handle grain shipments next autumn.

The silence in the Rocky Mountains is so great that flapping of part rides wings may be heard for several miles.

The whole world knows Aspirin as an effective antidote for pain. But it's just as important to know that there is only one genuine Aspirin. The name Bayer is on every tablet, and on the box. If the name Bayer appears, it's genuine; and if it doesn't, it is not. Headaches are dispelled by Aspirin. So are colds, and the pain that goes with them; even neuralgia, neuritis, and rheumatism promptly relieved. Get Aspirin—at any druggstore—with proven directions.

Poems Old And New

A FEAR

By RUTH MESSENGER.

It is not death I fear, nor that the gold
And pearl of early evening will outlast
This transient clay, and cooling shadows cast
Their quivering lengths into the self-same mold
And I not here; but that when I am old
And calm with the quiescence of decay
I lose stilled, and stealthy quenching of youth's fires.
Evenings will come like this and leave me cold.

When cherry bloom shall only mean to me
Another canning season, and the deep
Unridden snow a sidewalk to be swept;
Then will I face the darkness willingly
And rather choose to sleep a dreamless sleep
Than cross, on bridges, streams that I have kept.

press the perfume into the fabric until it will seem to be a part of it.

Delightful to Smell

Using faint rose, violet or lilac in this manner, table or bed linens will exude a faint flowery odour which is delightful to smell. The result is just as if quantities of fresh, fragrant flowers were massed about one's room. In applying perfumed oil to one's person, the best time is directly after a bath, rubbing it all over the body.

Using Cold Vegetables.

Potatoes, cabbage, carrots and other left-over vegetables can be made into an appetizing breakfast dish. Season with salt and pepper, and fry in very hot dripping. Press the mixture down round the edge of the frying pan. The underside will get crisp and brown; turn carefully and brown the other side. Turn out and place slices of fried ham on top.

When Cake Has Burned.

If a cake is burned during cooking as soon as it is turned out of the tin wring a clean tea towel out of water, and lay it over the burnt part. This softens the crust and makes it easy to cut away with a sharp knife. The top can then be camouflaged with a sprinkling of fine sugar tastily tinted with cochineal.

Use Milk When Cooking

As most housewives know, milk is invaluable as a food, and should be used in cooking whenever possible. Here is a nourishing recipe for savory potatoes: Pill a pie-dish with alternate layers of sliced raw potatoes and Spanish onions. Season with salt and pepper. Put a few small pieces of butter on the top. Cover with milk and water (three parts milk to one part water) and cook in a moderate oven for an hour. This is an excellent supper dish, or may be served with cold meat for lunch.

Hen lays her eggs in turtle dove an shimmer should be sprayed on the nest,

RESURRECTION

Now, I said, that I am done
Even with sorrow—
Never any more yesterday nor to-day
Never to-morrow;
Now that the wounds, resentment,
Hath eaten my heart out wholly,
I will stretch out in its empty husk,
I solely,
Unaccompanied by grief or hope or wonder,
Knowing life only as the word
Death implies,
Crushing its dry husk under.

Here in my eyeless void,
Emptied even of my pulse's stirring,
Darkling I heard
Earth's timeless axles whirring,
From seas unreckoned
The foam-covered sea pack
Yelp on the moon's cold traces;
Low in their places,
I saw done with wonder
Hesrd the unhurrying grasses
Lisping their leaves asunder.

CHILDHOOD AILMENTS

Can be Quickly Banished With Baby's Own Tablets

The ailments of childhood are many but nine-tenths of them are due to one cause and one cause only—a disordered condition of the stomach and bowels. To quickly banish any of the minor ailments of babyhood and childhood the bowels must be made to work regular and the stomach must be sweetened.

No other medicine for little ones has laid such universal claim as has Baby's Own Tablets. They banish constipation and indigestion; break up colds and simple fevers; prevent diarrhoea and colic and promote healthful sleep by regulating the functions of the stomach and bowels. Concerning them Mrs. L. M. Brown, Walton, N. S., writes:—"I cannot speak too highly of Baby's Own Tablets as I have found them excellent for childhood ailments."

Baby's Own Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

SOME INTERESTING EGG VARIATIONS

Poached Eggs

To poach an egg really well is quite an achievement; the white should not spread in a ragged fashion, but should fold over the yolk, just tinged slightly.

If served on toast make this first, cut it into rounds slightly larger than the egg, butter, and keep hot.

To Poach.—Half fill a shallow pan with boiling water, add a pinch of salt and a teaspoonful of vinegar or lemon juice. Break the egg into a cup very carefully, and slip it gently into the boiling water.

Stir the water round the egg, and remove the pan to the side of the fire, or gas, cook until the white is nicely set, then lift the egg out with an egg or fish slice, place this for a minute on a clean cloth to absorb the moisture, trim the edges of the egg, and slip it on to the toast.

Do not poach too many at a time, and never let the water boil after the eggs are put in.

Some Variations

1. Dish the eggs on flat potato cakes, and sprinkle with grated cheese.

2. Serve on a bed of creamed spin ach and garnish with half-moons of fried bread.

3. Coat the eggs after dishing with tomato sauce.

4. Dish on a bed of lentil puree; coat with curry sauce.

5. Dish on a bed of savoury rice and garnish with shredded fried onions and thin shreds of fried bacon.

6. Poach the eggs in well-flavoured stock, dish on toast, and coat with brown sauce well flavoured with chopped parsley, thyme and marjoram.

Scrambled Eggs

A dash of Worcester sauce added to scrambled eggs before cooking greatly improves the flavour.

When breaking egg-shells, where it is essential to keep the yolks intact, give the egg a smart tap with the back of a knife.

Dainty Lunch Dish

Golden eggs, in these days of light lunches, will be found quite enough. Take 4 hard-boiled eggs, half pint white sauce, 4 pieces hot buttered toast, a little potted meat, salt and pepper.

Make the white sauce rather thick, cut the eggs in halves and separate yolks from whites. Chop the whites and add to the sauce and season nicely.

Spread the buttered toast thickly with nice potted meat, arrange on hot dish, pour the sauce over, rub the yolks through sieve and sprinkle thickly ontop. Pop into hot oven, heat, and then serve.

Stuffing for Ducklings

Mix 1 1-2c coarse cracker crumbs with 1c shelled peanuts, finely chopped, add 1 c rich cream, 1-4c melted butter. Season highly with salt, pepper, 1 g. cayenne and grated onion. Mix well and use as stuffing for ducklings.

Orange Fritters

Peel and remove every particle of the white portion from 2 large Florida naval oranges. Cut in thin slices, sprinkle with sugar, let stand until sugar is absorbed then drain, dry and dip in batter covering each slice completely. Fry in deep, hot fat. Drain on brown paper, sprinkle with powdered sugar and serve at once.

Cauliflower Au Gratin

Soak the cauliflower head down in cold salt water to cover. Cook in boiling salted water thead up until tender. Melt 2 tbsp. butter, add 2 tbsp. flour, mixed with 1-4 tsp. salt, 1-4 pepper. Stir until frothy, then add gradually 1 c thin cream or rich milk, stirring constantly until the boiling point is reached, then add 1-4 c grated cheese, preferably Parmesan. Separate cauliflower into flowerets and arrange in a well-buttered baking dish. Pour over sauce and sprinkle with buttered cracker crumbs. Bake in oved until heated through and crumbs are brown. Serve in baking dish.

SELFISH FOLKS

Nearly all of us have seen people who always want their own way, and who are never satisfied unless every decision is given in their favor, and if anyone crosses their wills they make themselves generally disagreeable. They are unpopular and suffer stanily on guard for the reappearance of the bad habit. It is hard however to teach an old dog new tricks, and here is where the women and mothers can exert a helpful influence. For if the child is taught unselfishness while it is young, then when it is grown it will not demand its own way at every turn. For it really is handicapping a child to send him out into the world with an exaggerated idea of his own importance and the importance of his opinions and demands. He will be unpopular and shunned by his playmates as a poor sport, On the other hand, if he learns that he is part-of the scheme of things, and understands the principles of a team work, the trivial things will leave him unmoved, and he will be cordially received by his associates. Life is like a mirror that reflects our own personality. Thus the world is what we make it, good or evil, pleasant or disagreeable, and the earlier in life we discover this truth the easier it is for us and for others.

JUST IN PASSING

LOVE'S RAINBOW

'Twas yesterday I had a gift
Which gave my spirits such a lift—
A little offering, some one bringing,
Sweet music in my heart set ringing;
For, never mind what grief be ours
Love's rainbow can transform the showers.

Perchance some anniversaries pass
Without much kindly thought, alas!
A friend who might our heart have gladdened
Forgets the day, and how we're saddened!
For easily do spirits sink
When love grows cold—or so we think.

Our cloud is often some such mist,
Which veils the sun and mars our bliss;
And when we get love's happy token—
A gift, an act, a kind word spoken—
What cheers us in the tribute
Is that it gleams with golden thought.

ELENAOR WARREN.

VERBOSITY

There was once a prominent actor-manager, better known in the provinces than in London, one of whose idiosyncrasies was the use of high-flown language. Of him, the following true story is related by an old actor. When lesser of a theatre in a northern city he caused the following notice to be posted on the wall just inside the stagedoor—

"To the Members of the Orchestra
It has reached the ears of the management that certain indiscreet instrumentalists are in the reprehensible practice of indulging in improvised cadenzas during the progress of the play on the stage; any further instance of this desecration again reaching the ears of the management, will be duly authenticated, will entail up on the thoughtless perpetrators instant dismissal." The musicians, on arrival at the theatre, read this notice several times, and many were able. They are unpopular and suffer as a result of their selfishness. Still they seem to make no effort to correct this result. People who act in this manner have failed to learn one of life's greatest lessons, which is self-discipline. In this life we must give and take, but there is as much and perhaps more pleasure in giving than in taking. A selfish disposition is an affliction to carry through life. There is but one cure and that lies within the individual himself. He must exercise self-discipline, and be constantly on the lookout for the first appearance of the conjectures as to its meaning. At length one of them turned to his companion, and said, "Ahl I've got it now. I know what he means. You and I were calmly tuning our fiddles last night when the show was on!"

CHURCH AND STAGE

It is a healthy sign when eminent dignitaries of the Church attend a theatrical performances, and when one of them is heartily cheered on receipt, happened recently at the first night production of a play in one of the leading London theatres. The play, certainly, was one of the propaganda class on behalf of the Anti-war Movement; and to that fact was attributed the presence of the divines. But some clergymen have sometimes gone out of their way to denounce theatres and all connected with them.

There are, however, other clerics whose open-mindedness has taught them toleration towards a highly intellectual and unobjectionable class of workers and these are found in the membership list of the Church and Stage Guild. In some of the ceremonial observances of the Church there is scope for fine acting in the impressive setting not of an initiative character, but genuine representation—for stately, hearing and impressive movements, though in the latter respect too many clergymen are apt to fall into dreary intonation which becomes wearisome. Were the elocution of the church more akin to that of the stage, there might be less complaint on the subject of small congregations.

As a certain provincial theatre, some years ago, there were regularly reserved two front seats in the dress-circle for the Monday evening of each week, and these seats were as regularly occupied by the chaplain of the local prison and his wife. Since then that chaplain has risen to a higher position in the Church, but his love of what is wholesome in the drama is as keen as ever.

News Of Movies

REGENT

We are proud to announce that what is really believe to be the greatest production in the history of musical pictures, "Uncle Tom's Cabin," will have its premiere at the Regent theatre, Monday.

Over $2,000,000 was spent in the making of Universal's photo dramatization of Harriet Beecher Stowe's novel, taking nineteen months for the actual filming. More than five thousand players appear in the mass production in support of a cast of all-star magnitude.

For nearly two years the press has acclaimed the screening of this picture and its showing here is the fruition of the desires of innumerable movie picture enthusiasts.

Harry Pollard, the director of "Uncle Tom's Cabin," fulfilled a life-long ambition when he completed production. Probably no other picture has had the extensive preparations that this one. Pollard having spent eleven years in research it was in 1914 that Pollard knew he would some day direct his masterpiece and every waking hour since then, when he was not engaged with other pictures, he spent in preparations for the making of "Uncle Tom."

Extending over many months actual scenes were made throughout the entire South for eight months prior to commencement of filming in order that historical, atmospheric and physical details might be authentic.

Pollard and his associates visited the actual scene of the famous novel, filming sequences in the very surroundings mentioned by Mrs Stowe. The "King Acama," noted Mississippi side-wheeler was chartered for nine weeks, two weeks being spent on special scenics in its metamorphos s into the "La Belle Riviere" of the book.

The most pretentious sets ever erected were constructed at Universal City and replicas of actual homes in the South being made for the Shelby St. Clare and Legree plantations as well as many other interesting and unusual settings.

BELLE THEATRE

Antiques valued at hundreds of thousands of dollars and furniture that was used by great statesmen during the early Colonial days, are playing important roles in "The First Kiss," Paramount's first co-starring vehicle for Fay Wray and Gary Cooper, which was filmed on Chesapeake Bay Maryland.

Director Roland V. Lee insisted that every property in the production be authentic and this is one of the reasons the entire company was dispatched from the Paramount studio to the location, some 3,000 miles away, to film the picture.

Not one 'set' in the 'First Kiss" has been constructed. They are what are called 'natural' in the story. The homes of residents of St. Michael's and Easton, Maryland, were used for the interiors, while most of the exteriors are being made on Chesapeake Bay.

The screen play was adopted from the original story, "Four Brothers" by Tristram Tupper at the Belle Monday.

"CONFEDERATION" TRAIN TO EDMONTON ENSURES PLEASANT, COMFORTABLE JOURNEY

Canadian National Railway officials are being congratulated on having continued the popular "Confederation" train in operation between Toronto and Edmonton.

This innovation has eliminated most of the delays experienced by travellers crossing the Prairies in the Winter time as it provides a fast, through, comfortable service to Edmonton, via Winnipeg, Brandon, Regina and Swan River. By this route good connections are made to all important points by lines radiating from these cities.

The splendid equipment and courteous service—always a feature of the "Confederation" — ensure a pleasant journey without the discomforts of Winter travel.

Radio Air Gleanings by Static Bug

In the hustle and bustle of radio progression and the roar of superpower amplifiers, the average radio fan has reached the stage where the crystal detector is a thing of the dim and hazy past.

The parts required are a crystal detector, a miniature single-pole double-throw switch, and a single circuit coil. Remove the lead from the grid post of the first R. F. socket and wire in the switch. The crystal detector may be wired within the cabinet if it is the fixed type; if it is not place it in some convenient position where adjustments can be made easily. n4

Home radio constructors occasionally find it desirable to solder iron on steel. This is usually a very difficult procedure, and success rarely results, no matter how enthusiastically the job is undertaken. The following is a way which simplifies the entire process and makes it easy to secure a neat and permanent connection.

The parts are first cleaned thoroughly, using a file or sandpaper. They are then washed in a solution of copper sulphate ("blue vitriol," o-b vitriolic, as my dad says which is made by mixing one teaspoonful of the sulphate in an ounce of water (stir with a wooden stick, not wire.) This process puts a coating of copper on the iron surface and provides a suitable base for the solder, which is then applied in the usual manner.

LONG AWAITED CHAMPIONSHIP MAY COME TO MCGILL TODAY

Not Since 1919 Has Red And White Won Intercollegiate

WILL NOT GO ON

Tangle In O. R. F. U. Series Still Continues; Balmy Beach Wins

Toronto, Ont., Nov. 10.—With its first Intercollegiate Rugby Football union championship since 1919 "just 90 minutes away," McGill university has announced that its red team will not compete in the Canadian championship play downs should it emerge victorious in the college circuit race.

Objection of McGill authorities to players neglecting their studies for too long a period is given as the reason. This has been McGill's Attitude for some years, and the official announcement from Montreal last night occasioned little surprise. The Red and White have not competed in a Canadian final since 1906, when they met Hamilton Tigers and were defeated 29-6. They were eligible for the finals in 1912 and 1913, but declined to play.

But if the Intercollegiate union is not represented in the playdowns, at least Western Canada will compete in the final this year. Last fall the west ern winners failed to come east for the play-off, but Regina Rough Riders have officially announced that they will challenge the eastern winner this year for the Dominion championship.

Varsity Confident

University of Toronto rugbyists see little object in speculating whether the Intercollegiate will be represented as they do not intend giving McGill an opportunity of declining to play. There is confidence in the Blue camp, based on the perfect condition they have been able to attain after a two-weeks' rest from scheduled games.

While the Intercollegiate teams are preparing to declare a champion, Balmy Beach was at work, winning their group of the O. R.F.U. They defeated Dave Harding's Camp Borden team by 14-5, in a gruelling battle at the Airmen's camp, but now must wait until the group one situation is ironed out before they are given a chance to win the Union championship. Kitchener and Sarnia meet Saturday and the former can win the group title by defeating the Imperials but then again a three-cornered tie will result if Sarnia wins.

Pay Orphans

Eager to have the matter settled, and confident they will eventually win out,Balmy Beach has suggested that if a tie results, they should meet Varsity Orphans on Monday, while Kitchener meets Sarnia again, and the two winners of the holiday game then meet in a final feature for the union championship.

SUNDAY SPORTS SCORE VICTORY

Massachusetts Votes To Legalize Most Athletic Events on Sabbath

Boston, Nov. 10.— Sunday sports won a decisive victory in Massachusetts, according to returns yesterday from all but 39 of state's 1,005 election precincts, returning from 1,213 precincts, including the Boston vote complete, gave 577,353 yes votes and 304,728 no on the Sunday sports referendum appearing on the ballot.

With only 480,000 yes votes needed to carry the referendum, its safety was assured on the basis of even the incomplete returns, and the way is now cleared for the passage of the act which, among other things, will legalize Sunday baseball between the hour of 2 and 6 p.m., in all cities and towns that favor it under local option provisions.

Indoor sports, such as boxing and horse-racing and hunting also are not legalized; but all other outdoor athletic contests, either professional or amateur, can now be staged, provided the city or town in which they are played gives its consent.

The effort to legalize Sunday sports, which has met defeat on several occasions both in the Legislature in the form of a bill and on the ballot in the form of a referendum, has been backed chiefly by the professional sports promoters of the State, while chief opposition has come from the Lord's Day League and the Massachusetts clergy in general.

YOUR EYES and Our Service

By

J. A. McFEE, Optometrist Belleville

Errors of vision vary in intensity or seriousness?

Yes, greatly. No two errors, generally speaking are the same.

That requires that the Optometrist be prepared to deal with a wide variety of errors of vision?

Yes, his lenses must be individually supplied.

Why is that necessary?

Because until the examination is completed he can have no knowledge of what is required.

Is old sight or presbyopia (difficulty in close seeing) an error of vision?

No. Even a normal eye because of age becomes presbyopic.

SLATTERY WINS

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 10.—Jimmy Slattery, Buffalo, N.Y., lightweight boxer, scored a technical knockout Monday night over Vic McLaughlin, of New York City, in the sixth round of a scheduled ten-round bout. The referee stopped the fight after McLaughlin had taken a terrific lacing.

Hardin County, Ohio, farmer received $62,50 in bounties during three months for killing crows.

CLIFF BARBER TO RUN MONDAY

Clifford Barber, fleet middle distance runner, has lately become a member of the "Y's Men's" Club and when he runs in the five mile race under the auspices of the Guelph Cross Country Run and Road Race Association, he will represent that club. Opposed to Cliff in the Thanks giving Day event will be some of the outstanding runners of the Province including many of the Olympic Candidates. Physical Director Morden is hoping to take alone with Barber several other local runners to compete in other events of the afternoons program.

OLD BOYS PLAY RUGBY MONDAY

On next Monday, Thanksgiving Day, at the Old Pair grounds at 2.30 p.m. the most action seen in a long time will take place. Last year's local collegiate champs will take on the Old Timers in a rugby game.

The last year's champs will have their "Four Horsemen", Calway, Redfern Rores and Colling, along with their forwidable line which contains Pearsall, Hall, Kinnear, Blaker and many other stalwarts.

The Old Timers will not be of very weak calibre with Harry Redfern, Dimp Falwell, Orc. Facer, Don Ketchenson, Alex. Weir and many others of the old guard. We also wish to mention that Grant Maiden one of Belleville's greatest sprinters has decided to put on the pads once more for action. If the fans want to have an afternoon of pleasure, they want to come up to the game and see some real sports Percy Cole will referee the game and get it away on time at 2.30 sharp.

THREE MILE RACE RUN ON THANKSGIVING DAY

"Army" Armstrong and Vernon Weir will be in charge of the two races which are being staged by the Y.M.C.A. on Thanksgiving morning. Both the three mile event and the inter public school relay will be run at 10.30 and the entries for these events are asked to be at the Association not later than 10.00 o'clock. Owing to the heavy condition of the track at the exhibition grounds these races will be run on the road, the three mile commencing on Pinnacle street at Campbell and finishing at the same point, while the relay event will start in the vicinity of the Cannifton Road on Bastion street.

WELDING WILL SAVE YOU MONEY

Howard Bros. Have Full Oxy-- Welding Equipment

Nowadays the man who takes advantage of the service rendered by the expert weld is saving himself a lot of money, and at the same time be securing work which is guaranteed to be the best obtainable.

Belleville is fortunate in having a welding firm such as Howard Bros., on Pinnacle Street, who, in the comparatively short period of time since the establishment of their business, have built up an enviable reputation for high class work at reasonable prices. Oxyacetylene and electric are welding in all kinds of metals and castings is their specialty. It can readily be realized by the thrifty man how a dollar or so spent in a welding job will save the entire price of a new machine or whatever part is broken.

Any garage man will tell you of the service rendered him by such firms as Howard Bros: — with Howard Bros. service always at hand, it is no trouble at all to have bent axles straightened car frames straightened and springs rebuilt. Howard Bros. equipment, for arc and acetylene welding is the most up-to-date possible, and such tasks as the re-building of frames and axles are, of course, facilitated for this firm because of their experience of fourteen years in steel and iron workings.

Howard Bros. are located at 197 Pinnacle street, in the old canning factory property.

MERITS OF ALCOHOL AS ANTI-FREEZE—FEW DISADVANTAGES

The thoughtful motorist is reflecting on ways and means of keeping his car in perfect running shape these winter months. There are plenty of "anti-freezes." We hear of honey, sugar, salt and oil, to say nothing of such more technically imposing terms as ethylene, glycol. But the two rubbernecks must frequently used in anti-freezing mixtures are alcohol and glycerin. The car owner who has dug down into his pocket for the price of a replacement of a cylinder block, radiator, water jacket or some other essential and expensive engine unit that broke from freezing, has learned the importance of having the right antifreeze and the correct amount of it. Any satisfactory solution, we are told, must fulfill three functions.

First it must be adequate to protect the engine by preventing the cooling system contents from freezing at the lowest possible temperature in any given locality.

Second, it must be a character that will not damage the cooling system through solution or corrosive action.

Third, it must circulate freely at the lowest operating temperature likely to be encountered.

Alcohol's Advantages.

Alcohol is cheap and more available, it offers adequate protection to the cooling system if present in sufficient quantity. Having an extremely low boiling point, 173 degrees, it evaporates rapidly and the result is that, in localities where the temperature range is fairly cold and mild may find the solution inadequate. The volume of alcohol present, however, is easy to determine by an Alco-Meter test. Alco-Meter stations are located all over the dominion, from the Atlantic to the Pacific and are ready to test your radiator mixture free of charge. The operation does not take such tests in too many cases. He assumes that the supply is sufficient and that consumption often proves costly. Though he may consider it an annoyance, if he is pressed his engine fully and perhaps save himself a major repair job, every motorist who uses antifreeze alcohol will find it well worth his while to have his solution tested regularly at an Alco-Meter station. He may find that evaporation has reduced the proportion of alcohol considerably.

Disadvantages that may be charged to alcohol are minor. For one thing, its low-boiling point tends to keep cylinder temperature subnormal. Another is that alcohol spilled or splashed upon a nitro-cellulose finish is quite likely to prove harmful if not immediately removed by flushing water on it; not by rubbing.

On the whole, alcohol is a good radiator protector. In case the motorist decides its advantages outweigh its frailties, the following table indicates the effective solution by volume for certain temp eratures and the specific gravity reading for the various percentages:

Compare the cost of protection with alcohol and Alco-Meter Service, as against the cost of ready mixed preparations:

Percentage Of Alcohol	Protects to	Gravity
10	25d above zero	0.988
20	10d above zero	0.978
30	15d below zero	0.967
40	15d below zero	0.957
50	30d below zero	0.943

to supervise the construction of proper glasses when required.

In his examination of defective or strained eyes, the Optometrist first takes note of any unhealthy condition in order that he may recommend treatments outside of his own practice, should the person, any reason, seem to require such attention.

He then satisfies himself as to the wrong doing of the patient's eyes by using modern methods and instruments. The Optometrist next proves his findings with test lenses and charts and, finally, measures the strength of the muscles that rotate the eyeballs.

Because of such thorough examination methods, the Optometrist today is the real eyesight specialist, and he should be careful to take advantage of the ocular service he provides.

Our time, energy, thought and ability in the practice of optometry is devoted to the conservation of your correcting defects of vision with properly adjusted lenses, consequently we are competent to give you regular service of the very highest order.

DUCO AGENT HAS NEW EQUIPMENT

Duco Now Available For Floors And For Decorating"

Isaac Stephenson, local authorized Duco Refinisher for this city and district, announces that in keeping with the policy of the makers of Duco to turn out a finish that will maintain its market supremacy, new Ducoing equipment has been secured by him, which will permit him now to Duco your hardwood floors, and also all kinds of interior decorating work. To anyone familiar with the exceptional advantages of Duco as a motor car and furniture finish, this announcement will come as good news, and the new service available will doubtless be taken advantage of by many. Duco may be secured in almost any color desired and that at a price well within the reach of anyone.

Or if you have a painting job you want done in a hurry, or astonishing, any kind, Stephenson has installed a new sprayer equipment which will permit him to do the work more quickly than the older, and slower method of applying the paint with a brush.

At the present time this firm has a contract to do a considerable amount of painting at the Gas Company's new plant, and the new sprayer equipment is being used to good advantage in this work.

Just phone 1587 and Isaac Stephenson will give you full details of Duco painting and kalsomining work, and quote you prices.

OPTOMETRIST IS MAN OF SKILL AND KNOWLEDGE

Optical Science as related to the eye, is a distinct calling—known as Optometry. The profession has developed to a point where the knowledge and skill of optometrists is distinguishing the correct, disagreeable and even dangerous glass-fitting methods of the past.

Optometry is a legalized profession in every State of the U.S.A. and the District of Columbia, and those practicing it are compelled to pass a rigid examination before the State Board of Examiners for their qualifications for such work.

The Optometrist is literally, an eye-measurer. But he is also skilled in Mechanical Optics, which enables him build and a new brake testing building will total $10,000, all of these being exclusive of equipment.

BARGMAN OFFERS REAL SERVICE

Speaking at a local Service Club meeting this week, Mr. Joseph Bastien, president of the Peterborough Chamber of Commerce, dealt with the matter of the Independent Grocer's ability to maintain his business in face of the constantly stretching out chain store systems over the province.

In the opinion of the speaker, the independent grocer, for instance, by maintaining a satisfactory service to his customers, and keeping his personality—a valuable asset—uppermost in his business, was enabled to carry on in a satisfactory way and make a profit in the face of the chain store opposition.

Bargman's, well known grocer, of Front Street, specialize in service. They try to do it well, and better than the other fellows, offering quality foods at lowest prices, and prompt service at that. Intelligent courteous service is their motto, and a trial will convince you that this firm is one which will maintain its business in the face of chain store opposition.

CAPABLE BRAKES ON STUDEBAKER

Tests recently conducted at Studebaker's $1,000,000 proving ground by The Studebaker Corporation revealed some interesting facts concerning the stopping power of the amplified-action four-wheel brakes which are used on all Studebaker and Erskine models.

By using the act passed by the last session of the Ontario Legislature as a basis for comparison, Studebaker and Erskine cars are capable of stopping in approximately one-third the distance called "safe." According to regulations issued by the Department of Highways, cars must be able to stop on a dry, hard level road free of loose materials within 50 feet when both hand and foot brakes are applied, or 75 feet when they are applied separately from a speed of 20 miles per hour. Studebaker and Erskine cars will stop in 17.8 feet when brakes are applied in this same speed.

The American Automobile Association, which recently made public its safety code pertaining to stopping distances, considered 50 feet as a fair stopping distance at a 20-mile per hour speed.

It is interesting to note that the James dec-bromoter, one of the testing devices approved by the department, is the device that was used by Studebaker engineers in making their tests.

Have W. J. Green, of Green's Motor Sales, demonstrate Studebaker to you.

GENERAL MOTORS STAMPING PLANT TO BE ENLARGED

To cope with increased business the directors of General Motors of Canada here will be doubled in capacity, and an additional 200 men will be employed in this unit. W. E. Davis assistant general manager of the company, announced.

The basement under the present stamping plant is being made ready for occupancy at a cost of about $46,000, and an additional $40,000 is being spent for new machinery. The new section of the plant will be in operation about March 1st.

The stamping plant, is used chiefly for the manufacture of fenders, hoods, radiator shells, and other sheet metal products used in making automobile bodies. The opening of a new plant at Walkerville, both of which assemble parts made in Oshawa, will relieve congestion centres, will, it is expected, increase the volume of work for the local plant.

The building program announced by General Motors includes a total of $100,000 in local building construction. It calls for the stamping plant alterations, a 6,000 ton coal storage building is being built at a cost of $40,000 and a considerable addition to the power house is under contract. BIG ADVANTAGE IN WINTERFRONT

Aselstines Are Agents For The Famous Pines Make

To the average motorist the prospect of facing the difficulties attending driving in the cold winter months coming is not the most pleasant in the world. A few short years ago, of course, motorists did not worry about it, for the majority of them put their cars away in the Fall and got them out again in the Spring.

But closed cars, car heaters, and hard surfaced highways have changed all that and have made the motor car as indispensable in winter time as it is during the balance of the year. Yet the one big trouble of cold engines remains a vexing problem.

This problem that has arisen until the introduction of the automatic Winterfront, the last known of the Pines Winterfront, the last known of the Pines Automatic Winterfront, handled locally by Aselstine and Sons, of Moira Street. This winterfront eliminates the necessity of excessive motor choking, which may easily prove costly to your motor, and its big advantage is that it operates entirely automatically, so that after the winterfront is put on your car, it is not to be given no further thought, but will do its work month after month efficiently: an arrangement such as the above on your car may save you a lot of money in motor repair bills.

BATTERY OFTEN NEGLECTED PART

Fall breezes, and the lure of the open road might not be ingredients found in a chemical laboratory, but they certainly bring about chemical or some other kind of reactions in the human mind and body. These reactions vary with different persons, but there is one symptom common to all auto owners—that is an irrepressible desire to overhaul the 'old car.'

"But while giving the rest of the car the once-over, do not forget that there is a storage battery hidden away under the floorboard," warns Mr. Chris Lewis, Willard dealer. "Spend wagons sometimes fail to speed if their batteries are neglected," he says. "The battery is the most neglected thing in the average motorist's car," Mr. Lewis claims. "Out of sight, out of mind" is also true about a battery. The motorist who is wise will have his battery examined and serviced before starting on that long-dreamed of hunting trip into the north."

123 LIVES YET TO BE ACCOUNTED FOR

Some Survivors May Be on Rescue Boats-Fear Heavy Loss of Life

CANDIDATES ARE NOT ANNOUNCING INTENTIONS YET

Four Names Mentioned As Possible Entrants in Mayoralty Race

GREENLEAF LIKELY

Present Council All Expected to Stand for Re-Election on Record

Less than two weeks away are the nominations for the civic offices of this city and one week later the citizens of Belleville will go to the polls to elect their governing officers for the coming year of 1929. As yet, few have announced their intentions as to what they intend to do, and although the names of four men stand out as mayoralty aspirants, none will be announced for some time yet.

M. P. Duff, the present mayor, Alderman R. A. Collins, Ex-Alderman George Ostrum and ex-Alderman Harry Greenleaf are the four men mentioned for the mayor's office next year. The first three mentioned when questioned by the Press today would not say what they intended to do, while Mr. Greenleaf would not say that he did not intend to run. It is learned from good authority, however, that he will allow his name to appear on the ballot.

Hot Election Expected

There is little doubt that the elections this year will be hotly contested as several local issues of importance will be coming before the public. It will be seen on the 3rd of December, the voting day, just what the opinion of the citizens of this city is with regard to the McColl Bros. gasoline station and the local sweeper. There are those who felt it was a mistake to allow the service station to appear on the main corner of this city, but now that it is there, and there legally, they see no reason why the Council should spend the city's money in a lawsuit to keep them from using the egress on to Front St.

More than likely the same aldermen who are in the Council this year will run again, with many new faces trying to make the grade. Last year's nominations were the largest in history, and it is likely that a new record will be set this year. At any rate, some of the aldermen will come in for some sharp questioning as to where they stood on certain subjects before they again see themselves re-elected.

MR. R. J. GRAHAM TELLS OF NILE

Gives Kiwanians Story of His Trip Up Egypts Great River

Kiwanians today listened to another of Mr. R. J. Graham's interesting addresses on Africa; this well known world traveller, always a welcome speaker at the local service club, described in his talk this afternoon, a boat trip from Cairo south up the Nile to the historic city of Khartoum. Mr. Graham's listeners got a vivid picture of a narrow winding river, whose shallow waters were infested with alligators and hippopotamus; of the natives living in indolence; and at the same time of a country capable of bringing wealth through paper to the enterprising concern which will produce it, for there are hundreds of square miles of papyrus, out of which may be made the best paper in the world.

Guests introduced were Messrs Al Stillman C. M. Reid, H. Ackerman, Kiwanian Cartwright of South Norwalk, and Mr. A. Fraser of the Department of National Revenue.

FACING CHARGES OF THEFT NOW

Robert Dafoe's Wife Also Has Him Up For Personal Abuse

Robert Dafoe, who was placed under arrest last week by the City Police when he was found asleep in a home at 21 Meyers St., appeared in Police Court this morning and was remanded for one week until the police could look into his record. He is charged with abusing his wife and stealing from the Canadian National Railway.

When Sergeant Booth searched a shed in the rear of 31 Meyers St. he found many articles which appeared to have been stolen from the railway company stored there, and Mrs. Dafoe then showed him a quantity of goods which were hidden at 9 1-2 Ely Street. Dafoe when arrested was taken to the hospital, as he was ill at the time, but police and doctors are now of the opinion that he was pretending to be sicker than he was. Between now and the time he will come up for trial again, it is expected that the stolen goods will have been traced to him.

MARY SMITH, 98 DIED YESTERDAY

Was One of Belleville's Oldest Residents; Lived Here 82 Years

One of the oldest residents of Belleville passed away yesterday in the person of Mary Smith, widow of the late Paul Smith, Mrs. Paul had attained the remarkable age of ninety-eight years. When Mrs. Smith came to Canada as the age of sixteen years the passage took three months from England. She has been a resident of Belleville for eighty-two years. Mrs. Smith had never had a doctor in her life, and at the time of her death suffered no illness, but slept peacefully away in a chair. Her husband predeceased her thirty-six years ago. The late Mrs. Smith was never on a train during her lifetime, and the journey from Kingston to Belleville was made on a sleigh.

Three sons survive, William, John and Paul, all of Belleville. Mrs. Smith was a member of St. Michael's Church and the funeral will be held from her home on Mary St. to St. Michael's church where requiem Mass will be sung.

MARKET NEARLY TOOK NOSE DIVE

Feverish Hoover Boom Halted at Noon, But Rallied Later

New York, Nov. 13.—The Hoover market which has been creating new altitude records almost daily for the past week, threatened to go into a nose dive today when squalls of selling swept through the list but was pulled up again. There was brisk selling when United States Steel common which has been the leader more than three points to a new high record at 168. Trade fell below yesterday's record breaking volume of transaction although the ticker again fell forty minutes behind the markets by early afternoon. A series of selling attacks around mid day undermined a number of high priced specialties. National Biscuit broke twenty points, Radio 12 1-4, Wrigley Acro 10 and Mexican Seaboard, American Express, Adams Express, Canadian Steel, International Nickel, American Smelting, Allied Chemical, Packard Motors, Barnsdall A., Eastman Kodak, and Canadian Pacific dropped four to seven points before sufficient buying support was forthcoming. All made partial recovery in the early afternoon, when Charles Mitchell, Chairman of the National City Bank announced that he and associates would buy stocks on any reasonable recession. Mr. Mitchell said that Smith and Hoover had agreed on the policies of the incoming administration and said that Smith had arrived from England on the C.P.R. liner Montcalm on October 29 and was immediately placed by the colonization association with a farmer named Joseph J. Tuck at Smyrna, Del. Police throughout eastern and western Canada had been wired in an effort to locate the boy.

MAN KILLED IN FREIGHT PILE-UP

CRASH REAR END OF CAR IN FRONT

Both Cars Damaged and Elmer York Had Face Injured

Elmer York of Oshawa suffered a badly cut jaw last night about eight o'clock and was treated at the Belleville Hospital by Dr. Morgan, when the car in which he was riding with his brother, G. H. York, also of Oshawa, was struck from behind by a Hudson car driven and owned by E. W. Dickens, of this city. The accident occurred on the new route of the city on the Provincial Highway.

Apparently both cars were coming in a railway crossing. Dickens' Hudson car, a Chevrolet sedan, stopped suddenly, the driver thinking he had come to a railway crossing. Mr. Dickens did not have time to stop his car, with the result that he crashed into the rear of the Chevrolet badly damaging the forward Booth of the City Police and Sergeant Clarke of the Provincial Police investigated the accident.

WIRELESS SAVES HUNDREDS FROM FOUNDERED LINE R 'VESTRIS' AS THEY ARE TOSS ED BY WILD SEAS

MISSING-IMMIGRANT

Only One Death Actually Known, All But One Raft Found

CAUSE IS UNKNOWN

Navy Department to Send Dirgible to Assist in Last Search

New York Nov. 13—First death from the "Vestris" disaster was reported by the battleship Wyoming which stated a man who had died from exposure was taken from a raft.

At Washington the navy dirigible "Los Angeles" was ordered to stand by in readiness to leave at dusk to assist in the search for survivers.

Of the 129 passengers and crew of 269, who escaped from the foundering steamer "Vestris" in life boats and rafts yesterday, all but a few had been picked up by rescue ships today. According to radio reports picked up here and there by stations on the coast only one life was still missing. It is not known how many persons were aboard.

The "Vestris", of the Lamport-Holt line was abandoned shortly after noon yesterday, 240 miles off Virginia coast. The first S.O.S. from the doomed ship came about 7 o'clock yesterday and while rescue ships were hurrying to the scene the further messages of disaster went out at 1.23 p.m. The first rescue ship to reach the place named in the message found nothing but wreckage and cruised about for some hours before picking up any boats.

Find All But One

Early this morning rescue ships reported that only one life boat and one raft were yet to be found and the navy knew that all but one had received from a foreign ship that the missing life boat had been found.

Survivors had the dreadful experience of being tossed about like corks in they craft in stormy sea beset by heavy rains and cold winds, while rescue ships searched for them in vain. The heavy fog made the finding of the boats impossible until morning.

In all messages that passed from ship to shore there was no word of any loss of life. It was thought that all those on board had managed to scramble aboard boats afd rafts.

Ship May Still Be Afloat

Wireless reports from rescue ships received at New York accounted for 202 of the 238 passengers and crew. Officials of Lamport-Holt line had no official advise that the ship was sunk and were still hopeful that she was afloat and salvageable.

Persons with the theory that their trouble might have been due to impr' vious cargo shifting. The Vestris was carrying 3,200 tons of freight including fruit, automobiles, cotton and tobacco. Rescued 123 People

Washington, Nov. 13.— Steamer "Americus" skipper reports she had picked up 38 passengers and 90 members of the crew of the steamer Vestris and would stand by to pick up others.

BACK FROM BIG Y.M. CONFERENCE

Report Great Time at Employed Boys Gathering in St. Catherines

A most successful conference of the Employed Boys of Ontario and Quebec of the Young Men's Christian Association has just been completed in St. Catherines, Ontario, and four young men from this city accompanied by the secretary of the local branch of YMCA were in attendance, Messrs. Gordon Mills, Harry Morgan, Robert Boyle and Archie Boyd, accompanied by Mr. Joe Shortt, secretary, returned yesterday from St. Kitts and reported one of the most successful meetings of this nature they had ever attended.

RESCUED TRAWLER'S CREW

Norfolk, Virginia, Nov. 13.—After a battle with heavy surf, coast guardsmen took six men off the trawler "Ruth Mildred", driven ashore at Virginia beach. The vessel is a total loss.

FEARED LOSS OF LIFE IS HEAVY

123 Persons Unaccounted For With Most of Life Boats Picked Up

New York, Nov. 13.—Compilation of radio reports at one p.m. showed 215 known rescued of passenger and crew of the Vesuris, one dead, and 123 still unaccounted for.

One man was known to be dead, a mother and child were floating in the waves and other vessels were probable as reports from the rescue fleet off Virginia Capes placed out the story of plucking out the lines.

At noon, nearly a full day since the 129 passengers and crew first were rescued ship in rafts, and lifeboats only 203 had been definitely accounted for and one of the life boat had been picked up. The dead man was found on wreckage where he had died from exposure.

Rescued 123 People

Washington, Nov. 13. — Steamer "Americus" skipper radioed she had picked up 38 passengers and 90 members of the crew of the steamer Vestris and would stand by to pick up others.

WOMAN AND CHILD ADRIFT

South Dartmouth, Mass., Nov. 13.—Radio messages received here today say a man from the Vestris picked up said a woman and child were also drifting on the wreckage nearby.

Found Last Life Boat.

New York, Nov. 13.—Coast guard rescue ship Tampa message picked up from a foreign vessel said that life boat number 12 of the liner Vestris had been found but no sign of one life raft reports still missing.

SEARCH SWAMP FOR YOUNG GIRL

Kirkfield, Ont., Nov. 13.—Search parties equipped with long rubber boots are searching swales and swamps near here for Gladys Robertson who disappeared from her home Friday night clad in pyjamas and a sweater coat. Belief that the girl was picked up by a motorist is current.

TO-DAY'S THOUGHT

Of all the evil spirits abroad at this hour in the world insincerity is the most dangerous.

FROUDE.

LAW MUST STEP IN TO END THIS ABUSE

The way of humans with their pets is past comprehension. People who are normally kind and considerate, and profess a special affection for dumb brutes, sometimes suffer strange lapses of conscience when their convenience is at stake. Every year complaints are received of holiday-makers leaving their cats and dogs to shift for themselves at home. This fate, except for the humane intervention of neighbors is inevitable—starvation or the pound. Now comes the report that even when dogs are taken away on the holiday (for selfish reasons) a great majority of them are left to perish, so as to save the slight expense incurred in bringing them back to town. These dogs are found useful on a holiday in the wilds; they give a sense of security and so earn their keep. But though their owners can afford a summer cottage, "according to those who have seen this thing going on for years" they are too mean to concern themselves about their pets when the summer season is over. In consequence is that large numbers of neglected dogs roam the north country in a starving condition, to fall prey finally to wolves.

Such is the testimony of residents in the Muskoka district. It is a disgraceful state of affairs, But that is not all. Hunters, it is charged, deliberately abandon their dogs when they return from trips up north. What sort of "sports" are people like these? Feeling they are removed from the clutches of the humane society officials they give free rein to their selfish inhumanity. There should be some more effective means of dealing with these callous hunters than merely appealing to their sense of decency, for in the hope may be entertained from such mild measures as this. If conditions are anything like so bad as represented, a stern example should be made of the offenders.

U. S. POLICY NOT FOR CANADA'S BENEFIT

Now that the presidential election in the United States is over, the question of main interest to Canadians is what will the policy of Mr. Hoover be in relation to other countries, and especially Canada? The president-elect leaves no room for doubt about his intentions to protect to the utmost native industries from outside competition; there will certainly be no weakening of the bars against foreign imports, but there will be an intensified effort to increase the volume of exports.

Canada is the best market for Uncle Sam; this Dominion now buys more goods from the United States than the Mother Country, Canada is purchasing yearly $250,000,000 worth of American goods more than she sells to that country. All indications are that, in manufactured articles, sales of Canadian products in the United States will be restricted more than ever under the new regime; but, on the other hand, the Canadian market will be exposed to a greater extent than formerly by American manufacturers. The drain on our raw materials will continue as before, and greater efforts will be made to induce Canadian consumers to buy back their own natural products in the form of finished articles.

In view of the announced policy of the newly-elected president, what is the Canadian government going to do about it? It will be said, perhaps, that little can be done; that the economic policies of the new administration cannot be changed at the desire or beck of Canadians. But effective measures might be taken in the interests of native industry.

Failing action by the government, the Canadian people themselves are in a position to bring about an improvement. All that is necessary is to give the preference to home productions or goods of Empire origin. This is a patriotic duty and it is obviously a course which would contribute to the welfare of consumers themselves. The Buy-in-Canada movement takes on more significance than ever in view of political developments across the border.

WILL OUR YOUTH BE READY FOR THE LOAD?

Lord Willingdon, our popular governor-general, addressed a meeting of young men in Montreal recently, including his speech with the following words: "A great responsibility lies with the young men and women of the British Empire, and I especially ask the young men of Canada today to take up that responsibility with all seriousness, to build up not only the material welfare, but the spiritual welfare of this great Dominion. I know you will shoulder this responsibility, and that you will do so with three great principles in mind, love of country, faith in the British Empire and complete love and devotion to our beloved sovereign, King George."

It was an inspiring picture which his lordship painted of the British commonwealth of nations all the dominions, covering the wide world, working together for the common weal and for the promotion of British ideals. "Canada is the first Dominion and should and will set the example," the governor-general said, in appealing to his young hearers to rise to the height of their privilege and opportunity.

The future of the Empire depends absolutely upon the amount of faith and courage of its young citizenry. If there is an adequate conception of the great mission of the British Commonwealth—the part it is destined to play in the pacification of the world—the response of young Canada to the challenge will be enthusiastic. The Empire is too much to be properly comprehended by any single unit. Lord Willingdon is personally acquainted with many different parts of the Empire, and his outlook is necessarily much bigger than that of people suffer from our stomachs. They call it indigestion. It means that the stomach nerves have been overstimulated. There is excess acid. The way to correct it is with an alkali, which neutralizes many times its volume in acid.

The right way is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia—just a tasteless dose in water. It is pleasant, efficient and harmless. It has remained the standard with physicians in the 50 years since its invention.

It is the quick method. Results come almost instantly. It is the approved method. You will never use another when you know.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acidity. Each bottle contains full directions—any druggists.

IMPRISONED

Above me floated gorgeous-hued
A wide-winged butterfly.
I leaped and caught it in my hand,
O cruel was I!

Imprisoned there, its beauty died,
Inert and dim it lay.
The glory of its lithely wings
Was brushed away.

The dreams that cloud-like float
Bright-fringed with fire divine,
I catch and prison fast in words
In metered line.

But captured thus, their glory dies.
All cold and dead they lie,
And for the thing that I have killed
I ever cry.

That Body of Yours

WHEN EMERGENCIES ARISE

You get into an argument with some one about politics sport,religions or other subjects, or perhaps you come through an exciting or depressing experience of some kind, and you find a "funny" or foreign taste in your mouth. You couldn't describe the taste but you have experienced it a number of times.

Perhaps you feel slightly sick at the stomach, your face is pale, with "beads of perspiration" on the forehead.

Research men at Harvard are trying to show that the little ductless adrenal glands, situated on top of the kidneys, are a factor in producing these results, due to emotional disturbances.

They tell us that these reactions which follow emotional disturbances tend to produce responses in us that are likely to benefit us.

There may be an outpouring of adrenal extract from these adrenal glands into the blood stream with consequent changes in the blood flow; blood sugar may be increased in amount because if the individual has to fight to defend himself, or even run away, he will need this extra sugar for the muscular effort he will have to put forth.

Mrs. Izquierdo and Cannon report that emotional excitement, for just short periods of time, is followed quickly by a pronounced increase in the number of red corpuscles in the blood.

The above means that you and I go about our daily occupations with the ordinary cares and little worries, joys and excitement, and the ordinary processes in the body take care of us without any outward reaction.

However, with emergencies such as extreme fear, a severe loss, a need for some unusual muscular effort, Nature stimulates the ductless glands, the adrenal gland and the spleen particularly, and blood with an increased number of red corpuscles, and an increased amount of sugar, is there in your vessels ready to help you. Just think of that for a moment. When extreme needs arise, and they must arise in all lives, there is this "friendly force" behind that body of yours.

Los Angeles, Nov. 10.—A menacing pillar of fire shooting from a burning gas well at Santa Fe Springs, today endangered the whole petroleum field. Damage already caused estimated at five million. Long lines of fire fighters worked feverishly through the night.

TEN WOMEN MAYORS ELECTED IN BRITAIN

London, Nov. 10.—Ten women were among more than three hundred mayors elected in England yesterday.

There were no women Lord Mayors, but Norwich, first city to elect a woman to that post, for the first time elected a woman sheriff.

EDITOR VISITS OLD HOME

Mr. C.B. Vanblaricom, editor of the "Canada Lumberman," a magazine with a large circulation, was in Belleville over the past week-end. Mr. Vanblaricom, who was accompanied by his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Robertson, was the guest of his sister who resides in this city.

MR. BARLOWE SICK

The many friends of Mr. V. W. Barlowe were sorry to hear that he is confined to his home with a severe attack of influenza. Mr. Barlowe's condition was reported as good to-day however.

THANKSGIVING SPIRIT

Monday there came to the office of the Childrens Aid Society, a sweet little maid accompanied by her father, Mr. R. Gorman, with a donation of four dollars ($4). This had been raised by a children's Show given by herself and her little friends, namely: Helen Mays, Jeane Mays, Rose Laister, Catherine Taylor, Ruth Kennedy. This is encouraging and shows a kindly spirit of Thanksgiving in thinking of others. The C.A.S. Board appreciate this kindly act and thank these little home missionaries.

OVERCOAT SALE

We are offering a number of Ready to-Wear Winter Overcoats, regular price $25 to $45. Sale price, $15 to $25, to clear quickly. Arthur McCoy, 206 Front St. nl3 & 14

ORANGE CARD PARTY

The first Orange card party of the season was held last evening in the New Orange Hall under the auspices of the Orange Lodges, and despite the inclemency of the weather was largely attended.

Many indulged in progressive euchre and Jimmy Compston was keen for the valuable and useful prize es offered.

After the conclusion of the cards a dainty lunch was served. Those successful in the card competition were as follows:

Euchre, Ladies—Mrs. Mossman, 1st; Mrs. Laughlin, 2nd; Mrs. Smith, 3rd.

Gents—Mr. S. Crout, 1st; Mr. J. Savage, 2nd; Mr. Buck, 3rd.

Rummy—Mrs. Soules, 1st; Miss Gerow, 2nd. After the prizes were distributed, dancing was indulged in until 12 o'clock with Jack Richards at the Piano.

The affair was most pleasing in all its details and the committee in charge are to be congratulated upon the success which attended their efforts.

WELL UNDER WAY

The work of the extension to the New Queen's Hotel was well under way this morning, ahead of the holiday. The ground adjoining the hotel is all broken and workmen were busy getting ready to place the foundations of the new wing to the hotel.

POOR MARKET

Bellevillians must have done the majority of their shopping on Saturday, for it was a poor market this morning. Vegetables, the few that were displayed, maintained the same price as Saturday, while eggs had not dropped from their sixty cent level and butter was as yet fifty cents the pound. There was little or no fruit for sale and McIntosh Reds, Ontario's finest apple, were a minus quantity.

ARMISTICE DANCE

About seventy-five couples attended the Armistice Night Dance held in the Victory Memorial Hall by the Canadian Legion on Front Street last evening, and a fine time was had by all. Reg. Brockhurst's Ace High Orchestra supplied the music in their own inimitable style, and with a nine piece orchestra made dancing easy. The door prize, a fine quilt, was pieced and tied by Mrs .Shepherd, while the Spot Dance was won by Mr. W. Batchelor and Miss H. Shepherd. The Elmination Waltz provided some of the best fun of the evening and was finally won by a mother and son, Mrs. B. Batchelor and Mr. W. Batchelor. Dancing started at 9.30 o'clock and continued until one o'clock this morning.

DAVID CROSKEY DEAD

A. Thompson, William street, received a telegram today telling of the death of Mr. David Croskey, at Kinburn, Ont. The deceased is the father of Mrs. Roy Atkins of Stirling and brother-in-law of Mr. J. A. Thompson. Mr. Croskey's death was due to heart failure.

DANCE AT MOOSE

A holiday dance was held last night in the Moose Auditorium and a large crowd took advantage of the splendid music supplied by Rhythm Kings and a number of Rhythm Kings to spend a delightful evening. The first part of the entertainment took the form of a concert party and the winners for this occasion were: Ladies first prize, Mrs. Smith; second prize, Mrs. Bradshaw; third Mrs. Seney. The gentlemen's 1st prize was won by Mr. Roberg; second Mr. Rigsby; third Mr. Kilgour. The orchestra was enhanced by the presence of Sweezy Stevens, on banjo, and Bob Turney, saxaphonist, who have been playing with a Kingston orchestra and returned last night to join the Rhythm Kings. Refreshments were served and brought the dance to a close in the early hours.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES

In spite of the cold rainy weather the three mile road race and interpublic school relay were run off yesterday. History repeated itself in that last years winners again captured the title to both events. Bert Girling, without previous training was able to step out and win the three mile run in very fair time. This no doubt would not have been better had he been hard pressed. Phillip Dodds of Picton was in second place covering the course in 19 m. 30 secs., while the winner negotiated the circuit in 19 m.

The Ontario School for the Deaf, Queen Victoria, Queen Mary, and Bellevillians schools were represented in the inter school relay. Requesting their performance of last year the boys from the O.S.D. will retain possession of the Street for another year. Queen Victoria School ran them a close second with Queen Alex under in third. The respective teams were composed of the following runners:

O.S.D.—Robt. Thompson, Kerwin Foster, Nichols Jason, Francis Mayette.

Queen Victoria—Ten Saunders, Don Garispy, Mason Rigby, Jim White.

Queen Mary—Jack Juby, Bill Bland, Earl Hay, Bob Tarlington.

Queen Alexander— Jim Matthews, Sid White, Bill Lindsay, Jack Kidd.

DEATHS AND FUNERALS

JAMES E. ANDERSON

The funeral of the late James E Anderson took place on Saturday afternoon from his late residence, the 5th concession of Ameliasburg, to Albury cemetery, where interment took place. The services both at the house and the grave were conducted by the Rev. H. Wilkinson. The funeral was under Masonic auspices, and Mr. C. Coleman and Orant Sprague of Lake Ledge, Robbins Mills, officiated. The bearers were Mr. Wesd. O. Peacock, A. Kinnear, C. Bl nnear, W Morton and F. Russell.

Then for sour stomach cause you discomfort. This form of relief has helped many who thought their disorders could not be helped.

TODAY'S MARKET

WHEAT PRICES FIRMER

Chicago, November 13—Influenced by Argentine despatches telling of fear of just damage wheat values here developed firmness early today. Previously, however, the Chicago market was easy owing more or less to bearish estimate of the Canadian crop. Starting as 1-8 off to 1-4 higher Chicago wheat underwent slight sag at outset and then scored general gains. Corn, oats and provisions averaged lower with corn starting at 5-8 decline to 1-8 advance and subsequently holding near to initial limits.

GIVE NATURE A CHANCE

Nature at every moment of your existence is standing by your side as a strict guardian of your body. But you must not impose fixture or treat her disdainfully. You must give her an opportunity to work unhindered in your body.

The brain is the great generator of nerve energy which is the basis of body function. This nerve energy is transmitted over the nerve cables to the various systems tissues and cells of the body.

When you turn off the electric light switch you do not expect the light to burn. Do you think we have any more right to expect our organs to function when the life force is shut off?

Just For The Feminine Reader

SUCH THINGS OFFENDED HER

We saw a pertinent subject discussed in the column of a contemporary recently, namely the use of "I" in the objective case. For instance, "between you and I" is frequently heard to offend the ear. And also it is not unusual to hear someone say "he gave it to you and I". Such expressions look horrible in print, but they rise easily to the lips of a surprising number of people. And usually it is the person who is trying to be especially particular who uses such phrases. This one temporary says if one must use bad grammar she would prefer it to be outrageously bad, and say "them things." Where, oh where, are the fine things of our youth and the lessons of later years? Surely something could be done to curb this monstrosity in the form of sin against the decencies of speech.

OUR INFLUENCE WILL END WARS.

In an address at the inaugural meeting of the Wilfred Laurier Club in Montreal, Senator H. K. Laflamme declared that "Whether or not women have the vote, it is they who by their influence can bring about the end of wars. Women have a mission, laid that is, to form public spirit, which is so much needed" he said. "I have no set ideas on suffrage. If men have taken to the disagreeable task of government nevertheless it is women who rule. There are many reasons for giving the vote to women. They will never traffic in votes.

"Universal peace will not come about through the deliberations of diplomats but through the deliberations of humanity—through the women of the world at large. Their interest is not to raise children for slaughter. I distrust the prophecies of peace; it can only come about through the influence of women."

WOMEN MUST LEARN INDEPENDENCE

Health, married happiness and one's attitude toward one's work seems to be three paramount problems before successful business women, judging from opinions expressed by outstanding women in the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs of the United States.

Compatibility, unselfishness and humor were the three first principles for happy marriage, argued a woman attorney from Reno, who had considerable opportunity for observation.

"With these basic qualities, love will be the wedding force to hold a couple together. If married children are needed, too, for the really happy marriage?"

Dr. Bertha H. Maxwell, from Williamsport, Pa., thought that should be the first consideration of all working women. Other problems must be solved in turn. But, given health, everything else was easy. So she said:

"Good health should be the first law of success. If you have it, keep it; if you do not have it, gain it and hold it.

"A proper diet, intelligently balanced is the biggest factor in the maintenance of health of any business or professional woman who aims at continued success.

"One's choice of food is a gauge of her intelligence. Too often the enjoyment of food is given preference over the mental satisfaction which comes from having one's body nourished at too well. The overfed human produces slow brain and inaction.

"Clean the stomach and the digestive organs call a halt on other functions of the body while they commence too large a share of the body's energy to take care of excess food."

Frances Ettinger Raymond, prominent Pacific Coast business woman said women still needed adjusting psychologically to their jobs, before they could approach success. She felt that, too, by women still got and held their jobs because they were women instead of efficient human beings.

"The World Psychological Conference reported that men fail because they are emotionalists," she stated. "We business women know that in crises, emotion disrupts thinking, blurs issues and blights progress.

"Genuine emotion that carries the thrill and fire of endeavor; emotion that is subtle, searching and honest is the very heart beat of success.

"But for the love of business, sex appealing women should cut out the hurt feelings, the dewy eyes, trembling lips the 'please I'm just a woman' stuff. Women must learn to take their punishments, their corrections, with fighter's not a sob-sister's spirit."

Advice to Girls

By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a boy nearly eighteen years of age, and have been going with a girl since I was quite young. I went with a girl about four months last spring and was really sold on love with her. I left town in June to spend the Summer in the North and she got worn on her vacation. We corresponded for a while but the last letter I wrote to her she failed to answer. While away I renewed my friendship with an old acquaintance of mine and after spending the Summer with her I brought her back with me to spend the Winter with me and my folks. I see now that I have made a big mistake and I want to go with my old girl again as she has returned to the city. Every time I see her I think of the good times we had together and almost cry. She has asked me for all the things that she gave to me while we were going together, including her photo. Must I return it or what must I do.

UNDECIDED.

UNDECIDED: Only one thing for you to do, as I can see it, Undecided, and that is do as the young lady asks. Naturally you have hurt her by your actions, and you know you cannot really blame her. However it might be that the whole think will work out to your ultimate satisfaction, if you are frank with both the girls. Tell them how you feel about the matter, and I am sure they will understand. It may, of course, be a shock to the young lady who is visiting in your home but she will eventually think more of you for your frankness than if you deceived her. But make absolutely sure of yourself before you do anything. Your letter gives me the impression that you are more or less fickle, so be sure you are right, then go ahead!

During 1925-26 the total number of cranes in London (population 7,476,168) was 15,662, compared with 1,083 in New York (population 5,924,179.)

Gay Adventurers By Mildred Barbour

CHAPTER 20.

TWO WILLS

If Sheila expected the Count de Bellefonte would take a card in the presence of Harry Edmonds and order him from her suite, she was mistaken.

When he began to speak, he said, in his silkiest manner:

"My dear Constance your manners have vanished as if by magic."

"Jerusalem," Harry corrected, him quickly.

"What does it matter?" said Bellefonte, with a smile. "The point is that she is well. And now, my dear Mr. Edmonds," he added turning to Harry, "I have a matter of the greatest importance that I wish to discuss with Miss Kerr. Would you be so kind—"

Harry bowed. "Certainly, I'll phone you tomorrow, Constance."

He kissed her hand and left the room.

Sheila stared after him for a moment and then turned to Bellefonte. Neither man suspected that she was not Constance Kerr. Amazing! And what a shock they were due to receive when the real Constance should arrive.

Bellefonte's manner changed as soon as the the door closed behind Harry. He motioned the maid to leave the room and then, walking up to Constance, who stood near the window he said, very quietly:

"Last night when I said I would announce your marriage and cable the news to your father, unless you decided not to see Edmonds, you told him you were not to see him. Why did you receive him this evening when you knew you were a pies of illness? Answer me at once," he added as she turned away.

"Why, I—he just—just walked in" Sheila stammered. "I didn't expect him. Honestly."

"Will you pardon me, if I say that I don't believe you?" interposed the Count. "Your statement doesn't ring true. You and your maid tell me you were ill and couldn't see me. Then I find you in the arms of Harry Edmonds. Please explain."

Sheila took an inspiration. "Jean," he said, with an air of great patience "you know how stupid my maid is. I don't know what she told you but evidently it was all wrong. Don't you remember how she got everything mixed up the night I arrived in Paris—when you telephoned me here? I did tell her to say that I was ill—you know I was last evening, but I didn't tell her to say I couldn't see you. Really, Now are you going to be cross with me just because Panchette doesn't understand English?"

"Well, talk to her in French then," he muttered.

"I shall have to," she asserted. "But I wanted to give her as much practice as possible in speaking English because she wants to go to America. However, I'll have to give up that idea, if it is going to make trouble between us. I can't have you misunderstood—or angry at me. So, indeed!"

"All right," he returned, much mollified. "That's settled. Now let me tell you of the plan that I have for reuniting your father and our marriage. I have a friend who has large rubber interests in the Congo. Your father is also—"

"Jean," she interrupted desperately. "Listen to me. I had a message from my father—from Mr. Kerr—from my father a little while ago. He's coming here."

"He knows of our marriage then?" "Heaven forbid. He would tear up his will, if he did, and make a new one, leaving every cent to charity. You have no idea how opposed he is—as well anyway. I dont want him to know."

"But let me tell you my plan for overcoming his objections. You don't know—"

"I know my own father," she said decisively. "And you don't. Remember this. And, by the way, I suppose it was you who sent that idiotic message to my aunt, saying that I was ill?"

He nodded.

"That was a silly thing to do" she continued, "but I wired her not to come. Father doesn't get on with her."

"Yes, yes," he returned. "Now let me tell you my plan—"

"I can't have father bothered at this critical time," she continued.

Bellefonte clinched his hands in rage.

"Constance," he said, in exasperation, "are you one of these terrible women who never let a man finish a sentence? My friend who has large rubber interests in the Congo, will go to your father, who also has—"

"Now, Jean," she laughed, "if you have any idea that my father will trade me off for a rubber plantation in the Congo, you simply don't know him. And, furthermore, you must let me talk to you very frankly. Until I have seen father and have had an opportunity to explain everything to him and he has forgiven me for disobeying him you must abandon this proprietary manner that you have assumed toward me. Of course, I love it, and it's most becoming to you, but it will cause talk. People will say we've been, at least. Now I'm really afraid" Harry noticed it, and I'm also afraid that he didn't like it, either.

The Count gave a howl of anger. "Do you think I care?" he fairly shouted.

"Jean," she said severely: "are you one of these detestable men who never let a woman finish a sentence? I was going to say that I'd better have lunch with Harry tomorrow and undo what damage you did tonight, if possible."

WHAT'S NEW

(From A Woman's Standpoint)

Clowns are being cut very low this season and those women with unsecure backs have camouflaged with flesh tulle in many instances.

Fur wraps are being put on a yoke to give added fullness and swing but straight-lined coats are just as modish.

They're tried and tried ,to get us away from flesh hose but it is explained that flesh hose match one's face and hands and therefore harmonize with any becoming frock.

A New York observer writes: "Again comes back the short hair cut. I knew it! Just as soon as the sag my of hair growing and the bad stage is over, back the ultra short cut would come."

The evening coat of princess aspiration is gaining in vogue in Paris and developed in moire, in satin or in gorgeous metallic tissues, these coats are among the most beautiful that are being shown in Fifth Avenue shops.

One Paris designer has several lame moire dresses which barely clear the hpels in back and the extreme length is broken in front by a narrow slit which permits the knee-length front skirt. Paris still seems to consider ankles essential.

Little details of originality and beauty make the frock this season and for instance one Paris designer to vary and relieve the simple lines of an un-trimmed black velvet evening gown, placed a dark velvet rose carnation in the exact centre of the neck line.

FIND TRACE OF ANCIENT RACE

Expedition To Mimbres Valley Has Startling Scientific Results

Minneapolis, Minn.— Evidence of the history of a race which lived in the Mimbres Valley in New Mexico centuries ago, and which, as far as the evidence shows, apparently vanished about 700 years ago, was given by Dr. Albert E. Jenks, chairman of the Department of Anthropology at the University of Minnesota in a lecture at the Minneapolis Institute of Arts.

Dr. Jenks reported to members of the institute on the findings of its expedition into the Mimbres Valley last summer and which he headed.

The mysterious race studied is estimated to have lived in the valley from about the time of Christ until about 700 years ago.

Dr. Jenks told of the finding of beautiful pieces of pottery of strange design; of stone and adobe houses, built one layer upon another; of fire places built in the floors of houses and of peculiar burial customs.

"Nearly all of the pottery found in the excavations we made were 'kill' pieces," said Dr. Jenks. "That is, each one had a small hole broken in to its bottom before being buried with a dead person.

"The cause kill has been given these mutilated pieces because of the belief that the people who used them broke them to kill them so that the spirit of the vessel, supposedly the favorite of the person with whom it was buried, might leave the vessel at the same time the dead person's spirit left his body.

"The expedition, which sought skeleton remains for the University as well as pottery for the Art Institute, worked by finding traces of house walls on the surface of the ground and then excavating in the floor level.

"The bodies were found buried just below the adobe floors. In nearly every case, a bowl, with its bottom punctured, was found placed over the cranial bones of the skeleton.

"In one bowl," said Dr. Jenks, "we found what we believed was ground corn contained in a vessel and buried beneath an overturned bowl. All the members of the party tasted the material. Just a few days ago a chemistry test completed at the University revealed that the material was burned bone tissue. It was the first case of the cremation of a body found in the valley."

WHEAT FOR INDIA TO AVERT FAMINE

Vancouver, November 10—For the first time in history Canadian wheat is being shipped to India to relieve a serious shortage in that wheat exporting country. The British steamer Larchbank sailed for Calcutta today with 294,725 bushels of No. 2 northern wheat. In three weeks time another shipment of 225,000 bushels will go to India on the steamer Shakespeare. Both ships are under charter to Louis Dreyfus & Co., a $100,000,000 exporting concern with branches all over the world.

J. P. MacAulay, the Dreyfus local manager explained that the wheat is urgently needed because of a threatened famine. There is also a mixture of wheat from Australia and the Argentine on the Larchbank. It will be milled in India.

He works with MAGIC

THIS MAN is putting up telephone poles. Early in the morning he is out making a way for the wire that is to come. At night when the gang gets back to camp he is tired.

But he likes it. There is zest in the work he is doing, for he is in new country. There have never been telephones here before.

He is blazing the trail. After him will come families and homes and stores and factories to make another city. Over the wires on the poles he plants there will be voices and laughter, business will hum, all the world will draw closer.

He works with magic. The wire transforms time and distance. Today you can lift the telephone at your elbow and within seven minutes hear the voice of your friend in England say: "Are you there?"

* * * *

THIS MAGIC in the telephone has not come in a day. It has come with year after year of experiment and improvement. The telephone of today is no more like the first telephone than a machine gun is like a bow-and-arrow.

And the telephone of tomorrow will surpass the telephone of today. Tomorrow perhaps, this telephone at your elbow will bring you the face of the person you talk with, will hold new magic we now do not dream of.

THIS IS the urge to improve — to seek and to find something always better — which has been the definite policy of the telephone-business since the first crude instrument reproduced the voice of its inventor fifty-odd years ago.

By no other policy could the telephone have kept pace with this country — or contributed to its progress as it has done in reducing Canada's wide distances and differences of geography.

And by no other policy can the telephone now meet the responsibility of serving Canada's future.

CANADA'S FUTURE is at least twenty years of unprecedented growth and prosperity. All the signs and barometers of business point to it. All the shrewdest prophets of business predict it.

The signs and the prophets are so sure, and the future is so unmistakable, that within the next five years more money will be needed for extension of the telephone system in Ontario and Quebec than was spent by the business in all its first forty years.

THE MAN pushing poles and wire into new country and the foresight which now is planning over one hundred million dollars of new plant to meet the needs of the next five years come from the same policy and the same purpose — to give Canadians facilities of communication worthy of their country and its future.

Published by The Bell Telephone Company of Canada to tell you something about the telephone business and the people in it.

RADIO NEWS

The stand-off insulator may be recognized as one of the few items in radio that has withstood the onslaughts of the research and fashion engineers; probably for no better reason than that it has always given service, and to all appearance will continue to do so in spite of continued inventive progress. Many of us would care to see a large number of insulators to secure the lead-in more firmly; here is one that not only serves the purpose admirably, but has the added advantage of costing but a few cents. An ordinary shelf bracket is fastened to the side of the house, or wherever the stand-off is desired, and a porcelain cleat of the type used in house wiring is bolted to the extreme end. The wire to be insulated is passed through the other end of the cleat. There is an added advantage in being able to obtain these brackets in various sizes to suit the needs of the builder.

Station WIXAY, located at Lexington, Mass. (near Boston), is broadcasting both television and "radio movies" on a wavelength of 61.5 metres at 48-hole disc revolving at 900 revolutions per minute, being used. This station has been authorized by the Federal Radio Commission to use a wide modulation band for experimental purposes. No definite schedule of transmission has been given; but owners of short-wave receivers can easily pick up the signals and learn the schedule from the broadcast announcements.

It often seems that, in their eagerness to be among the first to make use of a new tube, some radio engineers, fans and writers do not give due consideration to the proper use of such tubes. In some instances, this has been the case with the 250 type tube.

This tube was primarily brought forth to satisfy the demand for power amplifiers for use in auditoriums and other large gathering places. When used in such connections, the use of an amplifier before the last stage capable of providing a voltage amplification sufficient to bring out the best in the power stage is required.

The use of a push-pull power stage using two 250 tubes is not generally recommended, except for instances where extraordinarily large power output is required. Certainly such an amplifier has no place in the average home.

For ordinary home use the greatest advantage of the 250 tube lies in the fact that it will give, with lower plate voltages an output equivalent, to that obtained with a 210-type tube at much higher voltages. For home use therefore, the plate voltage used should not be higher than 200 volts.

Notwithstanding all that has been written on the simplicity and ease of short-wave reception, the beginner in this field should not feel that the rewards of transoceanic broadcasting is merely a matter of snapping the switch, twirling the dial and, immediately thereafter annoying the neighbors with the blasts of PCJJ or 8SW. It simply isn't done. Long-distance reception on short waves is much like DXwork on the broadcast bands; for the same amount of patience, a dogbig quantity of perseverance, and an expert knowledge of the working characteristics of the receiver are essential for the former, just as they have been found necessary for successful results on the latter.

CANADA'S CROPS WORTH A BILLION

Montreal, Que., (By C. P.)— Canada's agricultural crops are worth more than $1,500,000,000 a year — equal in the receipts from the Dominion's fisheries, mines and forests combined—according to Dr. E. S. Archibald, Director in charge of the Dominion Experimental Farm, at Ottawa, in a recent address here. He quoted the above figures to emphasize the importance of agriculture, which he characterized as one of the leading industries of the country, an industry which had greater possibilities and more stability than could be found in any other country. He declared that Canada was the best country in the world for farming.

BELLE THEATRE

OYSTERMEN GET CHANCE
BEFORE MOVIE CAMERAS

From the rose of oysterman to that of motion picture player is a long leap but that is what happened recently to 18 seamen of St. Michaels, Maryland.

Overnight the little town located on the Miles River off Chesapeake Bay was transformed into a motion picture studio with the arrival of an entire company from Hollywood. There to produce, "The First Kiss." The screen play co-stars Fay Wray and Gary Cooper, and now shooting at the Belle theatre.

Eventual was the oyster fleet and hardy had the company arrived when casting directors sought out the oystermen, many of whom had never seen a motion picture camera before.

Three days later, 18 of them were battling grasspaint under the direction of the makeup men and all will be seen on the screen in "The First Kiss."

The men picked a supporting cast which includes Lane Chandler, Leslie Fenton, Paul Fix, Malcolm Waite, and George Nash.

Rowland V. Lee, directed the production.

In all the history of literature, no work has achieved the sensational, universal popularity that attributed to "Uncle Tom's Cabin," now at the Belle. From 1852, when the novel by Harriet Beecher Stowe first startled an entire world, it has gone into literally thousands of editions.

It has been translated into every known language and dialect on the face of the earth, as well as copied into the Braille, the printed language of the blind.

Even today, 75 years after publication, "Uncle Tom's Cabin" enjoys a supremacy in the literary world envied by both budding and established authors. From the quaint, old-production, rough paper, 5-and-10-cent store editions to the de luxe, leather-bound gift copies, fortunes are still being made from the sale of the book.

On the stage, "Uncle Tom's Cabin" has appeared in every known variety of presentation. Tent show, wagon show, dime museum, repertoire, vaudeville, burlesque, drama, comedy—all have played "Tom" shows. Back in 1901, in Des Moines, Iowa, "Uncle Tom's Cabin" was presented in operatic form, for just one performance. It was not a success. In unforeseen financial difficulties but it quite rounded out the garland of varieties of stage productions.

Recently, radio station WOBS in New York broadcast Uncle Tom's Cabin", as a radio play. It brought thousands of appreciative responses from fans and friends of radio at least.

To cap the climax, the most pretentious offering of the immortal novel in the history of the drama in its gala motion picture premiere yesterday at the Regent theatre under the auspices of Universal Pictures Corporation. This

CAMBRIDGE ACCEPTS GIFT OF $3,000,000

London, November 13—The governing body of Cambridge University decided today to accept the offer of $3,000,000 from the Rockefeller Foundation for the establishment of new science laboratories. Acceptance of the gift is plies acceptance of the conditions, which call on Cambridge to raise $1,-145,000 in addition.

There had never been much opposition to accepting the gift or its conditions, but such as there was collapsed at today's meeting. When the university senate discussed the matter recently only one dissenting voice was heard—that of Dr. F. C. Beatie, who protested that it would direct the whole power of the university toward the fields of science and make Cambridge "nothing but a kind of outhouse" to the botany or psychology departments.

OLD GUARD WINS THE ANNUAL THANKSGIVING DAY RUGBY GAME

Shades of Other Teams Appeared For A Time Yesterday

SCORE 2-0

Game Played At New Collegiate Campus Attracts Fair Crowd

Belleville Old Boys upheld their reputations as being a hard-hitting, tough aggregation yesterday afternoon at the New Collegiate Campus when they defeated the last year's team of the High School by two points to nothing. Although plainly lacking good condition, the Old Boys still retained enough of the tricks of their younger days to put it over on their rivals.

Members of several really fast Belleville High School teams came back to the spectators as they saw Abe Dies, star of five or six years ago, Harry Redfern, Don Ketchem, Johnny Walbridge and all the others trot out on the field. And the last year's team had the stars too. Bud Galway was out in a collegiate uniform for the first time this year and went through for several gains in his style of last year, while Big Ross was about the hardest man on the field to catch once he got moving.

Harry Redfern booted one over the touchline early in the first quarter for the first point of the game, and from then on it was a hard struggle, each team trying hard for a touchdown, which failed to materialize. With their backs to their own line on one occasion, the Collegiate boys took their play from their line a good seventy yards down the field by means of a beaut ful end run with lots of passins from Ross to Jack Redfern and finishing up with the speed merchant, Galway.

Their efforts were unsuccessful, how ever, but they had the satisfaction of knowing that they made their yards on more occasions than the Old Timers, who resorted to the three plays, they knew, a buck, an end run and a kick. And as we have said before, it was on kicking that they won the game, as Redfern booted them in his high and the experienced Old Boys' ends gave the Collegiate backfield no chance to get away. So there it stands for another year, until next Thanksgiving afternoon.

STIRLING WILL ORGANIZE CLUB

An enthusiastic meeting of those interested in the King of Winter Sport—Hockey, was held in the Agriculture Office on Tuesday night. The officers were elected for this year as follows: Pres., R. W. Meiklejohn; 1st Vice-Pres., E. Leury; 2nd Vice-Pres., Jas. Lasgrow; 3rd Vice-Pres., Henry Tulloch; Secretary, F. C. McClure; Treasurer, Dr. J. H. Outhridge.

Managing Committee—W. J. Whitty, H. Tulloch, Jas. Lagrow, John Ackers, H. Ackers, A. E. Dobbie.

Entertainment Committee—Earl Eggleston, F. C. McClure, W. Wright, E. Sandercock, Jar. Leury.

Delegates to Trent Valley League:—W. J. Whitty, E. Leury.

Manager of Hockey Team— W. J. Whitty.

Prospects are bright for another fast team again this year and no doubt ere the season commences a fast article will be whipped into shape. The Red and Whites will be out again to recapture the League trophy which follows: Pres., R. W. Meiklejohn; 1st was won by Stirling last year.

YOUR EYES and Our Service

By J. A. McFEE, Optometrist Belleville

Old sight or difficulty in seeing close up, does not interfere with distant seeing?

No, the distant vision is generally as good as ever, but the reading and other close work is difficult or impossible.

It is a mistake to try to do close work when presbyopia is present?

Yes, the strain is sure to result if the eyes do not be comfortably and with ease.

Old sight is caused by age?

Yes as the name indicates.

What mistake do those with old sight make?

Because they see well in the distance, they believe their near vision must also be good.

McGILL UNIVERSITY WINS COLLEGE TITLE

Proudly floating from the intercollegiate matched once more are the red and white colors of old McGill.

The greatest throng that ever gazed down on a gridiron struggle from the opening heights of Molson stadium saw the nine year quest for a senior rugby title brought to an end Saturday as McGill turned back Varsity, 13-7, in a thrilling, throbbing encounter that was replete with wide open football and spectacular play.

Smartness at critical moments, and field generalship reminiscent of the down field play of the four-time champion Queen's team, won for McGill over a befuddled Varsity twelve that commanded three-quarters of the advantage in individual yet failed to score when opportunities offered. The heavy Toronto front rank lived up to its reputation as the most powerful in the intercollegiate union, and the plunges bore through the McGill line as if it were tissue paper, but, like the Varsity teams of the past, it lacked its force-on those marches down the field, and flopped hopelessly in front of the McGill goalposts.

SPORTOGRAMS

Yesterday afternoon saw one of the best Rugby games of the season played when the Old Guard, makers of rugby history in Belleville High School, turned out to play the present day representatives of the new Belleville Collegiate and Vocational School. And it was one hard fought battle from beginning to end.

Even though the Belleville Collegiate were put out of the running this year by the Albert College aggregation, they turned out in goodly numbers to back the Old Boys work for a victory, and they held their end up in fine shape. Many old Belleville High School players are making their names in the rugby ball of Toronto, Kingston fields, and those who played at the High School grounds yesterday have made names for themselves in other schools where they have gone to finish their academic training.

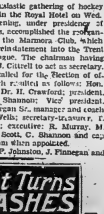

Albert College will play either at home or abroad this Wednesday, when they meet either Petrboro or Oshawa for their championship series with Ontario. Both of these teams have been practicing faithfully for this all important scrappe and will be right on their toes for a win Points will count on the round and the team which gets a few points lead tomorrow will be well on their way for the championship.

McGill University won the Intercollegiate championship in Saturday and now it on their merits. Varsity were hardly given an outside chance for the game and consequently the title, but practically all the fans were pulling for the varsity win, the reason being that it was a known fact that McGill did not intend to go out for the Ontario championship. If McGill only trailed the bad friends she was making he r-fusing to go on there is little doubt but that she would continue. Balmy Beach and Varsity are the other winners, and they lose much of the profit that they were counting on by McGill refusing to continue.

MARMORA STARTS A HOCKEY TEAM

An enthusiastic gathering of hockey fans, held in the Royal Hotel on Wednesday evening, under the presidency of F. R. Wells, accomplished the organization of the Marmora Club, which will ask for reinstatement into the Trent Valley League. The chairman having asked W. J. Cittrell to act as secretary, the latter called for the election of officers which resulted as follows: Hon. president, Dr. H. Crawford; president, Alphonse Shannon; Vice' president, John Finnegan Sr., manager and coach Fred R. Wells; secretary-treasurer, C. W. Hubbell; executive: R. Murray, M. Auger, G. Scott, G. Shannon and captain of team when appointed.

FOOTBALL

What was probably the first regular game of football ever played in Ontario under Australian rules was played on the grounds of S. S. 20 on Friday night. The opponents were Queen Victoria, (Harvey Cup Holders) and the Thurlow Boys. It was amply proved that play under this code can be very fast and interesting, with a wealth of unexpected plays. But for the wonderful goal tending of Charlie Wagner, a worse score than 8—0 would have been returned. Mason Rigby was the mainspring of the winning G.V.S. boys.

APPRECIATION

On November 2 the Picton Collegiate Institute team of which everyone has been proud of this year was presented with a cheque for approximately $100 contributed by citizens of the town and county. Mr. O. M. Hicks made the presentation and extended congratulations to the boys on their splendid showing. He said that the citizens appreciated the handicap under which the team had operated with regard to its funds, the expensive nature of equipment, uniforms, etc. and were presenting the club with this financial assistance. Mr. Ostrom accepted the cheque on behalf of the club and expressed his deepest appreciation for this most generous but unlooked for assistance. He was pleased to learn that the people of the town were becoming acquainted with the splendid record of the team this year and assured Mr. Hicks that the money would be applied in detail; the expenses incurred when taking on any away-from-home match or equipment. Gordon Vanover as captain of the team, thanked Mr. Hicks and the citizens for their splendid support and encouragement. Mr. Baxter, as spokesman for the boys, also spoke of the generality and kindness. Mr. Shaver, the principal, took the opportunity to express his pleasure at the manner in which Picton supported the various school activities. The people's pride in their school and student body was a very healthy sign.

MANIU TAKES OATH TO SUPPORT REGENCY

Bucharest, Rumania, Nov. 13.—Julin Maniu and cabinet of peasant leaders today took oath to support the constitution, the Regency and the Rumanian Dynasty and to do nothing to bring the Former Crown Prince Carol back.

The new peasant premier, Julin Maniu has unconditionally acknowledged the seven year old boy King Michael, in return for the government mandate. Observers feared that Maniu might attempt to set up a Republican government.

PARENTS HAPPY WHEN BABY SLEEPS SOUNDLY

Here's a way to soothe crying, wakeful babies to sleep quickly and easily. It's the way doctors endorse, and millions of mothers have proved is safe and harmless. A few drops of pure-ly-vegetable, pleasing-tasting Fletcher's Castoria, has the most fretful restless baby or child asleep in a few minutes! And for colic, constipation, colds and upset spells, there's nothing like Castoria. The Chas. H. Fletcher signature is the mark of genuine Castoria. Avoid imitations and be safe.

Judge Sees No Reason For Suspending Drunken Drivers' Sentence

JUDGE DEROCHE CHANGES VERDICT

Crown Wins Appeal Against Mikel's Decision In Police Court

HIS HONOR SEVERE

Cannot See Why Suspended Sentence Should be Given Drunken Driver

This morning before Judge Deroche in County Court, the appeal of the Crown against the dismissal of Isaac Barnhardt by Magistrate Mikel when Barnhardt was charged with being intoxicated in charge of a car, was heard. Judge Deroche reversed Mr. Mikel's decision, and sentenced the man to spend the next seven days in the County Jail. Following is Judge Deroche's judgment and comments on the case.

Under Section 285, sub-section 4 of the Criminal Code everyone who, while intoxicated, drives or has the care or control of a motor vehicle or automobile, is guilty of an offence and liable to imprisonment.

The accused admits he was in charge of a motor vehicle. Was he intoxicated.

There is the positive evidence of Wescott that the accused staggered when walking and talked with a thick tongue. Also the positive evidence of Spencer that the accused staggered, his tongue was thick and he smelt liquor on his breath. Also the positive evidence of Bowen that he talked as though his tongue was thick and acted different from ordinarily acted as though he was under the influence of intoxicating liquor.

Against this we have the negative evidence of Mrs. Barnhardt and Dr. Sharpe, that they did not notice any odor or thick tongue or staggering.

Positive Evidence

Positive evidence is always stronger than negative evidence. The three men giving positive evidence of intoxication must be right or they are committing perjury. The three men giving negative evidence may be wrong and yet not be committing perjury.

That he was accused must be evidence of intoxication, sworn to by Wescott, Spencer and Bowen, and yet the other three men may not have noticed these signs. Cook was busy at his garage when he saw the accused and was not thinking particularly of the accused's condition. Dr. Sharpe had no girl with him in the front seat of the car and was naturally interested in her and not particularly interested in the condition of the accused in the back seat. Dr. Sharpe says he could not have been drunk, but I don't know, I did not examine him. I did not speak to him. I did not walk up by mind at all whether he was drunk or sober, but in my honest opinion he was not drunk." This is very much negative evidence.

CAR WRECKED ON THEIR WAY HOME

Alleged Reckless Driver Caused Serious Accident on Toronto Highway

Court Smith, Belleville barber, and his brother, Frank Smith, Belleville city had a narrow escape from serious injury on Monday night when the car in which they were driving from Toronto was wrecked near Bowmanville. The two men were proceeding along at a moderate rate of speed when another car driven by K. Talbot, 70 Wadsell street, Toronto, approached at a rapid speed from the opposite direction. It is alleged that Talbot was proceeding in a reckless manner and his car is said to have swerved from one side of the road to the other. Smith swerved to the left to escape the crash but the rear left wheel was caught and the motor car was hurled into the opposite ditch. It was almost completely wrecked.

Court Smith was caught beneath the fender of Talbot's car but extricated himself and suffered only from a bad shaking-up and bruises. Frank Smith escaped with the loss some minor scratches and bruises. Both of the occupants in his car were uninjured.

DIED OF INJURIES

Hamilton, Nov. 14.—Miss A. Howie, Toronto, injured in a motor crash at Grimsby, Thursday night died in St. Joseph's hospital here today without regaining consciousness.

Object To Being In Bootleggers Class

Barbers do not want tips. They do not want to be in the same class as bootleggers, so far as gratuities, are concerned. At least this opinion seemed to receive unanimous backing at the annual joint convention at Toronto, Ontario, of the Master Barbers' Association of Canada, and the Journeymen Barbers' Federation of Ontario, prominent delegates of which are shown ABOVE: (1) Fred Armitage Brantford; (2) W. Harris, president, Windsor; (3) P. C. Hollier, 1st vice-president, Hamilton; (4) Harry Gainey, Peterboro, Ontario, president of the Journeymen's Federation; (5) John N. Worthall national secretary; (6) W. McDaid, Hamilton; (7) R. D. Snowden, vice-president of the Master Barbers; (8) H. Henry, secretary treasurer for the Journeymen.

Valuable Old Books Are Sent For Binding At Dead Owner's Request

Two valuable old books were brought to the Intelligencer yesterday by Mrs. F. H. Harrison of Cobourg. They were formerly the property of her mother Mrs. J. Wood, who before her death wished that these books should be taken to the Intelligencer to be rebound. In accordance with the expressed wish of the late Mrs. Wood, the books are to be rebound and when finished will be presented to the Public Library at Cobourg.

One of the books is a collection of sermons which is nearly a century old, the other is "The life and remains, letters, lectures and poems of the Rev. Robert McCheyne by Rev. Andrew Bonar" dated 1865.

BLOOD HOUNDS TO TAKE TRAIL

Over 150 Men Scour Woods For Trace of Lost Young Girl

SCARRED HER LIP

Believe Accident May Have Some Bearing on Her Disappearance

Kirkland, Ont., Nov. 14.—With hope renewed by the discovery of fresh foot prints in a marsh near here, searchers today continued to hunt for 18 year old Gladys Brotherston who disappeared from here Friday night. The foot prints found in the mire shone and a blood hound was put on the trail. Now it is believed that the girl may have been distressed because she scar red her upper lip while using acid to remove superfluous hair.

Found No Trace of Girl

Kirkland, Nov. 14.—Nineteen-year-old Gladys Brotherton has vanished as completely as though she had rubbed a magic lamp and had been lifted into space by some genie. Between 5 o'clock and nightfall yesterday a dozen parties of searchers, who numbered in all about 150 men, struggled into Kirkland to report that their every effort had been in vain. They had combed the countryside thoroughly for miles around the Brotherton home at the stone-crushing plant near Kirk land, but their search was not rewarded even by the discovery of a footprint of the girl who left her home on Friday night carrying a rifle and clad in "hiking" clothes.

But friends and neighbors of the Brotherton family are not satisfied that in their four-day search they have done everything within their power, and this morning early, they started again, 400 widen the circle of country they have covered since Fri day night. The 15-odd workers at the stone-crushing plant near Kirk land, from whom the girl was last heard from

Of all the passions, jealousy is that which exacts the hardest service, and pays the blackest wages.

COLTON.

PICKING BEST WAY TO REACH THE PUBLIC

There are few greater authorities on publicity in the world than Sir Charles Frederick Higham, of London England, well known as an author and publicist. In a recent address given in London, on "Scientific Distribution," Sir Charles paid his tribute to the newspaper as the best medium to reach the public with an appeal of any kind. His words, coming from so great an authority, are worth quoting, as follows:

"There is no advertising medium so useful as the press, and none that is responded to with such speed and profit. Newspaper advertising pays better today than it ever did. Most of the goods now consumed by the public are sold under a branded name, and the most economical method of distributing these is by press advertising properly done. The dealer will always stock an article that is nationally advertised, because he is convinced, first, that the article must be good or it would not be advertised at all, and, secondly, that the public would respond to it because they know that they will be getting good value for their money."

There is little need for comment on these sentiments by Sir Charles. They point a two-fold moral, first, that advertising pays the producer and the dealer, and, secondly, that the public can place confidence in advertised goods. Considering the source of the statement and the sound business sense incorporated in it, it is well worth heeding.

CONDITIONS NEVER BETTER OUT WEST

"I have never seen the country looking better, and in all my experience I have not previously found so general a feeling of complete confidence in this country and its possibilities." This was the impression Mr. E. W. Beatty brought back from the West after his recent trip to the Pacific Coast in company with fellow-directors of the Canadian Pacific Railway.

It finds full justification in the reports now coming in that Canada's wheat crop will be the largest in the history of the West. A total yield of over five hundred million bushels from the three prairie provinces being assured. This takes into account the fact that earlier estimates of the crop had to be revised because actual yield and quality have been somewhat curtailed by frosts.

There is, we are further told, a splendid yield of coarse grains and an abundance of feed of all kinds. Live-stock enterprises are all without exception declared to be profitable ones, and the signs of the times point to the coming year as "the best the livestock industry has seen since the post-war slump."

All of which is highly gratifying nationally, since the improved condition of the agricultural community will inevitably extend its benefits into all phases of the Dominion's economic life. Conditions for harvesting have continued favorable to the completion of the work, and in this, the season of thanksgiving, there will be due mindfulness of what is owing to Providence. A bountiful harvest is not reaped as a matter of course.

Actual estimates are that the wheat output will be 550,000,000 bushels, and though the frosts in certain parts of Saskatchewan and Alberta may have reduced the grades, in these places, impairment is not serious, for, according to a report issued following tests conducted at the Dominion grain research laboratory of the Board of Grain Commissioners the milling and baking quality, grade for grade, of this year's crop is on the whole superior to that of last year.

There are reports of yields, particularly in southern Alberta, in excess of fifty and sixty bushels to the acre. One ten-acre field in Alberta returned an average of eighty-eight bushels to the acre. The total yield of wheat last year was 400,924,720 bushels, compared with 407,196,000 bushels in 1926. The 1927 yield was the second largest on record, the highest yield until this year, having been 474,189,000 bushels in 1923.

The aggregate value of all field crops in 1927 was $1,134,192,600 as compared with $1,104,983,100 in the previous year; and Canada's crop this year, Dr. J. H. Grisdale, Deputy Minister of Agriculture, states will give her farmers $1,000,000,000. The feeling of confidence and optimism which was noted not only by Mr. Beatty but by all others who visited the West in the late summer and autumn, it can easily be imagined, has increased with the fruition of all that then was promised, all that stirred the whole West into healthy activity.

PASSING YEARS
(From The Intelligencer of this day 30 years ago)

Miss Nellie Gray of Madoc is the guest of Mrs. C. H. Lewis, William Street.

Mr. J. E. Wallbridge, who is studying law in Toronto, spent a couple of days at his home and returned to the Queen City today.

The Police Commissioners met at noon today in the City Clerk's Office and awarded the contract for supplying coal for the asylums to Messrs. Broderick & Co., and for supplying shoes, to John McKeown.

The heavy storm did serious damage to the G.N.W. wire, and until late yesterday afternoon communication was suspended between all points west of Stratford.

While engaged in coasting this morning on Charles Street, Arthur, son of Mr. A. Bird, Bridge Street ran into a lamp post and cut his knee severely. He was taken home, where Dr. Gibson put eight stitches in the wound, the little fellow bearing it without flinching.

LETTERS TO EDITOR

The Editor,
The Intelligencer,
Belleville.

Dear Sir:—

I have read with interest that the City Council and the Chamber of Commerce are sending seven or eight people to Toronto to represent this city's pep on the 24th inst.

Mr. Zealey in his letter to the Editor in tonight's paper is voicing the opinion of a large number of the citizens. He states the A.L.L. band is quite capable of giving a first-class performance and he is right for we had evidence of this by the splendid march across the city of the A.L.L. band this summer.

Quite a number of bands have broadcasted from different parts of Ontario recently and their music is a desirable change.

We all appreciate the "Radio Four", Belleville's famous male quartette but why devote practically the whole program to them when they are continually on the "air"?

I note a certain party who has been chosen to take part in the forthcoming "Belleville Night in the Air", some time ago was broadcasted from Toronto and was announced as..... of Montreal. The error was never corrected so we can only come to the conclusion, Belleville wasn't big enough on this occasion.

Forget the "Charmed Circle" and let Belleville give of its best on the 14th inst.

Why is the broadcast taking place in Toronto when it could have been done right here in Belleville under favorable control?

Yours for Belleville,
MUSICIANS.

FLOYD BENNETT NOT FORGOTTEN

Washington, D.C.—There is a well-born path leading up the hill to the grave of Floyd Bennett in Arlington cemetery. The feet of visiting thousands have trodden smooth the ground around the simple white stone which marks the resting place of the pilot who first flew over the North Pole with Commander Byrd.

Bennett's name has become a national shrine. The steady stream of people which for years has flowed past the tomb of the Unknown Soldier has been partially deflected to the spot where two great explorers—Bennett and Admiral Peary—now lie. It is a high place, such as men who conquered icy peaks to place a flag on top of the world, would prefer. Ivy twines around the marble shaft which surmounts Peary's grave. Simple military austerity characterizes the grave of Bennett.

Supt. R. R. Dye, of Arlington considers the profound public interest in Floyd Bennett unusual. Often before he has seen heroes lowered to their last sleep to the impressive accompaniment of military salutes and bugle calls. For a while the public would remember with visits and tributes of flowers. But by the time the grass began to grow over the grave, the moon and the stars and the shimmer of the oak leaves would be its sole mourner by vigil.

It is different with Floyd Bennett. Almost six months have gone by since he arose from a sick bed to fly to the aid of the crew of the Bremen in Quebec, yet more people are visiting his grave today than immediately after his funeral.

"Jew's harp" has nothing to do with the race; the name is a corruption of "Jaw's harp."

OLD FOLKS AND OPERATION

Perhaps you have wondered why they told folks, 75 to 85 years of age, have undergone operations for gall stones and other surgical conditions and have come through successfully, whereas younger folks, between 40 and 60 have not been so fortunate.

It is only natural that our older folk should greatly dislike the idea of an operation, but there come times when life itself depends upon an immediate surgical operation.

Dr. F. Metzler of Vienna, studied 45 cases of gall stone disease in patients over sixty years of age. These patients had undergone operation, and the only cases which did not give satisfactory results where those in which the patient had delayed operation too long and had to undergo the operation during the acute condition. You would naturally expect that the age of the patient would have an important bearing upon the success or result of the operation, but Dr. Metzler tells us that the age is not so important as the condition of the patient and the length of time he has been suffering with gall stones.

We can readily understand that there is not only the formation of the gall stones, which shows a faulty condition of the liver but the attacks of gallstone colic are a terrific shock to the entire system. As you know the severe colicky pain is caused by the gall stone trying to get through the small duct and into the intestine. The sides are rough and it stretches and tears the small tue or duct; hence the pain.

Thus if a patient has a chronic inflammation of the gall bladder, with attacks of colic, it is going to so undermine his system that when an operation becomes necessary he will not be in very good condition to withstand it.

The thought then is that there is an unusual amount of gas formation in stomach and intestine, pain at right lower side of chest, sometimes extending into right shoulder, sometimes attacks of gall stone colic from time to time, that, if surgical interference is found to be necessary, it should not be delayed too long if good results are to be obtained.

It is the length of time the condition is allowed to continue that renders the operation safe or dangerous.

HOW HOT ROOMS INTERFERE WITH NATURE

You eat all sorts of things that would be poisonous if taken directly into the blood vessels. The different digestive juices in mouth, stomach and intestine have no trouble in preventing these materials from doing harm. And even if they do get past these guards, then white corpuscles of the blood help to fight them off.

However, as you know the organisms of many ailments get into the system through the nose and throat in dust, and from being near the breath or spraying of people already affected. That these organisms are floating about, and yet only a few individuals in a room get infected, has been a source of wonderment to research men.

Drs. Arnold, Ostrom and Singer, experimenting on rabbits, have—living—of the nose with organisms, in forty normal rabbits. They made over 600 tests altogether, the number of organisms in each test being 20,000,000.

Within five minutes 95 per cent. of these organisms were dead, having been killed by the mucous membrane of the nose. In order to find out whether this lining mucous membrane could keep on killing off these organisms, a fresh lot was injected every thirty minutes, and even after this loss had been made good in the nose, the mucous membrane still had the power to kill the organisms.

This is important, as it gives protective powers on the part of the lining membrane of your nose.

However, just how you how you can interfere with this wonderful protection given by the nose, these same investigators give some further important information. Persons placed in a cold room, temperature 40 degrees F., with 30 per cent. humidity or moisture the protective power of the mucous membrane was just the same as in a degrees F. and the moisture 70 per

PRINCIPAL KENT SPECIAL SPEAKER AT ANNIVERSARY

At John St. United Church, Anniversary Services were held on Sunday, Rev. Dr. Kent, of Queen's, the lyrical college, Kingston, being the special speaker in the evening.

Principal Kent has a flow of language that grips his listeners and again before a Belleville audience, fascinated the hearers with a discourse that proved to be a most encouraging message. Mast. 1078 was his text, upon the Kingdom that Jesus launched. The sermon had a certain boldness unlike hurried teachers. It could not be said of Him as was said of a well-known French leader that after he passed from the scene of action was "the deluge." Those left to carry on his mission were common folk with even an accent to detract from popular acceptance in that day of hard, tyrannical and skeptical civilizations.

From some amusing incidents of the good old times at Oxford spoken of, particularly the contentious spectacle of the weakness of Scottish claim Principal Kent wended through a march of loftier achievements. Some old regrettable things have gone from our world because wolfish evils destroy themselves.

The evening music by John St. choir, led by the organist, Mr. Leo. Biggs at the organ, as usual Mr. J. D. Bankier in peerless style acquitted himself in a special tenor solo.

SELECTION

There are many good investments in each investment group, and many poor ones, too. There are good common stocks, for example, whose earnings and dividend background entitle them to an investment rating, and poor bonds which, on the other hand, must rightly be rated as speculative.

Quality, rather than type, is the factor of importance in the selection of investment securities.

The protection of quality is assured to the investor who selects the offerings of investment bankers whose reputation for integrity is securely established and jealously maintained; and who, moreover, possess first-hand information concerning the governments or corporations whose securities they recommend.

CONCERT ARTISTS WELL RECEIVED

Holloway Street Church Filled to Hear Singers of Distinction

The Cambrian Concert Company gave a very fine recital at Holloway Street Church last night. The soloists were Mr. Glanville Davies, baritone; and Miss Gladys Hamilton, Soprano, Mr. Glanville is the possessor of a rich baritone voice and showed to advantage in the different numbers which he sang. Probably the best of these was the "Wanderers Song" by Julius Harrison.

Mr. Owen Le P. Franklin was the accompanist and he also presided at the organ in capable style. His piano solo "Toccata" was admirably done.

The opening number was an organ solo by Mr. Franklin. This was followed by a baritone solo "Eri Tu", responding to an encore Mr. Davies sang "Jane".

Miss Christine's first number was a composition by Hanson, and the encore was "If a Body Meet a Body", to which she played her own accompaniment. Her group of songs, "Pale Moon", "Land of the Sky Blue Waters", and "The Last with the Delicate Air" made a distinct appeal to the audience, At the close the Welsh National Anthem was sung followed by the National Anthem.

Total Sales Again To-Day Well Over the Five Million Mark

New York Nov. 14.—Speculation in stocks continued at a terrific pace in today's market with the general price tendency still upward. Waves of selling swept through the market at intervals, carrying many issues down one to five points, but new leaders were quickly brought forward and a long list of issues sold one to nearly 19 points higher. So great was the accumulation of orders that the ticker again fell about an hour behind the market with indications by early afternoon that total sales would again cross the five million share mark.

Except for a number of special offerings and dividends statements including a 15 per cent. stock dividend on Otis Oliver there was little new in the days news to influence the price movement. Call money was in plentiful supply at a renewal figure of 6 percent and there was talk of furth. er imports of foreign gold.

Further stiffening in pig iron prices to the highest level since July 1927, carried the iron and Composite price Unitated States Steel common was again in the forefront of the advance crossing 170 to a new high record.

suitable personal gift to one who were lost in the Great War. I thought the statement was a little unfair because we had, as a country, contributed towards the G.W.V.A. Memorial home and other citizens had contributed a similar amount towards the fund. I believed myself that the living memorial was the better way of expressing feeling towards those who had fallen and the comrades who had returned. I still think that we acted properly. How ever, there are different views in regard to what should be done in the case of a war memorial.

I was reading last evening some of the speeches of that wonderful man, the Right Honorable Stanley Baldwin, Prime Minister of Great Britain, and I ran across his speech in support of a motion made in the house of commons upon the death of that great Field Marshall, Earl Haig. This speech was delivered on the 30th of January, 1928. The part that I refer to is in the following words:

"The motion which I move today proposes that we should present a hum ble address to His Majesty praying that he will give directions that a monument be erected at the public charge to the memory of that great soldier who has so recently been taken from us.

Our task to-day is to give expression so far as we are able to a simple primitive human desire. I know there are people who say what need of a monument? I remember many years ago that the Poet-Laureate of the day, a monument was put up to a man who was highly regarded by the operatives of that town and on it was also put up to them at the time was this. "This wu will something that is of no use We do not want anything of that kind for my body, but just something to remind us of him. That I am convinced, is what we all want and, what the memory of the British Legion want, just something that they can point at and say "There he is." Something which they can show their children Something on which they can lay wreaths.

That I think is the nestie of the simple human heart and it is because I agree with an opinion so largely held that I think the erection of silent people in every county and I hope this House after whatever further discussion may take may think fit, will give this motion with unanimity."

I think Mr. Baldwin has really expressed what is in the hearts of a great majority people. I believe in this city we should now, when we have had ten years of time to settle our minds, that there should be a permanent memorial erected by the citizens of this municipality and that we should be able to lay at the foot of the monument on Armistice Day, 1929, our wreaths and our poppies as a token of remembrance of those who have protected our homes This could be taken up by a committee of the citizens. There is already a sum of about $1,500, as I finderstand it, which could be used towards the object in view and I have no doubt that there are many who would come forward at once with their subscriptions towards a cause which is really nearest to the hearts and minds of those who were here during the great struggle.

Yours faithfully,

J. F. MILLS.

JUDGE DEROCHE

I therefore give much more weight to the evidence of the three giving positive evidence than to the three giving negative evidence.

Accused on Wrong Side.

Besides this there is the fact that the accused was driving directly and fully on his wrong side of the road until the impact. It is hardly conceivable that a sober or sane man would do that. Then there was evidence of vomiting with the odor of intoxicating liquor. Most of the vomit was in the back seat on the side of the front seat on the driver's side, and the accused was the driver. The accused himself says he had nothing intoxicating to drink that day and that the sign of vomiting in the front seat was due to the man in the back seat leaning over the boulder to get clear of the window, but I do not believe this. He is contradicted on different points by reliable evidence, so I cannot give weight to his testimony in these particulars.

I therefore, find the accused guilty of the offence charged.

Sentence

I have found you guilty, Barnhardt, of this offence. I might give you 30 days in jail and I cannot give you less than 7 days, but apparently your first offence. Occasionally a suspended sentence is given for a first offence, but depending upon the nature of the offence and the age of the accused, but I am convinced from a case in which a suspended sentence should be given for the offence of driving or being in charge of a motor car while intoxicated. The likelihood of serious injury to some one is too great. In my opinion every man who drives an automobile while intoxicated should be made to realize that if discovered he is certain to suffer imprisonment. I am supported in this opinion by many eminent jurists.

Mr. Justice Choquet, of Quebec, in sentencing a drunken driver said, "You are every bit as dangerous as a hold-up man who threatens his victim with a gun."

Mr. Justice Logie says, "The profession of a drunken driver of an auto mobile is a serious one, it devolves upon the judge to impose severe punishment for such offences in the hope that it will serve as a warning to others."

The Registrar of Motor Vehicles of Ontario says, "A drunken driver is a must impose a term of imprisonment potential murderer and need expect upon you, but since it is your first of no leniency with those interested in fence I will impose the minimum the enforcement of the law." penalty of 7 days.

The Police Magistrate at Chatham You are therefore sentenced to has adopted a plan for dealing with imprisonment in the County Jail of the people convicted of driving cars while County of Hastings for a period of 7 intoxicated; he adds one day to the days.

sentence of each person as he comes before him, and he started the first man with 8 days. He also states that every man who gets under the influence of liquor and goes out and drives a car is a potential murderer.

At a meeting of the Century Club of Toronto the Vice-President, Bissett, declared he "had no sympathy with the man who drove a car under the influence of drink, that these offenders should be made to feel their guilt ation and adequate penalties enforced."

The Police Magistrate of Ottawa expresses his opinion "That the time will come when no man will be given the privilege to drive an automobile who be is a total abstainer from liquor.

And then the Attorney General for the Province of Ontario backs up the statement saying, "This law giving jail sentences to drunken drivers without any option of a fine is for the protection of the general public. owing to the largely increased number of motor cars and the tremendous increase of foreign cars it is absolutely essential 'that this law be enforced and enforced every time it is necessary.

Following my own opinion, therefore, and the opinion of what seems to me public sentiment in this matter, I

SCANTY DRESS RECEIVES SUPPORT

At last the scanty clothing worn by the girls of today has received support that has been hitherto lacking to a marked degree, and this from a source that should be authentic. Dr. Fishbein S. Mulford, president of the Medical Society of New Jersey says that today our women are in better physical condition than our men," and gives credit for this to the fact that girls do not wear too many clothes especially in the summer, so that the ultra violet rays of the sun can give its full benefit to the skin. Men have always scoffed at women's dress. If it was the wasp waist, they ridiculed their female companions as being tortured for the sake of a style. The same with bustles, hoop skirts, and all the fashions right up to the present day. That the man who is in dark clothes completely covered from his neckties to his spats is denied the health giving days of the sun." From this Dr. Mulford draws the conclusion that women are in better physical condition than men, and are rapidly be coming the stronger rather than the weaker sex.

SOME NEWS ABOUT SHOES

If hubby asks you about shoes, tell him that men are following women's footsteps and wearing black kid, more and more. It is easier on the feet than heavier leathers, and is more dressy for evening wear. The busy business man doesn't have time to go home home and change his shoes, between daylight and dark, when he has a little informal affair he wants to attend of an evening.

Velvet has not only seized the centre of the stage in the season's fad items, but it is monopolizing all the edges. It is not only evening gown, afternoon and "Sunday best," but business, street and even sports wear. The velvet sport's jacket is a novelty and may be worn with anything. Today we even have the velvet rain coat, which threatens to supplant rubberized silk.

A favorite shoe for dress is the suede which goes particularly well with velvet, as it looks soft and velvety. Looks deceive, however. It is a firm, strong leather and will outwear most other leathers.

Rhinestones are very popular for buckles on girdles and shoes or for ornamental pins.

Circular skirts, flares, and ruffles are doing things to the scraight-line skirt of yesterday. Even the basic line fair to come from following the lead of the bows and drapes caught up in the back. Fashion is a wheel and what is done today, comes up again on the next revolution.

Dressier navy blues, but coats keep the straight and narrow way. Satin finished broadcloth and other smooth, silky surfaced materials are in fashion.

IS WOMAN AN UNPAID DRUDGE?

In a stirring adress to the Women's Canadian Club in the Quinte Hotel yesterday afternoon, Mrs. W. D. Lang presented some facts to which the women of Belleville might give some serious thought.

Most of us women think now that we have the vote and are eligible to the various offices that we have attained the full quota of freedom but now that a woman is able to earn an independent livelihood it is harder than ever for a woman to be changing her conditions after marriage. Many girls give up good positions earning anywhere from twenty dollars a week up to accept a position as an unpaid drudge for some one though she may be recognized as his co-partner and

Gay Adventurers By Mildred Barbour

"I'll come too," said Bellefonte, and—"

"And conduct yourself in your most husbandly manner and cause more talk."

"Well, am I not a husband?" he asked, in what he intended to be a playful tone.

"Yes, you are," said Sheila. To herself she muttered: "But thank Heaven, you're not mine."

After an hour of discussion, she won out.

"And remember," she said, as a parting shot, "you mustn't expect to see me every day and, if I go out to dinner or to the opera with Harry or some other man, you're not to object. Treat me as just an ordinary friend and everything will be all right. Promise? And you must keep your promise, too."

He looked glumly. The telephone bell rang just as he was leaving.

Harry Edmonds was on the wire. He wanted Sheila to dine and go with him to the opera the following evening. He simply had to talk to her. Sheila accepted gladly.

Bellefonte stormed out. While she was recognizing herself on the subway, he was hurrying to the telegraph office.

CHAPTER 22

Seeing Paris

The next morning Sheila decided that she was going to see Paris. Waiting at the hotel would not bring Constance Kerr any sooner, and it was the actual arrival of the heiress that would straighten out the tangled situation.

Leaving the hotel before breakfast, for she wanted to find a little restaurant where she would come in typically French repast, she strolled into the Place Vendome, where the big shops walks were crowded. On all sides Sheila could hear English spoken in the American manner.

"And Constance Kerr told me there wouldn't be any one in Paris this time of year," she reflected. Then she chuckled to herself as her imagination ecntured a situation in which she was billed simultaneously by two persons, one a friend of Constance's, the other some one from her own town. "And Constance's friend would say: 'Why Constance Kerr, when did you arrive?' And my friend would say: 'Hello, Sheila! Aren't Piney meeting you here.' That would be perfect, only I hope it never happens! Sheila's musings ended strangely in the middle of the street, and she leaped from the path of a taxi.

"Hey, Constance! Wait a sec," shouted a voice.

Sheila looked back and saw a dandified young man emerging from the taxi. He tuffed to chase a gray-haired, fashionably-dressed woman to the left. Sheila hadn't the slightest idea who these people might be, and she didn't wait to find out. She consoled herself that, though at least under a sign-post, she read the words, "Boulevard des Italiens." A few doors from the corner was a small restaurant.

"I'll breakfast here," said Sheila, "if that fright hasn't completely destroyed my appetite. And if the person who complained that nothing exciting ever happened? Am I the girl who wanted adventure?"

The waiter had just served Sheila with black, bitter coffee, a tiny pitcher of milk, and a long, hard roll, when the restaurant door was flung open. Sheila looked up to see the dandified young man and the gray-haired woman hurrying arm in arm upon her. She looked around helplessly, but escape was impossible.

"Constance, darling," cried the woman. "You, of all people. I knew it was you, but Hags insisted it wasn't. We tried to hail you a little way back from a cab, but you didn't hear us. So I said to Hags, 'I bet she's going to Maurice's for breakfast.' When Constance is seen on the street before noon, that's where she's bound for. So we came right along, and—"

"Yes," said Sheila, "you were right," inwardly she was saying: "And who are you, and what does this Hags person represent?"

Hags was nothing. If not well-dressed and cheerful. He seated his companion at Sheila's table and took a chair himself, beaming down at both women.

"Constance," he said, "do tell Nellie about the time we came here, after dancing all night, and you bet that I couldn't eat onion soup as great as mine and hard-boiled eggs for breakfast. But I did, and oh, what a combination!"

"Hags," snapped Nellie, "keep still and let me talk to Constance."

Hags subsided, and Nellie went on: "Constance, that story about your being in—what does that mean? I rush up to your hotel this morning to ask if there was anything I could do, and you weren't there. But I saw the Count de Bellefonte, who seems to have taken up a permanent post in the lobby, and he was most anxious to see you."

"Yes," said Sheila faintly, "I know. That report was an error."

"Well, now, that's just splendid," said Nellie, with the air of one who isn't at all satisfied with explanations, but is willing to let the matter rest. "Your mother's old friend, the Baronne de Courcy, called me up last night. Some one had told her you were here, and she does so want you to spend some time with her at her place in Deauville. Hags and I may be there, and a charming young man you've never met—the Baronne's step son. You'll doubtless find a note waiting for you when you go back to the hotel. You'll come, of course?"

"Of course," answered Sheila, her one thought being to get away.

"By the way," asked Hags, "where are your father and mother? Do they know you're in Paris?"

Sheila groaned inwardly. She didn't care to be reminded of the fact that Mr. Kerr was coming to Paris. That, and the fact that Constance had failed to appear, together with the jealous attentions of Harry and Bellefonte, complicated life unbearably.

"I must be getting back to the hotel," said Sheila, ignoring Hags's question. "I've lots of things to do. Call around and see me. So long."

Sheila hurried back and saw a handbill hanging on the door. Her landlady's harried countenance appeared in the doorway.

"Madame, there is a letter for you," she announced. "It came by messenger, and I have kept it safely. Also, there is a gentleman who has been waiting for you for two hours. He is in the salon."

Sheila tore open the letter. It was from Bellefonte, and read:

"Dear Sheila: I am sorry to have missed you, but I am leaving for Deauville with Harry Edmonds. Will be back in a few days. Hope you will be here when I return. Sincerely, Bellefonte."

Sheila crushed the letter in her hand. "You, of all people, I knew it was you, but Hags insisted it wasn't. We tried to hail you a little way back from a cab, but you didn't hear us. So I said to Hags, 'I bet she's going to Maurice's for breakfast.' When Constance is seen on the street before noon, that's where she's bound for. So we came right along, and—"

Ride Around in Limousines But Have No Cash to Spend

Portraying in every detail that fine patriotism which its members have ever fostered, the Women's Canadian Club held their annual Armistice luncheon in the Quinte Hotel yesterday afternoon and the dining room and lobby of the hotel presented a scene of life and color as over one hundred women gathered there. The ideals of this Club which was formed here during the trying days of the Great War, are loyalty and patriotism. Ideals well worthy of the whole-hearted support of, not only its members, but the City at large. In accordance with these sentimental Armistice Days has been chosen as the day of the year when the club members assemble for their annual luncheon.

The long tables were prettily and appropriately decorated with flowers and flags and prior to the luncheon practically all the old members renewed their membership for the ensuing year and many new names were added to the Club's roll.

Immediately following the luncheon the speaker of the occasion, Mrs. R. W. Lang, Toronto, was introduced by the President of the Club, Mrs. F. C. Anderson. Mrs. Lang is a woman of wide interest in the feminine world. She is legal adviser to the Women's Institute, a member of the National Council of Women and is also interested in Girl Guide Work and a keen student of political affairs.

On rising, Mrs. Lang, who possesses an easy and conversational manner of speaking, stated that though honored at being asked to speak she could not give the traditional Armistice day speech. "Those of us whose hearts and homes have been touched by the great struggle" said Mrs. Lang cannot go back over those days, our hearts are too full. Our boys, she continued, fought for freedom from injustice and cruelty."

Not Decrying Men

Accordingly Mrs. Lang endeavored to point out in her address just how we could take an interest in the position of those women not as free as we are. Mrs. Lang stated that she was not decrying men but some of their laws for "men" said she, "are better than the laws they make." Those women who neglected to use their franchise were not only neglecting a privilege but shirking a responsibility.

Women have more rights in theory than they have in practice. The political parties do not seem to show the the proper gallantry in asking women to contest political ridings. Though women are eligible to Judgeships, justice of the peace, etc., the first qualification for these or any office whatsoever is that the person be a British subject.

In Canada a woman has no nationality in her own right. If single she takes the nationality of her father and if married that of her husband. From her wide personal experience Mrs. Lang quoted many cases where this gave rise to serious inconvenience. For example during the war many good Canadian women were interned with their German husbands, in fact, said the speaker, "the only easy way a woman could regain her own nationality was to kill or divorce her foreign husband."

Man Made Laws Unfair

Another case in which women were not free was in the question of their own earnings. A woman's earnings are not her own in any business or under taking in which her husband has a proprietary interest. In the criminal law also, "man-made laws," women were put at a distinct disadvantage. Women are not protected as she should be by state laws pertaining to moral crimes.

Thousands of women in the country today, said the Speaker, have the status of unpaid slaves to their husbands. Even women of the wealthier classes, many of whom, drive around in their limousines, do not handle a dollar in actual cash. Their husbands control the cheque book and the lord and master pays all the bills. This, Mrs. Lang gave as one of the leading causes of unhappiness and discontent in the marriage state.

In Scandinavia marriage has been established as a contract in which each of the contracting parties has an equal part to play and clearly defined rights and these universal marriage laws have worked out so well that divorce has been reduced to a minimum in a country where it is especially easy to obtain.

Law Needs Amending

Mrs. Lang's splendid address gave much food for thought to the women present for she speaks from actual personal knowledge of conditions as they exist, throughout the country today. Widows with families were not protected as they should be she said, and the law should be amended to give them greater economical independence.

On the conclusion of her speech the thanks of her audience was conveyed to Mrs. Lang by Mrs. F. C. Anderson, and it is to be hoped that Belleville will have a further opportunity of hearing this gifted speaker in the not too far distant future.

MONDAY SERVICE WELL ATTENDED

Thanksgiving Day Marked at Bridge Street United Church

Annual Thanksgiving Church services held in Bridge St. Church yesterday at eleven o'clock were exceptionally well attended. All the ministers of the city churches and Rev. John Black of Plainfield, President of the Belleville Ministerial Association, were seated on the platform. Rev. A. E. McCutcheon, Secy. of the Ministerial Association, made the appeal for the day's contribution for charitable work. Rev. A. Hilliard Jones lead in the responsive reading of the 103rd psalm and Rev. Geo. Marshall led in the opening prayer, Rev. L. S. Wight read the Scripture lesson from the eighth chapter of Deuteronomy.

Other ministers representing most of the Protestant churches of the city and surrounding charges were noticeable throughout the audience. The body of the church was comfortably filled and the choir of the church with Prof. Hunt, organist, in charge, assisted with the appropriate musical setting of the service.

Mrs. (Dr.) Stobie sang sublimely in high soprano as few can do the difficult number "With Verdure Clad" from Haydn's Creation.

Mankind's Duty

The special speaker was Rev. Robt. Hall, M.A., B.D., of John St. United Church. In his remarks he struck an important note regarding the observance of the day nationally set apart for thanksgiving. "A minister usually speaks to a select audience," said he "but such an audience on a day like this is truly one to please a speaker and reward him for the eager opportunity of responding to the call of the occasion." There is danger yet of disregarding the significance of this function. Many are apt to be chary in manifesting gratitude just as was shown in the New Testament story of the healing of the ten lepers."

Divine Reserves

Rev. Hall's message was centred about the text Ps. 116 13-15. "Lip ser vice should be the forerunner of giving. The best way to render tribute to Jehovah is in taking more of His grace and that can be our best gift, acceptable. Possessions are a trust from God, but the abundance and steady supply of them may cause us to become enamored thereby. In the history of the world so far nations have risen to prominence and have fallen into decay but the gospel of Christ is still vindicated. To withstand poverty has not tried peoples so much as to survive prosperity and individual successes. Goldsmith in poetic lines refers to the amassing of wealth while men decay! More persons are ruined by success than in the sustaining of hardships. The power to get wealth is the gift of Providence and if not regulated or controlled by spiritual forces disaster may result.

World Peace

Rev. Hall linked up with the cup of salvation offered in the text our chance to secure the long hoped for boon of universal freedom from the horrors of war, "It is a reproach that 10,000,000 of the flower of civil ization should be sacrificed in a great war because nations have not learned to resort to better means to settle disputes in their living together. The peace conference of 15 leading countries last August in Paris augurs well for the future, but treaties alone will not outlaw war. There must be the expression of respective peoples behind the signatures of their represent atives. The piece pact of the nations can be the bridge leading to the promised land of peace on earth, but such can only be for those who possess goodwill toward each other as Christ heralded."

No doubt Rev. Hall's earnest discourse will be a great contribution to our thought upon this very important subject.

ARMISTICE DAY CHURCH SERVICE

A very impressive commemoratives service was that held in Bridge St. United Church Sunday morning. The edifice was filled before 11 o'clock to do honor to the observance of the armistice anniversary. The pastor, Rev. Dr. Malkit read the names of those who from the congregation had made the supreme sacrifice in the Great War and two minutes of fervent silence followed in memory of those who so nobly laid down their lives. Prof. Hunt at the organ rendered appropriate music and the national printed order of service was followed.

In making the announcements for the week Dr. Malkit referred to the urgent expressions for his remaining as pastor and stated that he felt honored in the prospect of greater service for the future. He conveyed his sincere thanks for the cordial request manifested toward his ministry.

The discourse for the morning was based upon David's heroes, roll of heroes as mentioned in the 11th Chap of 1 Chron. David's valiant leader ship was in striking contrast to the ingratitude of Saul when king. Dr. Malkit dealt with what constitutes a hero, emphasis in these modern times would lend one to consider animal or physical strength, sheer brute force as that, displayed in deeds of daring as being the main requisite. From an instance of Boy Scout service Dr. Malkit defined the requirement of a hero to be, not always such as mentioned in the public press but such as does not lack for notice or reward but the courage to stand alone for a great principle if necessary, a readiness to do what ought to be done, a capable, performance like the Canadians gave in Belgium and France. The same spirit is not needed today just for mill tary exploits but instead to combat all forces of evil. There is a call still for those willing to sacrifice them selves, the denying of self and the lesser things of life for the more important needs. We ought not to be staggered by difficulties, rather should we overcome the obstacles to progress. Ever there is the Master's injunction to put others' needs first. We can always remember the lesson from the boys who went over the top humbly acknowledging an alliance with God for the sake of mankind and liberty.

Some men may claim to be self-made, but Dr. Malkit exhorted humanity to allow themselves to be God-built in the Divine way. The remembrance of the cost of our heritage should call forth loyalty. Under the direction of Prof. Anglin the choir also contributed feelingly to the solemnity of the hour.

REGENT THEATRE

They are all there, Uncle Tom and Eliza and Eva and Topsy and Marks, the lawyer, and Aunt Ophelia and the more larger and the bloodhounds and all the old, familiar characters of "Uncle Tom's Cabin," at the Regent Theatre, in the widley-heralded Universal super-production of that name.

It would be futile to go into detail on what we consider the master picture of the screen. It has been filmed with a carefulness as to details and perfection of cast that defy comparison with any other epic cinema effort.

To director Harry Pollard should go the laurels for his powerful rendition of Harriet Beecher Stowe's novel, a skilful blending of drama's pathos, comedy, coupled with pictorially perfect scenes.

The cast it so splendidly distributed that each member should receive individual mention; Margarita Fischer as Eliza, Arthur Edmund Carew as George Harris, George Siegmann as Simon Legree, Virginia Grey as Eva, Mona Ray as Topsy, Lucien Littlefield as Marks, James Love as Uncle Tom, John Roche as St. Clare, Gertrude Astor as Mrs. St. Clare and the balance of the long list are all outstanding in individual performances that will become traditional with the passing of time.

The big scenes of Eliza crossing the ice; the death of Little Eva; the Independent scenic shots of "LaBelle Riviere," the immortal river boat; the Shelby, St. Clare and Legree homes; the tavern scenes and the other numerous settings are integrla parts of this heretofore big production.

The photography by Charles Stumar is notable, the lightning and group work by Arthur Edeson is fine.

Try as we might we could not discover a single flaw in this picture. It is, aside from splendid entertainment, graphically instructive from the viewpoint of historical and geographical accuracy. Even the extras looked their parts, which is saying a great deal.

GIVE NATURE A CHANCE

Nature at every moment of your existence is standing by your side a silent guardian of your body. But you must not ignore Nature or treat her disdainfully. You must give her an opportunity to work unhindered in your body.

The brain is the great generator of nerve energy which is the head of your health. This nerve energy is transmitted over the nerve cables to the various organs and cells of the body.

When you turn off the electric light switch you do not expect the light to burn. Do you think we have any more right to expect our organs to function when the life force is shut off?

Chiropractors assist Nature by causing the life force to flow freely.

WILL ENLARGE VARSITY STADIUM AND DOUBLE SEATING CAPACITY

BUILT IN 1911

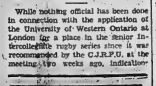

May be Fourth 'College in Intercollegiate Rugby Next Year

While nothing official has been done in connection with the application of the University of Western Ontario at London for a place in the senior intercollegiate rugby series since it was recommended by the C.I.R.F.U. at the meeting two weeks ago, indications are that it will be favorably considered and that next Fall the college series will be composed of four teams for the first time since Royal Military College retired to intermediate rugby after a short sojourn in the senior ranks. McGill is making preparations for increased seating capacity, which in time will reach 25,000. The present plans are to build a concrete stand, seating 5,000, on the south side of the field where the present wooden bleachers are at present, in time for the opening of the season next Fall. Later on additional stands will be built until the bowl is completed.

There is a strong possibility that by the time the college series gets under way next Fall there will be an addition to the present concrete stand at Varsity stadium. It is the intention to continue the bleachers around the south-west corner and along the west side as far as the large covered stand. This will mean the removal of the small stand which at one time was the only covered stand at the stadium. The present covered stand, which was built in 1911, will probably be used for the next five or six years, but in time it will disappear and be replaced by a continuation of the bowl.

The day of covered stands on rugby fields is past and it is unlikely that in future there will be any more erected. The roofing and maintenance of roofs is quite an item in the financing of a football stadium which is used only eight or ten times a year, and the presence of a covered stand sometimes has a retarding effect on the sale of tickets. Often when all the seats are sold in a covered stand intending purchasers decide to remain away rather than sit in the open, but with all seats unprotected from the elements there will be practically no choice regarding seats except as to the position from the field of play.

SPORTOGRAMS

Perhaps the biggest upset in this years Rugby occurred on Thanksgiving Day when the Varsity Orphans defeated last years Dominion Champions, Balmy Beach, on a wet soggy field, by a score of one point to nothing.

The Beachers had thought that by lasting a game on Thanksgiving Day they could help to retrieve some of their losses suffered during the season. The Balmy Beach team always have been hard put to it in a financial way, and had they had a good crowd last Monday would have no doubt finished the season with a comfortable balance. As it is now, however, they are finishing the year in debt.

Charlie Delaney, former Albert College player, was on the backfield for the Beachers the whole game. Although he did not star, he played a good game, considering the conditions, but could not get much lift to the wet, water logged ball. He played for the World Champion Varsity Grads Hockey team last winter, which cleaned up on the Olympics, and had the Beach team won Monday was in a fair way to play for a Dominion Champion Rugby team. Not a bad record, at that.

Albert College now meets Peterboro in home and home games points to count, as Peterboro defeated Oshawa Collegiate on Saturday at Port Hope.This Peterboro team is reputed to be a fine defensive team, as they have had only one touchdown scored against them this year. They will need to be good, however, when this Albert team gets after them, for they have no fear of the big fellows, and are fit there every minute to play the game.

YOUR EYES and Our Service

By J. A. McFEE, Optometrist Belleville

Because persons of middle age or more see well in the distance is no proof that they do not need a near correction?

No. Youthful normal eyes see well for far and near. Age gradually restricts the close up ability.

When does old sight begin?

It begins early in life, but first causes inconvenience anywhere from 40 years of age on.

All are subject to it?

Yes, no one escapes old sight. Some defer the use of reading glasses longer than others- but the day finally comes when help must be secured.

BASKETBALL

Basketball fans tonight will see the Stephens-Adamson attempt to take a fall out of the lowly Alemite, who are now at the bottom of the heap, and the leading C.N.S.'s will try to keep their lead against the American Optical. Both games promise to be fast fixtures and there should be a good crowd on hand to watch them.

Belleville Intermediates are entered this year with teams representing Queen's University, R.M.C., and Kingston Y., and as Napanee has dropped out, the group this year will be made up of only the four teams. With the Belleville intermediates all playing in the City Industrial League, they should be in good shape for what they have to begin right after Christmas.

LOCAL BOY RAN IN GREAT STYLE

Cliff Barber Took Fifth Place in Guelph's Thanksgiving Day Event

By winning fifth place against a field of forty six other runners, Cliff Barber, running under the colors of the Y's Men's Club of Belleville at Guelph yesterday, accomplished no mean feat. Pitted against the foremost middle distance runners of the province as well as several orders from the U. S. A., Cliff simply had to be good to get anywhere. The race was run in five one mile laps so that the spectators, of whom there was a vast throng, were given the opportunity of watching the progress of the runners. Half way through the fourth lap Barber was slowed down considerably with a stitch in his side and had it not been for that it is more than likely he would have placed higher than fifth.

Hornsby of the Hamilton Olympic Club was the winner with Mitchell of the Monarch Club of Toronto second, McClusky also of the Monarch Club third and Chuck Snell of the Gladstone Club of Toronto. The prizes for all the races were very much worth the winning and there seemed to be no scarcity of same as in some events as many as fifteen awards were made. Barber for fifth place in the five mile was presented with fine mantle clock finished in wal nut and all other prizes for the top division were of a like order. Hornsby the winner of the same race received a five piece silver tea service while second place was rewarded with a full sized rug enough to cover the floor of the average room.

The city of Guelph and the promoting organization, the Guelph Cross Country and Road Race Association are to be congratulated for the highly efficient manner they carry on this meet, which the writer was told by one of the officials, has been conducted for over thirty years. Both the runners and those accompanying them are the guests of the city and upon arrival were handed badges upon which this fact was stated and it can be said for all and sundry connected with the meet, they did not fall down in the capacity of hosts.

Although weather conditions were not ideal in Guelph, the rain fortunately held off during most of the programme and although a little raw and cool, the spectators appeared to mind it more than those participating.

Marmora will have an up-to-date golf course next summer. It will be laid out along the shore of Crowe Lake, which is admirably adapted for the purpose.

DELORO SOCCER TEAM WON GAME

Defeated Belleville by One to Nothing Score Last Saturday

These teams met on Pine street grounds Saturday afternoon. Belleville had 2 good players-off in Ballinger and Colcough. The visitors kicked off and made tracks for goal, but Taylor cleared. Howard made a nice dribble on the right and Norridge shot by. Belleville still pressed and Knott's shot was fisted away. A free kick for Deloro took play to the other end, and Brooks replaced Bawden, who saved.

The play was very even, first one team and then the other attacking. Deloro forced a corner but could not score. Half time came with no score. On changing over, Belleville attacked, McClusky and Howard taking the ball to the other end, McCleary missing by inches. From the goal kick, Robinson headed back to Knott, who [illegible] to Taylor run, and passed to Kennedy, but the goal keeper kicked away.

Deloro took up the attack but at field cleared, and the play was fast and even still. Deloro got away on the left wing, and from the Centre Brooks scored for the visitors. Belleville tried hard to equalize, Knott heading the ball against the cross bar, and then the ball over the bar. Time came soon afterwards, with Deloro winners by the narrow margin of one to nothing.

Had Belleville had their, regular team, there is little doubt that the result would have been different for it they were considerably weakened by the loss of two of their players. There will be two more games played this fall, one here with Kingston and a return game with Deloro at that place. The following composed the Belleville team:Goal Bawden; Backs, Hatfield and Taylor; halves, Cross, Ballinger and Stewart; forwards, Howard, Norridge, A Knott, Kennedy and McCrisky.

GLADYS BROTHERSTON STILL ALIVE CROUCHED, HIDDEN, AMIDST ROCKS

Eighty - Three - Year - Old Clairvoyant Shows Missing Girl in Crystal

SOON BE FOUND

Only Matter of Hours Now —Suspects Love Affair Is the Trouble

Kirkfield, Ont., Nov. 15.— A girl's escape reported to have been heard from a lonely stretch of bush, near here last night, started searchers with new hope scouring the countryside for Gladys Brotherston, who disappeared Friday night. A blood hound is being used to supplement the efforts of one hundred searchers today.

Gladys Brotherston, nineteen-year-old Kirkfield girl lost since last Saturday night, was found alive within twenty-four hours according to Mrs. Elizabeth Booth, eighty-three-year-old clairvoyant of Marmora, Ontario. Mrs. Booth vividly traced the girl's movements since her mysterious disappearance, by the Intelligencer in a little country home at Wellman's Corners, last night. To substantiate her claim she produced her beloved crystal and hooking it before a bright kerosene lamp she pointed the girl out in a picture which was as clear as though painted by an artist. She was shown lying on the ground amid the rocks a few miles south-east of her home. A man whom Mrs. Booth said was one of the search ers stalked in the offing holding an object in his hand, which had all the appearances of being a lantern. It was clear and revealing and even to the untrained eye it was pictured just as Mrs. Booth described it.

To Be Found Alive

"No, it will not be long before she is found, although suffering from lack of sustenance," said the old lady who has been the means of clearing up more than one mystery which puzzled leading detectives. "It will be a man wearing a dark felt hat who will make the discovery, yes he is nearing her now and I can see that the girl is crouching low, bringing the ground hid ing from the posse who have combed the district since Saturday in search of her."

Mrs. Booth said that she could easily hear him were he to speak. She is hidden among the rocks and underbrush of the country and is almost concealed from sight, but the crystal does me plainly that it will be but a short time before she is safely restored." Mrs. Booth said that several of the searchers have passed even within a few feet of the girl, who for some unaccountable reason refuses to make her presence known.

OPEN ENQUIRY IN VESTRIS WRECK

Preliminary Questioning of Witnesses Took Place This Morning

London, Nov 15—Board of Trade announced today that a wreck-ing investigation into the loss of the steamer Vestris was needed. They had not decided on the form of inquiry.

U. S. ENQUIRY OPENED

New York, Nov. 15.—Coming aside the questions as to jurisdiction, the federal authorities today began an investigation of the sinking of the steamer "Vestris," with a loss of more than one hundred lives. Preliminary questioning of witnesses took place this morning and the formal inquiry will open this afternoon. Sixty witnesses are subpoenaed for the hearing.

As the Vestris was of British registry, the jurisdiction of United States Courts is uncertain, but it was rumored British authorities might consent to vest Unite ctates of the Inquiry. Lave the entire inquiry held here.

PASSENGERS DEFEND CAPTAIN

New York, Nov. 15.—All but nine of the known survivors of the Vestris were safely in New York today. The last 57 came in early today on the French tanker Myrtam. Nine others are on the battleship Wyoming bound for Norfolk, Virginia. Of the 57, eight were passengers, the others being members of the crew.

Most of the passengers were silent about the Captain Carey's actions, but the crew outspokenly criticized the skipper. Mrs. Clyne Slaughter, the only woman passenger on the Myrtam, defended the Captain. "He did his duty and did his best," she said. She denied the stories of other passengers that the crew had rushed the life boats.

Mrs. Slaughter, whose home her husband floundering in the sea as the ship sank, found him waiting at the pilots when she landed.

Bodies Brought In

New York, Nov. 15.—Reclaiming from the sea, twenty-three bodies of the Vestris' dead were today being returned to grieving relatives and friends. Many of the dead had not been identified today, the clothing of the victims being devoid of all identifying marks.

HOUR ON THE AIR WINS CITY FAME

Belleville Artists Covered Themselves With Glory Last Evening

RECEPTION FINE

Mayor Duff Gave Good Reasons for Coming Here to Live

Belleville artists brought credit to their native city last night when for over an hour they broadcast from station CKGW at the King Edward Hotel, Toronto. There was a delay of about half an hour at the start owing to power trouble but once the programme started it came through beautifully clear. It was well after half past eleven when Mrs. Stobie gave the last number. Telegrams and long distance calls to the station from Belleville and district as well as from distant points told of the delight of the unseen audience in the artists' work. It is estimated that the additional numbers as every selection was given by beautiful girl. The Radio Broadcasters. A. P. Stillman, H. R. Moorman, Dr. Haffner and J. Arnold Bongard, K.C., were very complimentary in the best of these was "John Peel" with which the concert closed. Special mention must be made of Mr. Moorman's rendering of "Old Black Joe."

Mrs. Stobie Good

Mrs. Helen Stobie, the only lady on the programme gave two groups of songs and has perhaps never been heard to better advantage. Jessie Bankier and Kg Haffner were the other soloists and the artistry of both is too well-known to need comment, and of course special attention must be made of Mr. Lee Higgs who both in this solo number and his accompaniment of the other artists was wonderful.

Mayor Duff gave a five minute talk extolling the virtues of Belleville and its advantages as a trading and a manufacturing centre. He recommended like a veteran and the advertising value to this city is greater than it is easily estimated. Mayor Duff's speech is given in full as follows:

Occupying a situation of remarkable natural beauty at the confluence of the River Moira and the Bay of Quinte, the City of Belleville, county town of the county of Hastings, is the Provincial Capital of the rich district of surpassing advantage.

The foundations of Belleville was laid in the later years of the eighteenth century by that sturdy band of pioneers and patriots known as the United Empire Loyalists. Progress and development have been slow but have been persistent and substantial. The Dominion census of 1921 showed an population of 13,060 which indicates further important growth with some of the unenumerated residents of boom. Belleville's citizens are practically all Canadian or British born.

Damaged His Car and Silent Officer at City's Main Corner

Francis Donahue, of this city, was arrested last night in a very intoxicated condition at the corner of Bridge and Front Streets, when he crashed into the post which stands in the center of the road with his Essex car. The car was badly damaged, as was the car, the post, and Donahue was charged with driving intoxicated while in charge of a motor vehicle. When he appeared in Police Court this morning, the counsel for Mr. E. J. Butler, K.C., asked for the case to be enlarged for a week which was granted.

MANY PROSPECTS BUT NONE SURE

Mayoralty Race Wide Open —Aldermen Have Ambitions to Rise

Belleville's mayoralty race is still a matter of opinion, not one of those said to be aspirants for the City Executive's job being willing to commit themselves. As nominations are only about ten days away, however, it would seem that something should be done in the near future, or Belleville's election will be dead and lifeless.

Mayor M. P. Duff when asked by the press today whether he intended to run again for his second term declares that he was undecided at the present time, but would have a definite announcement to make tomorrow or the next day. George Ostrom, another name whose name is being mentioned for the office, was also noncommittal, but declared that at the present time he did not think he would run.

Harry Greenleaf has no definite announcement yet, but it can safely be said that he will be again before the people on the ballot on the First Monday in December. Aldermen Asa Wolfenden is another who may try for higher honors, although he too will say definite until others make some move. It is also rumoured that Alderman C. L. Hyde has ambitions for the Mayors office. Alderman A. B. Collins was out of the city today and could not be reached, but there is little doubt that he comes out for the Mayoralty contest, he will be well supported.

ARREST MURRAY AS MAIL BANDIT

May Not be the Man Wanted at all Says Inspector Guthrie

Buffalo, Nov. 15—William J. Murray, sought as one of the nine men wanted in Toronto for the $125,000 mail car robbery in that city, was arrested at his home here today.

May Not Be The Man

Toronto, Nov. 15.—Do not know that he is the man we want here at all" said Inspector Guthrie today when shown the Buffalo report. He said Murray was originally arrested on a charge of murder in the States and his connection with the mail robbery was being investigated.

So far three men have been convicted in connection with the case, Privates McLeod, Senior, Everett McKibbon and Thomas Brown, also Gordon Ray Boyen is now on trial here and two others, Bill Bovin and Buck Harris are being sought. The robbery occurred on June 19, last.

TWELVE MEMBERS WERE UNOPPOSED

Melbourne, Australia, Nov. 15—Six Nationalists or Government supporters, three members of the Country Party and three Labor members were returned without opposition to the House of representatives today following nominations.

Belleville Night Best Put On By Any City; They Want Them Back

Speaking to the Intelligencer today after returning from Toronto where he was "on the air" with other Belleville artists last night, Mayor M. P. Duff declared that those in charge of station C K G W Canada's Cheerio Station, were more than delighted with the program put on by Belleville talent last night. They enjoyed it so much in fact that they asked all the artists to return again for another Belleville night sometime in January.

The early interference with the mechanism of the broadcasting station nearly spoiled the evening for all concerned, and it was a long time before starting. Eye this reason all the Radio Four quartette pieces were put on at the end of the program as J. Arnold Thompson had to catch the eleven o'clock train for Montreal.

The station officials at the King Edward also desired to thank all those who phoned in their appreciation of the program, and those who sent in telegrams. Belleville received more telegrams than any other Ontario city which has broadcasted over this station, according to the officials.

STIFF FINE FOR GEESE KILLERS

Sanctuary Violators Escape Jail Sentence—Must Pay All Costs

The last chapter in the Mattis goose case ended this morning in Police Court when Magistrate Mikel ordered the three men implicated to make restitution to Walter Turner, owner of the geese, to the amount of fifty dollars, and also ordered them to pay the costs of the court, which amounted to seventy dollars. Accordingly, each will have to pay a little over forty dollars for their mornings fun when they slaughtered seven geese the property of Walter Turner, and kept in the Sanctuary owned by the Old Miner League of Hastings County.

Magistrate Mikel gave the three men a scathing denunciation for the act which they had committed, and told them that they were lucky in getting off with a fine, when, perhaps he thought the ends of justice would be served if they made restitution whereas if they were sent to jail it would in all likelihood do them no more good than paying a certain amount of money.

Much Publicity

All three men are from Consecon, the oldest, David Mattis, father of James Mattis, being fifty. His son is nineteen and the other two George Miller, being of the same age. Public opinion in this city at the time of the arrest was to the effect that the miscreants should be jailed, but it was seen that they would probably suffer enough by paying restitution and paying the costs, which

Two-Day Annual Convention of Institute Opened This Morning

NOTED SPEAKERS

Over 150 Registered Before First Session—Interesting Exhibits

About two hundred delegates to the Women's Institute Convention from Prince Edward County, east, west and north Hastings counties and east and west Northumberland counties gathered in the city hall this morning for their regular annual convention. This convention, which is two days in length, promises to surpass all others, for an exceptionally strong number of visitors from Toronto is present, including such noted people as Mr. Geo. Putnam, the superintendent of the Women's Institutes for Ontario, Mrs. Peters, of Mrs. Macdonald Department of Agriculture, Miss Guest, of the same Department, Miss Edna M. Squires, Health Nurse, Miss Radin, Department Speaker and Mrs. Stone, the Ontario President of the Women's Institutes.

Shortly after nine o'clock this morning the delegates started to pour into the city hall and by noon well over 150 had registered. The hall is in the line of business this morning the greater part of the forenoon being taken up with the Round Table Conference, which was attended by the District and branch officers of the Institute. Some of the delegates were also in attendance at the morning Round Table Session. Mrs. Mossman, of Deseronto, was the presiding chairman.

Afternoon Session

This afternoon, with Mrs. Walter Grass, of Foxboro, presiding the convention got under way with the topic "The Efficient Home," being taken up. This was a general topic, with discussions among all the delegates. Shortly after this Mayor Morley Duff extended to officials welcome to the visitors, and Mrs. O. P. Clarke, R.N., of Brighton, responded.

Mrs. J. Fargey, Bloomfield, gave a report on Health, Mrs. L. Isaacs, Wark

Women would Like Stores Kept Open Late to Do Their Shopping

The Executive of the Women's Institute made a special appeal to the press this morning when they asked if it would not be possible for the merchants of the city to keep their store open tonight so delegates to the convention would be able to shop this evening after the completion of the evening session at nine-thirty tonight.

"Many of the ladies present" one woman said, "would like to do a little shopping before leaving the city and I am sure it would be profitable for the merchants to keep their stores open for a short time tonight." The evening session of the convention will close at nine-thirty tonight.

TODAY'S MARKET

Market Slowed Down

New York, Nov. 15.—Stock market which has been moving upward on five million share pace all week slowed up today but the main trend of efficiency continued upward. Although heavy profit taking forced a number of recent favorites such a Sears Roebuck, Montgomery, Hudson Motors and Steels down three to nearly full points, several new specialties were brought forward by pools and marketed up three to nine points to new high records. Call money renewed unchanged at six per cent during the mid month demand for funds.

Mr. Jeffrey will replace Mr. Justice Latchford, who has been promoted to the Second Divisional Court of the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court in Ontario, Mr. Justice Middleton who is transferred from the Second to the First Divisional Court.

THE CAUSE OF A SOLID SOUTH

To Combat Republican Platform of Incitement of the Negroes

Dealing with the origin of the solid South in American politics the London Free Press explains that when the Civil War ended the reconstruction was taken in hand by a radical Congress. It was determined to punish the South. It then seemed as though Southern hopes were doomed. The negro was being raised to citizenship, not so much as a matter of justice but to secure power for the Republican party. That plan failed in the seventies and came to an end in 1877 when President Hayes withdrew the supporting troops from the Republican organization in the South.

"Virtually all respectable white in the South entered the Democratic ranks in the late sixties, to combat the Republican platform of negro domination. It was exalted into a creed that negroes in the mass were incompetent for any good political purpose and federal authorities gave a tacit acquiescence in the 'white primaries' educational tests of suffrage and other devices for limiting the negro vote. No issue has ever arisen in a presidential year that has predominated over the lingering one of race and political solidarity, and the solid South is maintained to keep assurance doubly sure that the South shall remain a white man's country."

along with the publicity given them should be enough for them to have learned their lesson. It is doubtful if they will ever care a great deal about hunting again.

Provincial Police should be given a great deal of credit for the manner in which they handled this case. Which only a slight clue to who the culprits were, they went ahead on the Crown Attorney's instructions and within a week of the offence, landed the two of the men were. Their only clue at the start was that they knew the colour of a car which had been parked near the Sanctuary in the early hours of the morning when the geese were shot, and questioned all owners of cars of this make and description in the vicinity.

Found at Car

They were at last successful in their search for a car owned by the Millers, of Cameron, answering the description perfectly. When James Mattis questioned along with George Miller, they readily admitted that they had been in the party which went to shoot the geese, but would not tell who the third man, who had turned out to be James Mattis' father, was. James Mattis signed a statement as to his and implicated George Miller, who had remained silent up to this time, would tell who the third person was, however, and although the Provincial Police had strong suspicions as to who it was, they could not be sure. Finally, David Mattis came into the Provincial Police office in Belleville and admitted everything.

Feet in Court Room

Wallace Havelock Robb, poet of birdland, was in the Court Room this morning along with Walter Turner, owner of the geese, it will be over the shooting of these birds that Mr. Robb turned from his nature city, writing in an inspired manner a poem which was printed in the local Press. Mr. Robb denounced Belleville as being completely interested in money matters or occupations to care for the prevention of wild life. The City Council had refused a grant to the Secretary some time before, and Mr. Robb in his indignation took several of the geese to the City Hall and over the heads of the birds that Mr. Robb addressing the Mayor and the Council to look at the results of their apathy. Owing to the condition of the birds, which had been dead almost a week, they were cremated in the City Hall furnace.

MODERN UTOPIA IS PLANNED BY SECT.

Springfield, Mo., Oct.—Dr. Frederick M. Smith of Independence, Mo., president of the re-organized Church of Jesus Christ, Latter Day Saints, announced here that his denomination has purchased 11,000 acres of land north of Springfield on Table Rock lake and would start a "modern Utopia" for members of the faith.

Mr. Smith said the colony, which is to be established soon, will be unique and extremely idealistic. Each man after having provided a good living for himself will turn over the remainder of his earnings to the community welfare.

There will be no taxation and profits derived by the community will go to the general church. The raising of sheep and turkeys will be major industries of the community organization.

FRANTIC SEARCH MADE FOR MEN

Ottawa, Nov. 15.—Bleak and snow covered vastness of the barren lands in Northern Manitoba still holds locked the secrets of the fate of seven men who set out from Fort Churchill twelve days ago to link 70 miles by the steel on the Hudson Bay Railway. Frantic search is being made by aeroplanes and land parties but since the men left the construction base, no word has been heard of them. Officials think they wandered from the beaten trail and became lost.

TRUTH, NOTHING BUT THE TRUTH

Just Took the Pipe So It would Not Get Damaged

Nicholas Marcier, on the Canadian National payroll, but Angelo Piccion, on the Belleville Police Court records. And his "the record is almost as long as the other. For nineteen years Piccion has been "up" and "down" with the Police Court case, was working on the railway, with the exception of time spent in jail. This morning he appeared, charged that he did steal from the Canadian National Railway one elbow piece of sewer pipe, valued at nearly a dollar and a half.

Some time ago Piccion was charged with selling liquor contrary to the O. T. A. and at his trial committed all kinds of perjury. Another charge, that of perjury was laid against him; he was found guilty, and sentenced to serve some months in the County Jail. Apparently the perjury charge still lingered in the remote recesses of his brain, for this morning he told all there was to know and told the truth. Even he admitted that.

Trying to Save Pipe.

Nick swore he took the pipe off the top of an engine, as he was afraid some of the other men would break it. He did not want it for any particular reason, as although he had built a setter into his house, that was all fin ished now. (Constable Jerome, who made the arrest, came in for a little cross examination by the accused himself. "Did you see me take it?" "No". With an expressive shrug of his shoulders. "Is this pipe marked at all?" The Constable could not see any mark. "Well then, it does not long to the Grand Trunk. I did not steal it".

Magistrate Mikel thought that as the man had a large family, they would not like to see him go to jail, so gave him a suspended sentence of six months, and asked him to pay twelve dollars and fifty cents, the costs of the court, or spend five days in jail. The fine was paid.

G. BROTHERSTON

The crystal gaze which is an orthodox, chipped piece of quartz created a profound impression and her description of the country thru which Miss Brotherston has travelled is identical with that given by the brother and sister of the girl who paid another visit to Mrs. Booth last night.

Suspects Love Affair

While not making a bold statement the clairvoyant intimated that Miss Brotherston's mind may be slightly unbalanced and although unable to state definitely her reason for deserting her home she suspected it was a love affair She scouts the suggestion that it was due to despondency over a facial blem ish which was advanced as a motive for her disappearance by the parchis. The girl received a letter from a suitor a few days previous, according to Mrs Booth, which resulted in her leaving home.

"I cannot see any ammunition or gun, near her nor at any time have I distinguished fire-arms of any kind and she is not dressed in pyjamas, but rather in a black dress. She left the house at nine o'clock Saturday night and has travelled in a semi-circle ever since. On Saturday night she has been 175 miles of a circle which I have since learned is the Talbot River and secluded among the rocks remained there until Sunday. Then she steadily made her way to a flat section of ground, covered with rocks, which on the following night she evaded the searchers and went to a higher piece of ground near her home.'

Dog on Right Trail

Despite the fact that Miss Brotherston has been absent for five nights, Mrs. Booth maintains that the girl is alive although weakened from lack of food and exposure to the chilling night air. The girl's brother and sister were much relieved when they left for home tonight and placed a great deal of confidence in Mrs. Booth's statements. She indicated that the bloodhound which was placed on the trail found the correct scent and had it continued to follow the girl's footsteps, would have found her within a few minutes. But the fates were unkind and when the canine reached a fence, the trail was lost.

Residents of the Marmora district place great confidence in Mrs. Booth's methods of crystal-gazing as she has foretold on previous occasions, events of a like nature. Many years ago, Mrs. Booth was questioned regarding the disappearance of a youngster named Germshaw. She informed those assisting in the search that the body would be found in a clump of woods. Parties searched the spot but no traces were found. Mrs. Booth was asked to accompany the men and she pointed out the exact spot where some leaves were rolled away and the body was found.

Found Man's Body

A man named Holgate was drowned in the Moira River some years ago and the current carried the body downstream. Searchers were soon employed and without avail and the clairvoyant was consulted. She told them that the remains were beneath a ledge, the clothing clinging to a rock. A crew in a row boat found Holgate's body under the stone.

On another occasion, a murder took place in Kingston and police and detectives were baffled. Mrs. Booth's prowess with the crystal had been told and after three visits were made she chose a photo from a group of twelve naming the guilty party. She was asked to go to Kingston and from among the men clinging in the ruins of the house which was burned following the fire she picked the man who was guilty and sentenced to Portsmouth Penitentiary. He was employed by a farmer and when the latter's daughter had spurned his attentions he murdered her and set the house on fire to cover himself up.

Seen Under The Veil

Mrs. Booth has been the means of finding lost articles and numerous gold watches and bracelets have been restored to their owners after a visit to her home. She has been able to read crystals since she was a child. She explained that she was born with the traditional veil over her head and as an early age discovered her aptitude for reading the crystal.

"No it is not me but my Maker who is responsible. I ask Him if it is His will that I should answer the queries and it is due to Him that I am able to read the crystal. While the readings are much clearer in the daylight hours reverse so, the picture shown before the lamp was easily distinguished.

Mrs. Booth was the oldest of nine children and was born and brought up in the Marmora district. Her two brothers, Paul and Albert Sharp were witnesses to tonight's readings and they testified to her reliability in reading the crystal. Neither of them were surprised at the manner in which their sister told of the girl's movements as they had heard her on numerous occasions unravel strange and baffling mysteries. Although she has seen so many years, her vision is clear, and her powers of hearing have not been impaired.

One last look at the stone at ten o'clock revealed the Brotherston girl crouched in the same position with the searching men nearing the spot where she was hiding.

LOCAL BUSINESS SCHOOL BOASTS WORTHY RECORD

Thorough Training Reason For Continent-Wide Fame

Although they had previously known of the high reputation of Ontario Business College, recent visitors at O.B.C. have expressed great interest and surprise on seeing the large attendance and on being shown the College register. It has seemed to them remarkable to have so many registrations from distant parts of Canada and other countries, besides the 1Zany enrollment from Belleville and nearby places.

Visitors have often asked why students come so far to attend the O.B.C. while business colleges in other cities do not attract students from outside their own localities. Living conditions in Belleville are about the same as in most other cities; sports and amusements here are not any more alluring than elsewhere; there are not as many business positions available as there are in the larger centres; and there is no inducement by way of reduced railway rates to Belleville. Then why do pupils come thus far to attend the Business College here? It is because of the well-known fact that O.B.C. training is thorough and practical, and superior to the training received at similar institutions. It is because O.B.C. graduates, who may be found in good business positions all over America, are successful and attribute their success to their training here. It is because O. B.C. has always, since it was founded over sixty years ago, been conducted by men of ability and wide business experience, with a practical knowledge of what business demands.

In most institutions the commercial courses are carried on by teachers who have had little business training and no business experience and who approach their work from the standpoint of theory alone—not practice. At Ontario Business College they specialize in business education and they do that exceedingly well. There are no office services there no misspent time, no fads, no frills, just strict attention to business and faithful work, day in and day out throughout the whole year.

At O.B.C. students may start any time and receive individual instruction all the way through. Another point in that business men recognize an O.B.C. diploma as evidence of good training.

There are continually in attendance brothers, sisters and daughters of former students, another strong indication of the reliability and efficiency of O.B.C.

A man who came last year from Nigeria, West Africa, and attended for several months, has written that he is preparing to come back again from Nigeria to take up further work at O.B.C. He is sure it is worth the great expense and long journey to do this. Another man in the West Indies, who took out the College text books last month said wrote that he will come for a course at O.B.C. later on. So it seems that no distance is too great to travel to get the training at Belleville's famous business school.

Clever Exhibits

As last year, a feature of the convention is the list of exhibits in the council chambers. Fancy work of every description is on display for anybody in the city who cares to look at it. But an added attraction this year is the exhibit by the Ontario Department of Health, with Nurse Edna M. Squires in attendance. A moving picture lantern automatically transfers slides of health exhibits and one entire end of the council chambers is appropriately decorated with suitable propaganda.

Y'S MEN HOSTS TO PETERBORO CLUB

Peterboro Y's Mens Club members were the guests of the Belleville Club last night on the occasion of the Peterboro visit. This visit was the result of the trip made by the Belleville Y's Men Club about this time last year, when the Belleville Club, after having sponsored the Peterboro child, made a trip to the latter city to present their charter.

Peterboro supplied all the program with the exception of one vocal solo. Leslie Woodley, one of the Charter members of the Belleville Club, and now a member of the Hamilton Y's Mens Club, sang Y's Mens song which was introduced at the recent convention at Grand Rapids. Peterboro have a fine orchestra within their club, and they were very liberal with their selections, playing most of the time the luncheon was being served. Several speakers of note tapered off the program. Following the meeting some of the members watched the basketball games which were on view in pro gress, and later left for home.

position, about midway between Toronto, Hamilton and London, the three largest cities of western Ontario, and Ottawa, Montreal and Quebec, the three greatest centres of population in eastern Canada, is an ideal location for manufacturing enterprises. The trunk lines of the two great Canadian transcontinental railway systems pass through the corporation bounds with radiating lines to Ottawa, Peterborough, Madoc, Harcroft and Picton. There is also deep water navigation to all ports on the Great Lakes and the St. Lawrence River. A wealthy agricultural, fruit-growing and dairying district surrounds, with important mining and lumbering interests to the north.

Great Trading Centre

Belleville is the trading centre for all this prosperous environment and our retail stores are notable for their modern merchandising methods and for their superior stocks of high-grade goods. But during recent years Belleville has entered upon a career of industrial expansion. During the past five years no less than seven of the largest manufacturing corporations of the United States have chosen Belleville as the home for their Canadian branches. Negotiations are about complete for the establishment of several more of equal importance. Local enterprise has organized and developed a number of other industrial activities that are already attaining large proportions. This is particularly true of lock-manufacturing and builders' hardware, in which Belleville now holds the premier position in Canada.

Delightful drives over paved highways in all directions, from the city bring to view many supremely charming landscapes. Thousands of tourists and camping parties annually visit Belleville and enjoy the manifold attractions for those in search of rest and recreation.

Among the outstanding scenic features may be mentioned the Bay of Quinte, a marvellously beautiful inlet from Lake Ontario, extending as a narrow ribbon of water eighty miles from Kingston to Trenton; the Lake on the Mountain, a remarkable natural phenomenon at the end of a picture sque roadway; the Sand Banks, well known summer resort amidst the great sand dunes on the south shore of Prince Edward; Oak Lake, a scenic gem among the Oak Hills; the Trent Valley, a panorama beyond power of description; the Oak Hills, a drive over which is an inspiration everywhere with magnificent landscapes.in all directions; Ben Echo Rock, the Canadian Gibraltar; the vast shore of Lake Maduawe, grand and impressive; the Northern Lights, the last entian district to the north of Belleville are scattered all over the landscape and each has a distinctive beauty and charm peculiar to itself. In these lakes and their contributing streams are found the many varieties of game fish that have made this section one of the most famous fishing grounds in America. The surrounding forests are equally notable as the home of red deer and other attractions for the hunter.

SINCLAIR'S

Baseball Champions

For those interested in sports, splendid facilities are available. The Bay of Quinte Country Club Golf course and tennis courts are beautifully situated on the Kingston Highway to the west of the City overlooking the Bay of Quinte. The grounds of the Belleville Golf Club are located at the east end of the city. A fine, modern Park Ground and Ball Park were completed a few years ago. The Belleville Nationals playing on these grounds were the Ontario Senior Baseball Championship in 1928. This is the second Ontario Championship won by the Belleville boys in recent years.

But it is in the realm of education that Belleville has contributed and will continue to contribute most magnificently to the cultural life of Canada.

Albert College, a residential school for boys and young men, endowed and maintained by the United Church, is now established in a stately group of new stone buildings on the northern shore of the Bay of Quinte. The Ontario School for the Deaf also has a splendid new home in that immediate vicinity. The Ontario Business College, the pioneer commercial school of America, has been and still is the most widely attended educational institution in its class on the continent. This past year a most commodious collegiate institute and technical school building has been brought to completion at a cost of $550,000 where all the latest ideas in secondary education have been given expression.

Steady Development

In its civic development, Belleville has sought to maintain a high standard of cultural life with clean and wholesome conditions amidst which to establish a home and rear a family. Expansion and growth have followed but these have been the incidental results of a policy founded upon sane judgment and an endeavour to attain what is best in Canadian citizenship.

We hope you will enjoy the Belleville programme tonight and we desire to thank the Dafin Finish Hardwood Flooring Limited and Station C. K.G.W. for making this possible. In concluding let me say if you are looking for industrial or residential locations, or when planning your holiday trip next season do not overlook Belleville, Ontario. We have a very active Chamber of Commerce which will be glad to serve you or give you any information you require. Just drop a line.

GIRL GUIDES ORGANIZED WITH A SPLENDID SLATE OF OFFICERS

Over 175 Guides in Belleville Under the Control of Council

FINE ADDRESSES

Mrs. W. R. Lang of Toronto Gave Talk on Value of Training

The annual meeting of the Girl Guide Council took place in the Armouries yesterday afternoon with Mrs. W. N. Ponton, Divisional Commissioner, presiding. Opening the meeting Mrs. Ponton gave a short report on general Guide activities. There are 175 Guides in Belleville backed by the Council. Mrs. W. Scott, Secretary of the Council, read the report of the year's work following which Mrs. Mrs. Branscombe, Captain of the Third Company of Girl Guides, read a splendid report on the camp life and general financial standing of the local Guides. Election of officers took place.

New Officers

All of this year's officers were elected by acclamation. Mrs. Nation was elected District Commissioner to take the place of Mrs. Ponton who has recently been promoted to Divisional Commissioner. Mrs. W. C. Springer was re-elected President of the Council. Mrs. J. W. Kinnear, vice-president and Mrs. W. Scott, Secretary. Mrs. L. Riggs was appointed Deputy in the navy and later in the army.

Commissioner to Mrs. Nation and Mrs. Dewar Chairman of the Badge Committee. Chairmen of other committees are yet to be appointed.

Immediately following the election of officers the Council had the privilege of hearing a splendid address by Mrs. W. R. Lang, who spoke before the Women's Canadian Club at their luncheon yesterday. Mrs. Lang spoke on the aims and objects of the Girl Guide movement, which was originated with the idea of making girls good citizens of the future. This was accomplished by inculcating into them the principles of self reliance, observation, obedience and service to others. The physical training is also stressed among Guides as she is always placed on her honor, her motto being, "Be Prepared."

Patrol Idea

The patrol idea, said Mrs. Lang has proved itself of enormous value in training all classes of people and this system has been adopted by the Girl Guides, and follows the system used in the army and later in the navy.

Training rules have been adopted from the military. The Guide movement, according to the speaker, promotes a splendid esprit de corps, the girls working for their patrol and not for themselves as individuals. They learn respect for authority which is most necessary to good citizenship, Mrs. Lang explained the reason why the uniform is used. In the first place, she explained, it is a democratic system. Rich and poor are dressed alike and it promotes a tidiness and care as to the behaviour, as no gold watches to bring discredit on her uniform.

A Guide in New Liberty

The Guide movement, said Mrs. Lang, is especially useful in this age of new liberty for women. It directs girls towards the proper use of this liberty. The tendency in modern life books, etc., is to make echo ordinary books dull but Girl Guides find romance and beauty in the common place things of life, it serves to brush away the tarnish which modern life puts over the things of real value. It also promotes a true religious attitude for the "germ of divine love blossoms from within." This religion is further promoted by close contact with the great outdoors. Quoting Lord Rosebury Mrs. Lang said that the only hope for the world today was to develop the spirit of Boy Scouts and Girl Guides.

A vote of thanks moved by Miss A. Hurley, was conveyed to the speaker by Mrs. Ponton.

MAKES DONATION FOR ART'S SAKE

Sir Joseph Duveen Offers To Pay For Extension of Gallery

London, Eng., (By C. P.).— Widespread interest has been aroused by the generous offer made by Sir Joseph Duveen, noted art dealer of London and New York, and a trustee of the Wallace Collection, London, to meet the cost of extending the National Portrait Gallery the addition to the Tate Gallery of a gallery for foreign sculpture, and the provision of a dignified and artistic setting for the Elgin Marbles and the Nereid statues in the British Museum. Only one proviso is attached to the offer, made, in a letter from Sir Joseph to Lord D'Abernon, chairman of national museums and galleries. This is, that on the artistic side, the above program is accepted, then, on the scientific and historic side the special recommendations of the Royal Commission on the national museums and galleries will be carried out either by His Majesty's Government or by funds obtained from other donors."

The Times says: "It is generally recognized that of the three schemes for the adequate housing of the art treasures of the nation now made possible by Sir Joseph Duveen's latest benefaction, the extension of the National Portrait Gallery is the most urgently needed. The cost of this work is estimated at £40,000. Since 1896, it was stated before the Royal Commission, portraits have been added to this gallery at an average rate of 22 a year, the most considerable accession being received in 1926, when 70 portraits were acquired. Dismantled during the war the gallery was re-hung and re-opened in 1920, and since then there has been a regular addition to the portraits at the rate of from 30 to 40 a year. This has raised a problem of space which becomes steadily more acute.

"The hanging of additional portraits has entailed complicated rearrangements and the transference of portraits to the reference section. The difficulty of the position will be considerably relieved if the extension of which Sir Joseph Duveen has offered to pay the cost is made. The proposed new building will consist of a three-storey wing of about 110 feet in length which will be joined to the present gallery and will run along Orange Street. This will provide for a series of new galleries which will give the wall-space required for the adequate exhibition of the present collection, with a remaining space that is estimated to allow for the additional pictures of fifteen years."

The total number of portraits in the National Portrait Gallery — acquired by donations, bequests and loans — now amounts to 1,219.

The addition to the Tate Gallery, in the form of a gallery for foreign sculpture, will bring together in a harmonious whole the older buildings and the recent additions. The new gallery is to be a continuation of the existing gallery in which British sculpture is housed.

Sir Joseph Duveen's offer to the trustees of the British Museum to provide adequate funds to give a new and fines sitting to the Elgin Marbles and the Nereid Statues opens a prospect of accomplishing what has long been desired by the authorities of the museum. At present the marbles are so crowded that they interfere with each other in the spectator's vision.

NOVEL METHOD OF ADVERTISING LAND

Auckland, N.Z. (By C. P.).— New Zealand has found a new way of advertising itself in the Old Country and it remained for G. L. Sarsg of Wellington to discover it. He was travelling in Aberdeen and while chatting with a fruit merchant a group of small boys entered the store and asked if they could have a couple of empty boxes.

"Savage saw his chance and he paid the shop keeper for six empty cases that had held New Zealand apples and presented one to each of the delighted boys. Before they went off with their prizes Mr. Savage gave each boy twopence, after having extracted from him a promise that he would not remove the New Zealand label from the box.

A few days later Mr. Savage saw a whole procession of these six boxes, mounted on wheels, being dragged by the proud owners through the streets of Aberdeen. In these days, boxes mounted on wheels are used for many purposes, including that of the family prambuilder—so Mr. Savage seemed satisfied New Zealand was getting some publicity.

AUSTRALIA TO VOTE THIS WEEK

Industrial Peace Is Basis Of Premier Bruce's Campaign

Canberra, Australia, Nov. 9—(CP)—Under the conditions strikingly similar to those in 1925 when he was returned to power by a considerable majority on issues of law and order and industrial peace, Prime Minister Stanley Melbourne Bruce has called a general election for Australia on Nov. 17 next, presenting virtually the same questions to the electorate that he did three years ago.

A long drawn out shipping strike preceding the previous national poll had aroused antipathy in certain methods of the labor forces of the Commonwealth, and the just-ended waterside workers' strike has conspired to revive the same feelings. Thus, while half a hundred other peculiarities have come up in the interim, Mr. Bruce's government goes to the country on the broadest issues of public policy.

Prime Minister Bruce's opponents have attempted to apply to him the epithet of "political opportunist." Even less partisan observers have been inclined to think him favored by events. Certain it is that his rise to prominence in Australian affairs, his continuance of the present election are closely interwoven — each moreover arising from conditions peculiar to a given moment. It would therefore be difficult to understand the pre-election campaign now being waged in the Commonwealth without a brief consideration of Mr. Bruce's activities.

Entered Politics Since War

Having entered the Australian Parliament as a member of the House of Representatives in 1918, after a distinguished record in the war, Mr. Bruce was given the portfolio of the Federal Treasury in 1921 by William Morris Hughes, then Prime Minister. Hughes, once the head of the Australian Labor Party, had won a signal triumph in 1917 when that party was nearly destroyed because of opposition to the war. He had led away the non-defeatist element of Labor to join with the majority of the Liberal Party in the creation of the Nationalist Party—and this organization with Hughes at its head created the National War Government that successfully every effort upon making Australia an efficient combatant.

In the election of 1919 Mr. Hughes again obtained a mandate from the people. The Nationalist Party elected 30 members to the House of Representatives and Labor 26. However, a new and strong element came into prominence, the Country Party which at that poll obtained 13 seats. It is the Country Party which is largely responsible for Mr. Bruce's ascension to power.

Mr. Hughes with 28 Nationalists had a majority of one in the House. Actually, however, he was dependent upon the Country Party in crucial divisions. On most questions Nationalists and Country members were harmonious. The latter were a low tariff party, favoring retrenchment in national expenditures and consenting to a government, Mr. Hughes and Dr. Earle C. Page, Country Party leader, co-operated on the Government benches.

It was, however the turning point in Mr. Hughes's career. Accustomed to wide war-time powers, he did not take kindly to the inevitable check exerted by the Country Party. There were differences on matters of national-honor and ultimately an open breach when the Prime Minister attempted a gerrymander of election districts which would have wiped out two Country Party constituencies. Dr. Page blocked the move and openly vowed vengeance against Hughes.

Bruce Heads Coalition

In the election of 1922, a political upheaval occurred. Labor was swept back into power in the House, capturing 29 seats as against 28 for the Nationalists. The Country Party retained its 13 seats, and 9 independents were chosen, to make the total of 75. The nation seemed faced with the prospect of a Labor Government for Dr. Page, holding the balance of power, declared that he would not co-operate with the Nationalists as long as Hughes was in sight. From December 16, 1922 until February 9, 1923, inter-party caucuses wrangled and fought, while Labor charged a conspiracy to keep them out of power. Until Hughes agreed to step down and a Nationalist-Country coalition was formed.

Mr. Bruce who had meatime gained public notice as a Minister for the Treasury came forth as the only available figure that Dr. Page would support to head the Government. Accordingly a coalition cabinet was formed with Mr. Bruce as Prime Minister and Dr. Page as Federal Treasurer and acting Prime Minister during the absence from the country of the Prime Minister.

Two years elapsed, and as the period for the regular triennial election approached in 1925 both the Nationalist and Country Party began to fear for their tenure in office. Labor on the Opposition benches had gained more and more confidence. The Government seemed to have no issue to present to the country at the polls.

The Nationalists-Country coalition, moreover, was rumored not to be happy one. The trend in policy was to higher tariffs, increased expenditures in government and general expansion —all opposed by the Country Party. But happy or unhappy, the spectre of Labor in power was enough to assure the continuance of the coalition.

GREAT NEED OF EDUCATING GIRLS

Hamilton, Ont. (C.P.) — In the opinion of Miss Mary Wingman, industrial secretary of the Young Women's Christian Association, one of the greatest problems the association has to face is in educating the industrial girl and getting students and business girls interested in her problems.

Bryn Mawr and other colleges have recently tried the experiment of having a summer camp, which students, business and industrial girls attended. Miss Wingman feels also that Canada has in some degree neglected her duty in this respect and that more could certainly be done.

Miss Hutchinson, head of the Y.W.C.A. immigration, spoke on "The New Canadian," and of a new law which has recently been passed which admits the children of industrial workers to the country free of charge, where formerly only those of farm or domestic workers were allowed to enter in this manner. She feels that the problem of keeping pace with these people who are coming from places of organized labor, and know their laws far better than the average Canadian, is a real one. The interest of Canadian girls in the new workers must be stimulated.

GRANDMOTHER WEDS

St. Thomas, Ont., Nov. (C.P.)—Mitchell P. Hepburn, M.P. for Elgin West, had a rather unusual honor bestowed on him when with Mrs. Hepburn, he assisted at the wedding of his grandmother, Mrs. Elva Hepburn, to Albert A. Templin, broker of Cleveland, Ohio.

Fur farming is now one of the most important industries of Canada.

BAIRNSFATHER'S PRODUCTION IS WELL RECEIVED

Critic Praises Trenton-Made Picture Shown in Toronto on Saturday

Merrill Denison, the well-known writer and critic, has many pleasant things to say of "Carry On Sergeant" Bruce Bairnsfather's motion picture which was made at Trenton and received its premier showing at the Regent Theatre, Toronto, last night. Mr. Denison says that this picture proves that good films can be made in Canada and it is announced that Captain Bairnsfather intends shortly to start the production of a series of four or five pictures.

Mr. Denison says:

"Carry On Sergeant" is a war picture that will find its most enthusiastic devotees amongst those soldiers who have writhed at the preposterous films where the front is portrayed as a turmoil of bumptious heroism relieved by low comedy interludes behind the lines. For once one sees the trenches as one remembers them, and men behaving as one remembers them behaving."

Roles Well Cast

"All the roles are played capably, but even more interest attaches to the care and skill shown in casting the subordinate types. In the war-scenes particularly, one does not recall a picture where the smaller parts were typed so accurately. The French German and British officers who appear are all excellent, and since all these parts were played by people picked up in Toronto and who had never seen the inside of a motion picture studio before, it speaks volumes not only for skill in direction, but for the availability of interesting types in a small Ontario town.

The photography was done by Bert Cann, the assistant director and camera man, and all of its technically proficient, and a great deal of it amazingly beautiful. The shots of a Belgian town, of a relief in the trenches, of the Moroccans during the first gas attack and Ypres, and of the superb figure of the sergeant at the end of the picture compare favorably with the photographic art of any film we recall.

War Scenes Strong

"The war scenes are so good in fact, that one regrets personally that Bairnsfather did not stake his all on the sergeant and his chum, and simply carry them through a period of the war as Bairnsfather himself knew it. Leaving out much of the preliminary story which takes place on this side of the ocean. But one remembers that "Carry On, Sergeant" is not an adventure, and that undiluted war was little experiment, but a documentary probably felt to be too great a gamble

Bairnsfather certainly brings to the direction of war material a first hand knowledge not discoverable in other war films, and handles his materials in good taste. Whether the public wants good taste or blowsy heroism with war pictures is a question which the showing of this picture should decide.

To Bairnsfather, personally, must go the credit for amazing virtuosity. Not only is the story his, but he directed the picture, designed the sets, cast the casting, supervised the shooting, cut the film, wrote the titles and edit ed it himself. And all of these things, it is rumored, under conditions which were not conducive to an artist's best creative

PLAN RECLAIM NORTH AFRICA

Gigantic Idea of New York Engineer to Change Africa

New York, N.Y.—Sheiks of the Sahara may become sailors and plowmen and more than 4,000,000 acres will establish orchards and farms on the world's greatest desert if the plan of Dwight Braman, New York engineer, for reclaiming North Africa is carried into effect.

Braman, now in New York after having had conferences with Mussolini, Tardieu and other Italian and French officials, has made a formal offer to Italy to participate on equal terms with France in the gigantic plan which he hopes to execute through a French colony.

Mussolini was enthusiastic about the plan he "changes the climate of Northern Africa and termed it "a truly Roman idea," says Braman.

The project contemplates the cutting of several short canals from the Mediterranean to dry salt lakes below ocean level in northern Africa which would be converted into salt lakes with an area of more than 60,000 square miles. That is greater than the area of the State of New York. These lakes would have an average depth of 70 feet, afford water communication for ocean-going vessels and, in Braman's opinion, change the climate of a great arid territory in northern Africa.

By means of dykes and dams, he will be able to estimate the great benefit which can be rendered to Italy."

water necessary for great irrigation projects. Furthermore, much of the desert is underlaid with water currents at a shallow depth which could be utilized for intensive agriculture, "thus making a great African garden similar to southern California for France and Italy.

"I can make North Africa a country where people can live, crops ripen, cattle and sheep remain the year through," says Braman. "The Duke of d'Abruzzi and Prince Ruspoli of Italy are much interested in the plan and Mussolini has provided new surveys of Tripoli which make it possible to estimate the great benefit which can be rendered to Italy."

French officials in the various colonies which would be affected by the creation of new inland seas are investigating the attitude of tribesmen toward a plan to remake northern Africa.

Lake beds similar to that of the once dry Salton sea in California, which lies below sea level and was flooded by the escape of the Colorado river through irrigation canals, exist in Algeria and Tunisia and canals cut from the Mediterranean and the Gulf of Gabes would link these with the Mediterranean and world commerce. Shott Melrir and Shott Jorid are the largest of the lake beds below sea level. Canals with an average length of 45 miles would flood these areas, Braman says. Another canal would submerge a large area in Tripoli. By this means the narrow strip along the Mediterranean which is cooled by the sea would be extended far inland, the engineer declares.

Streams in the Atlas mountains and in other sections of North Africa would be harnessed to provide irrigation water and snupply light, power and heat for the great population from temperate zones which Mr. Braman believes would be attracted by changed climate conditions. He believes the economic life of Europe could be revolutionized by utilizing North Africa's resources.

LAVA FLOW FROM MT. ETNA DIMINISHES

Clarre, Cicily, Nov. 14.—With the lava flow from Mount Etna gradually diminishing the stricken regions were gradually recuperating economic life to meet new conditions. Engineers were working on a new road to restore communications broken when the lava covered the railway between Messina and Catania.

The roll of school children in London is decreasing by about 3,000 annually, owing to the lower birth rate.

WIRELESS SAVED SCORES OF LIVES

The disaster which has overtaken the steamship Vestris en route from New York to Buenos Aires will be universal but the feeling of depression over the events has been appreciably lightened by the news reporting that a large number of the 329 passengers and crew, who were compelled to abandon the liner, have been rescued. Had as they are, the casualties of the wreck, therefore, are not as overwhelming as the earlier ports of the foundering of this great ship gave the public reason to fear they might be.

The hazards that the Vestris failed to overcome have been experienced in varying degrees by other ships at sea. Disaster overtook a fishing vessel off the Virginia Capes, and as a result the craft was wrecked and eight lives were lost. In another instance, the crew of a Gloucester fishing boat, disabled in the raging seas, owe their lives to the bravery of members of a coast guardsmen; and the Mauretania, which sailed from New York a week ago for England, has suffered three days' buffeting through a gale described by the captain as the worst he had encountered in years.

It all reminds us of the recurring dangers to which are subject men who go down to the sea in ships. The spirit of these men is evidenced in the magnificent heroism that marked the work of rescue of passengers and crew adrift in the wild waters after they left the sinking ship Vestris. That wonderfully courageous spirit never fails to display itself in every instance of danger and distress. It is an inherent of the sea as the kindred spirit which makes sailors so faithful to their calling notwithstanding its trials and disasters.

After every shipwreck, no matter how terrible the experience may have been, the surviving seamen return to the sea without complaining, without talking, without boasting. Great as the perils and hazards are, and must always be, the fact that today they are greatly mitigated as compared with a few years ago is once more proved by the effective aid which went from every direction to the lifeboats and rafts of the Vestris through the means of the radio, directed almost to the last hours of the sinking liner and in a manner true to the tradition of his calling, by the ship's operator. But for the radio and this brave man there is little doubt that every soul that was on board the doomed ship would have been lost.

OLD AGE PENSIONS BEING WORKED OUT

The committee on research of the Social Service council of Canada has issued an informative "preliminary report" on old age pensions, which, in view of the promised action of the Ontario government, is of more than usual interest at this time. The committee is considered under three heads—voluntary insurance; non-contributory pensions; and contributory old age pensions. It is, of course, with the second category that Canadian proposals have to do.

However, the sketch given of the various schemes as at present operating in other countries is of much value, for purposes of comparison. The Mother Country furnishes an example of both kinds of pensions. The non-contributory plan was brought in as far back as 1908; the contributory method was introduced in 1924. Denmark has the honor of being the pioneer in this form of social legislation, having had a non-contributory old age pension system since 1891.

So far as this Dominion is concerned, though defined action has been taken only in very recent times, the subject has been discussed in the federal parliament on various occasions for over twenty years. It was not till 1924 that the special committee, under the chairmanship of W. G. Raymond, was appointed to investigate the desirability and probable cost of making provision for the destitute aged of the country.

The report presented by the committee suggested the early introduction of a plan based on the following recommendations: Applicants should be 70 years of age and upwards, be British subjects of at least 20 years' residence in Canada, or naturalized subjects of at least 15 years' naturalization and 25 years' residence. The maximum pension was placed at $20 a month, to be reduced "by private income or partial ability to earn;" the cost of the pension to be borne equally by the Dominion government and the provincial government adopting the system, cost of administration also to be borne by the provincial government.

It was estimated that there would be 29,000 eligible pensioners in the entire country, the federal government's portion of the total annual expenditure being put at $11,880,000. On May 28, 1926 the bill was passed by the house of commons without division but it was rejected by the senate on June 8 by 43 to 31 votes. In 1927, however, the bill was again introduced and passed by the commons and the senate. In November of that year the matter was discussed at a conference, at which representatives of the federal government and the nine provinces were present. There was general approval of the principle, but differences of opinion as to the method of financing the scheme.

British Columbia was the first province to take action, paying the first pension on September 20, 1927. The Yukon followed; then Manitoba and Saskatchewan. It is explained that in the western provinces the cost of providing the pensions is relatively low as compared with the eastern provinces, because the percentage of elderly people in the west is much lower. "

In Ontario, it is estimated by the Social Service council, the cost to the provincial government would be between $4,500,000 and $5,000000 yearly or about $1.50 per head of population, while the Dominion contribution also comes out of the pockets of taxpayers, about 9 per cent would be added to the ordinary annual expenditure of the province. In British Columbia, on the other hand, only about 3 per cent. additional expenditure is involved.

The council finds that it is no, on the whole, a general rule, for the majority of workers to make provision for their old age, especially those who have brought up a family. The average wage seal is too small to enable them

HEARTACHE

Oh! I have such an aching in my heart,
For Home—for England; for it, country land
And flowers wild; for all its hills and plains;
Its coal-line, where blue waves roll in—to start
Again; for days, that have no counterpart—
Elsewhere; for age-old towns; for little trains
To places, that my memory-chart contains!
Ah! there are lovely hamlets on that chart—
Futile, I know, to plan and plot and scheme
That I may see that England of my dream
And, once again, those childhood hillside climb;
Though fleeting years take steady toll,
yet I'm
Still hoping Fortune smiles on my poor art;
For, Oh! I've such an aching in my heart!

DANGER FROM EXHAUST GAS

Yes, read this item over some months ago that some traffic policeman in Philadelphia were found to be suffering with symptoms that indicated gas poisoning. By removing these officers to less congested parts of the city the symptoms disappeared.

A moment has been given over to tests and have our automobile manufacturers bring the exhausted gases up along steering rods of the car and discharge them at a point at the very top. This would mean that these gases would go higher up in the air. As it is at present the exhaust from the car is discharged from beneath the car and comes high in the level of folks driving in the cars and thus they breathe in this poisonous gas.

Of course it is somewhat reassuring to know that driving along the country roads there is not much danger from these gases, nor even in districts or cities, where there is not much traffic congestion. But just run underneath where there are stop signals, and a couple line of cars waiting, all with motors running, that then is bound to be more concentration of these exhaust gases than elsewhere.

However, it is not at these congested points that the danger to life is concerned.

Being outdoors the gases have a real chance to get diffused in the atmosphere.

The real danger is not in the large garage where many cars are coming and going but according to research men the great danger to life is unquestionably in the small private garage, the commonest one or two cars. One goes into the garage on cool or windy morning, and decides to get the engine warm or adjust the carburetor, and fails to open the door or window.

The exhaust gas—carbon monoxide—displaces the oxygen in the blood, and the poisoning occurs stealthily taking place without the victim having the slightest feeling of what is happening.

Remember then that exhaust gases on the roadway can adversely affect the health; the closed garage with the engine running is what causes death.

Mount Etna, shown in the distance, of its worst eruption in twenty years. Destruction has already been wrought in Macelli and other towns. Thousands are homeless, the property damage is tremendous and a number of persons have been killed during the present upheaval.

BILLBOARDS MAY BE TAKEN AWAY

Project To Make English Countryside More Beautiful On Foot

Leicester, Eng., (By C. P.)— As an outcome of the "Save the Countryside Conference" held here recently it is hoped a bill may be introduced in parliament this session with a view to saving the countryside from disfigurement by effective billboard advertising, ugly buildings and oil pump stations. The campaign began in this conference, held at University College and attended by 150 delegates, presided over by Col. E. E. Martin, chairman of the Leicester County council, is being ordered throughout the country with the resolution sending of the public to action. In connection with the movement is a "chamber of horrors" in Leicester, a collection of photographs made by the honorary secretary of the conference, H. H. Peach, and this is strong effective "advertising" in its way.

The agitation against blatant billboards and other objectionable features of the main travelled roads in these days of motor cars and much travel has been going on for some time but it was not until the conference here that definite steps action was begun to preserve the amenities of the countryside. The conference was national in its character and was attended by men prominent in various walks of life. Features of the gathering were letters from Premier Stanley Baldwin and former Premier Ramsay MacDonald, in sympathy with the movement.

Mr. Baldwin wrote: "The countryside is the heart of England. It is for all those who care for it to do their utmost to preserve it clean and undefiled. While something can be done by regulation and control, a real solution lies only in the education of public opinion, and in the development of habit and practice which will save the countryside from atrocities which are now too often committed."

Ramsay MacDonald was more vigorous. "Every day that goes past some offensive bungalow, or some abomination of a building scheme, or some horror of a wayside oil pump station, or some blatant vulgarity of an advertisement, destroys not only the immediate spot where it is placed, but the whole sweep of the countryside," he said. "Something really must be done to stop it, and nothing can be done until public opinion is shocked by these atrocities and roused to action."

A report of the conference, effectively illustrated showing how the country is being disfigured by unsuitable buildings and advertisements, is being widely circulated and every possible step is being taken to rouse public opinion. The Home Secretary's office has written asking for a copy of the report and this is taken as a sign of official sympathy with the movement, in addition to the Premier's letter to the conference.

BUY CRANBERRIES ... FOR CHRISTMAS NOW.

Now is the time to buy cranberries. This is the advice of a specialist in foods, who calls attention to the fact that prices are lower than they will be during the holiday season. She suggests that this is the logical time to can cranberry sauce, and to make cranberry jelly, conserve or marmalade.

"Cranberries deserve to be used more often because they are healthful, easy to prepare, require little time to cook, and are comparatively inexpensive" states the specialist.

"Tradition says cranberries must have a place in the Thanksgiving and Christmas dinners, but there is no reason why this colorful, tasty berry should not be served several times a week when it is in season."

"To make cranberry jelly, pick over and wash eight cups of cranberries and cook with three cups of water. When the berries are soft, strain the juice through a jelly bag. Measure the juice and heat to the boiling point, then add one cup of sugar for each two cups of juice. Stir until the sugar is dissolved and continue boiling until the liquid jells. After five minutes, marshmallow or the common test.

When finished, pour into sterilized glasses and seal with paraffin. This jelly may be used for tarts, jelly roll, hot biscuits, waffles, griddle cakes, French toast and in cranberry whip.

"Cranberry relish will be enjoyed with meat. Put four cups of cranberries through the meat grinder and mix with one cup of sugar. Let stand from twelve to twenty-four hours stirring several times. Serve uncooked."

CHILDLESS HOMES AND HOMELESS CHILDREN

"There is nothing that affords so much genuine pleasure as to watch the development of a growing child. It gives one a never failing source of interest that nothing can equal. The childless home is not a real home at all, and there is nothing sadder than a homeless child. So, today, we would like to plead the case of the orphan. For people in good circumstances the adoption of a child in their home will make a change that will be to the mutual benefit of the child and the parents. Maternal love is the key-note of the feminine character and though this love has been dormant for lack of some place to lavish it, it is still present as long as there is life. And if there is one person more than another that needs that love bestowed on him it is the lonely innocent child who is the product denied the birthright of every child— maternal care and carefree happiness. "Satan finds mischief still for idle hands to do," and although no housewife can be called exactly idle while there are meals to get, beds to make, dishes to wash sweeping and dusting to do still with all the modern equipment in the kitchen she finds that she has a good deal of leisure time, and the useless pursuits of the social struggle begin to engage her time to the exclusion of something worthwhile. Not that you will have no time to improve your time if you bring a little tot into your home. On the contrary you will accomplish more in exemingly less time and be happier in doing it. It is probably best to adopt a baby while it is young, but that, of course, is a question which the foster parents must decide as is also the question of telling the child when he is of the age of understanding that he is an adopted child. The best way possible would be to do the thing while quarantine and admit the child to your home circle and to your heart so that he will never have any feeling other than that he rightfully belongs there. Usually the child finds himself in his position of orphan through circumstances over which he has no control, and through no fault of his, and he therefore needs more loving care to compensate him for what he has missed than the child who is born under more fortunate conditions. We have heard of several cases where an adopted child has turned out to be a blessing to the parents of his adoption, and when old age comes, and it comes to all, what have we in life if we have not our children to be a comfort to us? And if there is any surer way of keeping young than to have young people around one and to keep interested in their pursuits then I do not know of it.

LENORE

Scarfs of cross-barred surah or printed crepe are much in evidence in the Martial et Armand collection, and these are usually shown with coats.

Here's a Tastier Recipe

1 cup boiled rice — 1 teaspoon vanilla
½ cup Eagle Brand — 1 egg
Condensed Milk — ½ cup water
½ teaspoon nutmeg

Mix Eagle Brand and water together thoroughly. Beat egg and blend with the milk and vanilla. Add this mixture to the rice (boiled) and mix well. Pour into buttered pan and sprinkle top with the nutmeg. Place pan in a dish of water (as for a custard) and bake in a slow oven until a golden brown.

Serve hot or cold.

NOTE Eagle Brand creams and sugars your coffee deliciously at half the usual cost.

Advice to Girls By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a girl in my teens going with a fellow whom I care for very much. At times he also shows that he cares for me. But, lately he does not ask me for dates any more. We are always very friendly when we meet and I act as nicely as I can. Recently there has been a rumor out here about me as to my character, which is entirely false. Just be as friendly as you possibly can, and don't show any signs of jealousy or chagrin.

Some Helpful Hints For Busy Housewives

Use greening apples in making mint jelly.

Lemon and salt will clean ivory handles or ornaments.

Cold tea added to the water in which cut flowers are placed keeps them fresh much longer.

Scorch stains on linen can generally be removed by rubbing them with a little powdered borax.

Watercolor paint stains can be removed from washable fabrics, white or cotton, linen, wool or silk, but there are materials, like printed silk, where it is just about impossible to remove all traces.

Materials not injured by water should be washed in tepid or cold water with soap, rubbing the stain if necessary. — In other fabrics fairly good results are obtained by sponging the stained portion with turpentine until the watercolor is removed, then apply benzol to render the turpentine if necessary. Dipping the stain in gasoline and rubbing vigorously will also be effectual.

Alcohol paints will not yield to turpentine. If the stains are fresh sponge freely with wood or denatured alcohol. Old stains should be soaked for half an hour in strong ammonia, then washed.

WHAT'S NEW
(From A Woman's Standpoint)

Portable hair-waving machines for home or country use are the latest "gadgets" for the hair.

Miss Earhart, the world-famous air-woman, was recently presented with a flying suit of fine leather—a one-piece lined with warm plaid wool to mark her Trans-Atlantic flight and it is delightfully fine although being bulky, and it only has one fastening which is of the patent variety, adjustable at the ankles and wrist.

New York notes that this autumn's football girl is wearing a short pack et 'lailleur from Paris and a straight line coat trimmed with fur. .

Among the new pupils at the De Havilland flying school at Stagiaire acrodrome is Mrs. Leslie Hamilton, whose husband disappeared when he attempted to fly the Atlantic last year with Colonel Minchin and the Princess Lowenstein-Wertheim, and her ambition is to fly a Moth and become a private owner.

Tiered skirts are very popular, the frills, with the exception of Patou's pleated frills dropping down at the centre front and also, sometimes, at the centre back are more frequently circular cut than plaited and just occasionally gathered, while some straight, flat frills are also used, finished by a godet on the sides or at the centre front.

Gay Adventurers By Mildred Barbour

"What are you up to young lady? First I receive a message that you are ill, then I receive another that you are not. This morning I received still another insisting that I come to you in Paris. Well, I won't. You can't play jokes on me. You'll have to send me a doctor's certificate before I budge from here.

"Aunt Sophia."

"Well," said Sheila, "I can breath freely once more. Now, as soon as Constance Kerr appears you must come in or day or two—everything will be serene."

She was so jubilant that even the appearance of her maid to announce the arrival of the Baronne de Courcy did not disturb her. The Baronne was large and imposing. She had the manner of one who is accustomed to having her own way.

"My dear child, my dear," she exclaimed. "This is luck. I want you to come with me to Cannes. A little houseparty in honor of my stepson, who is just out of the army. Such a charming boy. How don't look alarmed. I know you think I'm an old matchmaker. Maybe I am. Well, we'll see what happens. I'm sure Carlo will simply adore you, and—"

Sheila was still protesting to a dissertation on Carlo when Harry Edmonds appeared to take her to dinner and to the opera. She told him of the Baronne's invitation as they left the hotel. He roared with laughter. "The old dragon wants to marry you off to that half-wit, Carlo," he said. "No, Constance, you'd better not go to Cannes. Let's get married tomorrow and go to London. I've got to get back on the job. What do you say?"

CHAPTER III

HER SECOND PROPOSAL

As she drove th" nigh ire softly lighted streets of fo ward, Sheila de l'Opera with Harry Edmonds, Sheila reflected, for the thousandth time, on the situation into which her almost perfect likeness to Constance Kerr had precipitated her. And now she was receiving a proposal of marriage.

There was something very appealing about Harry's manner, as he await ed for her answer. He seemed per a ly one individual. She had begun to miss him a bit, these last few days, despite the excitement, that had filled them. He was a very comforting person to have around in an emergency. She felt she had not appreciated his kindness sufficently in the days when she had so often been the object of it .

A touch on her arm brought her out of her reverie. Harry was smiling down at her. "How about it, Constance I've asked? "What do you say?"

Sheila smiled to herself. "If I really was in love with my mind," she wonder what he would say?" she thought.

"I'm willing to take all the blame for our quarrel," he continued. "And I am not going to ask you why you came to Paris or why the Count is so persistently at your heels. Unless you're engaged to marry him, I don't see why we should not be married at once."

Sheila was literally at a loss for words. But Harry continued to look at her so pleadingly and she felt she must say something.

"I really feel that I owe you an explanation, Harry," he said finally, "but I'm not free to tell you all the things that have happened since I left America, so I really can't say just what to say. In the first place, there was some delay in the delivery of your letters. So, of course, I began to think that you had forgotten all about me. And then your letters came to me all in a bunch. And they made me both miserable and happy, because, in the meantime the count—"

"Constance," cried Harry, "you did not promise to marry Bellefonte!"

"Oh, no. But I sort of—well, I told him I'd consider his proposal for at least a month before saying 'no.' Then when I received your letters, I took the first boat for Paris, because I wanted to get away from him. I never dreamed he would follow me. But he did, and he is holding me to my promise. So what can I do?"

By this time they had arrived at the Place de l'Opera, and Sheila forgot everything else. The beautiful foyer, the grand staircase, the exquisite decorations brought a cry of delight from her, as they entered the stately building.

"Oh, Harry," she cried, "can't you just see it at the height of the season —chic, beautifully-dressed women standing on the landings of that heavenly staircase, attended by distinguished-looking men in dashing military uniforms, or strolling in the foyer? Can't you——"

"Why Constance," interrupted Harry, "you have seen all that many times Why are you so excited about it, all of a sudden?"

Sheila scrambled back into her character, thinking: "What a slip, course, Constance Kerr has seen all these sights so often that they are the old story to her. I must be careful not to show the enthusiasm that I feel."

Aloud she said: "I was only thinking of how we might enjoy coming here this winter, when I——"

Harry was all smiles at this. "You mean that you will stay abroad this winter?" he cried. "Oh, Constance, then you do mean to marry me? Now I'll not take no this moment and give me my answer."

"Heavens," thought Sheila to herself "this man is terrible. If Doctor Mac had been half as insistent, I would never have gotten away from home. Sometimes I wish Phaedra. But I must be careful, or this Alice-in-Wonderland situation may become a dreadful mess."

BISCUITS

BISCUITS are appetizing only when fresh, and they are "always fresh" when bought at our busy Groceteria.

Have you ever bought biscuits and found to your great disappointment that the goods had apparently been in stock a long time and had lost that crispness and rich flavor which are the chief qualities of a real, high-grade article? Contrast this with the biscuits you get from our attractive department. Note the white uniformed attendant and the surroundings; everything clean and sanitary; your choice of various lines selected and packed specially for you by the biscuit girl in a neat package.

ANNUAL O. H. A. MEETING WILL DISCUSS SEVERAL NEW PROBLEMS

Hockey Scholarship, "Gentlemen's Agreement" and Other Questions Heard

COACHING

Would Make Professional Coaches Get Out of Amateur Game

Toronto, Nov. 15.—The executive of the O.H.A. has considerable business ahead at the annual meeting which takes place here on Saturday, considerable of which is closely concerned with the usual routine of the association. Among the items however, are three proposals which are of outstanding interest and which mark big steps in advance. They will come before the meeting in the shape of amendments to the constitution.

Hockey Scholarship

The first comes from President McKay and reads:

"As an encouragement to the young men of Ontario to live up to the best traditions of amateur sport and to assist such as are playing members of the Ontario Hockey Association, and are anxious to secure a college education.

"Resolved that the sum of $4,000 be granted for the purpose of establishing scholarships of $2,000 each, at Queen's University, Kingston and at Western University, London, said scholarships to be known as the Ontario Hockey Association Scholarships, and to be along similar lines as the $2,000 O. H. A. Memorial Scholarship at University of Toronto said scholarships to be open to all players in the O.H.A. series who are in possession of a player's certificate and who have so conducted themselves, both on and off the ice as to merit the recognition of the sub-committee of the Ontario Hockey Association, and who are qualified for entrance into either of the above mentioned universities.

"Provided that such selection of the sub-committee shall embrace one player from O.H.A. players in Toronto and Eastern Ontario for the scholarship at Queen's University, and one player from Western and Northern Ontario for the Western Ontario University."

Sheriff Paxton, of Whitby, would rule the professional coach right out of the amateur game. His amendment on the subject reads:

To the constitution:

On page 42 of the rule books add the following to clause 8:

No person who is actively connected with professional sport, either as a player or officer of a club shall be permitted to direct a team during any game, nor may he even sit in the players' box.

"Gentlemen's Agreement"

James T. Sutherland of Kingston is making an official protest to the "gentlemen's agreement" that exists in the National Hockey League. Mr. Sutherland's amendment reads:

"There is an official protest to be made by the O.H.A. against the 'gentlemen's agreement' of the National Hockey League. It is moved by James T. Sutherland, of Kingston, and reads as follows:

"That the Ontario Hockey Association views with a great deal of indignation the action of the governing body of the National Hockey Professional League, in having placed on record, according to reports, a clause whereby amateur players without their knowledge or consent are portioned off to the various clubs in the National Hockey League as their property.

"Believing that such action against the citizenship of our young Canadians is degrading, and savors of the communist form of athletic slavery, we desire to advise the National Hockey League that we will take every possible step to bring such action to the notice of the courts of Canada in order to annul for all time such a restriction.

"And that the attention of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association be drawn to the action taken by this association."

RECREATION BOWLING

In the afternoon league, two games were played. In the first, the O.B.C. and the Bank of Montreal played the O.B.C. winning 3 points Duranleau was high for the O.B.C. and Maney was high for the Bank of Montreal. In the second game the High School and the Standard Bank played the High School winning three points. For the High School Blakely was high and for the Standard Bank Gay was high.

One game was played last night in the Ladies League between the Tigers and the Hustlers. The Tigers winning the whole 4 points for the Tigers, N. Ely was high and for the Hustlers B. Bennebek was high.

Afternoon games were played in the C.N.R League the first one was between the Laborers and the Machine Shop. The Laborers winning 3 points for the Laborers Daynard was high and for the Machine Shop Austin was high. In the second game The Roundhouse and the Nighthawks connected and broke even. For the Nighthawks Knott was high and for the Roundhouse Coyller was high.

YOUR EYES and Our Service

By J. A. McFEE, Optometrist Belleville

Occasionally one reads of or hears of a person well along in years who reads without glasses?

Yes- but his or her distant vision is below par. No one much past middle life can see well both in the distance and close up.

What is to be learned from the above?

A person who has reached the old sight age should at once seek the aid of glasses.

This condition is not usually difficult to correct?

Not as a rule. An examination by the Optometrist generally results in glasses that enable a person to do close work as well as he ever could.

Reading glasses must be changed frequently?

About every two years the lenses must be strengthened.

CHICAGO HAWKS BUILDING TEAM

Herb Gardiner Busy Lining Up Aggregation That Will Be Contender.

Tired of being the doormat of the hockey world with a group of experiments, the Chicago Black Hawks have set about building up a combination that is apt to get a big figure in ice circles, this winter.

The first step in the come-back campaign of Major Frederic McLaughlin owner of the club, was the acquisition of Herbert Gardiner, of the Canadiens, as Manager. Gardiner was the idol of the Canadiens defence for the past two years. Gardiner, however, will not be a playing manager, as the terms of his contract specify that he shall not play for the Hawks.

Manager Gardiner took the next step in the rebuilding of the club, welding the axe on both veterans and rookies. Babe Dye, star forward, who was out of much of last year's competition with a broken leg, was sold to the New York Americans. "Rabbit" McVeigh went to the same club in a deal that brought Alex Levinsky, a forward, to the Black Hawks. Trapp Moran and McCallum were sent to the newly organized Tulsa club, of the American Association, along with several younger players picked up near the end of last season when the Black Hawks management was striving desperately to whip together a winning combination.

With one idea, and that speed, Gardiner retained the fast veterans. To this nucleus, he has added a group of new men that have proved themselves with star clubs of the circuit and with American association teams.

In accord with Manager Gardiner's desire for speed, the Black Hawks owner has added to the otherwise impressive list but fast defence Clem Loughlin, 36-year-old Detroit Cougar. Back from last year's squad will be Marty Burke, Ventworth, Ralph Taylor and Val Heffinger.

Goal tender Gardiner has retained Chuck Gardiner, the youngest goal tender in the league, and has purchased Bill Beveridge, promising rookie from Ottawa.

Four of the fastest skaters in the minor league ranks have been added to the forwards, where five veterans were retained. We Ripley comes from Kitchener-Waterloo, with a good reputation as a skater, and follower of the puck; in the Can-Pro, while Leo Gaboure and Johnny Gottselig were the stars of the Winnipeg club of last year. The other forward is Robert Bums, leading wing man of the Duluth aggregation.

Fighting for retention of their positions are Dick Irvin, captain; Ty Arbour, Micky MacKay, Duke Keats and Earl Miller.

California has 437 automobiles for every mile of improved state highway. This would allow only 11 feet of roadway for each car.

TWO MORE GAMES IN CAGE LEAGUE

Stephens-Adamson and American Optical Won Fixtures Last Night

The best basketball of the season to date took place on the Y.M.C.A. floor last night when Alemite met Stephens Adamson and C.N.R. were opposed to the American Optical.

The opening fixture was rather more one sided than the nightcap affair. In the former, Walters' Quintette were more effective under the baskets, particularly in the case of K. Faulkner who put in a "big night" scoring no less than fifteen of his team's points. J. Kerr carried the scoring honors for the Alemite with Pats. Cole a close second. At half time the score stood 15—6 with the full time runt 32—11.

ALEMITE: J. Kerr, D. Ridley, G. Maidens, O. Miles, P. T. Cole and V. White.

STEPHENS-ADAMSON: A. McPee, A. Black, F. Faulkener, R. Miles, E. Walters and A. Bryant.

American Optical 32—29

American Optical were fortunate to win from the C.N.R. as at all times throughout the game the play was exceedingly close and the final result a matter for speculation. In the early part of the game the Opticals piled up what appeared to be a fairly safe lead but before the period ended the Railroaders had reduced this lead to only three points. The second half was a see-saw contest first one team then the other showing to advantage but the winners managing to hold their slender lead until the timekeeper's signal sounded.

C.N.R.: V. Weir, E. Buchanan, J. Redfern, D. Morrison, J. Alexander, H. Redfern, G. Duff.

AMERICAN OPTICAL: A. Armstrong, N. Wilbur, T. Byron, J. Lazier, M. Davison, H. Woodley, A. Weir, A. Hitchon.

Quilted coats are being worn by some of London's smartest women Maidens.

SPORTOGRAMS

Albert College will meet Peterboro Collegiate this Saturday at Port Hope and if a fall can be taken out of this fast team, the prep school boys will be in a fair way to grabbing things. Peterboro defeated Oshawa last Saturday in decisive fashion and are looking forward to a win over the Albert boys. They will have to be a real team to do it.

Cliff Baxter, running under the colors of the local Y's Mens Club at Guelph last Monday came in third from a field of 47 starters. This is in keeping with Cliff's usual running. He is always up among the first seven or eight in all his late races. And when you have a boy who does all his training after a hard days work at a farm, and who can come in fifth among the best in the province, you have a potential distance runner from Belleville for the 1932 Olympiad.

Here it is the middle of November and still there is no hockey talk. Belleville certainly looks to be done for as far as O.H.A. hockey is concerned this year. But the Twin Valley League will be operating again and the intelligence Black Hawks, although the dear man of the league last year, will be back in there with a re-modelled team able to play with the best of them.

Marmora may be in the league this year, while Trenton, Belleville and Napanee will make up the other two teams. Belleville last year played their home games in Trenton, and it is likely that the same arrangement will be made this year, as there is a great scarcity of ice in Belleville.

Several of the Albert College players journeyed to Port Hope last Saturday to see the Oshawa Collegiate and Peterboro Collegiate fight it out for the group honors. They seem confident that they can take a fall out of Peterboro as they say that this Look Out boys are lighter than any others they have met this year with the possible exception of the Belleville Collegiate, and did not show any great bursts of speed. It may be different on a dry field, however.

FELL INTO SCALDING WATER

Tormio, November 14.— Raymond Lavender, 11-month-old son of Charles Lavender, Birchcliff, eastern suburb of this city died today as a result of burns received when he fell into a pail of scalding water on Saturday.

The highest motor road in the United States is on Pike's Peak, in Colorado. It is 14,109 feet above sea level.

REGENT SHOWING UNCLE TOM'S CABIN

"Uncle Tom's Cabin," that ever popular play which has pleased thousands for years, opened a weeks engagement last night at the Regent theatre and as in the past took the large audience from the depths of despair to laughter and merriment, with a heart sob running through the story which brought many a tear to the eyes of those sentimental members of the "weaker" sex.

This production is without doubt one of the best and biggest which has ever been staged, and is a far cry from the old time play presented by stock companies and tramping under the same name. Each detail is well looked after while the audience follows the troubles and joys of Liza, Uncle Tom and Geo. Harris with bated breath. Days of old in the South before the Civil War are vividly portrayed, showing the life of the slaves under different kinds of masters and the story ends up in a blaze of action with the Northern troops arriving just in time to relieve the remaining slaves of their misery. Belleville theatre-goers will miss something out if the ordinary if they fail to see this picture.

There are few times when film play producers become connected on their playing that they forget to stop when the director shouts "cut" and the scenes become real dramas. Such events occurred during the filming of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" the Universal masterpiece which is now showing at the Regent Theatre, when several hundred negroes, who were cast in the revival scene, became so engrossed in the spirit of the moment that they did not stop at the call of Director Harry Pollard. It was more than an hour later before they completed "acting" due to religious fervor brough on by the excitement. An all-star cast in this mighty film epic includes Margarita Fischer, Arthur Edmund Carewe, Josephine Roche, Gertrude Astor, Ien Littlefield, George Siegmann, Mona Ray, Virginia Grey, Eulalie Jensen, J. Gordon Russell, Aileen Manning, Jack Mower, Vivien Oakland, and others.

The Old Reliable

Radio Air Gleanings By Static Bug

One solid hour of enjoyment.

Yes, sir, those who have radio sets never spent such a satisfactory sixty minutes as hearing Belleville's nightin-the-air.

And what a surprise Mayor Morley Duff handed the local audience. Our Mayor is not noted as a wonderful speaker, but last night he outdid him self—and how! Belleville was surely bossed for about ten crowded minutes and Mr. Duff never gave a better speech.

Wonder if there is any better quartette in Canada than our Radio Four?

ASK ASSISTANCE FOR SUFFERERS

Toronto, Nov. 14.—Requesting government assistance to the people of Northern Ontario who suffered from floods, a deputation from North Bay and district today waited on Premier Ferguson. The Premier said arrangements had been made with Tomiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway to purchase ties from the settlers and that other forms of relief would be considered.

CHINESE SCHOONER LOOTED BY PIRATES

Shanghai, Nov. 14.—Steamer Hain Chi was looted and burned by fishermen two days after passengers and crew had abandoned her. Despatches said there were no fatalities and no fighting but seven Chinese who had drifted away in a life boat were missing.

BUT WHAT STOPS 'EM?

BABY NOT GAINING? LOOK TO HIS DIGESTION

Babies can't gain when souring waste in a clogged digestive tract is allowed to stay, making them cranky, constipated and miserable. Just try the method doctors endorse, and millions of mothers know, and see how your baby improves. A few drops of pure-by-vegetable, harmless Fletcher's Castoria makes the most fretful, feverish baby or child comfortable in a jiffy. A few doses and he's playing perfectly and gaining as he should To get genuine Castoria, look for Chas. Fletcher signature on the wrapper.

It's hard to believe.

For last night all their old favourites, such as "Swingin' Along," "Open up the Gates of Glory," "John Peel," and many others came over the ether beautifully.

And it couldn't have been a better night for reception. Hardly any static at all.

Congratulations, Doc, your "When you and I were young, Maggie," made a big hit with everybody. They're all talking about it to-day.

In fact, congratulations everybody. Belleville need not feel ashamed of her "night on the air." There is no Ontario city, town or village will put on a better programme.

And when it comes to that the Chicago Club hour was good too. Those lessons of the far south sure have some peppy orchestra.

The change in wavelengths is for the better, I say. Who was ever able to get CFCA before? The change seems to have benefited both WEAF and WJZ, too, and they are the stations that everybody relies upon to, supply good entertainment.

CANADIANS TURN TO FLORIDA FOR A FARE-FREE WINTER

Semi-tropical Florida is again receiving large numbers of Canadians for the winter, it is becoming years popular every year—prior only because it is no near, its climate is so inviting, and it offers such an array of interesting sports and pastimes peculiar to that part of the country.

Where else but Florida can one enjoy better such an exciting novelty as Tarpoon fishing—or aquaplaning—or speed boat ng—or polo. Where else can one motor for miles through avenues shaded by graceful palms—by great citrus groves of ripening oranges and lemons—or along the shore of the Atlantic. There's golf, too—all winter long.

GLADYS BROTHERSTON IS FOUND DEAD

Mayor Duff Will Not Try Re-election--Death Toll Of Vestris 111

MAYOR DUFF OUT OF 1929 COUNCIL

Has Decided Not to Stand For Re-Election to Mayor's Chair

LEAVES FIELD CLEAR

Other Aspirants Expected to Get in the Running Now at Once

Election talk is missing the rounds today at a great rate, due chiefly to the fact that the present mayor, Mr. M. P. Duff, announced that he would not be in the field again in December. Mr. Duff has made a fine mayor, several important phases of civic growth having developed under his regime, and there is not a member of the Council who does not think of him as a fine man and a good mayor.

With Mr. Duff out of the running, there will no doubt be several of the present aldermen who will try for the mayoralty chair. Those whose names have been mentioned in this respect are Ex-Alderman Harry Greenleaf, Alderman R. Wolfe, Alderman C. L. Hyde, Alderman J. D. Collins and Alderman W. Woodley. As a week from Monday night is Nomination Day, they will have to make up their minds rather soon.

Alderman to Ran

Alderman George A. Reid has announced that he will again be in the field to retain his seat on the Council, and Alderman W. Woodley has also declared his intention of coming back to the Council if he does not run for mayor. It is understood that Aldermen Thos. Payne and Donahue as well as Aldermen Sinclair and Walker will run again. Alderman Cherry seems to be undecided whether or not to run, while it is said that Alderman Prebch has declared he will not stand.

MIKEL SAYS IT MUST STOP NOW

Magistrate Decides That Drunken Car Drivers Are Dangerous

Quick justice was meted out to a drunken driver this morning when he appeared in Police court, this morning before Magistrate Ralph Deacon, of Cannilton was the offending party, and he was sentenced to serve seven days in the County Jail as have labour.

Cannon was arrested late yesterday afternoon by very intoxicated condition on Pinnacle St., after he had driven his car, which barely deserves the name, all over the sidewalk and in tween treet, on a trip such as only a drunken man could undertake without injuring either himself or his machine. And yet Cannon told the magistrate this morning that he had had only 2 drinks.

In sentencing the man, the magistrate declared that the driving of automobiles while intoxicated must be stopped. The car was absolutely dangerous even though he had driven it well and there is no telling how much damage he might have done had it struck the lice not arrived in time to arrest him before any damage was done. "There are no extenuating circumstances in the your case, as there have been in some others, and I am therefore going to sentence you to serve seven days in jail."

TRADE RETURNS SHOW INCREASE

Ottawa, Nov. 16.—Canada's total trade increased by $200,000,000 for the seven months ended October 31st last as compared with the corresponding period in 1927. Both imports and exports jumped. For the period, exports reached a total of $787,000,000 against $679,000,000 in the same period of 1927 and imports totalled $727,000,000 compared with $640,000,000 in 1927.

INSTITUTE CLOSES A SUCCESSFUL TWO-DAY CONVENTION; BEST YET

Over Two Hundred Delegates Were Delighted With New Outlook

A most successful two days' convention of the Women's Institutes of Ontario closed about four o'clock this afternoon and well over two hundred women from Prince Edward county, Northumberland and Hastings counties returned to their respective homes much the wiser for the knowledge gleaned at the convention. This morning Mrs. F. W. Stone, of Bond Head, president of the Federated Women's Institutes of Ontario, was the chief speaker and gave an address that will not be forgotten by the delegates for some time.

Mrs. Stone made an appeal, for the north country and Belleville is vitally interested in the north country as the districts back of Bancroft, still to the greater extent wild and uncultivated, present many problems to the city and Hastings county. "We are responsible for the people of the northern part of the province," said Mrs. Stone. "Help these districts, send clothes, send food, send anything that will be of help to them for they need it and you can do a wonderful work.

Plenty of Work

"Why," she continued, "Women come from miles and miles just to attend a Women's Institute meeting. You are their salvation and their help; you are saving women all over the province of Ontario. Do not expect your efforts to do all your work for you! Correct and help yourselves, work hard and bring relief to those who need it."

"Environment means a great deal. Beautify the homes and try to teach others how to make life more livable." Mrs. Stone touched briefly upon the different departments of the Health Of Children Emphasized By Exhibits of the Women's Institute

The Council room at the City Hall was transformed into a miniature exhibition yesterday when the exhibits of the Women's Institute were on display. Many and varied were the articles shown comprising a baby's layette, basketry, preserved fruit, samples of sewing, embroidery, and hooked rugs. With the model layette was shown a cot baby's crib, scales for weighing, etc., and to instruct the mother, a series of slides showing every detail of the care required by infants.

Athletics lighted schoolrooms showed the attention that school-age children should be afforded, and rules for their health. Placards and tiny booths decorated the walls, showing the right and wrong ways to keep stables and homes.

REPORTED CHIEF OFFICER IS GONE

Frank Johnson of the "Vestris" Checked Out of His Hotel

New York, Nov. 16.—United States Attorney Tuttle, announced today that Chief Officer Frank Johnson of the Vestris, had checked out of his hotel shortly after being brought here by the rescue ship and efforts to locate him had failed.

Johnson, with other members of the crew of the ill-fated liner was to testify at the inquiry this afternoon before Tuttle. Wireless messages sent out by Capt. William J. Carey, master of the ship are expected to clear up the matter.

Dead Number 111

New York, Nov. 16.—Cost of the wreck of the Vestris in terms of damage claims by survivors and relatives of those who met death in the disaster was estimated today at $3,000,000. Revised figures of the tragedy issued today show that there were 232 persons aboard. 128 passengers and 108 crew. The rescued numbered 215, including 92 passengers and 123 crew. Presumably dead 111, sixty eight passengers forty-three crew. Bodies recovered twenty-two, missing eighty-nine. The dead and missing include twenty-seven women and thirteen children.

More Tales of Heroism

Norfolk, Virginia, Nov. 16.—Exhausted from hours of exposure, eight survivors of the foundering of the Vestris were safely under hers today. Of the group, five were women, one of whom had lost her husband and a child two others, husbands and a fourth who also had lost a child learned that her husband was safe. The eight were brought to Hampton Roads by the battleship Wyoming.

Alice Norman K. Barth, of Brooklyn, was said to be one of the heroines of the disaster. Her husband with other men in the crowded lifeboat that repeatedly capsized had exhausted himself in bailing and righting the craft. Thrown finally into the water she kept him afloat as long as life remained but was forced to abandon her hold before the rescue ship arrived.

PRICES SOAR AS BUYING KEEPS ON

Stocks Sweep to New High Records Under Wave of Orders

New York, Nov. 16.—Sweeping advances in prices with a record breaking turnover of stocks was Wall Street's response today to the relatively insignificant gain in Federal Reserve Brokers loans. Prices bounded upward in a riotous outburst of buying at the opening and continued to climb in face of heavy profit-taking.

Extreme gains in active issues ranged from three to twenty-one points with a long list of issues, including such favorites, as United States Steel, Montgomery Ward, Packard Motors, Westinghouse Electric and Texas Company setting new high records for the year.

Call money renewed at six and a half per cent. In the first three hours of trading, total sales averaged more than a million shares an hour with the ticker more than an hour late.

WOMEN APPEAL COURT'S RULING

Ask Council to Decide Whether or Not They Are "Persons"

London, Nov. 1 (C. P. Cable)—Judicial Committee of the Privy Council today granted five representative women of Canada leave to appeal from the judgment of the Supreme Court of Canada, which ruled that women were not "persons" in the meaning of the British North America Act and therefore were not eligible for the Canadian Senate. Application for leave to appeal was not opposed by the Dominion Government.

ENJOY BELLEVILLE NIGHT IN BUFFALO

Belleville citizens were not the only people to enjoy the city's "Night on the Air" on Wednesday. Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Miller, of Buffalo, New York, wrote a letter to the Intelligencer stating just how much they had enjoyed the broadcast. It came in just fine, every number very clearly", they said. Mayor Duff was also complimented upon his address and the writers stated that they were pleased to see that Belleville's population was increasing and that business was in a prosperous condition. Mrs. Miller was before her marriage, Miss Cussis Woodley, of this city.

FIND BODY OF 19-YEAR-OLD GIRL WITH BULLET WOUND IN HER HEAD

SAVED MANY LIVES

Frantic Six-Day Search Ended To-Day in Grim Discovery

THEORIES DISCARDED

Gladys Brotherston's Remains Found Three Miles From Home

Kirkfield, Ont., Nov. 16.—Body of Gladys Brotherston, missing from home here since Friday was found today near Fry Mills with a bullet wound in the head. Fry Mills is about three miles from Kirkfield. The girl left home lightly clad and carrying a rifle and has been the object of a six day search by a posse of one hundred men and bloodhounds.

Theory after theory was advanced but later disproved thru lack sufficient clues. The Trent Canal was drained for three miles and swampy country about here was combed numerous times without success.

Several days ago a blood hound was brought from Bannington to take up the trail. Yesterday the search continued without further success on the clue that a mysterious screen had been heard in a dense swamp some distance back of the home of the deceased.

The theory that she had left home because of scarring her upper lip with carbolic acid in an effort to remove superfluous hair was also scouted. It is also believed she brooded over a love affair.

Just before she left home she had been reading a tale of wilderness adventure. The magazine was found open where the story ended. She had her rifle with her and was an expert shot.

NO DISCUSSION ON GAS STATION

Council Will Send Letter of Appreciation to Radio Artists

Nothing was said with regards to the McColl Frontenac Gasoline service station at the corner of Bridge and Front Streets last night when the Belleville City Council held a Committee meeting. Practically all members of the council were present, although there was little business done. It was recommended that the Treasurer be instructed to pay certain insurance accounts due the first of December, and that a resolution that will be introduced at the Council Meeting Monday night was adopted as follows.

DIED UNHURRIED AND UNFLINCHING

World Joins in Tribute to Gallant Wireless Operator of Vestris

New York, November 16.—The name of the Vestris' young radio operator Michael J. O'Loughlin, who became one of the commanders in Battery Park erected to the memory of wireless at the time he kept the unwritten law of the sea by sticking to his ship until the end.

His will be the fifteenth name on the roll of honor. One of the first is Jack Phillips, radio operator of the Titanic.

The Veteran Wireless Operators Association today planned a memorial service for O'Loughlin at the immigrant.

The president of the Association is J. F. J. Maher, who was chief operator of the Vestris in 1913.

"O'Loughlin kept the record unsullied," said Maher. "It now seems certain that he went down with his ship after he had done all he could at his post."

Assistants Saved

His two assistants, James McDonald and Charles Verchere, were saved. They will be given merit certificates by the association. O'Laughlin's home was in Wexford county, Ireland. He was 30 years old. It was his first trip on the Vestris.

Lieut. Elbert C. Rodgers, communications officer of the naval operating base at Old Point Comfort, has this to say of the Vestris' operator:

"His courage and his coolness, to my mind, were superb and beyond any precedent. Had he been less than he was, doubtless more than the unfortunate number of lives lost would have been recorded. As for all of us to revere his memory, I know the navy salutes him."

Chief Radio Man B.M. Harris of the naval radio station at Hampton Roads a veteran of 16 years, said this:

"Only a man who has been in trouble at sea can understand just what O'Laughlin accomplished. There was not a radio operator anywhere who did not realize long before the Vestris went down just what a magnificent stand this fellow was making. He worked under the worst conditions and came pretty close to accomplishing the impossible. Cool, how cool and level-headed he was with everything against him. I don't know of anything like him in my experience."

Never Rested

Time elements vary in the stations here as to when O'Laughlin first sent and the SOS signal and when he closed. But a fairly accurate estimate is that he started a few minutes after 10 o'clock Monday morning and stuck to his key until water began to pour into the radio room, about 1:20 that afternoon. At no time, say the local operators, was the Vestris man excited or frightened. An indication of this was found in the last message he sent, recorded by the navy at the naval operating base. Some operator had misspelled a common word. O'Laughlin, making a correction, sent the word in the text shows fetching in the words themselves. The last O'Laughlin message:

"Abandoning ship. V. A."

In radio shorthand "V. A." means "stop." "I have nothing more for you." Most reports received O'Laughlin saying "Good-bye" and other forms of farewell.

Unrelated Tributes

The extent of the unsolicited praise for O'Laughlin was revealed in gossip between local operators, as picked up by Gerald Fogg, a 19-year-old amateur. Fogar recorded the following messages.

BO to Dr: "Ever see anything like the nerve of the Vestris man?" DR to BO: "Never did; he had plenty. Now I think about it the man I think this fellow was super-human." HX to AD: "Yes, he was swell; wonder why the newspapers don't give him a write up if anybody deserves it he does."

This message was intercepted from battleship Texas in Hampton Roads to another undisclosed man-o'-war.

"How he managed to stay on the job under those conditions is a mystery to me. He must have stood on his head to send with the old wreck during 39 degrees. More power to him, emergency."

The "spontaneity of these messages of which it is to be noted that they were not intended for publication, is indicative of the spirit among all radio operators encountered.

Sergeant Bertie, attached to the army radio station at Fortress Monroe said of O'Laughlin's bravery:

"He did a braver and more remarkable job than the public will ever realize. It is due to his straightness and and clear operating under the worst kind of difficulties that the rescue ships could obtain the Vestris' position."

Sergeant J. A. Dula said:

"When the ship was sinking he sent just as coolly as if he had been sending it in sunny play. He was so cool that he'd have you off your guard. It was hard to realize from him that the ship was sinking with a great many human beings on board. And when his mate set went out of communication he went on the same way with his emergency call. They ought to build a monument for that man."

INSTITUTE

Women's Institutes and what work could be done by them. "There are no weak links in the province of Ontario," she stated, "that would not be wonderful if every woman in the province would belong to a society like the Women's Institutes.

Immigration

There were two interesting papers read this morning, to be followed by discussion, Mrs. B. Pinkie, of Hollowell Grant on the topic "Immigration" and Mrs. Fred Denyes the other, on "Community Work of the Institute."

"What is an immigrant?" queried Mrs. Pinkie. And answering her own question she said that it was one who came to Canada with the intention of acquiring Canadian domicile. They were in under the Salvation Army, the Barnardo home, through the government and through some charitable institution. The speaker told of the various laws to protect the immigration and also those to protect the country itself. The speaker made a plea for the lonely immigrant telling of different ways in which he might be helped. The missionary, the school teacher and the Institute, all these can be of help to the immigrant," she said.

From 1921 to 1927 immigration was 787,698, costing Canada $7,904,986. "The Efficient Institute" was the subject of Mrs. Fred Denyes' paper. "There is a great interest shown in this kind of work in Ontario" she said. "Community activity appeals to the community women in the branches of the Institute." Mrs. Denyes told of different social work done by the order, such as hawn socials, dramas picnics, school evenings with music, rustic parties, Hallowe'en parties, afternoon teas and cafeteria teas.

Too, they was good work done. This including tending old cemeteries, planting flowers and shrubs, liberty work, work on war memorials and other good deeds. The idea was the penny bank system, inaugurated in Brighton and sponsored by the Institute. Then there are libraries built and run by some Women's Institute. Rest rooms have been built in different smaller centres and the most successful.

Woolens and Silks

Mr. Putnam, director of Women's Institutes for Ontario read a few words to say about the woolens and silks industries of this country. Mr. Putnam had some samples of these businesses with him and gave a most interesting short address. He told of the advantage of the mill the majority are built in towns of less than 10,000 population), the quality of Canadian-made goods and the knitting mills and socks particularly as critics use a distinctly Canadian product. Mr. Putnam traced cellulose from its' inception to the finished product.

The morning was closed with a silent session under the direction of Miss Eadie, of Scotland, Ontario.

SMART TITLES ARE NOT APPROPRIATE

Two biographies of American presidents announced for early publication are entitled: "Tish Has Adventure" and "Meet Geo. Grant." This kind of attempt to be smart and jaunty is proving tiresome. It is not original. Biography has come into favored recognition, but it is not going to retain its popularity if we get many more flippant titles. It is not a matter of as much importance as the need for a hero out of every village of the country. Not one of every hero, but it is an irritating habit that could well be corrected. There is no title better for a biography than the plain and unadorned name of the man whose career is to be told within the covers.

TREATMENT OF DUMB ANIMALS

People Go Away From Home and Leave Pets There

The way of humans with their pets is past comprehension. People who are normally kind and considerate, and profess a great affection for dumb brutes, sometimes suffer strange lapses of conscience when their convenience is at stake. Every year complaints are repeated of holiday-makers leaving their cats and dogs to shift for themselves as best they can.

Their fate, except for the humane intervention of neighbors, is inevitably —starvation or the pound. Now comes the report that even when dogs are taken away on the holiday (for seaside resorts), a great majority of them are left to perish so as to save the slight expense incurred in bringing them back to town.

These dogs are found useful on a holiday in the wilds; they give a sense of security and so earn their keep. But though their owners can afford a summer cottage (according to those who have seen this thing going on for years) they are too mean to condemn themselves to spend their pets when the summer season is over; the consequence is that large numbers of neglected dogs roam the north country in a starving condition, to fall prey finally to wolves.

It is a disgraceful state of affairs. But that is not all. Hunters, it is charged, deliberately abandon their dogs when they return from trips, up north.

What sort of "sports" are people like these? Feeling they are removed from the vigilance of Humane society officials they give free rein to their selfish inhumanity.

There should be some more effective means of dealing with these callous hunters than merely appealing to their sense of decency. Little hope may be entertained from such mild measures as this. If conditions are anything like as bad as represented, a stern example should be made of the offenders.

NANKING ONCE HAD GRANDEUR

It Was Once A National Capital; Ming Tombs Are There

The new capital of China, Nanking on the Yang-tse-kiang, had past grandeur. It was once a national capital. The ruins of the Ming tombs in Nanking are still a magnet for tourists and up to a few years ago a considerable section of the city was covered by the old examination halls where thousands of students from all parts of the empire gathered for the civil service examinations in the classics.

These cell-like structures have now practically all been torn down. The City Nanking has about a half million people, but it does not by any means fill the space inside the city wall. Farms within the urban area provide plenty of room for all potential purposes.

The most impressive thing at Nanking is the Sun Yat-sen mausoleum which is located on the side of Purple mountain about three miles from the bank of the river. Work has been proceeding on this memorial to the first great Chinese republican. It is now possible for the visitor to ascend the fortune grandeur of the completed edifice which will undoubtedly rank with structures of similar character elsewhere in the world. It was his wish that Nanking should be the capital city of China under republican auspices.

Nanking as now the seat of government city of China; it in fact it is two cities, the one outside the old wall being known as the "foreign" section where the ships dock being known as Shaukwan. The railway station is about 5 kilometers.

The old city of Nanking is located about eight miles from Shaukwan inside the ancient city wall which is about thirty miles in circumference. Beside rows of dirty buildings which had been constructed by the missionaries and by some of the branches of the Kiangsu provincial government. Nanking is most primitive. The streets are narrow and the shops are nearly all one-story straw mat buildings brick walls and tile roofs. Nanking has no in recent years been a prosperous city.

The Peking—the abandoned, now called Peiping, the city of peace? there we are told everything under former Chinese government officials are now roaming the streets and beggaring for their daily rice. Under the set of the house cleaning of government officials, there are still many officials, who are also all out of work because of the change of governments. They are "Peiping—the abandoned.

"The majority of these men are gentlemen who went to Peiping years ago to fill government positions before the civil war was even thought of. They have no connection with the rest.

A delegation representing these destitute men waited on Tang Shih-yao, 1st mayor, General Ho Chih-tung, and asked for aid for the unemployed and their families. The only thing offered them was free transportation from Peiping to the city of Tientsin, and the promise that the government would do what it could to get employment for them at Shanghai for any of the ex-officials who wanted to return to the south. This will do them little if any good, however, there is not an abundance of work in the north.

HE OVERCOMES GRAVITY LAWS

At Least Professor Tate of England, Claims This Is So

B. H. Tate, an English professor, says he claims that he recently overcame gravity's laws by the simple process of a little magic. He suspended a plate of metal in midair without any thing to suspend it from.

Professor Wilcox, of Chicago, does the same thing. He, however, explains how he does it. He would like Professor Tate to "show him." The American professor shows a wooden base in which is concealed a bar of "supermagnetized" cobalt steel. From the wooden base will be seen to stand up. They are connected in no way with another piece of cobalt steel that hangs in the air above the base.

The principles simply keep the second piece of steel in its place, like a cage. That second piece literally floats in midair. You can push it down. It jumps back up again.

But, according to Professor Wilcox, it is being pushed away by the other piece of cobalt steel in the wooden base. Both pieces are highly charged magnets. The north-seeking pole of the upper one is placed above the north-seeking pole of the one in the base. The guides keep it there and the poles, acting in accordance with the text-book rule that like poles repel—push each other away for the invisible force of magnetism.

"In this way," says Professor Wilcox, "we conquered gravity years ago. If Professor Tate hasn't something new he should be classed with the communists with Mars. If he has something new I'd like to see him."

The New Victor Radio Sets are now on display at Heintzman Co., 245 Front Street.

Natural Law

Natural law is at work today as it always has been. The only difference that time brings is the discovery of more efficient means of giving this law greater vent to exert itself.

Greater study has been given to this fact investigation in years of all lines of endeavor than in all the history of the world before. Not the least of these researches is the discovery of releasing Nature's "Force" in the human body. As Nature's forces are being released in other lines of progress, so Nature's forces are being released in the human body by the new modern health science called Chiropractic. If you are interested in a healthy body and mind for yourself or family investigate this New Modern health science, that opens Heaven's doors out of every hero, but it is an irritating habit that could well be corrected. MONTREAL MAY ONCE HAVE BEEN CAPITOL

Montreal, Que. (CP)—An egg decided the fate of the Canadian capital. If Lord Elgin had not been pelted with eggs in 1849 by a populace incensed over his signing of the Rebellion Losses bill, Montreal might still have been the seat of Government. This and other interesting incidents of Canadian history are described by Dr. C. E. Fryer, professor of history at McGill.

SCHOOL A VITAL POINT TO WATCH

Mr. C. A. Putnam Urges Women's Institute to Work With Teachers

At the evening meeting of the Women's Institute Convention in the City Hall, the subject was "The School." Miss Guest, who was in the chair, explained that the motto of the Institute was "For Home and Country" and the school was embodied in this. The Institute was an educational group, she said, non-secretarian, non-partisan and open to every woman over sixteen years of age regardless of nationality.

Mr. George A. Putnam, from the Department of Agriculture, Toronto, who is the Superintendent of the Women's Institutes was introduced and gave the women an inspiring address, telling them what an opportunity was theirs to extend the splendid work they were doing, to influence not only their own community but the whole country.

Safety For Children

Mrs. Brown of Bonar Law discussed the problems attending pupils on the school children, not only those who were attending school but the pre-school child, the adolescent, and the sub-normal as well. She emphasized the need for further steps to insure safety for children on the highways. There was a distressing list of casualties among the rural school children who have no place to walk except on the road. She also urged attendance at the meetings of the school board.

Encourage Average Child

Elaborating on this report Mrs Guest explained a plan she had seen in practise to encourage the average child as well as the clever one. This was by offering a star to the boy and girl with the best record for regular attendance, punctuality, clean hands, finger nails, teeth, teeth and ears.

In the report from the historical research secretary, Mrs. Bellamy was stressed, that in every community there some spot worth being preserved for its historical significance. Prince Edward County, it was said, leads in this respect.

WANT WOMEN IN THE LEGISLATURE

Two Hundred Delegates at Banquet Applaud Speaker's Claims

The banquet of the Women's Institute was held last night at the Queen's Hotel, when over two hundred members and their guests sat down to the sumptuous fare. The evening's program was interspersed with community singing led by Mr. Stillman Cay, of Foxboro. Mrs. Wilson, of Belleville, presided at the piano. Mrs. Hennigar, of Coldbrook, was toastmistress for the evening. The first toast to the King and Country was proposed by the Toastmistress and responded to by singing the National Anthem.

Mrs. Macoun extolled Canada as the banner Dominion of the Great British Empire, and urged the company to show their pride as part of this Dominion. The toast to the guests was responded to by Miss Hyde. Miss Hyde gracefully accepted the hospitality extended, and expressed the pleasure she felt in representing the two superintendants. Miss Guest responded to the toast to the Federation of the Women's Institutes.

Entering Politics

"The Institute is a matter of co-operation. It is the true representation of the man and woman in the home, then the co-operation in the school and finally with the government. We have developed well along the first step, we have our Mackenzie Hall at Guelph and the next thing we want is at least one and if possible two women to represent us in the legislature, so we are giving you fair warning that we are going to put a candidate in the field at the next election. Every three years we pick a new mother for the Institute, and this year the honor falls on Mrs. Stone. Twice a year we have the privileges of conferring with the government, and asking help from them."

The supper was brought to a close by the singing of the ode, after which the members adjourned to the City Hall for the evening meeting.

REFUSES ANY HELP FROM HIS FATHER

Stanley Baldwin's yourses and Conservative son—not that Stanley, junior, who has joined the Labor party—refuses any allowance from his father, and lives on a few pounds a week he is able to earn in the occasional steel works "What Wyndham Baldwin has done," says a London correspondent, "is to start in the right way. If he has not shown it all a fact, instinct has told him that if a man does not learn to stand on his own feet in his twenties he never will. The spirit of independence, the pride in work, the ability to take a line of one's own and hold to it—these are qualities which, if they are not acquired in the boy are likely to be dormant for a lifetime in the man."

GENERAL BOOTH FIGHTS FOR LIFE

Succession to Leadership of Army Causing Acute "Heart Burnings"

London, Eng., Nov. 16.—Condition of General William Bramwell Booth, Commander of the Salvation Army, was unchanged today. He passed a fair night.

Statement Expected

London, Eng., Nov. 16.— Salvation Army headquarters stated today that an important announcement regarding the constitutional aspect of the succession to the leadership in the Salvation Army may be made soon. It is expected that the statement will be with the publication of Eva Booth who is reported to be scheduled to sail from New York on Saturday, as well as other members of the Booth family.

Meanwhile the veteran general seems to be gaining a little in his struggle for life in his quiet seaside cottage.

Some of the London newspapers are making a big feature of the "acute heart burnings" in the higher ranks of the Army respecting the succession to leadership, notwithstanding a statement by Commissioner Higgins of Montreal that the certainty concerning of a possible successor to Genera' Booth while the general was making a gallant fight for his life.

Do Not Want Women

Rumors that the stricken leader had distinguished either his wife or his daughter Catherine as his successor persist so strongly that several leading Commissioners have insisted on calling a meeting of the high council of the army to discuss the question. It will meet in January. They are even said to be prepared to invoke the law to prevent the appointment of a woman on the contention that she would be unable to bear the responsibility of control of the Army and especially of the vast property it holds in trust computed at approximately £20,000,000.

The High Council is composed of Commissioners and Commanders in all parts of the world, and although in existence for 34 years has never been convened. Aside from opposition to a general appointment, it is said that there is a strong movement for the investment of the property in a body of trustees instead of in the litular head of the army.

DUNDAS UNITED HELD MEETINGS

The Thanksgiving Services held in Dundas Street United Church Sunday and Wednesday drew a large attendance, and proved to be helpful to the Mission. The Sunday School Rally was held in the afternoon for this service and took as his subject "Peace and Thanksgiving."

The concert on Wednesday night was well attended. The program consisted of many readings and songs interspersed by the music of the Salvation Army Boys' Band, and was their oughly enjoyed. The pastor asked for $50 to meet some small repair bills on the Church and $75 was realized from these services.

"LOVE" IS FEATURED AT CAPITOL NEXT MON.

The big super-special screen feature "Love" starring Greta Garbo and John Gilbert, comes to the Capitol Theatre next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, Nov. 19, 20 and 21. A synopsis of the story will be of interest.

Captain Alexis Karenin, aide to the Grand Duke Boris, en route to St. Petersburg for the Easter celebrations, encounters a fair lady whose sleigh has been wrecked in the snow. As their passage is blocked by a snowdrift, he takes her to a nearby inn where they dine together.

She replaces him in anger and they part.

A Second Meeting

At the Easter service in the capital he meets her again and is shocked to find she is the wife of Karenin, the pompous, conventional Cabinet Minister. Despite every effort on Anna's part for she is first and foremost a devoted mother to her little boy the two fall in love, at a skating party. But he cannot induce her to leave her child and they bid each other farewell. Later Vronsky is the central figure of a terrible accident and Anna in the mad rage of her husband betrays her anxiety before a crowd of friends. Karenin forces her to remain because he is faced with anxiety she slips out later and drives to Vronsky's apartment for news of him. Karenin sees her go and follows.

Karenin arrives, to inform Anna that she must never return to his home or child. That the lovers go to the Italian Lakes together, but Vronsky is disappointed to find that Anna is preparing over the loss of her little one. He proposes to return to St. Petersburg and his career in the army. Anna quits at the house with an armful of toys for the child. Then Karenin orders her to leave the house.

She has forfeited her right to her son, destroyed her husbands career and ruined her lover. For Karenin's career, Vronsky is to be forced to resign from the army and to be sent into banishment. Anna calls on the Grand Duke Boris, just as he is about to sign the document ordering Vronsky's resignation. Pathetically she pleads for her lover's pardon, promising to go away and never see him again if it is granted. The Grand Duke promises his decision that night.

A Reunion

Anna rejoins Vronsky and finds him brokenhearted at the prospect of leaving his beloved regiment. Both realize that there will always be a chasm between them. Vronsky's last career and Anna's child. Then comes a note from the Grand Duke bidding Vronsky to come to him and hinting at forgiveness.

The lovers part tenderly, for Anna knows at what a price he has gained must be his gift. Meanwhile Vronsky celebrates his reunion with his regiment in a great banquet. Just the ending of the great sacrifice she has proved and to make it is without precedent. If the inevitable way of destiny wins it over as great, as theirs.

REGENT THEATRE

One of the old institutions of the American negro race is the so-called "revival meeting." It is said to be a tradition that has descended from ancient tribal customs. Those who have never been privileged to see some old-fashioned of negro religious fervor based on the mysticism and psychology of animal savage ritual will find such a scene truthfully enacted in "Uncle Tom's Cabin" the Universal super-picturization of the famous Harriet Beecher Stowe novel, that is attracting tremendous interest at the Regent theatre, where it is now showing. During the "shouting" of the scene the negro extras became so engrossed in their acting that they continued more than an hour after the director had called a halt. In the all-star cast are Margarita Fischer, Arthur Edmund Carew, J. Roche, Gertrude Astor, Lucien Littlefield, George Siegman, Mona Ray, Virginia Grey, Eulalie Jensen, J. Gordon Russell, Aileen Manning, Jack Mower, Virgin Oakland and others.

Radio Air Gleanings By Static Bug

There is an erroneous idea that A. C. tubes operate entirely on alternating current, and so do away with the battery unit. This is far from true. While the A.C. tubes can and do operate on raw alternating current, stepped down to the required low voltage, a source of direct current for the plate is still necessary, whether it is supplied by batteries or "B" power unit. The self-contained electric receiver must include a "B" power unit, too.

Where great volume without distortion is desired, the best type of loudspeaker unit to employ is the electro dynamic type, in which the diaphragm of the speaker is connected firmly to a coil winding which carries the speech frequencies. This coil moves in a constant field created by an electromagnet, so that there is no attraction of the armature.

One of the most interesting of recent television stories is the experiment by C. Francis Jenkins of Washington, D.C., the "well-known inventor of a television system that with the usual scanning disc has been eliminated and replaced instead by a picture-analyzing frame containing 2,304 separate photoelectric cells. The disc has been removed from the receiver also; the received images being built up on a frame of similar construction containing 2,304 little flashlight lamps. The latter give white light, and thus produce images considerably brighter than those possible with the usual mean-gas glow lamps.

Another point which is brought out rather frequently is that many people, who should know better, complain that broadcast stations "change their power every night." One night, so the story goes, the station comes in fine, and the next night, or another night, it does not. Even locals seem, according to many people, in the habit of changing their power from practically noth ing up to maximum. The person complaining always make it a point to state that they did not seem to have this trouble until very lately. If you pursue this to its logical conclusion, you will find that they never had this trouble while they had their old battery sets but really, it started just recently—in other words, when they acquired A.C.-operated sets. This is very true, and is not at all our fault.

The fault, in, of course, not with the broadcast station, which (it need not be said) does not change its power. The "average broadcast station probably does not vary its power more than 1% from night to night; if so much, that one night, a certain station comes in weak, while on another night it comes in loud. The intelligent radio man will immediately know the reason for this; the adviser lies in the A.C. voltage supply.

PRINCESS MARY IS NO CIGARETTE FIEND

London, Eng. (By C. P.) — There was an interesting incident at a luncheon at Ipswich recently at which Princess Mary, who had visited the town to open several local institutions, was a guest. After the royal toast, the customary announcement was made: "Ladies and gentlemen, you may now smoke." There was a general laugh in which the Princess joined.

A waiter with boxes of cigars and cigarettes passed behind the head table. He held the cigarette box to Princess Mary, who glanced at it, made no sign, and turned away her head. Other women guests took cigarettes from the box but presumably affected by the royal example, were not seen to light them.

Passengers Blame Officers, Crew and Equipment of Vestris

TALES OF HORROR

Fought Off Man-Eating Sharks to Recover Mangled Bodies

New York, Nov. 16—The incompetency and inefficiency of the crew of the Vestris, now resting in her deep grave in the trouble Atlantic sent two boat loads of women and children to their death, it was charged as testimony today as three separate investigations into the wreck of the passport and Hoyt liner began here yesterday.

A fourth inquiry into the wreck of the Vestris, the blackest maritime disaster since the Lusitania went down, will be instituted without delay in England and another by Congress is forecast soon.

Six witnesses told the story of the lowering of lifeboats before the Department of Justice investigators which United States Attorney Tuttle is directing, and each directly blamed officers and crew for submerging of the craft which should have carried their occupants to safety.

Lost Her Baby

Two of the witnesses were Frank W. Puppe, a first-class passenger who lost his wife and baby in the catastrophe, and John Santora. Puppe said there was a lack of equipment, and Santora declared that the ropes never were released to launch the lifeboats. The Vestris, he said, carried the filled boats to the bottom with her when she went down.

Puppe was bitter in his attack on the ship's force, and declared that discipline was so slack aboard the Vestris that his steward was too drunk to attend him, or to prepare breakfast Sunday for his child. He testified that the tilt of the vessel was such on Sunday that he knew that we would never come through unharmed." The stories of all the witnesses agreed in essential details.

Back to Colonial Times

It is now the smart thing for many people to wear glasses fitted to frames of colonial design. Not the clumsy things our grandparents wore, but the light, artistic patterns now so popular. Drop in and let us show you our line of colonial frames. To many, they are much more becoming than the oval and round types.

Place Responsibility

Mr. Tuttle has promised to get immediately to the cause of the mysterious wreck and to hold immediately to the grand jury and culprits "who are found responsible. If any are found responsible, for sending from the port of New York an unseaworthy vessel.

One of the points to be taken up will be the testimony of Evans Hampton, giant negro fireman aboard the Vestris, who said that the warped open door of a coal bunker had flood ed the holds.

At the same time coastguard destroyers were bringing into a Staten Island dock twenty-one of the drowned dead—many of the bodies mutilated by sharks— the federal authorities announced that charges of murder on the high seas" would not be taken up at this time.

Assistant United States Attorney Minzer admitted, however, that some of the passengers, through their attorneys had made against officers and crew of the Vestris charges of cowardice and brutality in the desperate calamity that overtook the liner 250 miles off the Virginia Capes, when 114 lives were lost.

Living and Dead

Two vessels today arrived from the spot where, lighted by a soon day sun, the Vestris listed and sank.

One was the obscure French tanker Myriam, which started in the rescue work. It brought the living fifty-seven survivors, forty-nine of whom were members of the crew.

The destroyer Shaw brought in the dead. She had started from the scene with fourteen canvas-wrapped bodies, but she arrived with only thirteen. One unidentified body was so badly mutilated by the sharks that it was buried at sea.

Sharks and littered wreckage are now the only indications in that limitless expanse of water down the coast that a crowded liner was conquered by the sea. The search for survivors has been abandoned, and the U.S.S. Wyoming, in compliance with a Navy Department order, is steaming into Norfolk. She has aboard eight survivors.

But the officers of the Shaw still had in their mouths the bitter aftertaste of horror. For they saw horror —black and terrible. Almost every body they picked up had been mutilated by the sharks. In retrieving the body of Miss Ingeborg Franke, young daughter of a man who also was lost, they had to fight off one man-eater with their oars. Nine bodies already had been brought to New York when the Shaw docked with its dead, and, as a result officials today were able to fix in approximate figures the extent of the sea catastrophe that occurred when the Vestris went down in the sea.

There were 328 persons aboard. Sixty passengers and 164 members of the crew were saved, a total of 216. Presumably lost are 114, sixty-nine passengers and forty-five of the crew. Twenty-two bodies have been recovered, seven of them identified, and nineteen are missing. In this appalling list, of dead and missing were twenty-seven women and thirteen children. Not one child aboard the Vestris lived. Only ten women were saved. Theirs was the first launched, the one which capsized on the davits.

NEW ORCHESTRA AT TABERNACLE

"Kitchen Sink Funny Orchestra" Makes Hit with Large Crowd

Well over two hundred people were present last night at the Tabernacle United Church Sunday School parlours when the "Kitchen Sink Funny Orchestra, a new band of musicians in this city, made their first appearance on a Belleville stage. Their presentation was given round after round of applause, and no doubt they will be welcomed back again at a later date.

The theme of their presentation was, the love story of Juanita and Robin Adair, with songs and choruses representing the different phases of the story. Miss Norma Fair took the part of Robin Adair in fine style, while the part of Juanita was capably portrayed by Miss Bessie Barjow. A five piece orchestra supplemented the efforts of the "Sink Funny" band, and all in all, a pleasant program was put on. Following is the roster of the band, and the program of songs which filled in the love story.

The honorary degree of LL.D. has been conferred upon Lady Nancy Astor, British M.P., by the College of William and Mary at a special ceremony at Williamsburg. Lady Astor is one of the famous Langhorne sisters of Virginia, who were known for their beauty. She always has taken a deep interest in William and Mary College. The present is the first time she has had an opportunity to go to Williamsburg to receive the honor, awarded four years ago.

HELP THE WIVES

Toronto, Ont. (CP) — "Something will have to be done for the wives and families of prisoners in our jails" declared Mayor McBride. A woman had called to see him who told him that her husband had been in jail for several months and that they were six months behind in their rent.

INTERESTING ADDRESSES WHEN WOMENS INSTITUTES CONVENED

Yesterday Afternoon Saw Considerable Works Finished at Meeting

PRIZES GIVEN

Large Exhibit of Handicraft Attracted Much Attention From All

It was most certainly a successful day for the Women's Institute Convention yesterday. Everything from nine o'clock in the morning until the completion of the evening session, ran smoothly and efficiently and yesterday afternoon some splendid addresses were heard. Three of these speeches are reproduced in full below as they are of such vital interest to the womanhood of Canada and full of practical suggestions that might easily be utilized for the betterment of conditions all over the country.

A report of health, by Mrs. J. Pargay, of Bloomfield, was perhaps of the greatest interest to the convention, for most of the delegates were married women with children and Mrs. Pargay's report touched specifically upon the problems of the health of children. Mrs. L. Isaacs, too, in her address of agriculture, touched upon a matter that is of vital interest to everybody, Mrs. McCullough, who followed her, enlarged to a certain extent upon Mrs. Isaacs' report, dealing more especially with garden fruits and vegetables.

Canada's Industries

Another speaker who drew considerable applause was Mrs. C. A. Bleeker of Marmora, speaking on Canadian industries. Mrs. W. H. Nugent enlarged upon Mrs. Bleeker's address, dealing with every major industry that Canada has. Mrs. Nugent spoke particularly on the lumber industry, the fruit and grain industry, the talcum industry at Madoc, the asbestos mines which is specially strong Hastings county in fact all this country's wealth producers.

Another more than interesting item was a short paper on Home Economics by Mrs. W. R. Munro, of Demorestville.

There must have been about one hundred delegates packed in the hall yesterday afternoon, although it was at first thought only about two hundred would be present. Several social interludes allowed the assembled women to relax after each session and of particular interest was the address of welcome from Mayor Duff. His Worship expressed his pleasure at having the convention held in Belleville, "I can readily see," he said, "the industrial and great work your organization undertakers. This is one of the largest societies of its kind in the country at the time and it certainly does a splendid work. I would like to extend the freedom of the city to you and hope sincerely that your convention is a decided success."

Mrs. Clarke

Mrs. G. F. Clarke responded. "We will be glad to come again and the kindliness of your greetings and welcome with its fog many a day. The various branches of this organization are put something into the men and women of Ontario that will return a rich dividend."

"The aim of this organization is high, the betterment of home and country. There is some work for all you. Keep before us this high ideal. We must be preeminently humanitarian, individual goodness upon the part of men and women will keep the country. After all, it is our home life in the street and wholesome, our natural life will be free from unjust corruption."

Keen interest was aroused by the exhibits and the prizes won by them in the basket work department. Walkridge took first place, Wellington second, and Wicket third. Wellington took first place for the best vase of dahlias; Frankford second, and Walkridge third. For the best braided rug farmers captured first honours, Chatham second and Quinte third. Quinte Hub was fortunate and got a first for the finest booked mat, Hillier was second and Quinte third. In the work apron department Plainfield gathered first honours, Canifton second, Wicket third and Brighton Branch third. River Valley was first in the crest work, Arena, on second and Quinte third. Handhemmed handkerchiefs came in for considerable interest and River Valley was first in this department, too. Hillier was second and Wooler third.

Shortly after four o'clock the meeting adjourned and a banquet was held in the Queen's hotel. Listed below are three of the more important addresses of the afternoon:

Mrs. C. A. Bleeker

When I was notified from Mr. Putman's office in August last that I had been named as Chairman of Standing Committee on Canadian Industries, I expected, or rather I hoped that some basis for my report on this subject would be forthcoming, long before the Convention date, from the branch officers through the District officers, as that was the plan suggested when these various committees were decided on.

But, up to the present, only two District Secretaries have written me, one, North Hastings, to say that the Branches in that district had nothing to report. Mrs. J. B. Morgan, of East Northumberland wrote that two branches in that district had reported papers bearing on that subject, Brighton branch had a paper on "Thrift" which dealt with the buying of food, vegetables and fruits raised at home, giving as reasons, 1. They are cheaper. 2. They are more nutritive than hot house grown and 3rd because we are saving our money in our own country.

Castleton Branch had a paper on "Women's duty as a citizen with a Roll Call on "Made-in Canada products What and where?

Stirling Branch reported that they had no papers relating to Canadian Industries.

Agriculture First

I was assured by Miss Guest, in conversation with her not long ago, that a five minutes report was all that would be allowed the Chairman of standing Committees. One cannot go very far afield in five minutes-and I think I still have a few left in which to take a brief glance at the subject in general and especially in our own sub-division No. 4 In this sub-division composed of the three Counties—Hastings, Prince Edward and Northumberland, we find the chief industry Agriculture, but this is found in many different phases besides the raising of the different grains. Our factories and creameries are noted for the extent and value of their output which grades very high on the market. Canning factories take care of the surplus fruit and vegetables raised by the market gardeners and farmers, poultry farmers and beekeeping have developed into profitable occupations. Fur farming is beginning to be known as a good investment. The diversity of physical features which these counties show provides an equal diversity in industries. The rolling farm lands of southern sections give us the most of our farm products apples and small fruits, cherries, etc., and the rock and less cultivated sections of the north still furnish a considerable supply of forest products, lumber pulp-wood, etc. The Bay of Quinte has a rich deposit of Madoc where most of the high grade white talc used on this continent is found.

Bancroft supplied a beautiful varie ty of marble and Deloro Smelting and Coe Hill has a red granite suitable for building stone and other purposes.

At Deloro the Smelting and Refining Co. turn out many kinds of ore and many by products of silver ore, such as Nickel, Cobalt, Arsenic, Antimonie and Cobalt, and a wonderful metal called stellite has been manufactured there.

At Point Ann there are Cement Works and our limestone quarries giving stone is shipped from quarries and gravel for ballast and road build ing.

Our fishing industry is worth mentioning as we have one of the best sporting picture industry located at Trenton.

In what way are we to form any alliance between this Committee and the Institutes, and what can we as Institute members. Mainly by our individual efforts to buy made-in-Canada goods and by educating the districts wherever and whenever possible.

Many of us can remember when there was some mysterious charm about the word "imported". Imported goods were supposed to be so much better than the home made article. American cotton, ginghams, shoes etc were preferred and sought after, but this view-point is changing. There were the days of what one writer call ed our "colonial inferiority" but we are glad to say that those days are passing or have already gone. One product after another, especially in many lines, with the best of reputation.

Not long ago I was reading an account of some of the new articles put out by the furniture makers of Galt and Kitchener, and the fact that manufacturers of furniture in Grand Rapids, Mich., had come to these factories for new ideas and patterns. Significant, Grand Rapids having long been considered the leading furniture making city on the continent.

In reading the account of the pulp wood industry now flourishing in Canada and in importance of all Canadian exports, wheat, of course, coming first, we find that strides have been taken also by Canadian manufacturers. The story of "Celanese" or fibre silk, reads like a romance and our country is fortunate in its production.

This applies to our newspapers and magazines. Increase their subscription lists, double them, multiply them four or five times over (even then they would not equal the issues of some American productions) and our Canadian born writers, artists and illustrators will not have to cross the line to earn a livelihood as so many of them have done.

The more we patronize our own industries the better able our manufacturers will be to employ better craftsmen, better designers more skilled workmen and to give us better products.

Canada is coming into her own. There is a feeling of optimism in the air, a looking forward to greater expansion. Our untouched sources of wealth in lands, in mines and forest, are a guarantee that this feeling is no illusion.

When Premier King returned from Europe a short time ago he is reported as saying that we are now recognized as holding a very high place in the esteem of the various countries he visited. At the meeting of the League of Nations the North American continent would have been unrepresented but for Canada.

After the lapse of ten years we know that the beginning of this esteem and record was earned by our men in France and Flanders. Our growth as a nation within an Empire is shown by the wonderful expansion of our industries and the extent and value of our exports.

At the Nov. meeting of Marmora Branch Institute, held just before Armistice Day, the roll call was "What I have to be most thankful for". This was answered by one member in this way. In this day and age, I am very thankful that I am a Canadian.

Mrs. J. Pargay.

East Hastings— Health topics have been used in programmes and for roll call. Dr. Helen McMurchy's little blue books and other bulletins and literature from the department have been distributed; first aid kits graced branch tables at a meeting. One branch has installed a drinking fountain and have also a domestic lecture course in home economics, the first and last had an address by a local doctor on "What to do in emergencies" until the doctor can arrive. Another branch had the water in the wells in their community tested and are having an address by a doctor during the year. In another branch a paper was given by a nurse on "The care of the Baby." Health questions were discussed and sick members remembered.

North Hastings — Interesting and practical addresses were given on Child Welfare, Good Health, Home Nursing of the Sick, and may suggestions for simple home remedies. An excellent paper on "Colitis" and ways of preventing. These papers and addresses were for the most part given by a doctor or a nurse. Contributions were made to Red Cross Hospitals and literature and bulletins distributed, not only at meetings, but the Canadian Mothers' Book was sent to all young mothers in the district.

First Aid Kits

West Hastings— First Aid kits have been placed in nearly all the schools in the district and in some, handkerchiefs and towels, as well. Several domestic science courses in nursing and first aid were held. Grants were made to the Red Cross, and cottage hospitals, Tuberculosis bulletins and others dealing with the food values of various dairy products have been studied. Roll calls in may health subjects have been used, an outstanding one being "Ways of Helping Children From Habits of Health." Addresses and papers were on various subjects, such as "The Child and the Parent," "Health Hints and Right Living," "The Food We Eat," and "How to Live to Be 100 Years."

Prince Edward — The placing of First Aid kits in the schools has been very general. Drinking fountains and sanitary conveniences have also been supplied. Courses in nursing and first aid held in several branches—in one instance the only source of the course has been the training of two girls in the nursing profession. One branch reports a health meeting when two papers were given on: "Recreation, Amusement" and "Prevention of Epidemics." The program also included: "Bandaging" in which bandaging was demonstrated by a nurse. Other papers and addresses were given on Child Welfare, Nutritive Value of Vegetables, Colds and Influenza, and Abuses. Our branch paid for caring for a sick woman. Another branch is so fortunate as to have five ex-nurses among them. This same branch had a sewing class for children and another worker in tubercular research work. In the district following, an effort is being made for the appointment of a General Public Health Nurse. The Institutes are also sponsoring by the Kiwanis Club of Picton and at the last district executive of the Women's Institutes, a meeting favoring the appointment, was carried.

Health Days

West Northumberland— During the past year a Health Day has been observed in nearly every branch in Women's Institutes district, and in every case an address given by a Medical Health Officer or a local doctor on such subjects as communicable diseases, cancer, and health dou'ts. One branch held a Health clinic for all children of school age, the members taking them to Cobourg during the holidays for the very fifty percent of them found defective. Many of the work. Another branch supplied two schools with toilet necessaries and spent over $20.00 for sick in the community. Most of the branches gave grants for cancer, aid of a doctor and nurse, and sent out literature freely.

East Northumberland — Also has a splendid record for health work. One branch had Dr. Sutton address them on "Pre-Natal Care," "Infant Mortality" and "Communicable Diseases; a local doctor on "The Fundamental Processes of the Mind," and a trained nurse talked to them on "First Aid," a question follows. This branch has one meeting a year, distinctly a health meeting and in addition work is as much possible at other meetings. A second branch has dental inspection for their school, of which they are six with nearly 200 pupils. Of this number only twenty had perfect teeth. A deputation waited on the Village to supply repaid for trouble and expense after so many boys and girls were benefitted." Another branch reports a Babies' Day with twenty-three present. The best baby under one year being given a prize, and a nurse giving a talk on babies. This branch also had a Health Day when they had a talk on "Health" and an exhibit of a "Health House and a Danger House." Their roll call being the medical value of vegetables. Health House and Danger House: two small houses on one, things we should eat; on the other, things we should not. Made by the secretary, Castleton, W. I.

Red Cross Day

Another branch reports a Red Cross Day with a paper on that work and a demonstration by a nurse on applying bandages. Roll-call. What to do in Emergencies.

It is apparent that throughout the entire convention area, more or less health work has been done, the branches in some of the districts having specializing along this line. Everywhere grants have been made to Red Cross Outpost Hospitals and support given to local institutions. At least health bulletins and literature from both the provincial and federal departments of health, Dr. Helen McMurchy's wonderful little Blue Books and the Canadian Mothers' Book, have been freely distributed by practically every branch in the area. While these things in themselves may not seem great, they have their place in building up better homes and better country.

Mrs. L. Isaac

It gives me great pleasure to present the Report on Agriculture for Subdivision No. 4 at this our Third Convention being held here in Belleville.

I wish to congratulate one and all of the branches for their splendid response along Agricultural work. We are delighted to note from reports received from our branches that the year just passed has been a very busy and profitable one along agricultural lines.

We find our members are occupied in dairying, poultry, market, gardening, bee-keeping, cultivating flowers etc. In fact, assisting in every possible manner to make Agriculture a successful profession.

Their interest particularly has been directed to (1) School and Fall Fairs, (2) Marketing, (3) Poultry, (4) Beautifying of Community Centres.

The splendid interest shown in School Fairs by our Branches deserves special mention. This healthy competition is a wonderful factor toward training boys and girls. Production and pride in exhibiting what has been produced, are very important items in a successful school fair."

Children are always pleased when the parents' interest is with them and pride in their flowers and vegetables should always be encouraged.

There has been no special feature submitted this year regarding School Fairs other than donations of money being sent in to the Agricultural Representative with the exception of two branches reporting that they held booths to raise money and also to make the School Fair more interesting for the people.

Several branches report haying given donations to Fall Fairs in Women's Work and to Children's School Work.

Prince Edward County and Stirling Branch merit special mention regarding their efforts concerning the Fall Fair. Prince Edward County had an "Exhibit Booth" with each of its twelve branches making an entry of such things as; Canned meats and vegetables; fruit and fruit products; loan basket, Baby's Layette and basket, jams, jellies, rugs, labor savers things made from flour sacks, etc. Just note this was just an exhibit no prizes were given. Ought we not to show how worth while W. I. are and the phamphlets available for every woman's need—free.

A Babies Booth

Stirling W. I. Institute as well as this similar exhibit also conducted and supervised the "Babies Booth." Truly such efforts will not have been in vain.

One branch I believe Springbrook, reports the value of expense of a visit to Belleville where they won such distinction in the judging competition as to entitle them to attend Toronto.

We have reports this year on the increased interest shown in poultry raising. Several branches report Poultry Lectures, Demonstrations, Roll Calls on Discussions on Poultry Raising, reports from the Poultry Congress held at Ottawa last Dec.

Several branches report a systematic study of Agricultural problems at every meeting by having discussions relating to their particular locality. Some of these I would like to name for the benefit of other branches.

Papers—Care of Bulbs, Bush Culture, Planning a Perennial Border, Growing Asparagus, Opening Our Eyes to the Wonders of Nature, Trees and Home Beautification. A demonstration on Arrangement of Flowers for the various purposes.

Although the home community must always remain the training ground for the majority of us who take up Agriculture as a life work, still all the outside helps available should be taken advantage of and should ever receive the heartiest support of all our branches. Our Government Departments prepare all kinds of bulletins giving accurate knowledge obtained from long experiments and research and these may be had for the asking, yet they are often sent us without asking, but they are laid aside unread and our farms and gardens worked in the same old way, producing only poverty. This is not enough to cover expenses. I believe there are several couples, full of interest in the above named every branch of Agriculture, here this after noon and do let us take advantage of these helps for the betterment of Agricultural Ontario.

Mrs. Isaacs Beautiful

Many reports indicate work done in the cleaning up and care of neglected cemeteries and in exchanging plants and seeds.

There has been nothing in the rut of the usual in connection any efforts reporting "Home Beautification", plan we ladies not put forth an effort to take an interest in our own particular community for nicer page homes. Might I suggest, prizes given for neatness of lawns and flowers. Now by this I do not mean prizes for the most elaborate lawns and gorgeous flowers but just for the simple average farm home. Much can be done along this line.

It is very evident whether it be a branch of poultry horticultural or dairying, Women's desire to succeed has been the road to success. In order to encourage agriculture, each year bring one new one to use, may we not only succeed but prosper.

Hydro-Electric development in Canada represents a total investment estimated at over $875,000,000 while her water-power development approximates 7,000,000 h. p. which represents only 11% of the total hydro-electric resources of Canada.

This is Number Three of a series of advertisements dealing with Canada's leading industries.

The Light and Power Companies of Canada

AMONG the great and useful industries of Canada are her Light and Power Companies, operating in all places where man has advanced far enough to utilize modern conveniences.

Power generated at the falls is of no use to the ultimate consumer until it has been relayed to transforming stations and distributed in such a manner as to be usable by factory or home in any quantity desired; enough to run a loom, or heat a curling iron.

In spite of the great amount of this equipment, the cost to the individual is insignificant compared to the service performed, for the presence in the house of the electric wire means not only light but also the ability to use all modern electrical equipment.

From Halifax to Vancouver, our Light and Power companies are operating day and night for the benefit of the public.

The Northern Electric Company wishes to pay tribute to the tireless and unremitting efforts of our great utility companies to aid and encourage better living conditions throughout the Dominion.

TO-DAY'S THOUGHT

The pain of dispute exceeds by much its utility. All disputation makes the mind deaf; and when people are deaf I am dumb.—Joubert.

USE GULF STREAM TO WARM THE BAY

An ingenious theory is expounded by Mr. John I. N. Bolton in a letter to the Mail and Empire to account for the open water in Hudson Bay. Mr. Bolton has already suggested that the current of water mingling with the Greenland current and relating its temperature was an inflow from the warm Gulf stream. It has been observed that ice coming from Davis Strait is carried through the Hudson Strait as far as Smith's Inlet. Mr. Bolton points out that if the water during the summer reaching the one-thousandth part of one degree above freezing the strait and bay will open for navigation. If the Gulf Stream could be coaxed in any way to contribute a little more of its flow to the Strait and Bay the question of all the year-round navigation would be solved for the new port at Churchill and all the interior traffic that would depend upon it.

AVIATION NEW LINK TO JOIN UP EMPIRE

Development of commercial aviation in this Dominion is being watched with the keenest interest in the Mother Country. "In Canada new lines are steadily being opened up and a very large amount of flying has been carried out on such productive enterprises as air survey and forest protection," says Sir Samuel Hoare, British secretary of state for air, in a special section of the Empire Mail devoted to a review of the progress of aviation in all branches of aeronautics in the Empire during the last ten years.

Major O. O. Villiers, of the department of civil aviation, also refers to Canada's increasingly aggressive aviation policy, praising the effort to meet the special policy, praising the effort to meet the special flying needs of the Dominion. Not only air survey and forest protection, but the use of aircraft in connection with mining engineering and prospecting; the air mail service now being established, and the development of passenger and freight services generally receive attention. "By reason of her proximity to the U.S.A." says Major Villiers, "Canada will doubtless play an important part in connection with international air lines. The United States is now considering the creation of an aerial route beginning in Canada and running right down to the Central and South American republicans."

Great strides have been made in Great Britain in the exploitation of air passenger and commercial services, but in spite of this, what has already been accomplished is regarded as insignificant compared with what remains to be done. The ambition is to form imperial air links, so that it will be possible to travel from point to point throughout the Empire speedily and in British machines. The government is being called upon to spend much more lavishly than ever on these projects, if the lead is not taken by citizens of the Empire, it is regarded as certain that foreigners will step in and develop the imperial air services.

The record of accomplishment is, however, no mean one. Civil aviation dates from 1919, when the London-Paris and London-Brussels routes were organized in the course of the next few years and in 1924 all these were amalgamated into Imperial Airways Ltd.—a corporation which, it is justly claimed, "sets a standard for commercial aviation throughout the world." In 1919 the total mileage flown by British commercial plane was 104,000; in 1927 it was 760,000. British aircraft on commercial services have flown a distance of 6,040,000 miles in the period May, 1919 to 1927.

Climate being standard at a remote distance from the Mother Country, dividing from it by the Atlantic ocean, presents obvious difficulties to the establishment of inter-imperial air services. Considerable attention is given to the use of Airships in this connection. These huge dirigibles have a capacity of about five millionouble feet of gas, and in view of the recently expressed opinions of Dr. Eckener, based on his experience in piloting the Graf Zeppelin from Germany to New York and back, this larger capacity should prove of great importance.

These British airships have been designed specially for commercial purposes, and, remarks Major Villiers, "it needs little imagination to picture the tremendous scope which such craft would have on world-routes, working in conjunction with heavier-than-air craft serving feeder routes. They will help to link up the most remote parts of the Empire with the Mother Coun try, and will provide another incentive to the imagination of local air services." In the meantime, it is the general hope that the dominions will realize the importance of extending their services by every means in their power, and so promote the growth of Empire aviation in general.

PASSING YEARS
(From the Intelligencer of this day 30 years ago)

Trenton—The Grand Trunk train which left, Montreal for the West on Monday evening at 8 o'clock met with a terrible disaster at Murray Hill, a couple of miles east of this town at 4 o'clock in the morning, when the express crashed headlong into an eastbound freight which was heavily loaded.

Mr. Stephen Johnson left the city this morning for Toronto where he will be employed at the C.P.R. yards

Mrs. (Rev.) Ferguson, who has been visiting friends in Brockville for some weeks returned to the city yesterday.

Messrs C. L. Clarke, of the Toronto Mail and Empire, and P. D. Jacobs, of the World were in the city last night gathering material for a report of the wreck for their papers.

Mr. A. W. Vermilyea is conducting successful revival meetings every night at the City Mission.

OTHER MEN'S THOUGHTS

A great number of girls who close their eyes when they are being kissed, open them wide if they see someone else being kissed.—Sarnia Canadian-Observer.

A husband is a handy thing to have around the house; not only is he welcome on pay day, but think of the joy that comes to a woman out in company to point to a man and say "that is my husband." That in itself is worth much. Then, too, the average man is so handy around the house; he has a way of doing things that is almost priceless; he can fix so many things, keep the furnace room so tidy, put up shelves and stuff rags in the broken windows in the kitchen when the cold arrives. It's so nice to have a husband when there is a mysterious noise downstairs late at night.

HAVE YOU HEARD THESE?

Husband—So did a good many more people.

"A prize! What for dear?"

"For natural history. Teacher asked me how many legs an ostrich had and I said three."

"But an ostrich has two legs."

"I know that now mother, but the rest of the class said four, so I was the nearest."

CATHEDRAL TO BE USED AGAIN

Mexicans Will Open Doors of Catholic Church in Mexico City

Mexico City, Mex., (CP)—The Government has promised that when repairs are completed the public again will have access to Mexico City's catholic cathedral, closed for the last two years.

When the federal authorities in 1926 began enforcement of the religious articles of the constitution, and of new regulations promulgated thereunder, the Mexican Episcopate, in protest, ordered the priests to abandon all catholic churches in Mexico. So the huge doors of the cathedral, the centuries old mass of masonry in the capital, were closed.

The government did not relax its interpretation of the constitutional specifications on rights of the church and the priests did not go back to their place where for hundreds of years mass had been said, or to any of the other catholic churches.

Thus, since August 1, 1926, the cathedral occupying a full block approximately on the site where the Aztec formerly offered human sacrifice to their gods stop the pyramidal "teocalli" has been a silent spectator of the controversy centering about catholicism. All other churches in Mexico City are open, but no priests perform services in them.

SONNET
(To the Canadian Northwest)

Spaces of brooding grandeur, vast, unpeopled;
Where the splashy trickle of water or the cry
Of journeying bird clear on the sun-swept sky
Are the sole reminders that movement is not foiled—
You hold the peace, the calm that asks not why.
The truest touches of God, the sense that thrills,
You have the balm for all heart-paining ills,
The strength of your beauty is healing that lingers by.

And I long to be near you in restless times,
To fly to your peace and soothe my bitter crying;
But you are remote, so far from these dull climes,
To reach you I would be swifter than all things flying.
But even as I yearn, and dream of you,
The inward vision sets my pulses [illegible]

ITALIAN ROYALTY POPULAR NO MORE

Illustrating the eclipse of popularity which has overtaken the royalties of Italy, a London correspondent says: "There is no demand now for books about the Italian royal family. People either want, or are forced because of various reasons, to take a much more lively interest in the overshadowing personality of Mussolini. A substantial section of the population is in no mood to read about the King of Italy when it feels that he holds his office on sufferance. Before and during the war postcard photographs of the king and other members of his family were as common to Italy as such things are still common in Great Britain. And there was hardly a household which was not adorned with them or photographs of more impressive dimension. But today there are thousands of Mussolini for every one of the king."

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

When an organization like the Workmen's Compensation Board finds that it is costing them more to take care of a very ordinary ailment than it does for tuberculosis, they naturally want to know more about the cause and treatment of that ailment.

And that ailment is that old condition known as rheumatism, often called arthritis.

In Berlin there were three times as many patients treated for rheumatism as for tuberculosis, and really about eight times as many cases. In fact four hospitals there are now taking care of these rheumatic cases only.

In London the Red Cross Society held some clinics in order to awaken interest in this ailment that is causing so much loss of time to workmen, aside from the suffering endured. Their idea was to demonstrate the importance of early care of the rheumatic patient, and the value of the best known forms of treatment.

The ministry of health of Great Britain also called a conference this year to discuss just one subject—rheumatism.

This movement has now spread to the United States and Canada.

Now why all this interest in such an old ailment as rheumatism?

Simply because in former times patients who developed rheumatism restricted to best of the ability of the profession, and if they didn't die of a heart ailment, develop stiff joints, or have repeated attacks, they were just considered "lucky".

Now however it is known that most cases of rheumatism are due to infection from teeth, tonsils, sinuses, gall bladder and intestine, and the removal of these infections will prevent folks from developing rheumatism.

This is one big step.

Further, when the infective sources have been removed, there still remains as you know, the crippling effects in the joints.

These conferences and clinics have been able to show that heat, electricity, X ray, and other forms of treatment are very effective in getting these cases in a condition to go about their daily work.

In a way rheumatism means as much to the health and happiness of the entire community as cancer, heart disease, or tuberculosis.

SCIENTIFIC RADIATOR PROTECTION

Customer: "Why do you bother to display that MAPLE LEAF ANTI-FREEZE sign so prominently?"

Dealer: "Because MAPLE LEAF ANTI-FREEZE and ALCO-METER SERVICE give the only winter protection you can depend upon. When customers see that sign they know that this is one place where their best interests will be looked after."

IT is dangerous to experiment with the cooling system of your car. You may do your car grave harm through being careless about the kind of anti-freeze you buy or the kind of instrument used to test your radiator mixture.

Your car needs SCIENTIFIC RADIATOR PROTECTION and you have the right to expect that your dealer will furnish it. If he does not suggest MAPLE LEAF ANTI-FREEZE and ALCO-METER SERVICE ask for them yourself, by name, and make sure you get them!

MAPLE LEAF ANTI-FREEZE contains nothing to injure any part of the cooling system—is economical—and has years of success behind it.

The Alco-Meter

Winter Service is not complete without MAPLE LEAF ANTI-FREEZE and ALCO-METER SERVICE. Dealers who sell MAPLE LEAF ANTI-FREEZE display the new ALCO-METER SIGN. Look for it—it's your guarantee of winter protection. If you don't see it ask your dealer to put it there or to go to other ones by who does.

Alco-Meter Service is FREE, scientific and dependable. The Alco-Meter is different from hydrometers and all other kinds of testing instruments. It is for use with MAPLE LEAF ANTI-FREEZE only.

Just For The Feminine Reader

BABY NEEDS BOTTLED SUNSHINE

Mothers at the Baby Clinic repeatedly are told by the Victorian Nurse to feed their babies cod liver oil. This is often referred to as "bottled sunshine" and when the cold weather comes as it has come now and, the hours of sunshine are few, baby needs the vital elements contained in the oil. Nothing can replace the sun's rays of course, and baby should be out every day but it is no longer possible to give him sun baths and so he should be treated internally with the cod liver oil to prevent rickets and make sturdy specimens. This has a most obnoxious taste to grown ups but most babies do not seem to mind the flavor and if there is any objection, the oil is often disguised in the bottle feeding or in orange juice, which is a very important addition to baby's menu. It might be wise to warn mothers to use only the pure cod liver oil. Belleville mothers can easily get this as it is made and factured in our own city and indirectly we are helping a home industry. There are products on the market which have a high alcoholic content and drug additions and these do only harm to baby's sensitive stomach.

WOMEN ARE UNPOPULAR AS SPECULATORS

With the general interest taken in the stock market today there comes another grievance of man against woman, this is a miserable and unscrupulous speculator. Surely men have enough things to find fault with without this last addition. It is said that stock brokers' offices that once catered to the feminine customer now receive with alarm her entrance in the door. According to one broker they have absolutely no scruple in requesting a bargain if it works out to their own gain to do so when in a tight corner they use their time-worn weapon — tears. This may be all very well but it is the man's viewpoint. We do not pretend that the average woman, with emphasis on the average, has quite the head for business that a man has. Both natural instinct and training decrees otherwise; it is not her special life work, but it is annoying to hear some man say, when a woman has put through an outstanding business deal, that she "has the head of a man." It is said that women want to make a big killing out of nothing and this falling does not seem to be confined to the feminine element alone. However, taken all in all the men are not a bad lot and despite all the things they say about the women they don't seem to be able to get along without them, so there is some comfort in this.

Advice to Girls
By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I have been going with a boy for four months and like him very much. He has taken no many places and has always shown me a good time. Many times I have entertained him with other friends at my home.

A few weeks ago I entertained my girl friend with her friend as well as my friend at my house. When parting time came I walked to the door, my friend remaining in the room. Having reached the door Sue decided to go back and kiss my friend good night. Now I do not approve of "good night kisses, but decided to think no more of the act. Upon returning to the room Bill said: "Sue didn't kiss me." Since Sue told me that he did.

Now this is my question: What do you think of Sue? Did she show any respect for her friend as well as for me? What do you think of my friend Bill? for telling an untruth.

Jealousy is a terrible thing. How can I overcome this?

MIRIAM JEAN.

MIRIAM JEAN: Perhaps Sue was simply teasing you, my dear, and perhaps, too your friend was right when he denied the kiss. However, why make yourself unhappy over it all? If you are constantly doubting people's word, you are building up a lot of unhappiness for yourself. Have you ever before had occasion to doubt the young man's word? If I were in your place, I should simply ignore the whole happening and if any allusion were made to it, laugh it away. You are not sure Bill was telling an untruth, any more than you are that Sue was telling not honestly, are you? If you had actually seen the happenings, Eurasian ladies inflicted great, if not stunning, I think you should simply take the whole thing as a joke — which I am more than inclined to believe it is.

Some Helpful Hints For Busy Housewives

For those stubborn strains on the mirror or windows use a cork dipped in gasoline.

Find some way of using the left-over fish the next day. It should never be kept longer than that even if it looks all right, as the decay starts close to the bone and no sign may be visible.

WHAT'S NEW

FRENCH HEELS ARE CRITICIZED

Almost On Par With Chinese Bandaged Feet, Say Experts

Toronto, Ont. (C.P.)—French heels worn by stylish women today are almost on a par with the custom of bandaging feet adopted by Chinese women of a generation ago, according to Miss Bernice Chu, who has come from Peking to study public health nursing methods on the western hemisphere, and even a generation ago the Chinese women thought that American and European ladies inflicted great, if not torture when they wore corsets.

Interviewed locally Miss Chu said: "It is cruel and foolish to force the cars to put in jewels for the sake of beauty, and it is just the same with these French heels. Only because of an instinctive idea of beauty they wear those heels which throw the body forward and gradually deform the pelvis. Chinese women do not wear such heels and they do not use as many things on their face. College girls in China do not use powder and rouge to keep their faces pretty, only there is nothing to do but live at home and keep beautiful as many things as the American women do."

Thoroughly modern in her professional knowledge, in her method of study, Miss Chu retains many of the customs of her country. Beneath her tailored chinchilla coat she wears a native Chinese costume, with a long overblouse of silk with wide kimono sleeves and a skirt of figured black velvet. Her hair is not bobbed, but braided tightly over her ears. She wears a bang or "Hu Hae," as the smart set over the forehead is called. When she returns to Peking Miss Chu will wear all her time directing training in health among the children in the school, for she believes that is the best way to teach a nation.

The young Chinese girl has come from the most westerly province of the country, Szechuin, near Thibet, where western civilization and culture has not made a strong foothold. From there she went to school in Pek'ng on a government scholarship. On graduation from Peking Union Medical College, she was awarded a Rockefeller scholarship to study public health nursing methods abroad. Miss Chu spent a year in England, at Bedford College, and then went on to the United States, where she nursed for two months in East Harlem, New York. Toronto is one point of study and then she proceeds to Ch'cago, and throughout the west before leaving again for China to take the directorship of public health nursing in Peking.

Cashmere jersey sweaters and frocks with scarfs to match in warm geometrics and modern colors are a striking new fashion in New York.

The smart woman varies her dinner gown by a wardrobe of little velvet jackets with matching skirts.

Vionnet favors Persian lamb with black coats, and Paris indicates cinnamon brown, red or black as the colors to be shown with them.

The very newest hue featured by Jenny is a dark green especially lovely in velvet and while by daylight it is decidedly dark in tone, yet by artificial light it is invested with mysterious shadows.

RUSSIAN ADMIRAL DIES

Helsingfors, Finland, November 16.—Admiral Oscar Stark, who commanded the Russian navy in the defense of Port Arthur against the Japanese attack in 1904, died today. He was 82 years old.

Gay Adventurers By Mildred Barbour

She brushed a sigh of relief, for just then the lights died down in the house and the curtain rose on the first act of Samson and Delilah. To Sheila it was like the opening chords of the final curtain descended. Constance Harry, the Count, and Aunt Sophia ranged in a line. Monsieur Aris sat and strolled in the foyer with Harry, wide-eyed with delight.

As they formed a fiasure to return to the hotel, Harry teased her about her absorption, but she paid no attention to him.

"Drive along the Champs-Elysees and through the Place de la Concorde," he told the coucher. He was determined to have her to himself as long as possible.

"What's the matter?" he asked as she continued to be silent.

"Nothing. And thinking of music."

"Do you know, Constance," he said, "that you seem sort of changed? Not—not as well, as fascinating as you used to be. More interested in things. In spite of all I fancy business you've been up to since you landed in Paris. What's happened?"

Sheila turned keen to earth with a bang. "Why will I keep forgetting that I must try to act like Constance Kerry?" she asked herself. "It's merely for my fault that my masquerade hasn't been found out."

"Mr. Harry, she said: "I suppose it's because I'm glad to see you and get things sort of straightened out again." That sent Harry to the seventh heaven, and moved him to fresh protestations of devotion, which served to go to Bellefonte and explain the real situation.

Sheila was appalled. "No matter what I say," she reflected, "it seems to be the wrong thing."

She turned to Harry with a look of entreaty. "Please don't even think of that," she implored. "But you can help me through this ordeal. I'm not asking to see me too often. You know, it made the Count very angry to have you about so much, and it doesn't fair to mention the fact to me. It isn't exactly pleasant."

Harry was instantly contrite. "I'll do anything you say, Constance," he declared. "I suppose I'm the one who makes things any harder for you. I'll go back to London and stay there until you send for me. Satisfied?"

Sheila was so touched that she didn't know what to say.

"Now, if I can think up some way of reducing the Count to a state of complete doubting," she reflected, "I will have clear sailing. But how can I do it?"

CHAPTER 23

THREE IS A CROWD

The Baronne de Courcy called on Sheila the following afternoon and took her to tea at a little restaurant near the entrance to the Bois. At Sheila's request, they drove there in a fiacre.

The Baronne shrugged when Sheila made the suggestion. "Such life of me, Constance," he exclaimed, "I can not understand your wanting to ride in one of those stuffy little shortcuts. You, who always wanted to drive at a sixty-mile clip. And the drivers look like pirates, too!"

When they reached the host, Sheila's enthusiasm ran away with her. "Let's drive through, just once," she begged.

The Baronne laughed. "One would think this was your first visit to Paris Constance. Nags saw Harry Edmonds today and Harry said that you had been literally carried away at the opera last night. And now you want an ordinary tourist, in the sight of the Bois."

When they were having tea, and Sheila was eating cakes with a school girl's appetite, the Baronne said:

"What I really wanted to ask about is this—the Count de Bellefonte took me to luncheon, and I must say that he was exceedingly mystified as to why he should be putting himself out to entertain me. But I found out, soon enough. It seems that he had heard about my house party. Of course, he knew I would not invite him, because he has never been in my set exactly. But he seemed to be afraid that Harry Edmonds was going to be one of the guests. That worried him a good bit. When I told him that I knew nothing of Harry's plans, he seemed greatly relieved. And, then he smiled that feline smile of his and said we would probably see each other a lot in the next few weeks, because he will be at Cannes, too, visiting a friend who has a villa there. Now—"

Sheila looked helplessly at her hostess. Her hopes for a little real, quiet were vanishing. And, if the Count followed her to Cannes, heaven knows what Harry would say, not to mention Constance's father, if he should hear of it!

Some way must be found to keep the Count in Paris She wanted to weep with exasperation at the collapse of her plans. With Harry in London, the Count in Paris, and herself in Cannes, she had looked forward to a few peaceful days.

Constance's father was in Sicily, and likely to be there for some little time; Aunt Sophie was in Baden-Baden and unwilling to leave, so Sheila did not have to fear any complications from that quarter, and there remained only the anxiety that she felt because of Constance's failure to communicate with her, or arrive in Paris as per schedule.

Now the Count had destroyed all her chances for a respite. He would again be at her heels, and something unpleasant would be sure to happen.

"And I warn you," the Baronne was saying, "the Carlo, across Bellefonte. Something about a difference of opinion as to a gambling debt. There'll be trouble if they meet. Harry does, can't you just ask the Count to give my place a wide berth; when he comes to Cannes, even though you are a member of my house-party?"

Sheila promised to do her best. Trouble about a gambling debt! That might lead to more unpleasantness. So she said:

"I'll do my best, but you know how restly he loses his temper, and what a scene he can make."

"Don't I, though," sighed the Baronne, rolling his eyes to Heaven. "I was there the day he threw the table overboard from the tender at Cherbourg, just because the man had forgotten to pack his decanter. You know, if Bellefonte isn't living with Madame Lamotte, as everybody says he is your problem, since he seems to have centred his attentions upon you."

"He certainly has," agreed Sheila. "And what am I to do wit him?"

When she returned to the hotel, a corsage bouquet and a note from the Count awaited her. Would she dine with him and go dancing afterward?

"I suppose I must," she groaned. Since I went to bed all the opera with Harry last night."

But she forgot her troubles for a little while in preparing for the evening. It was delightful to be waited upon; to wear a silken negligee, after a bath in delicately perfumed water; to decide what gown to wear.

Pasdeloup shampooed her hair, helped her dress, and laid her evening cloak about her shoulders. "Mademoiselle looks ravishing. The Count will be so proud."

Sheila suddenly remembered the light laugh with which Constance would say, when she was dressing for a party:

"Mademoiselle is as handsome does and what you will do no one can tell."

Every now and then, the comic side of her predicament would appear to attention, and this was one of the times. She laughed until the tears filled her eyes.

"Just goes to show that it doesn't pay to be highbrious, no matter what you're doing," she said. "I always get a good time this evening, even if I do have to put up with the Count's society."

In this cheerful frame of mind, she strolled about the room humming some tune from the opera she had heard the night before, and wondering what was detaining the Count. He was usually prompt to the minute, and he was not worried. In fact this interval of quiet served to heighten the feeling of security and assurance that had come over her.

When the telephone bell rang, she waved Pasdeloute aside and took up the instrument. There was a furious crackling on the wire; then Harry's voice.

"Constance, is that you? I want to see you . . . You're going out? . . . I'm coming down immediately . . . Never mind why. Wait until I come, unless you dare leave the hotel until I see you.

ANTICOSTI IS A BREEDING PLACE

White-Tailed Deer Abound There and Make Their Homes

Montreal Que., (By C.P.)— Anticosti with its vast timber area, is a wonderful breeding place for white-tailed deer which, according to, J. H. Ahlstead have increased from about 300 couples when first planted, in 1897-98 to about 500000 at the present time. The original deer were imported from Virginia. Deer meat is an important item in the food provided for the people of the settlements and logging districts of Anticosti, almost 1000 being killed every year for immediate consumption.

Mr. Vallegette recently addressed the Engineering Institute of Canada here on various phases of the island of Anticosti. Referring to other game on the island, Mr. Valiquette said that a heard of reindeer and a pair of elk were imported to the island a few years ago and that these animals appear to be thriving at the present time. Wild fowl were said to be in abundance in the migrating season, while partridges were reported to be increasing in numbers. Fox, said beaver are plentiful on the island both having multiplied rapidly. The coast waters abound in fish.

The chief natural resources of Anticosti are timber, farming fur, fish and game, of which only timber and fur are being exploited by the present owners of the island. The remaining resources are being developed on a small scale, sufficient to meet the local needs. In the timber area it is estimated there are 14,000,000 cords of standing timber, of which about 40 percent are spruce and 60 percent balsam—sufficient raw material to manufacture about 11,000,000 tons of newsprint.

Anticosti which is in the Gulf of St. Lawrence was discovered by Jacques Cartier on August 10, 1534, when the island was ceded by the King of France to Louis Jolliet, his hydrographer. It was bought by Sir Hugh E. E. A. Menier, of Paris in 1895 for $125,000 and colonization and industrial development was begun. It came into the hands of its present owners, the Anticosti Corporation, in 1926. The Corporation is controlled jointly by three companies: The Wayagamack Pulp and Paper Company, the St. Maurice Valley Corporation, and the Port Alfred Pulp and Paper Corporation.

CENTRAL SQUAD HAS GOOD REST

From Ontario football men headquarters last night it was announced that the University of Toronto Schools team will meet the Vaughan Road Collegiate here Nov. 24 in a sudden-death game at the University of Toronto stadium and if Friday's aggregation wins it will likely play home-and-home games against the eastern winners—Ottawa, Peterboro or Lindsay.

Hamilton Collegiate Institute's high by rated aggregation will be sent against the Toronto school, titleholders and the survivors of the round will meet the Eastern Ontario representatives. H. C. I. is regarded as the team to defeat for the title. They have been capably coached by Sam Manson, who has had his proteges out for morning and afternoon workouts during the last six weeks.

The Hamiltonians are inclined to believe that they will receive their strongest opposition from the Toronto school champions, and they are convinced that Bloor C. I. will be their opponents. U. T. S., for the first time in years, is not feared by H. C. I.

Oshawa and London will decide the intermediate championship, a sudden-death game at London next Saturday, Oshawa having tossed and lost. This is a great year for the forest city "gridders," because the home grounds will give them an advantage. It, however, should be one of the best intermediate struggles in a long time. The teams are well matched and capably handled by Alex Park, Oshawa, captain, and Joe Cook, London, field leader.

WANT MORE LIFE TITLES IN BRITAIN

London, Eng., (By C. P.)— A suggestion that the personnel of the House of Lords should be strengthened by a more frequent use of His Majesty's prerogative to create life peerages, was submitted by Rt. Hon. L. C. Amery, Secretary for the Dominions, speaking at Birmingham, "To-day the chamber can exercise successfully the functions of an Imperial Advisory Council whose personnel is limited to those who are ready to accept an hereditary peerage," declared Mr. Amery.

"There are plenty of men in this country," he added, "whose experience in politics, in local government in the trade union world in administration overseas qualify them in every way for membership of the Second Chamber to whom it would be an intolerable embarrassment that they and their families should be saddled with an hereditary dignity."

Last year was a record one for visitors to the London Zoo; 2,154,208 people passed the turnstiles.

Why must reading glasses be changed about every two years?

Because the eyes steadily age from year to year.

Reading with too weak lenses may result in strain?

Yes, there is a recognized strength of lense for every patient at a given age. Any strength of lense may help but if too weak they will not help enough.

Reading glasses should not be chosen by the patient?

No. Harm may be done the eyes by wearing an improper correction.

WHEN AND HOW TO MAKE SURFACE DRAINS

(Experimental Farms Note)

The purpose of this article is to suggest ways and means of removing surface water from low lying areas during the autumn and spring, so that ordinary farm operations can be carried on. Experience has shown that the time that the higher areas in the same field are ready for spring work. Many articles and bulletins have been written concerning open ditches and underdrainage for farm lands. These do not usually apply where surface drainage is required and can be used on hundreds of farms, where other methods are expensive and sometimes unnecessary.

The first and simplest method of making a surface drain, is to remove standing and free water from a low area in a field, is to open a furrow with a plow along the lowest contour of the area in the autumn, to a point or natural watercourse, make sure that the water can get away through some outlet. This can be done, not only in the cultivated fields, but even in the meadows if the sod be rolled back again before the grass starts in the spring.

Another method of surface draining is accomplished by ribbing up the land in the late autumn along the natural contours and then lead the water from these by a plow furrow to a natural or art ficial outlet.

The third and more permanent method of surface draining is that of plowing the low areas in narrow lands towards the same crowns. The dead furrows should lead to natural outlets or artificial ditches. This method is very common in the Province of Quebec and Ontario, and could be used to advantage on many farms in the Maritime Provinces.

OYSTER IS NOT DISEASED NOW

Treat Them By A Special And New Scientific Method

Chicago.—You may order oysters safely now in any hotel or restaurant, and know that you will be entirely food that 's free from disease germs, William F. Wells announced at a meeting of the American Public Health association.

Methods that are used to secure pure water and milk are being applied to oysters, on a large scale, so a safe product is now available commercially. In fact, one quarter million bushels of oysters are be ng so treated every year in New York State.

Chlorination, a method used very generally for purifying water applies. is now being used for oysters. The outbreak of typhoid fever in many cities a few years ago, which was traced to oysters, brought about an intensive study of shellfish both by the states in which the food is produce l and by the federal government. A result of this study has been the startling discovery that the old test for the number of germs in the oyster is not reliable. This point was discussed by R. E. Tarbett, sanitary engineer of the United States public health service, and Abel Wolman chief engineer of the Maryland state board of health.

A "roughometer," a device with which the irregularities in roads are measured, and a traffic flow recorder, used to record the speed of a vehicle at any instant, have been perfected by the bureau of public roads.

Instead of limiting racing cars to total piston displacement, a proposal has been made to limit them to the use of gasoline and oil. The limit would be 200 pounds of fuel to every 62 miles, regardless of piston displacement.

PREMIER IS NOT ABLE TO OPEN SCHOOL

New Rotary Club Was Inaugurated At Campbellford Last Evening

DISTRICT ROTARIANS GATHERED FOR ORGANIZATION OF NEW CLUB

Campbellford Business United for Community Service

THE ENTERTAINMENT

"Mack" Robertson Presided as Chairman of Inaugural Meeting

The town of Campbellford is now definitely on the Rotary map of Ontario, for last night the new club officially came into existence with a membership of twenty-five of the successful merchants in that town. The officers of the new organization will be: Dr. Bruce Longmore, president; Alex McColl, Barrister, vice-president; Edgar Dolman, merchant, secretary-treasurer, and Harold Carr, creamery business, and E. Brunnelle, factory manager, directors.

Perhaps the biggest event ever seen in Campbellford was held when contingents from Lindsay, Peterboro, Port Hope, Cobourg, Trenton, Belleville and Napanee Rotary Clubs were present for the inauguration of the new organization. As the Belleville Club had the work of organization under its charge, to this Club fell the responsibility of conducting last night's meeting, and Mr. Mackenzie Robertson, president of the Belleville Rotary Club, was chairman over the meeting, master of ceremonies and toast master.

The community singing was led by Mr. Sanford Burrows with Mr. Leo Riggs at the piano, and vocal numbers contributed by Messrs S. Burrows, Jack Thompson, Beverly George, of Port Hope, Jimmie Mackie, of Lindsay, and Al. Stillman.

The speaker of the evening was Mr. E. N. Baker, who gave a most inspiring address, and Mr. C. M. Reid delighted the gathering with his many famous fish story of Noah, Jonah and Captain John Smith."

Brief addresses of a congratulatory character were also delivered by the presidents, or their representatives, from the other clubs present. A much appreciated feature of the even ing was the presence of Mr. A. B. Collins, who came to the ceremony to carry the congratulations of the Belleville Kiwanis to the new club. Mr. Charles Dolah gave one of his humorous addresses, outdoing himself in this regard.

There were about ninety-seven guests present and the ladies of St. Parish Guild prepared the supper, which was held in the Parish Hall. The initial meeting of the Campbellford club will be held on Friday, November 23rd, but it is expected that the regular weekly meetings will be held on Thursdays thereafter.

LABRADOR WILL NEVER BE SOLD

No Possibility of Selling Any Part to United States

St. John's, Nfld., Nov. 17.—Sir Richard Squires, whose party was recently returned to power in Newfoundland, regards as entirely absurd, the suggestion that any portion of Labrador, under Newfoundland jurisdiction, would be transferred to the United States.

"American capital would have expectly the same opportunity of securing timber, water-power and mineral rights as those of us Canadian, Englishman or other capital," said Sir Richard "but these rights would be under the control of the Union Jack. No individual person or company shall have a monopoly of the vast resources, the very best possible shall be secured for Newfoundland."

BULL DOG ATTACKS MAN ENTERING HOUSE

Ottawa, Ont., Nov. 17.—Brought to the hospital last night following a fight with an enraged bull dog, the condition of Albert Marleau showed little change today. The man's flesh had been badly torn and he suffered from shock. Neighbors heard the noise in the Marleau home last night and on entering the house, found the injured man lying on the floor while the dog chewed his arm.

SHOT LARGE EAGLE

Bird Had a Wing Spread of Well Over Seven Feet

Lindsay, Nov. 17.—D. E. Fisher, who lives about eight miles west of Lindsay, is proudly exhibiting a large eagle which he killed yesterday. This bird has a wing spread of over seven feet, and weighs over ten pounds. Mr. Fisher says that he saw it bothering chickens on the previous day, and that he set a trap with meat-rat trap in his chicken pen.

BANDITS GIVEN STIFF SENTENCE

Three Get Fifteen Years and the Fourth Just Ten Years

Toronto, Nov. 17.—In a courtroom crowded to capacity, sentence was pronounced by Mr. Justice Wright in a yesterday afternoon on the four men who had been convicted of taking active part in the Union Station mail robbery of June 11, and on a man and a woman who admitted being rec ivers.

For Findlay McLeod, Sr., Jack Sullivan and Findlay McLeod, Jr., who had been tried and convicted during the past two weeks on armed robbery charges, the sentence is to be fifteen years in the penitentiary. Roy Bowen, the diminutive Windsor truck driver who was tried this week and convicted less than an hour before he was sentenced, is to serve ten years. Bowen alone of the four, has never before been in the penitentiary, and his sentence was accordingly lighter although he was convicted on the same charges as the others.

Suspend Sentence

Alex. McLeod, who received some of the stolen money from his brother Findlay and, helped the latter bury some at the rear of 40 Laing S.reet, Toronto, was given suspended sentence. Similar leniency was shown Mrs. Frances Bowen, wife of Bill Bowen, who took some money from her brother-in-law, Ray Sexton.

RAIN AFFECTED LOCAL MARKET

Slim Attendance of Buyers and Vendors This Morning

The gloomy weather must have affected the market this morning for there was a poor showing with no particularly low prices. There was not much change in the price of vegetables with cabbage selling at ten cents, turnips at thirty cents the peck, carrots forty cents a peck, parsnips the same price, onions twenty cents a peck and potatoes twenty-five cents a peck, or $1.25 a bag.

There were few apples. Spies were selling for sixty cents a peck, and Wealthies for the same price, and there were about the only two varieties extensively offered. Pears were selling for forty cents a peck.

Eggs have not come down in price as yet and some were selling for fifty cents a dozen. Butter, too is still fifty cents per pound. Chickens main tained about the same average price anywhere from seventy-five cents each upwards.

MILLION DOLLARS' DAMAGE

Kingston, Jamaica, Nov. 17.—Estimates today of the damage done by the storm which swept over the island placed the loss at $1,000,000. Banana trees suffered especially.

Check Up On All Radio Messages Sent Night Of "Vestris" Disaster

Washington, Nov. 17.—In an effort to determine whether distress signals were broad cast by the "Vestris" and then cancelled on the night before the vessel sank, the Navy Department has ordered radio stations along the Atlantic coast and ships in nearby waters to report all messages received in connection with the disaster.

No such message was received here it was announced, but it was thought if a message was broadcast, it might have been picked up at other points. Reports that the Vestris had asked for aid and then cancelled the request were brought ashore by survivors.

LISTED AS KILLED

John Allen
formerly of the 2nd Battalion, C.F.E., who was discovered on Armistice Day that his name appears on the newly erected war memorial in Confederation Square, Belleville, Ont., among those the soldiers who had made the supreme sacrifice. Sergeant Allen was one of the first Peterboro men to enlist. He returnde home in 1918 and cannot understand how he was listed as killed.

WALKED TO OLD HOME FOR DEED

Gladys Brotherston Ended Life For Unknown Reason—No Inquest

Kirkland, Nov. 17. — Stumbling through the night for three miles to take a last look at the home of her birth, 17-year-old Gladys Brotherston then lay down on the ground and pressed the trigger that sent a .32 calibre bullet through her brain.

Her body, lying face down, thumb still upon the trigger and the rifle still tight in her death clasp, was found around noon yesterday, after a six-day search which had been carried on since her disappearance one week ago. It was discovered in the swamp about 200 yards behind the house in which she was born.

No Explanation

Only surmise can attempt to explain the reason for her action. She left no note or explanation of any kind. Attractive, educated, with resources of mind and music, and the companionship of friends, her fatal despondency will remain one of the mysteries of this lake and river country.

Her appearance when found did not suggest that she had gone forth into the night, in any hysteria. She had dressed herself warmly, even to putting on rubbers over her Oxfords and to binding out a pair of thick knit gloves She had evidently moved, too, with a fixity of purpose towards her old home, for medical examination fixed the time of her death at late Friday night, only a short time after she disappeared.

No Inquest

There will be no inquest. Dr. W. C. Collison, of Lindsay, the district coroner, came and viewed the body as it was found. He pronounced the case to be evidently one of suicide, and decided that an investigation was unnecessary.

A medical examination of the body later disposed of any possible suspicion of assault.

FOUR IN HOSPITAL FOLLOWING CRASH

Lindsay, Nov. 17.—Two women and two men are in the Ross Memorial Hospital suffering from injuries and shock sustained in an automobile accident on the Cobourg highway late last night. The injured are: Lil Corderey, 114 Bond Street, Toronto; Gladys Godfrey, of Pefferlaw; Stanley James, 1000 Queen Street east, Toronto; Alfred Wesley, of Wilfrid, Ont.

As they were rounding the curve at Omemee Corner, about two miles west of this town, the car in some manner got out of control, mounted the high outer edge of the curve and shot over the bank.

ROTARY CLUB TO SPONSOR REVUE

Rehearsals For Show Will Begin on Monday Night

CAST OF 200

Captain Eddy, of New York, Will Stage Benefit Show

Simultaneously with the announcement that the auditorium in the new Collegiate Institute could be used for a show, was announced today that a Rotarian Revue would be sponsored by that club, with a cast that has never before been equalled in Belleville.

Two hundred young men and women of Belleville will make up the cast of this revue which will be in the vaudeville manner, and a riot of color, rather on the idea of a musical comedy with good talent, fine production, and a slight theme running throughout the production.

Captain Eddy of New York city has been engaged to stage the show and he arrives in Belleville on Thursday last and will be joined by his daughter within a day or so, who will assist him in the production. Captain Eddy was known through Mr. Leo Rings, whose daughter studied under the Captain in New York.

Captain Eddy has staged hundreds of such productions and with the talent in Belleville, should put on one of the best, if not the best, show that has ever been seen in this city. Rehearsals will begin promptly on Monday night, and it was announced by Rotarian Scott, secretary of the local club, that the organization is complete and ready to start.

The show itself will be put on for five nights in the new auditorium, starting Tuesday, December 4th and finishing Saturday night, December 8th. It is expected that the Rotarria Revue will surpass the last production put on by this club about four years ago. The money that is gained will be used for crippled children work and other charitable purposes.

CHEVROLET WILL BE SIX CYLINDER SOON

Detroit, Nov 17—Chevrolet has made radical jump upward into the six cylinder line, keeping practically within the present price range of its present four cylinder line, which it will now discontinue.

POSSE LOCATED AGED WANDERER

Marmora Residents Combed North Country for Ben Osborne

Twenty-four hours after he had mysteriously disappeared from his home near Marmora, Mr. Ben Osborne, 65 year old farmer, was discovered late yesterday afternoon wandering along the road about three-quarters of a mile from the town of Marmora.

The strange disappearance of the elderly man on Thursday was the occasion of a wide search by a great part of the townspeople of Marmora; all classes of citizens joined in the manhunt, including students of the continuation school, who scoured the country without avail for a day and a night. Discovery of the missing man was finally made by Mr. Frank James of Marmora, and no explanation has yet been offered by the wanderer for his absence. As far as can be learned he had never previously suffered from amnesia, and there seems to be no accounting for the man's strange choice of a lonely roadside and the chill November air in preference to the warmth and comfort of his home.

Provincial police of this city journeyed to Marora and assisted in search yesterday.

FORMER EDITOR IS TO ADDRESS ROTARY

Louis Blake-Duff will be the speaker at the Belleville Rotary Club's Ladies' Night which will be held on the evening of Monday next at the Hotel Quinte at seven-thirty o'clock. Mr. Duff is a former editor of the Welland Telegraph and is now the president of the Fidelity Trust Company of Ontario. He will be guest of honor, but there will be other speakers of prominence Rotarians and others. A banquet address is expected.

CHIEF OF STAFF TO LEAD SALVATIONISTS

London, Nov. 17.—The Daily Mail says that Commissioner Edward J. Higgins, Chief of Staff, has assumed command of the Salvation Army pending a meeting of the High Council in January. The meeting was said to have been summoned because a majority of the commissioners considered the generalship was vacated owing to the lengthy illness of General Bramwell Booth.

Princess Cut By Flying Glass In Furious Gale: Ten People Killed

London, England, Nov. 17—Death toll of the gale that swept Wales, England, France and Belgium yesterday stood at ten today with scores of persons injured. Princess Marie, eldest of the former King Constantine of Greece was cut by flying glass while walking in the parish. Former Premier Ramsay MacDonald and Sir Arthur Steel-Maitland, Minister of Labor, had narrow escapes when trains on which they were riding ran into fallen trees. Property damage in England and Wales was enormous.

GOVERNMENT WINS

Premier Bruce, of Australia, Has Apparent Majority of 17

Melbourne, Australia., Nov 17.—Australian Government, a coalition of Nationalist and Country Parties was apparently sustained in the general election held today. Labor opposition gained five or six seats leaving the government with a majority of 17.

LABOR GAINS IN KEEN ELECTION

Australia Voting To-Day. Premier Bruce Appeals For Third Term

Melbourne, Australia, Nov. 17. (C. P. Cable)—Australia one of the most fiercely fought campaigns in Australian history the voters today went to the polls to elect a new parliament. Stanley Bruce seeks a third term in office as Premier, while the chief opposition comes from the Labor party.

The dominant issue of election is the government's appeal for law and order resulting from violence in the recent strike of waterside workers.

Labor Gains Strength

Melbourne, Nov. 17.—With figures still insufficient to indicate a definite trend it was probable that the Labor opposition would gain two or three seats in the Australian election today.

COURTESY FROM THE CONVENTION

Women's Institutes Pass Resolution Thanking City For Help

Yesterday afternoon the Women's Institute wound up their convention with the report of the Courtesy committee, which is given below:

That the thanks of this convention be tendered Ice Mayor and Aldermen for the city of Belleville for the use of th auditorium and the council chambers and the kindly welcome extended to our delegates.

To the proprietor of the New Queens hotel for kindly allowing us the use of his room for our committee meetings and planning for the convention.

To that committee for their hard work. The florist, Mr. Givens for arranging ferns and flowers and to Mr. Thompson for kindly loaning furniture.

To the Dept. of Health for sending Miss Agnes Hall, Director of health help and Miss Squires for her capable assistance.

To the caretaker for heating and keeping the rooms in such excellent order.

To the song leader, the pianist and to all those who have so ably assisted in the musical programme.

To the Dept. staff and members of the Provincial Branch for their assistance and practical advice.

To all district and branch officers and to the various committees who have helped to make our convention a success.

To the local newspapers for the publicity given our meetings.

In closing this convention we regret the forced absence of Mrs. Carbutt one of our most efficient workers.

There were two excellent papers giv en late yesterday afternoon, the one by Mrs. M. Mayhew, of Trenton, who spoke on "Englishmen," more especially as applied to Institute work and the other by Mrs. C. Holmes, on "Relief." Mrs. C. M. Reid, R.N., of Belleville, gave a most interesting address on "Publicity."

PREMIER NOT TO OPEN SCHOOL

John S. Martin, Minister of Agriculture, May Come Here

FINANCIAL REPORT

Teachers Will be Given Use of Gymnasium for Badminton

Premier Howard Ferguson will not officiate at the opening of Belleville's new Collegiate Institute, Mr. John Elliott, Chairman of the Board, announced last night that the Premier had written to him stating that he was sorry but he would not be able to attend the function. Pressing business and the absence of Honorable Charles McCrea, Minister of Mines, were two reasons that prevented Mr. Ferguson coming to Belleville. Mr. Elliott, however, will try to secure somebody else in the immediate future to perform the function. It officially opens the Belleville's fine new school.

That the building will be opened before December was announced last night. The exact date, of course, is not as yet known, but announced by one member that the Hon. John S. Martin, Minister of Agriculture, be asked to open the school as he laid the cornerstone.

Night Classes

A most important question arose, and was settled as far as the Board's powers go, last night when support from the Board was asked for night Collegiate classes. It appears that there are several teachers in the city trying for 1st class certificates and two applications were secured by Mr. McLaurin, on trial only, for which the subjects they required to gain these certificates. These teachers asked the support of the Board to help pay the fees asked for the cost, and the teachers asked for the co-operation of the Board. It was finally decided that, if permission for the classes is secured from the Department, the Board will bear one-third of the cost, the city of Belleville one-third and the Department the remainder.

Only 52 Yearly

It was brought out that the night vocational class students only paid $2 per year, but McLaurin could not see why the teachers should have to pay so much more. There was another item to the matter, however. "I am the last man to 'knock' any worthy purpose of this kind", stated Mr. Elliott, "but how can we be sure that these teachers are going to stay in Belleville after they have their first-class certificates? Besides this, we do not pay the salaries of the students in the vocational classes but we"

CANADA'S DUTY TO MOTHERLAND

Sir Austen Chamberlain Addresses Quebec Canadian Club

Quebec, November 18—In an address before the Canadian Club here today, Sir Austen Chamberlain, British Foreign Secretary, spoke on the British Empire, dwelling chiefly on towards the British Commonwealth of Nations and the part played by the French-Canadians in the development of the Dominion. He spoke in French.

The Empire, he declared, permitted the communities to preserve their traditions. It was not an empire of conquest or aggression, but a union which guaranteed peace where ever King George reigned.

"I find here in Canada," the speaker continued, "a nation bound by the combined efforts of which have resulted in the high position held by Canada today."

NEW AGE SPEAKS A DIFFERENT LANGUAGE

Different ages speak in different tongues. The language may be the same but the phraseology is different, and the interpretations of different ages are not always the same. This, accord ing to Dr. W. B. Selbie, a well-known English college principal, is the reason why the young people of today, in his opinion, are not taking the same keen interest in religion that their forefathers did. Speaking at the Jubilee Service of Wesley Memorial Church at Oxford, England, he said:

"The old people insist on sticking to their ways. The younger generation has absolutely no use for our old religious methods. I wish in our preaching we could get rid entirely of the stereotyped religious phraseology and that we could get an entirely new set of hymns, so that we could put things to people in a language they can understand."

Of course, it would be hard to find ministers who will admit that the young people of today are not interested in religious affairs, for they would point to their multiplicity of young people's organizations as a proof that they are interested. Yet interest in a young people's society does not altogether indicate interest in religion, unless it be in the type of religion served up in a sugarcoated pill under the guise of recreation, entertainment and educational activities. The real test would be found in the number of young people attending church, and one would be justified in saying that, in the average church congregation, older people are greatly in the majority. It may be that the young people, at this rated divine suggests, are dissatisfied with the old methods which persist. Perhaps these methods were good, perhaps they satisfy the older people who still go to church, but it is doubtful if they will win the younger generation. Dr. Selbie's words are thought ful, ones, and express an idea which is by no means confined to a small number of people. As such they are worthy of serious consideration by those who have leadership in the affairs of religion.

FREEDOM ENTAILS RESPONSIBILITY

Freedom always implies responsibility. As Canada assumes a position of greater national independence her responsibility increases. That is a self-evident proposition, but it is one which is apt to be overlooked by chauvinists. Sir Austen Chamberlain, secretary of state for foreign affairs in the British government, took occasion to remind his hearers in Montreal yester day, on the eve of his departure for England, of the fact that "as you grow in nationhood, your duties increase with your powers and your rights."

It is a timely reminder, tactfully given. The distinguished statesman was careful to make it plain that there was no feeling whatever of resentment in the Mother Country over Canadas desire for a fuller development of her nationality; he expressly stated that these ambitions were regarded as altogether natural and accorded the utmost sympathy; indeed, he promised the help of the British government in such development.

Also, he expressed the gratification of the statesmen at the increased cooperation of Canada "in all fields and not least in the field of foreign affairs," but to make such co-operation really effective, it was necessary for the Canadian people to take a deeper interest in the complicated international problems which heretofore have been the charge of the British foreign office and which now became the responsibility of the Empire. Can ada's individual opinion will count for good or ill, and whatever criticism may be made will have its due effect in the actions of the imperial government.

It is a heavy responsibility, but one which this Dominion is prepared to shoulder. For the proper discharge of the duty, however, certain qualities are needed which must be assiduously cultivated. These supremely important diplomatic developments are not to be lightly regarded; they demand great leadership, and an earnest and informed public opinion.

BRITISH VIEWS ON IMMIGRATION

Mr. George Pilcher, M.P., in the debate on unemployment in the British House of Commons, lamented that so much had been made of "the infinitesimal proportion of failures in the harvesters scheme and so little of the very big success which had been achieved." This is a cheering note from the old land, and when it is appreciated that the immigration authorities really made success of the hastily planned trip of 800 men to Canada it will do much to reconcile others to make the journey overseas.

It is often forgotten what a tremendous adventure the crossing of the Atlantic is to many people. The old stories of terrible hardships both on the voyage out and after the arrival of pioneer settlers in Canada still linger about the home-steads in the same debate that 100,000 men in Great Britain were anxious to emigrate, and he hoped for an extension of the 3000-families scheme that had been planned for Canada.

There ought to be a substantial body of immigrants reach Canada next year from the old country. Great efforts are being made to organize the transportation end of the problem. There is no doubt that the cost of a passage to Canada is a barrier to many who would come if they could afford it. The rate has been as high as $98 and a rate of $60 was reduced to $71.50 by some companies through the intervention of the Government which offered to pay $20 of the charge. It is suggested that the Dominion pay an other $20 and get the fare down to $50.

This would encourage many, while raising a natural barrier to the improvident who never think of saving, and to whom $50 if they got hold of it, would merely mean the opportunity for a prolonged spree. We view the situation with the conviction that voluntary immigrants are the desirable ones, and that we should do all that is possible to encourage those who wish to come, and are prepared to do something themselves to assist their passage to the new land.

OTHER MEN'S THOUGHTS

Maybe some of these chaps go to a chiropodist to give the impression they have a backbone.—Brandon Sun.

Now that the furnace season is on, it may be helpful to know that the Pittsburg Experiment Station of the United States Bureau of Mines has decided that the coal having the ash of the highest fusibility gives the least trouble from clinkers. To get the benefit of this information it is advisable to repeat the explanation ten times before losing one's temper.—Toronto Globe.

PASSING YEAR (From The Intelligencer of this day 26 years ago)

Miss Eva Colling, Mill St., has left for New Haven, Conn., where she will enter a hospital to study for a trained nurse.

Messrs. Crossley and Hunter, the Canadian evangelists, are now at Minneapolis where they have begun union services with twenty churches.

Mr. Gilbert Parker, novelist, writing to his friends here, states that he will leave for Egypt the latter part of this month.

YOUR EYES and Our Service

By J. A. McFEE, Optometrist Belleville

Can a person himself decide when he first requires help for reading?

Possibly. A tendency to hold the reading matter further from the eyes than about 13 inches indicates that help is needed.

This is first noticed at about 45 years of age?

Yes. Sometimes sooner or later. But no one should make the mistake of deferring the use of glasses after they are required.

Errors of vision are not so simple as old sight?

No. They are more subtle, more complicated, more difficult to measure and correct, and more likely to be overlooked by the patient.

It has been said that far sight is very prevalent?

Yes this is the commonest of all errors.

To Be Continued

Miss Mary Griffin has returned to the city after visiting friends in the country.

Mr. S. W. Vermilyea, who with four others have returned home from a hunting trip reports that his party secured ten deer.

Rev. Father McCarthy, parish priest at Marysville was in the city to-day.

Mr. E. B. Goderin, of Ottawa, Government Superintendent of Dredges, is here on official business.

HAVE YOU HEARD THESE?

Tom: "Is Betty's will very strong, old chap?"

Jerry: "Not when she's kissed against it."

Sam: What am you doin now?"
Bo: "I'se an exporter."
Sam: "An exporter?"
Bo: "Yep, the Pullman Company just fired me."

"On what grounds are you seeking a divorce from your wife?"
"Misrepresentation. When I asked her to marry me she said she was agreeable."

Larry: "I like Franklin's course on Shakespeare. He brings things home to you that you never saw before."
Harry: "Right! I've got a laundry man as good as that."

That Body of Yours

© By James W. Barton, M.D.

A couple of years ago I mentioned the case of a chap who had an ache at the lower left side of abdomen.

As it was on the opposite side to that of the appendix, he was told by his physician that it must be just a gas pain at the lower end of intestine where an "S" or double curve is located.

However an X ray of a barium meal showed that there was an extra foot of intestine, in the form of a loop, in the region where he had his ache or pain.

The point about this was that it was not until he became an office engineer instead of a field engineer that he had any pain in this region. The sitting down at his desk all day caused constipation and gas formation.

Now as this condition was only discovered by the use of the barium meal, it is easily possible that a number of folks are suffering from this condition, and it is not suspected by themselves nor by their physicians.

Dr. F. X. Gordon, Boston, suggests that a barium "enema or injection, should be used in such cases, as it will show up the condition best and with least trouble.

"The commonest symptoms are constipation, abdominal distress or pain, gas pains and distension of the lower abdomen from this gas."

He reminds us further, that when any abdominal condition is giving pain and distension in this region, it would be well to remember that this condition is not uncommon.

It often causes the stomach to associate all sorts of changes due to the pressure of the gas against it.

You may remember that in the case I mentioned two years ago, the patient was absolutely free of the pain for six weeks, during which time he was paddling a canoe for a number of hours every day. The pain returned when he got back to his office work.

And the lesson?

That while there are cases that will need medical and diet treatment, the majority will be free from these gas pains if they take regular bending exercises.

CAR RAN THROUGH WALL OF GARAGE

Welland, Ont., Nov. 16.—Hearing calls for help from a gully at midnight, residents who summoned police found Frank Gawdy pinned beneath an overturned car and lying in a pool of blood. The car had run through the wall of a garage into which he had driven and plunged into the gully behind.—He suffers from loss of blood but is expected to recover.

FLAY SEMI FINALS

If Albert College Rugby team wins their match today in Cobourg against Peterboro Collegiate Institute they will likely meet the Toronto winners, Bloor St. Collegiate. They are playing against the last team today and on a wet field and should put up a great game.

NAME OMITTED

In the account of the Moosehart Union Bazaar which appeared in Thursday's issue of the Intelligencer, the name of Mrs. J. T. Walden was inadvertently omitted. Mrs. Walden assisted in serving tea.

COUNCIL MEETS MONDAY

Action and plenty of it, is promised at Monday night's session of the City Council. This will be one of the last meetings of this year's Council, and with the question of what is to be done about the Bayne Station at Bridge and Front streets, some lively arguments should be in the air.

OLD UNCLE TOM

Tonight will be the last chance for the Belleville public to see that real-old favorite "Uncle Tom's Cabin" This picture which is reproduced excellently off the screen in this version has been seen by large crowds all week at Capitol Regent, but those who have missed so far should take this opportunity of seeing Uncle Tom, Little Eva, Topsy Who all the rest of the old favorites.

SUCCESSFUL CARD PARTY

A successful euchre and dance was held last evening in the Memorial Hall under the auspices of the Canadian Legion. Euchre was played till about ten o'clock when following the serving of refreshments dancing was commenced and continued till about one o'clock with the 21 High orchestra furnishing splendid music Prize winners were as follows: Ladies' 1st, Mrs. Barton; 2nd, Miss Charman; Consolation, Mrs. L. Carr. Men's 1st, Mr. Foley; 2nd, Mr. Clarke; Consolation, Mr. McGuire.

MAY BROADCAST AGAIN

Following the broadcast this week by Torchia over station CKGW by Belleville artists, members of the Sales Finish Flooring Company, local firm which sponsored the hour extended our local artists an invitation to return at a later date and render another of these excellent musical programmes. This programme form it is presented locally by the Houston Company, and it was largely through the co-operation of Mr. Fred Houston that local citizens were privileged to hear their own fine artists on the air this week.

LADIES WELL PLEASED.

Most of the ladies who were in Belleville for the past two days attending the Women's Institute Convention for this district have departed for their homes. They report having enjoyed themselves immensely, as well as having received a great deal of benefit from the sessions which they attended in the City Hall here. They will be welcomed back again next year when they intend to hold their meetings in the Auditorium of the New Collegiate.

STUDENTS TO TAKE PART

It is understood that well over two hundred Belleville people, mostly High School youngsters will be needed for the Rotary Show which is being presented to Belleville audiences from the 4th of December until the 8th. This will give those who have ambitions to go on the stage a chance to air them, and who knows, there may be some famous actors and actresses among the lot.

INDIAN SUMMER.

Autumn weather such as residents of this district are now enjoying is set down this late in the year. Perhaps it is our "Indian Summer" again. The rain which is falling today seems more like that experienced in the Spring than in the Fall, and many who had dug their winter overcoats out of the mothballs have laid them aside again for a few weeks.

CHRISTMAS CLUB.

Announcement is made today of Doyle's Drug Store Christmas Club Sale of Orthophonic Victolas, an event which has been taken advantage of by many in past seasons and which offers the limited membership of this Club the this case 25 purchasers the unusual privilege of purchasing an orthophonic Victrola for as little as one dollar down and the balance in weekly payments.

By this unique plan, therefore, any of the several handsome Orthophonic models may be purchased out of income rather than capital,and will be delivered on Christmas eve, making a gift which the entire family may use and enjoy for years. In privious Clubs of this nature, many families have been enabled to buy and enjoy an Orthophonic at small outlay in this way, and twenty-five more will be privileged to do the same thing this Christmas season. The Christmas Club opens Monday.

FLASK SECRETED ON FRONT TIRE

Fred Clements of Sogart, Hungerford Tp., is original if nothing else. He had what he considered a perfect hiding place for his flask, and for some time it puzzled the Provincial Police until they at last solved the mystery.

Clements was at a dance held last night at Tyendinaga and had parked his car on that side of the road which is in Tyendinaga Tp., the road being the boundary line. Two Provincial policemen dropped in as the dance and noticed that Clements was showing every indication of intoxication. They watched him go in and out of the hall, each time going over to his car, and coming back a little more intoxicated each time.

Hoping to find the bottle, the police looked all through the car, but were unsuccessful in their search until final ly one of them shined his light on the front wheels. There reposing snugly on top of the right front tire and almost hidden from view by the fender skirt was a flask, partly filled with liquor. Clements was arrested, brought to Belleville and this afternoon taken up to Deseronto where he will be charged with illegal transport. Bedford with having liquor illegally in his possession is contained in a public place.

SOME SOCIETIES ALLOWED TO USE NEW AUDITORIUM

Girl Guides Granted Privileges of Collegiate Gymnasium

It was definitely stated last night at the Board of Education meeting that the auditorium in the new Collegiate Institute may be used to hold meetings of an educational character, after school hours where no fees were charged. The Department of Education, however, stated that consent could not be given grants on capital account up or the costs of an assembly hall which is to be used as a general auditorium for the city and provide a source of revenue for the Board.

An exception, however, was made for the Rotary Club who intend to stage a show, the money to be used for crippled children's work and other charitable purposes. The Department made it exceedingly clear that this was not to establish a precedent.

Letter From Minister

Mr. John Elliott, chairman, read a letter from the Department of Education to this effect. Later in the meeting Mrs. A. McPee, one of the Board members, asked to have the letter kept from the press and no mention made of the matter. "I don't think the public should be informed of this until the matter is definitely cleared up," she said. A committee will proceed to Toronto in the near future for an interview with the Department of Education to understand matters out. Mrs. McPee was not successful in her attempt to keep the matter from the public, however, for Mr. Elliott stated, reasonably, that he could see no reason why the matter should not be published. Several other members, too, Mr. Fairburn predominately, stated that people would be forwarding letters to the Board asking for permission to use the auditorium and that the information would eventually leak out.

The letter in question, from Mr. Colquhoun, Deputy Minister of Education, is reproduced here in full:

Toronto, Nov. 15, 1928.

Dear Sir:

I am directed by the Minister of Education to state in reply to your letter of the 13th instant, addressed to Dr. Merchant, and also in further explanation of my official letter sent you on November 7th, that where under the Vocational Educational Act financial assistance is given by the Government towards the erection of an assembly hall as part of a vocational school, it is understood that such a room does not differ essentially from any other part of the building in respect to its exclusive use for school purposes. There is no objection, however, to the use of such a hall outside of school hours for holding meetings of an educational character where no fees are charged.

But the Department cannot consent to pay grants on capital account upon the costs of an assembly hall which is to be used as a general auditorium for the city and to be a source of revenue to the Board. Moreover, the Department does not wish to enter in to competition with other organizations in the business of providing public halls.

In the particular case you mention the minister approves the use of the assembly hall by the Belleville Rotary Club for their entertainments, to be held this fall in aid of crippled children and to assist in boys' work. Trusting, however, cannot be regarded as a precedent.

I have the honor to be

Your obedient servant,

(Signed) A. H. N. COLQUHOUN,

Deputy Minister of Education

John Elliott, Esq.,

Chairman, Board of Education,

Belleville, Ontario.

You can make $100 extra TO-DAY!

Your present car is worth more to you today than it was worth a month ago, and at least $100 more than it will be worth in another month or so.

More People Buy Hudson-Essex Cars Than Any Other Six

The outstanding leadership of the Essex Super-Six is a matter of actual and vital fact on the outright issue of what people want. On that basis it has established its long time position as the world's largest selling "Six".

Here, for the first time, real car luxury, with brilliant performance and fine appearance, were presented at less than $1200.

Essex alone combines these qualities. They result from original design, with a chassis as remarkably engineered in every detail as is Super-Six motor.

It is that characteristic which differentiates Essex from any but costly cars. It is that which accounts for its smooth, effortless ease in every phase of performance.

Hudson's two great factors of performance supremacy are exclusive inventions and can be shared by no other maker.

The relensed Super-Six principle converts to useful power, energy that in other types is lost in vibration.

And Hudson's companion invention to the Super-Six principle, upon which patents have been granted, adds a further step in efficiency by actually converting hitherto wasted heat into useful power.

The new Hudson motor gives the snap and performance of the high compression type without sacrifice of flexibility and smoothness.

Want To Use Gyms

A delegation, headed by Mrs. (Colonel) Ponton, awaited the Board last night to ask for the use of the two gymnasiums on Wednesday evening of each week for the Girl Guides. Mrs. Ponton explained that the Guides' present quarters were too crowded. After some discussion it was decided by the Board that the hours could use the gymnasiums on Wednesday evening of each week, provided the night in question did not interfere with school activities. Also, the permission of the Department of Education would have to be secured, as this was necessary.

A question that came up last meeting was reviewed again but might when Principal McLaurin was asked whether it were true that pupils were eating their lunches in a dirty basement, the classrooms locked with no access open. This was disproved, however, when Mr. C.A.C. Weir stated that one of the cafeterias was open now and ready for use. The question of what the pupils could do during the lunch hour was discussed also, as the gyms are locked during the period. It was decided that a noon four program would be arranged for the students.

The members present last night were Messrs. John Elliott E. A. Geen ,D. O. Bleecker, H. W. Ackerman, O. A. C. Weir, Wm. Harvey, Arthur Gaines, J. W. Clock, W. P. Fairbairn, F. S. Anderson, J. J. Butler, Arthur McCue and Mrs. Angus McPee and Mrs. Florence Boyes.

WORK OF WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

It is tremendously interesting to note the progress women have made in the last few years. This was brought home with especial force by a visit to the Women's Institute meetings which have just been completed here. These women, the majority of whom come from the rural centres, are able to handle their meetings in splendid style, present lucid reports (although perhaps not as concise as they might me) and are now discussing the feasibility of sending a representative to Parliament, and no doubt if they do bring out a candidate she will receive the hearty support of these enthusiastic women. The educational ideas are reaching to every remote corner of this Dominion, and no average person could fail to learn valuable lessons from the many helpful suggestions given at these meetings. It is a far call from the new and extensive sources of information about the welfare of babies to the days when the only help (?) the new mother could obtain for the care of her infant was from some grandmother and put it in the baby's mouth. This is truth and not fiction, although it is hard to realize it today. How different the lenachings are now with stereilized bottles, pasteurized milk, protection from flies and all the other means used to safe-guard baby's health. This is but one branch of the good work the women are doing, and the future generations should benefit by their efforts. The Institute is practically the only outlet the women on the farm have for social work for their efforts is too busy a life to be engaged with bridge parties and golf, so this institute is well it makes a strong appeal to the rural dweller.

A FEW RULES FOR ELECTRICAL SAFETY

With all the carelessness which is practised in the use of electricity, it is a wonder that we do not have more fires. It is dangerous to experiment with your own wiring unless you are an electrician. Proper wiring is the best insurance against having your home burned.

Never tack electric wires to walls or baseboards, and do not hang an electric extension on a nail. If the insulation wears there may be trouble. Extensions are always more or less of a fire hazard.

It is better to have more wall or baseboard outlets. There is a new type of extension, run through a rubber tube and supposed to lie under your rug in order that you may have a reading lamp across the room from your outlet. But such an extension will soon make a worn streak in the rug, and is not wise in itself.

If a fuse burns out, it indicates that you are overloading your wiring system, or using a defective appliance. Call the electric "trouble man."

It is dangerous to touch electrical appliances when any part of the body is touching water piping or other plumbing. Porcelain sockets are better than the metal ones in bathrooms and basements, since, if a per son is standing in water or on a damp floor, is liable to a shock if he touches a defective device.

Electric irons should be set on the metal stand provided for them. Electric lions or toasters should not be used to warm beds in winter, but only the electric pad especially designed for that use and made safe for it.

Electric lights should not be left burning in clothes closets. All electric cords should be promptly repaired when they become worn. Electricity is a great "servant in the house," but it may become a menace if used improperly.

CHRISTMAS SHOULD MEAN HAPPINESS FOR ALL

It may seem a trifle early to be concerned about Christmas and its attend ant activities but six weeks slips around so quickly that it is just as well to start now, Christmas is the season of good-will toward men and it is looked forward to by some with keen delight but others regard its coming with dread for them it entails days of toil and sleepless nights. These people are missing the real joy of the season. We should of course remember our friends with some gift but this should not be a labor for us. Some little present with the proper spirit behind it is better than something more costly and elaborate but given grudgingly. Some of us shower presents on our wealthy friends and altogether overlook the poor folk whom so little would afford real happiness. The poor children especially should call forth our generosity. Is there a greater tragedy in a small life than looking for a Santa Claus who does not come. The sorrow of the child is only exceeded by that of the mother who watches the little one's disappointed face. Let each family who is in a position to do so resolve to take the place of Santa Claus in some little life. It is true there are many charitable institutions and church organizations interested in this sort of work but these have so many calls on their generosity that they cannot cover all the needs. Besides do not be afraid of giving too much. Christmas is a season of joy not only for the rich but for the poor as well so give in the name of Him who came into the world for us all and your gift shall not go without its reward.

START GETTING WELL TODAY!
Heathful Kidneys a Winter Necessity
The kidneys control the action of the skin and are the best regulators of the body. During the season of the year when there are quick changes from the warmth of the day to the chill of night, or the body must adapt itself to a change from the extreme of outdoor cold to indoor comfort, the kidney sufferer is in constant danger.
Phone 900
Kidney weakness and inefficiency in adapting the body to sudden changes, is apt to cause lung congestion or pneumonia. Kidney weakness is due to pressure upon spinal nerves at the spine. By chiropractic spinal adjusting this pressure of hard bone upon soft nerve tissues is lifted, and the nervous energy flows freely once more. After adjusting the kidney vigor comes back to normal and health follows as a matter of course.

Proposals!

A glance at her blonde loveliness tells better than words may this beautiful New York City girl has received such flattering proposals from kings of movie and stage land. She's Colette Francis, of 225 East 25th St., Brooklyn; now one of the charmers in the Broadway hit, "Rio Rita."

Miss Francis says: "Since I've been on the stage, so many people have asked me what I do to get the beautiful golden gleam and sparkle in my hair that I am beginning to think I'm really taking wonderful care of it. I really never thought much about it. What I do is pe simple. Like so many of my girl friends here in New York, I just put a little Dandertne on my brush each time I use it. This keeps my hair silky and gleaming, makes it easy to dress and holds it like I arrange it, for hours. My hair is very fine and I had a lot of dandruff when I first started on it, but all of that trouble stopped quickly after Dandertne keeps my hair so clean I don't need to shampoo half as often, now."

Dandertne removes that oily film from your hair and gives it new life and lustre. It isn't only and doesn't show. It gives tone and vigor to the scalp. The generous bottle at any toilet counter. A delicately fragranced necessity for the well-groomed girl.

MOTHERS

being an original short story written for The Daily Intelligencer.
By LENORE

If one didn't know, one was apt to criticise Sara James for the way she came to visit and stayed with her married daughter. The neighbors did, but then the neighbors didn't know.

From the day Isobel told them the tiny bundle that was her daughter had first been placed in her tired, adoring arms Sara had considered herself her grandma angel, chief advisor and boss.

She had clucked over her only chick anxiously, and she had guided her through all the stages from long cloth, to short skirts, and finally to the burst of triumphant tearful pride and watched her being led to the altar.

When the honeymoon was over and Dora (a name Mrs. James had decided upon years before her daughter's advent into this troubled world) had started to feather her own nest on the installment plan, it was Sara who had picked the material, sewed, and hung the curtains, and she it was who offered freely all sorts of advice and criticism about the management of the new home. Dora was used to it and listened with one ear open, but the other eye filled with dreams, and her mouth automatically saying:

"Uh-huh. Yes, dear. Whatever you say."

She seldom acted on her mother's advice, as it usually was another way, but it kept Sara happy and busy and while their acquaintances laughed behind her back, Isobel knew she was powerless to change her mother. Sara could no more stay away than a starved child stopped her fussing than she could have changed her one manner of hairdressing, a style to which she had adhered for over forty years.

After the new house was settled and everything cozy, Sara still stayed on. And here we wish to introduce Dora's husband Jack, an industrious, likable young chap, who had found favor in even Sara's critical eyes. Jack tolerated Sara slowly, because she was Dora's mother, and not for any special fondness on his part. He regarded her rather as a dispensable evil well-meaning but bungling Providence, sometimes which could not be cured or cannot be endured. She was the sun of his whole existence, which was just as it should be of course.

Nevertheless in the course of their first year on the matrimonial sea, their little craft bumped on both either buddy. A decided coolness sprang up between the two young people, an unfriendly feeling was in the air. It passed quite unnoticed however by Mrs. James, who went her domineering way quite oblivious of the gathering storm.

Dora hovered anxiously between her two loved ones, fearful of offending either, and yet unable to maintain an even balance.

It was inevitable that the storm should break, and it broke one morning after breakfast.

Thunder and lightning—and exit Mrs. James.

Dora was in tears, and Jack strode out of the house with his hat jammed on his head and his jaw set grim.

That night the young people sat alone and came to an understanding.

"You know," said Dora, "it is rather difficult, our mother lives too far away to interfere, and my mother—well you know how it is. She has had no other interest in her life except my upbringing and she just doesn't know how to be one in this now. If there was anything at all that she could take up to occupy her time..... she'd be fine."

"I do know how it is, honey-girl, and I've been a beast, and I'm sorry. But—"

Both their sentences remained unfinished in the air, and they sat wrapped in thought.

"I've got an idea," Jack exclaimed, at last. "Let's get her married again!"

"Whom would she marry?" Dora demanded, frowning. The idea of a step-father did not appeal very strong ly to her, but it was one solution.

"Well, there is old Chapman. He's got lots of money, but he is womanshy. He wouldn't do I guess."

"What about that new arrival? He's not very strong on looks but he is about her age and might suit."

"Why he's got five or is it six children?" Dora exclaimed indignantly.

"But they are nearly all grown up, and away from home. Don't be too particular."

"Please remember it's my mother we are discussing," said Dora, rouly, and the sky threatened to grow overcast again.

But Jack hastily corrected himself, and they settled down amicably to discuss a probable matrimonial venture for Mrs. James.

Finally they decided to ask Mr. Barnes to dinner that week. He was a genial and one-time sweetheart of Sara's in the days of their juvenile love affairs. He had never married, and these two young things fondly imagined it was because he had been disappointed when his rival won Sara's capable hand.

So the dinner was planned and the two conspirators prepared the setting for their plot with much giggling and whispering.

But it was not the success they had anticipated. Mr. Barnes was a chronic sufferer from hay fever and the flowers on Dora's pretty dinner table sent him into a gale of sneezing. He sneezed intermittently all evening and when he took an early leave, it was to an accompaniment of loud "Ah-choos!"

Mrs. James slammed an emphatic door after him.

"That man," she enunciated, "should stay at home if he can't go out and behave himself."

One would hve imagined from her tone that the apologetic Mr. Barnes had been caught in some act of indiscretion.

After she had taken her leave (she had not been living with them since the early morning quarrel) the young people talked it over. They were disappointed but not discouraged.

"Well, there must be lots more fish," Jack said, finally, yawning and stretching. "Let's go to bed and we'll plan a new campaign to-morrow."

They tried various plans but they simply could not make Sara lose her hat to anyone.

So things dragged on. Jack began to have spells of sulking and Dora was constantly worried. Sara was now in for a meal, came to spend the day, came to stay overnight. Jack could be heard whistling cheerfully when he came home at night. She did not realize how perfectly unnecessary she was and Dora had not the heart to tell her.

Then there came a day when there was a loud telephone call from a nurse in her white uniform, and a doctor and Mrs. James finally hurrying in and out. Consternation reigned in the household, saying.

"My grandson is going to wear a band until he is a year old at least."

Sara had come into her own again.

SINCLAIR'S

Advice to Girls
By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I would be greatly obliged if you would answer my few questions as soon as possible.

1—I would like to know if it is proper for a girl to help a fellow with his overcoat on either at home, or in public?

2—Is it proper for a girl to invite her friend over to her house some evenings, outside of the regular nights she has her dates with him?

3—When making an introduction, which is proper: To give the name of the person who is with you first, or the one that has last been met?

BILLY C.

BILLY C.: No, Billy, it is not good form to help a man on with his coat unless he is an elderly man, or a cripple.

2.—Certainly.

3—You introduce the person you meet to the one accompanying you.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

We are three girls in our teens and are considered quite popular.

We would like to know if it is proper for an Australian our boy friends at one of our homes while the parents are away.

We have done this and there has been considerable comment on it, although our parents did not object.

THREE BLACK CROWS.

THREE BLACK CROWS. It was rather indiscreet to entertain the boys during your parents absence, my dear. Such things as this lead to a lot of talk and gossip, for people cannot be expected to know that you had your parents' consent. Just try to be fun after not in lay yourselves open to such criticism.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I have a girl friend of whom I think a lot. She has been my friend for three or four years. We have had many quarrels but they have never last long. The last one lasted three or four days. This girl has never seemed as friendly since we made up although I apologized to her.

Annie Laurie, please advise me what to do to win back her friend ship. MAE.

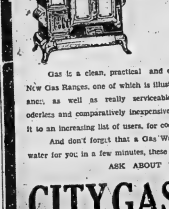

MAE: If the girl's attitude has changed, I don't know what you can do, Mae. Just be as nice and friend ly as you possibly can and show her that you really care. It's a case of start all over again, I'm afraid. But I am sure you can do this and win back her friendship.

SAVE SECTION OF LOVELY COTTAGES

Gloucester, Eng., (By C. F.)— A row of England's most picturesque cottages, "Arlington Row," at Bibury, Gloucestershire has been saved for the nation through the Royal Society of Arts which has raised enough money to buy the cottages and hand them over to the newly formed Gloucestershire Archaeological Trust. The present inhabitants who are agricultural laborers, are being allowed to remain as very low rents, and the cottages are being restored to their original condition.

Bibury, in the Cotswold Hills, the village in which these beautiful 16th century cottages stand, was described by William Morris, English poet and artist, (1834-1896), as "surely the most beautiful in England." The cottages are of stone with dormers in the high-pitched, stone-slated roofs. They are protected by tall trees and face a quiet little trout stream which runs alongside the road.

WHAT'S NEW
(From A Woman's Standpoint)

The latest evening ensemble extends to the slippers which match the costume.

Peppermint green with brown is very smart for sports attire and other favored combinations are orange and lemon yellow with that color.

That London rejoices that the time for a permanent wave has now been reduced to three minutes—less if the subject has white hair.

That uniforms in all colors suggest that from an artistic standpoint maids be dressed in hues to harmonize with the decorative scheme rather than in the conventional black.

W. C. T. U. HEARS MISS E. GARDINER

Organization Will Co-Operate With Red Cross Campaign

The regular monthly meeting of the W.C.T.U. was held Friday afternoon in the YMCA. Mrs. Connors took up as the Bible lesson, 1st Epistle of John. A committee was appointed to represent the W.C.T.U. at the meeting of the Red Cross Society to be held here next Monday afternoon in the YMCA.

Miss E. Gardiner, B. A., recently teacher at Albert College addressed the meeting along educational lines. She referred to the action taken by the city council of Glasgow, Scotland lately when they passed a motion to the effect that no matter what banquet or social function they had, liquor would not be used.

Several members read clippings regarding temperance matters.

In these days of great baseball attention, it is interesting to know that Ty Cobb the great baseball star, says: "No man who expects to succeed at baseball should ever think of taking strong drink. I don't believe any fifty baseball players of clubs importance, attempt to mix drink with baseball playing.

Rogers Hornby, another famous play er and championship batting average that he has never tasted intoxicating liquors.

Charles Lindbergh, who flew across the Atlantic in record time was a total abstainer from childhood, an outstanding exponent ofotal abstinence. Liquor advocates of France could not get him to drink intoxicating liquors.

Eugene Tunney, boxing champion of the world, takes pride in saying over his own signature that he has never used tobacco or liquor.

The recent convention of the French speaking surgeons of America, which held in Quebec city declared that alcoholism is in the forefront of social evils and is the frequent cause of mental maladies being the surest and quickest way thereto. They requested the government to prohibit the sale of the hip-pocket flasks as it already does the sale of dangerous weapons, so as to suppress every sort of liquor advertisements.

Dr. W. T. Grenfell, physician and missionary of Labrador said recently: "I saw more intoxication and more of the ill results of intoxication the short time I was in Winnipeg, Montreal and Toronto than I have seen in the United States in six months. In China, Tex I met something like 10,000 superintendents of publich schools and the large majority of them were in favor of prohibition. I have seen tens of thousands of American children, especially in the West, who have never seen liquor used as a beverage. A young generation is growing up that will not want it."

French Minister Presents His Credentials To Governor-General

Ottawa, Nov. 16—France's new Min ister to Canada, Georges Jean Knight, formally tendered his credentials to Governor-General Viscount Willingdon today, with the Government represented by Dr. O. D. Skelton, undersecretary of state for external affairs.

"Historic ties uniting the Canadian nation with France have always been particularly dear to the hearts of all Frenchmen" Mr. Knight declared in His Excellency, in presenting his letter of credence from President Gaston Doumergue of the French Republic.—

BABY'S OWN TABLETS ALWAYS IN THE HOME

Once a mother has used Baby's Own Tablets for her little ones she always keeps a supply on hand, for the first trial convinces her there is nothing to equal them in keeping children well. The tablets are a mild but thorough laxative which regulate the bowels and sweeten the stomach thus driving out constipation and indigestion, colds and simple fevers and making teething easier. Concerning them, Mrs. Salusta Pelletier, St Dumas, Que., writes:—"I have used Baby's Own Tablets for the past ten years and am never without them in the house. They have always given the greatest satisfaction and I can gladly recommend them to all mothers of little ones." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or direct by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Y. M. C. A. BOWLING

The teachers bowling league got under way at the "Y" alleys yesterday afternoon when Albert College and the Ontario School for the Deaf battled for three games, with each team taking two points. Albert was the first game, by thirty pins and added another nine to this in the second. In the last game the O. D. won by 58 and the total of nineteen pins. Miss Heagle of O.S.D. was high for the ladies with a score of 355 and Dr. Bishop of Albert College took first place among the men with 408.

do pay the teachers wages.' There was considerable more argument, pro and con, but the matter was finally adjusted.

Mr. F. McLaurin's report was full of interest last night, for included with it were several communications from teachers in the high school asking for varied favours. There is to be a change in either of the two physics laboratories or the chemistry "lab." and Mr. McLaurin was justly complaining that the high school board was referred to the building committee.

Another subject brought up was that of Vocational Agricultural classes. Mr. McLaurin thought it would be a good thing to have them located in the high school, and the Vocational committee was to get in touch with the proper authorities to see if this can be done.

A committee of the Teachers

Mr. J E. Nation, on behalf of the teachers, requested the Board's permission to have bowling alleys in the gymnasium, when they were not in use. Permission was given for this worthy motion.

Miss Madeline Young, a teacher, requested that a blackboard be placed in her class room, which was granted. Miss Young also asked to hang some pictures, and place some books in the room, permission for these being granted.

Mrs. James Lapum tendered her resignation, which was accepted. Mr. McLaurin was empowered to advertise for a new secretary, and the school management committee will consider applications.

Mr. A. F. Stillman wrote the Board and stated that he desired to buy an old blackboard. This request was handed to the Supply Committee with power to act.

A letter from Miss Mary E. McIntosh, a teacher, was received, asking for an extension of sick leave until the end of the school year, which was granted.

Mrs. P. Maude Moore, asking for an increase of salary, will be given special attention by the school management committee.

Miss Helen P. McQuaig wrote the Board stating that she wished to accept a position in New York City. Miss McQuaig teaches piano-board movement in Belleville.

A letter from Geen's asking for patronage from the High School, was filed.

G. A. U. Wani Money

The Girl Athletic Union wanted $50 from the Board to help purchase a new piano for their gymnasium, which is indispensable for calisthenics. This request was granted. The girls expressed their deep appreciation for the splendid gym equipment supplied for them.

Miss Ross, school nurse, reported that sixty-seven pupils were treated in the public schools in October and there were seven dental clinics held with seven hundred and eight pupils examined. There was one case of diphtheria during this month and one case of chicken pox. Two skin conditions were noticed also and five cases of pediculosis.

Financial Report

Mr. Pindley, assistant secretary, furnished a financial report last night, a brief resume of which is given. $69,- 857.28 is the cost of the equipment, but some $2,000 or $3,000 will come back out of that. The cost of water for the school for a year will be $240.75, although it was at first stated it would be $333.00

Farming First—The Family Herald and Weekly Star, Montreal, Canada's National Farm Journal, and a home magazine included. A year for a dollar or three years for $2. Wonderful!

REGENT THEATRE

From a cowgirl of the plains to featured role in a drama of regency, emblem is the step made by Dorothy Dean in "Square Crooks," Fox Films screen version of the Broadway stage success of the same name coming to the Regent Theatre for a 3 day show this commencing Monday.

BELLE THEATRE

There may be few more popular stars in the cinema firmament than Marie Prevost, but her popularity is increasing. That it will still further increase when she is seen in her newest picture, "The Rush Hour", is a certainty. This is a type of story that commends itself to picture fans. Its love interest, action, drama and appeal are maintained throughout so that "The Rush Hour" is one hundred per cent entertainment. It was produced by experts and the cast is one of the finest that could be hastily collected. Exhibitors will find this offering one of tremendous box office value.

Miss Prevost, Star

Marie Prevost has all those personal qualities which endear her to the motion picture public. Her girlish spell of her artistry is irresistible. Her past successes, notably, "Up in Mabel's Room," "Getting Gertie's Garter," "Old Ironsides," proved her value to picture fans and she has been a consistent box office magnet ever since. She exemplifies the snappy, charming American girl at its best. Likewise, "The Rush Hour," she is all this and then some. Monday at the Belle.

A CRITICISM OF MODERN METHODISM

London, Eng. (Eg. CP) — Some criticisms of modern Methodism were made by Dr. W. H. Sichler, Principal of Didsbury College, speaking at the jubilee service of Wesley Memorial Church, Oxford. He said the Wesleyan Church had never got hold of the best in John Wesley. There were things in him which, if blending discovered and lived up to them, would enable them to rise to the heights. Wesley was a pioneer, but Wesleyans today lacked his enterprising spirit. They were tied to the past.

"The old people," went on Dr. Sichler, "are content with their old ways. It is not because not many people judge the thoroughness of a business by its violence. The saints that rush through life with a sort of red revolver that has come down to them from the days of the old colors. A long list of drugs will "loosen the bowels" but what is the best way to CLEANSE them?

The world's best laxative is one that Mother Nature makes,—in her own laboratory. It is the bark of a tree, called CASCARA. The Indians used to chew this bark—and reach old age without a sick day. It is the best thing there is today, for any system; best for the blood, the most beneficial in its action on the bowels, of anything yet discovered. For many reasons:

Attention on sticking to their old ways. The younger generation has absolutely no use for our old religious methods. I wish in our preaching we could get rid entirely of the stereotyped religious phraseology and talk what we think to people in a language they can understand."

A Doctor Talks About Cascara

It is unfortunate that many people judge the thoroughness of a laxative by its violence. The saliva that rush through the system may not even penetrate the film of poisonous matter that has coated the colon. A long list of drugs will "loosen the bowels" but what is the best way to CLEANSE them?

OLD ARENA MAY RE-OPEN AGAIN

Eddie Thomas Attending Annual Meeting of O. H. A. To-Day

Manager Eddie Thomas of the Belleville O.H.A. teams is in Toronto today attending the annual meeting of the Association. It is likely that Mr. Thomas will enter both Intermediate and Junior teams although prospects for the Juniors this year are much better. The Intermediates did not complete the schedule last season and while there is some material here it does not appear as though Belleville could place a team on the ice that could compete with Kingston, Queen's and Cornwall. Of the old guard only Whalen, Coyer, Hibbard, Hagerman and Bowen remain. Weir will not likely play Intermediate again, while Bill Green is not likely to come out of retirement.

On the other hand the Juniors appear to be the best yet and the locals should go a long way in the event of the honors. Practically all of last year's smart squad are eligible and George Simpson is the only one lost.

'Bob' Scott who created such a good impression last year is still here and will come out. Henry and Jack Canning, Ethier, Young, Jeffrey and Darragh will be on deck. Tim Galway, sturdy defence man is attending Queen's and will not play here. The latter will be out with the Intermediates. The Juniors put up a plucky fight last season and were only eliminated after they had given St. Michael's College of Toronto, a great argument. Harry Doran late of the St. Mike's team is in the city to bolster the forward line while there is other promising material for Manager Thomas to choose from.

The team may play at the old rink on Turnbull Street which may be sold shortly although no definite announcement can be made as yet. It is proposed by the party considering the purchase to make some well-needed repairs. A ladies' dressing room may be added and new seats in the east end may be built. Trenton will also have most of their Junior players and the battles of last year may be repested. The City League will function again with eight teams operating. It is to be hoped that the rink will be re-opened as the local teams would have to play in Trenton as an alternative.

WHEN YOUNG GIRLS GROW PALE AND THIN

When girls grow weak, pale and thin, parents should not neglect these symptoms; to do so means danger. The girl in her teens cannot develop into robust womanhood without an abundant supply of rich, red blood in her veins. It is the lack of this that is the great trouble with nine girls out of ten. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have achieved world-wide fame for their remarkable blood-making properties. In these pills there is vigorous health, with glowing cheeks and sparkling eyes for every weak, pale girl. The value of the pills in cases of this kind is shown by the statement of Mrs. Winnifred Butty, Barton street west, Hamilton, Ont., who says:—"About two years ago my eldest girl got into very bad health. I too; her to a doctor who advised having her tonsils removed, saying this was the seat of her trouble. We had them removed, but it did not help her, and she seemed to have absorbed so much poison from the trouble that she did not pick up at all. She could neither eat nor sleep, and what food she did take did not digest. Then she developed a cough that kept her awake at night and went down in weight to 95 pounds. A neighbor said to me "You have tried so many things, why not try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills?' I got some and before she finished the second box she began to show improvement, and continued the use of the pills for some time and is now in the pink of condition, able to work and play and eat and sleep with all her old-time vigor. These statements can be verified by neighbors who watched her restored from ill health to perfect health."

If your medicine dealer does not keep these pills you can get them by mail at 50c. box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

SEEK TO CURB LIQUOR TRADE

Sir Henry Drayton Confers With the Ottawa Officials

Ottawa, November 17.—Sir Henry Drayton, chairman of the Ontario Liquor Commission Board, was in Ottawa today conferring with Hon. William Duff Euler, Minister of National Revenue, with the object of securing closer control over liquor exports from Canada to the United States, and particularly over the short-circuiting of liquor into Ontario.

The Ontario authorities are frankly humbler try will be put out of business, embarrassed by conditions along the particularly along the shore of Lake Ontario and the Detroit River. They claim to have proof that alcoholic beverages exported to the States have been landed again in Ontario.

Considerable progress was said to have been made in the conference today, Mr. Euler being sympathetic with the Ontario point of view. Another meeting will take place next Wednesday, and it is hoped the federal Department will be able to meet Ontario's wishes by the introduction of some new regulations rather than by an amendment to the law.

If it is found impracticable to stop the export trade to United States, which now amounts to some $30,000,000 annually, the Department proposes to adopt a policy which will do away with the 12-by-eight rum-row and concentrate the traffic in the hands of a few responsible parties.

They hope to secure more effective control over the business in this way. It is doubtful if a majority of the Government's supporters would consent to stop liquor exports altogether, but if they are to continue the Department is of the opinion it would be easier to control the traffic if it were confined to a few large distilleries or their representative agents. It is probable, therefore, that the "pickers" of

LOVERS OF WILD AFFORD TREAT

Dr. Malott Announces Famous Naturalist's Visit

A quaint, yet delightful combination, Dan McCowan of Banff, native of Scotland and rich in its "Burr-y" manner of speech, describing the Highlands of America. Yet he does it to perfection and to hear him, to see his beautiful pictures and to meet him, is to know that his is a labor of love and that his heart is in his work. Mr. McCowan will give his new famous illustrated lecture "A Naturalist in the Canadian Rockies" in Bridge St. S. S. Hall on Tuesday, Dec. 4, under the auspices of The Boy Scouts and the Jack Miner League.

The lecturer, from long residence in the region and from close study, has intimate knowledge of the animals, birds and flowers native to the mountains around Banff, Lake Louise, Yoho Valley and Emerald Lake. His stories of wild life, graphic, poetical, humorous and at times thrilling, are intensely interesting. The two hundred screen pictures used to illustrate his talk are a choice selection from Mr. McCowan's photographs. Presented in artistic manner by Mrs. McCowan, these form an outstanding feature of this educational entertainment.

Dr. Malott is bringing Dan McCowan to Belleville, primarily for his scouts, and for the Kiwanis club, but he is glad to help the Jack Miner League to get away to a new start.

REGULAR MEETING WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

The regular monthly meeting of the Quinte Branch East Hastings Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Hall on Tuesday, Nov. 13th, a very large number attending.

The meeting was opened in the usual way by singing the Institute Ode. A letter was read by the Secretary Treas. regarding the annual Convention to be held in Belleville on Thursday and Friday of this week.

Considerable time was spent in arranging for the different exhibits to be taken to the Convention. The Branch donated $1 to the Convention Committee to be used for prizes, also a sum to be used for decoration purposes.

Mrs. J. Donaldson gave an excellent paper on Armistice Day; Miss G. Reid gave a reading, "Charms of Personality". Readings were also given by Mrs. G. Purtelle and Mrs. M. Leavens.

UNVEILED CAIRN TO LEECH TOWN

Once Was A Famous and Bustling Gold Mining Town

Victoria, B.C. (By C.P.).—With a spirit worthy of its pioneer gold-seekers whose feat of 1864 they were commemorating, sixty-five people, representatives of various historical and patriotic bodies of British Columbia ventured into the dripping forest of the Sooke country during a rain storm and unveiled a cairn on the site of what was once the thriving boom village of Leechtown. The ceremony was performed by Lieutenant Governor Randolph Bruce.

The two gnarled apple trees, planted in 1865 by the diggers of the old gold commissioner, added their share down to the gloom as the rain pitted down through the trees and beat a tatoo on the roofs of the abandoned dwellings that once had echoed with the lusty songs of miners.

The only resident of Leechtown now is John Craig, self-styled mayor. He is one of the few living links with the past of that picturesque gold field and he still pans yellow metal in the sands of the Leech River.

Leech River and Leechtown were named after Lieutenant Leech, a royal navy man who was placed in charge of an exploring party in the early crown colony days of Vancouver Island. It was a member of his expedition who discovered gold and sent out the magic cry which lured fortune-seekers from two continents to the wilds of Southern Vancouver Island.

It was proposed that the members make Christmas Boxes for Charitable purposes. It was decided that these be left at Mrs. F. Parrott's during the week before Christmas.

The members were thanked for the plant sent to Mrs. C. Leavens and cigars to Mr. K. F. Williscon.

The quilt previously started was finished. After the roll call, the hostess served a very dainty lunch. Mrs. F. Parrott invited the Branch to her home for the December meeting.

ARE GREAT MEN BAD AT CARDS?

London, Don't shock your husband if he plays bad bridge. He may be some chancellor of the exchequer or British premier.

That's the latest sally, with reference to Winston Churchill— the ever popular and irrepressible chancellor of the exchequer — which is going the rounds of the card tables in London's clubland.

Churchill, noted as a brilliant conversationalist, has become the centre of bridge discussions, and as a bridge shark he doesn't seem to rank quite as high as in the conversational line.

Nor can he juggle his cards as expertly as he juggles budget figures in handling Great Britain's national budget of more than four billion dollars annually.

It is generally conceded that Churchill's bridge is rather a series of audacious sallies than any reasoned exercise like bridgeing. Several other members of the Baldwin cabinet who are capital on the platform are admittedly dubbs at the bridge table.

On the other hand among the leading feminigs of England, Lady Oxford ranks both as a brilliant conversationalist and as an expert bridge player. Lady Ribblesdale and Lady Ludlow are also assiduous players at the card table to whom the matter of speech presents no difficulties.

16 CELESTIALS EXECUTED

Hankow, China, Nov. 17.—Sixteen Chinese arrested in connection with a raid made by the pirates on the steamer Siwai, November 3, were executed last night.

Gay Adventurers By Mildred Barbour

CHAPTER 24
A RACING SUITOR

The Count entered, smiling and gay. He kissed Sheila's hands and fingered a rose in her corsage bouquet. "Ah, my beautiful wi—"

Sheila checked him with a horrified look. "Be careful," she said in an undertone. "The maid will hear you and then the jig will be up."

The Count chuckled. "What quaint expressions you Americans have. I heard an Englishman say the equivalent of that phrase today. It was so droll. He said, "The biscuits will be in the soup." Ha, Ha. But let me tell you the subject I have for you. I heard today that the Baronne de Courcy has asked you to be her guest at Cannes, and I want to urge you to accept by all means. Of course, she would have asked me if she had known that we are married, but since she doesn't and since my social position is infinitely above hers, I suppose the poor old dear just didn't think of it. However, I have friends in Cannes, so there will be no trouble about my appearing there a day or two after you arrive. Don't worry. We won't be separated long."

Sheila hardly heard what he was saying. She had seated herself at the desk and was scribbling a note to Harry. She had no intention of permitting him to find her in the Count's company after that rumpus over the phone. She folded the sheet of paper and gave it to the maid.

"When Mr. Edmonds comes, please see that he gets this . . . Come Jean, I'm starved."

The Count took his coat and hat and the maid opened the door. Sheila rushed into the room so rapidly that he collided with Sheila. He ignored the Count, and said to Sheila, "Running away eh? Afraid to wait for me?"

"Harry, please," she implored, "whatever it is that has upset you, I must ask you that you wait until tomorrow to discuss it. Then . . ."

"What is the meaning of all this?" demanded the Count. "How dare you rush into Miss Kerr's Suite in this fashion?"

Sheila turned to Bellefonte. "Will you leave us for a moment, Jean. I think Mr. Edmonds has something to say to me privately. Please wait in the lounge."

She fairly pushed the protesting Bellefonte out of the room and then closed the door between the sitting-room and the bedroom to keep the conversation from the maid's ears.

"Now what is it Harry?" she asked. "You seem to have some kind of shock."

"I have," he replied. "Constance how could you play such a beastly trick on me?"

"If you will tell me what you mean, I will try to answer you," she said wearily, "but I don't know what you are talking about."

"Why did you seem so relieved when I said I'd go back to London?" he asked. "It was because you were already shoulder to go to Cannes."

"But I told you all about that," she said in bewilderment.

"You didn't say that Bellefonte would be going too. I see the whole thing now. You just wanted to get rid of me, so you could elope with him. Constance you have destroyed my faith in womankind."

He looked so miserable that Sheila felt sorry for him. She sighed with all her heart that she could tell him what the situation really was, but she did not dare.

However, she had begun to think that Constance Kerr must be a terrible person. Why had she come to Paris, as she promised? Sheila felt that the explanation. If she could find it, would not reflect much credit on Constance.

However, such thoughts did not help her now. She must find some way of pacifying this frantic, jealous boy.

"Harry," she said softly, "I'll tell you frankly that there are some things I can't explain now. But you will hear about them later."

"Tomorrow, I suppose," he said, with an attempt at sarcasm. "Aren't you the person who is always promising full and complete explanations tomorrow? I think you are."

"Oh, Harry, don't be silly," she implored. "Now listen to me. Would I have come to Europe if I had been in love with the Count? I came because you were here."

"I don't know why you do anything" he muttered. "But from now on I am going to do a little guessing. I'm going to throw up my job in London and go to Cannes too. If that powers-that-be Bellefonte can go there, I guess I can manage it. And if you dare to carry on a flirtation with him under my nose, I will break his neck."

Harry's fierce, to Doctor Jazz, as he made this threat, was so evident that Sheila was startled. "If Malcolm had been anything like this boy in his methods of courting, I would on a married woman today," she reflected.

"If I had had the remotest idea Harry," she ventured, "that you would be worked up over a little thing like this I most certainly would have asked the Baronne to include you in her list of guests. The Count, you know, is not to be at her place, nor is he going to Cannes at my suggestion. But of course, if you will put your word when you said you had to be back on the job. You have got to be interested you must remember, if you are going to support a wife with extravagant tastes."

It touched her to see how easily Harry was swayed by her words. "I'm a boy must be frightfully in love with Constance," she said to herself. It really hope she does not break his heart."

After a moment he smiled. "If you want to come along to Cannes," she told him, "I have no objection. In fact I am delighted. I will ask the Baronne to invite you. If you wish. All I ask is that you do not make life any harder for me by taking too devoted when the Count is around."

What Will you do When your Children Cry for It

There is surely a household that hasn't heard of Castoria! At least five million homes are never without it. If there are children in your family, there's almost daily need of its comfort. And any night may find you very thankful there's a bottle in the house. A few drops, and the colic or constipation is relieved; or diarrhea checked. A vegetable product; a baby remedy meant for young folks, Castoria is about the only thing you have ever heard doctor advise giving to infants. Strong, medicines are dangerous to a tiny baby, however harmless they may be to grown-ups. Good old Castoria! Remember the name, and remember to buy it. It may spare you a sleepless anxious night. It is always ready, always safe to use; in emergencies, and for everyday ailments. Any hour of the day or night that Baby becomes fretful, or restless, Castoria was never more popular with mothers than it is today. Every druggist has it.

Gurney La Salle Heater

Just the thing for heating those rooms during the chilly fall evenings and blustery cold winter nights.

This new circulation heater is just 22 inches square, can be had with polished steel body or full vitreous enamel finish, and gives exceptional warmth to a room or rooms not exceeding 3,000 cubic feet. Heats by circulation, not by the old method of radiation. Burns all fuels economically and demands little attention.

ALBERT FAVORED TO BEAT PETES

Local Collegians Left For Cobourg For Big Conflict

The Albert College stalwarts today entered the Ontario Inter-scholastic rugby finals when they left for Cobourg to tangle with a fast team from Peterboro. At ten o'clock this morning the college lads left the school by bus in order to get to Cobourg in time to have a rest and look the field over. Albert are strong favorites to win this district, but the Peterboro Examiner is of the opinion that the P. C. I. squad is the better.

The elements seem to favour the local lads, and for this reason, Albert College team averages a little over 160 pounds and Peterboro only some 150 to 155. This will make a big difference on a wet and sloppy field for it means that the lighter team's end runs and trick plays which they practically have to use against a heavier squad, will be cancelled out by the latter's ability to pierce their backfield in times so that will not work so readily. On the contrary, Albert has three of the finest line plungers ever seen in this district in Youill, Jenkins and Mabee, not one of these boys being under a hundred and sixty pounds in weight.

Jenkins, it appears, has a broken nose, and earlier in the week was considered a doubtful starter, but as all local fans knows, to keep Jenkins out of the game he would have to be chloroformed or drugged.

Coach Pierce reports his boys in the finest of condition, not overtrained and full of fight. If the Albert lads can pull this game off—who knows how far they'll go?

Poems Old And New

A GREAT ADVENTURE.

In his own dear Arden, Shakespeare,
On a signal night in spring
Went adventuring and met with
New words for sing.
And the silver moon was peering
Through the black of branching trees
And the moment was for William,
Eternity's.

He had sought this place of wonder
Since the first hour he was man,
When the perfect name for woman
He knew was Ann.
And he found the tree of heaven,
Where, are red magic birds,
Where the green leaves are for healing . . .
And birds are words.

Then, Enchanted, Willow Wild-ash
And a thousand others flew
From a depth of things forgotten
To live new.
In the great heart of the poet,
Knowing death was not to be
When he offered Ann a music
Per you and me.

BY ARMZI O'CONNOR.

IN PETTIDONE HOLLOW

Down in God-forsaken Pettidone Hollow
About a day's ride from nowhere and pretty
As an iron sink,
I saw old Len Mutton digging a cellar for his new barn.
Slimy cold water oozed round his shovel

Pastern he could throw out the black mud;
The old barn was half buried in its own ruins,
And the bogue beside it was about as strong
As a yearling heifer sick with hoof and mouth.

Bridles all this,
The brook back of the place used every spring
To rise and carry off the hens and a turkey or two,
The only thing that staid by Len forever
Was a bunch of hegr that stank the place to death.

I said, "Now why try building here again . . . ,
Why let the whole shebang fall down,
Or tear it down and use the best timber for
Get out of the road . . . more up on the green hill,
You'll feel better and I'll bet a cent
Your wife won't be plagued with rheumatics any more;
Get out of this hole and build a place Where you can live in peace and comfort."

Len leaned on his shovel and thought awhile,
Then looked around the place and up at the cold shore;
"No . . . , No . . . , I couldn't do that," he finally said,
"I'd have to come down . . . for my mail."

Always remember to brush scones over with a little milk before putting them in the oven. It makes all the difference to their table appearance.

What to do with Sour Milk

Sour milk can be utilized for making many different kinds of cake, but if it is not convenient, to use it in this manner warm it slightly in a saucepan, then pour off the "whey" and transfer the "curds" into curd cheese cakes by adding a piece of butter, sugar to taste, a nutmeg, and a few currants.

Jams and Jellies

If jams or jellies become caked or sugary, place the jars in a bowl of cold water and stand in the oven. When the preserve melts, remove the jars and allow to become cold. This will cause the hardened sugar to disappear and bring the conserve back to its original state.

Treating Day Flies

If an iron is rather dirty damp a piece of paper with big water, dip it into powdered bathbrick and apply to the iron, paying particular attention to the edges. When the iron has been heated to the desired temperature rub it several times over a piece of cloth containing a little shredded beeswax, and wipe well before using.

Removing Grease

Grease may often be removed by absorption. Mix powdered French chalk or fullers-earth to a paste with water or turpentine. Spread thickly on the grease spot. Let stand several days then brush off. Repeat if necessary. On delicate fabrics which might show a water line from the foregoing application, put some cornstarch on a piece of blotting paper, lay material greased on that, then another spot with cornstarch. Lay on a piece of blotting paper and set a hot iron on it, letting it remain a short time. Repeat if necessary.

VALUE OF WATER AND TEA

Do you drink sufficient water? Most people, it is safe to predict, do not realize the true value of a cup "from the crystal spring." They drink tea, coffee, and all forms of alcohol, but the simple beverage of nature goes untouched.

The human system requires about three and a half to five pints of fluid per day says Dr. Estelle Cole. When such a fact is stated most people raise their hands in holy horror. This is nevertheless true. It is not possible for any skin to be beautiful unless the system is in good working order.

Towards such an attainment water helps by flushing the internal organs. Further, it helps the action of the skin through the excretion of perspiration, particularly in hot weather. The pores of the skin throw off many deleterious products which are harmful to the system.

Relieved of its impurities in this way, bright eyes and a clear complexion are the result. This can be successfully achieved by drinking water in large quantities.

There is a belief that water makes one fat. But, according to Dr. Estelle Cole, it is really a fairy tale. For those who delight in flavours, lemon and orange can be added to the water. They materially assist its efficacy as blood purifiers.

Water is a great remover of wrinkles, adds this eminent medical authority. A dried-up skin can be made to look fresher if its possessor will drink just a few glasses daily. All the tissues require water to help them to maintain a healthy balance in the organism. Without it they may become starved, shrivelled, and unable to perform their duties satisfactorily.

Water is not only an internal aid towards the hygiene of the skin. Through the bath its value is further increased. The pores of the skin need cleaning daily owing to the impurities that pass through them. When any of them are blocked the chances are that unsightly spots and pimples may appear.

Sir Jamshed Lane is equally emphatic on the importance of drinking a sufficient quantity of water. Six large tumblers of water, he says, should be drunk each day by every one—two on rising, two on retiring, and two others between meals.

Many people do not drink this amount because they are afraid of the hardness of the water, but they should remember, as Sir Arbuthnot Lane points out, that the salts usually found in natural water are not directly injurious.

HOW TO COUGH

Make as Little Noise as Possible.

A prominent doctor stated recently that few people know how to cough properly. As a matter of fact it never occurs to the ordinary individual that there is a right way and a wrong way of no small importance. There is, nevertheless, and the right way is to cough gently.

If every sigh means a drop of blood out of the heart, as people say, every cough means some greater or less proportion of time knocked off one's life says this medical authority. Most people cough as loudly and forcibly as they can. But a better costly noise, for the simple reason that it tears and inflames the lungs. The lungs consist of an extraordinary delicate sponge-like tissue, which sometimes gets inflamed and choked with phlegm. When we try to get rid of this substance, we cough. But obviously, if we remove it violently, we must necessarily injure the delicate lung tissue. Therefore train yourself to cough as gently as possible.

A violent attack of coughing can often be relieved by taking a tablespoonful of glycerine in hot milk or cream. This is also simply easily obtained, and harmless remedy, but equally simple and quite as effective

Salmon and Macaroni Loaf

Cook one cupful of macaroni in boiling salted water until almost tender. Then drain and mix the macaroni with the contents of one can of salmon, one-quarter cupful finely chopped onion, salt and pepper and two well beaten eggs. Pack into a greased loaf pan and bake in a moderate oven until set. When cooked turn out on a platter and serve hot with Hollandaise sauce. Garnish attractively with parsley and lemon.

Cheese Dreams

Cut bread in slices one-quarter inch thick and butter on one side. Mix cheese one-eighth of an inch thick and arrange between two slices of bread, like a sandwich. Toast both sides of the sandwiches. Serve hot with tomato sauce.

Tomato sauce is quickly and easily made as follows:—To one scupful of tomato soup add one cupful of water and heat to the boiling point. Mix three tablespoons of flour paste, then stir it into the hot tomato juice. Stir while cooking until thick. With the addition of onions and green peppers, this becomes Spanish sauce.

Frozen Date—Cheese Salad

Mash two cupfuls of dates, or slice weighing half a pound, to a paste. Add, to it one half teaspoonful salt, zero-degree (cayenne) paprika, two tablespoonfuls chopped green pepper, two tablespoonfuls chopped pimento. Fold in one cupful of cream, whipped. Fill mould with this mixture and freeze. In an electric refrigerator, this mixture will be ready in four or five hours. The length of time depends on the kind of refrigerator. If packed in ice, use three parts by weight of ice, and let freeze; for two or three hours.

Serve pats of the frozen cheese on lettuce. Sprinkle over with chopped nuts and dress with mayonnaise mixed with dates stuffed with maraschino cherries. Use a mild dressing.

Bananas in Blankets

Pare bananas and cut each in three pieces. Wrap each piece with a strip of bacon and place in a broiling oven. Cook until the bacon is crisp, turning frequently. Where one has no broiling oven they may be baked in a quick oven, but will also need to be turned frequently if using this method. Serve hot with orange sauce, garnished with chopped walnuts and watercress.

JUST IN PASSING

Whence, comes solace? Not from seeing
What is doing, suffering, being;
Not from noting life's conditions;
Not from heeding Time's munitions;
But in clearing to the Dream,
And in gazing at the gleam
Wherchy grey things golden seem.

but for God's sake let us pass on."

BELLEVILLE'S RADIO HOUR.

Well, we have had Belleville on the radio at last — and wasn't it a grand? When Mayor Duff got through with that excellent speech of his I had to curb a strong impulse to rush a telegram to everyone I had ever met that Belleville is my home and that my name, (at least part of it) is in the directory of that wonderful city. (By the way, what Belleville Rotarian conceived the idea of putting the wife's Christian name in brackets in our city directory?). It may be useful for distracted workers and fathers when hunting for a name for a wee girlie just arrived, but really isn't it a bit thick for should I say them to strangers in the public gaze in that way? We are not responsible for the names tacked unto us at birth — in fact, some of us didn't ask to be born at all, let alone given a label that often sounds like a new breakfast food or a washing fluid!)

But to return to Belleville (we'll never want to leave it again now) as I said, I wanted to shout from the housetops that the heavenly place of which Mayor Duff told was MY earthly habitation!

The announcer, too, had a way of telling his tongue around our city's name as if he loved it. I wouldn't be surprised to hear he came from Belleville. So many people do, you know! Just imagine if we had stayed at Meyer's Creek! One couldn't boost that name over the radio very well, and besides no one would want "to come" from Meyer's Creek—not even Beatrice Lillie!

DO YOU TELL YOUR HUSBAND?

"Should a woman tell her husband everything that has happened during the day?"

Like every question this one has two sides and it depends on the character of your own particular man. Some men like to know everything about the domestic machinery—what is bought, etc. If your man is of this type, he only thing to do is to tell him everything. Probably, as time goes on, the repetition of small details will cure this inquisitive fellow!

But, if your man is one of the ordinary kind, he won't care what has happened if the house toots warm and cozy and a well-cooked meal is served to him.

Many wives tell their husbands all the petty troubles of the day at this meal. This is a mistake. No matter how worrying the day has been, do not air it at the table. If anything of an unpleasant nature must be told, wait until dinner is cleared away and he is settled in front of the fire. He is sure to be in a more sympathetic mood.

ANIMALS KNOW WEATHER

Sixth Sense Which We Do Not Have.

It is proverbial that pigs see the wind. These creatures become restless and prepare their beds of straw before a severe storm some hours earlier than human organs are aware of its approach.

Ducks go out to the grass fields to search for the snails which they know will be found before the coming shower. The field mouse covers up her hole in due time before the activity of cold weather.

Fish have the strongest instinct in regard to the changing of the weather refusing obstinately to rise at the most tempting baits or flies if a thunder storm is approaching, and dates stuffed with maraschino cherries. Use a mild dressing.

shifting their quarters according as the coming rain or the dryness at the atmosphere warns them.

The grouse foretell the approach. ing rains before the most weather-wise shepherd can do so, by breaking themselves to the dry nights, when they sit or walk about with erect heads and necks, in a manner quite different from their usual gait. So do the mountain-sheep change their feeding-ground fr the lee side of the hills before severe blasts of wind and rain.

Warning of an approaching change in the weather may often be taken in regard to the changing of the weather refusing obstinately to rise at the most tempting baits or flies if a thunder storm is approaching, spoiled directly to the inflamed or irritated surfaces.

In attacks of influenza cold in the head, sore throat, and like troubles, glycerine mixed with three times its bulk of boiled and cooled water is an invaluable remedy.

FOREIGN SECRETARY ATTENDED LUNCHEON

Quebec, Nov. 16.—Sir Austen Chamberlain, British Foreign Secretary attended the luncheon given in his honor by the Canadian Club today. Tonight he will be given a dinner by the Hon. Narcisse Perodeau, Lieutenant-Governor of Quebec. With his family he will sail for England tomorrow on the Regina.

The whole world knows Aspirin as an effective antidote for pain. But it's just as important to know that there is only one genuine Aspirin. The name Bayer is on every tablet, and on the box. If the name Bayer appears, it's genuine; and if it doesn't, it is not. Headaches are dispelled by Aspirin. So are colds, and the pain that goes with them; even neuralgia, neuritis, and rheumatism promptly relieved. Get Aspirin—at any druggist—with proven directions.

Physicians prescribe Aspirin; it does NOT affect the heart

Aspirin is the trade mark (registered in Canada) indicating Bayer Manufacture. While it is well known that Aspirin means Bayer manufacture, to assure the public against imitations, the Tablets will be stamped with their "Bayer Cross" trademark.

SINICAL SADIE SEES

A Scotch professional golfer after fourteen years of retirement has resumed the game. Evidently he found his ball.

Promptly at 10 o'clock on Wednesday night CKGW went dead for 3-4 of an hour. Sinical Sadie says such an array of musical talent from Belleville the Beautiful was too much even for that powerful station.

Sinical Sadie says Mr. Moorman can come to this office and sing "Old Black Joe" any old time.

Sinical Sadie notices that Mayor Duff omitted the mention of the filling station which was allowed to occupy a corner of the Main intersection of Belleville the Beautiful.

Some writer has summed up compulsionate marriage in the words of the man who advised his fellows to follow their inclinations but with due regard to the policeman 'round the corner.

Sinical Sadie says she thinks perhaps if Mr. Robb heard the truth about Belleville from the mayor, he might change his mind and stay in our midst.

The playwright, the is casting a new play, was discussing with a lady the difficulty of filling one particular part. "I want," he said, "a young man who looks like Lindbergh, who is tall, title-eyed, who has sex appeal, a sense of humor, and an air of distinction." "So do I," sighed the lady.

Sinical Sadie says there were two unfortunate omissions in the program, —Sandy Burrows about October Ale and her other half in his Malin Song.

EARS

(By D. M. Holland)

Oh, how I hate to hear Nurse say
"Mary have you washed your ears today?"
The other things one's got to do,
I like brush your hair, or tie that shoe,
Or wipe your mouth and say your grace,
Or clean your hands and scrape your face,
All these make children's lives a pest,
And give them little or no rest.
But all of these I'd greet with cheers
To be excused from Wash Your Ears.

When I'm grown up I often think
How I'll have lemonade to drink,
And tea every day, of course,
And six large dogs and p'raps a horse.
And no one ever there to say
"Now tidy up and stop your play,"
I daresay I'll be awful dirty
When I'm a quite old man of thirty,
But once grown up I tell you plain
I'll NEVER wash my ears again!

MOTHER FEELS SAFE

To the food mother every cough and cold is serious and rightly so, for it is in the neglected cold that many dangerous illnesses have their beginning. It is so easy to check a cold with Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed & Turpentine that mother feels safe as long as she has it at hand.

Croup, bronchitis, whooping cough, as well as the more ordinary colds, are quickly relieved by this time-tested medicine.

There is a place in your medicine cabinet for Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed & Turpentine. When you need it, you need it quickly.

DISCOVERY MADE OF THIRTY SKELETONS

Brockville, Ont., Nov. 16—Discovery of thirty human skeletons, many in a perfect state of preservation, in an excavation by Government Highway employees near Woodlands village is reported today. In the absence of any information bearing on the opening of a burial plot there by early settlers, it is believed the remains are those of victims of ship fever, Irish immigrants who perished along the St. Lawrence about a century ago.

WINTER USE OF ICE IS COMMON

Let Graham's solve that ice problem of yours. Even with the advent of colder weather, and at a time of year when most people used to consider the use of ice a luxury, there are more people than ever before using ice in November, and more people than ever before who intend to use it throughout the winter.

Graham's ice is made from pure water and is made from day to day as it is required. It is absolutely clean and germ-proof and as such is vastly different from other ice, made from impure water and which might carry disease bearing germs.

Considering that Graham's ice is superior to other ice, one might reasonably expect that it would be higher in price; but such is not the case. For being harder, it lasts longer, and so is actually cheaper in the long run than other ice.

A phone call to 374 will put you on the list for regular and prompt delivery of this better and cheaper ice.

ONE MORE REO SPEED WAGON DELIVERED HERE

Increasing Number of These Popular Trucks Are In Use

In delivering another of the famous 6 cylinder Reo Speed Wagons in the District this past week, Aledaire and Sons have added another to the growing list of these well known trucks now operating in the city and vicinity. The latest firm to choose Reo is the Canadian Industrial Alcohol Company at Cobourg, and the model purchased is the Reo Master Speed Wagon of two ton capacity.

This model, like other speed wagons, has a powerful and flexible six cylinder motor, capable of moving this speed wagon at a high rate of speed. Its design and finish the new outfit is all that could be desired and reflects the newest trend in fine car design.

We recall some of the early motor trucks made about fifteen years ago in a Western Ontario city, and how during them one can't help but be struck with the vast strides made in truck construction since that time. This particular make of which we speak was equipped, of course, with hard rubber tires, was about one ton capacity, and the engine was located down under the floor with the driver's seat right back of the radiator. And there was no closed-in cab for the comfort of the driver and no soft cushioned seat for him either. And thus equipped the little old truck ambled slowly along roads which for the most part didn't offer much inducement to speed anyway.

But pneumatic tires, good roads, perfect six cylinder engines, and good design, within a view to assist appearance and to the comfort of the driver—these have all contributed in the product of the Reo Speed Wagons. And there is a vast difference between the old and new.

Aledaire and Sons are local Reo and Wolverine Agents. Have them give you a demonstration of the New Reo Speed Wagon.

HAT CLEANING A MONEY SAVER

The average man isn't in a position to throw money away yet at the same time that is exactly what many of them are doing. For instance, when a new hat gets a bit until it is soiled and out of shape, and then proceeds to throw it away, he is wasting quite a bit of money. For nowadays with the expert hat cleaning service available, and the prices about this may be secured, there is no reason why any man should not at the great expense wear that with his felt hats and at the same time have them looking at all times their best.

Maraskas on Front Street opposite Victoria Ore., is prepared to give you just that kind of service—expert hat cleaning, and prompt service at all times—and all this at most reasonable rates.

So take a look at that hat of yours and most everyone she does—then bring it into Maraskas tomorrow and have him put it back in good shape for you at small cost. You'll agree when you see it cleaned that the small outlay was well worth the cost, and then some.

HOUSTON LUMBER CO. HAS RECORD BUSINESS

Houston Lumber Company, which recently transferred its headquarters from Tweed to this city, is enjoying this year the best business of its history. In fact, during the month of October, the business done by this progressive lumber and supply firm was the largest ever handled.

Such a record is an encouraging indication of business conditions locally at the present time. The Houston Company is rapidly making the necessary improvements in its plant to take care of the promising business for the coming year; for all signs point to another record season during 1929.

MUSIC WITH MEALS AT WONG'S RESTAURANT

Patrons of Wong's Cafe these days are privileged to enjoy the very best in radio and victrola music; for this progressive restaurant has installed a handsome New Combination Orthophonic and Radio Set, product of the Victor Company. This combination is a hard one to beat, and some really enjoyable music, loud enough to be audible throughout the whole restaurant, has been enjoyed by Wong's patrons since the new Combination set was installed. This is just one more of the many features that combine to make Wong's cafe, next the Intelligencer, the popular place to eat.

READERS' EYE STRAIN NATURAL

Prolonged Reading Subjects Eye Muscles To Fatigue

It was thought at one time that in reading, the perception of words took place in smooth and continuous movements. Such is not the case; the movement is in reality a series of jerks with a pause after each jerk.

The only movement that's regular and smooth is that from the end of one line to the beginning of the next. The jerky movements are short and rapid, and the duration of the pauses during which the eyes are fixated upon the print are much greater. Well known words are read at a single fixation.

During fixation the eye is never completely at rest, but slight movements occur. The eye muscles are undoubtedly subject to fatigue owing to prolonged reading. Small angle eye movements are particularly fatiguing. Children remedy this by bringing the print nearer the eyes, but this throws a strain on the muscles and gives a tendency toward nearsightedness. Consult Edwards, optometrist for an early examination.

GOOD BATTERY CARE IS MOST ESSENTIAL

The "regulars" don't get stalled. So says Mr. Chris Lewis of Quinte Battery Service, local Willard Battery dealer.

Mr. Lewis remers to the automobilists who are careful to secure regular battery service.

"We very seldom have a road or emergency call from any of our regulars. The car owner who gets stalled is the one who forgets there is a battery in his car until it gets dead," explains Mr. Lewis.

"The Willard people established the Willard battery and all over the country extend this same service, and it's rests the car owner nothing except the few minutes time to come in and have his battery thoroughly inspected, and if it is not in need of recharging, money spent on "repairs and recharges" concludes Mr. Lewis.

STUDEBAKER CAR ADDS TO MANY SPEED RECORDS

Brooklands, famous British motor speedway, was the scene of a series of trials recently to demonstrate the high speed reliability and endurance of Studebaker and Erskine cars. The tests were made with strictly stock model enclosed cars and amateur drivers, and were held under official observation of the Royal Automobile Club.

In the first test run, which was held at Brooklands on September 18, an Erskine Six Sedan travelled 500.8 miles at an average speed of 58.8 m.p.h., or 50 miles in less than 512 minutes. An Owner-driver, C. L. Sproxton, was at the wheel of the Erskine during the entire run.

On September 19, the second trial was held with a fully-equipped Studebaker Director Sedan. The Director, driven by C. W. A. Laird, amateur, covered 500.8 miles at an average speed of 62.4 m.p.h., equivalent to 500 miles in less than 497 minutes.

A Studebaker President Eight Sedan, fully equipped, was selected for the third test, which was held at Brooklands on September 20. Driven by C. W. Chambers, Studebaker-Erskine dealer, The President traveled 500 miles at an average speed of 71.4 m.p.h. The test was completed on a wet track in blinding rain.

The British trials, which are all the more remarkable since each was made with an enclosed model, climax a year of tests with Studebaker and Erskine cars which are without parallel in automobile history. In the United States from August 6, 1927 to August 6, 1928, Studebaker and Erskine cars in test runs traveled 254,595 miles at speeds averaging more than 65 m.p.h. during the year Studebaker won and now holds 5 official world records, 114 official American records and 48 official Australian records for speed and endurance.

LITTLE HOME COOKING IS DONE NOWADAYS

One of these days when you're down street drop in to Tarlington's Store on Front Street, and inspect the complete line of cakes, pastry and doughnuts made and sold by this up to date progressive firm.

Tarlington's have built up an enviable reputation through their ability to make for their customers pastry that has the old time homemade flavour that is always sought, and which at the same time contains ingredients which are the purest and best obtainable on the market.

Added to this, of course, is the fact that the services of only the most skilled bakers are employed, and the combination of all the above is the reason why Tarlington's business has been expanded by leaps and bounds during the past few years until the store has become the shopping centre for men and women who like the best in homemade cakes, etc., yet who do not wish to bake their own.

Try Tarlington's one of these days; you'll like both the quality and the variety.

CORNEA TRANSFER MOST SUCCESSFUL

New York.— The transplantation of the cornea of an eye from one patient to another whose sight was failing has resulted in at least temporary success. It was announced by Dr. Iago Galdston, executive secretary of the Medical Information Bureau, of the New York County Medical Association. When the bandages were removed this morning from the eyes of Bert Ferguson, who has one glass eye and had been losing the sight of the other, he could discern objects at a distance of ten feet.

The cornea of the eye of Charles E Greenblatt, cotton goods salesman, of 672 Empire Boulevard, Brooklyn, who had his eye removed on October 25 because he was suffering from tumor, was grafted onto the white membrane which forms the outer over ng of Ferguson's eye. The cornea took perfectly healthy. The operation was to determine whether it would take root and establish nutrition channels.

Dr. Galdston said that, although Ferguson's condition today was satisfactory, the process must not be considered final. It will be another two or three weeks before it is definitely ascertained that the cornea will continue to adhere to the eyeball.

COULDN'T SURVIVE WITHOUT PET PEKE
Montreal, Que., (C. P.)— Life lost all its flavor for Louie Gold, aged 28 when someone stole her little Pekinese dog last week. She reported the theft to the police but by the time they arrived on the scene she had turned on the gas in her apartment and was dead in death.
Police on Friday received a report that the woman's apartment at 28 Plateau street had been robbed. She complained that a man who had visited during the week had carried off her pet dog valued at $300. Mrs. Gold informed the headquarters detectives tearfully that they "simply must" find the animal for her. She had, treasured it long and lavished care and affection on it. A large quantity of clothing had been stolen from the apartment, too, she informed them but she emphasized the fact that the theft of the dog was her only concern at the moment.

Leavens Brothers Plan to Establish Flying School in Belleville

INSPECTOR BACK FROM KIRKFIELD

Officers Believe She Killed Herself on Night of Disappearance

NO NOTICE

Sombre Village Returns to Quiet Rural Life After Hectic Days

Provincial Inspector Lougheed has returned from Kirkfield where he was investigating the disappearance of Gladys Brotherton last week, along with Provincial Constable Wetherall, of Lindsay. Mr. Lougheed declared that it was only good fortune that the body of Miss Brotherton was found, as on the Sunday previous, Constable Wetherall, who was at that time conducting the case, had stood with another man within twenty-five feet of the spot, and owing to the dense undergrowth had failed to see her.

Those who were conducting the search, some eighty to one hundred farmers of the district, were of the complete opinion that the girl had taken her own life, and that she had been dead some five days at least, probably committing the rash act the same evening that she disappeared.

Medical testimony will show that the nineteen year old girl was not alive when clairvoyants were seeing her in the crystal hiding among the rocks. Why Miss Brotherton should have taken her own life is something that will probably never be known, as the facial blemish of which so much was made was hardly noticeable.

Wyv Mills, where the girl was found, is about three miles from her home, and she apparently walked along the Victoria Road to that spot, turned off the road there, and went into the bush about one hundred yards before firing the gun which ended her life. Kirkfield will now in all likelihood settle back into its ordinary accustomed run of quiet life, which was broken by the tragedy which turned the eyes of the world on the little town.

LUMBER OFFICIAL LOST IN THE WOODS

Port Arthur, Ont., Nov. 19.—Fears are entertained for the safety of A. C. Sharwood, accountant of the Newman timber Co., who has been missing from the isolated camp of the company since Thursday. He went hunting without a business visit to the camp and when he did not return, search parties were sent out without result.

WEEKLY PAPERS MAY BE JOINED

Reported Amalgamation of Tweed "News" and "Advocate"

Negotiations are under way, it is understood, and nearly completed, for the amalgamation of the Tweed News and the Tweed Advocate, two flourishing weekly newspapers in that village. Speaking to the Intelligencer this morning, Mrs. S. G. Way, owner of the "Advocate", stated that nothing definite was known as yet but that the matter had been discussed and negotiations were under way for the joining of the two newspapers. It is understood Mr. S. G. Morrison will control the two papers.

The Tweed "News" is the older of the two publications, and the editor and part shareholder ofthis concern is Mr. S. G. Morrison, who could not be located today when the Intelligencer tried to get in touch with him to confirm the amalgamation. Mr. Morrison has been editor of the "News" for about seven years, while Mr. W. J. Taylor, now ofthe Woodstock "Sentinel-Review", was proprietor before him. Mr. O. M. Alger, now of the Oshawa "Times" preceded Mr. Taylor.

Mr. S. G. Way purchased the "Advocate" from Mrs. Z. Lafontaine upon the death of Mr. Lafontaine. Her husband passed away one year ago.

LEAVENS BROTHERS PLAN TO OPEN FLYING SCHOOL IN BELLEVILLE

Have Taken, Twenty-Nine Hundred Passengers For A "Jaunt"

Belleville may become the centre of attention for Central Canada if the plans of Walter and Arthur Leavens, two local men, materialize. These two young flying men have done a great deal to place Belleville on the aerial map this year. Early last spring they came back home after having spent two years in the United States receiving flying instructions. At that time they had a small Waco plane, and they did a thriving business in passenger trade in Belleville and neighboring towns. The plane landed on the ice in the Bay of Quinte in the Spring months and when the warmer weather arrived it was necessary to secure a field. An option was taken on a stretch of ground near the new Agricultural Field owned by Col. W. N. Ponton. This served to good purpose during the summer months and many Belleville saw the city for the first time from the air.

Later Walter and Arthur Leavens together with their pilot, Michael Sinclair on barnstorming trip visiting practically every town between Windsor and Montreal. Twenty-nine hundred passengers were given a trip in the clouds during the summer. The young fliers did not have an opportunity to

INSPECTION OF NEW COLLEGIATE

Members North Bay Board of Education Pay Visit to City

Messrs. Planner and Black, of the North Bay Board of Education, accompanied by Mr. Frank D. Wallace, principal of the North Bay High School, arrived in the city last night to inspect Belleville's new collegiate and vocational school, one of the newest high schools that will be included in the itinerary of these men in the interests of an addition that will be built on the northern city's school in the near future.

This morning Messrs. H. W. Ackermann, A. McCle and several other members of the local Board of Education conducted the visitors through the new school. At noon a number of the members of the school board entertained the North Bay members to luncheon at the Quinte Hotel, after which the visitors left for Ttronto.

North Bay, in building an addition to its high school, wished to see the latest in buildings and that is the reason that Belleville's Collegiate was one of the first schools inspected.

GOTHAM STOCKS MOVE DOWNWARD

Call Money Firm at Renewal Rate of Six and One-Half

BULLS ACTIVE

Trading Fails to Maintain Recent Terrific Pace on Wall Street

New York, Nov. 19.—There were more sellers than buyers in the stock market today, with the result that the general price tendency was downward. Trading failed to maintain the terrific pace set in series of record breaking sessions last week but due to accumulation of small orders, the ticker again fell hopelessly behind the market, being 50 minutes late at 1.15 p.m. The decline, which ran from one to four points in most of the active stocks and 5 to nearly 9 points in some of the high-priced specialities, was by no means general. The Bull "pools" were again active in the select assortment of copper, eastern rail, merchandising, oil and chemical issues a number of which were pushed up to new high records.

There was nothing in the day's news itself to influence the liquidation of stocks as the large majority of the weekly summaries and trade reviews were optimistic in character. Call money was somewhat firmer today at the renewal rate, of six and a half per cent. The banks called about $10000.000 in loans during the morning.

Montgomery Ward ran up to new high today at 428 and then broke to 419. Wright Aero fell nine and a half points below last Saturday's final quotation and the loss of 17 points of the last named being accompanied by the report that Pitcher Brothers of Detroit had disposed of their holdings at a substantial profit.

New high records were established by the liquid amount, Johns Manville Shell Union, Phillips petroleum Virginia Carolina Chemical American Woollen, Continental Motors and Par amount Famous Lasky.

WHEAT PRICES LIFT ON CHICAGO MART

Chicago, Nov. 19.—Unexpected firmness of Liverpool wheat quotations, together with rains reports from Argentine tended to lift wheat prices here today at the start. The offerings increased as the session here, however, and a reaction ensued. The open ng unchanged to 1-4 up, Chicago wheat followed almost everything at a setback all around. Forecast of fair weather helped to ease corn which opened unchanged to 3-8 higher and subsequently reacted. Oats were steady.

MISSING GIRL IS FINALLY FOUND

Albertina Claremont, New Toronto Lass Known in Marmora

Albertina Claremont, 239 Sixth street New Toronto, who has been missing since November the 11th, has returned to her home. It was learned from Toronto Police Headquarters. It is understood that the girl who is thirteen years of age, went to her aunt's home, her mother's sister, Mrs. Morris Collins, 1006 Gerrard street East.

On Saturday morning last the girl left home to visit a friend of the family and on coming back Saturday night met her uncle, Mr. Collins on a street car in the vicinity of Victoria avenue. She told him that she was going home with him and although he did not recognize her he took her home. Mrs. Collins who is a half sister of the girl's mother, had not been in touch with the girl's family for some time and had not heard of Albertina having left without telling her parents until she read it in a paper last Saturday morning.

Albertina Claremont is a native of Marmora, Ontario, where she had lived for some years. Her father is working in that village at the present time and she also has an uncle living there. Just why the girl left home has not been ascertained, although it is understood that before disappearing she had had a quarrel with her sister.

CYCLIST THROWN FROM HIS WHEEL

Horace Bowler, Station St., Sustains an Injured Hip

Horace S. Bowler, 153 Station street yesterday afternoon about five-thirty o'clock, riding a bicycle, received painful injuries to his hip when he was struck by a car driven by Richard Shapley of this city. Shapley was in no way to blame for the accident, as it was shown that Bowler turned in front of him and Shapley was travelling at a moderate rate of speed.

Bowler was coming north on Pinnacle St., near Station St. while Stap ley was proceeding south, and when at the rear ofthe Graham plant, Bowler apparently changed his mind and turned around sharply, with the result that he was struck. The bicycle was badly damaged. Dr. Stobie attended the injured man.

RAIL VETERANS GIVEN A REST

Two "Old-Timers" Started Careers in Central Ontario

The Canadian National Railways magazine in a recent issue contains the names of three veterans of the Grand Trunk Western service who have recently been retired on pension to spend the rest of the r lives in well-earned rest. These three men, Frank H. Crawford, Silas Caulkett and James N Chrysler, have an aggregate continuous service of 124 years to their credit!

Two of these men Silas Caulkett and James Chrysler are well-known men of this district, the former was born at Port Hope, Ont., and the latter at Rob Roy Mills. Mr. Crawford who has been over fifty years in serv ce entering the employ of the then Port Huron and Northwestern which operated as far as Flint, Mich. Those three veterans when recently called together at Tunnel Depot spent much of their time in reminiscences of former days. They remembered the ti mes when the wood burning locomotives were n general use and Mr. Chrysler recalled when as a boy at Brighton, Ont, he used to pu wood at the depot for the locomotives at ten cents a cord. Hand brakes were used in those days and all of these veteran s of railway service bear testimony to this in their calloused hands, scarred by the old "link and p n coupler."

All three men are still active and alert and look forward to many years of peaceful rest in the comfort of their own homes.

ANOTHER LOCAL BOY IS HONORED

Dr. Garvn H. Berkley, of St. Catharines, youngest son of Mrs. Berkley and the late J. A. Berkley, 282 Ann St., has been appointed to the Senate of the Toronto University for a term of 4 years, 1928-1932. Dr. Berkley was born in Belleville and graduated from High School, took his B.A. degree at Queens, then to Toronto University where he took his M.A. and P.Hd. degree. For the past 5 years he has been in St. Catharines Pathologist in charge of Laboratory of Botany.

Disease Breaks Out Adding to Dangers in Flood Areas

RIVERS ON RAMPAGE

Relief Parties Rush to Aid of Stricken Kentucky People

Kansas City, Nov. 19.—Snow fell generally over the flooded areas of Kansas, Missouri and Oklahoma today, intensifying the suffering and hardship of thousands of persons driven from homes by overflows.

With the known toll of dead and missing standing at seven, additional lives were endangered by the possible outbreaks of disease, expected to follow the severe climatic change, which had temperature in lower than the.

The national and local relief agencies throughout the flooded sections have joined to combat the new menace and to aid in the rehabilitation of the victims, many of whom are likely to have a hard time with the early coming of winter.

Property damage runs into millions the principal loss being to crops, livestock and flooded homes and buildings. With the crest of the flood pass ing from the central and northeastern Kansas uplands, the danger was increased in the southeastern Kansas, where much of the turbulent overflow will leave the state in large areas.

3 Men Lost Lives

Pineville, Ky., Nov. 19.—The Cumberland, river, swollen by 36 hours of torrential rain went on a rampage today causing the deaths of three men, driving families from the lowland homes and inundating the business district of Middlesboro, Ky.

Three employees of a coal company lost their lives in about sixteen feet from here, when they walked out on a bridge to look at the mass of wreckage. The flood hurled the wreckage at the bridge with such force that it tore it to be added to the heap last torrent.

As the water continued to rise it was predicted that the flood would equal that of 1918, when the water lay in the houses to a depth of four feet. Practically all the roads in the vicinity are under water.

SOAP, GASOLINE FROM HARD COAL

Methods of Making Oil and Kerosene Told by German Expert

Pittsburg, Penn., Nov. 19.—Germany's success in making synthetic gasoline from coal, and also soap from coal was described today by Dr. Karl Krauch, at the international conference on bituminous coal at Carnegie Institute of Technology.

Krauch said that coal gasoline could be obtained by the same process as other products, such as kerosene, gas, oil and lubricating oils, thus enabling the country to avoid the fluctuations if the market. Anti-knock gasoline could be produced the same way, Krauch said. Mr. Chrysler recalled when as a boy at Brighton, Ont, he used to pu wood at the depot for the locomotives at ten cents a cord. Hand brakes were used in those days and all of these veteran s of railway service bear testimony to this in their calloused hands, scarred by the old "link and p n coupler."

All three men are still active and alert and look forward to many years of peaceful rest in the comfort of their own homes.

FIREMAN'S BADGE UNEARTHED HERE

A more than interesting relic was found in Belleville last week when men were digging the foundation for the addition to Queen's Hotel. An ancient fireman's badge, dated 1871, was found buried in the ground, in good condition, but with one section badly burned. The badge is of a large size and on the front are crossed swords, a large letter "T", evidently denoting No. 3 fire station and a crest, surmounted by the fact that 1871 is the year in which Mr. Tom Power, owner of the Queen's hotel, was born. It is intended to turn the badge over to Fire Chief Brown.

TO-DAY'S THOUGHT

Clothe your bondage as we will.
The woman, woman rules us still.

TOURISTS DO NOT ALL COME FOR LIQUOR

A Canadian newspaper recently expressed the belief that before the year is out $300,000,000 of Uncle Sam's money will have been spent by visitors in this country. The statement is made the subject of an interesting article by Mr. Rodney Dutcher in Washington observer of the staff of the Newspaper Enterprise Association, but not all the meat of the yarn is digestible. Mr. Dutcher interviewed Dr. Ray Hall, assistant chief of the finance and investment division of the Bureau of foreign and domestic commerce, and that official declared his reports showed that in one province U. S. tourists spent an estimated $2,000,000 for liquor and in another province almost as much.

Mr. Robert Bakeo, whose delight it is to play with statistics, says the estimate of $3100,000,000 spent by visitors to Canada is exaggerated. He places the total at not more than $650,000,000. Ontario is shown as getting the largest number of Americans, Quebec next and British Columbia third. In 1927, the records show, 2,410,-027 visited Canada for 24 hours or more and this year the number presumably will run somewhere near 2,500,000.

Dr. Hall does not believe that all the residents of his country who hit Canada come over because of the ease of "getting one's whistle" on this side of the border line, pointing out that there are many other beautiful things about Canada — beautiful scenery, beautiful roads, beautiful hunting, beautiful fishing and beautiful what not.

Mr. Dutcher goes to remark, that, of course, it may be the purest coincidence that United States motorists have begun to appreciate their beauties only since Canada established liquor permits as an added attraction. And this is the "crack" to which Canadians will take exception. Since the inauguration of government control of liquor in Ontario, a lot of United States tourists have taken out permits by the government's records, which tell us complete a story as do those of Dr. Hall, reveal that permits have been issued to only a small percentage of visitors from the United States.

The charge was made by opponents of government control during the heat of the campaign in Ontario that "if the act became effective this province would be bartender to the people of the United States. The government has made it possible for United States visitors to secure alcoholic beverages, but it has not encouraged them to take out permits. The fact that there have been few abuses of the privilege would seem to indicate that tourist are finding that Canada has something decidedly more worthwhile to offer than intoxicating beverages.

RECORD OF CANADA A TALE OF PROGRESS

An inspiring record of progress is given in the current number of Natural Resources, published by the department of the Interior, being a review of Canadian development in 1928. The record wheat crop of over five hundred million bushels is given first attention, as representing the Dominion's leading industry," but three new mighty ogher industries which like-wise make a most impressive showing. Forest resources provide employment for many thousands of workers and several new towns are springing up round the mills. In mining, practically every province of the Dominion is witnessing profitable development.

It is stated there are at present 18,266 mines, metallurgical works, oil and gas wells quarries, cement mills and brick plants and other operations represent a capital investment of over $700,000,000 and giving permanent employment to more than 80,000 workers. In 1927 the net value of slats from these industries was 4.6 per cent. more than in the previous year. Canada reached fourth place among the world's greatest copper producers last year, and is forging ahead in the production of gold, lead and zinc, and still retains first place among the world's producers of nickel cobalt and asbestos.

This increased activity in the mines and the forests has led to a greater demand for water-power, and important hydro-electric undertakings have already been completed or are being brought to completion, in Ontario, Quebec, the Maritime provinces and Manitoba. In the first seven months of the present year 172 miles of new railway were put into operation and since then considerable extra mileage has been added.

Special mention may be made of the branch line from the Pas, Manitoba, to the Flin Flon mining camp, which was completed three months before contract time. "The year 1928 marks a year of rapid growth in the economic structure of the Dominion and on every hand there is evidence of the progress being made in exploration, development and production," is the summing-up. In another part of the paper an interesting comparison of the production of electric energy in the leading countries of the world, on a per capita basis, is given.

The figures are for 1925 and place Canada in the second position, with Norway first. The pre-eminence of Norway is attributed to the large consumption of electricity in the production of nitrates from the air, the total production of electric energy in that country for the year 1925 being 2,232 kilowatt hours per head of population; Canada is credited with 1,306 k.w.h.; Switzerland coming third with 975 k. w.h., followed by the United States with 675 w.h.; Sweden 576; Germany 349; Great Britain 256; France, 245; Australia, 242 and Belgium 224 k.w.h.

From this table it will be seen that Canada was well to the front in 1925, being second only to Norway and also that since the Dominion has immensely increased her production. The relatively poor showing of the Mother Country and the other European countries which follow her in the list is due to the lack of waterpower resources. When reliance has to be placed mainly on fuel for the production of electricity, a heavy handicap is necessarily imposed.

OTHER MEN'S THOUGHTS

Pessimistic Canadians — yes, there are a few of them—should read the statement of Sir James Dunn, head of a London banking firm, who is now on a visit to this country. Sir James predicts that within 25 years Canada will be the second richest country in the world, yielding rank only to the United States. Development of the nation's mineral wealth, water power and other natural resources will place Canada in such a position, he believes. This is a statement of a man experienced in the world of business and it is a view that is shared by many eminent financiers and industrialists in a variety of countries.—Border Cities Star.

Not so many years ago, should a motorist become stalled on the road, every car which happened along would pause courteously to offer assistance. It was the unwritten law of the trail. How different now! Motorists hesitate to stop even though they see a body lying by the side of the road. It may be a highwayman waiting to pounce on them, waiting to take advantage of kindness. Often it is dangerous to stop on the highway particularly at night. One may be held up or his from behind by another car. For power and speed in transportation we seem to have sacrificed much of courtesy, kindness and consideration of our fellow man. What have we gained to compensate for this loss? —London Free Press.

HAVE YOU HEARD THESE?

"Look here, officer—you can't speak to me, like that."

"Oh yes, I can miss—I'm versatile as hell in my speech."—Life.

"Girls were harder to kiss in your days, weren't they, grandpa?"

"Well, mebbe; but it wasn't so blame dangerous. The ol' parlor sofa wasn't apt to smash into a tree just about the time ye got all puckered up."

A Minneapolis traffic cop at a busy corner saw an old lady beckon to him one afternoon. He held up a dozen autos a truck and two taxis to get to her side.

"What is it, lady?" he asked rather impatiently.

The old lady smiled and put her hand on his arm. "Officer" she said in a soft voice, "I just wanted to tell you that your number is the number of my favorite hymn."

AN AID IN HEART AILMENTS

One of the points I like to do not grasp or remember, is that many of the ailments from which they suffer affect the heart, and actual heart disease may result after the other ailment has completely cleared up. For many years now, it has been known that rheumatism is the cause of the majority of cases of heart disease.

Accordingly it has been the custom to carefully guard the heart during rheumatic attacks. Just as long as there is any pain or swelling in affected joints the patient is kept at absolute rest.

As you know, the lining tissue of the heart becomes inflamed and the little valves that close the openings of the heart get inflamed also. Fibrous or hard scar like tissue results as the inflammation departs, and this valve that should exactly fit the opening, has puckered edges which allow the blood to flow or leak back.

And so it has been thought that if when you recovered from rheumatism or other illness and there was no leakage of the heart, that the heart was just as good as ever.

However our hospitals now have what is called an electrocardiograph, a machine that records the actual nerve and muscle condition of the heart.

This instrument has been able to show that even when the rheumatism has passed, all signs of joint involvement gone, and the heart is normal as far as the physician can detect it with his stethoscope, that there may still be some heart ailment.

Also, at the beginning of the attacks of rheumatism and the physician is watching the heart carefully, that this machine or instrument will record trouble that he cannot detect.

And so these electrocardiograms confirm the opinion which is now widely held that the heart is involved in all cases of rheumatic fever, even if there are no signs by which the physicians can detect it."

Now while this machine is of value in enabling the physician to guard the heart, nevertheless as the main cause of rheumatism is from infected teeth and tonsils your first thought should be prevention of rheumatism by having an X-ray of your teeth taken regularly, and the tonsils, if you have any, examined by your physician.

FRACTURED HIS ARM

Delbert Campbell, ten-year-old school boy of Hillier, sustained a fractured arm recently while playing with several young school-mates. The youngster was attempting to walk on stilts when he hit his balance and fell. Dr. Scott of Wellington, was called at once and set the injured arm. It was badly twisted and on Friday he was taken to Picton Hospital where an X-ray was taken and he is now resting as well as can be expected.

ture. Three planes are now owned by this enterprising pair, a Waco, an Eagle-Hock and a Jenny. The brothers may take the agency for the Eagle-Rock next year.

"Belleville is as suitable a spot for an air-port as anywhere in Eastern Canada," said "Arthur Leavens in speaking of with a representative of the Intelligencer this morning. He stated that offers had been received to locate in several other towns but they considered their home town the most ideal. A public audience of some hundreds or so will be laid out on the Provincial Highway three miles east of the city.

"We are planning to open a flying school next year," said Mr. Leavens, "and we are now preparing circulars for prospective students." He stated that gasoline companies are willing to erect club-houses where either private or public aerdromes are contemplated. 2 buildings will be built at Walkerville, and Oshawa, shortly.

Two inspectors, Messrs. Abbott and Tushope of the National Department of Defence visited the Leavens Bros. new air field and remarked that it is a well-located and situated as it is between Toronto and Montreal. The city's assistance will be asked in financing the adventure and huge signs may be laid in order that air-travellers may know what city they are passing over. With this great advancement in aviation, Belleville may become the centre of commercial flying in this district as well as the home of a municipal flying school. The Leavens brothers welcome visiting to their new air-field which is but a short run east of the city limits.

SANDERSON—BONTER

A pretty wedding was solemnized on Thanksgiving Day at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bonter, Marmora, when their youngest daughter, Lillian Bertha, became the bride of Douglas Frown Sanderson, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Sanderson, The vow of C. J. Beckley officiated at the ceremony. The couple were unattended. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, looked charming in a frock of powder blue satin faced crepe. Following the ceremony about twenty-five guests were in attendance at the wedding breakfast after which Mr. and Mrs. Sanderson left on a week's trip to Toronto, Niagara Falls and Buffalo, the bride travelling in a coat of navy Kasha with fur collars and cuffs and she wore a close fitting hat to match. On their return they will reside in Marmora where both are deservedly popular.

LOCALES ENTERED IN O.H.A. SERIES

Old Arena May Be Sold ; Junior Team Will Be Strong

At the annual meeting of the Ontario Hockey Association held in Toronto last Saturday, F.L. Thomas, the Belleville manager, entered a Junior and Intermediate team. Lately, comes the word that local interests are considering the purchase of the old Arena repairing it for this winter, and then building a new one on the same site for next year. As the deal has not yet gone through, no names are being mentioned, but it is understood that something definite will be announced this week.

Practically all of the Belleville Juniors of last year will be on deck again this year the only missing faces being George Simpson, who is now located at Oshawa, and "Bud" Calway, Bob Scott is here again, as are the two Canning boys, while Ab Young and Ehler are also said to be in town. Tom Jeffrey has another year in Junior hockey and is more capable goal e would be hard to find.

The Intermediates are still an unknown quantity but with the old guard back again, consisting of Ken Hagerman, Whalen, Guyer and Green or deck, they should be good. There are also said to be several outside boys prospects in the city for both the Junior and Intermediate teams and Belleville may not be left out of hockey altogether this year as was first expected.

DEFINITION OF A GOOD CITIZEN

Dr. Malott Leads Interesting Discussion at Community Hall

At the Community Hall of Bridge St. United Church yesterday afternoon a very interesting session of the Men's Association was held.

Following up the theme of the day about St. Paul's experiences in Jerusalem and his artful defence coupled with reliance upon his birth as a Roman and a Jew of Tarsus speaking also the Greek language, Dr. Malott outlined a good citizen as one possessing qualifications of: 1st, Intelligence; 2nd, Integrity; 3rd, Conservance; 4th, Serviceableness.

In exhausting upon these character, duties Dr. Malott referred to the need of medicine for training purposes and the requirements as to what constitutes Christian citizenship in birth and life. It is the duty of the individual to broaden out beyond their respective lines. Knowledge of history and possibilities ought to count in producing good results. The electorate as well as municipal councils should be democratic as a public trust. If laws are not enforced it is the duty of citizens to influence to them while on the statute book, put there by the majority and by pioneers more conservative of what to change the content. It is regrettable that while 90% of our citizens are supposed that on the average 51% of voters do not exercise franchise privileges and let it go. To obliterate make the laws for others to follow. Officers are made for service and to be performed without any remuneration attached thereto.

The encouraging feature of the afternoon was the presence of Mr. Thomas St. Aubin, Assistant Secretary of Toronto, who brought well wishes from the Men's Association of that city.

Next Sunday afternoon Dr. Mcsaine, teacher of Latin in our collegiate is to address the men of the city who may come. A splendid program has been drawn up for the winter in which ministers and laymen of other denominations will assist in discussion of important themes along with the study of the Scripture.

ANNUAL ROTARY LADIES' NIGHT

Louis Duff, Former Editor Will be Speaker To-Night

It only comes once a year, but Ladies Night at Rotary is one of the real sister events of the local club. Rotarians will bring their wives and an excellent programme with a noted speaker has been provided. Rotarian Louis Blake Duff, of Niagara Falls, is to be the main speaker, and he will talk on "Humours of the Press," an interesting and most delightful subject. Mr. Duff was formerly a local paperman himself, being editor of the Welland Telegraph and has always been prominent in Rotary affairs. The banquet is to be at the Quinte Hotel at seven-thirty this evening.

PLANS LAID FOR ROTARY REVUE

The first rehearsal of the monster "Rotarata Revue" was held this after noon in the Y.M.C.A. with Captain Eddy, of New York, in charge, assisted by Mr. Leo B. Riggs, who will have the musical end of the program in charge.

"This should be a musical comedy without a plot" stated Mr. Riggs to-day. "There will be the more popular songs, duets by the chorus etc., but as far as I know, no plot to the production."

It is also known as yet who will have the "leads" in the new production, but there is plenty of good talent in the city.

Just For The Feminine

THE FARM AND THE CITY.

We remember back in our school days a popular subject for debate was the country versus city. We suppose there are compensations in both places. The city-bred woman would be loathe to leave the comfort of bath rooms, hot water, convenient shopping districts, golf clubs, and other social clubs, theatres, concerts and electric lights. On the other hand the farm dweller has a quantity of food at her door that only the wealthy can afford to buy at city prices. She is also, thanks to modern improvements, in close touch with the outside world with the radio and telephone, and automobiles. Of course almost every farm woman will tell you, one must work on the farm and it is hard work too, and long hours. But there is a satisfaction in watching the progress of growing things; the grain in the fields, the little downy chicks develop ing into skinny chickens and then into plump hens, calves growing up to be full sized cows and all the myriad duties of th e farm woman show such sat isfactory results. On the whole we are inclined to think that the farm woman has a better chance to find that elusive thing we are all striving for—contentment.

MONEY IS NOT ESSENTIAL TO SUCCESS.

Sometimes you think that all you need to make you a leader is money

You feel that the lack of it and a comparatively humble position bar you from the position you would like to hold

You have brooded along this line so long that you do not make any effort to break yourself into the place you would like

You have talents, but you have fail ed to exhibit them for you have car ried the opinion that without money to back them you can't go far.

Naturally with this attitude, your ability will never have a chance to display itself.

If you feel that you can do some thing better than the majority, make an effort to develop your talent.

Because you have no money, there is no reason why you should be a failure.

There was never a time when great, or recognition was given to those who stand above the ordinary in ability in any line.

Unusual ability and talent are en ergetically sought and well paid for.

Get out your wares and display them.

That is the only way you can sell them.

MARRIAGE IS A GIVE AND TAKE PROPOSITION

Much has been written in modern times about the difficulties and problems of married life. For one thing to undertake a life partnership and to adjust their personalities to compro mements so as to make for a happy life together is perhaps no easy thing. But it seems that more is heard today about the difficulties of this under taking than in the days of our grand mothers or even our mothers. Some blame the men for the unrest in mo dern marriage, others the women. One in any partnership it is share and share alike and so with matrimony. In our humble opinion it all depends on the attitude in which we enter mar riage. Some seem to look on it as just a new experience which does not necessitate any deep thought, but on the contrary we should be very very sure of many things if we would con sider our future happiness. One married little readjustments in tem peraments are necessary. We cannot have our own way in everything, we must give and take. A woman cannot expect her husband to be a gilded saint, for he won't be. any more than she is herself. If a wife spends her afternoons playing bridge 'a husband has a perfect right to spend an even ing "with the boys". No matter how excited to each other a man and wo man may be they sometimes tire of each other's society an dcan't be afraid to separate once in a while. Let your husband have his own friends. There are some wives who claim to love their husbands and yet they are afraid to trust them out of their sight. Always remember that there can be no real love without mutual trust. Overlook the little things of life, petty annoy ances which seem so big at the time, consider the real things of life, make up your mind to give and take and in most cases marriage will work itself out happily for all.

Some Helpful Hints For Busy Housewives

Serve the loaf of hamburg steak in a border of fried onions and green pep pers.

A few drops of rose or cologne wa ter in brider's laidh tub will keep han ds soft, picking the freshness and skin after his 'welling."

Spread between three layers of sponge cake some good apricot jam mixed with finely chopped blanched almonds. Cover the sides and top with a boiled icing and decorate with halves of almonds and candied cher ries.

Care should be used in keeping cheese if it is not used immediately after purchase. All varieties should be kept in a cool place. All of the outer surface of rinds that have been left exposed to the air even if in the refrigerator, should be removed by rubbing the ext ernal surface of rinds hard cheeses with butter. However, the best method for the hard and semi-hard types is to wrap them in a damp cloth or in parafin paper. All kinds of cheese should be kept cold, but should never be placed directly in contact with the ice. Purchase only enough cheese only as needed, because it deteriorates quick ly.

WHAT'S NEW

(From A Woman's Standpoint)

That what might be termed three key types of evening wraps shown for winter are the cape coat with the adaptable fox collar; the hip point coat draped or shirred, and the line ing coat with shirred sleeves.

Among fashion's latest fancies are bracelets made from a shiny sub stance, which simulates the like milk—fresh and then sour—now forms the white or colored background for rows of glistening decoration suggesting dia monds, and these bracelets, about an inch wide, are worn on one arm on each side the sleeve of a coat or a day dress.

The Queen has a log cabin which is heather-thatched, and is at the edge of Birsemoor Loch, about a score of miles from Balmoral. Where three years ago the hut was built for Her Majesty by Lady Cowarny, and the re sin it is kindled every day while the Queen is at Balmoral.

A London editor observes that if La bar is counting on a large accession of strength from the "flapper" vote, it is interesting to note that in Germany the women's vote has proved definite ly hostile to the extreme parties, for min the last elections both the Com munists and the extreme Right had a very low percentage of women voters, while in the Catholic centre the wo men's vote represented 61 per cent. of the total votes polled.

Explaining the revival of the lorg nette a London opinion says: "In the ballroom graceful waltzes are re placing the hectic rout of Charleston and Black Bottom. Men who have worn dinner-jackets at evening func tions for years past now decline to ap pear anywhere after dark without white ties and tail-coats. Woman is responding to the call of the New Dig nity by wearing longer evening gowns —and carrying lorgnettes, and the monocle," he added, "is the sign of the brilliant-minded woman."

Advice to Girls

By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am in no love worries, notli ing like that. In fact, I am very happy, because I am to be mar ried in April. There's one tiny cloud on the horizon, though, and that's why I am writing you. Could you tell me, or tell me some one to ask, what I should have in my hope chest and trousseau? I have already started my hope chest.

SLANCHE D.

BLANCHE D. Congratulations my dear. It always makes me so glad to know of someone's happiness. I am answering your letter through the column because it may be helpful to other girls who are in the same posi tion you are.

A hope chest should contain all your linens for the new house. You'll pro bably have several showers, and at these gifts should be carefully laid away for future use. However, it is best to supply yourself with sheets, tablecloths, napkins, towels for both bathroom and kitchen use. Several pairs of blankets, or a nice down or wool filled quilt. Covers for your dressing table, dresser, buffet and serv ing table. There are innumerable things almost too numerous to list, but these are the essentials.

As to your trousseau, this depends entirely upon your circumstances. All your pretty undies should go in your hope chest, and you cannot have too many of these. Some plain for ordinary wear, some for "best." Some pretty house dresses, sport clothes, to keep her engagement for dinner.

SOVIETS PROTEST SALES INJUNCTION

Berlin, November 19.—The Soviet am bassador at Berlin filed a protest to day against the injunction issued by the courts preventing the auctioning of a number of art objects by Lepke's to-morrow, during the sale of a collec tion of "state-owned" pieces from Rus sian museums.

The plaintiffs in the case are a num ber of Russian refugees, members of the former aristocracy, who claim that the Soviet violated dispossession laws in acquiring much of this property. On those grounds the court withheld some one hundred paintings, pieces of sculpture, tapestries and furniture. A counter-claim by the Russians says that a number of the pieces entrusted to Lepke's for auctioning belonged to Russian museum before the war and therefore the refugees' appeals are based falsely. Should the case at its first hearing, which is scheduled for tomorrow, be decided against the Mos cow Government, an appeal to the Supreme Court will be made. How ever, it is doubtful if the objects will be auctioned if the courts decide against the refugees, but will be sold privately.

CHAPTER 21

BETWEEN TWO FIRES

When Henry Ellsmede returned out of her suite in the Palace Hotel, after telling her that he would be at Cannes, the Count de Bellefonte planned to go there when she did. Sheila sank into a chair and groaned.

Hinging for Fanchette, she instruct ed the girl to go down to the lounge and tell the Count that Mrs Kerr was disposed and was unable, therefore, to go.

Fanchette, who had been listening at the picture was taken from the Vestris.

A First Aider to the Rescue

"I was going to work on my motorcycle," explained the victim of a serious accident, as he lay on a snowy hospital cot, "when an auto came out of an alley, threw me to the pavement, tearing my foot off and severing an artery. Fortunately a Bell Telephone man was passing. He stopped the bleeding, made a tourniquet and had me in a fine shape when the ambulance arrived."

Instruction classes in all ranks of telephone employes have turned out an army of skilled First Aiders who are continually happening along when some victim of serious mishap is in dire need of assistance. Knowing what to do and just how to do it has saved many lives. Seventy per cent of all Bell Plant workers are qualified First Aiders.

afternoon dresses, evening gowns—it all depends on your circumstances and the circle in which you will move after your marriage as to the number of each. Stockings, gloves, hats—all the accessories for each costume should be selected carefully. If you cannot have them to match each cos tume, see that you select your gowns with a view to being able to use the same accessories with several costumes.

Without knowing your exact circum stances, it is hard to give you a defin ite number of each article. However, your common sense should guide you, my dear. I would advise, though, not to get too many gowns, for the styles change so frequently, and you would never want to appear old-fashioned. Get what you need for immediate use, then add gradually afterwards.

I do hope you are very happy and you have my sincere wishes for a life of peace and plenty of contentment.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am in my teens and I like a boy very much who is not much older than I. The other night I had a date with him and I called him up in the morning telling him I could not see him that even ing. I saw him the next after noon and his glance at me was enough to knock you over.

Could you, please, tell me what to do? Should I call and demand an explanation or what should I do? I like him too much for this to happen. SLIM.

SLIM: If the young man is so un gentlemanly as to be offended because you broke a "date" with him for a good reason his friendship is not worth having, my dear. The fault is not yours, and you should not make any advances. Simply ignore the whole happening and try and forget.

A moment later there was a peremp tory knock at the door. Sheila, without looking up uttered a weary "Come in."

"No," he said in answer to her mut tered protest, "I must see you, if only for a moment. I was down-stairs and saw that young fire-eater leave the hotel. What was the matter with him? Constance, what is there between that chap and you?"

Sheila measured the Count with an even glance. He would take some doing, the cold Russian told herself, and yet. But she had to make the effort. As suming her most lamb-like expression, she said:

"Jean, I need your help. Promise me that you won't make a scene when I tell you what has happened."

Her air of helplessness impressed him so much that he nodded, without say ing a word.

"It's this way," she continued. "I'm terribly afraid that your name is on her care a secret, and that my plans for get ting my father to approve our marri age may be delayed. And, if they are there will be no money for us, and our hopes for your diplomatic career will be gone for good."

Bellefonte's expression was one of genuine horror. "Why . . . Why . . ." he stammered, "what has happened? Con stance, tell me at once!"

"I'm very much afraid that Harry knows of our marriage. He didn't say so directly, but intimated as much. You know, he has always been sort of sweet on me, and although I may be very con ceited in the way I think that we entirely capable of becoming so jealous that . . ."

"You mean that he may tell peo ple that he thinks we are married, . . . that he may tell your father?"

She nodded.

"But he doesn't know where your father is, does he?"

"Yes, unfortunately. I rend father and mother a message every day or two to let them know how I am, and I let slip unwittingly, to tell Harry how to make conversation, that the yatch had been chartered for a month by a friend and that father is now in Flavia."

Bellefonte, with difficulty, refrained from kissing her. Instead he asked her what he thought of her idea of con versation.

"Well, anyway this is the point," she continued. "Harry is furious, because you are going to be in Cannes while I am there for business only. To pla cate him, I thought of asking the Bar ronne to have him as one of her guests. Of course," she added, craftily, "if you think that is not the best thing to do I will drop the matter and say that I thought it would allay his suspicions . . . having him at Cannes. What do you think, dear? Your judgement is always so sound."

Bellefonte smiled foolishly. His first impulse was to rage and to refuse to agree to the proposal. But Sheila had played upon his vanity and his greed so expertly that the wind was taken out of his sails.

"Well, of course, Constance, . . ." he sputtered, helplessly while Sheila turn ed and walked to the window to hide a grin. "I do not like the idea, but if you really think it will keep him from talking, from communicating with your father, in a fit of jealous rage I suppose it is the only thing to do."

Sheila felt as if a great load had been lifted from her heart. "I think it would be wise," she said, without turning around. "As you say, if he talks in a fit of jealous rage, all our plans will be ruined."

She crush into a chair, buried her face in her arms and laughed silently.

The Count, who was pacing back and forth saw that her shoulders were shaking. He stopped beside her chair and patted her head.

His assumption of a fatherly man ner was the last straw. Sheila burst into hysterical giggles.

"Oh, my poor child," cried Belle fonte. "You are worn out with the war ry and strain of the last few days. A rest cure will do wonders for you. Now, I will not take no for an answer. You must come with me to Cannes and stay at the Villa Rose. Your reputation will be safe with me, I assure you."

Sheila looked up into a calm, buried her face in her arms and laughed silently.

LIFE STORY IS LIKE FAIRY TALE

Victoria, B.C.—In the form of a fairy tale or allegory, Frederick Philip Grove, Swedish-Canadian author, told the Women's Canadian Club the story of his life, reading into the final chapter an explanation of why for so many years he renounced the popular modes of high scholastic recognition in a big city in favor of a humble rural teacher's position out among the pioneer farmers of Manitoba.

"I found among them," said the speaker, "preoccupation with the es sentials of life rather than with its accidentals. In an age gone insane with transportation and speed, a ma terial age reaching out so far for pleas ure but pleasure and comfort and that case of life which by the very conditions of a man's existence on earth is denied us, they stand un marred, concerned with the eternally valid things, with the problem of living, with goodness, truth and beauty, the goodness of the home, germ and breeding place of the great ness of nations, with the beauty of that universe in which the evening and the morning still make the first day. In their dumb, inarticulate way they strive for a great object."

Born in Sweden of mixed Scottish and Swedish parentage, he was the eighth child and first son in the fam ily. He was in his infancy when his mother was seized with a mental de rangement that was a small boy he was continually learning smatterings of some fresh language in order so fit into the life about him.

At 22 he was a hired hand on a farm in Manitoba. Here he found life and avenues of interest among the toiling pioneers of the rural district, first as a teacher of the polyglot nationalities which make up the community of settlers, then as a writer.

GOLF EXECUTIVE WILL CONVENE

Meeting of Committee In New York City On Nov. 22

New York, N. Y., Nov.—Meetings of the Executive Committee of the United States Golf Association are just as executive as the name implies so that a sooth-sayer is not needed to name one subject to be discussed at the autumn meeting in New York November 22nd.

It is just as certain as a six inch putt that the Executive committee will talk of the best maximum length for a championship golf match 18 holes vs. 36.

The matter has been discussed before, but few golf followers would be surprised to see something done about it before the 1929 championship is decided at Del Monte, Calif., the week of September 2.

There are many of the rank and file as well as the powers that be who would like to see all the championship matches at 36 holes as opposed to the present plan of disposing of the first two rounds at 18.

These first 18 hole matches are night mares for the champions, former champions and near champions who have more to lose than the up and coming stars. In the 1928 championship as three Burns, George Van Elm, highly favored as a finalist, was eliminated in the first round and Bobby Jones, who won his fourth amateur title later in the week almost fell by the wayside in the second round, going 19 holes before he was lucky enough to shake off the tenacious R. R. Gorton. Al Mitchell in 1927, George lost his second round match and Bob barely slipped by.

The Executive Committee will have to find a better plan than that adopted in 1928, when only 16 were permitted to qualify and all matches were played at 36 holes, for the extra pressure of seeking 16 instead of 32 qualifying places also proved too much for some of the game's best performers under normal conditions.

Suggestions have been numerous to meet the situation, including a plan to have sectional qualifying tests, leaving the week of the championship free for a bitter end struggle over the long route, and a possible plan to extend the play into the first day of another week.

The lay-out of the Monterey peninsula Country Club where the 1929 Championship will be played consists of 36 holes offering an opportunity to use two courses for qualifying play if necessary.

Opinion is divided on the question of continuing the "sudden death" 18 hole matches. Those in favor of the present situation say that 18 holes is a golf match just as nine innings is a baseball game, but the 36 hole partisans counter with the statement that a base ball championship is not decided in a week.

About the best thing Robert T. Jones, Jr. does is play 36 holes of golf while it has been shown that sometimes he can be beaten at half the distance. There are those who say that making the championship route 36 holes throughout will elect the present champion in a walk. The Jones fans come back with the reply that if a golfer can't beat Jones over any given distance then he should not have the title.

The Executive Committee recommend a course for the 1929 championship and dates will be fixed for the open, already awarded to the Winged Foot Club, Mamaroneck, N. Y.

There was a movement on foot to have the women follow the men to California next year but the U.S.G.A. officials frowned on this proposal as against its policy of having only one championship in a district. It is understood that the choice will recommend either Oakland Hills, Detroit; The Country Club, Buffalo; or Allegheny, Pittsburg. The recommendation will be approved.

The possibility of the women withdrawing from the U.S.G.A. to form an association all their own will not be a problem for the Executive Committee but will be a matter for discussion before the annual meeting of the association in January.

SHEEP POPULAR IN PAST YEAR

In Ontario, According To Statistics Issued by the Government

Encouraged by satisfactory prices for wool and lamb, Ontario sheep breeders are rapidly extending their holdings, for the first time in many years the total population in the province has run over a million, according to figures just released by the Bureau of Statistics, and indications point to a still greater gain in the immediate future. The increase this year is all the more significant in view of the fact that in the case of other lines of stock there has been no change, if not decreases.

The year the sheep population is estimated at 1,014,000, compared with 916,000 a year ago and 885,000 in 1926. Ontario ranks first in the matter of numbers, there being almost a third of the total number of sheep in Canada located in this Province with Quebec second and Alberta third. Even more noteworthy than the gain, reported this season is the increase in the number of ewes being saved for breeding. Last year the ewes were estimated at 431,000 while twelve months later, the figure is 461,000 or an increase of practically seven per cent. It would appear that the encouragement given sheepmen in the way of satisfactory prices and the new policy of the Ontario Government under which clubs are allowed to buy stock on a five-year time basis, the original purchase being paid out of the natural increase, are all bearing fruit.

There is only one fly in the ointment and this is the wolf menace in some of the newer districts, particularly on Manitoulin Island. There, a very promising industry was being built up with farmers specializing in high grade lamb. Unfortunately several flocks are being curtailed in size this season as a result of the depredations of the four-footed enemies and owing to the fact that many of the lambs had to be corralled at night it has not been possible to get the same lambs on them as in the past. At the recent lamb fairs the returns did not show the usual high percentage of No. 1's. On the other hand, all reports from the Rainy River district in Northwestern Ontario, indicate continued growth, which of course will offset the temporary set-back reported elsewhere.

COAL MINES ARE CONSOLIDATED

Victoria, B.C. (By C.P.)—Consolidation of some of the largest coal mines on Vancouver Island, recently effected, was one of the dreams of the late Hon. James Dunsmuir which never came true.

Dunsmuir, who was once lieutenant governor of British Columbia and rejected to be the wealthiest man who ever made a fortune in the province died some years ago leaving an estate of more than $10,000,000 but with his greatest hope unrealized. For years he had planned to become master of the coal industry of Vancouver Island with all the important producing mines in his control. He was for a long period the dominant figure in the situation, his influence extending westward to Hawaii, south as far as the Mexican line and north to Alaska, but the consolidation which he plan ned did not become a fact until many years after his death.

Vancouver Island is the cradle of the coal industry of Western Canada. The Hudson's Bay Company brought coal miners from Scotland to work the mines at Suquash, now named from the Indian expression "the rock that burns." The mine was operated as early as 1836, but it was not until the early fifties' that coal was discovered at Nanaimo and the industry became commercially important. A mine opened in 1853 near Nanaimo is still being operated and is the largest operating mine in Canada. It was the Wellington seam, discovered in 1871, which made a fortune for the Dunsmuir family.

The coal industry of Vancouver Island has fallen on evil days in recent years owing to labor trouble, competition of foreign fuel oil and other causes. These conditions were responsible for the recent amalgamation of the largest producers, the Canadian Collieries (Dunsmuir) Ltd., and the Western Fuel Corporation of Canada, Ltd.

No More Piles

Pile sufferers can only get quick, safe and last relief by removing the cause—bad blood circulation in the lower bowel. Cutting and salves can't do this—an internal remedy must be used. Dr. Leonhardt's Hem Rold, a harmless tablet, succeeds because it relieves this blood congestion and strengthens the affected parts. Hem-Rold has a wonderful record for quick, safe and lasting relief to Pile sufferers. It will do the same for you or money back. J. S. REGENT THEATRE

From a cowgirl of the plains to the wife of a reformed gangster is the step made by Dorothy Dwan, featured in "Square Crooks," now showing at the Regent Theatre. This is her first appearance in a strictly dramatic role. Miss Dwan having won her initial success playing the feminine lead opposite Tom Mix and Buck Jones.

BELLE THEATRE

"The Rush Hour", a comedy of incident, is Marie Prevost's latest star picture, and it will be on view at the Belle theatre today. Harrison Ford heads a supporting cast which includes Seena Owen, Franklin Pangborn, David Butler and Howard Crane. The production was directed by E. Mason Hopper who directed Miss Prevost in "Up in Mabel's Room" and other comedies.

PRESS MOST USEFUL ADVERTISING MEDIUM

London, Eng., (By C. P.) — Sir Charles Frederick Higham, author and publicist speaking on "Scientific Distribution," said there was no advertising medium so useful as the press, and none that was responded to with such speed and profit. Newspaper advertising paid better today than it ever did. Most of the goods now consumed by the public were sold under a branded name, and the most economical method of distributing these was by the press advertising properly done. The dealer would always stock an article which was nationally advertised in the daily press, because he was convinced, first, that the article must be good or it would not be advertised at all and, secondly, that the public would respond to it because they knew that they were getting good value for their money.

Natural Law

Natural law is at work today as it always has been. The only difference that time brings is the discovery of more efficient means of giving this law greater vent to exert itself.

Greater study has been given in the past twenty years to all lines of endeavor than in all the history of the world before. Not the least of these discoveries is the discovery of releasing Nature's Forces in the human body. As Nature's forces are being released in all other lines of progress, so Nature's forces are being released in the human body by the new modern health science called Chiropractic. If you are interested in a healthy body and mind for yourself or family investigate this New Modern health science that opens Nature's door.

ALBERT OUT OF RUGBY SERIES FOR YEAR; BEATEN AT COBOURG

Peterboro Won Game 5-1 In A Hard Fought Contest

BETTER TEAM

Had the Edge on the Local Lads Throughout the Game

The Albert college squad will doff the old moleskins for another year for ever Saturday they met a better team than they, and though they fought gamely, went down to a 5—1 defeat. Peterboro Collegiate Inst. should go far this year in the interscholastic race for finals, especially if they play the game they did on Saturday.

Albert just could not seem to get going. Only one down—even after the locals wonderful record this season could the black, green and gold uniformed boys' rivals, imagine that they'd one scared down the white game through. When Albert marshaled consistently down the field against Picton here two weeks ago it looked as though nothing could stop them, they had the weight, the brains and the ability. But somthing was certainly lacking on Saturday. The old punch was missing, and although they only weighed the Petes on the average by about twenty or twenty-five pounds, they were beaten and to a spectator who had seen them in action all year beaten badly.

Youill, Maybee, Jenkins and even Purchase, the star of the team, all met a stonewall when they tried to get away. They certainly had Youill marked right down to the ground and he didn't stand much chance of getting away. Whenever he carried the ball about four Petes seemed to pile on him at the same moment and about the same thing could be said for the rest of them.

Jenkins was crippled about fifty per cent of the game, Youill spent some ten or eleven minutes on the bench at the polite request of the referee, and Albert did not get the breaks, which fact will ruin the best team ever to appear on a grid-iron. The first and last quarter Albert may be said to have tied the Petes, but the second and third quarters absolutely belonged to the lads from the Liffick city.

For Peterboro, Gemmell, their star quarter and the brains and director of all their plays, was laid out early in the game with a broken shoulder, the foul attributed to Youill by the referee, who claimed that the local boy jumped on Gemmel when he was on the ground. Youill hotly denies this and he is perfectly fair, we think the wrong man was penalized for ten minutes.

Cuthberson, in the backfield for the Petes, starred and turned in, in our opinion, about the most brilliant performance on the field. When he carried the ball, and he did this same thing often, he could be held, and the way he caught the punts on the fly and was away in the next stride was a thing of beauty and a joy for ever. Gemmell, while he was still on his feet just couldn't be stopped without making a few yards.

For Albert, Thompson did some brilliant punting and good tackling, and the rest of the boys were in tackling better too, but could not seem to get away when carrying the ball. At one period in the game, with Peterboro tacked up on their own one yard line, it looked like the locals would break through. But Youill was nailed right in his tracks and Albert's only positive chance was lost. Jenkins, too, dropped a Peterboro fumble and it looked for a minute as though he would go over the line, but the heavy going got him and slowed him up and he was caught.

Peterboro scored quite early in the game, when a rouge garnered them the first point. Shortly after that in the second quarter, Thompson was nailed behind his own line for a safety touch giving another two points to the Petes. Albert scored their one and only point in the first quarter on a rouge.

The second half opened up with Albert two points behind and when in the third quarter Peterboro scored another two points on a fumble it was all up with the local boys. Sutherland snapped and Purchase, through some error, passed in front of the ball. Although it was grabbed by Thompson, he was unable to run it out.

During the last, Albert was unable to score in the last quarter and it would have taken a touch down to beat their opponents.

The referee was Jack Armstrong, of Toronto, head linesman, M. Kirkham, Oshawa.

The Line Ups

ALBERT: Sutherland, snap; H. Harton, left inside; S. Clement, right inside; J. Youill, left middle, E. Mabee, right middle; P. Jenkins, left outside; R. Reid, right outside; W. Edwards, flying; M. Thompson, right half; H. Anglin, left half; and R. Purchase, quarter. Subs.: George Taylor, A. Finder, W. McNaughton, S. Carter and B. Hastings.

PETERBORO: Preston, snap; Winan and Hall, insides, Armstrong and Johnson, middles; Westerbrook and Glover, outsides; Hewett and Cuthbertson, halves, Gemmell, quarter and Maree and Dunkerley, flying wings. Subs: Green, Reynolds, Dearborn, Loryl, Wasar, Clayton and Ward.

YOUR EYES and Our Service

By J. A. McFEE, Optometrist Belleville

What is one unfortunate feature of far sight?

That it may be present without the knowledge of the patient.

Why may it be overlooked?

Because the sight may be normal or even better than normal. YOUNG far sighted persons may suffer severely from eye strain and not a single symptom be in evidence that the eyes are the cause.

Explain.

Young eyes are pliable. The muscles of the eyes may overcome an error that may be present. That is, the person sees so well that there is no reason to believe the eyes are at fault.

LAWRENCE GOYER WITH ST. LOUIS

Letter From Old Belleville Boy Tells of His First Game

The following is a letter, reproduced in part, from Stanley Newton, son of Ex-Chief of Police Newton, of this city, who is now a resident of St. Louis, where they are introducing hockey. This is what he has to say of the games there, and one player in particular, whom he calls, "Larry" Goyer, "Gilly" as he is better known around Belleville, jumped to the pro ranks last winter, and is making good sappearently with the St. Louis team of the American Association.

4 St. Louis, Mo.,
November 12, 1928

Dear Dad:

The enclosed clipping may or may not be of interest to you and the Belleville newspapers. They cover the introduction into this section of the country of professional hockey on Saturday night when the Chicago Black Hawks of the National Hockey League defeated the St. Louis team of the American Hockey Association, score 3—1. Tough teams get made up entirely of Canadian-born players, one of them being a Belleville boy, Larry Goyer.

You will note that he is listed as a defensive star, but the manager has not as yet decided on his regular line-up and Goyer was in the game at centre, just as much as Cameron, who is listed in the regular line-up. Goyer appears is be in exellent condition and played a dandy game, especially covering his man, and back-checking strongly. In my humble opinion, the stars of the game were Curly Headley for St. Louis and Gerner, Chicago's goaltender. Headley is a fast skater and a nervious stick-handler. He reminds me a lot of Sandy Burrows and Ernie Lang when they were in their prime about 25 or 30 years ago Gardner made a number of seemingly impossible stops.

The Winter Garden seats 5300 people and I should judge that about 4000 spectators were on hand and possibly 90% of them had never seen a hockey match before. Prices of admission range from 75c to $1.75 which includes the privilege of skating for an hour after the game. Music and sing ing is provided by the management before the game and during the rest

KINGSTON OUT OF CENTRAL LEAGUE

R. A. Elliott Is Chosen President — Opening Games Announced

Officials of the Central Ontario Baseball met last Saturday in Peterboro for the Annual League meeting, representatives being present from Peterboro, Oshawa, Deloro, and Belleville. Kingston not being represented, they were not considered in the Central League, and were left out of plans for making up the schedule.

H. T. McFiden of Peterboro is immediate past president; R. A. Elliott, was elected president and F. G. Chester of Oshawa, vice president. Hewton Thompson of Belleville was again elected secretary-treasurer of the League. It was decided to play a quadruple schedule, starting on the 24th of May, 1929 when Oshawa open in Peterboro and Deloro comes to Belleville.

It was also decided to form a new constitution with new by-laws, since it was felt that the old constitution was now out of date, few changes having been made since the inauguration of the Central League in 1919. Walter Gerow, Max Swanson, of Peterboro, and W. Thompson were selected to go to the Annual meeting of the O. B. A. in London in April.

DR. AUGUSTUS SOPER DEAD

Galt, Ont., November 17.—Dr. Augustus Soper, 76, known throughout Canada and the United States, having practised in every state in the Union, died in hospital today.

SPORTOGRAMS

Albert College Rugby team can now put down to the more important business of their studies after last Saturday's defeat at the hands of the Peterboro Collegiate. They have had a good season and have brought honor to their college by their actions on and off the field. They were defeated by a team which had had the benefit of excellent coaching and from a school several times the size of the College. Albert has some thirty boys to pick from and wielded a good team out of these. It was unfortunate that in the last game some hard feeling should be caused when an Albert player in some manner broke a Peterboro player's shoulder, but as far as we could see, it was purely an accident.

Peterboro had a much lighter team than Albert, weighing some one hundred and thirty-five pounds per man to Albert's one hundred and sixty. They were faster, and on the sand of Cobourg field, they ran rings around the Green and Gold. Albert made their yards once during the whole game, but at one stage of the game were within three feet of going over the Peterboro line for a touch down. They failed to make the grade, however, and so were just out of the running.

Kingston will not be back in the Central League next year, as they failed to put in appearance at the League meeting yesterday in Deloro and so were left out of the schedule. Belleville will have its opening game at home on the 24th of May, when Deloro comes here, while Oshawa will go to Peterboro on the same day to pry off the lid in the Lift Lock City.

Toronto Maple Leafs pulled a big surprise Saturday night when they took the Flying Frenchmen into camp for their second straight win of the season at the Arena Gardens. The reg-Wars starred in this second game, where the subs had taken the limelight in the first. Carson got two goals himself, while Bailey and Cox each notched one.

Herbert Lindsay, of Hooulton Road, N. B., lost his barns and crop by fire.

It is estimated that the interest alone, on the debts owed by 40 governments to the United States, represents the wages of five million workers.

"Start Getting Well To-day"

Healthful Spine Overcomes Headaches

Headaches are from various causes. Sometimes the headache is due to indigestion sometimes it is biliousness, sometimes it is traceable to the nerves, sometimes to a catarrhal condition. An adjustment quite frequently gives immediate relief, but the cause cannot be removed in one adjustment.

Nervous headaches, due to indigestion, for instance, are quite often given immediate relief by an adjustment which frees the nerves in the region where the ache is felt, but the cause can only be removed by a series of adjustments calculated to restore a full degree of nerve impulse transmission into the stomach and liver, whose faulty action is the cause of such headaches. Getting rid of the headache, a symptom of constitution wrong is not always getting rid of the cause. To get rid of the tendency to headaches, a series of adjustments is necessary.

SING SING HAS QUEER INMATES

The Warden's Cook A Prisoner; His Barber A Murderer

New York.—Sing Sing prison is full of chicken hearted gunmen and honest thieves.

In that paradoxical place the warden has a cook who was sent up as a prisoner, is shaved by a prisoner who had cut another man's throat and entrusts his 7-year-old daughter to pony cart rides outside the walls with a trusty doing 25 years for kidnapping.

Guests of the warden's family turn their valuables over to a quiet little chap with the reassuring knowledge that he has been convicted by a jury of nothing more serious than robbery, larceny and burglary.

In the world outside life is a more or less dangerous proposition, but everything is generally cosy and safe in Sing Sing, where the times are unfortunately out of joint and life goes on as peacefully among the felons that Warden Lewis E. Lawes has been moved to write a book about it.

His "Life and Death in Sing Sing," just published, knocks the conception of convicts held by law-abiding citizens into a striped suit.

"My family talk about the prison yards with greater safety than they would in any great city," says Lawes, after setting forth the foregoing high lights. "I have never carried a revolver or a black-jack in Sing Sing prison. Guards in Sing Sing do not carry clubs, canes, blackjacks or guns and they are not permitted to hit a prisoner, except in rare instances, where they might be required to defend themselves."

IMPORTANCE OF MALE BREEDERS

It may seem a little early in the season to talk of selecting next spring's breeders, but this is of such importance that it must be borne in mind early in the season, if best results are to be secured.

Early in the growing season the poultryman should have marked "off the block" all those chickens that had shown the character for slow feathering or any constitutional weakness. These will thus be reserved for breeding, only cockerels from high laying dams that have laid large eggs.

This latter is of great importance as there is unquestionably a tendency to diminution in the size of the egg where selection has been followed for high production, without due care to also select for size of eggs.

During the later part of the summer and early fall it will also be noticed that there were some cockerels that had developed sexually very early. These cockerels almost invariably finish up as "ponies." In other words, although they look large and in the season, they became set in their growth, and do not make birds of normal size at maturity. Cockerels of that kind should not be retained as breeders as their offspring will have a tendency to mature in the same manner. They will lay early, before they reach proper body growth, and consequently lay small eggs throughout life.

To summarize, the breeding male should be the son of a high laying, large egg hen. He should be well grown, of good size for his breed, and above all should be vigorous. While vigour may consist in every part of the bird, in the broad back, deep body, the well set legs and general action and in the nervous force, the paramount requirement in an egg breeding male is indicated by the bright, prominent piercing eye set in a clean cut face.

This is the kind of male that will give results, writes George Robertson, poultry husbandman, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa.

MANY TOUR WORLD WITHOUT ANY CASH

Manila, (By C. P.) — Touring the world without money and not much work appears to be an increasingly popular pastime with the youth of all nations, according to reports from important points in the Far East. Never a week go by but that incoming newspapers from Tokyo, Shanghai, Bangkok, Singapore and elsewhere brings tales of young stowaways, workaways and plain "drifters", all full of the spirit of adventure but also well provided with cash.

To the drifter at home who read the past cards from exotic cities and who sometimes have subsequent opportunities to peruse the pages of books embalming these travels on the printed page, it all seems wonderful. But to the traveler himself it frequently seems a more difficult assignment than had been anticipated. Steamship offices and resident newspapermen, both of whom seem fated to be considered as Providence's helping hand for the fun-financed wanderer, it seems a nuisance.

Transportation companies dread these travelers as they would the plague and declare that they are "undesirable feature; about them is that they spend the world as their abode and that a life of ease should be their rightful idea.

To Miss Grace Pound:—

We have taken the liberty of coming to your home this evening, not with any desire to intrude on the happiness of your brief visit at home, but to spend a little time with you before you leave us again to take up your new duties at Toronto. Our heartiest good wishes go with you and may that God's blessings will attend your endeavours.

However, we feel that "even good wishes, would be empty, especially when we recall the splendid service rendered by you in our W. M. S., Young Peoples League and our Sunday School. We could always depend upon you to do your part, regularly cheerfully and well, inasmuch as we are exceedingly sorry to lose you from the circle of our loyal workers. There is at this time in our order to express our appreciation for what you have done, in a way that you will remember. We ask you to accept these presents with our best wishes, hoping that when the time is right it will mean the transference of your service to a larger field of usefulness in our Saviour's Kingdom, and while we may not be privileged to see you often we assure there will always be a warm welcome awaiting you on your return.

Signed on behalf of your friends.

STUDENTS WILL MEET IN QUEBEC

Edmonton, Alta., (By C. P.)— Delegates from all parts of the British Empire will gather at Oxford and Cambridge in 1929 for the second Imperial Conference of Students, which will open on September 5th and will be held jointly at the University of Montreal and McGill University. Students delegations from India, South Africa, Australia, New Zealand, Newfoundland, Hong Kong, England and Scotland have already completed arrangements to attend the conference and representatives from universities in Ireland Malta, Ceylon, Bermuda, Trinidad and other British possessions are expected to be present.

The first Imperial Conference of Students was held at Oxford and Cambridge in 1924, being attended by about 100 students. Delegates from the National Federation of Canadian University Students at that time sponsored the next conference for Canada. It was to have been held this fall, but, owing to the inability of some of the more distantly removed delegations to make arrangements, it was decided not to hold the conference until 1929.

The conference will last for ten days and, while delegations will bear the largest part of their own transportation expenses, the N.F.C.U.S. has already raised over one thousand dollars, with promises of several hundred more. Addresses will be given by several outstanding men in Canada and the Old Country.

The agenda of the conference will include discussions of the following topics: student magazines and publications, the organization of athletic teams, debating hours, student exchanges and tours, setting the empire, travel facilities for students, scholarships, student loan schemes, fellowships, opening for post-graduate work, the national unions of students within the empire, the International Confed ration of Students, establishment of an imperial university bureau, international student organizations and international movements.

The exchange of under graduates scheme is also expected to prove a subject of lively interest at the conference in Montreal.

SOVIET GOVERNMENT CHANGE OF POLICY

The sudden offer by the Soviet Government of concessions of every sort to the foreign capitalist seems to mark an important change in Russia's policy. It is due, of course, to Russia's crying need of capital. The experiences of German and American business organizations in the past have certainly not been encouraging, and the recent decision of the Harriman syndicate to cut its losses and clear out of Russia will not facilitate the task of those Soviet agents who are hoping to interest Wall Street and the City. Stalin has consistently worked for closer co-operation with other countries, but we can hardly believe his Government would have made so sensational an attempt to get money were the food crisis and the general discontent not very acute indeed.

Paris notes that the majority of Parisians are fans and simple. Another evidence of a more diversified plan is seen in manquisitive effects and again, sleeves that accent width below the elbow, while there are some short-sleeved chiffons for afternoon wear.

Lightweight woolens in plain weaves or patterns so small as to have the aspect of a plain weave, and in new plaid designs are stressed in new Paris dresses.

CITY COUNCIL RE-AFFIRMS STAND TAKEN ON MCCOLL 'GAS' STATION

Many Aldermen Missed Meeting at Which Question Was Decided

HARDLY A QUORUM

Company Has Been Ordered to Remove Wooden Ramps at Once

Last night's meeting of the City Council was featured by a slim attendance, and at one period it was doubtful if a quorum would be raised The business before the City fathers was mostly of a routine nature with the McColl gasoline station again chief topic for discussion. There was a flurry when Alderman Hyde moved that the question be left in abeyance but Ald. Reid moved, seconded by Ald. French that the matter be disposed of immediately. Ald. Hyde was the only member opposed to the motion.

Pam Same Resolution

The original motion which was passed at the last special meeting was again passed last night authorizing Col Brothers to remove the ramps within twenty-four hours from receipt of notice if they fail to do so. The ramps up City Engineer Campbell was instructed to remove them. Due to the fact that the last meeting did not legal when the members were not notified, the motion which went by the council was null and void and the Gasoline Company have been doing business without molestation. Ald. Hyde in opposing the motion felt that action by the City Council, in this regard would ultimately lead to legislation which he said should be avoided

Ald. Rollins was in the chair, Ald. Hyde was the only member opposed while Ald. Reid, Wotten, Woodley, Collins and French voted for the removal of the ramps. The Gas Company have openly stated their intentions of fighting the city's action and the question will likely have its finish in the civil courts.

Routine Business

It was recommended that Mr. E. D. Mott be requested to remove fencing and gate across right-of-way leading from Great St. James Street to Station Street, between Church Street and Dafoe Street as reported by City Engineer.

It was recommended that the Treasurer be authorized to issue cheque to J. O. Herrin for one hundred and five dollars to defray the expenses in connection with the recent Belleville broadcasting station at Toronto.

A. Y. P. A. HELD SOCIAL EVENING

Wellington, Picton, Christ Church Young People Visited St. Thomas

The Anglican Young People's Associations of Wellington, Picton and Christ church were guests of the St. Thomas A. Y. P. A. last night at one of the most successful social evenings given by the local club. A special feature of the evening was a most unusual address by Miss Sayle on Caravan work in the Peace River district. Miss Sayle for the past summer spent her time in this area, travelling by caravan and holding Sunday School and doing other good work in the wilderness. Last night she told of her adventures on the trip and how much work had been accomplished. The address was accompanied by colorful lantern slides showing different scenes in the Peace River country.

Following the address, the Wellington and Picton clubs put on a program, which consisted of musical numbers and a playlet. Dancing was started later in the evening and refreshments were served. Well over a hundred people were present last evening.

LADIES' NIGHT AN EVENING OF FUN

Lewis Blake Duff Told Stories of Humorous Happening in Journalism

Ex-journalist, but decidedly not ex-humorist, Mr. Louis Blake Duff, formerly editor and publisher of the Newfoundland "Telegraph" but now a resident of Niagara Falls delighted the Rotarians and their guests last night with a string of funny stories and comments which he called "Rumors of the Press." It was a delightful night and never before have so many ladies turned out for one of these events. The dining room of the Quinte Hotel was almost too small to hold the gathering. Besides Mr. Duff, our own Charlie Dalton cut off one of his inimitable monologues and several of our local artists sang, so altogether it was an enjoyable program.

As was fitting for Ladies' night, most of the alleged humor was at the expense of the ladies but they were good sports and seemed to enjoy it as much as their friends. However, nothing was spared and the baby limb now Campbellford came in for its share when the tour of the representatives of that community's Rotary club were greeted by Mr. Duff as "the entire population of Campbellford."

Assisting Artists

Artists who assisted with the program were Mr. Arthur Thompson with his old favorite the "Pirate Song," Mr. Art Sillitoe with "Mandy Lee," Dr. Haffner and Miss Helen Luscombe Miss Jessie Tuite gave two readings both of which, by the way, contained some sly digs at the ladies and Mr. Ross Hunter, a Belleville old boy, played the violin.

Altogether it was a good night; the program moved quickly and was finished by eleven o'clock. There was just one criticism. Why a dinner scheduled for 7:30 has to start at 8:30 is one of the mysteries of Belleville but has been so and presumably always will be.

Coal That Will Burn Is Made From Cellulose By Noted German Chemist

Pittsburg, Penn., Nov. 20.—The making of synthetic coal, to all appearances the equal of natural coal out of Cellulose was described to a second international conference on lignocellulose today by Friedrich Bergius, a German Chemist.

Cellulose is a chemical obtained from wood, cornstalk and various plants which is used for many products ranging from silk stockings to auto lacquers and gun powder. Bergius had made artificial coal in sufficient quantities to demonstrate that it is real coal.

MAYOR WINS APPEAL

Wenige of London Successful in First Stage of Libel Suit

Toronto, Nov. 12—First Divisional Court today allowed the appeal of Mayor George A Wenige of London, against judgment of Mr. Justice Logie, who dismissed the latter's $10,000 libel action against Crown Attorney A. M. Judd, of London. Libel complained of was contained in a letter written by the Crown Attorney regarding conditions on the London and Pt. Stanley Railway.

Mayor Wenige secured a change of venue from London to St. Thomas where the trial judge told the jury round that as the action was one against an officer of the Crown, it had to be tried in the place where the act complained of was committed. The action will now be tried.

JUNIOR FARMERS HAVE GOOD TIME

Boy Winners of Judging Contests Guests of Royal Winter Fair

Ten junior farmers from Hastings County left this morning for Toronto where they will be the guests of the Department of Agriculture at the Royal Winter Fair. The ten boys, who came from all over the county, are those who were successful in the County judging contest held recently, while three others, Elmer Wood, of Thomasburg; Charles Heath, R. No. 2 Campbellford, and Alvin Carrihon, of Belleville; are the Hastings County judging team which will work at the Winter-Fair. There three will also go to Ontario in December to judge livestock and seed at the Ottawa Winter Fair.

The ten boys are Barton Haggerty, West Huntingdon; Ralph Mundy, Stoco Lake; Richard Wells, Marmora; Thomas Heath, Campbellford; Elmer Post, West Huntingdon; L. Weese, Stanmoreville; Ray Lallery, Tweed; Russell Wells, Marmora; James Jeffrey; Harold and Caleb Calvert, Belleville. The judging contest where these lads won their trip to Toronto was held in October, and was highly successful, some one hundred and fifty boys taking part in the contest.

Busy Time Ahead

Starting off with a banquet at Hart House, the famous social centre of the University of Toronto on their arrival there tonight, the boys will have three crowded days of interest, entertainment and instruction. Hon. John S. Martin, Minister of Agriculture will be the chairman at the banquet, and the boys will hear addresses by Premier G. Howard Ferguson, and

HATCHET MANIAC CAUSES TERROR

Has Slain Three Victims and Injured Fourth in Two Days

Omaha, Nebraska, Nov. 20.—Maniac "hatchet man" who in brutal fury pounces on his victims as they sleep and smashes in their skulls with his instrument of death was sought by the police and public today for the slaying of two women and an aged man and the wounding of another woman and his wife within a 48 hour period. Three children of one of the families attacked by the fiend were unharmed in the slayings.

The latest victims were Harold Stribling, 33, and his wife who were attacked early today while hundred of police were searching the city for the maniac when the earlier killings had become known. After beating in Stribling's head, the assailant left Mrs. Stribling to go with him to a swamp, where she later escaped, believing he probably ate, but his wife is expected to recover though she may lose the sight of an eye.

OLD MAN RIVER CREATING HAVOC

Mississippi, Swollen by Floods, Devastates Thousands of Farms

SEVENTEEN DEATHS

Damage in Kentucky Alone Estimated at Over Ten Million Dollars

Into the lap of "Old man river" him self, deep, pulsating, immense Mississippi was poured today the anger of nine hundred floods. Levees near Quincy, Illinois had crumbled to permit the waters of the swollen tributaries to engulf thousands of acres of corn, wheat and rice on both the Missouri and Illinois sides of the Mississippi.

With this flood and the damage done in Kentucky by rivers, the waters today had claimed seventeen lives and further property loss rough ly estimated at ten million dollars.

Heaviest Loss Known

In Missouri, Kansas and Oklahoma where fourteen lives have been lost and property damage has been heaviest the receding waters was making possible a survey of the greatest flood disaster known in the middle western country.

The number of homeless ran into thousands. In Quincy, Illinois communities alone one thousand were driven from the dwellings and latest reports indicate that the Kentucky and Cumberland rivers were still rising.

Cold and snow were following the flood, making necessary still further rehabilitation and relief measures among the thousands of refugees.

BOILER THROWN THROUGH A WALL

Terrific Explosion Seriously Injures Three Men—Miraculous Escapes

Glace Bay, N.S., Nov. 20 — Three men were injured in a boiler explosion in a local colliery this morning, the force of which was felt all through the New Aberdeen district.

A section of the boiler, weighing two and a half tons was hurled through a section of steel girders, through a twelve inch brick wall into the main compressor house for a distance of seventy feet. Part of the roof was blown off the plant and heavy pipes and steel supports were twisted to a mass of twisted wreckage.

The injured men are Archie Macadam, aged 30, married, of flying minsels, Jack Frost and Archie Johnstone, suffering from shock and burns about the body. Macadam, nearest in front of the boiler at the time, miraculously escaped instant death.

ALL LIGHTS OUT

Close of Navigation of Upper Lakes Early Part of December

Ottawa, Ont., Nov. 20—All ship owners have been asked to notify the marine department when the last vessels will leave the head of the Lakes. The department was unable to arrange for the close of navigation on December 7 as was hoped.

All Canadian lights and alarms on Lake Superior will be in operation until the close of navigation except on Caribou Island, which may close December 15. Outer Head, Daviesus Quebec harbor and Michipicoten Island may close on December 12, and Ile Darisienne, which may close December 15.

Lights and fog alarms on Lake Huron, Georgian Bay, Lake Erie and Ontario and connecting waters will be in operation until the close, except Lovely Island light, Georgian Bay which may close earlier.

Kept Back S. O. S. on His Own Responsibility Say Witnesses

London, Eng., Nov. 20.—Herbert Williams, parliamentary Secretary of the Board of Trade, told the House of Commons today that the British Inquiry into the Vestris disaster would cover all material points. The form of inquiry has not yet been decided on.

No Report of Trouble

New York, Nov. 20—The records of two commercial wireless telegraph companies produced in court yesterday indicated that the steamer Vestris made no report to land that she was in trouble at sea until after sending out a general S O S.

In several instances after the ship had begun to keel, it was also shown the Vestris reported "nothing to communicate" to a sister ship approaching

Tense Story of Tragedy

The reading of the log gave as terse a description of the disaster as there has been, in the following entries:

Inspector of Hulls Denies Being Drunk When Passing Vestris

New York, Nov. 20.—Capt. Edward Keats, chief inspector of steamers in charge of hulls, shouted denial today that he had been intoxicated when he passed the Vestris while bound north ago with a loss of more than 100 lives. He was testifying before the federal investigation of the sinking, being conducted by the United States Steamboat Inspection Service.

The Presiding Officer read a letter which said Capt. Keane on the day of the inspection of the Vestr a had breakfast on board, "swilling whiskey and beer in the ship's bar, and had left in the afternoon with a certain weakness in his legs.

"The whole thing is the most outrageous lie I ever heard," he said. "I am the fourth generation of a family which has never touched a drop."

The Capt. said he found everything on the Vestris which it was his duty to inspect, in good order.

ARMY LEADER

Cancels Passage

Forty-five minutes before she was to have sailed for London on Saturday to see her sick brother, Gen. Bramwell Booth, Miss Evangeline Booth, ABOVE, commander of the Salvation Army in the United States, cancelled her passage for unannounced reasons. Her departure is probably only temporarily postponed, as she has been summoned to attend the meeting of the high council on January 8, at which an attempt may be made to change the Salvation Army's constitution to make possible that future generals be appointed by election.

RED CROSS WILL ASK FOR FUNDS

Field Organizer Told of Needs to Kiwanians—Start Campaign

In connection with the Red Cross Campaign be carried on in Belleville next week, Mr. C. P. Johnson, Organizer of the Ontario Red Cross was present at the weekly luncheon session of Kiwanis this afternoon and outlined to the Club the work and aims of that organization.

The Red Cross, Mr. Johnson pointed out, has three fold objective: The improvement of health; The prevention of disease and The mitigation of Suffering; since the war, its chief work o' course has been the care of disabled soldiers and their families. The speaker pointed out that there are at present some twenty-five hundred men still in Ontario hospitals suffering from war injuries and the Red Cross is doing valuable work in helping to make life more pleasant for these men who, after doing their bit in the war, are no longer able to help themselves in any way. The establishment of hospitals, as in Toronto, has been undertaken by the organization and closer to our own county, Red Cross hospitals have been established at Cobourg and Bancroft and are do ng real service.

Appeal For Support

With the memory of the Red Cross war work still fresh in our memory Mr. Johnson felt that in appealing to Kiwanis to support the Campaign he would be accorded the hearty co-opera tion of an organization whose aims were somewhat similar to those of the Red Cross, that is, service to the needy.

Kiwanians Mikel and Griffin expressed the Club's appreciation of Mr. Johnson's fine talk, and assured the speaker that Kiwanians would do everything possible to help make the Red Cross campaign a success here.

Four Players Were Dealt Unique Hands In Friendly Bridge Game

Vancouver, November 20.—Four perfect bridge hands were dealt here last week at a whist drive, the recipients of complete suits in the deal being M. F. Gilchrist and Mrs. A. W. Davie, of Vancouver and Mrs. E. Lawrenson, Vancouver Island. Mr. Sharle, a customs officer, had idly shuffled the cards while waiting for the game to start, passed them to Mr. Davie, who again shuffled them, had them cut, and then dealt them, each one of the four players receiving a complete suit of thirteen cards. The first player to notice it was so interested that she laid her cards on the table. The other players did the same and another hand was dealt.

Furs Stolen in Toronto This Morning Recovered at Brighton

ALL HAD GUNS

No Resistance When Officers Surprised Them Changing A Tire

Three armed desperadoes who early this morning robbed a Toronto furrier of $25,000 worth of furs were picked up by the provincial police at Brighton as they were changing a tire on their car. The bandits were caught unawares and were covered by the Officers' guns, being taken without a struggle although the leader of the gang made an attempt to draw his automatic from his pocket.

The men gave their names as Albert Martin, of Toronto, who is obviously a Jew; Albert Phillips, of Detroit, who acted as chauffeur of the party and Charles Wilson, of Chicago. They are all between the ages of twenty and thirty. Martin seemed to be chief. The three are now in Brighton jail, but Martin will be taken to Toronto and will be taken to Cobourg later this afternoon on charges of Inspector Silverthorn who is on his way down from Toronto.

The Gang Crowd

The gang are a tough looking crowd, all of them carried loaded revolvers in their pockets and a wicked sawed-off shot gun was in the front seat of the car, a big Packard sedan. The back of the tonneau was packed tight to the roof with furs.

The officers making the arrest were C. P. Storey, of Cobourg, Mcgrews, of Brighton and Inspector Fred Storey, a traffic officer from Toronto. Storey followed the gang down from Toronto, telephoning ahead to every town along the route. Storey and Mcgrews had themselves in the bridge just at the west entrance of Brighton and as the car drove up and going through. The bandits were forced to change a tire and drew into Brighton's service station for gasoline. The two officers meanwhile were join ed by Inspector Grew.

Drawn Revolvers

With drawn revolvers the three officers approached the unsuspecting desperadoes who were working with utmost speed changing their tire and oblivious of their approaching downfall, challenged by the police. Martin was the only one who made an attempt at resistance but he too was quickly awed by the officers' guns and dropped his half-drawn revolver back into his pocket.

The robbery for which the men are wanted took place about eight o'clock this morning. When the staff at Jacob Goodman's fur store opened up this morning, three armed men walked into the store and covering the trembling staff with their guns quickly stripped the racks of furs and, loading their loot into a waiting car, were off before an alarm could be given. When the police were notified Inspector Grew picked up the bandits' trail and the arrest was effected about noon at Brighton. Martin was found in their car by Mcgrews1 where they had arrangemehts all completed for disposal of their stolen furs to our own country. Had the Lakeside towns they were making a speed of sixty miles an hour.

BRUCE RETAINS GOOD WORKING MAJORITY

Melbourne, Australia, Nov. 20.—Count of the record vote in the Australian general elections was still proceeding today and the latest additions favored the government, or the nationalist country party coalition under Premier Bruce, who received a good working majority over the labor opposition.

The doubtful seats in the house of representatives now number five, narrowed down to five out of 75. The standing is approximately, Government 44, labor 31.

GROSS VANDALISM

When one considers the example of vandalism displayed by the three Concord men who pleaded guilty to the destroying of geese from a sanctuary it can only be felt that Magistrate Mikel, in compelling each man to pay the costs of the court, make restitution and give a bond for six months, took a very lenient view of the case.

At any time, anything that savors of vandalism is to be deplored and severely punished, and today there is no greater display of unprincipled inclination to destroy than to kill birds from a sanctuary.

We are prompted, when reading of the sentences meted out to the three men, to realize that our new sanctuary just a few miles from the city, must be protected from the careless and the wanton. There is no more sacred ground in Ontario than Jack Miner's sanctuary in Kingsville, which has long become the haven of the wild birds of all kinds; and on a smaller scale the sanctuary established near here hopes to do somewhat the same work, and it is to be sincerely hoped that there will be no killing of birds from the sanctuary.

The men who were assessed for destroying geese, animals of a very valuable species, may consider themselves extremely fortunate in that they were not more severely dealt with, certainly Magistrate Mikel could have inflicted, had he so desired, much heavier punishment on the men and there is no question but that any future case of the kind will not be so leniently considered.— Kingston Whig-Standard.

A QUIET ELECTION

With nomination day less than a week away there has been scarcely more than a ripple on the municipal sea, and from all appearances, the ratepayers will be treated to a mild election this year. Ex-Alderman Harry Greenleaf is the only man who has stat-footed announced that he will be a mayoralty candidate. Others state that they are "considering" the question of tossing their hats into the ring, but it is literally a case of "Laying one iron in the fire," and waiting for the other fellow to announce his intentions.

Mayor Duff will retire and Ald. Vesters, who had some aspirational will not accord to the wishes of a large number of friends and enter the contest. Dame rumor has it that ex-Ald. George Guinn, a good worker for the city of Belleville, may oppose Mr. Greenleaf, and if this be the case a lively battle would no doubt ensue. Ald. Chas. Hyde, ex-Ald. Geo Bennett and ex-Ald. R. P. White are other possibilities with Ald. W. A. Woodley's name prominently mentioned. Mayor Duff has filled the office efficiently and well, and while he was faced with a stormy passage at times, nevertheless his record has been a clean one. If he were to seek a second term, undoubtedly he would receive the same support as last year.

Obviously, there is a timidity on the part of the mayoralty candidates to announce themselves but nomination day may see some surprises. Ald. Bernard Collins, chairman of gas, has witnessed the transformation of the City Gas Department from a losing proposition to a system second to none in the province. Ald. Collins would have a large following were he to enter the contest but he will likely choose to run again on the aldermanic slate rather than for mayor.

Certain qualities are essential in the man seeking the chief magistrate's chair, and all of those mentioned are capable of wearing the chain to good effect. The next week may see some action but the present outlook augurs for an unusually quiet election.

WHAT HE YEARNS FOR

We read in a New York paper on Le Sports page, a letter from a real old-timer who deplores the flatness of boxing and wrestling today. It is not what it used to be; the sport has fallen upon evil days, etc.

If this gentleman possesses sufficient wealth he might try a trip to Shanghai, where in recent days the Chinese have been holding their first national boxing and fencing competition.

According to reports, boxing in China is fighting. There is no regulation saying that one man may not punch his opponent right smack in the stomach. Apparently he can do anything he likes. If his teeth are good and he has opportunity to take a grip, he can bite a section from his adversary's ear, or he can otherwise gouge him as seems good. The idea is to dispose of the chap just as quickly as possible, with no quibbling about regarding methods.

The old-timer who longs for action and some gore on the scenery might find it in Chinese boxing circles.

Or if that seemed still a trifle tame to his jaded appetite he should wait around until there is some fencing going on. Let him not run away before one of these events is staged. Fencing, as we understand it, is where each opponent takes a sword, handles it with great skill like they do in the movies, and finally jabs his opponent into submission. In China it is slightly different.

One Chinaman may prefer a nice curved sword with a very sharp edge, and he may swing it around with dangerous precision. His opponent, though, is not bound to use a sword. There is a delightful freedom in selection of implements, and the opposing man may come into the arena prancing about with a claymore pike pole or the garden rake. This method adds variety and also gives a chance to witness nice technique in the use of various sorts of tools.

Surely there is enough variety there to make the old-timer in New York point his prow toward the Orient.

ARE YOU ONE OF THESE?

There's the gay "smart Aleck" who
With "flapper" by his side
"Shows off" by "nosing" in and out
As he swells his chest with pride.

Some women thing the right of way
Is always theirs; they try
To steal your rightful place in line,
And give the cop "the eye."

A "nut" will shoot out from the curb
With carelessness satanic,
We dodge, and twist, but he goes on
Unmindful of the panic.

He worms his way through traffic
Of caution clear bereft,
Reaches corner on the right hand side,
And then turns to the left!

He dashes through a "School Zone,"
Still going like the dickens,
He cares no more for kiddies dear,
Than for a flock of chickens.

Then comes an intersection
The street is very busy
No cop is there, he rushes through
Proud of his "tin lizzie!"

The flustred crowd he leaves behind,
A baleful chorus renders,
With curses loud for sudden stops,
Or damage to their fenders.

A standing street-car in his path
"Cuts no ice" with him,
He must set by no matter if
He takes a life or limb.
He strides round a corner,
Still a going time,
Others dodge with squealing brakes
As he "butts in" the line.

At night he has the brightest lights
As he drives about,
But when he parks beside the curb
All his lights are out!

There are many other traffic crimes
These brainless "chumps" commit
Let's hope that someone will devise
Some punishments to fit.

The careful driver has no chance,
He's in a constant worry
Caused by selfish idiots who
Are always in a hurry.

That Body of Yours

THE VALUE OF HEAT

When you see an individual all "flushed up" with a fever, and then see the same individual when he is well, and still again when he looks pale and haggard, you may perhaps wonder what is happening to the circulation of blood in his system.

Two Berlin physicians, Drs. Eppenger and Schumreyer have been doing some research work on this subject, and tell us that these differences in the appearance of the individual are due to the fact that the actual amount of blood that is circulating in the blood vessels varies greatly accord ing to the individual's condition.

In the case of fever the amount that is circulating is much more than when the individual is well.

If he has undergone a shock of any kind, or has collapsed, the amount of blood circulating is less than normal.

After undergoing a general anaesth etic there is less blood circulating, and in one case of severe burn, it fell to less than half the normal values.

They tell us that by the use of heat and certain drugs, more blood can be taken from the storage depots and thus get into the circulation. That is the reason that in the case of shock or collapse, your first thought is to get heat to the body. You will remember that your treatment of shock was the application of heat in some form to the spine, abdomen, feet and hands. The patient should be placed in the lying down position with lower than the trunk. Small doses of hot coffee may be given by the mouth.

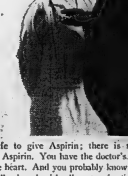

After operations, as you know, hot water bags, or bottles, or hot bricks are placed in the bed alongside the patient in order to give heat.

So now that we know that heat in any form will put more blood into circulation, it would seem like only good sense in cases of fainting, burns, shock, and so forth to apply heat in some manner. Your doctor will tell you that.

In the case of fevers, as Nature has plenty of blood circulating, he is not anxious to "reduce" the temperature unless it gets beyond safe limits.

In fact this temperature, this heat, is Nature's way of fighting off trou-

GUILTY IN FOUR SEPARATE CASES
Robert Dafoe Goes Down For Six Months—Year Indeterminate

Robert Dafoe, aged twenty-seven, appeared before Magistrate Mikel this morning charged with four offences, one of assaulting his wife, another of stealing a coat from Frederick Cox, another of breaking and entering a locked box car, stealing goods therefrom, and finally with stealing tools from the C. N. R. tool house.

On the first charge he pleaded not guilty, and Mrs. Dafoe, a frail woman, took the stand. She testified that she had been married only a year, had one child, and that during those months her husband had not worked continually ill used her, hitting her and saying objectionable things to her. He had not been working for two weeks, although he was employed by Gordon-Cox, dealing coals therefrom, and finally with stealing tools from the C. N. R. tool house.

Dafoe pleaded guilty to stealing Cox's overcoat, and pleaded not guilty to taking anything from the box car. Evidence showed that he had broken into it, so he was found guilty on this charge also. On the fourth and last charge, that of breaking into the C.N.R. tool house, he pleaded not guilty, but would offer no statement as to defence. Consequently he was found guilty, and on the four counts sentenced to serve six months in all, with an indeterminate sentence of one year added.

Dafoe is thought to be a little mentally deranged, as his defence on the assault charge consisted chiefly of this statement. "All I wanted was to have a wife and a child and a happy home. If I pulled my wife's hair I'm sorry about it. I never struck her intentionally."

YOUNG FARMERS

Dr. H. J. Cody, the Chairman of the Board of Governors, presided.

On Wednesday, tomorrow, the lads will be given a tour of the Union Stock Yards and the Packing Plants where they will see the whole process of manufacturing livestock and the ultimate manufacturing of the animals in to meat products. In the afternoon they will be taken through the huge manufacturing plant of the Massey-Harris Company, and will see the different factory processes in the production of farm implements. They will be the guests of the Council of Canada Meat Packers at Luncheon and the Massey-Harris Company at supper. In the evening they will attend the Royal Winter Fair Horse Show as guests of the Fair.

Judging Livestock
Thursday they will visit large Toronto stores, but the greater part of the day will be taken up in inspection of exhibits and studying the judging of livestock at the Royal Winter Fair. In the evening they will be the guests of the T. Eaton Co. Ltd. at a banquet. On Friday, the last day, the boys will be taken through the Ontario Parliament Buildings and will be given a motor trip around the Queen City as guests of the City of Toronto. More time will be spent in inspecting the exhibits at the Fair, and in the evening those who have survived the three days of high living and are not overcome by the pangs of indigestion will be treated to another banquet as the guests of the Robert Simpson Company. They will leave for home the following morning.

SEEMS NO LIMIT TO BULL MARKET
Sensational Upward Swing Features To-Day's Exchange at New York

New York, Nov. 20.—High priced stocks were whirled upward in a sensational fashion on the New York stock exchange as the bull movement, interrupted by profit taking yesterday was resumed in full swing in what was the accumulation of orders that the ticker tape could not follow behind.

Dupont was the spectacular individual feature scoring sixty points to a new high record at 500. Case Threshing Machine ran up 32 points to 481, Mack 2-1-3 points to 255 and Greene Cananea Copper, Keith Albee, Orpheum Preferred, Liquid Carbonic, International Harvester, Johns-Manville, Woolworth, May Department Stores, Pittsburg Coal, and Standard Oil of California climbed 2 to 10 points all touching new peak prices. Curtiss, Wright, Allied Chemical, Victor Talking Machine and Rossia Insurance soared 3 to 9 points but did not touch new heights.

GRANTED A DIVORCE
Edinburgh, Nov. 20.—Lord Invercivde, one of Britains richest peers was today granted a divorce from Lady Invercivde.

WOMEN SENDING TWO DELEGATES TO CONVENTION
Mrs. Kinnear and Miss McLean Represent Belleville at Toronto

The Belleville Women's Conservative Association held their first meeting of the season in the Conservative Club Rooms last evening with the President, Mrs. J. W. Kinnear in the chair. General plans for the coming year were discussed and a great deal of activity can be expected from this live organization during the ensuing year. The chief topic of discussion was the Convention of the Provincial Conservative Association of Ontario which is taking place in Toronto today and tomorrow.

At the closing meeting of the Club held last May, which was addressed by Mrs. H. Hallis and invitation was extended to the local club to send delegates to this gathering and accordingly it was decided last evening that Mrs. J. W. Kinnear, President, and Miss J. McLean, Secretary, represent the local Conservative Women. These ladies leave tomorrow and will be in attendance at the banquet to be held tomorrow evening in the King Edward Hotel. The Honorable R. B. Bennett will be among the speakers on the programme.

Many of the leading political figures in Ontario will address the Convention and among others will be Mrs. H. Hallig who is well known locally.

KINGSTON CHILD DIED OF INJURIES

Kingston, Nov. 20. —Within a stone's throw of her own home, Nellie, five-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William C. McDonald, residing at 28 Quebec Street, was run down by an automobile at the corner of Clergy and Barrack and killed. Mr. McDonald is a member of the City Fire Department.

CAMPAIGN UNDER WAY FOR FUNDS

A meeting in connection with Red Cross work washeld in the Y.M.C.A. yesterday afternoon when Mr. Hallis, President of the local Red Cross, in the chair. Representatives from the various clubs and organizations in the City were present and were addressed by Mr. Johnston from the Red Cross Society of Toronto. Mr. Johnston outlined a campaign which is being put on by the Toronto organization.

Envelopes for contributions have been sent out throughout Ontario and it is desired that each organization in the city appoint ten people to collect these envelopes. A dinner will be given in the Queen's Hotel either on Monday or Tuesday of next week for the workers in this campaign and the speaker is to be Dr. Roughley, of Toronto, who will speak on Red Cross matters.

Exciting Basket Ball Promised Wednesday Night At Y. M. C. A.

Basketball fans will be given the opportunity of witnessing two fast games at the Y Gymnasium tomorrow evening, scheduled fixtures in the "Big Four" Industrial League. These games have been providing some thrilling ball and it is fully expected that the programme for tomorrow night will prove no exception. Undoubtedly a much better brand of basketball has been played in the city than ever before as stated in the city by-laws to enforce the removal.

The City Treasurer was authorized to issue a cheque to the Tax Collector of the Township of Thurlow for the taxes against the city stone quarry property in the Township and also for the taxes against the Metric Company as per accounts rendered.

The Kitchener Kitchen Cabinet Co. through William Thompson, their agent, applied for a permit to install a filling station for gasoline on their property on Station St. The request was granted.

A communication was received from the Satin Finish Hardwood Flooring Ltd. with reference to the broadcast. They stated that Brantford will be on the air next Wednesday and Kitchener and Waterloo at a later date. Preston and Company are the Belleville agents of the Hardwood Company which made possible the broadcast. They expressed their thanks for the co-operation for the broadcast as well as the citizens for their interest.

CITY COUNCIL

A letter was received from W. H. Nugent, County Clerk, stating that at the meeting of the Belleville suburban Road Commission a Committee was appointed from the City Council to investigate the matter of the old suburban road. It was stated that Nugent is coming to an amicable settlement. He stated the County Committee has decided to meet the City Committee on Friday, Nov. 23rd.

A committee composed of Mayor Duff, Ald. Woodley, and Reid was appointed to meet a delegation from the Chamber of Commerce to discuss the possibility of a Municipal Airport. Mr. G. O. Wakeman, Inspector of Civil Aviation of the Dept of National Defence was in the city recently and met the Directors of the Chambers of Commerce.

Congratulations
A Communication was received from Mr. G. O. Herrig, Manager of the Chamber of Commerce, by Mayor Duff congratulating him on the success of "All Belleville" Radio Night. The Directors of the Chamber of Commerce felt it was a fine advertising scheme and extended to the Council their thanks that the broadcast was made possible.

A letter was received by the Council from the Clerk of Guelph on Old Age Pensions. The Guelph Council will request the Provincial Govt. to adopt the system for Ontario. It was felt that it will minimize the amount required for Civic Relief. The Belleville Council concurred in the resolution.

It was recommended that the City Solicitor be instructed to notify McCall Bros. to remove the wooden ramp on Front Street within twenty-four hours from receipt of notice and in the event of non-removal the City Engineer be authorized, to take the necessary steps as stated in the city by-laws to enforce the removal.

The City Treasurer was authorized to issue a cheque to the Tax Collector of the Township of Thurlow for the taxes against the city stone quarry property in the Township and also for the taxes against the Metric Company as per accounts rendered.

ANOTHER USE FOR FLOUR BAGS

Women have always saved the cloth flour sacks, and thought of dozens of ways to make use of them; dish towels, aprons, dust cloths and even nightgowns. But the paper flour sacks have been despised and destroyed. They, too, are useful.

When you empty a paper flour sack, shake all the flour out of it and roll it up and lay away for an emergency. You will find these useful when storing things, as they are tough and impenetrable. If you put the galoshes away in them for the summer, they will keep out the dust. Slip one over each end of the porch rug when you roll it away for the winter. Use them as covers for all sorts of things which you put away in attic or cellar, and which you wish to protect from the insidious grime of long neglect.

THE DAYS OF NOW AND THEN

Times are certainly changing. Most of us can remember being bundled up in heavy underwear with the first approach of cold weather, and not being allowed to emerge without being stuffed up until the twenty-fourth of May. And even on the occasions of parties or the Christmas tree at the Church which necessitated the appearance of light dresses, and we would have wished to discard some of the cumbersome clothing, we were carefully overhauled before leaving home to ascertain that we had not yielded to vanity and shed any of the wooly underclothing. Now comes the news that this is a positive danger. Not discarding we mean, but commencing to wear heavy underclothing. An article by Dr. Hastings says that this indicates thoughtlessness to a marked degree. We do not stop to think that in our homes, in offices and places of business we are living in practically summer temperature, rendered so artificially, it is true, but the conditions are practically the same with of course less humidity.

It is not wise then to cover up our bodies with extra heavy underwear, the result of which is that our skins are kept, more or less, constantly moist, and when we go out into the open air, the rapid evaporation of the perspiration or moisture of the entire surface of the body, promptly lowers the temperature of the body and predisposes us to colds. The only time we really feel the need of extra garments is when we are outdoors and this is the logical time to use them. If plenty of warm clothing is worn when one is outside it really is unnecessary and even foolish to put on extra heavy "undies".

Some Helpful Hints For Busy Housewives

Soup meat should be started in cold water and brought to a boil gradually.

More fresh vegetables and fruits and less meat is the health cry of the summer months.

Finely chopped parsley adds considerably to the flavor and appearance of bullion or cream soup.

Rice boiled in milk and served with sugar and cinnamon is a splendid dessert for children and one usually very popular.

To improve macaroni and a beaten egg to the hot seasoned milk when you are making macaroni and cheese. You'll find the flavor, color and texture of the dish improved. If eggs are scarce, use only the yolk, and save the white for a cake or a chocolate or custard pudding.

No Need to Diet At Any Age

PLENTY of people past "three-score-and-ten" eat what they please without penalty. They don't have heartburn, or flatulence, or any distress due to excessive acid. But they do take care of their stomachs—with "Pape's Diapepsin." Then their digestive organs are soothed, healed and strengthened in a wonderful way, and normal healthy digestion results.

Because it is so quick, so safe and so sure in ending digestive troubles, millions recommend "Pape's Diapepsin." "Pape's Diapepsin" is unequalled as an indigestion remedy and "sour stomach" corrective, yet it costs only 60 cents at a package at all druggists.

If your stomach ever torments you get "Pape's Diapepsin" at once and experience the pleasure of care-free, painless digestion. You may have felt that nothing can help your particular difficulty, but so have others to whom this remedy proved a pleasant surprise.

WHAT'S NEW
(From A Woman's Standpoint)

Latest Paris afternoon frocks favor heavy, shiny satin printed silks and taffie.

The Rev. J. Sheppard has been telling London that: "Any woman can master a man by agreeing with him."

All-over laces are continuing their Paris vogue, where colored laces rather than black are the rule.

The abolition of the Arabic alphabet in Turkey and the adoption of the western A, B, C, have opened a new profession to Turkish women, stenography.

Paris is telling Mademoiselle to be well dressed she "must have a red dress, a black dress, a beige dress, all other colors are optional—but these three are absolutely necessary."

Elaborately strapped slippers were frequently observed at a big night at-Guinan's Heree there, and in many instances, the coloring of the pumps matched that of the wrap, rather than the dress.

Asserting that they have a sharper sense of hearing for locating trouble, French automobile manufacturers now employ women to test motors in new cars.

Advice to Girls
By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I have been going with a married man for nine months. I don't love him at all. I just go with him because he is a fine friend to me.

I know that this man loves me with all his heart and he thinks I love him too. What can I do to get rid of him? I am afraid I have kid ded him along too far. He is the kind of fellow that might take it badly and want revenge.

My biggest problem of all is that I am deeply in love with my employer who is ten years older than I. I love this man so much and I almost live it at times.

Please, Annie Laurie, tell me what to do as I couldn't possibly confide in my parents.

FOOLISH.

FOOLISH: Your letter is well signed, my dear. For that is exactly what you are— a very foolish girl. The only thing for you to do, as I see it, is to face to see this man and keep on refusing until he realizes that your "NO" means exactly what you say. The very fact of your not wanting to confide in your parents shows that you realize how wrongly you have been acting. And it may be that you will have to take them into your confidence if the man gets unpleasant.

As to the situation in your place of employment, if your feelings obtrude to any great extent on your work and you do not do it as you should, leave and get another position. It might be best for you to do this anyway. But my dear, you are so very young—too young—to be thinking of love all the time. Try not to. Just have your good times and wait until Mr. Right comes along. But you must take a firm stand with the married man.

Gay Adventurers By Mildred Barbour

CHAPTER 26

NO MESSAGE

When another day had passed and there was no message from Constance Kerr, Sheila was at her wits end.

And there was nothing that she could do. That was the most terrify ing part of the whole affair.

Even her best-guy young nerves were beginning to give under the strain of worrying about her own predicament and the safety of Constance. For Sheila had begun to feel that Constance had met with some calamity.

What else could possibly explain her long silence, after her promise to appear in Paris within a few days of Sheila's arrival?

"Paris has not been a dream to me—it has been a nightmare," mused Sheila, as she stood at the window and watched the lights of the magic city pricking through the fast-gathering dusk.

Within an hour she was to leave with the Baronne de Courcy for the housepartly which the Baronne was giving at her villa in Cannes.

Ordinarily, she would have been thrilled at the prospect of the trip but now she was too upset to think about anything except her immediate problems. And she had worried over them so much that she was beginning to doubt her ability to think clearly.

She left a sealed note with the manager of the hotel. He had been much surprised that the envelope bore no name or address.

"But to whom shall I deliver it?" he had queried.

That was a facer. She couldn't say: "Give it to Miss Constance Kerr when she arrives?" or: her could she direct that it be delivered to a Miss Sheila Allen, for she was afraid that Constance, if she did reach Paris, and found her double gone, would not think of inquiring as to the whereabouts of a person by that name.

"Oh, this masquerade! The exchange of identities," moaned Sheila. "What a mess! And we thought we had foreseen all emergencies."

After a mental scramble, she faltered:

"Why—you—please give to me when I come back. It contains a list of some things I must buy, and if you give it to me on my return, I will remember to buy them. Otherwise, I won't, I am so absent minded."

She uttered the last words in a weak line of voice, and the manager's look was so incredulous that her own gaze faltered.

"My only hope," she told herself, is that Constance will come soon, and that he will give her this note immediately upon her arrival. Then she can wire me at Cannes, and I will rush back and we'll resume our own names, identities, passports and affairs generally."

When the Count came to the hotel to take Sheila to the station, his amiable mood of the previous evening had vanished.

"I had been in hopes, Constance," he said, "that you would find some way of declining this invitation at the last minute, even though it comes from one of your most esteemed oldest friends. I had much rather stay in Paris, and I should think you would too. I cannot understand why you decided to go to Cannes. You told the other day, that there is only one modern bath in the entire house, and that is in the Baronne's suite."

Sheila could not explain that the deciding factor in favor of the visit to Cannes was a message from Constance's father, received that morning. In it he had insisted that he join her Aunt Sophia at Baden-Baden, without delay, since it might be several weeks before he could reach Paris. He did not want her to be alone.

Sheila had been tormented by dreams in which she faced Mr. Kerry, and was denounced as an imposter. She had no desire to experience the reality. She sent a message at once, saying that Aunt Sophia was taking a cure and could not be bothered with her, but that the Baronne de Courcy was kindly including her in a house-party. This would soothe his fatherly fears, she felt sure.

Now she sat dispiritedly in the taxi, beside the Count, as they sped toward the station. Paris traffic was somewhat to blame for Sheila's inattention to what the Count was saying. Otherwise, she would never become accustomed. Whenever she took a cab, she was beset with fears for her life.

The Count frowned down upon her as she flinched at what seemed an inevitable crash.

"You are so jumpy," he said. "Never have I seen you so nervous. There must be something that you are keeping from me.... something that is worrying you. Let her by."

"There is," murmured Sheila unguardedly.

"What's that?" he fairly shouted.

"Nothing.... I mean.... well, if you must know, I am so afraid Father will hear of our marriage before I have a chance to talk to him. The whole business makes me so nervous and unhappy."

He accepted the explanation reluctantly. As the train pulled out, he called: "I will see you in a day or two."

If Sheila had entertained a peaceful journey, she was disappointed, for the Baronne began, as soon as they were seated in the railway carriage, to upbraid her for asking Mrs. Harry Edwards e included in the list of house party guests

"It's it bad enough to have Belle-Jane tagging along—" she stormed. "Why must you have Hilda too? I sent him an invitation but the reason for your wanting him I do not see. I declare, Constance, I almost think I ought to let your mother know that you are continually changing the two men of whom she most disapproves, despite my efforts to chaperone you. Yes, really I believe I am. And it is so.

AIRCRAFT SPURS OUR INDUSTRIES

Minerals, Pulp, Water Power all Stimulated Through Use of Aircraft

Ottawa, Ont., Nov.,(CP)—Under the swift impetus of the aeroplane Canada's frontiers of industry are rolling rapidly northward.

Mining, pulp and paper and water power industries have all enlisted this fleet-winged assistant in their progress northward. All the way from the Yukon to Ungava, prospectors who for merly travelled at a snail's pace thru almost impenetrable territory are now being carried at a hundred miles an hour with diamond drills, food, sleds, and dynamite. The husky dog, that indefatigable burden-bearer of the north now goes to work by plane.

Instead of having to depend on the uncertain reports of scouts the engineer of a pulp and paper company now chooses a new area of operation from aerial maps, replete with all the detail which only the camera can give. Great stretches of territory are graphically depicted and from the maps a definite estimate can be made of the value of the timber.

Water power development also owes a debt to aerial photography. Pictures are taken at oblique angles and pasted together. When two groups are viewed simultaneously through a stereoption the relief effect gives an accurate idea of the topography of the country and the direction of water sheds.

The hint of a new mineral field start an aerial race among prospectors. Jutting rock is viewed from above as the plane flies low. The prospector's hammer tells the tale and the plane rushes back to file claims.

To the more romantic names of gold and silver, are added those of copper, lead, zinc, oil, salt and bituminous sand. Each new discovery is a stepping stone in the persistent movement northward. The silence of the arctic will be broken by the grinding of the ore crusher.

There are at present more than 10,000 miles, metallurgical plants and allied units in operation in the Dom inion They employ 80,000 workers and represent a capital investment of more than $700,000,000. In 1927 their products were valued at $248,000,000, and this year is expected to show an unprecedented increase.

Prospecting operations are being carried on n nearly every province. Outstanding developments are those in the Fuller district in Ontario where several millions of dollars are being expended this year, in British Columbia along the northern boundaries of Manitoba and Saskatchewan. The Hudson Bay railway into Churchill is nearing completion and will hasten the opening up of that new country. The new line from The Pas, Manitoba, to the Flin Flon mining area has been finished three months before the expiration of the contract time.

Since 1926 Canada has seen the world's greatest newsprint producer. For the first three months of this year the production was 206,000 tons more than last year, or 15 per cent. A new 500-ton newsprint mill at Kapuskasing Ont., opened this year with 5,000 workers. This is typical of the growth of the industry.

Hydro-Electric development is answering the demand of the mineral and forest industries for electrical power. In nearly every province new power installations have been put into operation. During the first ten months of 1928 new developments throughout the Dominion made available an additional 222,000 horse power in electrical energy.

SCOTSMAN FOUND MCINTOSH REDS

J. McIntosh Discovered Favorite Apple in Dundas County in 1796

Ottawa, Ont. (By C.P.)—The history of the popular McIntosh Red Apple is given by the Ottawa Morning Journal in its special column, "A Fact a Day About Canada," as follows:

"The story of the McIntosh Red is an epic. In the year 1796 John McIntosh, a Scottish settler in Dundas, who lived near the St. Lawrence was wandering through his bushland, (of which he had more than any other kind), when to his surprise he saw several apple trees. With great joy (and great labor) he transplanted the trees into his clearing. The result, after years, was the now famous McIntosh Red.

"It is believed by the fruit experts that the McIntosh Red was the result of the self planting of seeds from the Fameuse or snow apple, cores of which were dropped either by prospectors, raiders, or home-seekers, who passed that way years before.

It should be explained that apple seeds do not reproduce their kind. A planted seed always produces another tree, though only faint family resemblance. That is why, when the experts or others want to continue a variety, they use the grafting process. John McIntosh used the grafting process and kept the great McIntosh Red in a class by itself.

"The fruit experts tell us that it takes fully 40 years to put any new variety of fruit on an established and marketable basis. First of all it takes from five to ten years for an apple or pear tree to bear fruit. It takes another five or ten years to establish the new variety in favor with the fruit grower. Then it takes 10 years or more to obtain quantity production and finally another period of years to make the new variety popular with the consumers. If the apple or pear raisers do not take to the new variety, all the advertising or marketing schemes in the world could be worthless.

"A new apple which appears to be standing the acid test, as it were, is the new Melba variety on which the Experimental Farm has placed the seal of its approval."

PARENTS UNDERSTAND
THIS BABY'S LANGUAGE

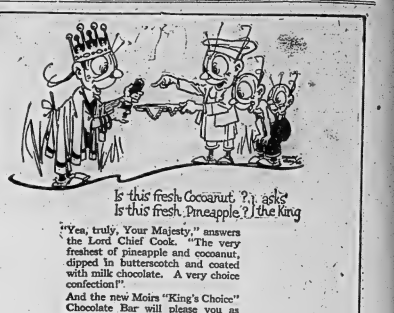

"We thought we were going to lose our baby, teething," says a Kentucky mother. "He couldn't digest anything and was getting thinner every day. After one of his fretful, crying nights, I thought of Castoria and got some. A few drops made him comfortable, and after a few doses, he seemed like a different baby." Doctors everywhere recommend purely vegetable, harmless Fletcher's Castoria for colds, constipation, colic and other ills of babies and children, and millions of mothers know its gentle influence is best. Avoid imitations. The Fletcher signature is the mark of genuine Castoria.

CANADIAN PAIR HELD AT BORDER

Ottawa, Ont., Nov. 19...Department of external affairs through the Hon. Vincent Massey, Canadian Minister to Washington, has asked the United States government to inquire into the complaint that two Canadian youths are detained at St. Johnbury, Vermont by American authorities. So far, no protest has been made. The Department is merely trying to ascertain if the facts as reported are correct before taking further action. It is understood the men are held as aliens attempting to enter the United States.

The ABOVE exclusive photograph may prove of vast importance in the investigation of the sinking of the S.S. Vestris. Witnesses testified Nov. 16, 1928, that the Santa Lucia collided with the Vestris on Nov. 9, the day before it started on its last trip. This is a picture of that crash.

PAGAN INDIANS STIFF PROBLEM

Christian Teacher Will Visit Manitoba-Ontario Boundary This Winter

Toronto, Ont. (C.P. Press)—Pagan Indians of Pekangekum on the Manitoba-Ontario boundary are to have this winter a Christian teacher, James KirGens, from Berens River Missions on Lake Winnipeg, it is announced by the Fairbairn missions for the United Church of Canada.

It was lately reported that when Clifford Swartman, Ontario Provincial Air Force pilot, nosed his big flying boat down upon the waters of Pekangekum Lake one afternoon last September, it was to put to utter route one of the very few bands of Pagan Saulteaux Indians to be found now in the Patricia district.

Rev. Mr. Barner states that in company with Rev. J. W. Niddrie of Berens River he visited these bands in July, 1921, and conducted services but found it impossible then to induce these nomads to settle long enough in one place for a school to be constructed for their children. He did not witness any revolting Pagan ceremonies such as the airman reports, but can corroborate accounts of the shyness and strangeness of the Saulteaux.

This year a few hunters agreed to build houses and leave their women and children at Pekangekum through the winter in order to welcome a teacher and receive instruction.

Forty portages eastward from Lake Winnipeg, Mr. Barner found Pekangekum Lake almost inaccessible by canoe. He went in long before aeroplanes were heard of as means of transport into these northern wilds. Once every year for the past ten years either Rev. F. J. Stevens of Fisher River Mission or Mr. Niddrie has visited Saulteaux, in the hope that sooner or later a suitable missionary could be found and facilities for his work provided. The first attempt to establish a school among them failed because the wandering instinct proved too strong and they packed up and "mushed" off after their traps.

At a half-way point between Pekangekum and Berens River a mission was established a few years ago by Lake Winnipeg Presbytery at Little Grand Rapids, with Luther Bluetar, accomplished linguist, in charge. Reports of progress by Mr. Kirkness or later a suitable missionary could be found and facilities for his work provided. The first attempt to establish a school among them failed because the wandering instinct proved too strong and they packed up and "mushed" off after their traps.

At a half-way point between Pekangekum and Berens River a mission was established a few years ago by Lake Winnipeg Presbytery at Little Grand Rapids, with Luther Bluetar, extend over a large area.

NEW CITIES

THIS MAN is a business prophet. He does not really look into a crystal ball but he reads the future nevertheless and he sees new cities yet unbuilt. He is important in the telephone business.

He judges the future from the facts of the present and it is his job to judge with accuracy. He must judge with accuracy because, in a telephone system, plans must be made for years ahead and millions of dollars are involved.

With a railway there must be tracks and stations before trains can run. With a telephone system there must be conduits and central exchanges before telephones can go in.

To wait until people are clamoring for telephones is too late.

THE BUSINESS PROPHET does not wait. He comes to the management with his charts and graphs and figures and says:

"In 1930 the demand in Ontario will be 80,000 new telephones. They will be wanted here and here and here."

Or he says: "Within the next five years the Province of Quebec will need at least forty per cent more exchange capacity".

And the management does not wait either. They know it is up to them to prepare now. If they don't they will be falling down on their job; they will not be keeping pace with the country.

BECAUSE THE BUSINESS PROPHET spoke in time and the management acted promptly there are 139,000 telephones being installed in Ontario and Quebec this year. Without them there would be inconvenience and confusion now in thousands of new homes and offices.

Next year the business outlook calls for spending over twenty-seven million dollars to extend and renew the system and plans have been made to do so.

For the next five years the telephone expansion definitely known to be needed in the two provinces means over one hundred million dollars.

FINDING THE MONEY is a problem. It is as great a problem as the complications of engineering and organization.

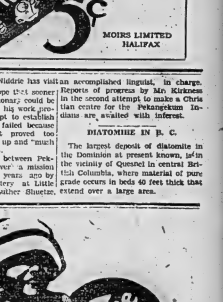

Every year as the country grows there must be new money ready so that the telephone system may keep pace.

Every year thus far the money has been ready because the policy of the telephone system has been fortunate in attracting the support of conservative and reliable investors who have not been subject to the influence of market fluctuations.

THAT IS HOW the business prophet and his graphs have been made effective. And that is why the telephone management has always met Canadian progress with confidence and enthusiasm.

Published by The Bell Telephone Company of Canada to tell you something about the telephone business and the people in it.

REGENT THEATRE

The comedy drama of the underworld, "Square Crooks," which is playing to capacity houses at the Regent Theatre, will have a final showing at that place of entertainment to-morrow evening. This Fox Films feature is the screen version of the Broadway stage success by James T. Judge and the picture retains all the qualities which made the spoken play such a hit.

Robert Armstrong, Johnny Mack Brown, Dorothy Dwan and Dorothy Appleby are the featured players in this production, which was directed by Lew Seiler.

BELLE THEATRE

NEW STAR PICTURE PACKED WITH THRILLS AND LAUGHS

Marie Prevost, finely supported by Harrison Ford and Edmund Breon, scored an emphatic triumph in her new comedy-drama star picture, "The Rush Hour" on the premier presentation at the Belle theatre yesterday. From start to finish, the production is overflowing with exciting and thrilling situations which more than fulfilled the prediction of the management that it would be greeted by the motion picture fans with a rush to see the scenes in which Miss Prevost has thus far been seen.

The picture is well mounted and the supporting cast including David Butler and Ward Crane, is excellent. E. Mason Hopper directed with satisfying results as might have been expected from the man who made "Sun in Mabel's Room." The production is highly amusing and well worth seeing.

EDMONTON EMPLOYS LANDSCAPE GARDENER

Edmonton, Alberta, Nov. (By C.P.)—With a view to improving the appearance of the parks of the city the appointment of a landscape gardener has been recommended by the Town Planning Association and it is not unlikely the city council will make such an appointment in the near future. The association points out that by placing an expert landscape gardener in charge of the work of making the parks more attractive than they have been, results could be obtained that would be greatly beneficial to the parks in the city are of great natural beauty, and, thru careful attention could be made still more beautiful.

Who will have the first television in this city?

There are two television broadcasting stations withing a reasonably short distance of Belleville, the one, WGY, at Schenectady, last Sunday night, and the other WNYC New York city.

So far there have been no reports of any citizen in this district possessing one of these sets, but as it must be a fascinating hobby, no doubt a few will appear in the near future.

QUIET ELECTION IN THE LIMESTONE CITY

Kingston, Nov. 20.—With nominations just a week off, it looks as if Kingston will have one of the quietest municipal elections in some time.

It is hard to tell who the new can didates are to be in the Jerrardite race, for if there are shy citizens anxious to throw their hats in the ring and offer themselves for service, they are apparently keeping the matter well quiet. Which will be the contest apparently will not be disclosed until the last hour for the candidates to qualify —9 o'clock the night following the day of the nominations.

As far as can be learned, every member of the present council is out for re-election.

So far but two candidates have been announced for the commission to the Public Utilities Commission. R. N. F. McFarlane, the present member and chairman of the commission is in the running for re-election and John F. Edwards has also announced that he will be a candidate.

SHIFT SMITH TO DEFENCE ROLE

Montreal Teams Hit the Road After Brief Home Stand

Montreal, Nov. 20.—Montreal's two pro hockey teams hit the road last night to aid United States National Hockey League clubs open their home stands. Canadiens going to Boston, where they will play the Bruins this evening, the game featuring the opening of Boston's magnificent new arena. The contest will be attended with considerable ceremonial. President Frank Calder, of the N. H. L., will be in attendance.

New York Rangers, although they played the Americans at the Garden Sunday, play their first "home" game in New York this evening and the affair will be a continuation of last year's Stanley Cup finals with the Montreal Maroons as opponents for the champions.

The Maroon management has decided against recalling any of the defence men they have on loan to other clubs and, for the time being at least, will not fill Dunc Munro's position. Bill Phillips will be able to get into action by Thursday and with Earl Robinson and Phillips for relief under duty, if an emergency arises on the Montreal defence, Hooley Smith can always be dropped back and either Phillips or Robinson can take Smith's position up forward.

YOUR EYES and Our Service

By J. A. McFEE, Optometrist - Belleville

To see well is no proof of normal vision?

Not at all. Vision may be normal with abnormal eyes. This is an important fact to remember. Because overcoming errors of vision causes a tremendous strain on the eyes.

Is this overcoming of errors of vision only found in young persons?

No. Older persons may suffer from a like cause. But the symptoms produced are often more noticeable. For that reason an older person is more likely to complain than one who is young.

Many older far-sighted persons may not be aware of their condition?

Yes those in otherwise good health and of strong physique may be for years unacquainted with the fact that they have far sight or another error of vision.

The New C.O.B.L. President

Showers of congratulations have followed the election of Mr. R. A. Elliott to the presidency of the Central Ontario Baseball League. The delegates made no mistake when they chose him to head this thriving organization for the next year. Mr. Elliott is a great lover of the summer pastime and his time in the summer months is largely devoted to baseball, a game which he loves. It is a steady diet, morning noon and night for him. He was signally honored in being made a member of the executive of the Ontario Baseball Association and in that capacity he has carried out his duties faithfully and well. A graduate of Queen's University Mr. Elliott is a member of the Athletic Board of Control at that institution and takes a keen interest in his welfare. While he is a lver of all forms of sport his interest centres chiefly around baseball. For many years he was manager of the Deloro intermediate team which swept through to two Ontario championships. Feeling that his executive duties were not receiving the attention necessary, Mr. Elliott handed the reins over to Mr. John Hemphill who has filled Mr. Elliott's shoes most acceptably.

"Bob" Elliott as he is known to a host of admirers, is a lover of clean sport and it was few decisions that he disputed on the field. He fought for his team but was always willing to acknowledge defeat and the first to congratulate the victors.

Mr. Elliott holds a very important position with the Deloro Smelting Co. and his ability when he announced work with that firm was readily recognized until now he is manager. Mr. Elliott is popular with players, fans and colleagues, with whom he is associated, who will rejoice in his elevation to the presidency of the Central Ontario Baseball League.

SPORTOGRAMS

With Albert College obliterated from the football map for this season at least, sports in this city will be more or less at a standstill for the next six weeks until the pucksters get their paraphernalia out of the moth-balls. The College boys put up a game battle before succumbing to Earl Browne's Peterborough stalwarts last Saturday. The Petes have a smart team but the Albert team with a little punch at the finish could easily have brought home the verdict. Two yards to make on two downs and the tricolor fell down miserably. It was heart-rendering to see those mud-besmirched laddies facing defeat YET DOGGEDLY FIGHTING for their Alma Mater to the bitter end.

The Collegians were the final representatives of this city on the gridiron and their performance is one that deserves the plaudits of the local sporting colony. Albert had a smart team and the honors which they lost, this year may, with the experience shown, come this way next season.

"Toots Holway is playing regularly for the Pittsburg team in the National League and he may be just new regaining his stride. The big boy has been ineffective since with the Toronto St. Pats, although he put up a good game with the Stratford Nationals last year. Holway possesses all the essentials that go to make up a good player and the Benny Leonard's team he may go much better. Two Belleville boys appear to be making good in the big time, Holway with Pittsburg and Lawrence Joyer with St. Louis team.

Their many admirers in Belleville will be pulling for both of them to have a good season.

Newton Thompson has again been chosen secretary-treasurer of the Central League. A more capable official would be hard to find than the same "Newt" and he knows his baseball. He has been connected with the local club for some years and for the past five years acted as league secretary.

The choice of Mr. F. G. Chester as vice-president will meet with the hearty approval of those basically inclined. Mr. Chester is a live wire and a power for the game both in his native town, Oshawa and in Central Ontario. It was really due to his efforts that the Central Ontario League was re-organized this year and his appointment to vice-president is a well-merited one.

Prospects were never brighter for the Central League and the only regret is the fact that Kingston will not be included next year. Joe Daley's scrappy outfit were hard hit by the weather last season and were forced to forfeit a number of their games. Possibly by the time the Queen's Birthday rolls around the Ponies will see their way clear to make another attempt to convince the Limestone fans that they are worthy of support. If the Kingston team does not come in, there will be a heap of good talent going to waste. There are few better ball players in these parts than Delbert Cherry and he has been recognized as the peer of the league sluggers. Some of the younger players who have been developed at Kingston could present a team that would cut a wide swath in the league next year.

Apparently the Kingston Whig-Standard scribe thinks little of Belleville's chances in the O. H. A. race this year, judging from some caustic comment which appeared under the sport notes of a recent date. He says:

"If Belleville are coming out again with two teams I don't think they are going to play in the old rink if it can be helped at all but toilers down and no amount of repairing could put it in decent shape again.

One of the Belleville players said only a couple of weeks ago that the reason they didn't try many cross-checks in the rink was because the end of the stick might hook against the side of the rink and hang would go the whole bag.

But they'll likely be up against it for intermediates at that. Goyer, Green and Whalen could hardly be expected to loiter through another season, and Stan Hagerman stated a short time ago that he was not intending to play this winter. Eddie Thomas will still think he has a hockey team as long as he can drag out "Bunny" Prouette again.

NO RECURRENCE OF COAST STORM

English Vessel Sinks, One Member of Crew Is Rescued

London, Nov. 19—With forty-one persons killed in the storm which swept over England, there was no sign today of a recurrence of the gale. Communications were being restored and damage repaired.

With the re-opening of the communications it became known that five more were to be added to the death toll as a result of the wreck of small Liverpool schooner. John Wooster, a youth was the only one of the crew to escape. He managed to clamber on a bit of rock that jutted out of the sea when the schooner was dashed to pieces on the rocks. After 48 hours without food, he was sighted and rescued by a pilot boat.

Swansea, Wales, Nov. 19—Fear that the gale which has swept Britain during the past week, has added eleven more victims to the toll was entertained here when it was learned that the steamer Elham had been wrecked. The vessel was washed ashore and broken in two. She carried a crew of eleven.

DRUNK DRIVER HELD TO BLAME

London, Ont., Nov. 19—Thos Dwyer 37, was charged today with the responsibility for the accident, Saturday, which nearly cost the lives of little Prince 15 and Vera Prince 17. The two girls were struck by a car and thrown into a water-filled ditch. Both were in danger of drowning before being pulled out.

Minn's is suffering from a fractured leg and Vera from cuts and bruises. Dwyer was arrested after charged with being drunk while driving and with causing bodily harm through negligence.

DIATOMITE MINES

Although there are upwards of a hundred occurrences of diatomite in the Maritime Provinces, where the material occurs in the bottoms of ancient or extinct lakes, there are only a few of sufficient size to be worked commercially. The most important of these are in the Cobequid mountains and Digby Neck in Nova Scotia, and Pollet Lake, southeastern New Brunswick.

COLLINS AND GREENLEAF FOR MAYOR

Six Employees Of Industrial Alcohol Company Injured In Crash

OFFICERS' BRAVERY IN FACE OF DEATH CALLS FOR COMMENDATION

Three Men Arrested at Brighton Wanted on Other Charges

TAKEN TO TORONTO

Offered Constables $15,000 For Their Freedom; Suspect Employes

Toronto, Nov. 21.—Three men arrested yesterday at Brighton following the hold-up of a fur store, when furs valued at $18,000 to $25,000 were stolen, were identified today by the proprietor of the store, Victor Goodman, as the perpetrators of the robbery. At Police headquarters, they gave the names of Leo Craig, 27, Louis Beaver, 28, both of Toronto, and Alexander Phillips, no address.

Its usual sombre life broken by the intrusion of three thugs, the little town of Brighton settled back to normal today after a few exciting hours. Brighton occupied the head lines in all of the Canadian newspapers yesterday as the scene of a threatened gun battle between three heavily armed desperadoes and a similar number of provincial police. Less than fourteen hours after they had staged a thrilling hold-up of the Fur store owned by Victor Goodman on Spadina Avenue, Toronto, yesterday morning, Louis Beaver 26 Darcy street, Leo Craig, 27 Dundas street west and Alex Phillips, Saldwin street, Toronto, were lodged in the Don Jail charged with robbery. They now face sentences in Portsmouth Penitentiary ranging from ten to twenty years.

All between the ages of twenty and thirty, these bold young thugs entered the store yesterday morning and escaped with loot to the value of $15,000, and managed to evade the police until a flat tire in Brighton momentarily halted their progress and resulted in their capture. Incidentally their arrest was the result of one of the smartest pieces of police work ever recorded in the annals of the Province. Three officers took their lives in their hands when they undertook to place the shackles on the bold young gunmen. But due to foresight on the part of the three members of the Provincial Police, not one shot was fired and the robbers were taken, offering but slight resistance.

To Provincial Constable Hayston Storey of Cobourg, Provincial Constable William McIlraith, of Brighton and A. Jerome of Toronto is due the credit for the arrest of the thugs. The first two acting under orders from Inspector W. Boughen, of the provincial headquarters; were patrolling the territory near Brighton watching for the gunmen, when who was also keeping a close look-out for the bandits spied what he took to be their car at Brintnell's Service Station at the west end of the town of Brighton. The latter picked up McIlraith and Storey and without laying any plans they swooped down on the trio who were hurriedly "armed to the teeth." The car was stopped at the station and Craig, Beaver and Phillips were engaged in repairing a tire. The contents of the car left no room for doubt that it was the three men for which a Province-wide search was being conducted.

Approached From Front

Jerome and McIlraith approached from the left side and Storey slid around to the opposite side of the car. Stepping out from in front of the large Packard sedan, Storey ordered the pyrgs to "Stick 'em up," and although he had no gun, he made a great attempt at bluff and the three men fell for it. Craig, however, whipped a hastily loaded revolver from his pocket and held it at the hip. Storey in the face of death grabbed for it and in thirty seconds the men were covered. The shackles were placed and three minutes later they were lodged behind the bars of the little cell in Brighton jail. It was a piece of work and daring that Jerome and McIlraith were complimented by Chief Provincial Detective Inspector Silverborne and Chief Provincial Officers for their splendid courage in this

A. B. COLLINS TO RUN FOR MAYOR

Has Been A Member of Belleville City Council For Three Years

Following is Ald. A. B. Collins official announcement to the electors of Belleville as Mayoralty candidate:

The announcement statement of His Worship, Mayor Duff, at the end of his present term of office, will have necessary the selection of a successor.

Ald. Mayor Duff consented to remain at the helm for another year and during was that he should have been granted a holiday, and has given capable and sane administration has won the highest regard of his colleagues in Council, and on relinquishing office he will carry with him the esteem and sincere friendship of the citizens whom he has served faithfully and well. Had he retained his position he would have been well content to have served under him as Alderman, for an other term, had the Electors so willed, but his prospective retirement creates an entirely different situation.

Since Mayor Duff's announcement, election of all chains, business, professional, mechanic and labor have strongly urged upon me the propriety of allowing my name to be voted upon for Ballot paper on Monday, December 3rd as a Candidate for the Mayoralty and after serious consideration I have decided to accede to their wishes.

In making this announcement and in assuming this position, I have placed myself squarely upon my record in Council where I have been privileged to serve for a period of three years, during all that time I have served as Chairman of the Gas Department. When I assumed duty, this Chairmanship was not particularly popular. The plant was rundown and in a low state of efficiency, producing large and great financial deficits. Since that time I have strived to my that this important utility, which had cost the Taxpayers of Belleville so much money, would have to be scrapped. After an exhaustive study of the whole investigation of its possibilities from every angle, we concluded that the Gas Plant could and should be brought back to first class efficiency but that it could in time be transformed into a handsome revenue producer.

With the assistance and co-operation of my Colleagues, the Officials and workmen, the Gas Plant was remodelled under the guidance of capable engineers, and since Belleville's Plant is modern, thoroughly dependable, economical in operation and its popularity and patronage is steadily increasing. As the number of Consumers increases, the cost of operation proportionately decreases resulting in lower rates to the consumer and great profits for the Gas Plant.

Thus in less than three years, by heroic and persistent effort, what was formerly an increasing liability has been transformed into a valuable City asset. Substituted upon results of operations for the first nine months of the current year your Council expects to show that the Department a net Revenue for 1928 of $15,000.

Naturally I feel that I would like to continue to assist in directing the affairs of this Department which as a Civic revenue producer, ere long should be a source of pride to every Citizen, and as the Water Works Department.

On all other matters coming before the Council, in conjunction with my Colleagues, it has been my ambition to serve the citizens and the City to which we are all proud, impartially, equitably and to the best of my ability.

My record is before the Electors, whatever their verdict may be, I will be satisfied.

Thank you,

Faithfully yours,

A. B. COLLINS.

SIX EMPLOYEES HURT IN CRASH

Small Truck Owned by Alcohol Company Strikes Ditches

NARROW ESCAPE

J. LaFrance and Chas. M. Aikens Still Lying in General Hospital

Six workmen lay in the Belleville hospital last night as the result of an accident in which two trucks employed by the Canadian Industrial Alcohol Co. at the Counties Piggery, east six o'clock. The two trucks were coming in opposite directions and when the curve at the above mentioned point was reached they sideswiped each other sending the heavily laden smaller truck into the ditch on the left side of the road.

J. LaFrance, West Moira St., employed by the Canadian Industrial Alcohol Co., as were all the other men injured, has the most seriously hurt, he having an extremely bad cut over his right ear and several other lacerations on his head. He is still in the hospital, but is expected to recover and be able to work again in a few weeks at the most. Charles M. Aikens, Bridge street, was the other man most seriously injur ed he having a deep cut over his right eye and several bruises and cuts in the back of the head. He is also in the hospital at the present time, but will probably be released shortly.

Among those who were hurt, the following were taken to the Belleville hospital for medical attention, suffering from lesser injuries, such as small cuts and shock: George Earnham, 26 Bettes street; Albert Eaves, 9 Ridley street; C. Cook, McDonald Ave.; and John Levin, 131 West Bridge street. These men were able to go to their homes last night after receiving attention. Doctors Hill Cronk and Faulkener were soon on the scene of the accident having been called by phone, while Mr. Fisher Wilmore, superintendent of the plant, and S. Prevenon, assistant manager of the same plant, arrived with first aid remedies.

The larger truck apparently was proceeding north having taken a load of workers to Belleville and was returning to Corbyville while the smaller truck was taking the men back to the city, followed closely by a bus with the office staff and the latter. The slippery condition of the road is blamed for the accident, as the large truck skidded when going around the curve and struck the heavily loaded one broadside.

AN EPIDEMIC OF STOLEN MOTORS

City and Prince Edward Police Secured Country For Thieves

Belleville and Prince Edward County Police were last night kept busy looking for stolen cars, no less than four being reported lost, while three were recovered. Provincial Police Constable Cherrier, of Consecon at Picton, reported to Belleville police that an abandoned truck and a car had been stolen from Picton, a few minutes before. This car a Durant Coupe, and a 1928 model, owned by Mr. Ralph Johnson, the Picton manager of the Canada Dehydrating Company.

One hour later, Constable Morris again asked the Belleville Police to watch for a Chevrolet Coupe which had been stolen since the first call. This car was a 1926 Chevrolet Coupe, owned by Dr. Alcson, of Picton.

County Constable J. Lovelace next informed the Belleville Police that a Chevrolet Touring car had been stolen from Bloomfield, but later Constable Morris informed the City Police that both cars he had reported stolen had been found.

The City Police, however were ask ed to be on the watch for four boys, aged between eleven and fifteen, who were suspected by the ones who had stolen the cars. About 11:30 o'clock this morning, Constable Thompson was making the round when Dundas Street noticed a car pull out to a stop on Henry Street, and two young boys get out. He immediately questioned them and when their answers did not satisfy him, he brought them to the Police Station.

Their story at first was that they were from Picton and were waiting for their uncle who was in one of the stores on Front Street. Later however they admitted that they had stolen the car they were driving and had left the others along the road when they were recovered. Chief Biddle, of Picton, Constable Morris and Constable Lovelace visited Belleville this afternoon in connection with the look the lads back to Picton where they will stand trial.

They also admitted that three times in the last two weeks they had enter ed a store here in Picton and stolen articles while last night they had broken into McDonald's Grocery store in Picton and stolen a quantity of candies, which were found in the back seat of Allinson's car. Two boys who were arrested here are now out on suspended sentence of two years each, and no doubt they will be committed to some reformatory for their latest escapade.

HON. R. J. COOKE CHIEF SPEAKER

Will Deal With Power Situation at Chamber Commerce Banquet

Hon. Robert Cooke, minister of power in the Ontario Government, will be the guest of honor and principal speaker at the annual banquet of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce which is to be held at Hotel Quinte, Belleville, next week. Mr. Cooke will deal with the power situation in eastern and central Ontario and will outline the government's development in regard to the opportunity that is offered the citizens of Belleville to purchase the local electric power distributing system. Mr. Cooke will discuss this problem in all its phases and explain the financial and other arrangements that will be necessary. He will be accompanied by Mr. F. A. Gaby, chief engineer of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario, who will also address the meeting.

The banquet will not be confined to members of the Chamber of Commerce but the general public will be admitted and it is to be hoped there

DEBATING CLUB PLAN BUN FEED

Candidates for Municipal Offices Must Stand the Test

One week from to-morrow one of Belleville's greatest municipal evenings will have rolled again, when the Wharf Street Debating Club bun-feed will be held. This bun-feed is an annual and time-honoured institution in the city and prospective city fathers tremble at the ordeal they have to pass. To meet with approval in the eyes of members of the Wharf Street Debating Club is one step towards success in the city's offices, for all who aspire to civic honours have to mount the stage and explain their platforms to the gathering, which includes a great percentage of the influential voters of Belleville.

It is understood that outside speakers have been invited and a successful evening is promised to all. The bun-feed night closely follows Nomination Night next Monday and is almost of equal importance in the eyes of the candidates.

BIG CONVENTION OPENED TODAY

Array of Prominent Speakers to Address Big Rally

Several prominent Conservatives from this city left today for Toronto to attend the convention of that party which is being held in the Queen City for the next two days. Included among these are Mr. Sanford Burrows Mr. R. H. Ketchenson, W. H. Ireland, M.P.P., of Madoc, Mr. F. L. Bryans and Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Dawson.

It was stated today that the registration had passed the seven hundred and fifty mark and there is every indication that the attendance will exceed one thousand. There are sixty speakers on the programme.

An important question will come up when the matter of immigration will be introduced by the Honorable John S. Martin, although the object of the convention is not to lay down policies, it is stated, but rather to prove of an educational value.

Premier King, who is towards of one thousand delegates in attendance the seventh annual convention of the Ontario Conservative Party will be present this afternoon. Hon. R. B. Bennett, Hon. Peter Christian Heenan, Hugh Guthrie, Premier C. Howard Ferguson and members of the Provincial Cabinet are on hand to as well as representatives of rank and file. Enrolments of delegates and reports of officers were the chief items of business today, after Premier Fergusson had welcomed the delegates. Andrew Ingram, St. Thomas, led the discussion on the granting of a scholarship for proficiency in Conservative History. Mr. Bennett will speak later in the day and together with others will address the banquet tonight.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS

Ex-Ald. Greenleaf and Ald. A. B. Collins Announced Selves

WELL-KNOWN

Five of Old Council Likely to Again Seek Aldermanic Honors

Alderman Bernard A. Collins and Ex-Ald. Harry Greenleaf have both announced their intentions of contesting the Mayoralty. Electors were fas ting the possibility of a quiet campaign but with Mr. Collins announcement today, the municipal pot is starting to boil pretty and interesting main day may furnish further surprises. Ex-Ald. Harry Greenleaf announced yesterday that he was definitely in the field and Ald. Collins followed with his official announcement today.

Other names have been mentioned particularly that of Ex-Ald. George A. Ostrom. But he stated to the Intelligencer today that he will not toe his hat into the ring. "I am a member of the School Board, and if I run for Mayor it will necessitate my resignation from that body," he said.

Ex-Ald. Geo. A. Bennett may contest the Mayoralty but it is highly improbable and it looks like a straight fight with Messrs. Greenleaf and Collins, the only candidates. It was known that Mr. Collins was still seriously thinking of allowing his name to go before the electors but it was today that he made the decision.

Both men are well-known and need no introduction to Belleville electors. Ald. Collins has been a member of the Council for five years, and as Chairman of Gas has raised the status of that department until now it has been placed as a paying proposition. He is a prominent Rivenian, takes an active interest in Knights of Columbus circles and is a public speaker of particular note. He is popular with a wide range of citizens, is a member of the Hastings Bar and is a member of a practicing Attorney in the city.

Ex-Ald. Greenleaf has had a wealth of experience in municipal life having served as an Alderman for three years besides having been a member of the Parks Board since its inception, acting as the first last four years in the capacity of Secy-Treas. On three previous occasions, Ex-Ald. Greenleaf has sought the Mayoralty chair and last year was defeated by the narrowest of margins. He is a prominent member of the Kiwanis Club and is President this year. His whole life has been devoted to the City of Belleville where he was born and educated. He attended Public school, High schools and in 1890 he opened "a business college that was given a good start on a flourishing state. Mr. Greenleaf is offering his services to the City as an Alderman in the event of his receiving fine support from the voters. He considers that the present Council is unblemished and should if elected make a good Mayor.

Mr. Greenleaf has the interest of Belleville next to his heart and in any municipal work he has taken a leading part.

There is as yet little stir in the At democratic field although some surprises may be offered before the end of this week-end. Ald. Wm. Ellis, O'Flynn, a prominent young barrister is the latest to be mentioned but it is almost assured that Mr. O'Flynn will allow his name to go before the electors. Of the old Council, Ald. Rodmina. Reid. Hyde, Woodley and Walker are likely to run again.

JURY FINDS DEATH DUE TO ACCIDENT

Brockville, Nov. 21.—A verdict of death by suicide was returned last night at the coroner's inquiry into the case of William Kelly, of Ottawa, a patient at the Ontario Hospital, whose body was found in the St. Lawrence River after he had broken away from an attendant.

TODAY'S THOUGHT

Slander is a poison which extinguishes charity, both in the slanderer and in the persons who listen to it.—St. Bernard.

QUITE CORRECT BUT LATE IN LEARNING IT

Charles Schwab, who could probably get credit to the extent of a million dollars on very short notice, says that money isn't everything.

He admits it comes in useful and that it's nice to have enough or it around to pay the bills when they know that. It doesn't sound like a contention that money isn't everything, and that there are many things it will not buy.

Some of the world's richest men know that. If money could get what they needed they would have hearing restored quickly, for some of them are quite deaf; others would purchase new stomachs and an appetite, while not a few would get rid of rheumatism so they could walk about briskly.

There are very rich people who would pay handsomely, to be relieved of cancer, while there are many of them who would no doubt pay fabulous figures to be given back even a limited degree of youth.

Charles Schwab may have gathered unto himself a great deal of money before he turned philosopher, but even though he is starting rather late to enunciate his theory, he has uttered a great truth.

BELLEVILLE MUST KEEP UP TO DATE

An aviation conference which was held in London recently, was a remarkable gathering, not so much for what was done or what was said, but because of the wide representation included in the personnel of those who attended. Over forty municipalities were represented at the conference, the main objective of which was to arouse interest in the need of extending the bounds of commercial aviation, and of making provision for airports or flying fields in the various strategic points in the province.

In a tour made recently by two Toronto flyers, it was found that very few places had any facilities of any kind for the convenience of flyers, and that, in many cases, there were no proper fields in which an aeroplane could be landed with any degree of safety. The conference had this condition in mind during its discussions, and from them there evolved at least the germ of an idea as to how it could be overcome.

There can be no doubt of the fact that interest in aviation and its possibilities is growing. There is much work to be done yet before this city takes its place as a proper air-minded community, but a start has been made, at least, and there are hopes that the start will be followed by some tangible action to place Belleville on the air map of the province. The conference showed that all over Ontario there are towns and cities vitally interested in the problem, and those which need rapidly translate their interest into action will reap the benefits of the extension of this mode of transportation.

THE KISS SLAYER

A New York high school boy goes to call on a 15-year-old girl. She tries to kiss him. He seizes her, snatches up a length of electric light cord, and chokes her to death. Now he awaits trial on a charge of first degree murder.

The district attorney calmly announces that he will ask for the death penalty.

"The state," declares this official, "is not interested in reference to the boy's supposed abnormality. He was absolutely sane when he committed the crime to which he has confessed."

On the face of things, one might almost be forgiven for supposing that any lad who strangled a girl to death merely because she tried to kiss him is, without question, somewhat off mentally. To say that a perfectly normal balanced mind would have reacted in that way is to talk utter nonsense.

Yet, at the same time, the attitude of the district attorney can be understood. A murderer's first act on being arrested nowadays is to yell for an alienist. Many a scoundrel who richly deserved hanging has gone scot free because some psychiatrist interpreted his dream life for a credulous jury.

The tragedy of the situation is that our boasted advancement, with all its fine knowledge of medicine, its scientific research, its painstaking efficiency, seems utterly powerless in the face of mental disturbances. We can cure many of the ills of the body, but when it comes to the ills of the mind we are little better off than the witch hunters of Salem.

A high school boy who would kill a girl who tried to kiss him is, obviously, suffering from some profound mental trouble. Yet we know of no cure. We know of no way of finding it out in advance so that we can protect ourselves. We do not even seem to have any certain way of getting scientific agreement as to whether or not he actually is legally responsible.

It is the old story over again—the story of the Leopold-Loeb case, of the Hickman case. Half a dozen respectable alienists arise and say that a murderer is perfectly sane and accountable; half a dozen others, equally respectable, arise and say that he is not. Meanwhile we are left defenseless. There are, according to psychiatrists, thousands of men at large today who are apt, at any moment, to break out just as inexplicably as this New York boy did; but we cannot protect ourselves.

The field of abnormal psychology is a large one, and thus far it has been, apparently poorly explored. It would seem that the country's crying need is for accurate, scientific knowledge of it. Our doctors know a good deal about such physical calamity as typhoid fever, cancer and smallpox. Cannot they do as well in the matter of mental disturbances?

PASSING YEARS
(From The Intelligencer of this day 26 years ago)

Since Saturday one prisoner and four tramps have been in the cells.

The police were called last evening to disperse a number of boys who were playing around the new skating rink.

Officer Morton on Saturday afternoon found a fine dressed goose under the sidewalk near the Opera House.

Mr. P. P. Carey and wife of Cobourg, were in the city yesterday and visited Andrew Carey at the hospital, one of the injured in the recents railway collision.

Mr. C. E. Lyons, a young and popular barrister of this city, died at the age of 36 years.

THE BLUEBIRD

The courtyard is a narrow place,
Its smoke-dimmed walls are high.
It's one poor tree, devoid of grace,
Can faintly glimpse the sky.

Yet, winging hither day by day,
A joyous bluebird sails
To make once weary hours gay
With fair and glowing tales.

His song is of sweet orchard ways,
A steep hill's wooded crest,
And, perched within a leafy maze,
A safety-bidden nest.

The court is dim, the walls are high
And yet the bluebird sings
His lyric bring wide sweep of sky
And stir of mother-wings.

A visit this morning by a member of one staff to the Ontario Business College, led the scribe to believe that at least, one place in Belleville was doing a remarkable fine business. The school room was filled with young men and women from all over the country, which goes to show that the college has a worthy reputation away from home.

HAVE YOU HEARD THESE?

Kind Old Lady: How old are you, my little man?

Young Hopeful: I don't know. Mother was 26 when I was born, but now she's only 24.

Policeman: Now I was watchin' you come over that hill, and you were doin' well over sixty miles an hour.

Fair Maid: I'm sure you're mistaken, Inspector. It must have been that car we overtook.

"You know her to speak to?"

"Oh, no, dear! Only to talk about."

Mr. Snooks: But why don't you take your bank-book in to have it checked?

Mrs. Snooks: I don't want that silly-looking cashier to know how much money I've in there!

Lady (to applicant for position of governess): "Why did you leave your last place?"

Applicant: "I refused to wash the children."

Children (in chorus): Engage her mamma." —Pages Gales, Yverdon.

Niggar 1 in jail: "Where you all gwine, running so fast."

Niggers 2 and 3 (outside): "We all's gwine to the hanging."

Nigger 1: "Well, you all needn't be in such a hurry. There won't be anything doin' till I get there."

"I'm buying a washing-machine for my wife as a birthday present."

"That will be a surprise, eh?"

"Yes, quite! She's expecting a new car."— Christian Science Monitor.

MODERN DRAMA IS PROGENY OF GREECE

Montreal, Que., Nov. (By C. P.).—From old Greek plays containing broad boisterous humor with caricature, exaggeration and personal abuse, the modern comic drama finally developed, according to Dr. W. D. Woodhead, professor of classics, McGill University, in a recent address here. He referred to Aristophanes as the father of the Greek Comic dramatists, who created figures from all over the world in which caricature and abuse were the lifeblood of the comedy. Each of the eight Greek comedies was personified only once. It was a religious function and the higher-placed the persons were, who presided over the comedy, the better target they furnished for the author. In one play, the professor said, the god himself was represented as a coward and buffoon, yet this was not regarded as blasphemous. Socrates was a butt of Aristophanes' humor.

BOATS WASHED ASHORE

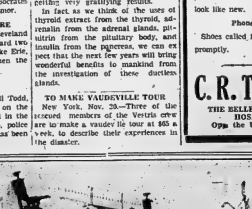

Buffalo, Nov. 20—Three Cleveland men, who drifted all night aboard two barges on the lower end of Lake Erie, reached land safely today when the boats washed ashore.

TRAPPER DROWNED

The Pas, Man., Nov. 20—Bill Todd, a trapper living at Mile 183, on the Hudson Bay line, was drowned in the Wekusko River a few days ago, police have been advised. The body has been recovered.

McKEOWN'S

That Body of Yours
By James W. Barton, M.D.
WHY YOU ARE TALL, SHORT, FAT OR THIN
Did you ever think that whether you are to be tall or short, fat or thin, have a large jaw bone or receding chin, have a rapid or a slow heart and so forth, depends upon some little glands in different parts of the body?
For instance the thyroid in the neck helps the cells of the body to do their work a little better and a little faster, and also helps to destroy some of the harmful substances in the blood. It helps the growth of the body and gives you more energy, or "pep" as it is so popularly called.
The secretion of the little adrenal glands situated one on top of each kidney seems to work in harmony with the thyroid, doing many of the same things but in the case of the heart gives the best more strength. Then there is the little pituitary gland in the skull. It has a special influence on the growth of the bones, and helps in using up the vegetables and starches in the body. It also has a great effect upon certain muscles in the body, those not under the control of the will.
Now what happens when these glands are doing too much work, or not enough?
In the case of the thyroid when it is doing too much, the heart beats faster, palpitates, you get out of breath easily, lose weight, get irritable and suffer with indigestion.
If the thyroid doesn't do enough work, the skin may become rough, there is mental dullness, and an excess amount of fat deposited through out the body.
Where the adrenal glands do too much there is marked muscular strength, a keen active mind, and an increase in the number of red corpuscles in the blood.
When the adrenals are not doing enough work there is loss of weight, fatigue, and slow growth.
Where the pituitary gland is too active the individual may grow to a tremendous size, and features become coarse and enlarged.
Since this knowledge has been attained by research men they have been able to use secretions of animal glands in cases where patients have an insufficient amount, and have been greatly very gratifying results.
In fact as we think of the uses of thyroid extract from the thyroid, adrenalin from the adrenal glands, pituitrin from the pituitary body, and insulin from the pancreas, we can expect that the next few years will bring wonderful benefits to mankind from the investigation of these ductless glands.
TO MAKE VAUDEVILLE TOUR
New York, Nov. 20.—Three of the newest members of the Versts crew are to make a vaudeville tour at $65 a week, to describe their experiences in the disaster.

One of the most remarkable photographs ever taken following the eruption of crashing to the earth after the molten volcano, shows the wall of what was lava from Mount Etna pressed against it. The entire town of Mascali was left in ruins by the slow but destructive flow of the volcano.

NEARLY every woman spends a part of her day in the kitchen. Just imagine the time, the trouble and the energy you would save yourself with a telephone extension right in this busiest of rooms.
With the extension telephone ever at your elbow, you neither vex the calling party by delay in answering—nor find that he or she has tired of waiting and has "hung up". And in ordering your supplies from grocery, butcher and baker . . . how convenient to be able to do so right at the spot. With your eyes fixed on the empty larder shelves, nothing is likely to be overlooked or forgotten.
The cost of such an extension is trivial . . . only a few cents a day. All you need do is telephone our Business Office and ask for particulars. Or, ask any Bell Telephone employee to take your order for this convenient service.

W. R. JOBES WINS PRIZE DRAWING

Twenty Thousand Tickets Sold for Chevrolet Automobile

The Loyal Orange Lodge No. 208 drawing contest for the Chevrolet car was held last night in the Trent Assembly Hall, Trenton, with a crowd present that filled the hall. Besides the car there were twenty-five other valuable prizes drawn for. Mayor Praeger, of Trenton, drew the ticket on the car at 12:30 and W. R. Jobes of Paris Station, was declared the winner. There were twenty thousand tickets sold in the campaign which started early last summer.

A wicker arm chair was the second prize and was carried off by J. A. McCullen. The tickets were placed in a washing machine and well-mixed before the drawing took place.

The money gained from the raffle will be divided towards a new Orange Hall in Trenton and tickets were sold as far west as Manitoba. Following the prize drawing, dancing was started and continued until the small hours of the morning.

List of Prizes

The Chevrolet Sedan given away by Graham's Garage, Trenton, under auspices of Trenton L.O.L. No. 208 was won by W. R. Jobes, Paris Station, Ont. He was the holder of ticket No. 31679.

WEDDINGS

JEFFREY-DEMILL

The Wicke's United Church of Bay-side circuit, beautiful with palms, ferns and roses, was the scene of a wedding of much interest not only to the ninety guests present, but to a wide circle of friends of the contracting parties, when at high noon Wednesday, November 21st, Martha Pat, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Demill, of Bayside was united in marriage to Harold Wellington Jeffrey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Jeffrey, Rev. J. R. Butler, pastor of the circuit performing the interesting ceremony. The bride, leaning on the arm of her father, entered the church to the strains of Lohengrin's Bridal Chorus, played by Miss Helena Hill, of Belleville, and looked lovely in her wedding dress of white georgette with lace and pearls, her bouefant tulle veil caught to her head with orange blossoms and carried a shower bouquet of roses and lily of the valley.

Her only jewelry was a white gold neck lace, the gift of the groom. She was attended by Miss Marion Read, of georgette with velvet and brown fox Belleville, becomingly attired in beige lor and hat to match. Little Jean Wilson in rayon taffeta made a very pretty flower girl and carried a basket of flowers in which was the wedding ring. The best man was Mr. Evert Jeffrey, cousin of the groom and the ushers were Mr. Fred Jeffrey and Mr. Sidney Murphy, of Stirling. During the signing of the register, Mrs. Fred Jeffrey sang sweetly "Hearts and Homes." When the impressive ceremony was concluded the bridal party left the church to the strains of Mendelsohns wedding march. A reception was held at the home of the bride and a delicious lunch was served to the many guests. Later the happy couple left on a motor trip to Hamilton, Windsor and other points. The bride going away in a smart rose georgette dress with grey fur coat with hat and shoes to match. The bride's maid was the recipient of a white gold wristband, the plaid, gold necklace, the flower girl a ring with alhabitpet, the best man, gold cuff links, each the gift of the groom. The happy couple on their return will reside at Bayside, where they are popular among all the people.

CHILDREN ARE A CONSTANT PROBLEM

Children are strange little creatures and present an unending study. Why is it that they always want to do exactly the opposite to what they are told? Is it that they resent the tone of command—or is it just instinctive with them to rebel? A friend, whose little girl is quite troublesome at home, allowed her little girl to go on a visit to her aunt's, and a couple of days ago she went for her. She was startled at the change that two weeks had made in the child. She said, "Auntie said that Helen was no trouble at all that she only had to speak to her and she would do as she was asked. I guess it did her good to go away for awhile she is much better now than when she went away." It is possible that the mother's reminding lost its effect through too much repitition, and the change away from home had given the child a new perspective. We do not offer this as a solution for all child problems but there is no doubt that when a child is at a reasonable age a little change away from the home environment may improve matters. For often, the over-tired mother finds herself developing the nagging habit, which will spoil a child's disposition about as quickly as anything we know.

SAILING ON WOMANKIND

Lord Dewar, famous always for his after-dinner epigrams and quips on life, added a few new remarks when proposing the toast to "The Ladies at the Poultry club annual banquet in London.

Here are some:

"I do not know the rudiments of this subject—man's anthem, woman. When a bachelor flatters himself he knows a woman—he flatters himself. I received a book a few days ago. On the outside cover there was the title, 'What Men Know About Women; inside the book every page was a blank page.

"I venerate and have always thrown bouquets of forget-me-nots at the well-loved shrine of the petticoat—an article which I am credibly informed is now obsolete.

Eating apples, said Lord Dewar, started dressmakers in business.

I am certain there is not a man present here tonight who does not appreciate these beautiful lines:—

Here's to the Garden of Eden
That Adam was always a-weeding.
"Till Eve by subtle
Got bit by a snake
That on a ripe apple was feeding.

A longing seemed then to possess her for clothing sufficient to dress her,
And ever since then
She's been pleasure for men
To pay for her dresses. God bless her!

PRETTY BAZAAR AT BRIDGE ST.

One of First of Christmas Sales Is Complete Success

One of the first of the Christmas bazaars to take place recently was under the auspices of the Bridge St. Church Ladies Aid and was a delightfully arranged affair. The Sunday School rooms presented a gay and festive appearance with their daintily decorated booths. Each booth was decorated in a different shade and the soft lights cast a pleasant glow over all. Mrs. Blakely, President of the Ladies Aid, received the guests and the convenors for the successful affair were: Mrs. J. O. Golloway (Chairman) Mrs. J R Smith and Mrs Howard Clarke The booth devoted to the sale of miscellaneous goods contained some lovely fancy work articles, and was in charge of Mrs. Fred Smith and Mrs. Geo. Osirón. The apron booth was in the care of Mrs (Capt) Hunter and Mrs V. P. Hunt. A dainty candy booth which was bright with pink and mauve streamers was in charge of Mrs. Jones McKinnon and Mrs. D. V. Reichenon and the home cooking table which held many delectable confections was in charge of Mrs. Wilson Stoneberg and Mrs. O. R. Thompson.

The three tea rooms were especially pretty, decorated in the Christmas colors of red and green and the tables prettily carried out this color scheme. Each was centred with a silver basket of evergreens and poinsettias and fern and were decorated with red candles in tall silver candlesticks Mrs Van Tassel, Mrs. Fred Smith and Mrs. C. Bonisteel presided over the respective tea tables. Convenors for the tea room were Mrs. Colonel Bonisteel, Mrs. A. Mooney, Mrs. W Holmes, Mrs Harry Clarke and Mrs. P Deacon

LOCAL Y. M. C. A. HOLDS MEETING

The Belleville Y. W. C. T. U. met at the home of Miss Reeves, Charles st., Friday evening. After the devotional exercises, the regular business was transacted and discussion on our winters work. Mrs. Lockyer, the County "Y" secretary, gave a very interesting and instructive report of Provincial Convention recently held in Toronto. She said she was very sorry she could not give out the inspiration which she had received, one must attend the convention to get this inspiration. The devotional exercises were deeply spiritual, she mentioned "our partiality, on duty, which were very impressive. Parlor meetings are found to be a very important factor in educating prohibition sentiment and stimulating the interests of members and outsiders. Anti-Narcotics—this is a most encouraging work because of the amount of tobacco grown in our province. A child born of a smoking mother is already a member of Nicotine. Does smoking add to the dignity of our women? Indian work was touched upon. It is very gratifying that there is evidence of a greater desire for education among the Indians. One Indian girl graduated last summer as a nurse and two others are training and there is reason to believe that three or other girls prepared to enter for training.

Twelve of the County Presidents entered a one minute speech contest. The prize, a silver cup offered by Mrs. A. A. Gardon, Provincial President, was won by Mrs. Byron Smith, of St. Catharines. Her address is just what is needed. Here it is:

Let us wake up.
Shake up
Get up
And stay up
Let us step up
Preach up
Pray up
And pay up
For all we never Put up
Or give up
Or let up
Or shut up
Until Prohibition is built up.

There were several departments of work touched on, but space will not permit mention to these.

At the close of the repast, Mrs. Dixon was presented with a jardinere stand after which dainty refreshments were served.

SINCLAIR'S

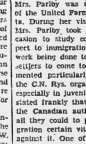

BRITISH WOMEN HAVE MISTAKEN IDEA OF CANADA

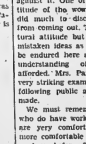

Montreal, Nov. 20—Difficulties which confront those agencies which are seeking to promote greater British immigration to Canada, are fully realized by Hon. Irene Parlby, Minister without Portfolio in the Alberta Government, and these difficulties rest largely with the people themselves and in the conditions which prevail in the old land declares Mrs. Parlby who received Montreal Sunday on the Laurentic from an extended visit to the home land accompanied by her son. They proceeded west on the C.N. Rys. continental limited, to their home in Alta. Alta.

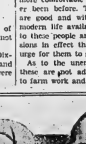

Hon. Mrs. Parlby herself and Her githswoman, has with her husband been engaged for many years in farming in the western provinces and has for almost as long a period been prominent in public affairs in Alberta since 1922 she has been a member of the Brownlee Cabinet without portfolio. Mrs. Parlby was also first president of the United Farm Women of Alberta. During her visit to the old land Mrs. Parlby took every possible occasion to study conditions with respect to immigration. She praised the work being done to encourage British settlers to come to Canada and commented particularly on the work of the C.N. Rys. organization in London especially in juvenile immigration. She stated frankly that while she believed the Canadian authorities were doing all they could to promote this immigration certain vital factors militated against it. One of these was the attitude of the women in Britain who did much to discourage their men from coming out. This was a very serious matter but arose largely from mistaken ideas as to the hardships to be endured here and from a lack of understanding of the opportunities afforded. Mrs. Parlby found several very strident examples of this attitude following public addresses which she made.

We must remember too that those who do have work in the old country are very comfortable in fact much more comfortable than they have ever been before. The wages they get are good and with the comforts of modern life available more than ever to these people and with old age pensions in effect there is no particular urge for them to go to a new country

As to the unemployment many of these are aged, schooled immediately to farm work and the process of train ing them is necessarily a slow one though much good work is being done on the training farms in operation. Mrs. Parlby expressed her keen delight in being back in Canada again. She is an enthusiastic Canadian with a thorough belief in the country and its future.

WHAT'S NEW

(From A Woman's Standpoint)

Back fulness is approved, both for day and evening, in new Paris models.

The new Cachouette or peanut shape is an all-white shade too dingy to be called white and not yet beige.

The tulle dress is assuming a new aspect in patterned effects, like cross-barred design, or chenille dots, says Paris.

Many paid jackets for sport wear at Winter resorts are an offering of mid-seazed style shows, in Paris, and most of them are semi-shapeless, affairs, meant to be garments with equal ease. Some of them are lined, but for the most part they are a single thickness.

Low-placed fulness is the dieting thinking feature of the new silhouette in Paris, where in soft dress types, pockets or decorative cuts achieve this effect, while in sportswear pleats that are released to within about a foot above the hemline create the same silhouette.

Black coats with tan twill breeches or black jodphurs were favored at New York's recent Horse Show, and both the derby and top hat were worn, with the emphasis on the latter, and while the latter were more displayed, most of the horsewomen seemed to prefer the soft caller with black ite.

Some Helpful Hints For Busy Housewives

You shorten the life of shoes or leather coats if you dry them quickly near strong heat.

Brown paper can be kept tidily by hanging it over a rod inside the store cupboard door.

Be chary about the amount of water used in wiping up or mopping floors. Too much water means swelling and wrapping of the boards.

In one of the early spring groups of imports, the tuck-in and the sleeve gloss are outstanding points from the amount of it which appears in the gowns worn to the opera on sole being tans, greens, reds and odd whites are much in evidence, while renewed interest in moire fabrics is also shown here with in the silk trade as a reaction to the endorsement given by fashionable women.

Gay Adventurers By Mildred Barbour

CHAPTER 27
AT THE HOUSE-PARTY

During the journey to Cannes, Sheila devoted herself to the Baronne de Courcy, and succeeded in getting back into the lady's good graces.

At least, she talked no more of feeling that it was her duty to let Mrs. Kerr know how often her daughter was seeing the Count and Harry Edmonds, and that both men planned to follow her to Cannes.

If Sheila had not been so angry at the old lady's scolding, she would have been amused at the reason for her objections to the presence of Harry and Bellefonte, for it soon became clear that Harry had not been joking when he said the Baronne was wanted to see Constance married to her stepson, Carlo.

"Am I to have three men paying court to me?" Sheila asked herself. "Well, what is a man more or less to a woman in my predicament? Sooner or later I'm sure to miss a trick, and then the game will be over, but, in the meantime, I must play it as well as I can."

However, neither anxiety nor resentment could cloud Sheila's pleasure when she finally reached her destination and had her first view of Menton Riveran scenery. The blue, blue sky, the riot of feijoas and flowers, the soft, clear air, the spirit of gaiety and pleasure that pervaded everything filled her with delight.

Carlo was at the station with a motor-car, and the Baronne presented him to Sheila, gushing:

"Now you two dear children are going to be the greatest friends. Carlo, you mustn't be frightened by Constance's independence' air and manners, and Constance, you mustn't be hampered by Carlo's way of never appearing to hear what's said to him. The poor boy is so pursued by women that he is forced to pretend boredom; otherwise, they'd never leave him alone."

Carlo, who was the impression of having in his story, avoided himself sufficiently to smile and nod assent to this last remark. Sheila could hardly believe her eyes and ears.

"And this choice morsel is to complete my trio," she told herself. "This is the Baronne's idea of what I would like for a husband. What perception that woman has! I must humor her. She's as mad as a hatter. If she decides to mix in my affairs, everything will be over."

"Well," thought Sheila, how, lovely this is going to be! I now have only four people whom I must always be careful to please—the Count, Harry, Carlo, and my hostess. Outside of that, I'm a free agent."

To distract Carlo from his displeasure, she smiled at him and asked:

"Do you know Harry Edmonds? He's a friend of mine and—"

She paused in alarm. Carlo's face was convulsed. He roared questions at the Baronne in French. Sheila's expression was a study in amazement. When, after ten minutes of fuming, Carlo was silent, the Baronne turned to Sheila.

"He doesn't like the young Mr. Edmonds," she said.

"I see," said Sheila. "Would you mind telling him that I don't care what I can do about it. By the way, he seems to have gone to sleep."

"Yes," answered the Baronne. "Poor fellow! So sensitive, it's pathetic."

"Not to mention the wear and tear on the nerves of the bystanders," thought Sheila, but had no wish to be forgive me for upsetting him so?"

"Oh yes," the Baronne laughed. "He's prepared to like you very much indeed. I wrote him all about you. Yes, that adventure was a nightmare for Sheila. "I'm are having some of your mother's old friends! The Baronne had told her. "I never knew a woman so popular. Everywhere we go we meet people who simply adore her."

Sheila stumbled through the ordeal with many misgivings. She answered a hundred questions without the slightest idea as to whether she was saying the right thing, and she noticed that several women looked astonished at some of her remarks.

But the surprise of the day was to come when she was dressing for dinner. The Baronne came in and asked casually: "You won't forget to send that message to Harry Edmonds, will you?"

"What message?" asked Sheila.

"Telling him you'd rather he didn't come. Now, Constance, don't be difficult. You heard what Carlo said. I can't possibly have Harry here under the circumstances. Why, any thing might happen. You will write him at once, dear, for I must really insist

GAS DEPARTMENT SHOWING PROFIT

Quality of Gas Has Been Maintained; Consider Overdraft

Following is a comparison of results of operation of the gas department during nine months ending September 30th, 1928, 1927 and 1928.

Based Upon Weekly and Monthly Reports from the Department

Gas made 1928	21,820,000 cu. ft.
" 1927	20,500,000 cu. ft.
" 1928	26,382,000 cu. ft.
Increase in 28 over 27	822,000 cu. ft.
Gas sold 1926 about	15,000,000 cu. ft.
" 1927 "	19,328,500 cu. ft.
" 1928 "	18,080,400 cu. ft.
Increase in '28 over '27	3,180,900 cu. ft.
5,438,900 cubic feet less gas made in 1928 than in 1926.
3,089,000 cubic feet more gas sold in 1928 than in 1926.
Gas lost 1926 about	16,820,000 cu. ft.
" 1927 "	9,831,500 cu. ft.
" 1928 "	8,292,800 cu. ft.
Per cent of make, 1926	53
Per cent of make, 1927	37½
Per cent of make, 1928	30%
Loss is still much too great. It should not exceed 15 per cent.
Gas Coal & Coke 1926 about	$13,200.00
and Boiler Fuel 1927 "	9,250.00
" 1928 "	8,450.46
Saving in '28 over '27	$ 799.54
do '26	$ 4,749.54
Gas Oil Used 1926 about	$ 3,000.00
" 1927 "	2,250.00
" 1928 "	2,225.00
Receipts (net 1926	$27,992.20
Revenue) 1927	27,743.76
1928	30,910.15

Receipts by Slot Meter (included 1927 ..... $ 3,259.22 14 above) 1928 ..... 5,838.60

Financial Summary—Nine Months

Increased Receipts in 1928 over 1927 ..... $ 2,236.37
Saving in Coal and Fuel 799.54
Saving in gas oil 24.60
$ 3,061.31

Proportionate increase for 12 months ..... $ 4,000.00

If the interest on the bank overdraft is excluded from the City Auditor's annual statements, there would have been a profit of about $125.00 in 1927 and a loss of $6541.00 in 1926. There will be some extra expense incurred in 1928, but it is fair to expect a profit of about $3,000.00.

The Council should consider how the overdraft of $65,000 due to deficits in former years can be disposed of, so as to allow the Gas Department to show what can be done under improved conditions.

With regard to the improvements it may be stated that the new Gasholder has been in use since May 1st, new purifiers since November, 2nd, siding, track scale, etc. also in use. The foundation for the vertical oven is being built and by about April the new condensers, scrubbers, washers and other works will be completed.

The quality of the gas has been uniformally maintained above government standard, the pressure has been regular and complaints are very few.

Propaganda for increased consumption of gas is highly desirable as the future financial returns on the new works are based upon it.

Every credit is due to the Gas Committee for the foresight and confidence shown. Chairman Ald. Collins and the staff are entitled to congratulations for the results obtained.

We are naturally pleased that our efforts to re-establish the department on successful business lines have been successful and will prosper still more in 1929 and following years, because of the increased efficiency and economies introduced.

HISTORY OF ANGLICAN CHURCH IS REVIEWED BY BISHOP SEAGER

Future of Church Lies With Male Members; Canada's Development

That the future of the Church of England lies with the whole church was the theme of an address by His Lordship Bishop Seager, Bishop of the Diocese of Ontario at the Christ Church Men's banquet held in the parish hall last night. "In the past", said His Lordship, "the Women of the church have done the work, but the church has moved along without the full pressure of the men behind it and that is what we want."

"In the Church of England", continued the bishop, "we must break down our congregationalism, and only when we have done this will the church be successful. When we come to the point where we realize that all we do locally is just contributing to the whole church, then we will have done something. In Canada is this needed especially.

"Our Anglican communion is a wonderfully impressive organization. It is something more than just the Church of England, it is a great fellowship in Episcopacy made up of a whole series of sister churches covering the globe. Do you realize," he asked, "you can travel from Hong Kong to Liverpool and from Australia to the mouth of the McKenzie River and have your communion?"

"There are 1500 years of history behind the Church of England," he continued. "Of course it's beginning is not known but there are 1500 years of known history of the church. In that long history it has nursed nations and people. It was the church that paved the way for the British Empire. It's contributions to unfolding life of our people has been invaluable and immense. In a few years Christianity ministered by the Church of England has broken down years of hatred among the Indians and Eskimos and has melted them into the christian sacrament which enabled them to receive the Body and Blood of Christ together. This great communion to which we belong builds up a native church with it's native character."

With the newness of the British Empire is identified the newness of the English church. It is within the last hundred years that the strides of the church have been made. I wanted you to feel the significance of the great communion to which you belong. The unity of the church lies in that Divine Divinity of Brotherhood. It lies in the Altar, not the

This is a brief resume of the truly splendid speech that Bishop Seager gave last night. He also spoke of the development of Canada since Confederation and the parallel development of the church. He touched upon the needs of the church of today, and some of the crying needs of this district.

The banquet itself was decidedly a success. The parish hall was crowded to the doors and an excellent supper was provided by the Christ Church ladies. During the evening musical numbers and community singing enlivened the proceedings. Mr. Stokes, the new superintendent of the C.N.R., Belleville Division, was the chairman of proceedings.

LOCAL ARTISTS READY TO ASSIST

More Letters of Congratulations Are Received by Mayor Duff

Messages of congratulation on the broadcast by Belleville artists from station CKGW, Toronto, last Wednesday evening, have been sent to Mayor Morley Duff and Owen Hertly, Manager of the Chamber of Commerce, by communications that come from all parts of the North American Continent and it was the finest piece of advertising that the city has received for some time.

Ald. Wolsten's suggestion at Monday night's meeting of the City Council that the local industrial firms be asked to co-operate in fostering a regular broadcast from Toronto will likely receive due consideration. It sounds like a reasonable one and with the talent in this city, Belleville artists are capable of putting on a fine program. The radio is an excellent medium for advertising and with the rates reasonable the City Council would be well-advised to assist in continuing the broadcasts.

The following letters which have been received by Mayor Morley Duff are ample testimony to the splendid results from the initial concert;

Warren, Pa.,
Nov. 15th, 1928.

Dear Sirs,

The program was fine, could hear it plain and we enjoyed it fine and hope that we will have the pleasure of hearing more of that fine Big 4 Quartet. And did like to hear the Mayor for Belleville, Mr. M. P. Duff talk. He is fine. They are all fine. Cannot be beat.

Yours truly,
F. B. SCHUESSLER.
P.S. Will put ad in paper when I know they will sing again.

Dear Sir,

I have enjoyed your program Wednesday night over radio station CKGW, Toronto, Ont. at 9.45 p.m. Central standard time, on my Atwater Kent Radio at above address. I enjoyed the mixed quartet singing "Old Black Joe" and a Doctor singing "When You and I were Young Maggie". Kindly have the mixed quartet sing "Beloved" next Wednesday night at 9.45 central standard time. Will you please write a letter if you receive my letter.

Yours very truly

Gentlemen,

Listened in on your station to the program dedicated to the people of the City of Belleville, Ontario, and I hear in the city of Belleville, Ill.—a kind of coincidence. Thank you and the artists especially the Belleville hour for their splendid entertainment. Program came in fine and was enjoyed by.

Yours truly,

Station CKGW.
Dear Sirs,

We wish to assure you that we thoroughly enjoyed your Belleville entertainers on Wednesday night. We heard it so well that we thought it must have been one of the local stations here.

Hoping to hear more from you, we are,

One pair of listeners.
Mr. and Mrs. George Lockhart.

Station CKGW.
Dear Sirs,

I think you will be pleased to learn, myself and family enjoyed your Belleville program last night very much. The song you sent over the air "When You and I Were Young Maggie" and "Swinging Along" were more than pretty. Tell the doctor thanks. Your station is as plain as our nearest until KDKA starts. Then it is war between you but nevertheless you win later into the night. I didn't get all you said about the contest. I never won anything in my life but I'm always game. Hoping to hear more programs, I remain.

Station CKGW
Gentlemen,

Just a few words of appreciation for your wonderful program of last evening. While just searching for something good, I heard the words "Dedicated to the City of Belleville, and as I live only ten miles from Belleville, Ill., was interested and listened. "Old Black Joe", "Open up the Gates", "When You and I were Young Maggie" and "Swing Along", came in rapidly following each other. The reception was as clear as our nearby stations. We use a Philcoil-Electric Radio. Please convey our thanks and words of appreciation to your performers of last night. We shall endeavour to pick you up again. A wonderful program, wonderfully realized. Thank you.

Respectfully
DR. F. A. RENNER.

Henry Lehrman directed.

Tim McCoy wields a mighty sword in "Beyond the Sierras," which comes tomorrow to the Regent Theatre. In his new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer starring vehicle the action-star forsakes his six-shooters and slashes his way through a thrilling romance with a duelist's rapier. He plays the part of a secret service agent who battles to save the old Spanish estates in early California from depredations.

DISCOVERED STOLEN CAR BEHIND CHURCH

A Chevrolet sedan which was stolen from Cobourg last night is on its way back to the Lake Shore town this afternoon having been recovered this morning by the city police at the rear of the old church on Lingham street. Apparently the car was owned by a doctor, for a medical kit was found in the car, as well as a radiator cushion denoting a doctor's car.

Carl Reid, a resident of Lingham street, informed the police that the car had been left there some time during the night and it was brought to the Belleville Police Station where Chief Rose of Cobourg recovered it this afternoon.

Jack Sinclair, the heavy-hooting backstop of the Varsity Optical team, is shown in the Upper picture streaking out for a 40-yard run which put him in position to kick for Varsity's first point against Sarnia in the O.R.U. wind-up at Toronto. The second picture shows a scramble for a loose ball at midfield.

Radio Air Gleanings By Static Bug

An old-fashioned "Bee"—the sort of sitting room entertainment which was once a chief source of rural American amusement—will be duplicated in modern dress next Thursday evening, November 22nd, when the Selberling Singers will invite their thirty million "neighbors" to a party. Only the elder and doughnuts will be missing—unless listeners-in want to supply their own.

This novel program will be opened with a quartet selection. There was always a quartet, you remember. And it should provide one of the gems of the evening, for the Selberling Singers will do a brand new arrangement by Frank Black, Orchestral Director of the Selberling Hour and one of the foremost of modern arrangers and composers, of "Song of India" by Rimsky-Korsakow.

No old-fashioned "Bee" was complete without a fiddler. This "Bee in Modern Dress" will provide a whole chorus of "fiddlers", the famous Selberling "Singing Violins," who will play a special violin chorus transcription of Nevin's "Mighty Lak' a Rose." And instead of one pianist, there will be two—Phil Ohman and Victor Arden—who, as a result of insistent and repeated requests, will again do "The World is Waiting for the Sunrise" by Seitz.

There will be a tenor solo, of course—two of 'em in fact. Jahes Melton, Selberling's own tenor, will sing that best-loved of all tenor selections, "I Hear You Calling Me," and a favorite of many years ago, "Song of Songs" from the dramatic stage hit, "The Climax."

The program promises, besides, two other quartet selections. "Down on the Banks of the Old Yazoo" by Ford, and "Honey Mine" by Mseh.

The Selberling Hour goes on the air every Thursday evening from 9.00 to 9.30 p.m., Eastern Standard Time (from 8.00 to 8.30 p.m. Central Standard Time—from 7.00 to 7.30 p.m. Mountain Time—from 6.00 to 6.30 p.m. Pacific Coast Time) through 37 stations of the National Broadcasting Company's Red nEt'Pacific Coast Network. This is the world's largest hook up for a regular, weekly, half-hour program.

VARSITY MAY WIN ON MUDDY GRID HEAVY DEMAND IS EXPECTED FOR RUGBY CLASSIC TICKETS

Sale Under Control of Canadian Rugby Union, Few Passes

TORONTO FANS

Some 4,000 U. of T. Students Expected to Attend Final Game

J. D. Chilman, secretary of the Tiger Football club, had many important announcements to make today concerning the Eastern Canada final between Varsity Orphans and Tigers in Hamilton on Saturday, and all of them are interesting enough to command close attention.

In the first place, the game is under the auspices of the Canadian Rugby union, and the ticket sale is entirely out of the hands of the locals. No complimentary tickets will be sent out except those issued by the C.R.U., of which Bobby Hewitson, of Toronto, is the secretary.

Tigers rent the fields to the Canadian Union, but with the exception of the seats sent to Varsity, the sale will be conducted here after the manner of the usual sales, with but several changes.

Varsity asked for, and received, about 2,800 tickets. This includes that the Collegians will come here at full strength, providing that collegiate color which makes the Intercollegiate games so attractive.

Regarding the ticket sale, it was announced that the entire allotment for Hamilton will be placed on sale at Sam Manson's sporting goods store Three-year season ticket-holders will be guaranteed seats in th main stand in the order they purchase them.

These seats went on sale Tuesday morning, and must be called for by Thursday night off the latest or they will be sold. All season tickets are purchased, and no phone orders will be permitted. The sale must be conducted on a cash and carry basis throughout.

The sale to the general public will be launched on Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock.

The prices of tickets have been changed somewhat. The grand stand seats will sell for $1.50 and tax, or $1.65 in all. These are in the east and west stands. The balance will be $1 and tax, or $1.10 in all. Every seat in the grounds will be reserved.

It appears that the demand for seats will be unusually heavy, and those intending to take up pasteboards are warned to get them as early as possible, for a rush from Toronto fans may take up any balance left over by Thursday or Friday.

Toronto, Ont. Nov. 21.—In October 13 last, after two weeks of thrilling Rugby Football union campaign, Varsity Orphans were walloping in last place in their group under a heavy lead of two defeats. Today they are champions of the union, and have qualified to meet Hamilton Tigers twice, the Dominion semi-final at Hamilton next Saturday.

The "young contemptibles" won the title on Saturday by defeating Sarnia Imperials by 4 to 0 in the mud of Varsity stadium. Although the Varsity attack was the fire shown in the great ages that Balmy Beach, it had substance enough to roll the Sarnia machine back at times and Captain Jack Sinclair in position to use his educated instep for the gathering of points.

What Maddy Field

The general impression is that Tigers will defeat the Orphans next Saturday, but there are those who believe that if the Collegians play up to the form they showed in the Balmy Beach game they will qualify to meet the Regina Roughriders in the Dominion final. The Orphans have shown themselves to be good mud horses, and their supporters are hoping for slippery going for Saturday's game in Hamilton. The Tigers failed in their attempt to win the Dominion title a year on a muddy field, when Balmy Beach set them back and the orphans believe they can duplicate the Beachers' feat.

YOUR EYES and Our Service

By A. J. McFEE, Optometrist Belleville

To see well is no proof of normal vision?

Not at all. Vision may be normal with abnormal eyes. This is an important fact to remember. Because overcoming errors of vision causes a tremendous strain on the eyes.

Is this overcoming of errors of vision only found in young persons?

No, Older persons may suffer from a like cause. But the symptoms produced are often more noticeable. For that reason an older person is more likely to complain than one who is young.

Many older far-sighted persons may not be aware of their condition?

Yes, those otherwise good health and of strong physique may be for years unacquainted with the fact that they have far sight or another error of vision.

NEW ERA IN AVIATION

Y. on the standpoint of Canadian aviation, the 1st of October, 1928, may be regarded as a definite milestone. On this date were inaugurated the first international daily air mail service between Montreal, Canada, and Albany, U. S. A., and the first daily air mail service between Montreal and Toronto.

The fact that several air mail services were already in operation in Canada should not be allowed to detract from the importance and significance of these latest developments. It must be a matter for congratulation that the head of the Post Office Department in Canada has seen fit not only to inaugurate a system of air mail transportation in this country, but also to develop it in a manner distinctly indicative of a desire to put Canada at least in line with similar developments in other parts of the world.

It is true that our neighbors to the south have already achieved a great deal in the direction of air mail transportation, aided undoubtedly by the broader population and their favourable financial condition, and while we in Canada can hardly hope to progress so rapidly there can be no good reason why, with the whole-hearted support of the mailing public, the present services should not be generally augmented.

CANADIAN AVIATION

The latest issue of "Flight," published in London Eng, contains a special forty-page insert on aviation in Canada. Major F. A. de V. Robertson, V.D., has prepared an authoritative and complete survey of the aviation field in Canada, which will bring the Dominion vividly before the British manufacturers. Many aerial views taken throughout Canada give this section a bright appearance and an attractive appeal to the reader.

ORGANIZES AVIATION COUNTRY CLUBS.

New York. — Aviation Country Clubs, Inc. has been organized here by Ruth Nichols for the establishment of a string of socially exclusive flying clubs throughout the United States. Offices of the company are at 551 Fifth Avenue.

The first three clubs are to be in Westchester, New Jersey and Long Island, according to Miss Nichols. In addition to completely equipped fields the clubs are to have all the appointments of the best country clubs. The clubs are to be established only in cities of 100,000 population or over.

Included in the board of directors are William Rockfeller, Charles L. Lawrence, Sherman M. Fairchild, Robert Lee, Jr., George Post, Earl Osborne, James M. Taylor.

NOTHING MISSING BUT A CIGAR LIGHTER

Believing that the passengers in the front cockpit are entitled to the same satisfaction as the pilot in knowing the speed, the time of day and the flying altitude of the airship, W. H. Emery, Jr., has installed in his Whirlwind motored travel-air what is claimed to be the most complete accessories ever installed in a privately owned air plane.

Believing also that the pilot is entitled to every bit of knowledge and comfort scientifically designed aces can bring him, Mr. Emery has gone the route in their installation.

In addition to the Standard instruments, Mr. Emery's ship has: Electric starter; Landing Lights; Parachute flares; Navigation lights; 100 Gallon fuel capacity; Fuel Gauge; Wheel brakes; Dash Lights, in both Cockpits; Bank and turn Indicator; Clocks, in both Cockpits; Compass; Rate of Climb Indicator; Air Speedometer, in both Cockpits; Altimeter, in both Cockpits; Heaters, in both Cockpits.

"This equipment was put on from experience," said Mr. Emery, "for I have found that the passenger wants to know how fast he is flying and how high he is flying. This equipment saves answering a lot of questions and gives the passenger a whole lot of satisfaction in seeing with their own eyes."

Mr. Emery uses this ship almost entirely for his own pleasure and the pleasure of his friends, just as the automobile dealer owns his own car for personal use.

About the only thing Emery seems to have missing in equipment is a cigar lighter—"but", said he, "I don't smoke."

STUNT FLYING IN FRANCE

Asphalt cruising has long been a popular sport with the "aleks" in Canada, but the girls in France are no longer satisfied with so banal an entertainment. The modern girl's crake for excitement is blamed for the increasing habit of airmen flying over Paris at such low altitudes as almost to graze the roofs of houses and thereby causing alarm among pedestrians. France has become so blase to aviation that a mere ride in a plane no longer thrills, and so the boy friends have to resort to stunt flying —to provide a thrill for their feminine admirers. Police began checking up on the registered numbers of the low-flying civil planes but many offending machines were army owned and the police have no way to identify them. Military authorities are now checking up on delinquent airmen who fly clandestinely to give their girl friends a thrill but the practice continues unabated. Here the advantage that you cannot walk home from an aeroplane ride. What is left of set in that a plane is not so easy to part as the more practical "limie."

VARSITY SHOWS BIG EXPANSION

Toronto, Ont. (By C. P.) — For present accommodation and future expansion, the University of Toronto has been gradually acquiring adjoining property, until now it controls the bulk of the land between Spadina and Bay, and Bloor and College. Within 25 years, at the present rate of increase, all the land within these confines will be owned by the University. Eventually it will all be built up with special buildings. Some plans for immediate development are being made by the authorities, but nothing new around Varsity care to reveal them.

At present the new pathological building is taking the place of old doctors' offices on College Street, while the extensive additions to the Toronto General Hospital are in some extent a joint project with the University. The next needs which must be filled, the authorities say, are a new botany building, a women's building, and practical science laboratories. Incorporating extensive innovations.

Apart from this material side, the University is reaching out to educate all and sundry throughout the province, whether or not they are able to attend Varsity. In 1920 there were 200 in extension courses. Last year there were 3,161 and within another four years more the department expects to have a registration exceeding the number of students at the University.

In yet another direction Toronto is starting rapid growth. That is in the field of research, which is now considered as important as teaching. The discovery of insulin in 1922 gave a wonderful stimulus to this work. In that year the president's report mentioned 300 research problems under process of investigation. The next report will contain 600.

Dominion Coal Company at Glace Bay has signed for delivery of 110,000 tons of coal following close of navigation on the St. Lawrence.

TALC IN CANADA

Most of the talc produced in Canada undergoes grinding at mills situated at or near the mines, and is marketed as ground talc of three grades, according to fineness. Powdered talc is produced at Madoc, Ontario, and there has also been an intermittent production from deposits near Vidalia, Vancouver Island, Keefers, and D'Arcy in British Columbia.

Talcs are said to be especially subject to lumps owing to the monotony of their work, the noise of the machines and the cramped positions they adopt while at work.

OFFICERS

face of great danger.

Two belly-landed receivers were in their possession while a picked-look-ing sawed-off shotgun, an implement employed by thugs of their calibre, was reposing at the front seat of the car. They made no secret of the fact that they were out for blood and had no hesitation in stating they would have "drilled the officers," had they had the opportunity.

Constable J. A. Jerome told the Intelligencer man that the band is made an offer of $15,000 for their freedom after they had been locked behind the bars of the jail. Craig who appeared to be the spokesman for the outfit told him he could "get the money within a short time."

On the arrival of District Inspector Loughred of Belleville, he attempted to question the men but they were evasive and refused to give definite answers.

This entrance of Detective Silverthorne of Toronto, who got off the train at Brighton, made somewhat of an impression on trio as that officer was acquainted with their criminal activities. When the Detective commenced to grill them Deaver said "We've been through the mill before and I'm not telling all I know now." At this time he had given fictitious names to the officers and stated that they lived in Chicago, Detroit and Toronto. A bank Bank found in Phillip's jacket showed a balance of $300.

Wrist-Laid Plans

The car which was stolen from Mrs. H. Hyrie of Toronto, was a Packard and the back seat was packed tight with valuable furs. The men submitted the original license plates after leaving Toronto in the hope that it might help their escape.

The plans of the robbery were well-laid and chief of police Draper who arrived at Brighton at six o'clock last night, is looking to citizens for the credit for one of the employees of the store is connected with the hold-up. The fire was started by the men in the car, it was: "Has anyone been arrested at the store?"

Irvine Cooper, who superintends the service station, stated that the town drove up and asked his assistance in repairing a flat tire. He waited on a customer and was jacking up the heavy car when the officers stepped from around the corner. Had the thugs offered any resistance, he would have been in the path of fire as he was in the centre of the group. The same men are held as suspects in connection with the robbery of Bell's Fur Store in Toronto some weeks ago. They faced charges of vagrancy and carrying arms.

Inspector Loughred came in for considerable praise for the manner in which the men who served under him conducted themselves in the threatened gun battle. McBrien has been attached to the force but six months, and his cool demonstration yesterday indicated that he will make a first class officer.

Storey was formerly stationed at Lindsay and was transferred to the Lake shore district stationed at Cobourg recently. He handled the job yesterday with precision and while he was looking to others to give him the credit for his part in the stirring drama nevertheless it was in a large measure due to his foresight and bravery that these three young gunmen were taken into custody.

HOPES DWINDLE FOR LOST CREW

Six Men May Have Perished on Ice Floe in Lake Manitoba

Winnipeg, Nov. 22.—Hopes are now entertained for the safety of six fishermen who drifted from the shore on Lake Manitoba last Tuesday, it being believed they are on a small island six miles from shore. Watchers reported seeing persons on the island. An aeroplane from Winnipeg will drop food on the island.

Winnipeg, Nov. 22.—A search is going on today for six fishermen who are either lost or drowned after five of them were swept from the shore of Lake Manitoba on a sheet of ice during a gale and the sixth set out in a boat to the rescue. They have been missing since Tuesday and a heavy storm made, the search impossible until last night. Whether the sixth man who went to the rescue of those swept away on the ice ever reached them is unknown. The only hope for the men is that they may have reached an island about five miles from the shore. Death from exposure would be their certain fate if they drifted out into the lake.

MOOSE CARD PARTY

Last evening in the Moose Auditorium, under the auspices of the Moose Legion, a most successful euchre and dance took place with a large crowd in attendance. Following the euchre lunch was served after which dancing was commenced and continued till an early hour this morning. The Ton orchestra furnished excellent music.

Those winning prizes at euchre were —Ladies' 1st, Miss H. Hogan; 2nd, Mrs. Dickinson; 3rd, Mrs. Belderfield. Men's 1st, Mr. W. Belsey; 2nd, Mr. D. Peris; 3rd, Mr. E. Foley.

COMMITTEE FORMED

At a meeting of session held in St. Andrew's Church last evening, a committee of six was formed to attend to pulpit supply. From a list of can didates, six were selected and will be heard commencing December 3rd, when Rev. W. S. Galbraith, of Toronto, will preach. This Sunday Rev. Dr. MacGillivray will speak on the "Budget."

BASEBALL FANS MEET ON FRIDAY

General Meeting Called to Lay Plans for 1929 Campaign

President W. E. Rowsome of the Belleville National baseball league says that a meeting of all baseball enthusiasts will be held tomorrow night (Friday) in the Hall at eight o'clock. The presence of all fans and supporters is earnestly requested at this gathering as the business for this year will be wound up and plans laid for next year's campaign. The National's won the Senior championship of the Province and all fans are solidly behind them.

The annual meeting of the Central League was held in Deloro last Saturday and from all indications Kingston will not be a member of the circuit next year but all of the other four teams will be represented for the rise of the barrier on the Queen's Birthday when Deloro will open the season here, Mr. B. A. Fralick was chosen President and Mr. F. G. Chester Vice-President while Newton Thompson of Belleville was also acted as Secy.-Treas. for the last four years was again tendered that position. The Central League is in a flourishing condition and prospects point to another successful season.

It is expected that some of the teams will be strengthened before next season and all of them will be found be ready for service in the Spring. Division will remain here as will Mills brothers and Bob Schawbury who probably come out with a strong team and Peterboro will have all of the regulars again next year.

Belleville baseball fans who are interested in the welfare of Belleville's baseball future are urged to be present tomorrow night. President W. E. Rowsome will be in the chair.

Deaths And Funerals

JAMES HILL

Campbellford, Nov. 22.—James Hill, a life-long resident of Campbellford, dropped dead yesterday at noon on Bridge street. Dr. Kincaid was called and pronounced the man dead after which the body was removed to Bennett's Undertaking Parlors. Owing to the absence in Peterboro of Dr. Kincaid, who is coroner for the town, the body will be held in the undertaking parlors until his return.

The deceased was a veteran of 1885, and made his home on Market Street. He has one brother living, Henry Hill, who also resides on Market Street. He was a brickmaker by trade.

Letters to the Editor

To Poet Robb,
Highland Ave.,
City.
Mr. Robb:—
If I was in your place after what I had done I would dig a hole in the side hill some hill and crawl in it and pull the end of the hole in after me and say: "Here is the end of a fool."

All the people of Belleville will be glad to see the tale end of your coat when you go East.

You are a Laughing Stock of the whole town.

UNBIDDEN
Abbey Dawn.
Belleville, Nov. 22, 1928.

Editor Intelligencer,
Dear Sir:

The foregoing is a copy of an anonymous letter addressed to "Poet Robb, City" which pretends to speak from darkness for the "whole of Belleville." It would be insulting were it not so ridiculously funny. Therein lies the virtue of the letter, it can be granted any virtue—for it is a complete success as a clownish piece of literature. As such I pass it on to the people of Belleville.

However we must deal with this writer, out a bit in case of further effort from ambush, and help him or her. He should at least a little more original. These thunderous thoughts, which he has paid the Postmaster two cents to explode in our face, turn out to be a bunch of borrowed firecrackers Stale stuff!

I would point out to this literary wag, that all poets, since time began have been called fools by someone, and as for being "a laughing stock of the whole town," I cannot answer for the "whole" town but as for the laughing stock of the town is nothing new; it has been the common lot of poets, of seers of every clime.

I would rather be a poet, thinking original thoughts and singing my name to them in the city hall, than the common punishment of poets, than be the sender of this letter of stale and stolen thoughts, a person ashamed of his art, ashamed of himself and ashamed of his own name.

But to return to the funny side of it—the comedy of the thing—a good laugh is worth the price any day, and this nameless and dramatic ghost calling itself "the wise town" is funny either as a mystery or as an effort. It is worth the trouble he has taken otherwise it is a shame to send out.

I suggest that anyone who laughs should write to the editor entertainment. We don't know who the laughs are so why not send the good laugh to Walter Tur-

Mayoralty

I seek neither honor nor glory, but merely an opportunity to better serve the city.

WEDDINGS

MacDONALD—WHALEN

A quiet wedding was solemnized at St. Michael's Church this morning when Helen Whalen of Point Anne, became the bride of Walter MacDonald, also of Point Anne. Rev. Father Killeen performed the ceremony. Following a wedding breakfast at the Queen's hotel, Mr. and Mrs. MacDonald left on a short wedding trip. On their return they will reside at Point Anne.

BUTTERS—CARLETON

A pretty wedding was solemnized at one o'clock this afternoon at St. Thomas Church when the Rev. Mr. Lyons of the church united in matrimony, Miss Muriel A. Carleton B.A., to Mr. Ingram Fallis, Ont., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Carleton, Hollowray, Ont., to James Wallace Butters, barrister, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Butters, of Niagara Falls, Ont. Among those in attendance were Mr. James Butters father of the groom and Mr. William Butters, brother of the groom, also both of Niagara Falls; Miss Betty Allenson of Toronto; Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Carleton, parents of the bride and other friends of the contracting parties Mrs. Ross Hunter officiated at the organ. After the ceremony a reception was served to the bridal party and their friends at the Hotel Quinte. The young couple will reside in Niagara Falls.

Yours sincerely.

CONSERVATIVES LAUD BENNETT

Party Leader Welcomed by Great Delegation at Convention

EXTEND HYBRO

Motion to Grant Scholarship in Canadian History Is Passed

Toronto, November 22.—"This convention is not only a tribute to the great patriotism of the people of this province, their love of the Empire, but a tribute also to their faith and belief in the Conservative party and the best means or instrument for the wit or wisdom of man has yet devised for the purpose of making that patriotism effective as I alive, a vital thing in their lives in this country."

Those were words from R. B. Bennett Conservative leader, addressed the seventh annual convention of the Ontario Liberal-Conservative Association at its opening proceedings yesterday afternoon. Mr. Bennett went on:

"No man or woman who professes the Conservative faith, but would feel great pride as I should feel at such a meeting as this. The gathering is a tribute to the activities of this party when, federally at least, it has been thought the party was somewhat in the doldrums, although it is strong in its provincial power.

Premier G. Howard Ferguson described the successes as the greatest since the inception of the Ontario Liberal-Conservative Association nearly forty years ago. There was overwhelming evidence, the Ontario Premier proceeded, of approval of the Ontario Government and the men who supported it. Premier Ferguson continued:

"We welcome to this loyal old province of ours the leader of the Conservative party, and I am sure he will get the support that will place him in charge of affairs at Ottawa." The ability and resourcefulness of the new federal Conservative Leader, Premier Ferguson declared, were recognized throughout the Dominion.

On motion of Hon. Joseph E. Thompson, Toronto, the convention approved a motion in favor of the granting of scholarships in Canadian history.

Hon. Dan R. Cooke, member of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Commission, discussed the extension of hydro to rural communities. "A survey made by the commission," Mr. Cooke said, "indicates that during the next seven years the Hydro Commission will serve practically every rural customers in that Ontario that it is economically possible to serve."

The subjects of elimination of dangerous level crossings and motor liability insurance brought forth a number of speakers. Thomas Mahoney, M. P. A., Wentworth, in the course of discussion, suggested that the federal Government should increase the present annual grant of $20,000 for the grade crossing fund administered by the Board of Railway Commissioners. May or Samuel McBride officially welcomed the delegates to Toronto.

The first homicide in Chicago was committed by John Kinzie, the first permanent white resident of Chicago in 1812, when in self-defence he killed an Indian interpreter. Kinzie was discharged by the jury.

CARD OF THANKS

Mrs. J. E. Anderson and family wish to thank their many friends for their kindness shown during the illness and death of their husband and father, also for the floral tributes received. They also wish to express their appreciation to Lake Lodge 215 and Quinte Chapter.

U.F.O. TO DEAL WITH ONT. L.C.A.

Four Resolutions Are on the Agenda for Forthcoming Convention

Toronto, Ont., (By C. P.) — Four resolutions dealing with the liquor question are on the agenda for the annual convention of the United Farmers of Ontario in this city on December 4, 5 and 6. The liquor resolutions point to the increase in the jail population and the increase in crime usually associated with liquor, demand the stoppage of the export of liquor and the abolition of home brew licenses, besides expressing general disapproval of the Government Control system in Ontario.

There are 22 resolutions altogether, one of the most interesting being a proposal that the government should withdraw its financial support from the Ontario Women's Institutes. Two resolutions on this matter will be submitted. One of them urges the withdrawal of the support on the ground that it is unfair that one section of the people should monopolize the service of a department which is financed by all the citizens. It advocates instead the organization of a similar government lecture service which shall be available to all organizations, without requiring them to sacrifice their identity and submerge themselves in the Institute movement. The other resolution contends that the service should be freed from the "suspicion of political patronage" or of political bias by being operated by a federal bureau, rather than a provincial department.

Cadet training in the public schools is deprecated by the executive committee of the United Farmers of Ontario which will submit a resolution urging the convention to go on record as opposed to the expenditure of a dollar of public money for training cadets in the public schools of the province.

Other resolutions include the following: That the government make a practical move towards disarmament by reducing the annual appropriation for military purposes; that country judges and sheriffs, if just and sufficient evidence be furnished, be given authority to excuse a summoned farmer juror and call another in his stead; that any further increase in the sessional indemnity of members of parliament to be expressed; that a law be enacted fixing the date of elections by statute; that an effort to abolish or reduce the income tax be opposed and that agricultural instruction in all public schools be made compulsory.

RECONSTRUCTION NOW COMPLETED

Devastated Areas in France Are Rapidly Being Put in Shape

Paris—Ten years after the close of the Great War France is approaching the end of its labor of reconstruction in the devastated regions.

That labor has changed the whole aspect of Northern France. Model villages have sprung from the ruins of picturesque and crumbling old world towns. Neat rows of cement and brick houses stretch along the streets that show little trace of war's devastation.

Altogether nearly 700,000 destroyed and damaged houses and farm buildings have been rebuilt. Thousands of factories and industrial establishments have been equipped with machinery and are producing at better than the pre-war rate.

Flooded coal mines in the Nord and Pas de Calais departments have been restored and are actually producing a half million tons more each month than they did before the war was declared.

In some respects, the devastation enforced a benefit. Many of the rebuilt factories and potteries have replaced hand-power with electricity and modern machinery is in use where once production methods were primitive. Thousands of the rebuilt habitations are as modern as architecture can make them and far more sanitary than the homes they replace.

At the Armistice it was found that 360,720 houses had been destroyed. Another 526,000 were so damaged that they had to be rebuilt.

Ten years after the Armistice, approximately 700,000 "reconstructed" houses had been erected, and 8,500 factories and workshops. Much remains to be done before the Government's program is realized, but the end is in sight.

INCREASE FOR APPLE EXPORT

(By Canadian Press)

Ottawa, Ont.—Canada's apples are becoming more popular in the British Isles. Exports so far this season, according to figures published by the fruit branch of the Department of Agriculture, amounted to 183,063 barrels and 515,222 boxes. This is a substantial increase over the totals of 1927 and 160,144 barrels and 403,625 boxes for 1926.

The enormous apple crop in British Columbia is, however, reflecting on prices. Cables from Liverpool indicate the lowest prices for several years. Macintosh apples, fancy grade, are selling at an average price of $2.54 a box in Liverpool, as compared with $3.73 for 1927 and $3.02 for 1926. Jonathan apples are priced at an average price of $2.05 as compared with $3.83 for 1927 and $2.81 for 1926. Kings apples, No. 1 grade, are selling at $5.17 a barrel as compared with $7.35 for 1927 and $4.20 for 1926. Shipments of Ontario apples are stated to be light and representative prices are not available.

BRITISH EDITORS GROWING INDIGNANT

London, Nov. 20.— Conduct of the inquiry being held in New York in the sinking of the Vestris, drew indignant comment from two morning papers today. The Daily News said the procedure was "bullying, biased, ignorant and inconceivably stupid, suggesting preconceived resolve to vilify British seaman ship at all costs."

The Daily Express said the "flowery methods of treating the unfortunate witnesses as if they were criminals causes the greatest resentment in this country."

AERIAL PHOTOGRAPHS

One advantage of the aerial photograph is that it is a permanent record available for study of whatever purpose at any future time. For example one of the largest individual mapping operations undertaken by the Topographical Survey of the Department of the Interior, Canada, was the survey of the southern portion of the Wood Buffalo park which lies in the vicinity of Forth Smith, Northwest Territories. The aerial photographs provide material for a study of the park area, of its suitably and park area, of its suitability and capacity as a grazing ground for buffalo, of the stand of timber of the fire risk and many other like features. In no way could this information become so readily available as by the use of aerial photographs.

SINCLAIR'S

"BELLEVILLE NIGHT" HEARD IN FLORIDA

The world is a small place after all, and Belleville is not a "small town in a big puddle." For Belleville's "night on the air" was heard away down in Florida. Mrs. David R. Dunham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Sprigner, and well known in this city, has written Belleville, stating that she and her husband had "picked up" Belleville last Wednesday night and had nearly perfect reception. Mrs. Dunham said that they enjoyed the part of the programme that she heard immensely.

AVIATION IN CANADA

Aviation is in a healthier condition in Canada than at any previous time in its history. Development has not been rapid nor has it been forced into uneconomical channels. Every effort has been made to keep it on sound lines, as far as possible self-sustaining, and of direct value to the country as a whole.

The Victor Orthophonic Christmas Club now open. A small deposit will hold for later delivery. Heintzman Co., 245 Front Street.

Few places in the world have seen so much concentrated and prolonged human misery as the French penal settlement on Devil's Island in French Guiana. Some 45,000 white Frenchmen have passed through this purgatory since it was founded 60 years ago. Of all the penal buildings none presents a more harrowing spectacle than the insane asylum, illustrated ABOVE. Its tiers of walls are chained the wretches who go mad under the tortures of the equatorial climate and the horrors of prison life. HENRY in the illustrations the Marseilles murderer, who recently escaped from Devil's Island where he was serving a life sentence.

HEALTH AFTER CHRONIC INDIGESTION

When a disease persists for a great length of time, it becomes what is known as chronic. Many persons have chronic indigestion without, apparently, being unhealthy. They have to be constantly watchful of what they eat, and some things they like must be avoided entirely. When a disease becomes chronic it is a certain indication that the cause is deep-seated, that it lies in some structural defect of the body which can only be righted by chiropractic spinal adjustments. When the spinal joints at "stomach place" are out of alignment and are pressing upon the spinal nerve opening, there is a stomach weakness, either chronic or certain to become chronic, unless the structural defect is corrected by adjustment. This is the service the chiropractic of skill renders.

"For Greater Values"

400 SENATORS FOR RE-ELECTION

All But Eight of Them Got Through the Primary Elections

Washington, D.C.— An even 400 of the 435 members who were on the roll of the House of Representatives at the last session of Congress, sought this year to retain their seats for another term. Three hundred and ninety-two of them hurdled the primaries and, with the exception of four already elected in Maine, will submit their cause to the voters November 6.

Besides the eight who failed of renomination, 35 passed out for other reasons, four having resigned and 26 having decided not to run again. Death claimed five, three just before the session ended and two during the recess.

Six of those who elected to quit the House sought nomination to the Senate, and three others became candidates as their party's choice for governors of their states. There— Tom Connaly of Texas, Theodore E. Burton of Ohio and Charles E. Winter of Wyoming—were successful in their quest for Senatorial nominations, but only one, Martin L. Davey of Ohio, won a place on the gubernatorial ticket.

In addition to Connally, Burton, Winter and Davey, among the outstanding figures who will be missing from the house chamber when the seventy-first congress convenes are: Finis J. Garrett of Tennessee, the Democratic floor leader; James T. Begg of Ohio, Tom D. Hersey of Maine, Thomas L. Blanton of Texas, the only silver member of the house, and George H. Combs, jr., the baby member from Kansas City.

Garrett, who probably will be succeeded as Democratic leader by John Garner of Texas and who has served in the house for 24 years, failed to realize his ambition to become a Senator. He was defeated in the Tennessee primaries by Senator Kenneth McKellar.

ANNUAL CONVENTION RELIGIOUS COUNCIL

The Annual Convention of the Thurlow Religious Education Council was held in Gilead St. Andrews' United Church, Thursday, November the 15th.

The afternoon session was opened with Devotional exercises led by Rev. W. Merrick, after which Mr. Caverley the President occupied the chair. Reports were given by the secretary and by a round table conference led by Rev. Norton. Many problems of the different schools were discussed. Rev. Black gave a Temperance address on the evil effects of alcohol. A duet by Mrs. R. Laurenson and Mrs. F. Yorke was appreciated by all. The nominating committee met at the close of the afternoon session.

Evening session opened with song service led by Mr. J. Gow and Devotional exercises by Rev. Black. Reports of nominating committee were read and adopted. Rev. Black then conducted the installation of officers. President elect Mr. W. Henderson took the chair and in a few well chosen words thanked the people for the honor conferred on him.

Rev. Mr. Norton gave a very inspiring address on restoring sight to the blind. Special music for the evening was given by Mrs. A. Hall, Miss Grace Simmons and Mr. J. Gow.

The following officers were elected. Honorary President—Mr. P. Caverley.
President—Mr. W. Henderson.
2nd Vice President—Mr. R. Robson.
Secretary—Mildred Jones.
2nd Vice President—Mr. S. Bird.
Department Superintendents

Children's Work—Miss L. Prindle.
Girl's Work—Mrs. W. Badgley.
Boy's Work—Mr. A. L. Greatrix.
Adult Dept.—Mr. H. Dean.
Home Dept.—Mr. D. Brenton.
Teacher Training—Mr. R. Robson.
Temperance—Mr. S. Bird.
Missionary—Mrs. E. Sills.

Electricity has been substituted for the pole axe to drive cattle in many slaughter houses in Berlin, Germany.

It takes nine years to make a wheat king. That, at least, is the record of Herman Trelle, the international champion grower, who, with his charming wife, is shown in this photograph. Their home is at Wembley, Alta., and they have pioneered 300 miles away from the nearest railway. Mr. Trelle, who is only 33 years of age, entered the Peace River district 18 years ago, worked in his father's sawmill, studied at the University of Alberta, wooed and won his bride, who had come from Minnesota, and started growing grain. He says the pioneer life isn't "quite so murky" as some novelists would lead one to believe. "But when the west reaches a population which will enable it to control the east, as it must and will in time just as sure as the sun rises and sets, then we are going to have a problem which will make the racial mixture problem of the United States look like a simple equation," he says. Mr. and Mrs. Trelle are now attending the Royal Winter Fair at Toronto.

PAYS VISIT TO SENTINEL LODGE

A fraternal visit was paid Tues. night to Sentinel L. Orange Lodge by M. W. Grand Chaplin Rev. A. L. Geen, R. W. Grand Lecturer M. Carl Brodders Reed, Thomson, Paul, Johnson, Kennedy and they were given a most hearty reception by the brethren of Sentinel Lodge including grand honors in the grand officers.

After the usual lodge business addresses were given by the Grand Chaplin and Grand Lecturer followed by the Other visitors with a few words. Bro. Geen in his closing remarks said one of the pleasures of the evening was the presentation of a Masters Collar to Sentinel Lodge, they having proved themselves the best dressed Lodge at the 12th July celebration. Brother Paul then placed the collar on the Masters (Brother Irwin's) neck. After the closing of the Lodge by singing God Save the King, refreshments were served and a very pleasant social time was spent. The feeling of those present, was that more such gatherings would be beneficial to the order. All left for home happy to meet again. Sentinel Lodge room is a large, comfortable and attractive meeting place.

WOMEN FAVORED CADET TRAINING

Edmonton, Alta., Nov. (By C.P.)—By a vote of 35—9 the local Council of Women declared itself in favor of cadet training in the schools. There was no discussion on the question, but after the results were announced, it was explained that last year the government made a law providing that cadet training be optional, subject to the will of the parents. The Edmonton public school board had sent a questionaire to the parents of Edmonton children, asking their wish in the matter, and 95 per cent of the parents requested that the train'ng be given.

Dealing with another resolution the attention of the meeting was called to the fact that in seeking legislation providing for the naturalization of alien women, the National Council would be asking for something counter to the laws of the remainder of the world, and might consequently be doing women more injustice than good, according to the chairman. The question is now in the hands of the international laws committee, and she suggested that it be left there for the present.

STORY ON WHEELS

Pontiac and La Salle drover Overland into Cadillac one night when the Moon was so full there wasn't a Star in sight. The Jordan r ver was high so that they had to Ford it. On the way Pontiac asked La Salle to go on to Wolseley to see Stutz who was sick and when the latter told them how he felt they wondered what the blame Jewett to make him feel that way. They gave him a page from the Life of Lincoln to read and to change the subject asked him a Paige from Life of Lincoln to did that, he had his bow, but had broken his Pierce Arrow. His hounds were ill sick and he had only one Whippet "Down on the Hudson or was it in Essex." remarked Pontiac, "it would make your teeth Nash, the gauge was so plentiful. You simply couldn't Dodge 'em. But Stutz was a real sick man, so they called his Chandler and his Gardner and he's Studebaker together for a consultation and they decided to pack him off for Reo in his Oldsmobile. The man who accompanied him was Fly-mouth, who knew where Franklin was but he couldn't tell where Overroit.

MONTHLY SOCIAL EVENING HELD

The Albert Ladies Bible Class of Hadaway St. United Church monthly social evening was held at the home of Mrs. Bert Langabeer, Everett St., on Tuesday evening with 30 present. Meeting was opened by singing Blessed Assurance, Jesus is Mine, followed with prayer by Rev. Mr. Wight. Responsive reading: Ephesians 1, 1-14. How First a Foundation was sung. Business of the class was discussed, then a social hour was spend. Mrs. Schryver gave a reading by request: "How to cook a Husband." Solo, Florence Redner; Piano solo, Thelma Langabeer. Recitation Florence Redner.

An amusing and profitable half hour was spent with the Question Box, conducted by Mrs. Hall.

The meeting closed with prayer by Mr. Wight after which refreshments were served. A hearty vote of thanks was given Mrs. Langabeer for her kind hospitality.

TRAYMORES ARE SHOWING PROFIT

Operating profits of Traymore, Limited, are steadily mounting and after initial expenditures incidental to the opening of new units, have been eliminated a considerable increase in earnings is anticipated. The Quebec unit opened in the late summer, has proved a popular addition. Economies are also steadily being effected throughout the Traymore chain which will be reflected in later earnings statements and these facts together with the expansion program now actively underway warrants the assumption of an optimistic attitude towards the future of the Company's shares.

An announcement will be forthcoming in the immediate future as to the opening date of the Traymore Savarin on Bay street, Toronto. Work on this important new unit has at various times been affected through the impatience of the management as the highest standards being maintained and the very latest equipment being acquired. This has necessitated certain changes and improvements being embodied in the design which were not included in the original specifications. As a result, as this advanced state of construction is, it considers that the Bay street Traymore will set a new standard in restaurant design.

Earnings during the past 9 months show that preferred stock dividend requirements will be earned at least four fold. Present earnings on the common stock outstanding, on the same basis, that is before allowance for depreciation and taxation are conservatively be scaled to be running at the rate of over $1.00 per share. Revenues at this date are not, of course, truly indicative of the earning position of the Company in the near future. When it is considered that next year Traymore will be operating in addition to the new Toronto and Ottawa units the sole restaurant concession in the Dominion Square Building, now being erected in Montreal, the investment position of the Company's shares will be seen to be particularly strong.

SHEKS KILLED IN AIR RAID

Basra, Irak, November 22.—Three rebel sheiks are reported to have been killed in an air raid conducted by the Persian authorities on a section of Arab tribes known as the Beni Turuf, dwelling near Abbas which has been in conflict with Persian troops.

With the list of telegrams from delighted listeners to Belleville's night of the air published in to-day's edition of the paper, it looks as though Belleville was heard pretty well all over America.

There are about ten or twelve Bellevilles on this continent and a few of them wired in to say how pleased they were that their namesake had made such a hit in a broadcast.

And when you come to think of it it's quite a compliment to Belleville's artists when officials of CKGW stated that never before have such a huge amount of telegrams and telephone calls been received for an hour of this nature.

The Sebering boys goes on the Air tonight from the N.B.C. and associated radio stations and about ninety-five per cent of the set in America will be tuned in for this hour.

The Sebering Quintette is at present a program that is excelled by no other "hour" throughout the week and its public appreciates this.

And add to that fact that reception was good, what more could one desire?

BELLE THEATRE

The work was done for "The Docks of New York" starring George Bancroft now showing at the Belle theatre. Josef von Sternberg directed.

Inasmuch as almost all of the action of the play is done at night, it fell to the lot of the technicians to prepare a set in which no outside ray of light would be permitted to enter. The set was built on one of the massive stages and transformed the scene to a honky tonk dive located along the waterfront of New York. A huge black canvas hung all around the set, and the actors and technicians toiled for several weeks with only a ray of light from a large spotlight flooding the scene.

On many occasions the actors saw the light of day only upon going to work in the morning. They were kept on the set long after the sun had set, when emerging, stepped right out into a real night.

Bancroft's new starring picture is one of the best he has ever done to date. The story is an original one from the pen of John Monk Saunders, who wrote "Wings" and "The Legion of The Condemned."

He is supported by an able cast including Betty Compson, Baclanova, Clyde Cook, Mitchell Lewis and Gustav von Seyffertitz among others.

REGENT THEATRE

It was the coming of the American outlaw and gold-mad marauders, according to Tim McCoy, Mario-Goldwyn-Mayer star whose latest picture "Beyond the Sierra" comes today to the Regent Theatre, that brought about the conflict now historic.

"California history has always been a fascinating study for me" said McCoy. "As a Westerner I have always had a great interest in the early days of its development and I am sorry to say that it was our own people who were responsible for the bloodshed and lawlessness that accompanied the gold discoveries.

3 feature pictures.

Warner Bros. production, "Sailor Izzy Murphy," with George Jessel, He great today for a run of 4 days.

This is said to be the most uproariously amusing of all sea stories, detailing the amorous adventures of one Izzy Goldberg, perfumery salesman. Jessel's unfailing solemnity adds to the portrayal of the character of the Semitic mariner whose haps and mishaps include being booted off the doormat by the irate father of the lady of his affections, and learning that worthy with the determination to get damages for the indignity to his person; capture, when aboard his lady love's papa's yacht, by a band of lunatics who are in command of the boat; appointment as Lord High Executioner by the said lunatics; election as Chief Executioner; commandeering as Head-Stoker in the hold, and other side-splitting adventures.

Rotakins Champions of Inter-Church League to Play Here

A real treat is in store for basketball lovers when the Rotakin team from Howard Park United Church of Toronto, came to Belleville Y.M.C.A. on Saturday night, November 24th, to play a picked team of local players.

The Rotakin team won the Inter-Church League Junior Championship last year and were nosed out by the University of Toronto team in the finals for the city championship. The Rotakin team is recognized as one of the strongest junior aggregations in Toronto, being far stronger than they were last year. Many experts are already calling them to win the Toronto championship this year, and if the local players can hold their own with the visitors, they will be entitled to all kinds of credit, and their showing would give their supporters a good line on their chances in the league season that will open shortly.

The Rotaking team is managed by George N. Dudgin, the well known sports writer, who also managed the Toronto West End Y.M.C.A. Seniors and they are coached by "Smiling" Joe Howard, the park's ekdain of West End seniors. Howard has no equal as handling basketball players, he never reached the Lakeside Ladies team for the past three years, in which they have won three Toronto, Ontario and Eastern Canada championships.

The Rotakin regulars will likely be Frick Green and Johnnie Morrison, guards, Jack Roberts centre, with Marwyn Hayward and Wilson Haugh forwards, with Ken Lead, Mark Hannah Bill Aikens and Joe Miller substitutes. The Inter-Church champions will be accompanied by Harold Pollock, Chief of the Rotakin Class; Charters T. Sharpe, assistant principal of the Toronto Normal Model School and William W. Allison, formerly general secretary of the Belleville Y.M.C.A.

The local team has been practising hard for some considerable time and they fully expect to come out on top. A record crowd is assured fr what stands out as one of the feature games of the year.

The big game will begin at 8:30 p.m., after a curtain raiser by two good girl teams. The first game to commence at 7:30 p.m. A small charge will be made to cover travelling expense.

THEY ALL LIKE THE OLD DANCES

Turn Out in Big Numbers to Attend Old Time Social

Edmonton, Alta. (C.P.)—"They came out after a good time and they sure have it." This was the cheerful comment of an onlooker at the Old Timers' dance. It was a great party. Everybody was there— that is, practically everybody, old timers from far and near, their families and guests for this was guest night with the Northern Alberta Pioneers and Old Timers' Association.

The stentorian voice of J. A. McCool rang out in the numbers of a square dance:

First lady out to the right, swing the gent with the great big feet;
Now the one that looks so neat;
Now the one that looks so sweet;
Now your own, and don't cheat your own.

Alemande left.

Second lady out to the right,
Swing the one with the white mustache;
Now the one that makes the mash;
Now the one that cuts a splash;
Now the one that cooks your hash,
Everybody swing and Allemande left.
Grand right and left.
Swing those that stole the sheep;
Now those that carried it home;
Now the one that picked the bones;
Now your own, and don't cheat your own . . .
Everybody swing and allemande left.

A novelty was the waltz quadrille. The directions were sung:

First cvouple down the centre and then you divide;
Lady to the right, gent to the left;
All balance to partners and don't be afraid.
And swing corner lady
With a waltz promenade.

MOVIE IS STARTED IN WESTERN CANADA

British Canadian Pictures, Ltd., of Vancouver have started production on a Royal Canadian Mounted Police story with the exteriors being taken in the mountains back of North Vancouver. The picture is being made from the famous book "The Wilderness Patrol" by the well known English author, Harold Blindloss. The picture is being produced for, and will be distributed throughout the world, by British Instructional Films, Ltd., of London.

The Victor Orthophonic Christmas Club now open. A small deposit will hold for later delivery. Heintzman Co., 245 Front Street.

CONDUCTOR DODGED A TRYING SITUATION

Winnipeg, Man., Nov. 22—When a young couple from Calgary drifted back to the station ten minutes after the Imperial had left for the east, the Canadian Pacific Officials here were given the choice of fecding and otherwise caring for a nine months old baby for two days or holding the train for thirty-five minutes at North Transcona. They chose the latter, much to the relief of the parter and conductor who are not family men. The re-united family will sail on the Montrose for Christmas in the old country.

C. N. R. LEADING LOCAL LEAGUE

Ravens Defeat Larks in Ladies League; Some Surprises

No less than three games of basketball took place at the Y.M.C.A. Gym last night, two of these games in the Men's Industrial League and preceding them, the opening game of the Business Girls League.

The Ravens; captained by Laura Meicher were the winners of the ladies' fixture the final score being 16—13 Lasletta Curry's Larks were a serious threat in the closing period of the game, and had it not been for the big lead which the Ravens obtained in the opening period the result might have been quite the opposite. For the opening game of the series under boys' rules for the first time, the basketball displayed was a decidely creditable performance.

Ravens: L. Meichlor, V. Johnston, J. Crott, L. Hodges, S. Meichlor, M. Cruise, H. Beaumont, K. Howie.

Larks: L. Curry, V. Wheeler, I. Hallam, J Miles, E. Shoe'a, P. Meichlor, R Fox

As a result of their games with the Stephens Adamson Quintette the C.I.R. went into first place in the "Big Four" Industrial League following a hard played game in which the scorers were not very much in the "picture" at all times. The final score 26—22 was not as close as the play appeared thruout and in the closing moments the Walkers Clan were closing in on the Railroaders who amassed most of their points in the opening period of play.

Johnnie Kerr's Alemites sprung a surprise in the league when they took a fall out of the fast travelling Opticals. Possibly the latter were "hoo-doo-ed" by a brand new set of playing jerseys as they could not seem to get going at any stage of the game. Quite to the opposite, the Kerr Quintette were playing their best basketball of the series to date and were well deserving of their first win.

As a result of last night's fixtures the Nationals are leading the league, American Optical and Stephens Adamson are in a tie for second place with the Lubricators in the cellar.

Stephens Adamson: Faulkner, McFee, A. Black, R. Miles, E. Walters, K Chadwick, A. Bryant.

C.I.R.: V. Weir, J. Redfern, E. Buchanan, M Morrison, C Pinkston, J Alexander, R Palmer, H. Redfern, G. Duff.

American Optical: A. Hilchon, F. Lester, A. Armstrong, N. Symons, M. Harris, F. Symons, A. Weir, T. Bryant H Woodley.

Alemites: J. Kerr O. Pinkston, P. Cole, Alexander, V. White, G. Miles.

Engaged, of which company Mr. A. E. Bundy is Chairman of the Board and Mr. Bruce Woolfe is Managing director. The Vancouver Barracks of the Mounted Police are giving the local company every assistance possible in the portrayal of the work of the "mounties" in the north country. J. P. McGowan is one of the best known directors in the industry in producing outdoor pictures, whose large they be of the typical western type or of the northwoods country. The cast of players consist of Bill Cody, Lotta Thompson, Shannon Day, Dick Maitland, Reggie Sheffield, Bob Thomas and Mr. McGowan in addition to directing the picture, will also play the part of the male "heavy."

Wayne Damron, of Catlettsburg, Ky., recently sued Edna Ferber because he bears the same name as one of the influential characters in her novel "Show Boat."

"CONFEDERATION" TRAIN TO EDMONTON ENSURES PLEASANT, COMFORTABLE JOURNEY

Canadian National Railway Officials are being congratulated on having continued the popular "Confederation" in operation between Toronto and Edmonton.

This innovation has eliminated most of the delays experienced by travellers crossing the Prairies in the Winter time as it provides a fast, through, comfortable service to Edmonton, via Winnipeg, Brandon, Regina and Saskatoon. By this route good connections are made to all important points by lines radiating from these cities.

The splendid equipment and courteous services—always a feature of the "Confederation"—ensure a pleasant journey without the discomforts of Winter travel.

DAILY AIR MAIL ACROSS PRAIRIES

Start Service Soon in Order to Alleviate the Christmas Rush

Ottawa, November 2'.--While the air mail service which the Post Office Department is inaugurating between Winnipeg and Calgary on December 10, will continue for but 19 days, it is, nevertheless, the forerunner of a daily, year-round air mail across the inner Prairie Provinces.

The service soon to be started will relieve the Christmas rush of mail than ordinary channels and give to the Dominion as a whole, and the Prairie Provinces in particular, an unusually fast service for this important time of year. However, it will also provide a complete test of cost and efficiency, and will furnish the Post Office Department with information in regard to cost and reliability on which an estimate for a permanent service can be based. This is the real importance of Christmas experiment. Unless the mail machines meet with bad luck, resulting in serious losses, the officials of the Department here are convinced that the figures on costs which will result will enable the Department to put on a permanent service without fear of incurring heavy deficits. If the experiment is a success, it is certain that the estimates for the Post Office Department next season, will contain a vote for this purpose.

MEN HAVE PRETTIER LEGS THAN WOMEN

Vancouver, B. C., Nov. (By CP)—The following letters, written by men, appeared recently in the local press.

"Women have shown us how we should dress. Men's occupations are more strenuous than women's and men should have more limbs bared than women. Men's limbs are without doubt far more beautiful than women's and girls should encourage the male population to dress like women. Perhaps public opinion is responsible for men dressing as they do. Then public opinion becomes an instrument of torture. For health's sake it is time for a change in men's dress."

And the second correspondent writes in the same strain: "If it is healthy for girls to show their legs and arms to the sunlight, why cover the boys with tweed draperies. It will be a sad day if women are ever again persuaded by the manufacturers to become travelling clothes-horses, and it is sadder to see our boys rapidly assuming that role."

It is estimated that Hollywood screen stars receive in excess of 32,000,000 letters each year.

KU KLUX KLAN LAW HELD VALID

Washington Supports Opinion of New York State Govt.

Washington, November 23.— The New York state of 1923, aimed at the rules of secrecy adopted by the Ku Klux Klan, was upheld as constitutional today by the Supreme Court of the state. In an opinion by Justice Van Decanter the high court ruled that the provisions of the statute requiring all organizations, except labor unions and benevolent orders, to give publicity to their regulations, their oaths and their memberships, and making it a misdemeanor for any person knowingly to affiliate with an organization that had failed to comply with the law, were reasonable and in the public interest.

The opinion sharply scored practices of the Klan, pointing out that a committee of Congress had brought out information tending to show that the Klan was striving "for political power," and that at times it was taking into its own hands the punishment of what some of its members conceived to be crimes. Also that mention was made in the hearings of the House committee that the Klan was conducting a crusade against Catholics, Jews and negroes, and stimulating hurtful religious and race prejudice."

The law upheld today is known as the Walker law, and was sponsored by Mayor James J. Walker, of New York, while he was a member of the Legislature.

It was attacked on the ground that it was unconstitutional, but was upheld in the New York courts. The present case came here from the New York States Supreme Court, whose opinion sustaining the statute was affirmed today.

The case was docketed as that of the People of the State of New York ex re. George V. Bryant, plaintiff in error, vs. Charles P. Zimmerman, et al.

Bryant was arrested on a charge Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, and re mained a member of it with the full knowledge that the organization failed to comply with the law's requirements with respect to publicity of bylaws, constitutions, oaths and members.

The accused sought release from a Buffalo jail on a writ of habeas corpus, contending that the Walker law was unconstitutional. The State Supreme Court discharged the writ and took occasion to emphasize that the Klan functioned at night, its members disguised by hoods and gowns, and doing things calculated to strike terror into the minds of the people."

Referring to the contention made in behalf of Bryant that the Walker law discriminated against the Klan in that it exempted from its requirements other associations with oathbound memberships, such as the Masonic Fraternity, the Odd Fellows, and the Knights of Columbus. Justice Van Devanter concluded that the distinction had been made in order to reach organizations that make secrecy surrounding their purposes and membership "a cloak for acts and conduct inimical to personal rights and public welfare."

MONTREAL PEER AS OCEAN PORT

Pres. Harbor Commission Addressed Toronto Canadian Club

Toronto, November 20— The importance of the St. Lawrence waterways to Toronto was stressed by Senator W. L. McDougald, president of the Montreal Harbor Commission, addressing the Canadian Club here today on "Some Important Phases of the St Lawrence Waterways."

As a member of the National Advisory Committee appointed to report on the St. Lawrence Waterways he spoke with comprehensive knowledge on the economic, financial, political and engineering problems involved with this proposed important development.

GOVT. SUSTAINED

of Australia, whose coalition government at the general elections on Saturday was sustained by the people, gaining by a smaller majority than it had previously enjoyed.

Senator McDougald declared that for years the Canadian people had been developing the waterway, and the completion of an improved waterway enabling vessels of 27-foot draught to navigate from the head of Lake Superior to tidewater, was an ideal that should be pursued to its attainment.

"We have seen something of the history of the St. Lawrence waterway," said the speaker. "We have seen the situation as it exists today, or will exist with the completion of the Welland Canal. We have looked at the proposed plan and I think we are agreed that it is feasible, practical, necessary and urgent. We have considered the general and incalculable benefits to be derived from the waterway in navigation and power, and I think we must agree that they are possible, and that the whole waterway project is a consummation devoutly to be wished.

"It has been a steady and progressive movement, and where is the authority that will undertake to limit the extent of the development, which should suffice to meet the demands of our growing commerce, the industrial expansion and the hopes and aspirations of a young but yearning Canada for greater and more prosperous nation?

"It is conceivable, gentlemen, that the rapidly expanding industrial and commercial needs of the St. Lawrence basin will permit five million horsepower of electrical energy and to remain much longer undeveloped, the full potent ulities of one of the world's greatest waterways."

Stung on the eyelid by an insect, St. Joseph Comignon, a botanist of Perpignan, France, died recently.

TODAY'S THOUGHT

Life and religion are one, or neither is anything.

O. MACDONALD.

A GREAT INVASION

Official estimates show that approximately eleven million people from the United States visited Ontario this year as motor tourists, spending varying periods of time in the province in their quest of pleasure and recreation. That is a tremendous invasion of the Province, a huge body of people of the fed and sheltered for from one day to ninety or more days. It means that more dollars from the United States visited Ontario this year than the whole population of the Dominion of Canada, and it is estimated that what in the province they spend about $100,000,000.

Commenting on this influx, the Kitchener Record suggests that the time is coming when people from the other side of the border will know more about Ontario by actual contact and knowledge than will the native people of the province. There is a great deal of both truth and common sense in that remark. It is apparent that the American visitors are finding this province an attractive holiday-ground, and are coming in ever-increasing numbers to explore its beauties, enjoy its roads, and find pleasure in its hunting and fishing grounds. They are doing so to a far greater extent than are the people of Ontario themselves, for, in theory, things which are close at hand are rarely so attractive as those which are at a distance. In actual practice, so far as Ontario is concerned, the reality is far different, for there is no district nor stretch of territory in the continent which could offer so wide a diversity of holiday attraction as this province. The trouble is that the people of Ontario are not sufficiently interested in seeing these attractions to seek them out as the American tourists are doing.

LEVEL CROSSING

Accidents occurring at level crossings in the first nine months of the present year numbered 242; for the whole of last year the number was 310, so that there would seem to be little, or no improvement in the situation, in spite of the efforts to reduce the risks. There are over 30,000 grade crossings in the Dominion, of which about 25 per cent. are in rural districts. That there is so little improvement in the accident rate is not due to indifference on the part of the governments or railway authorities. Hon. Charles A. Dunning, minister of Railways, reports that almost as much has been spent this year by the railways and municipalities on level-crossing protection as was spent by them for this purpose during the preceding twenty years. The federal governments will appropriate two million dollars, to be spread over the next ten years, to assist in this object, the first installation of $200,000 to be provided in the next session of parliament. So far this year the railways have spent $2,744,000 and the municipalities $2,853,000, the latter including $581,000 contributed by the provincial governments.

From these statistics it will be seen that the level crossings are costing the country a heap of money as well as exacting a heavy toll of life. The ideal solution of the problem is to do away with these dangerous crossings altogether, but that is not a practicable measure. It has been estimated that to carry out such a drastic policy in the United States would cost more than the total valuation of the railways, and though that may seem an extravagant statement, it is certain that the expense would be altogether prohibitive. The best that can be done is to make these crossings safer than they are—to take special action when called for in the way of warning and safety devices—and this is the policy which is being adopted. There are places where it is possible to improve the visibility by the removal of obstructions, and this is gradually being done. The public must give greater co-operation to the authorities. It is evident that there is still much carelessness on the part of motorists, and a willingness to take chances which ought under no circumstances to be taken. The government and the railways are doing their part; motorists should be anxious to do theirs.

EDUCATIONAL WORK

Members of the Protestant Committee of the Council of Public Instruction continue to carry on their work of educating the people of the Eastern Townships in the matter of means to be taken towards providing schooling for the children of those sections of the province, and in the manner in which the local authorities should conduct such schools. In undertaking this campaign, and in endeavoring to preach the necessity of providing for the care of a sparsely-settled population, the members of the committee are doing noteworthy public service. The situation in the rural sections of the province, notably in the Eastern townships, has presented peculiar difficulties from a Protestant point of view, and a less able and less resolute body of men might have been inclined to lend ear to a policy of drift. There was a time when the great majority of the people of the Townships were English-speaking Protestants, but that condition has been changed these many years, and the result has been to create serious difficulty in the maintenance of schools. It was found when conditions were surveyed some half-dozen years ago that there were some schools which could afford but poorly prepared teachers, the number of ratepayers not being sufficient to provide for adequate remuneration. Then came the idea of consolidation of rural schools and much has been accomplished in this direction. Some special aid was granted by the Legislature for the purpose of consolidation, and the first task was to bring the various Protestant communities into consolidations, each group of communities to have an adequate school with a properly qualified teacher, and arrangements to be made for transporting the pupils by motor buses to these educational centres.

A FEW LAST LEAVES

A few last leaves upon the trees remain,
Winter is here; from mellow autumn's fane
Yellow and pale and wrinkled in the stem,
O list how often art thou like to them
A few last leaves!

Midst springtime's fancies and through joyous May
Grey dawn broke thee to the glint of day,
Nor did'st thou reck 'midst the beek'ning refrain
Tune would deface thee all thy kingdom wane.
O few last leaves!

Winds and soft rain and heat of summer's sun
Lend to the rose a fragrance life ne'er won;
Silvered with frost and starred with crystal web
Death's lips have kissed thee tremulous and dead,
Frail few last leaves!

Poplar no more, nor balsam carry thee,
No more is heard thy music's melody;
Brier bush and tree no more thy beauty bring.
Winter is here; around her snow-flaked wing
A few last leaves.

F. F.

One of the specialists, it was found early in the proceedings, was to create the necessary public appreciation of the situation among the ratepayers, and to that end the efforts of the members of the committee are still being devoted. There can be little doubt that the success which has been achieved in the matter of consolidation has resulted in a check in the tendency to depopulate farms in the Townships, since it might be reasonably expected that were it not for the creation of the new school system many English farmers would have pulled up stakes for the cities, or gone to other provinces, or, even to the United States. Consolidation of schools has brought sacrifices in various ways, but it would appear that the work done is being appreciated, and the members of the Protestant Committee have their reward in happier communities and better prospects for the rising generation.

PROHIBITION IN JAPAN

Prohibition has become a live issue in Japan. Six thousand advocates of a national dry law recently paraded through the streets of Tokio carrying paper lanterns and streamers bearing dry slogans.

The paraders chanted their song of social reform called "Who Forgets the National Peril?" It was one of the largest demonstrations of the kind in the nation's history.

A dozen well-known labor and social leaders led the procession.

The parade arose out of a national campaign to induce citizens to adopt a "sale-less day" to vote for the prohibition of liquor sales to persons under 25 years and other reforms in the direction of total prohibition.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

HELPING EPILEPTIC PATIENTS

When you see an individual fall in a fit, or an epileptic attack, you think perhaps that such cases are rare, and yet it is estimated that about one in every two hundred individuals are afflicted to some extent. It is a most distressing ailment for the individual himself and everybody about him.

No one this ailment has been known for thousands of years, and as yet its cause is unknown.

About twenty years ago, not knowing the cause and therefore the best treatment for epilepsy, but realizing that diet had something to do with it, I washed out the stomach of a patient, two or three times a week.

During all the months this was done he did not have an attack of epilepsy.

He moved out of the city, neglected to have the stomach washed, and the attacks returned.

In 1921, Dr. H. R. Geyelin applied fasting treatment to epileptic children. In most instances the children were free from attacks during the period of fasting, but the attacks returned sooner or later after resuming the normal diet.

In 1922, Drs. M. G. Peterman and H. M. Helmholz, following the suggestion of Dr. R. M. Wilder, began using a diet rich in fat in cases of epilepsy. Last year Dr. Helmholz reported his findings after five years trial of this method.

He found that of the children suffering with idiopathic (no known cause) epilepsy, using this fat diet, 31 per cent were free from attacks and 22 per cent were definitely improved. That is 54 per cent were benefitted. The remaining 46 percent were not improved although some were helped for a time. In some of these cases it seemed to be a more intelligent expression, a more normal and agreeable attitude, and many patients were definitely less irritable, although they still had attacks.

In thirty two adult cases treated with the high fat diet, seven were cured or controlled, twelve were definitely improved, and thirteen were not helped.

Although all treatment with the diet is rich in fat should be done under a physician's supervision, nevertheless if a patient could go to an institution for a few weeks, and subject himself to the treatment, he could see if there was any improvement. If so, he could then continue the treatment at home faithfully and with enthusiasm.

The diet means that the patient cuts down on vegetables and bread and makes up for this by using butter, bacon, cream, olive oil, and cod liver oil.

Just For The Feminine Reader

TURMOILS OF THE GROWING DAUGHTER

Yesterday we were discussing one of the problems of the little girl and today we would like to talk about the big girl, the mother who has a grown-up daughter on her hands has certainly a problem to face. It must be fearfully trying to know just how much liberty to allow these daughters. If one is too strict and says: "No, you shall not do so and so," there is sure to be rebellion and if the mother continues in this way it will lead to the daughter practising deception. For the call to life and action is very urgent and the high spirits must have some outlet. Neither can the mother afford to relax her vigilance over her daughter for girls of the developing age do not know their own minds, and will chase each fancy here and there with no definite idea in mind except to satisfy their restless urge for action. In this connection it is gratifying to see the movements on foot to keep the teen age girl in healthful pursuits. The Girl Guides, the C. G. I. T. and other clubs serve a very useful purpose in keeping the young girl's mind on worth-while things, for there are too many things that lead nowhere to occupy the time and attention of the growing girl, and too few things that are really helpful. We are interested in seeing the increasing interest in sport which is manifest nowadays, for this is a healthy indication and augurs well for this generation.

HATLESS FASHION MAY COME SOON

When picture hats and Gainsborough hats were the pride of well-dressed women, theatre managers would resort to every polite device to persuade ladies to remove their cumbersome headgear. Now that the cloche and the skull cap are the fashion, the perverse creatures insist on doffing their hats wherever they go. Reports from London say that women have gone hatless into cathedrals, though not during services.

Hotel and restaurant managers there are worried, for if the custom continues dressing room staff will be hard put to it to find room for a double quota of hats. If a lady's hat is checked with the cloakroom attendant she will double tip for the attendant? If a separate checkroom is installed for the ladies, will they tip as liberally as men, who are said to average $60 a year each?

Boys and girls have got into the way of going without hats in many schools and colleges. Perhaps this fashion will be adopted by their elders in time, so that the ladies will not even wear their hats to the door of the restaurant or hotel, and the checking problem will be solved. Until then, and as long as hats must be worn very tight to the head in order to be smart comfort-loving ladies may be expected to take off their hats when dining out, whether the hats are checked or folded up and stuck in a pocket.

BAD MANNERS THE ORDER OF THE DAY?

In a recent issue of a contemporary an article appeared on the question of unaccompanied girls at dances and parties. Now that the Christmas season is approaching with its attendant festivities this question is especially to the point. Many young girls will not go to a party today without an escort and they can hardly be blamed under existing circumstances. Neither the young boys or girls who enjoy so-called popularity care in the least for anybody but themselves. They organize into groups or cliques and dance and enjoy themselves all evening, neither knowing nor caring how the other guests are making out. Many young boys come to a party alone, look the situation over as it were, and if they fail to see anyone to their particular taste, drift off again without the formality of ever approaching their hostess. Etiquette, ordinary common courtesy, does not seem to enter into their plan of things. If asked to a house party they seem to think it quite unnecessary to stay till the evening is over but gather together "the bunch" and depart to other spheres where perhaps there happens to be more excitement. There should truly be some checking up on the manners of today especially among the younger generation; it is certainly not the day of the shrinking violet.

LENORE

WHAT'S NEW

(From A Woman's Standpoint)

Dark red footwear is joining the dark blue in popularity.

Smart women often contimenis are wearing the tweed ensemble with the bright jersey blouse.

Boleros cut irregularly and falling at the back only are smart on the tiering chiffon type of dance frock.

Chanel is showing a charming brown woollen frock with pink piqua facing down the front and flower also of pink.

New York art dealers declare that etchings are giving way to oils in the decorating of very fine drawing and living rooms.

The shoulder flared coat for fall has been endorsed by fashionables at Longchamps.

Fashion is reversing the order and this season it is easier to wear a light colored coat over a black fur.

Though cross zigrettes are in again American women must content themselves with substitutes as they are illegal for wear there.

Those draped effects combined with frocks that are close-fitting over the hips and arms are loveliest in satin.

Dark blue was given special consideration for the evening gown in Fifth Avenue perhaps than any several of which are featuring it as an outstanding shade for formal occasions.

An unusual trimming on a new white satin gown consisted of two enormous crushed flowers, one of white satin and the other black velvet, which were posed at the base of the decolletage in front while a similar treatment was noted on black velvet.

CHAPTER 28

ON THE ANXIOUS SEAT

That evening, as Sheila contemplated the mass into which she had precipitated herself by agreeing to impersonate Constance Kerr, she began to see her home town and her friends there in a new light. The surroundings that had one seemed unattractive appeared to her now as a heaven of refuge.

And her friends of the old days! What solid, substantial, conscientious people they were! And Doctor Mack Was there ever a more dependable Hemphill man? How he adored, in contrast with the Count, and Carlo! It would be good to see him again, when the adventures were over, if that wonderful day ever came! She had begun to think it never would.

Now she had something else to worry about. How was she to tell Harry Edmonds not to come to Quebec? Without causing another row? But, since the Baronne, at Carlo's insistance, had said that Harry's invitation to the house-party must be withdrawn, there was nothing to do but to tell him how things stood, and that was no easy task.

Before dinner was over, Sheila had planned what she would say in her message to Harry. She would tell him that Aunt Sophie was ill at Baden-Baden and that her mother had begged her to go there at once.

"He knows that Mother is devoted to Aunt Sophie, so I'll lay it on thick," Sheila mused. "And I'll hint that I may ask him to come to Baden-Baden. That will please him. He seems to want me to keep on him. I'll tell him to wait in Paris until he hears from me. Oh, if I hope he doesn't take it into his head to talk things over with the Count. But that is hardly likely. He dislikes Bellefonte so heartily."

After dinner she went to her room, wrote the message, and took it to the Baronne, who added a flowery phrase or two about duty versus pleasure, and rang for a servant to take it to the telegraph office.

The maid who answered the summons was wide-eyed with excitement. A servant from a neighboring villa had just come from the railway station with news of the arrival of an airplane

"Two gentlemen from the north," said the girl.

Sheila turned to the Baronne.

"Something tells me we had better hold that telegram," she murmured. "There, I thought so."

Another servant had entered with a letter on a salver. "For you, Madamoiselle."

Sheila seized the envelope and tore it open. After a quick glance at its contents, she handed the note to the Baronne, who read the first line and gasped.

"Then they will be here any minute" she cried.

"Very prompt, aren't they?" said Sheila. "Harry says they met in a cafe just after we had left and Jean proposed they fly here. So they did. I suppose it was a case of one not wanting the other to get here first."

The Baronne was too stunned to speak.

"You had better break the news to Carlo," Sheila suggested practically. "His delicate nervous system won't stand the shock of seeing both Bellefonte and Harry unless you prepare him in advance."

The Baronne made a gesture of despair and left the room. Sheila laughed aloud, when the door closed after her. "All that has gone before will be as nothing compared with what I see ahead of me," she said. "Surrounded by people I don't know, but who think they know me, the object of the attentions of two men who hate each other ....not to mention Carlo.....this promises to be my most memorable house party."

She walked over to the mirror and surveyed herself critically. A bit more rouge, a touch of lip-stick and she was again ready to descend to the drawing room.

Harry and Bellefonte arrived in a few minutes. The Baronne received them coldly. Harry was embarrassed, but Bellefonte bowed in his most courtly manner. "Dear lady," he murmured, "having arrived in Canada, I could not deny myself the pleasure of seeing you at once. I said to my friend, Mr. Edmonds: 'My first call must be at the home of the Baronne de Courcy. She will pardon our running in so informally. She always keeps open house."

The Baronne bowed.

"I am most happy to be here," Harry murmured as he kissed her hand.

"And we are most happy to have you Sheila rejoined, for the Baronne had engaged some one else in conversation "What is wrong with her?" Harry questioned. "She almost froze me."

"Hush," said Sheila, "I have something to say to you."

"You are probably wondering why I flew here with the Count," he interposed.

"I certainly am. I thought you hated him."

"I do," said Harry earnestly. "And here is my reason. He has been hinting that you are engaged to him....."

"Why Harry," she protested, "I have never promised to marry him. I only said I would think it over before giving my answer."

"Well," retorted Harry, "he thinks there is only one possible answer. So I suggest that we have our engagement announced at once.....just as soon as you can get a merger in your money and father....."

"Who supposed my marrying either of you," she interrupted.

"That can be adjusted now," he said "When I tell your father how I have gotten on in business....."

"What about my promise to consider the Count's proposal?"

"Will you do this?" asked Harry doggedly. "Will you agree to the announcement of our engagement next month is over? I take it for granted you will turn him down?"

Sheila grasped at that straw. Anything for a respite. "Yes, Harry," she said, "but for Heaven's sake, do not say or do anything that will give our secret away."

"I won't be promised. It will be a limb. Oh, Sheila you have made me so happy."

"I wonder how long it will last?" Sheila asked herself. She had an omnious feeling that a crisis in Constance Kerr's tangled love-affair was about due.

EARLY QUAKERS AT SPARTA, ONT.

Sparta, Ont., Nov. (C.P.)—The Society of Friends having completed its 150th year, and the meeting-house having also its 65th anniversary, Dr. A. C. Garland of the University of Western Ontario, chose as a subject for his morning address, "My Religion," and he drew attention to the important part played by Quaker settlers in the pioneer days of Yarmouth Township, especially the district.

The fertile of the plains of South Yarmouth was known abroad early in the 19th century and Jonathan Doan decided to leave Philadelphia. He pitch ed his tent near the spot which is now the Friends' Cemetery, just west of the Village of Sparta.

The Friends had the advantage over the other early settlers in one respect and that was in regard to marriage. They could perform their marriage ceremony at home while others had to go either to Long Point, where an English clergyman was in charge, or to Talbot, before Colonel Talbot, who had the authority to perform marriage ceremonies.

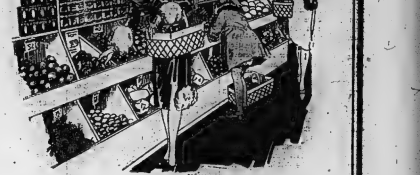

There were some fine speakers among the Friends Society, Sarah Wright Haight came from a family of

FULL REPRESENTATION EXPECTED IN BELLEVILLE HOCKEY LEAGUE

Meeting Will be Called Next Week to Discuss Future Plans

MORE TEAMS WANTED

Will Play at Old Arena This Year it is Expected

With the increasing cold weather, thoughts turn again to the reformation of the Belleville City Hockey League which functioned so well last season. There is a movement on foot for the sale of the old Arena, and there seems to be little doubt that it will be opened again, so all that remains to be done now is to have the officers for the organization last year call a meeting and draft a schedule for this winter.

There are several teams which have already announced their intention of entering a team in the City League again this year, the T's Men Club, last year's champions, and the Intelligencer Black Hawks being two who are already worth seeing, and the play-off games last year were better than many of the O.H.A. games seen here last season.

Team managers are already scouting around for new players, several of whom have migrated to this city since last winter, and even though the league this year is limited to four teams, it should be one of the best yet. Point Ann usually are entered in the City League, and as usual this year will be represented by a smart team of puck chasers, while the fourth team will either be the Alemite plant, who finished well up in the standing last winter, or the Quinte Electric fans.

Nothing has been heard as yet from the other teams in the League last winter, but if more can be induced to enter, it is understood that a league composed of two groups will be formed, the winners to play off in two games out of three. Early organization is one of the things which will make the Belleville City League the success this winter that it was last, so it is now up to the last years officials to call a meeting and get the League under way again.

BASKETBALL

The C.N.R. team now heads the city Basketball League by means of their win over the Stephens-Adamson crew last night at the Y. The Alemite came through with their first win at the expense of the American Optical and though still in last place have tied the league a little tighter.

Those games last night were two of the fastest seen in some time at the local gym. Accurate passing and fair shooting was the order of the night, and the gallery of fans, which numbered some half a hundred, certainly received their money's worth.

YOUR EYES and Our Service

By J. A. McFEE, Optometrist Belleville

It would be desirable for those who see well without glasses to consult the Optometrist?

Yes, knowing the actual condition of the eyes is desirable information.

In cases where no error of vision exists no glasses will be recommended by the Optometrist?

No. He supplies glasses only in cases where they will prove beneficial

What is astigmatism?

It is a common, detrimental and often complex error of vision. .

May it also be overcome as far sight?

Yes, a person may have astigmatism and not know it.

In what way can a person learn if this error exists?

It can be detected only in the same way as other errors—by an examination of the eyes.

PICTON DEFEATS LOCAL SENIORS

Juniors, However, Managed to Score Victory over Home Team

Last evening Belleville played its second game in the Girls' Intercollegiate Basketball League. The game was played in Picton Collegiate, with Belleville Senior and Junior teams competing against the Picton teams. The Senior game resulted in a score 44-4 for Picton and the Junior game, 17-10 for Belleville.

The senior game was fast, with Picton leading from the start. The Picton girls showed remarkable skill in team work and have yet to meet their equals in the Intercollegiate league.

The Junior game was more evenly matched with a close score throughout the first two periods. In the other period Belleville succeeded in gaining 8 points and thus defeated their opponents.

After the games, a dainty luncheon was served, in the science room of the Collegiate. A number from Belleville attended the games.

Line-up:

Senior Game

PICTON: Forwards, Georgia Minaker, Kathleen Stevenson; Jumping centre, Rhoda Clapp; Side, Marie Thompson, Capt.; Guards, Ethel Titus, Mina King; BELLEVILLE: Forwards, Leone Stafford, Margaret Chant; Jumping centre, Gladys Shennings; Sides, Ethel Reid, Lillian Naylor; Guards, Margaret Fairbairn, Capt.; Jean MacLaurin; Subs: Margaret Walker, Marjorie Moore.

Junior Game

Miss Dunlop of Queen's refereed both games.

SPORTOGRAMS

That tang of winter is in the air these days, and what are we going to do for hockey?

New management is slated to take over the old Arena, and although it is by no means a modern ice box, still, it is much better than nothing at all.

No doubt it will be a year before the citizens of Belleville become interested enough in hockey to build an artificial ice rink, so the only thing to be done now is to make the best of what is now available.

Two teams have been entered in the O.H.A., a junior and intermediate squad, and if the brand of fun we hockey is the same as was dished out up to the fans last winter the old ice palace should be packed to the rafters again this winter.

In addition to this, is a Belleville team entered in the Bay of Quinte League, which is composed of teams from Napanee, Trenton and this city. They will play for the Bert Cann Trophy, which was won last year by the Trenton Club. The Belleville team is the Intelligencer Black Hawks, who although they finished last last season, have considerably strengthened their mediate Cage squad, and the girls should show the benefit of their experience after a few games. It is hoped that a girls team can be fielded to represent Belleville in the Ontario Ladies Basketball Association from these four teams.

Y. M. C. A. BOWLING

Yesterday afternoon at the Y alleys, the Queen Alexandra school won four points from the Albert College Trechers in the Teachers League. In the first game the Queen Alexandra were up 83 pins and added another 30 to this in second game. In the last game the Queen Alexandra won also by 42 pins and the total by 155 pins. Miss McPherson of the Queen Alexandra had the high single and three string for the Ladies with 140 and 366 while for the Men, Mr. Mott also carried the honors with 233 and 514.

QUEEN ALEXANDRA: M. McPherson 456; Miss Potter 360; Miss McPherson 346; Miss Beatty 336; Mr. Mott 514; total 1812.

ALBERT: Miss Garrow 340; Mrs. Bishop 340; Mr. Hiltz 274; Mr. Neenan 371; Mr. Grimmon 322; total 1657.

CAT WORTH AS MUCH AS A DOG

Vancouver, B.C. (By C. P.)— A dog is worthy of no more consideration than a cat, in the opinion of Judge H. S. Cayley, who in county court here rendered a Solomon-like decision involving a BostonBull and a Persian cat.

James Haughton was the owner of the dog. He said that while he was driving past a grocery store, owned by Peter Pappas, his dog, riding beside him in the front seat, espied a cat and with a bound left the car and pursued it. The cat raced into Pappas' store, for it was Pappas' cat, and Pappa proceeded forthwith to defend his cat by hurling cabbages and other handy missiles at the Boston bull. One vegetable took effect and the dog retreated with a limp.

The battle was over, but the memory lingered on and when Haughton's dog was run over some days later by an automobile, Haughton decided that it was because the animal was not a spry as it used to be, and all on account of the rain of cabbages in Pappas' store. He went to law about it, and sued the storekeeper for $75.

Pappas indignantly countersclaimed. It seemed that the Persian cat at the time of the unwelcome meeting with the bull dog was about to become a mother. When the kittens arrived they were dead. Pappas valued them at $25 each and sued for $75.

Judge Cayley dismissed both claims. "The whole affair was an accident," he said in rendering judgment.

KING'S CONDITION CAUSES CONCERN

Six Men Rescued After Harrowing Experience In Lake Manitoba

HIS MAJESTY IS IMPROVED TODAY

King George Spent Restless Night According to Physicians

PUBLIC ALARMED

Prince of Wales Kept Informed by Means of Direct Bulletins

London, Nov. 23.—It was announced officially today that there was a slight extension of mischief in King's lung. The bulletin issued at Buckingham Palace at noon said His Majesty passed a restless night, but his strength was maintained. Sir Stanley Hewett and Lord Dawson of Penn, the King's physicians who went to the Palace at 10 o'clock, signed the bulletin.

While the bulletin contained a reassurance as to the Kings condition, the strength of public anxiety was not allayed. It was recalled that King Edward's fatal illness started with a congestion in the lung.

London, Nov. 23.—Lord Dawson, one of King George's physicians returned to Buckingham Palace shortly before noon to see his Majesty.

London, Nov. 23.—King George, ill with lung trouble that developed from a cold was able to obtain some rest this afternoon.

It was announced this afternoon that the Prince of Wales was being kept informed of his father's illness.

London, Nov. 23.—Dr. Stanley Hewett physician to King George, was recalled to Buckingham Palace late last night.

Lord Dawson, also of the Palace physicians staff, was also summoned and it was understood that a third doctor had been sent for.

The cold from which the King has been suffering has developed into a slight congestion of one lung. A bulletin issued last evening by Dr. Stanley Hewett and Lord Dawson, the King's physician, said:

"The King had rather a restless day owing to the persistence of fever. There is some congestion of one lung."

At Buckingham Palace it was evident that the condition of His majesty's today had caused some anxiety. The fact that no official bulletin had been issued in the morning, led the public to believe that the cold was following a normal course. The unexpected nature of the night report caused bunting comment among the crowds gathered outside of the Palace to await the evening announcement.

PRINCE EDWARD MASONS RETURN

Watertown, N.Y., Lodge Entertained Visiting Canadian Brethren

A number of brethren of Prince Edward County Lodge No. 14, A. F. & A. M. went to Watertown, N.Y., on Wednesday evening, to pay a fraternal visit to the Watertown Lodge. They were accompanied by the District Deputy Grand Master, C. W. Herby, who delivered the address of the evening.

The party was most hospitably entertained by the Watertown brethren and invited to pay a visit at a future date. This is the only Masonic Lodge in Watertown and boasts a membership of nine hundred and fifty. The Craft has a magnificent temple which is one of the outstanding architectural achievements in Watertown. The party from Picton was headed by Clifford Cooper, Master of the Lodge and a number of Past Masters in the Craft.

MAROONED CREW FINALLY RESCUED

Winnipeg, Nov. 23.—After hours of struggle through the heavily packed ice floes, the rescuers yesterday reached the six Lake Manitoba fishermen who had been marooned on a barren island three miles from shore since Tuesday. Five of the men were swept out into the lake by the gale while fishing on the ice file Tuesday and the sixth set out in a small boat to the rescue. The heavy storms and fogs prevented the searching operations until yesterday. The men were in good condition when rescued but were running short of food.

CAPTAIN LAUDED LATE COMMANDER

Says He Considered Carey A Fine Seaman; Life-boat Launching

New York, Nov. 22—Expressing unwillingness to criticise a dead man, Captain William Banbra, former master of the foundered steamer Vestris, testified today that he would have started launching the lifeboats when the ship showed a list of 30 degrees.

Captain Banbra said he had known Captain Carey of the Vestris about 20 years and considered him an excellent seaman.

Joseph Bozill, negro fireman on the Vestris, testified that the ash hopper in the steamer's engineroom began to leak a day and a half before the ship sank and he saw no efforts to repair it.

Bozill was the first witness of the day at the Federal hearing into the disaster, which cost more than 100 lives, off the Virginia Capes ten days ago.

He said that the Vestris began to list a week ago Saturday night. A few hours after leaving New York for South America. He had noticed a similar list however, on previous voyages. About 10 o'clock Sunday morning, he said, water began to pour from the ash hopper. The ship sank about 2 o'clock Monday afternoon. So much water came in from the hopper, he continued, that the stokehold floor was awash and the fires had to stoke standing deep in water.

Water also poured into the stokehold, he said, from a half door, which, other witnesses have testified, leaked constantly.

When he went on duty at midnight Sunday, Bozill continued, the water had stopped one of the ship's three main engines. The Stokers had to be held up as they shovelled because of the ship's list.

The witness said he went to a lifeboat on the portside which was then being filled with passengers, men and women. The boat would not go all the way to the water, he said, because the falls were not working, so he and another member of the crew cut it loose with their knives.

LOWER RATES ON OCEAN VOYAGES

Agreement Expected Between Steamship Companies and Govt.

Ottawa, November 23.—A conference on cheaper ocean rates for British immigrants is expected will be held in London tomorrow, when it is expected, an agreement will be reached between the two governments and the steamship companies. The meeting was scheduling for today but has been postponed, according to cable to the Immigration Department from W. J. Egan deputy minister.

A ten-pound third-class rate is being urged by Mr. Egan to stimulate the movement of immigrants in Canada. The reduction would effect all who are unable to qualify for the two pound rate applicable to household and farm workers under the Empire settlement scheme. The present steamship fare is $91.15.

The present position of negotiations has not been disclosed. It is understood, however, that the transportation companies are unwilling to make any substantial reduction owing to decreased business resulting from the operation of the quota law in the United States. Officials here have declined to discuss the possibility of a subsidy being granted by either or both governments.

ACTIVE DAY ON STOCK MARKET

Many Issues Soared Thirty Points Today—Closed Saturday

New York, Nov. 23.—The stock market turned a complete somersault on a record breaking turnover today. The tremendous accumulation of overnight buying orders send the prices of many issues soaring 10 to 15 or 20 points in the early trading but a swift selling movement just before mid-day cut down or wiped out many early gains and sent the number of issues one to five points below yesterdays final quotations. Brisk recovery was in progress in the early afternoon.

Despite the elimination from the tape of Thursday left all records far struck a baggy, causing considerable damage. Brani refused to make any concessions with the result that their charges follow.

Toronto, Nov. 23—Mrs. R. B. Bennett and Miss Mildred Bennett attended the Royal Winter Fair this morning as the Conservative leader left this afternoon for Ottawa.

INQUEST WAS OPENED TODAY

At Tickell's Undertaking Parlors

WAS BACHELOR

Slipped Into Conveyor of Drier-Room at Canadian Industrial Alcohol

Edward Foley, a native of Stoco, who resided at 32 Bowell St., died last night in the Belleville Hospital about seven o'clock, due, it is understood, to injuries received when he slipped and fell into a conveyor at the Canadian Industrial Alcohol plant at Corbyville yesterday afternoon about one-thirty.

Mr. Foley had been working at Corbyville for a little over a year, and was thoroughly familiar with the machinery on which he was engaged. The nature of the accident is unknown although he was conscious almost to the time of his death. He was brought to the Belleville Hospital by the City Ambulance in charge of Police Sergeant Booth and Sergeant Thatch, and was attended by Drs. Faulkner and Morgan.

It was determined that his injuries were of a very serious nature, his left leg having been lacerated and badly mangled almost to his hip, with the consequence that his leg had to be amputated. The operation was performed about three-thirty, after he had been given last rites of the Church and had made his Will.

The deceased man suffered greatly from loss of blood, as it was some time before the flow could be stopped, and although always conscious, he suffered intense agony. He was aged thirty-five years, and both his parents are dead, while he was a bachelor.

This morning at eleven o'clock, the Coroner's Jury met in Tickell's Under taking Parlours to inquire into Foley's death. Very evidence was taken from Sergeant Truesch and Ridley Cole, Undertaker, the jurors viewed the body. Joseph Truesch, aged 27 Church St., identified the remains as those of Edward Foley, who was employed at the Corbyville plant, and who boarded with Lebarge's parents, on Bowell St.

The inquest was then adjourned until the 27th of November, next Tuesday, when it will be resumed at the Police Court at eight o'clock.

The jurors are as follows:—R. H. Ketcheson, foreman; Samuel Weddon, William Dickson, Richard Hubbin, W. Thompson, J. Lafferty, and Frank Barrett. Police Sergeant J. Truesch and Provincial Constable Hammer are investigating the cause of death.

NO INQUEST IN WOMAN'S DEATH

Hamilton, Ont., Nov. 23.—Chief Coroner Rennie today issued a death certificate in the case of Mrs. Roy Griffiths, that death was due to self-inflicted poisoning by potassium cyanide. There will be no inquest. Mrs. Griffiths was found in the bed with she and her husband were drinking when the husband from whom she had been separated called to see her. Griffiths noticed the taste and stopped drinking in time, to save his life.

EIGHT BANDITS WERE SENTENCED TO DEATH

Koroteen, Ukraula, Nov. 23—Eight bandits were sentenced to death and when forty-two men were tried for a number of holdups and murders. The other defendants were sentenced to various prison terms.

TODAY'S THOUGHT

Rest is sweet after strife.
MEREDITH.

HOOVER AND GUARDS

Already, Herbert Hoover has had a taste of the loss of personal freedom that goes with election to the presidency of the United States.

On the day after election he found his Palo Alto home guarded by several unobstrusive, capable-looking men in civilian clothes. These men will watch over him until he finishes his term in the White House. They are American secret service operatives, charged with the safety of the president, and in recent years it has been decreed that the president-elect also must have their protection.

A number of presidents, notably Roosevelt and Harding, grew tired of this eternal vigilance, and delighted to outwit their guards. But the surveillance is necessary, for all that. Mr. Hoover cannot escape it. It is one of the prices he must pay for his elevation.

WHISPER OF LIFE

An increase of $200,000,000 in the total of trade of Canada in the last seven months is almost startling, even to those who have nothing but unwavering faith in the future of the Dominion. The total amount for the seven months is $787,000,000. The chief increase was in the export of wheat which jumped from $163,000,000 to $337,000,000. This is only additional evidence that wheat is king in this new land of promise. Newsprint and lumber can stand their share of prosperity to the total. These figures assist in explaining why the Canadian dollar is at a premium in New York. And yet United States store keepers want to discount our money from 20 per cent. upwards.

SENT BOY TO JAIL

If an 18-year-old boy, arrested for robbery, should escape from jail and run home to his mother, you would hardly blame the mother if she should help him make his escape good. It would be easy to understand how her love could overbalance her knowledge that he really ought to pay for his crime.

But an Illinois youth of that age, jailed in Kentucky for robbery, escaped and went home—and his mother sent him back to jail. He reappeared at the jail a day or so later, saying his mother had told him to return and "take his medicine" and lead a better life thereafter.

That young man's mother evidently was a lady of considerable strength of character. She refused to give way to unwise sentimentalism when she could have been easily excused for doing so.

STRENGTH OF THE O. H. A.

Despite the inroads of professional hockey promoters, the Ontario Hockey Association continues to be the biggest amateur sport organization in the Dominion, and the enthusiasm and interest shown at the 29th annual meeting on Saturday are welcome to all who realize what a part the association plays in the winter life of the Province.

From the viewpoint of entertainment alone the people of Ontario would be lost without the hockey matches that are such a prominent feature of the winter program.

Hockey under the O. H. A. banner not only contributes entertainment for the community and healthful recreation for the players, but it adds to civic spirit and builds up community pride.

The O. H. A. has a very real place in public interest in Ontario, and it is fortunate that its affairs have been so well managed for nearly two score years that today finds the combination big body stronger and more powerful than ever.

The number of teams and players coming within the jurisdiction of the association guarantees hockey in all parts of the Province and presages a banner year for Canada's national winter pastime.

PASSING YEARS
(From The Intelligencer of this day 30 years ago)

Mr. William McIntosh is confined to his bed through illness.

GRANDMOTHER'S SPECTACLES

Grandma awakened from out of her nap
As tiny mais tenderly laid on her lap
A handful of violets, wet with the dew
"Look Grandma! see what I've gathered for you!"
Grandmother whispered, "Dear one, 'tis thus,
God sends His message of springtime to us"

"Give me my spectacles, sweetheart" said she,
(The curls shyly jostled each other with glee.
"Maybe I was nodding— they fell I suppose!"
The maid said, "Why granny, they're there on your nose!"
The saucy wee corkscrews like bottle sweet lasses
Danced over and under old Grandmother's glasses.

Grandmother's spectacles, strangely to say,
Are wonderful glasses — often they stray
From the dear little eyes with the twinkle of love
That gaze underneath them peep from above,
Sometimes, sometimes a sparkling they go
And flirt with grandmother's tresses of snow.

The maid held the blossoms as Grandma inhaled
Their dainty perfume—her face slowly paled.
The curls lay in silence as though in surprise
At visions arising to Grandmother's eyes.
Violets! Violets! Winter is past.
Spring dawns on Grandmother's glasses at last!

A wife likes to be regarded as something more than a piece of furniture; and if at times the husband goes so far as to put his arm around her and draw her lips up to his and tell her that he still loves her, all the better. A great many husbands seem to think that love once set in motion will go on forever. They discover too late that it was a delicate flower which has faded because they forgot to water it with attention.

HAVE YOU HEARD THESE?

Aunt: Won't you have another piece of cake, Tommy?

Tommy (on a visit): No, thank you. Aunt: You seem to be suffering from loss of appetite.

Tommy: That isn't loss of appetite. What I'm suffering from is politeness!

Mrs. Jones: What! You're going to sell out and marry that 'ard-up lodger of yours? What on earth are you going to live on?

Mrs. Flynn: Sure, we'll be all right. The poor fellow owes me enough to keep us in comfort for years.

She Gained Weight With McCoy's Cod Liver Extract Tablets

You remember of course—not so long ago she was a regular scarecrow—skinny is a mild word for the way she looked.

Just look at her now—if ever a woman had a perfect figure she has it—she is the envy or near the girls in town.

It's nothing to get excited about—all she did was to take on weight—filled out the hollows in face, neck and chest—any skinny, weak, run down woman can do the same and gain a clean, clear complexion at the same time.

McCoy takes all the risk—Read this ironclad guarantee. If after taking 6 sixty cent boxes of McCoy's Cod Liver Extract Tablets or 2 one dollar boxes any thin, underweight man or woman doesn't gain at least 5 pounds and feel completely satisfied with the marked improvement in health—your druggist is authorized to return the purchase price.

That Body of Yours
By James W. Barton, M.D.
SAFE AND SANE REDUCING

Once in a while you see an advertisement showing a well built woman with one beside her thin and scrawny. The picture is advertising a preparation to increase weight.

However, for every one of such you are likely to see ten advertisements advertising preparations that will reduce the weight.

In other words, there is no question now but that as a people we have awakened to the fact that the present weight of adults, middle aged folks in any case, is fifteen to twenty five pounds above normal.

Now what about this reducing business?

It is certainly gratifying that we recognize the fact of this over-weight and are attempting to do something about it, but the method employed by many individuals is a great mistake from a health stand point.

They will attempt to live on a little fruit juice for a goodly period of time with the result that the entire system, including heart, blood, and blood pressure, get near and even past the danger point. There have been a considerable number of cases of collapse from this method.

And yet this method of fruit juices, used intelligently and moderately, along with other means, can be of great help in getting off weight. Other methods, such as the use of preparations containing thyroid extract, are positively dangerous, except in those few cases, one in a hundred, where the glandular glands are not doing their work completely.

The Presbyterian Hospital in New York, recognizing the need of reducing weight in these overweight folks, took over the treatment of 600 cases within a period of a few weeks.

Two hundred patients have reported fifteen pounds, and in all cases exercise and dieting have been the twin reducers.

The exercise prescribed is a daily walk of two miles within three quarters of an hour, not a loitering walk, and ten minutes morning and evening devoted to calisthenics.

As regards the diet, it was simply a matter of reducing the intake of food to two thirds or three quarters of the former amount, cutting down perhaps even a little more on starches and liquids.

The results were most gratifying from all the weight loss.

These cases were under supervision of Dr. Bauman.

Remember, there is no royal road in reduction. The above method is the only one that is safe and sane.

Bran muffins

This recipe makes the best you ever ate

2 tablespoons shortening, ½ cup sugar, 1 egg, 1 cup sour milk, 1 cup Kellogg's ALL-BRAN, 1 cup flour, 2 teaspoon soda, ½ teaspoon salt, 2 teaspoons baking powder.

Cream shortening and sugar together, add egg. Stir and add sour milk. Add ALL-BRAN. Sift flour, measure and add ALL-BRAN, then milk, alternately with sifted dry ingredients. Pour into greased muffin tins and bake in moderate oven (370° F.) 30 minutes. Makes 12 muffins. If sour milk is not used, use 3 teaspoons baking powder instead of soda, omit soda and use 3 teaspoons baking powder.

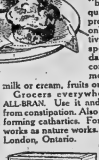

WAIT until you see those muffins as they come from the oven. Wonderfully light and fluffy—never soggy. And when you break one open and let a lump of butter melt in that tender texture, get ready for a taste experience such as you never had before. No other muffin ever had such a rich, nut-like flavor.

The fine thing about eating these wonderful muffins is the health they bring you. For that cupful of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN helps supply your eliminative system with bulk and fiber that prevents constipation. So many foods in our diet—meat, eggs, milk, sugar, fats—lack this necessary roughage.

But muffins are not the only food where you can get healthful and tasty results by adding ALL-BRAN. Put it in dressings. Sprinkle it in soups. Mix it in griddle cake batter.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is equally effective for health when eaten as a cereal. Doctors recommend it. But be sure you get the genuine Kellogg's. It is 100% bran and furnishes "bulk" in generous quantities. Part-bran products, at best, can only be part-way effective. Just eat two tablespoons of ALL-BRAN daily (chronic cases of constipation, with every meal). Delicious with milk or cream, fruits or honey added.

Grocers everywhere sell Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Use it and you'll free yourself from constipation. Also from the use of habit-forming cathartics. For Kellogg's ALL-BRAN works as nature works. Made by Kellogg in London, Ontario.

Guaranteed!
Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is sold with this definite guarantee: Eat it according to directions. If it does not relieve constipation safely, we will refund the purchase price.

Mainly About People You Know

IN SERIOUS CONDITION

Mr. N. Asselstine, 92 East Main St., who has several ribs broken in an accident at Corbyville on Wednesday, is in the General hospital in a serious condition. Dr. Cronk is in attendance.

BROKERS ENTERTAINED

The brokers of the city were forced to entertain the bankers on Wednesday evening to a banquet at the Queen's Hotel, as the result of losing a bowling tournament to the latter team. The bankers this year have swept everything before them and have one of the best teams in bowling circles.

PRESENTATION OF DIPLOMAS

The commencement exercises of Picton Collegiate Institute will be held this evening in the auditorium of the school. The presentation of diplomas, medals and cups won at sports on Field Day will take place. Good music will be provided for the evening by the school orchestra.

CAPITOL THEATRE

Patrons of the Capitol Theatre have a real treat the last half of the week in having William Haines back in one of his latest and best productions—"Excess Baggage." Its genuine comedy with pathos and thrills thrown in and is as fine a William Haines production as we have seen. The feature opened last evening at the Capitol and the large audience thoroughly enjoyed this latest effort on the part of Haines, who has become recently one of the screen's most popular features. In this gripping story of stage life William Haines is assisted by Josephine Dunn and Ricardo Cortez.

The last Episode of the "Masked Menace" is full of thrills and has a finish exciting enough to suit any one.

On the stage, an offering of songs, dances and novelties was meritorious and well received.

BOX SOCIAL SUCCESSFUL

A box social was held last evening under the auspices of L.O.L. No. 251, Hollowsy, and was a great success.

The following took part: Mrs. Harrison, Mr. Cowe, Miss Robson, Mrs. B. Clarke, Mr. Palmer and Miss Sills.

Geo. A. Reid past County Master, occupied the chair and S. J. Fisher was auctioneer.

The proceeds of the evening amounted to $92.00.

WELL-BABY CLINIC

The Victorian Order of Nurses are holding their Well-Baby Clinic this afternoon at the City Hall. As usual, it is expected that a large attendance of mothers and their children will be on hand. The clinic is held from two-thirty until four-thirty.

BASKETBALL TONIGHT

Tonight at the new collegiate, the Belleville Collegiate Senior and Junior Girls' Basketball teams will entertain the respective teams from the Napanee Collegiate. The games are scheduled to start at 7:45 and no doubt a large crowd will be on hand to see these two excellent games.

JAGEANT DANCE

A highly successful dance was held last evening in the Johnstone Dancing Academy when all those who had had parts included in the Pageant at the Belleville Fair, were invited to attend. A large number were present and dancing till the wee small hours, to the melodies supplied by the Revelers Orchestra.

NO PHONE SERVICE

Trenton telephones this morning were out of order for some time owing to the breaking of a cable in the Bridge and Pollon Station. The Mayor's office, the Fire Hall and the Police Station were all without the use of their phones for the greater part of the day.

SATURDAY NIGHT DANCE

With Everett Stephens playing the violin, "Tommy" Mason's Rhythm Kings are holding forth every Saturday night at the Moose Auditorium. This orchestra is deservedly popular in this city, and the Saturday night dances at the Moose drive some of the best crowds at dances in this city.

CHRISTMAS BAZAAR

St. Andrews Girls Club Christmas Bazaar will be held next Tuesday afternoon from 3:30 to six o'clock in the Sunday School rooms. As usual there will also be the sale of home cooking, fancy goods and candy, while tea will also be served. There seems to be little doubt that the affair will be as well patronized this year as has been the case in the past.

CONCERT OPENING

The Prince of Wales Community Club is holding the first concert of the current season this evening in the Prince of Wales School. These concerts are deservedly popular with the residents of the College Hill, and some local talent assists in making the entertainments a fine success.

The Toronto Rotarians Basketball team will invade Belleville tomorrow night in an exhibition game with the local YMCA squad. This team is a really high class aggregation of cage artists, and will make the locals step to pull out with a win. The preliminary game will be between the Loons and the Robins, two Belleville Business Girl's League Teams and should provide plenty of action for the fans.

BUYS NEW BANJO

"Tommy" Burns is the proud possessor of a new Banjo which he has just purchased from Messrs. Ludwig and Ludwig, of Chicago. The instrument has a solid gold engraved rim and arm rest with French ivory, and pearl fretmarkings. It has a wonderful fully sweet tone, which is due partly to the beautiful walnut resonator. Tommy is a member of the popular Bon Ton Orchestra, and the leader, Mr. William Wareham, believes that "Tommy" is one of the best banjo artists in this district. Upon request, the instrument will be on view tomorrow in the window of Doyle's Drug Store.

Just For The Feminine Reader

THE PROBLEM OF A GROUCHY HUSBAND.

Grouching husbands and nagging wives have both come in for their share of adverse criticism and deservedly so. It is just a matter of opinion as to which is the lesser evil. Today, however, we will consider the grouchy husband, this sort of thing always starting the life of the party outside his own home, but as soon as the guests go or he leaves the company of others the poor long-suffering wife comes in for the other side of his nature. Why did she say this? or why did she wear that dress when she knew it was too short? And if she asks for money he may give it but oh! with what bad grace. It is not so much that he is stingy but he just loves to feel that he is the lord and master. If the meals aren't strictly on time, she is late, if she dresses shabbily, he admires other women and wonders why she can't look like they do and on the other hand if she does dress well she is extravagant so what is a poor wife to do. If she is a business woman she does not take all this with Christian meekness but who can blame her if she does not. The worst side of this kind of man is that he can be so nice to others not dependent on him. Home with such a man around, loses the charm that should surround it. The children are only too anxious to seek their fun and pleasure outside where the atmosphere is more pleasant. So many people consider the home the outlet for all the bad feelings and petty annoyances of life. If half the care to promote a good impression would exercise in the home life is displayed among strangers it would be a much happier place in which to live.

IT PAYS TO ENTERTAIN AT HOME

Apropos of what we were discussing yesterday, it is the wise mother who throws open her home to the young people in it, and allows them to entertain their friends in their own home. What if the rug does look soiled the next day and the living room look as though a hurricane had struck it? These matters are of less value than the returns that will surely come in devotion, love of home and free confidence. They are here for to-short a time, these young folks, and soon the old nest is empty, the young ones have gone to feather their own nests; and it is something to have the memories of ringing laughter and happiness to think about when the evenings are quiet. There is another feature of it. Too often the parents do not want their place disturbed at night and refuse to let their daughters bring their young friends in to house to dance or sing. This forces the daughters to look outside the home for their pleasure and the loss is the parents' as well as the young people's, for one thing leads to another and if the young people start to find new interests in which their parents are not included, their confidence will go, too.

REGARDING THE ADVENT OF THE TALKIES

Talk in the shady dismay of the sound pictures. Silk hosiery rubbing together make no audible noise to those in the room proof room where the picture is being made. But when the reel is run off for a trial, a distressing rattling noise results. So bare legs become the order in sound pictures.

Stars have to wear batiste lingerie. Silk undergarments produce the same static that hosiery does. Responsible of the wardrobe mistress and director is doubled thereby. No taffeta frocks can be used at all. Silk linings must be taken out of coats. Of course jingling of beads or metal trimming is out of the question.

Recently Alice White was making a sound picture, the reputed tests of which revealed a distressing static. She protested that she was wearing nothing made of silk. But the wardrobe mistress was finally called in to pass on her underclothing and verify it.

When camera men, director, and technical staff were nearly insane trying to locate the mischief it was discovered that the static was caused by the electricity in Alice White's hair, which had been freshly washed and waved. The hairdresser was sent in and the head properly oiled, which did away with the noise.

(From A Woman's Standpoint)

The rounded, widely cut decolletage is also being seen among the season's many V decolletes.

New York reports a new vogue for lengthened evening frocks with short wraps just below the hips.

All-white is being strongly favored for the Riviera, while pastels bring into prominence notably pale greens, frequently distinguished by a yellow cast, and pale grayish blues.

Plain satin dresses, particularly those lined with a contrasting color are to be much in vogue. Soft white lined with ruby, black lined with pink, black lined with white, and white lined with emerald green are seen in gowns from Chruit, Jenny, Ytch and Premet.

A New York fashion observer says: "Colored satin footwear which reappeared in fashion last winter is much to the fore, furnishing one of the most important accessories for many off-while and pale beige satin gowns, while bright red is often worn with white frocks. Silk green with beige, and sometimes pink with pale blue, are recently at the opera, while colored satin slippers were seen with a yellow satin dress.

WANT REVIVAL SPELLING BEE

The revival of the old-time spelling bee, if it ever should become popular, asserts the Durham (Ont.) Chronicle, would be aped among the good many of us who are slipping down the ladder from lack of practice, and others of our present-day school graduates who apparently never learned.

In our opinion, the art of spelling can be learned much as anything else, though there are some who would never become proficient. It is an impossibility to make farmers out of some people, or machinists out of others, and equally hard for some of us to learn to spell; but that is no doubt all of us could greatly improve what all lines if we but put our mind to it and saw to it that we took advantage of every opportunity.

If the Cheesy Fair directors can put the old-time spelling bee on its list of special events and draw the people of that section take an interest, it will have done something worth while.

JASPER GOLF COURSE

One of the finest eighteen-hole golf courses on the North American continent is to be found at Jasper Lodge, in Jasper national park, Alberta. The entire course is set in a mountain location that provides very beautiful views from practically every one of the eighteen holes.

A Substitute for Dieting
PARTICULAR people do frown on those who "pick and choose" at the table. A "diet" is often embarrassing and always a handicap. And nine times out of ten it is unnecessary.
Try this simple experiment; see if that "indigestion" doesn't disappear from the very hour you first take Pape's Diapepsin. To restore good digestion just eliminate excess acid. A tablet of "Pape's Diapepsin" after eating or when pain is felt will instantly neutralize the acidity and banish all digestive trouble and pain.
So, do buy a 60-cent package of "Pape's Diapepsin" today. This not only means instant relief, but by soothing, healing and strengthening your weak and disordered stomach a little "Pape's Diapepsin" keeps your digestive system healthy and helps to prevent various disorders. You may have decided that nothing could give you a "strong" stomach; just make the diapepsin test!

CHAPTER 29
A PROMISE AND ITS CONSE-

Harry Edmonds was so elated at Sheila's promise that she would permit their engagement to be announced at the end of the time during which she had told the Count de Bellefonte she would consider his proposal of marriage that he left the Baronne's villa in a most exuberant mood.

Sheila had no difficulty whatever in making her excuses when the arrival of unexpected guests had so crowded the household that it would be necessary to put him up at a hotel.

The party was really small, but she could not be likely to know that, since the house was always filled with guests from neighboring villas.

The Baronne accepted the situation with a great deal of grumbling.

"Please keep him out of Carlo's way," she implored. "Fortunately, young Mr. Edmonds is one of those athletic, ball-chasing Americans, whereas Carlo likes the aesthetics of his study, so they will not meet often. If you exercise any degree of tact."

Sheila promised to do her best. However, it was with the Count and not with Harry that Carlo had to quarrel that almost brought Sheila's career as an impersonator to an end.

Several days elapsed and gone along so quietly that she had begun to feel almost tranquil. There was little word from Constance, but there had been no disquieting messages from her father and mother. Bellefonte and Harry had been exemplary in conduct.

By riding with Harry in the morning, motoring with the Count in the afternoon, and devoting herself to Carlo during dinner, Sheila managed rather well.

The Baronne told her every day how interesting Carlo found her.

"The dear boy up to every day at three o'clock," said the Baronne, "and he's all eagerness for the dinner-hour. I've never seen him show so much interest in any woman."

Sheila had a long conversation to Harry, who laughed and told her he was fortunately jealous.

The Count had brought Sheila home from a motor-ride that had taken the greater part of the afternoon, and was looking at some old prints in the study while he waited for a member of the house-party who was bound for his host's home.

Sheila had gone into the garden to see whether tea was ready. It was, and Carlo was dispensing it.

"I'll call the others," she said, starting for the house.

"No, no." Carlo stopped her with an imperious gesture. "I have something to say to you, Sheila, my dear; let tells me you are very fond of me, and I—"

"Please," she begged, the Count is waiting for me in the library. He may come here any moment."

Carlo rose, seized her hand, and kissed it.

"It is my mother's wish—" he began, but the look in Sheila's eyes caused him to pause. Then, "What is it?" he asked, and glanced over his shoulder in the direction in which she was staring.

The Count was standing at the entrance to the arbor, his face white with anger. Striding up to Carlo, he pushed him into a chair. Then he bowed to Sheila.

"This person is annoying you?" he asked.

"What is the meaning of this?" sputtered Carlo. "Get out of here, or I'll call the servants and have you thrown out. Apologize at once to Miss Kerr. You have interrupted my proposal of marriage."

"Indeed!" said the Count ironically. "How interesting! Let me inform you that I too have proposed to Miss Kerr. I am accepted, and she is now my——"

Sheila screamed. "Jean, Jean! What are you saying?"

The terror in her voice made him pause a moment. Then he finished defiantly: "my fiancee."

Even in her moment of panic, Sheila realized that some deadly enmity existed between the two men. Carlo was paying off an old score and paying it off handsomely. Carlo glared at him for a moment, then rushed into the house.

"Oh, Jean," wailed Sheila, "how could you? Think of what you've done. You've ruined everything. He'll tell the Baronne, and she'll tell father—and every one else."

The Baronne was attending a garden-party that afternoon, but Carlo reached her by telephone. She was torn between delight at having so excellent a story to tell her fellow guests, and anger at Sheila.

Although he urged her to come home at once, she remained another hour, whispering the news to every one, explaining that the announcement was probably unofficial, but true, nevertheless.

"Harry Edmonds will rave when he hears this," said one of the women. "He's mad about Constance Kerr—absolutely mad. I'll tell him when I see him at the hotel tonight."

And that explains why Harry rushed to the Baronne's villa early in the evening and insisted on seeing Sheila, who was dining in her sitting-room in solitary state.

"Leave that to me," he told her. "I'll fix that lying Bellefonte. I'll have him out here, apologizing his head off, before the evening is over. Only I've got to put up a fight. I've been longing to thrash him ever since I first laid eyes on him."

He rushed off and Sheila sat alone, wondering whether she ought to attempt an explanation to the Baronne. But she didn't feel equal to the task, so she told the servants that she was indisposed and then retired.

An hour later Harry sent her a message that drove all thoughts of sleep from her mind.

CANADIAN AID BRITISH TRADE

Content That Percentage of Goods Under Preference Duties Increased

Ottawa, November 22.—It was announced today by Hon. W. D. Euler, Minister of National Revenue, that, commencing on February 1 next, the percentage British labor and material by Canada in goods imported into this country and which could take advantage of the British preference would be 50 per cent. instead of 25 per cent., as it is now. This proposed increase in the percentage of British labr and material in goods brought into Canada is designed further to foster inter-Imperial trade, and was forecast last session in his budget speech by Hon. James A. Robb, Minister of Finance, who said, in the House on February 16:

"In order to foster Empire trade, there is a general tendency in the Dominions and the Mother Country to increase the percentage of cost of production requirements on goods receiving the benefit of the British preference. At present Canada requires 25 per cent to be Empire labor and materials. It is proposed to double this percentage. There will be similar increases on goods entering under treaty rates and the intermediate tariff."

This increase in content percentage will, after February 1, apply to goods coming into Canada from other countries with whom she has a trade treaty or convention. For example, it would be necessary for Czechoslovakia, with whom Canada has a trade pact, to certify that goods coming from that country to Canada, after February 1 next, contain at least 50 per cent. of the labor and material of that country.

UKRAINE TO AID PEASANTS

Kharkov, Ukraine, November 23.—The commissariat of agriculture has appropriated 112,000,000 rubles (approximately $60,000,000) for the aid of needy peasants. Last year's appropriation for the same purpose reached 91,000,000 rubles.

OSHAWA WOMAN GIVEN 7 YEARS

Oshawa, Ont., Nov. 22.—Mrs. Nora Chappell was today sentenced to seven years in Portsmouth Penitentiary following a conviction by a jury yesterday on a charge of manslaughter in connection with the death of Gertrude Irene Grosse. Miss Grosse died from an alleged illegal operation performed by Mrs. Chappell. The sentence was imposed by Mr. Justice Raney.

Charles Wright, of Orillia, now serving a term for jail-breaking at Whitby was sentenced to five years in the Penitentiary for an offence against a young girl.

DOLORES COSTELLO TO MARRY BARRYMORE

Of more than ordinary interest to local movie fans is the announcement of the engagement of beautiful Dolores Costello to another well known film star John Barymore; these popular screen stars are to wed shortly, and have applied in Los Angeles for a marriage license.

Co-incident with the above announcement comes one from the management of the Capitol Theatre to the effect that two of Dolores Costello's newest special features have been booked for showing at the Capitol in the very near future. One is "Glorious Betsy" and the other "Tenderloin". These two new pictures starring Miss Costello are said to be among her very best. It has always been the policy of the Capitol management to secure the better class of pictures, and so movie fans here are in for a real treat soon when the above two films appear.

COMMISSIONER RESIGNS

Hamilton, Ont., November 23—C. W. Kirkpatrick, industrial and publicity commissioner for this city, tendered his resignation to the Board of Control today. It was accepted.

The first person cremated in the United States, in accordance with his wishes was Col. Henry Laurens of Charleston, S. Carolina, who died December 8, 1792.

INDIAN STRIKEN BY BLINDNESS

St. Catharines, Ont., Nov. 22.—George Elijah Lickers, Indian who gained fame some months ago by regaining his eyesight following a brief herbal treatment after he had been released from prison because of his blindness, is blind again today.

He attributes the second loss of sight to the lifting one end of a piano two weeks ago. He lost the sight of the right eye for the second time and Tuesday following a sharp pain in his forehead his left eye ceased to function.

If hunting, unload all firearms before entering camp and do not sit or lie on the bare ground.

MAINTAIN POSITION EMPIRE CO-EQUALITY

Dublin, Nov. 22. (C.P. Cable)—The Irish Free State's future policy in regard to the British Empire is to maintain the position of co-equality expressed at the last imperial conference "and get rid of the forms which in some minds do not seem to correspond with that impression. This declaration was made in Daily Orient yesterday by Hon. Patrick McGilligan, minister for external affairs, following the announcement that the free state would open the embassies in Paris and Berlin.

The Victor Orthophonic Christmas Club now open. A small deposit will hold for later delivery. Heintzman Co., 245 Front Street.

BELLE THEATRE

The general use of automatic stokers for ocean-going ships made it nearly impossible for a motion picture to be filmed recently.

This interesting fact was brought to light when Josef von Sternberg engaged the services of the Docks of New York," starring George Bancroft, now showing at the Belle.

"When plans were all set for the "shooting" of the new Bancroft picture, I was dismayed to be informed by my scouts that there was not a single old style freighter or passenger ship in dock on the Pacific coast that used the old method of firing the boilers. As Bancroft portrays the role of a stoker, it was essential that this type of ship be used, in the picture.

REGENT THEATRE

Against the colorful historic background of Old California, Tim McCoy in "Beyond the Sierras" his latest Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer starring success, now playing at the Regent Theatre, dashes through a romantically thrilling story with the flashing blade and fiery heart of the cavalier.

A former United States cavalry officer, McCoy is in his element in the new picture, plunging through mountain tanglewoods on horseback and fighting off gun-toting plunderers with a duelist's sword.

The spectacular dueling scenes provide the climax to the gripping narrative of California in the days of the proud Spanish Dons and again emphasize McCoy's amazing versatility in acting in the great moments of drama, as well as in the tender love scenes, when he is master of characterization.

Euchre and Dance in the Evening Proved Popular Event

The Daughters of England held a very successful bazaar Wednesday afternoon. There were four stalls, the needlework in charge of Mrs. Schuyler and Mrs. Keegan; the home cooking in charge of Mrs. Savage and Mrs. Stapely; ice cream in charge of Mrs. Hilton and Mrs. Hogan; and novelties in charge of Mrs. Cousins and Mrs. Jordan. The tea room was most tastefully decorated with mums, ferns and flags, and presented a most inviting appearance. Mrs. Cook and Mrs. Lancaster poured tea. Miss Firth Miss Stapley, Mrs. Cranly, Mrs. Dreyer and Mrs. Toplis assiting. Mrs. Looker acting as treasurer after the Bazaar. Mrs. Hilton president. Mrs. Ivors, on behalf of the committee presented the convenor, Mrs. Law with a magnificent bunch of mums. These were greatly appreciated. In the evening another successful event took place the euchre and dance. Twenty six tables of euchre were in play and one of rummy. Euchre prizes were as follows, 1st prize. Mr. Soules, Mr. Gerney 2nd; and Mr. McKenna 3rd prize.

Mrs. Canter won the ladies first prize, Miss Collyer 2nd prize, and Mrs. Miller 3rd prize. The rummy prize was won by Mrs. Soules. The all tier basket was won by Mrs. Reid. Consolation by Mrs. Shepherd, luncheon cloth by Mr. Huffman, After refreshments had been served Jack Demaris acted as maid to the dance, and dancing was indulged in till one o'clock. This brought to a close an exceptionally successful day.

QUEBEC A BIG CONTRIBUTOR

The province of Quebec produced about half the paper made in Canada in 1927, and more than half the newsprint, over two-thirds of the wrapping and miscellaneous papers, over a third of the book and writing papers, and over a quarter of the paper board.

Russia in a state of intense reconstruction although hope still alive that existing political and social order everywhere may yet be overthrown.

REBELS INVADING BULGARIAN CITY

Vienna, Nov. 22.—Advices from Sofia today said, Ivan Michailoff, the Macedonian revolutionary leader was threatening to march on the Bulgarian capital. The population was stated to be panic-stricken.

Along the approaches to Petitch, Michailoff's stronghold, bodies of his murdered opponents were stated to be hanging from the trees on both sides of the road. Michailoff has been leader of the Macedonian revolutionary organization, an illegal body which is striving to fre Macedonia by force, for four years, since the assassination of Teodor Alexandroff in Vienna.

WOMAN SO NERVOUS COULD NOT SLEEP

Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Helped Her

Masson, Que.—"I was very nervous, so nervous that sleep was almost impossible and I was all run-down. I saw your ad in the paper and have taken eleven bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I could not wish to feel better than I do, and I recommend it to all."—Mrs. Delphine LaFrancoise, Masson, Quebec.

New Carlisle, Que.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for a run-down condition and it helped me. My nerves are better and I have a good appetite now. The Vegetable Compound has been of great benefit to me and I will answer letters from women asking about it."—Mrs. Willie Burtle, Jr., New Carlisle, Quebec.

ANNUAL MEETING BASEBALL CLUB

New Officers Will be Chosen Prospects Bright For Next Season

Belleville Nationals will hold the annual meeting and election of officers in the City Hall tonight at eight o'clock. Every baseball fan in the city is earnestly urged to attend this gathering as the outcome will be vital ly important to the future of baseball in Belleville. The Nationals won the Senior Ontario championship and we have the best club in the Province of Ontario right here in Belleville. The players are to be congratulated but there is someone else who should share equally in the honors won, and they are the men behind the gun who handled the business affairs of the Club. A strong Executive is a necessary adjunct to any successful organization and the officers this year have carried their duties most efficiently. In many cases the actual work of carrying on the business rests on the shoulders of three or four men and Mr. W. E. Rowsome, President; Geo. Griffin, Secretary; and the members of the Executive and Parks Board co operated to make the year a successful one. Many fans believe that so long as they attend the games in the summer and contribute their chilling at the gate their duties are fulfilled. But if everyone was content to let the other fellow do the work there would be little accomplished. Therefore it is the duty of every boost er for the game to put in an appearance tonight.

A President will be chosen and although several names have been suggested it is not known who will accept this responsible position. The members of the team will all remain in the city and it remains for the public to lend their full support.

TOM HEENEY MAY REMAIN IN RING

Challenger of Heavyweight Crown Wants to Fight His Own Style

New York, November 23.—Whether Tom Heeney, sturdy New Zealand fighter who was the loser in Gene Tunney's last appearance as heavyweight champion, retires from the ring depends on his opponents more than anything else. In his first interview since he reached New York Heeney said that he was very uncertain about continuing his ring career, but that he would like to keep on if he could fight men only suited to his style.

"I would like to keep on if I could fight men suited to me and my style," Heeney explained. "I don't mean that I want to pick opponents, but what I mean is to fight men near my own size and more closely related to me in style, fellows like Sharkey, Risko, Paulino and Dempsey, any one of the four all four of them. That would be better than if I fought some body like Tunney taller than me and given to boxing rather than fighting."

PICTON ANXIOUS TO GET BACK ON THE HOCKEY MAP

On Wednesday evening a meeting was held in the Arena for the purpose of discussing and organizing for O. H. A. and County League Hockey. There was a good attendance of prospective players and managers but more might have been present considering the fact that there would be some 84 play ers if the County League functions.

It was decided to have a County League again this year. The following officers were elected:

President—George Welch.
Vice-President—Clayton McCaw.
Sec.-Treas.—Ted Vandewater.
Executive Committee— Chas. Bedborough and Frank Gibson.

It was proposed to notify the above committee to hold another meeting in the near future to sign up the teams and to draw up rules for the ensuing season. It is expected that the following teams will enter: Kiwanis, Milford, Wellington, Consecon, Rogers and Bloomfield. An invitation is extended to other teams to enter.

A meeting for organizing the county teams has been called for Wednesday night of next week at the Arena. Managers of the various teams and as many players as possible should be present. Everyone should learn the rules and give their views on the situation.

A motion was made regarding O. H. A. hockey and it was decided to appoint a committee to go before the Kiwanis Club for the purpose of finding out if the club could father and take charge of Picton's O. H. A. Club. Bill McDowell, G. Welch and Albert Hare were appointed.

Should Picton have a team in the O. H. A.- it is probable that a coach from the Ontario Athletic Association could be secured and there is no reason why Picton cannot get back into some of the Championship races as of yore.

County League hockey went over big last season and it is hoped that from the candidates for the various teams, a good Intermediate team to represent Picton can be chosen.

Does astigmatism vary in intensity?

Yes. It is found in all degrees of seriousness like other errors.

Does the error have to be considerable before undesirable symptoms arise?

The effects of astigmatism vary in different persons with the extent of the error, and the health and temperament of the patient.

A strong, healthy person may not complain even when the error is considerable?

No. And a smaller degree may completely upset one of a more delicate constitution.

EDDIE COLLINS SUCCEEDS DUNN

Pittsburgh, November 23. — Jack Onslow, St. Louis National League baseball coach and a former Pirate coach, said here today he had accepted terms to become assistant to Tris Speaker in the management of the Newark Internationals. Onslow was said to have requested his release from the Cardinals when he learned that Bill McKechnie had been re-placed as manager.

Onslow said he had an offer to coach for Walter Johnson at Washington, but that he had received the Newark bid first.

Onslow, discussing baseball in general, said he had learned that Eddie Collins was to manage the Baltimore Internationals next season.

RECREATION BOWLING

The Barbers took all four points from the O.B.C. in a league game at the Recreation Alleys, the winners rolling up a nice total score of 2321 against the O.B.C's 2092. Truaisch and Laurin rolling the best games. O. B. C.—Roberge 342; Belisle 621; Manuel 391; Duranleau 533; Lour in 522; total 2092.

Barbers—Wright 464; Scott 487; Symons 524; F. Symons 519; Truaisch 527; total 2521.

In the Ladies League the Turn Ups were just a little too good for the Ramblers and won all four points, the last game being close when the Turn Ups won this by 7 pins. S. McIlmoir and A. Kelleher were the best bowlers.

Turn Ups—S. McIlmoir 518; E. Scott 372; J. McIlmoir 406; C. Crull 389; P. McIlmoir 452; total 2171.

Ramblers—L. Reid 321; P. Woy 332; M. Bliaird 372; A. Kelleher 459; M. Kelleher 358; total 1852.

In a Junior League game the Stevens-Adamson won three points and the Peerless Gas won one, both teams rolling up some nice scores. Marsh with 633 was high for the S. A. while Jeffery was the best for the Peerless.

Stevens-Adamson — Ehler 494; Young 507; Carter 563; Marsh 633; total 2775.

Peerless—Shield 437; Jeffery 524; Hookway 378; Evans 474; Shappee 526; total 2335.

C. Allen was the best bowler in the afternoon league for this week and wins the weekly cup.

OFFICIAL INQUIRY ENTERS SEVENTH DAY

New York, Nov. 22—With the Federal inquiry into the sinking of the Vestris entering the seventh day today the officials said they were still in the dark as to the cause of the disaster which claimed more than a hundred lives.

"How a thousand tons or more of water got into the ship beyond what was pumped out is a mystery still deep all this testimony" said Capt. J. A. Jessup, United States nautical adviser to inquiry.

Death And Destruction In Wake Of Severe Gale In Western Europe

WARM TRIBUTES TO CAPT. HARPER

Friends Gave Farewell Dinner to Young Banker on His Promotion

MADE PRESENTATION

Officers of Bank of Montreal Joined With Friends in Felicitations

Surrounded by a group of about sixty of his friends, Captain Allan D. Harper, M.C., the most popular of the younger men of the City, said his official farewell to Belleville last night. The farewell dinner was a spontaneous affair sponsored by men who have been associated with him in business and social ways and was designed as a tribute to Capt. Harper and an expression of regret on his leaving for Toronto.

There was little of studied formality in evidence at the Quinte Hotel last night. Mr. G. A. C. Weir, Manager of the Bank of Montreal, was toastmaster and at the head table with him and the guest, of honor were the distinguished out-of-town guests and others who were to speak a few words. Major E. C. Norsworthy, D.S.O., M.C., Assistant General Manager of the Bank of Montreal with supervision of Ontario Branches, came down from Toronto to do honor to an old friend as well as a valued servant of the Bank. Mr. W. J. Hume, President and General Manager of Hiram Walker & Sons, Limited, motored from Windsor to be present and Mr. George C. Biggar, of Cassels, Biggar, Turner and Crawford, of Toronto and Mr. George H. MacArthur Collector of Inland Revenue at Toronto came to pay tribute to their friend. And, of course, Mr. W. E. Ireland, M.P., for West Hastings was also present for whose member would be complete without genial "Billy" Ireland.

The toast list was short and so were the speeches. As well as the out-of-town men mentioned Mr. Robert Tannahill, late Manager of the Bank of Montreal, Mr. W. C. Mikel, Dr. Faulkner and Mr. Freeman Ketchen on gave brief but sincere eulogies of the guest of the evening.

Fleeing Presentation

A pleasing feature of the evening was the presentation of a fine watch to Captain Harper which was engraved fittingly "From some of his Friends of Belleville." The presentation was made by Mr. W. Schuster who simply explained that it was meant to remind Captain Harper of many men who would miss him in their daily life in Belleville.

It was plainly difficult for Allan Harper to respond to the enthusiastic toasting he had received but he did manage to express his sincere appreciation of the friends laughter and cheered him again.

Following dinner the party moved over to the Belleville Club where it was continued well on into the morning. The Ben Trovato Orchestra played before, during and after dinner and "Sandy" Burrows handled the singing as well as his service cold would permit.

Brilliant Wedding Recent

Allan Harper came to Belleville about sixteen years ago to learn banking under Mr. Tannahill's direction. He was one of the first to join up at the outbreak of the War and went overseas at the old 39th Battalion. His war record has been told before. His came back to Belleville with the Military Cross but, suffering from severe injuries which for years, were a serious handicap, the Bank of Montreal, as Mr. Norsworthy said last night, would have promoted him before this but for the only request permitted him to remain in Belleville until he was completely recovered from his war injuries.

Few men have carried out of Belleville as warm a personal regard from hundreds of citizens as Allan Harper takes with him to Toronto. A gallant soldier, a sound banker and a good fellow always, he will be missed in many phases of life here and it is to be hoped that he will visit Belleville as often as possible.

MINISTER OF AGRICULTURE WILL OFFICIALLY OPEN SCHOOL HERE

Hon. Howard Ferguson Sends Regrets at Inability to be Present.

Toronto, Nov. 19, 1928.

The Hon. John S. Martin, Minister of Agriculture for Ontario will officially open Belleville's New Collegiate and Vocational School on Wednesday, December 12th. Mr. John Ellett, chairman of the Board of Education announced to the press today. It will be remembered that it is the Hon. G. Howard Ferguson was unable to attend the opening, and the following is the letter that he sent to Mr. Elliott:

Dear Mr. Elliott—

I am just in receipt of your very kind letter of the 17 inst. I can assure you it is a matter of great regret that I find myself unable to carry out my own wish, as intimated to you some time ago, that I should be present to officially open the splendid new educational institution you have erected.

However, I will be glad to urge Mr. Martin as you suggest.

Kindest regards,

Yours very truly,

(Signed) G. H. FERGUSON

Mr. Elliott was in Toronto this week and was successful in getting Mr. Martin to officiate at the opening. The opening itself will be one of the red-letter days in Belleville's history.

PAID FINE FOR LEAVING SCENE

Frank Montona's Stirring Plea Failed to Convince Cadi

WAS WARNED

Joseph Mahone Is Ordered to Dispose of Anti-quated Flivver

Two cases of leaving the scene of accidents were heard by Magistrate Mikel this morning, the first being that of Joseph Mahone, Indian. He pleaded guilty to the offense and was remanded five sentence for one month.

Mahone struck another car on Bridge street driving it up on the sidewalk in front of the Bank of Montreal, doing damage to the extent of some twenty-five dollars. Mahone's car was worth only thirtyfive dollars when he bought it. Mr. Mikel decided that Mahone was not a fit person to drive a car, so ordered him rid himself of his auto, which Joseph promised to do as soon as he could get the money to appear on the charge of leaving the scene of an accident. He put up a vigorous defence, which, sad to say, was hardly intelligible to the Bench. Montana's car, while temporarily impaired, carried him away into bursts of volubility, which, however, had little bearing on the case.

Richard Maracle, the complainant in the case, struck the 21st of November. He had been riding his bicycle on Pinnacle street, and was in the act of turning out on Dundas when the accident occurred. Montana the adjused man had cut in front of him and as he Maracle could not stop, he had collided with the side of Montana's car. The wheel had been smashed, and he had been thrown forcibly to the pavement where he was picked up and taken into a service station. At the time he was unconscious and the extent of pain was not there when he regained his senses.

George A. Reid was the next witness called, and corroborated that he had stopped Montana after the accident and told him he should wait for the police and make a report as it was a serious infringement of the law if he did not. Montana told him that he had an engagement and proceeded on without waiting for the police. Montana acknowledged that he had hit he was the man who was driving the car.

Chief Constable Ernest and Sergeant Stern said that they were in the car at the time the accident was supposed to have occurred, but they were not aware that they had been struck. They felt no bump. Magistrate Mikel found Montana guilty and he was assessed the minimum fine, twenty-five dollars and costs. Counsel Arnott, appeared for the accused.

LIQUOR PERMIT IS ORDERED SUSPENDED

Homer Minetle was arrested last night on a charge of being intoxicated in a public place. This morning he was fined fifteen dollars and costs. His permit showed that since the 16th of November Minetle, in this beverage had 12 bottles of wine, 4 of spirits and a large quantity of beer. His permit was suspended for a month with the recommendation that it be cancelled.

HYDRO OFFICIALS TO SPEAK HERE

City May Absorb Electric Power; Hon. R. J. Cooke Coming

The annual Chamber of Commerce banquet will be given at the Queen's Hotel next Tuesday, November 27th, and will be of great interest to every citizen of Belleville. It is this banquet the question of the city absorbing the Hydro Power is to be discussed in its entirety and two noted speakers in the persons of the Hon. Robert Cooke, M. P. P., and T. H. Hogg, chief engineer of the Hydro Commission will address the gathering.

The conference banquets have always been interesting, but the one on Tuesday evening promises to be one of the most important ever held in the city.

80 YEARS OLD

Veteran Parliamentarian Is Confined To His Home in the Capital

Ottawa, Nov. 24.—Rt. Hon. W. S. Fielding is 80 years old today. The veteran statesman who for many years was Canada's Finance Minister, is confined to bed in his home, here but his condition is somewhat better than during the past week. Congratulations from all parts of Canada poured in on him yesterday and today.

FIVE OF BOARD SEEK RE-ELECTION

Practically All Members Will Ask for People's Support

Six trustees of the Board of Education have completed their three year terms this year, and as far as is known at present, five of them will stand for election.

The exception is Mr. Arthur Mc-Cole, from Ketcheson Ward,—who announced to The Intelligencer today that he would not run again. "No", he said" I am dropping out this year."

The trustees whose time is up, include Mr. F. E. Anderson, of Foster Ward, who would not state this morning whether he would stand for re-election or not. Mrs. Agnes Peter, Sampson Ward, who said that she would stand for re-election. Arthur Jones, in Baldwin Ward, who will go to the people seeking another three year term; Mr. W. J. Graham, in Bleeker Ward, who could not be located today; Mr. James—R. Weir, Coleman Ward, was not at home when the reporter called, and Mr. E. A. Cecil, of Murney Ward, who is again a candidate.

Besides these named, Mr. H. W. Ackerman and Mrs. Flamank Boyes, appointed by the city, have completed their terms this year, Mr. H. P. Ketcheson is going in to Ketcheson Ward, succeeding the late Colonel E. D. O'Flynn, who passed away before his term was completed.

Whether Belleviliians appreciate all that the Board of Education has done for the city in erecting a new Collegiate Institute will be determined this election.

DR. LAMB WILL RESIGN POSITION

Montreal, Nov. 24.—Dr. A. S. Lamb, President of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada, Secretary of the Canadian Olympic Committee and Manager of this year's Canadian Olympic team, is going to sever his connection with these two bodies, his resignation to take effect at the close of the convention of the A.A.U. of C. at Port Arthur in December. Dr. Lamb has been prominent for a long time in the athletic officials of both bodies.

NINE YEAR OLD BOY FRACTURED HIS LEG

Little nine-year-old Raymond Lundberg, 149 Bridge street west, was admitted to the Belleville General hospital this morning suffering a fracture from a fractured leg. It appears that Raymond was swinging on a door at his home when he fell, breaking the limb in question. He was rushed to the hospital by the city ambulance and placed under the competent care of Dr. Faulkner.

THE WEATHER

Fresh to strong west to northwest winds, fair today and Sunday, northwest wind fair and little colder.

Traffic Is Held Up All For The Want Of Sturdy Harness

Late motorists blew their horns hastily and traffic policemen puzzled their heads as to the source of trouble while traffic was held up for some minutes this morning from the Market Square to Campbell St. The cause of it all was one innocent farmer and his team of horses.

Fate, as is so often happens, frowned at the inopportune moment on him, and one of the traces of the horses' harness broke just as he reached the Market. Further progress seemed to be impossible until the broken part was mended, so with all due dispatch this was done. But in the meantime, owing to the congested condition of Front Street on a Saturday morning, some eighty or ninety automobiles were impossible to progress farther too, and so spent the time in blowing their horns at the innocent animal. Quite an orchestra was the result until the faulty harness was repaired.

STEADY IMPROVEMENT IS NOTED IN HIS MAJESTY'S CONDITION

SORRY TO PART

Capt. Allen Harper, M.C.

Account cant of the Bank of Montreal here who has been promoted to a responsible position in the Toronto offices of the bank. A group of his friends gave him a farewell banquet at the Quinte Hotel last night.

G. WEEKS GIVEN BRONZE MEDAL

Pulled Colleague Away from Live Wire at Trenton Power House

Mr. George Weeks, Operator of the Hydro sub-station at Trenton was the recipient of a bronze medal yesterday in recognition of his presence of mind and courage in saving the life of a fellow worker about two months ago. Mr. Don Carles and Mr. Alexander made the presentations, at the Hydro office in the Bank of Montreal Building.

The medal was made from copper that was used to build the first transmission ever built in Canada. The accident where Mr. Weeks was recognition for his quick thinking happened at the sub-station at Trenton when one of the workers slept accidently touched a live wire and was rendered unconscious. Mr Weeks pulled the man away from the wire and applied resuscitation with the result that in about fifteen minutes the man was restored to such an extent that although he later was taken to the hospital for some days he was finally applied by Mr Weeks undoubtedly saved his life. The Canadian Electric Association again showed their recognition of heroism in their employees.

TRIPLETS BORN

Hamilton, Ont., Nov. 24.—The first triplets in 22 years were born last night to Mr and Mrs James J. Kelly. The babies are all girls and are reported to be doing well.

FINEST APPLES IN P. E. COUNTY

Apples grown in Prince Edward County were awarded first prize at the Royal Winter Fair which is being held in Toronto and the exhibition captured the Govt. diploma for the finest apples grown in the Province of Ontario.

A citizen of Belleville who visited the Winter Fair this week stated that it is the most magnificent undertaking in this kind that he had ever seen. He was astounded at the wonderful display he said. "I did not realize" he continued "to see that our sister county had carried off the honours from so many counties throughout the province.

Steadily Improvement Is Noted In Health of Sturdy Harness

King George Suffering from A Congestion of the Lung

PLANS UNCHANGED

Royal Household Not Alarmed Despite Physician's Report

London, Nov. 24.—An official bulletin on King George's condition late this afternoon and His Majesty had maintained improvement noted in the morning, his condition remaining the same.

London, Nov. 24.—An official bulletin on King George's condition today said he had a fair night, and his improvement is maintained. The King is suffering from congestion of lung accompanied by pleurisy.

London, Nov. 24.—After passing a fair night, King George had improved today although for the first time it became known that pleurisy was present. The announcement of improvement in the official bulletin at noon gave further relief to the public anxiety. The presence of pleurisy, the word "pleurisy" in the physicians report, members of the Royal household gave no sign of any additional concern.

It is understood that pleurisy in the King's type of lung condition is nothing out of the ordinary and no cause for anxiety.

The visit of the Kings physician, Lord Dawson of Penn and Sir Stanley Hewett to the palace today lasted two hours. The lack of anxiety in the Royal camp is also indicated when it was announced that the queen would attend the Royal Choral Society's concert at Albert Hall this afternoon. Word was passed out that His Majesty is maintaining excellent spirits.

On Shooting Expedition

Dares Salaam Tanganyika Territory, Africa, Nov. 24.—The Prince of Wales is on a shooting expedition in the Dareda district, two days distant from Kondoa Irangi where the Duke have not been changed by the illness of his father, King George. He expects to leave Dodoma for Mombasa, Northern Rhodesia, next Thursday or Friday. The Duke of Gloucester is shooting in the vicinity of Lake Rukua and is making for Chimbesi River. He expects to meet his brother at Livingstone, northern Rhodesia.

ADJUSTMENTS OF HIGHWAY COSTS

City and Country Representatives Met at Shire Hall Yesterday

Yesterday afternoon at Shire Hall, a meeting of representatives of County representatives was held to discuss the matter of the Corbyville Highway with the object of adjusting the share to be borne by the City and County. The City was represented by Mayor Ketcheson, W. A. Woodley, A. B Collins, the City Engineer Chas. D. Campbell, and the City Solicitor, W. B. Black. The County representatives were: Warden S. B. Rollins, County Clerk W. H. Hunter and two County Councillors, Mr. J. O. Herity was present on behalf of the Suburban Area Roads Commission. The auditor's statement was thoroughly examined in detail and it was finally the unanimous opinion of those present that the report should be handed back to the auditors for revision.

WINS MANY PRIZES AT WINTER FAIR

Among the hundreds of poultry exhibitors at the Toronto Royal Winter Fair this week is Mr. Saunders breeders of this city who in the word of poultry fancier 'has cleaned the decks and left nothing for the rest.' Mr. Shrahams. Mr. Saunders is receiving the congratulations of his many friends in the province and country at large; 2nd Cock bird; 3rd, 2nd and 3rd hen, 1st, 2nd and 3rd Cockerel; 1st and 2nd and 3rd pullet besides this Mr. Saunders won a special for one of the best females in the show, that alone is one of the highest honors a poultry man can wish for. Mr. Saunders' victory is all the more great as few poultry lovers realized that his stock were of such high calibre.

RED CROSS SHOULD GET OUR SUPPORT

Next week a campaign will be inaugurated in Belleville to raise funds for the Red Cross to carry on their work in Ontario. No place should respond more readily to such an appeal than Belleville and Hastings county for we have ample evidence of the value of Red Cross work in the Bancroft and Coe Hill Hospitals.

The Red Cross are giving splendid service in the outlying settlements of the province and in places where the population is too scattered to get most regular hospitals. Many lives are saved and much suffering avoided through the work of their outpost hospitals. There are wide stretches of country which would be without adequate medical service, if it were not for the Red Cross. Belleville can afford to and should give generously in response to the appeal next week.

TWO CANDIDATES FOR MAYORALTY

With nomination day on Monday, only two candidates have announced themselves for the mayoralty and it is still a wide-open question as to who will be will not run for the council in Belleville is to have good civic government more of our citizens who have the time and ability to give to the city's business must be willing to offer their services.

Alderman A. R. Collins and ex-Alderman H. Greenleaf have definitely decided to run for mayor and it looks now as though the field will be confined to these two. Both have had good records in council and both have been active in work having for its object the good of the city.

Alderman Collins has one distinct advantage over his rival in that he has been in the City Council for the past three years and should therefore be closer in touch with the problems which will have to be handled in 1929. His record as chairman of the Gas Committee entitles him to the respect and gratitude of every citizen of Belleville. He took over a department, which for years had been a football of various councils, dug down to the bottom of the difficulties and now has the gas works functioning efficiently and on a paying basis. On his handling of this question alone he is entitled to promotion to the mayor's chair.

DECISIONS OF COUNCIL MAKES FOR TROUBLE

Aldermen taking themselves more or less ridiculous for some weeks our City Council ended up a vacillating course by ordering the McColl Bros., Limited, to take away the wooden ramps from the front of their property and to cease allowing their customers to use the Front Street entrance for their business. So far the order has not been obeyed and we understand that McColl Brothers Limited, have no intention of obeying it. In all likelihood the matter will now go to the courts for long and costly litigation and to a lay mind it would appear that McColl Brothers have all the best of the argument.

The property appointed civic official issued a permit for the erection of a service station on the corner of Front and Bridge Streets, and the City Council ratified his actions. With the building completed and ready for use they then decide that the company building the station may not have proper entrance and egress rights from their own property. If this matter goes to court, Belleville will be in a position of trying to prevent an owner from enjoying free access to his place of business for his customers and we strongly doubt if the court will seriously entertain their arguments.

The proper time to have taken action was before the permit to build was issued. In giving the permit in the first place the City Engineer knew that he was acting contrary to the expressed will of Council as shown by a vote when the matter was raised some months previously in connection with the application of another oil company. But even after the building permit was issued, if the Council did not want a service station at this corner, they could and should have reached a settlement with McColl Brothers, Limited, before some $25,000 had been spent on building and equipment.

There is no doubt that danger to pedestrians will be lessened by the fact that a friendly understanding could be reached between the City and Mr. Coll Brothers, Limited. If the latter were invited to send some responsible officials down to view the situation at first hand and, working together with our City Engineer, any city building by-laws could be evolved to permit the proper use of the service station and still guard the lives and limbs of our citizens.

OPTIMISM KEYNOTE AT BIG CONVENTION

Abundant evidence of the virility of the Conservative party was furnished by the Convention of the Ontario Conservative Association held at Toronto on Wednesday and Thursday of this week. Conservatives from practically every riding in the Province were present and the discussion on current topics were keen and thorough. It was quite evident that the rank and file of the old party are keenly interested.

A pleasing feature of the gathering was the number of young people both men and women, who attended the meetings and were present at the big banquet on Wednesday night. The old party stalwarts were there, of course, but it is a healthy sign when the young people are interested enough in government to travel long distances as some of them did, to attend their party's convention.

So far as Ontario, at least, is concerned, the Conservatives are happy in their leaders. Perhaps no man since Sir John A. McDonald has acquired such a hold on the affections of his followers as has Premier Ferguson and he has gathered around him a group of Cabinet Ministers who are strong in their individual departments, and command the respect and confidence of the citizens at large. At the banquet Mr. Ferguson received an ovation such as given to few men and the presentation to him of an ox pakning simply marked the unbounded confidence of the whole party in his leadership.

The Hon. R. B. Bennett made a wonderful impression when he addressed the gathering as the Federal leader of the Conservative party. Before assuming the leadership he was already a national figure in industry, finance and politics. His attitude on questions which touch the life of every citizen of Canada will commend itself to thinking people in all parts of the country.

He speaks with the authority of knowledge, his motives are unquestioned and his earnest desire to be of real service to his country places him above the ordinary run of politicians. Mr. Bennett is not in politics to gain office. As a cold matter of fact he is making heavy sacrifices financially in giving up business connections in order to devote himself exclusively to the science of government. When he becomes Premier of Canada as he undoubtedly will before long, the country will have every reason to be proud of their Prime Minister.

Mr. Arthur Sauve brought a pleasing message of hope from the Province of Quebec. Mr. Sauve is leader of the Conservative opposition in Que bec and while, as he humorously said, "it was more hope than deeds" he had to speak of, still he was willing to guarantee that the Conservatives would have more than four seats from his Province after the next general election. The French Canadian, he said, looks on the Honorable Mr. Bennett and the Hon. Mr. Ferguson as real statesmen and he believes they are now ready to return to their natural party affiliations which were unfortunately broken over incidents arising during the war.

Altogether the outlook for the Conservative party is brighter than it has been for many years and the fine spirit of optimism in evidence at the Convention is well justified.

HAVE YOU HEARD THESE?

The real movie hero is the man that gets every night with his wife and children.

She: I only married you out of sympathy.

He: Well, I got plenty of it.

Bridegroom: Would you mind if I went into a smoking compartment dear

Bride: To smoke?

Bridegroom: Oh, no! I want to experience the agony of being away from you, so that the joy of my return will be all the more intensified.

"And these old pieces of furniture are heirlooms, I presume."

"Yes, indeed. My grandfather paid the first instalments on them, and we've kept up the payments ever since."

About People

"Personally," writes Hay Stannard Baker, in dealing with General Smuts, of South Africa, "he is a rather taciturn and unapproachable man, with a high forehead, steely eyes, straight brows depressed in a habitual half frown, tightly closed lips and a powerful chin. He is a man who looks the part of the leader." Though born on Indian Cape and he fought Britain in the Boer War. This was in 1870. He graduated from the Boer college at Stellenbosch, and read law at Cambridge, where he took many prizes. He fought side by side with Dewet and Herzog in the war for independence and helped put down their rebellion with an iron hand at the beginning of the World War. He did more than any other man to have clauses for the protection of labor written into the covenant of the League of Nations.

Sir John A. Macdonald, a few months before his death, in 1891, sent word to Ottawa Council that he wanted to see a certain member of the staff about some current political matter, asserts the Ottawa paper. The visitor was shown into the library at Earnscliffe. Sir John was alone, seated at a little table at one of the windows, playing a game of solitaire with himself. Eight pages accused for the old ruler of Canada! Looking up and catching a stare of surprise on the visitor's face, he remarked dryly: "You seem a bit disturbed. Let me say that you behold one side of the rewards of politics." Occasionally, when parliament is not in session—when it is, we generally have a cabinet meeting between lunch and par liament—I like to amuse myself for half an hour with a game of Patience. It is practically the only recreation I have had for thirty years."

OTHER MEN'S THOUGHTS

The money the other fellow has is capital; getting it way from him is labor.—St. Catherines Standard.

King George has a Ford car, which comes pretty close to making it unanimous.—Toronto Mail and Empire.

The Athonsville says a preacher is ruining the young people. That's 50-50, though. The young people are ruining the auto.—Border Cities' Star.

It has been suggested that all bills should be made of fireproof paper. This should be a protection to the fellow who finds that money burns a hole in his pocket.—Ottawa Journal.

WANT MORE MONEY FOR MINER RELIEF

London, Eng., (By C. P.)—A sum of over $450,000 sterling has been raised in response to the appeal issued by the Lord Mayors of London, Cardiff, and Newcastle, on behalf of women and children in the coalfields of South Wales, Durham and Northumberland. These funds are practically now exhausted, and their promoters have therefore issued an appeal for further support. They point out that unemployment in the mining areas has grown worse during the year, and the call for help will be more urgent than ever during the coming winter. Last April the numbers unemployed in the coalfields were over 750,000. Today, notwithstanding the considerable numbers who have been transferred to employment elsewhere, the number is even larger.

It is proposed to ask the Lord Mayors and Mayors of England and Wales to attend a meeting at the Mansion House to discuss the purpose of organizing a national effort to obtain a fund sufficient for the object of the appeal and to take steps to cooperate with other schemes having similar objects, and thus avoid any risk of overlapping.

WHEN YOUR BABY CATCHES A COLD

In spite of all precautions little ones will take colds — especially during the changing, variable days of our Fall season. When the first symptoms appear—sneezing, sneezing of the eyes, running nose — Baby's Own Tablets should be given at once. They will rapidly break up the cold and prevent more serious complications.

Mrs. Alex. Lessard, of Box 6 of Baby's Own Tablets in the home always feel safe. In fact they are like having a doctor in the house. They are a gentle but thorough laxative and sweeten the stomach and regulate the bowels, thus driving out constipation and indigestion and relieving the baby of the many childhood ailments which are the direct result of a clogged condition of the bowels of your stomach. They are absolutely safe—being guaranteed to contain no drug at all harmful to even the youngest babe. They cannot possibly do harm—they always do good.

Baby's Own Tablets are sold by all medicine dealers or can be sent by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D
THE FAMILY PHYSICIAN STANDS FIRST

It is a most unfortunate thing for the public and for the medical profession also, that so many medical students, fresh from college, are determined to go right into a specialty of some kind rather than into general practice for a few years.

Of course, it is only natural that a young man should like some particular department of medicine and surgery, and in order to get to the top in that particular department, devote all his energies toward it in his final year at college, and for perhaps a couple of years after graduation.

But what is he going to know about medicine in general, about the relation of one ailment to another, about the different types of individuals that come to his office, and, last but not least, about the human side of his profession?

Of course, it is only natural that a young man should like some particular department of medicine and surgery, and in order to get to the top in that particular department, devote all his energies toward it in his final year at college, and for perhaps a couple of years after graduation.

But what is he going to know about medicine in general, about the relation of one ailment to another, about the different types of individuals that come to his office, and, last but not least, about the human side of his profession?

Dr. Chas. H. Mayo is speaking of the great number of specialists in the world today said: "almost all the medical students who graduated last June were going to take up specialties. It will put a terrible burden on people to know what is the matter with them, in order to pick out the right specialist."

I know the above will make you smile but as a matter of fact, if all of the "specialists" of our medical factories are going to settle down immediately in one branch of medicine or surgery, what are folks going to do when they are not feeling well, and don't just know why? You can see that a general practitioner is necessary to make a complete examination and find out the trouble.

If there are no general practitioners in the days to come then the patients will "pick out" a specialist according to what he himself thinks is ailing him. He will diagnose his own case first.

My thought then is that the biggest place in medicine still belongs to the family physician, and he will come into his own again in a few years because the public will realize that he is really the only physician with the complete knowledge to make a diagnosis.

MAJOR PRATT IS NEW PRESIDENT

Splendid Meeting of Local Baseball Club Held Last Night

THE OFFICERS

Efforts Will be Made to Encourage Junior Form of Baseball

Baseball prospects for the coming year appear brighter than ever before, following an enthusiastic meeting of the supporters in the City Hall last night. Although the attendance was not particularly large the enthusiasm manifested, augurs well for the success of the Club in 1929. New officers were chosen last night and a very executive body to handle the affairs of the Club next year was also elected.

Several names were mentioned, but all declined the Presidency owing to the fact that their business interfered with activities in the baseball sphere. Messrs. Lou Howe, Richard Snell and James Cokers graciously passed up the honors and it was finally decided that Major Pratt, last year's Vice-President was the logical man for the position and although the Major was unavoidably absent it is felt that the meeting made no mistake when this estimable gentleman was chosen to guide the destinies of the club for the ensuing term. Major Pratt has enjoyed a wide experience in the baseball field, is popular with his colleagues and is the right man in the right place. Lou Howe with his colleagues was nominated by W. E. Rowsome the retiring President. Richard Snell by R. E. Colling and Major Pratt by Ernie Lang and seconded by Ed. Thomas and James A. Cokers by Newton Thompson.

The Hon. Presidents are W. E. Thompson, M.P., J. F. Hill, M.P.P., W. H. Ireland, MPP, G. A. Stokes, Supt. Quinte Nat onal Pa kways, W. E. Rowsome, Immediate Past President, J. D. McMillan, Retired Supt.

The Officers

President: Major Pratt.

1st Vice-President: Ald. A. B. Collins

2nd Vice-President: Chas. Hanna.

3rd Vice-President: Lou Howe.

Secretary-Treasurer: George Griffin

George was the unanimous choice. He has handled the business end most successfully this year and he consented to act again.

The question of a business manager was left in the hands of the Executive. It was decided advisable to appoint a business manager for the Secretary and relieve him of some of the duties connected with the office.

The Executive will be composed of Harry Greenleaf, Ed. Thomas, Major Morley P. Duff, Ernest Lane, and Richard Snell. The Executive will include the Manager of the team who will, in all likelihood, be Walter Gerow, while the players will choose their own representative.

The possibility of Junior Baseball in the city was also discussed and it was the opinion of the supporters that the Juniors should be encouraged next year. However, this matter was left in abeyance. With the Club re-organized, the stage is all set for next year when Deloro will open here on the Queen's Birthday. The League will be composed of Belleville, Deloro, Oshawa and Peterboro with Kingston as outside possibility. Ald. A. B. Collins occupied the chair vacated by Mr. W. E. Rowsome in the preliminaries to the General Election of the new-elected President, Major Pratt.

BABY CLINIC IS WELL ATTENDED

The Baby Clinic held at the City Hall yesterday afternoon, set a new high record with sixty-five babies in attendance. This is the largest number of pre-school age. The clinic is becoming increasingly popular, and babies were brought for the first time yesterday. Dr. Morgan was in attendance and assisting him were Mrs. Orrill and Miss Fitzgerald.

So many babies were brought to the clinic yesterday that room for their carriages became increasingly difficult and parking was at a premium.

The lobby was soon filled and the carriages overflowed outside the door to stand Dirty, deep on the sidewalk.

Each mother had a different problem—perhaps her baby had suffered from loss of weight, indigestion, or wouldn't sleep at night, or had teething troubles—but help was given individual attention and advice.

Tea and cake were served to the mothers.

Just For The Feminine Reader

WHAT THE FASHIONABLE WOMAN WEARS.

It has been announced from Paris that the wardrobe of every smart woman must contain a frock of red, black and beige. Many other colors are fashionable but these seem to be almost essentials if milady would be chic. It would be just as well though, to study your type before obeying the autocratic decrees of the Paris stylists. Nearly every woman can wear black and many look their very best in a black frock, relieved by a little touch of color. Unrelieved black is becoming to some but it requires considerable color either of hair or complexion. But red is another question. Clear scarlet is becoming to the brunette who is of the Spanish type. This is, she should have black hair and a clear, rather white skin. Other shades of red can be worn by different types of women and even fairer women with blue eyes may essay some of the newer reds known this season, but this realm of red is forbidden territory to the titian blonde or anyone with hair even slightly bordering on the auburn. Beiges are easier to wear and are becoming to most people if their complexion is not sallow or dull. Beige is an excellent utility color and combines nicely with many different shades in the line of accessories. But the essential point in selecting your wardrobe is that it be becoming to your individual type. Do not wear a color just because it happens to be fashionable.

TO SUBSTITUTE SOUR MILK FOR SWEET

Sometimes the housewife will find a recipe which calls for sour milk and she has only sour milk in the house, or the reverse may be true. But his need not discomfort her at all if she understands the principles back of the use of milk. You may use sour milk in the place of sweet, by sweetening it with soda, using a scant half teaspoon of soda foreach cup of sweet milk.

When sweet milk is used, it demands baking powder to leaven the product. If you use sour milk, sweetened with soda, the baking powder may be omitted as the reaction of the soda on the acid of the sour milk will cause lightness enough. If the batter is a thick batter, it may require the addition of just a little baking powder to hold it in shape.

If you use sweet milk, in a recipe which calls for sour, omit the soda and combine it with baking powder, using one scant teaspoon of baking powder for each cup of flour. If molasses is an ingredient of your batter, you will need a pinch of soda to counteract the acid of the molasses.

ROOMS MAY EXPRESS PERSONALITY

There are some homes which just seem to express the personality of their owner so that when we think of these people it is in terms of their homes as it were. Even with uncommon promising material it is possible to construct something that will reflect our ideas. We have seen rooms converted from plain, rather old-fashioned "parlors" to bright attractive almost we were going to say inspiring moods. Sometimes just the addition of a bright cushion or a pretty lamp will take from the drab appearance. It is the bright spots in the room which are outstanding, and which first meet the eye on entering, so there must not be too many of them. One house we have often visited, where the rooms are very attractive with old furniture is for which the lady of the house has a hobby. Some of it is valuable old walnut, and presents a most pleasing appearance, although perhaps not the comfortable appearance of the modern Chesterfield and big chairs. The danger of collecting old furniture is that unwanted in a modern room, it is apt to look incongruous, but where it has a family it can be made to look very attractive. In contrast to this there is a charming room, very modern, having several chairs, a bookcase, and Gindle holders and bookends were upholstered in chintz print, and the rest of the furniture was black. The description does not do it justice, but it really had a striking appearance, especially as the owner was a distinctly brunette, and those with whom she comes in contact.

THE QUESTION OF NAGGING WIVES

There is only one thing worse than a grouchy husband and that is a nagging wife. We can't imagine anything worse than a home containing both these charming personalities. But happily they seldom go together. However, it can't be entirely laid to itself. The habit of nagging can be overcome if taken in its early stages. We can understand that a woman likes to have her home "spic and span" and she is to be commended in this, but like everything it can be carried to extremes. It is not such a terrible tragedy if a little ashes falls on the carpet or if a child's toy happens to be left in the middle of the living-room floor where the little one became tired of play and left it. All too soon there will be no toys around and it is then the mother realizes her own small and mean were her fault findings. We have heard children say to a play mate, "Oh, if mother'd just gather it up, you'd have a time." And it is no wonder that the little one compares a happy home where small faults are overlooked, to her own home where the slightest things are made the occasion of continued nagging. No wonder the husbands want to run off to the club every night or any other place where they may enjoy a little peace and quiet. The funny part of it is that the wife cannot understand why her husband and children always want to be away from home. The habit has become so fixed on her as that she deceives it in herself. So let any young girl who finds herself developing this terrible quality of nagging make a big effort to control it before it is too late for it will surely make for unhappiness both for herself and those with whom she comes in contact.

New Hair Mode from Broadway

"Everyone admires my hair, now that I'm doing it the new way that nearly every really smart girl I know is using," says Miss Agnes Tranev, popular dancer, now appearing in the Broadway hit, "No Rita." "My hair doesn't need shampooing more than once a month, now. My scalp feels better than it ever has felt. I have got ten rid of all my dandruff. My hair is much easier to arrange, and it stays that way. All I do to keep it like this is put a few dashes of Danderine on my brush every time I use it. It's wonderful how Danderine adds to the beauty of your hair, makes it look so silky and lustrous."

Danderine is not oily. It removes the oily film from each strand of the hair and restores the natural color lustre and lustre. It dissolves dandruff, cleanses and invigorates the scalp. It can be sufficiently had in itself. The habit of nagging can be overcome if taken in its early stages. We can understand that a woman likes to have her home "spic and span" and she is to be com-

Cooking Convenience

For the woman who always must have the best, nothing will please her quite so much as the Gurney Royal Combination Range. It is a model of perfection, cooking with complete satisfaction on both the coal and gas sections of the range.

It has two ovens—one for coal and one for gas—giving double cooking capacity when desired. It is in fact two complete ranges in one.

Attractively finished, either as illustrated or entirely in enamel. Another important feature,—the body of this range is made of "ARMCO" iron.

Give freely

When your Children Cry for It

Mothers who take one simple precaution, are seldom worried. With a bottle of Fletcher's Castoria in the house they can do what their doctor would tell them to do, when baby is fretful, feverish, colicky, constipated or stuffed-up with cold—give a few drops of this pure vegetable, pleasant tasting preparation. It comforts, relieves and soothes him to sleep in a jiffy. It's perfectly safe for the youngest infant. Use it freely—and as often as needed, specialists advise. A mother's liberal dose is all it takes to comfort and relieve older children, when feverishness, bad breath, no appetite, colds, etc., show they need a good purging. The mark of genuine Castoria is the Fletcher signature on the wrapper. Look for it to avoid imitations.

Gay Adventurers By Mildred Barbour

CHAPTER 39
THE MESSAGE

Sheila read Harry's note and then sat down by the window and stared in to the soft, warm dark.

So this was the end of her adventure! She drew a deep breath and and tapped on the door. The maid answered.

"Tell the Baronne de Courcy that I must see her at once," said Sheila.

After a short wait she was ushered into the Baronne's bedroom. The Baronne, propped up on pillows in the middle of an enormous canopied bed, regarded her guest with an air of open hostility.

"Something terrible has happened," Sheila faltered.

"No matter how angry you are, you must help me now."

She held out the note. The Baronne read it. Her face grew pale.

"Constance Kerr," she cried, "you're a wicked, wicked girl. Now see what your flirtations have caused—a quarrel that has ended in a challenge to a duel. How thankful I am that my dear Carlo is not involved. How did it happen?"

Sheila shook her head dully.

"Harry was furious at the evening. He was furious at the Count and said he would force him to make a public apology to me. Evidently his efforts ended in a violent quarrel, which has challenged Harry to a duel, after Harry had knocked him down. We must stop them!"

The Baronne sniffed. "I am glad some of you have a sense of decency in the matter, but it's a pity you didn't realize them sooner. Such wicked flirting, making simpletons men jealous, breaking their hearts—"

"I don't," Sheila groaned Sheila, "but I never thought it would come to this. Will you let me take a car—I'll drive myself—I must see Harry at once and do what I can to prevent the duel. He must not fight at the morrow morning."

"Give you a car and let you drive to Saint Edmond's hotel alone, at this hour of the night!" exclaimed the Baronne. "Not I. It would be my duty to my old friend's daughter. But I'll go with you."

She was delighted to have an opportunity to share the excitement, for it had been pretty stiff and hard there in the quiet social routine.

In spite of Sheila's protests, she dressed and called for Carlo.

"We must do our duty, my boy," she said. "Constance has driven the child to both shamefully, but that must not make any difference now."

Sheila interrupted her hostess's speech by seizing her arm and starting for the door. Carlo and all went, followed.

At Harry's hotel they asked a page to take their cards to Mr. Edmonds. After what seemed an interminable wait, Harry came down in his dressing-room.

He looked so boyish, so weary, that Sheila's eyes filled with tears as she held out her hands. He took her in his arms and kissed her. "I'll not inconvenience you a scandalized sniff.

"Constance has implored you to not going to marry Bellefonte, are you?"

She shook her head. "No," she said firmly. That, at least, was the truth now. "I want to plead with you to not fight a duel. Harry, you must not make any difference, as far as tomorrow's little affair is concerned."

"Oh, Harry, you mustn't fight this duel. You mustn't. Promise me you won't."

"Impossible, Constance. The thing's already arranged. I'm going to kill him for saying he was your fiance, and he told me to get out and mind my own affairs. Then I punched his jaw, and he challenged me. I can't be yellow you know."

Sheila sank into a chair and covered her face with her hands.

Suppose Harry should be killed? Or seriously wounded? What a tragic thing! What would Constance say?

"I'll see the Count," she said finally. "I'll ask him to withdraw the challenge—"

"Constance," Harry retorted, "don't you dare do such a thing. I won't have it said that a girl begged off for me."

"I've something to tell him that will make him change his mind about fighting you," she said.

"What is it?"

"I can't tell you, but I'll tell him."

"Then I won't let you leave this room. You shan't see him."

Finally, after an hour of weary discussion, Sheila agreed to make whatever statement she had to make in the presence of every one concerned. A sleepy page was dispatched to the villa at which Bellefonte was staying, to tell him that Miss Kerr wanted him to come to Mr. Edmonds' hotel at once. When he appeared, accompanied by his host, Sheila took the situation in hand.

"Jean," she said, "you and Harry are going to fight a duel over me. That is, you are going to fight a duel over Constance Kerr, but you're not. Say dear Constance," said the Count. "You are not making yourself very clear. Did you rouse me from my sleep to talk riddles to me?"

"You must listen to me," she cried. "I'm not Constance Kerr. I'm just pretending that I am she—I mean, I only look like her. She is in—well I don't know where she is, but we made a pact that I would come to Paris in her place and she would go on to London. Then—"

The utter hopelessness of giving a convincing explanation made her pause. She turned from one to another of her listeners. Their expressions were a mixture of amusement and incredulity.

WHAT'S NEW

(From A Woman's Standpoint)

Skirts which flare only in the centre front are among the smartest of the new season.

That car-rings are almost all of the drop variety, even for street wear, but much discernment must be used so as not to have them too long.

That metal beads scattered through a long strand of pearls are very smart while baguette crystals are used extensively in combination with all the flat colored stones.

That a thousand women recently wore $1,000,000 worth of fur coats on Fifth Avenue at the inauguration of the National Association of the Fur Industry in an attempt to stimulate a greater public interest in fur for women.

That one Colorado Springs, Colo., woman has found tourist guiding both profitable and pleasant, for beginning with a simple car ride to Denver herself, she now has a large business, an eqipment of many cars and a staff of many chauffeurs.

RHEUMATIC VICTIMS

Can Find Relief Through Building Up the Blood

Pain is the symptom of rheumatism that every victim recognizes, and before it attributes the trouble to cold, damp or changeable weather. But doctors know that this kind of pain is merely characteristic of the trouble. Trying to cure rheumatism while the blood remains thin and poor, is an impossible task because there is nothing to build on. A tonic like Dr. Williams' Pink Pills enriches the blood and frees it from poisonous impurities soon banishes rheumatism from the system. So long as the blood is maintained in a healthy condition the trouble will not return. This is not theory. It has been proved in hundreds of cases; here is one: Mr. W. Rose, R.R. 2, Albany, P.E.I., says:—"For some years I was a great sufferer from rheumatism and although I tried a great many remedies, I did not get any permanent relief until after I took Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. The trouble was located mainly in my shoulders, and at times was so bad that my right arm was almost useless. Of course I suffered much pain and great inconvenience. My attention was directed to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills through an advertisement in our newspaper, and I decided to try them. I took the pills according to direction and in the result they, through, strain has left me, and I have never had a twinge of it since. If this meets the eye of any rheumatic sufferer my advice is try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills at once."

You can get these pills from any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Lodger: Did you ever see anything o unsettled as the weather?

Landlady: Well, there's your bill.

"With whom was your wife quarrelling last night?"

"Her friend—I heard her threaten to take the front door key away from him."—The Passing Show.

SINCLAIR'S

Some Helpful Hints For Busy Housewives

Tea stains on cups and teapots can be removed with a little salt.

Save the vinegar from the sweet pickles and use it in the mayonnaise when making an apple salad.

A little butter added to all macaroni dishes gives a richer flavor and an attractive gloss when turned out.

A touch of furniture cream on the brasses just after they have been polished will keep them bright much longer.

If there are finger marks on the window or mirrors you need not clean the entire surface. Just dip a cloth in ammonia and rub lightly over the spots.

When making a baked fruit pudding with a suet crust, grease the basin the usual way, then shake coarse brown sugar thickly over the bottom and sides. This makes a delicious toffee-like crust.

For damp or rumpy salt, use one of the following preparations to four pounds of salt; sift, thoroughly before putting it away for use. Cornstarch or flour is also good; use one teaspoonful to six of salt.

Program of Belleville Artists Enjoyed by a Large Audience

Congratulatory messages continue to pour in in regard to the recent broadcasting of an All-Belleville Program by Cheerio Station, King Edward Hotel, Toronto. It is now fully realized that this program was one of the most valuable pieces of advertising ever secured for our city. It was a night exceptionally favorable for broadcasting and the quality of the program according to reports from all sources was much the best of the town or city programs that have yet been transmitted by Sisin Finish Hardwood Flooring Limited. The citizens of Belleville are therefore under a great debt of gratitude to the company that sponsored and made possible this favorable publicity and particular recognition should be given to the Houston Company, the local representatives of Sisin Finish Hardwood Flooring, who brought the matter in the first place to the attention of the people here and afterwards conducted the negotiations that brought about so happy a result.

Station CKGW Toronto is now recognized as one of the very best and most effective broadcasting mediums on the continent. Reference has been made already in our columns to messages received here from Mrs. (Dr.) Peake of Tramorna, Man., and from Mrs. (Judge) Dunham of St. Augustine, Fla., both of which places are well over a thousand miles in direct line from Toronto. The following additional messages are also in the mail from distant points and show how wide spread was the transmission and how favorably impressed were the receptients everywhere. The telegrams and letters speak for themselves

Haverhill, Mass.,

CKGW,
Gentlemen:—

I certainly enjoyed the Belleville artists last evening. Program came in wonderful. I take this opportunity to tell you I have heard your programs several times since our new radio has been installed but three weeks ago, and words cannot express the thrill I had when first I heard the announcer inform me that I was listening in Toronto. The reception is so clear and loud, in fact it is one of the best I have listened to. Looking forward to hearing more of your programs in the future,

Mrs. Ernest Lambert,

CKGW,
Dear Sirs:—

Last night my wife and I were spending the evening with radio, about 10:15 I turned into your station not knowing that it was your station but the program was so grand and I was coming in so plain that we listened for the announcement. We heard you introduce the Mayor of Belleville. Enjoyed his talk very much. Every word came clear as a bell. The whole program was enjoyed very much. Hoping that we will hear more of you.

CKGW,
Dear Sirs:—

Last evening while trying to tune in some of the Chicago stations afte the new alterations of wave lengths, I came across your station with much volume than what some of the Chicago stations have. At 10.30 p.m., Central Standard Time you were acknowledging over the air the receipt of telegrams and telephone calls that you were receiving from the populace of Belleville to which the program of the evening was dedicated. At 10.40 a lady sang "My Laddie" by Thayer. Would you kindly verify this reception of your station.

CKGW,
Dear Sirs:—

Just a line to let you know your program at 10th from 8:30 p.m. dedicated for the Belleville Hardwood Floor Company came in clear and distinct. The quartet singers were as good as I have ever listened to. In fact all of your program was very interesting. Hoping to be able to tune in again soon.

Yours,
R. J. Richards.

CKGW
Dear Sirs.—

It might be of interest to you to know that your programs were clearly received here last night with as much volume as if you were a local station. I heard the messages from Belleville being read; these people were evidently enjoying the program as much as I was; also your last night's program was ideal to my taste. Please send me literature or blanks for the contest.

Station CKGW
Gentlemen.—

Enjoyed your program immensely last Wednesday, to 10.30 and heard your program which was dedicated to Belleville, Ontario. We heard the quartet sing "Od Black Joe" and "When You and I Were Young, Maggie". Also at 10.20 C. T. S. one telegram was from Dorothy Bradley ane, another from a Boy girl who did not want her name mentioned but wanted "Nola" played. Your program came in clear as a bell here at Chicago and I hope you will send me a certificate of identification to show my friends. Please announce this letter at 10.30 on Saturday the 17th and we will be with you.

Announcing—

The Outstanding Chevrolet of Chevrolet History

—a Six in the price range of the four!

THE Chevrolet Motor Company of Canada, Limited, announces The Outstanding Chevrolet of Chevrolet History . . a Six in the price range of the four!

Spectacular as Chevrolet's achievements have been in the past . . notable as its engineering triumphs have proved themselves to be—this remarkable new car dwarfs every previous Chevrolet accomplishment. Not only does it introduce into the low-priced field an entirely new measure of performance, comfort, beauty and style—but it is sold at prices so low as to alter every previous conception of motor car value.

The new six-cylinder valve-in-head engine—developed from more than a hundred motors designed especially for this sensational car—stands out as an engineering masterpiece. With a power increase of approximately 32% over the previous Chevrolet motor, with sensationally greater speed and faster acceleration—it offers a type of performance that is literally astounding . . even to those who have been driving cars costing hundreds of dollars more.

Throughout the entire speed range, it performs with a smoothness and quietness of operation that have never before been approached in a low-priced automobile. At the slower speeds of city traffic it idles along with wonderful silence and ease. On boulevards and country roads it responds with an eagerness that is a constant delight. It takes the longest and steepest hills with an abundant reserve of power that is a source of pride to the driver. And its economy of operation averages better than 20 miles to the gallon of gasoline!

This revolutionary performance has been achieved as a result of the greatest array of engineering advancements that Chevrolet has ever announced. A high compression, non-detonating cylinder head . . a new heavier crankshaft, statically and dynamically balanced . . automatic lubrication of the entire rocker arm mechanism . . semi-automatic spark control . . hot-spot manifold . . gasoline pump and filter . . new and larger carburetor, with automatic acceleration pump and improved venturi choke . . fabric camshaft gear . . heavier driving gears . . heavier differential gears . . improved crankcase breathing system . . improved lubrication . . new 4-wheel brakes that are powerful, safe and quiet under all conditions—these indicate the importance of a group of engineering advancements that embrace every major unit of the entire chassis.

In appearance, this Outstanding Chevrolet is destined to become an automotive sensation—so smart, so stylish and so distinctively appointed that it rivals the costliest custom creations. The new Fisher bodies are longer, lower and roomier with adjustable driver's seat in all closed models—and reveal the matchless artistry of Fisher designers. With their modish new colors, their smart dual mouldings and their distinctive concave pillars, they achieve a degree of original beauty that has seldom been equalled in motor car design.

You are cordially invited to visit our showroom and secure complete and detailed information on this sensational new car which will be ready for delivery, beginning January 1st.

SENSATIONAL FILM AT BELLE THEATRE MON.

BARBARA BEDFORD, who has achieved an enviable position as one of the leading free-lance featured players in motion pictures, has one of the most important screen roles of the year in the melodramatic success, "The Port of Missing Girls," coming to the Bells Theatre, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

The theme of this timely film production answers one of the most vital questions of modern social life, and depicts some of the temptations in the lives of countless young women whose sudden disappearance from every section of the country is an every-day occurrence.

Statistics gathered by civic authorities and social service workers attest that nearly 75,000 young girls disappear from their homes each year, never to be heard of again, and one has only to read his home town newspaper for seven consecutive days to have this statement brought home to him in a vivid manner by the reports of disappearances of young women whose frantic family makes vain appeals to police and officials.

The role played by shining Girls," which was directed by Irving Cummings, with a cast including Jack Mulhall and Estabrook Barbara Bedford is seen as Ruth King, a wealthy young woman, who, after a successful career as to focus parental and police attention to "The Port of Missing Girls."

Miss Bedford, whose slim, blond beauty identifies her as a highly individualized screen type, was born in Prairie du Chien, Wisconsin, and attended public school there. Her dramatic ambitions were fostered by a local dramatic coach, McGregor, Rosemary Theby, Wyndham Standing, Natalie Kingston, Heath Hooper, Bodil Rosing, Gregor Gerard Paul Nicholson and Amber Norman.

SEIBERLING SINGERS PROGRAM NOVEMBER 28th

Thanksgiving evening, with the last cheer dying away and the final footman and waitress vanished, the Seiberling Singers will close the gridiron years with a collegiate program de luxe that will start as its feature a medley of the Far Western "Alma Maters" arranged by Frank Black, Director of the Seiberling Singers. Instead of being clogged with fat, the bowels are more inclined to move of THEIR OWN ACCORD. You may have to take cascara several times to establish regularity. But the times you need this gentle stimulus grow further apart. And you NEVER find you must increase the amount.

Cascara's ideal form is the candy Cascaret that pleases any palate, and you'll find them at the first drugstore you ask.

A DOCTOR'S ADVICE:

GO LIGHT ON LAXATIVES!

Everyone needs a laxative at TIMES But there's no need for making it a HABIT. If you have the habit, you can be rid of it in thirty days. Or less! And this is how:—

The next time you go to take any strong cathartic— don't. Instead, take a little cascara. That's not a vicious drug, but the bark of a tree. The laxative made with cascara doesn't harm a child. It is, in fact, the one cathartic many physicians will prescribe for children. Gentle as it is, cascarting is just as thorough in cleaning the colon as the more powerful purges that actually sap a person's strength.

Proof that there's no habit from cascara begins the very day after taking

CASCARETS
They Work While You Sleep!

Eight Hour and one of America's foremost modern arrangers and composers while talk and fraternity hoofers echo with the revelry of victory, or defeat. The Seiberling Singers quartet: Jane Seiberling "Singing Violina," James Melton and Phil Ohman and Victor Arden will supplicate the collegiate scene of the other.

It should be just the sort of sparkling, tuneful program to satisfy large hel ings of turkey, cranberry sauce, ice cream, mince pie and all the rest." Victorious Eight Hour Band" Thanksgiving board groan. It promises revelry, spiced with all least one musical number about weird dieting "Jane Seiberling Hour to hear — a repeat performance by the Seiberling "Singing Violins" of Massenet's "Meditation" from the opera "Thais." This will be the third time the new famous Seiberling violin clarus has been forced by a flood of requests to play this number.

For collegiate atmosphere, James Melton, Seiberling's own tenor, will turn his golden voice to that selection familiar to most undergraduate glee club vocalists—"Because" by d'Hardelot. Phil Ohman and Victor Arden, who returned, recently from opening a new Broadway musical comedy hit in which they are starred, will play Ohman's latest composition, "Jacquette" on their two syncopating pianos. And the quartet will add "Jimmy Dispenith" by Rodgers and "No Trolley" by Hanley in a super-collegiate manner.

The Seiberling Hour, which is broadcast through the world's largest network for a regular, weekly, half-hour program, WEAF station from east to coast—goes on the air every Thursday evening from 9:00 to 9:30 p.m., Eastern Standard Time—from 8:00 to 8:30 p.m. Central Standard Time—from 7:00 to 7:30 p.m. Mountain time —from 6:00 to 6:30 p.m. Pacific Coast Time). Close to 30 million listeners-in will be able to dial the Thanksgiving Day features, it is estimated.

CENTRAL ONTARIO

Cheesemakers' Convention

REMEMBER THE DATES — RESERVE THEM!

December 5th and 6th, 1928

PLACENTY HALL, Belleville, Ont.

The initial year of organization. It requires the support of every cheese-maker and every milk producer in the Central Ontario District.

It has accomplished more in one year in the improvement of the quality of Ontario cheese than any other previous or present system or organization.

Many farmers who have attended their semi-monthly or monthly meetings this summer, are enthusiastic over the outcome. This Convention is being financed by the cheese-makers themselves: no Government grant or any other assistance. Come, hear and see for yourselves and be convinced just what our cheesemakers are doing.

The best possible speakers have been secured for all sessions. Then remember the Big Banquet, Thursday Evening, Dc. 6th, at New Queen Hotel.

See our programme now being mailed out, and come!

ORPHANS GIVEN READY SUPPORT

Complete Sell-Out for Varsity-Tiger Game at Hamilton

Toronto, November 24.—Thirty-six hundred Toronto rugby fans will travel to Hamilton Saturday to witness the battle between the Tigers, interprovincial champions for the past two years, and University of Ontario Orphans, Ontario Rugby Football Union titleholders in the Canadian semi-final.

The Toronto contingent is the largest which has gone to Hamilton for a rugby game since before the war. Interest in the Varsity team is high in Toronto, and local fans voted with Varsity students in the scramble for the 9,000 tickets which were sent here Not one was unsold today.

Coach Jimmy Douglas will make no change in the Orphans' lineup for Saturday's game. The blue and white mentor is convinced that the team which defeated Sunny Beach is good enough for any and all emergencies. It was suggested that changes might result in a pepping up of plays from scrimmage, but Douglas believes his present squad will be strong enough to give the Tigers a real battle.

Last night the Orphans ran through a light signal drill, the only work that has been indulged in their training programme this week. Doug has is taking no chance of his charges incurring injuries, and they will go up against Tigers at full strength.

Hamilton fans of the ticket-for-the game at the H. A. A. A. grounds also are almost all sold and a huge crowd will watch the battle on gridiron today was hardening with the cold weather.

The Tigers' rooting club, the Canelas, has been reorganized, and will be in action tomorrow with Sammy Mann leading the snake dances and the entertainment at half time.

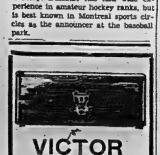

WALSH REMAINS WITH AMERICANS

Maroon Sub-Goalie Will Guard the Nets in Tonight's Game

"Pat" Walsh will not accompany the Montreal Maroons to Toronto for the game this evening against the Maple Leafs, but will remain in Montreal and play in the nets for the New York Americans against the Canadiens at the Forum.

It all depends on just how Vernon Forbes, regular American goalie, feels today, whether he or Walsh deceived the Yank's goal this evening. Forbes had been ill since the first of the season and when the sub goalie of the Maroons has been filling his position with considerable success. This week Forbes returned to practices with the Americans and while he still looked ill, he showed his old-time form between the posts. Thus, it was decided between Maroons and Americans that Walsh would return to the local club after Thursday's game, and that Forbes would assume his regular position. But it now appears that Forbes has not recovered from his illness as completely as thought, as Walsh will be on hand in case the Americans need him again.

Jean Dumseil, local amateur hockey player, and one of the fastest skaters in the city, will make his Montreal debut as a National hockey League official in tonight's game, having been appointed to work with Dr. O'Leary. Dumseil has had wide experience in amateur hockey ranks, but is best known in Montreal sports circles as the announcer at the baseball park.

Your Eyes and Our Service

By
J. A. McFEE, Optometrist
Belleville

With some errors of vision it is not necessary to wear the correction constantly?

No. That is a matter for the Optometrist to decide.

With astigmatism the correction must usually be worn steadily?

Yes. An astigmatic person's eyes are strained just by SEEING, and whether or not any near work is done.

Why is this?

An astigmatic eye naturally attempts to act normally. That is, the muscles of the eyes strive to focus the light that enters them in a normal manner. This produces a strain on the muscles of the eyes.

Is the strain greater for far or near seeing?

For near seeing though it is sufficient in distant seeing in most cases to produce distress.

The appearance of the New York Americans here this evening is attracting more than usual attention. Without a doubt Tommy Gorman's Gotham has proved the sensation of the early season in the major professional circuit. In three games they have an unbeaten record. And there are surprising reasons for their success. The Americans have been playing a fast back-checking game to protect their own goal—there has been only one tally against them in three games—and have relied on the craft of their veteran forwards and the dashing play of the one rookie on the squad to nail goals for themselves.

NEW SIX-CYLINDER CHEVROLET IS NOW READY FOR DISTRIBUTION

General Motors Company Announces Appearance of Latest Model

Passing on to the motoring public the benefits of economies arising out of tremendous volume production, the Chevrolet Motor Company of Canada is introducing the Outstanding Chevrolet of Chevrolet History—A Six in the Price Range of the Four."

In making this important announcement, Ross Mackinnon, General Sales Manager, points out that the sensation ally public reception accorded the car in recent years has enabled Chevrolet at this time to offer the added power, speed and smoothness of six cylinder performance at practically the same prices that contributed so much to the world-wide popularity of the four. Preparations for the greatest year in its history are now being made by the Chevrolet Motor Company. Production of the new car has started and the company's giant factories at Oshawa, Walkerville and Regina will be turning out cars to be shipped to dealers by December 15. Deliveries to the public will start January first.

Although no definite schedule has been set for 1929, Mr. MacKinnon declared that production of the new car in Canada and the United States would probably exceed 1,250,000 units, thereby surpassing all former records. In its new offering Chevrolet has retained the highly successful valve-in-head principle. The motor is of the high compression type, with 3 5-16 inch bore and stroke and develops 32 per cent more power than its famous predecessor; its acceleration is remarkably great and its speed has been stepped up to satisfy maximum requirements. The piston displacement is 194 cubic inches.

Despite this greatly improved performance standard, thousands of miles of testing under every road and weather conditions at the General Motors proving ground in addition to many cross country runs, have shown that the new Chevrolet engine will operate with an economy averaging better than 22 miles to a gallon of gasoline. This is practically the same fuel economy enjoyed by the Chevrolet of the previous four cylinder model.

The motor develops 46 horse power at low engine speed and as a result of the automatic lubrication of the valve mechanism the motor is exceptionally quiet throughout the entire speed range.

Seven models of passenger cars and three commercial types comprise the line, which according to General Motors officials, embodies the greatest dollar value ever offered in an automobile. The Carthage Junior team rolled 897. Phillips started out with a 294 and 336 for the second game, in the final game ended up with 277. This score will no doubt stand up for some time to come. Phillips rolled these games on No. 1 and 2 Alleys.

All six body types are of the 2 passenger type except the roadster, which is a 2-4 passenger car. Prices range from $495 to $745 f. o. b. Oshawa. Government taxes extra.

Advance orders will be taken immediately following the announcement with Deliveries starting January first, officials stated. They also pointed out that to insure delivery early next year it would be advisable to place orders as soon as possible.

The new Chevrolet, which on its design principles, is an entirely new product in motor car history, is in every sense a proved product. Four years ago Chevrolet engineers began their research work, engineering, planning and General Motors Proving Ground testing. Associated with the Chevrolet engineers were the specialized engineers of the General Motors Research Laboratories.

Flight and day, indoors and out, in good weather and bad, they designed, built and tested every modern type of motor so that no opportunity would be overlooked—so that every desirable feature might be harmoniously incorporated in the new product. Perhaps a thousand ideas were considered and discussed. More than 100 different motors were built up and given exhaustive dyno and road tests before the qualified expert engineers presided over by O. E. Hunt, Chief Engineer of the Chevrolet Motor Company, finally approved the new Chevrolet valve-in-head six cylinder motor.

Speed, acceleration power and smoothness, to an unusual degree, are offered in the new Chevrolet. It is a high compression type, fully enclosed and with a non-detonating head. It is mounted in the chassis frame on a three and three-quarters inch stroke with 194 cubic inch piston displacement.

The motor develops 32 per cent more horsepower than its famous predecessor and has an abundant source of reserve power for fast getaway, heavy runs and steep grades. New features that contribute to this added power are an improved combustion chamber; a new high efficiency cam-shaft and four exhaust and three intake ports.

The speed has been stepped up to satisfy maximum requirements and its acceleration the new motor is vastly superior to any previous Chevrolet motor. This remarkable acceleration is due partly to the use of a new accelerator pump. When the accelerator is suddenly depressed this pump forces a small quantity of gasoline into the manifold in the carburetor, giving the car the instant power and get-away so necessary in modern traffic. On actual dynamometer tests the new engine delivers 46 horsepower at low engine speed. At all ordinary speeds it develops from three to four times the amount of power required to drive the car.

Torsional vibration is imperceptible at any speed through the use of a heavy 46-pound crank shaft, dynamically balanced statically and dynamically. A further contribution to the exceptional quietness of the motor is the automatic lubrication of the entire rocker arm mechanics and of all valve operating parts, which in addition are completely enclosed. Another advanced feature is the fuel pump which insures a positive and uniform supply of gasoline to the carburetor, under all driving conditions, regardless of engine speed, load or road grade. A gasoline filter, built in as part of the fuel pump insures only clean gasoline reaching the carburetor and engine. The carburetor—is full-vision, and is a new type AC all cleaner which prevents dust from entering.

There is a combination combustion chamber and exhaust flow method of lubrication which he oil supplied through oil oil filler at the bottom of the crankcase by means of a newly designed vane type pump. There is an oil pressure gauge incorporated in the new instrumental panel.

Assuring maximum cooling efficiency there is a new type chromium-plated Harrison honeycomb radiator with a pressure type cap.

The clutch is of the single plate dry disc type and requires no lubrication. The new rear axle, is similar in design to that used on the more expensive cars. It is of the semi-floating type with a strong, one piece, banjo type, pressed steel housing. Six heavy duty New Departure annular ball bearings and extra heavy cut spiral bevel gears make for smooth driving operation.

The steering gear is semi-reversible of the ball nut and worm and sector type. The new shaft is solid, replacing the tubular type formerly used. It is mounted in a bracket securely riveted to the frame. The beautiful, improved steering wheel has a rubber covered spider.

Chevrolet provides non-locking four wheel brakes with rear service brakes in two self-aligning segments contribute to the ease and safety with which they stop the car.

The service brakes on the 11 inch drums on the rear wheels are of the external contracting type and the emergency brake is internal expanding style. The emergency brake lever is conveniently located on the driver's right and operates a braking system independent of the service brakes.

A long flexible vanadium shock absorber steel springs of the semi-elliptical type with a wide action and counting for the easy riding qualities of the new car. The springs are anchored in the rear to provide safety as well as comfort at all speeds. The front springs are 40 inches in length and the rear springs 54 inches. The wheelbase is 107 inches.

Both the new colors and a new order of beauty in Fisher body design characterize the entire passenger line. The high flattened hood and long gleaming chromium radiator supply the keynote of unusual smartness and grace. The rakish unbroken belt line emphasizes the distinctively grouped hood louvres suggest speed and power. The deep divided body moulding and the concave front pillars reflect the vogue so widely favored by leading custom builders, while the larger, longer, lower bodies stand out as tributes to the latest advanced in Fisher craftsmanship.

Appointments are the richest and most luxurious ever offered in this class. The seats are wider and more restful. The ground seat in all closed models is easily adjustable, forward or back, a feature recently introduced on a few of the highest priced cars. The redesigned instrument panel carries an attractive group of color-toned instruments indirectly lighted including the new motor temperature indicator. Rich, long-wearing upholstery and specially designed Turnstedt hardware contribute to the enrichment of distinction.

Added safety in night driving has been accomplished through the use of a light control switch at the left of the steering pedal. Instead of pressing the lights the range effect is obtained by changing the angle of the new twin-beam head lamps by means of the floor button with the foot. Both hands, meanwhile may remain on the wheel directing the course of the car.

A new body style takes its place in the new Chevrolet line, supplanting the Imperial Landau. It is the convertible landau sedan on which the top rear quarter may be completely folded down. The car is finished in Trianon Blue with Delphian Blue belt and striped in Tuxk Ivory. Window mouldings are in Walnut Grain finish with upholstering in rich blue-gray mohair plush.

The new coach is finished in Niagara grey with Helmet gray belt and striped in Tusk Ivory. Window mouldings are Walnut grain finish and upholstering in blue-gray worsted cloth. Smart Cootie blue with Delphian belt has been selected as the finish for the coupe. It is striped in Mountain ash scarlet and has window mouldings in Walnut grain finish. It is upholstered in Gray worsted plush.

The sedan is finished in Huntington green with Como green belt and striped in Cayuga ivory. Window mouldings are in Walnut grain finish and upholstering in green worsted plush. The convertible cabriolet is finished in Trianon blue with Delphian blue belt and striped in Tusk Ivory. Window mouldings are Walnut grain finish. The cabriolet is quickly convertible into a sport roadster by lowering the top.

The new phaeton, which has taken the place of the touring car is finished in Como green with Xanthar green belt. It is striped in Tusk Ivory and has mouldings in Xanthar green. The phaeton is finished in Estes Park grey striped in Vincinnes red. Its upholstering is in Estes Park grey. The top is easily and quickly lowered into a boot for the top is provided.

All models are equipped with parabolic type headlamps, with parking lights operating from the lighting switch. A theft proof electro-lock is also standard. There is a storage battery ignition compatible case; motor driven Klaxon horn; complete tool kit; weather-proof pedal enclosure; automatic stoplight and rear vision mirror.

Closed, open cars have curtains that open with the doors, and a full vision windshield with vacuum operated rain vision and wiper. Coach, coupe, sedan, cabriolet and convertible landau are equipped with military arm vision. A Fisher VV type windshield with automobile type visor and narrow windshield posts which eliminate blind spots. There are adjustable driver's seats in all closed models and cowl lamps on the cabriolet and convertible landau. Balloon tires, 4.50 by 20 are standard on all passenger models.

In the Chevrolet six-cylinder line which is announced today is seen one of the most important developments in recent motor history—the production of a powerful and attractive six in the low price range hitherto occupied exclusively by fours. Unique among the seven new models offered, is the convertible landau, illustrated above, with a top rear quarter that may be raised and lowered.

The new valve-in-head motor, which develops 46 horsepower at low engine speed, is exceptionally quiet throughout the entire speed range as a result of automatic lubrication of the valve mechanism. It develops 32 per cent more power than its four-cylinder predecessor. The factory states that "speed has been stepped up to satisfy maximum requirements" but engineers who tried the car out at the proving ground report traveling over seventy miles an hour.

The announcement reveals that Chevrolet engineers began four years ago the research work, planning and proving ground testing which culminated in the new car. More than 100 different motors are said to have been built and tested. The one which has finally been adopted is of the high compression type with 3 5-16 bore, 3 3-4 inch stroke and 194 cubic inch piston displacement. Notable features are gasoline pump instead of vacuum tank feed and special accelerating pump which operates when the accelerator is depressed.

Adjustable driver's seat, water temperature gauge on dash, four-cowled headlights and a new muffling system are some of the many refinements.

STEADY IMPROVEMENT IS NOTED IN LOCAL SANITARY CONDITIONS

Few Number of Small-Pox Cases According to Hope McGinnis

Following is the annual report submitted to Dr. G. S. Crook, Medical Officer of Health, by Hope McGinnis, Inspector of Health. The report shows there were no cases of small-pox this year as compared with fifty-one last year.

Dr. G. S. Crook,
Medical Officer of Health,
Belleville, Ont.

Dear Sir,—

I beg to submit herewith the annual report for the fiscal year of 1928 (October 31st, 1927 to Nov. 1st, 1928).

Contagious Diseases

For comparison there follows a list of all cases reported to the Inspector's Office for the year 1927 and 1928.

Diseases	1927	1928
Measles	21	39
Diphtheria	5	28
Chicken Pox	33	13
Mumps	1	6
Small Pox	51	0
Typhoid	0	3
Scarlet Fever	30	99

This shows an increase in Scarlet Fever and Diptheria but none whatever of the dreaded disease Pox.

The present state of health in the City so far as infectious diseases are concerned is as follows:

concerned is as follows: Diphtheria, 2 cases.

City Water Supply

The reports from the Provincial Laboratories, on tests made from the weekly samples forwarded to them show:

84 reports in "A" class—"Good"
4 reports in "D" class—"Unsatisfactory."

Milk Supply

A higher standard is being shown every year in regard to this important diet. The last report we received showed that every sample was reported upon by the Provincial Laboratories as clean.

Sanitary Conditions

A steady improvement is being made each year regarding sanitary conditions in the city and all complaints are being amicably adjusted.

In conclusion I wish to express my appreciation of the hearty co-operation of the public and their consideration to me in the discharge of my duties in connection with the Health Department and particularly the Medical.

Officer of Health, the Chairman and Members of the Board of Health, the City Clerk and all other officials of the Municipality of the City of Belleville.

Respectfully submitted,

HOPE McGINNIS,
Inspector Public Health Dept.

NAPANEE WON A DOUBLE HEADER

Belleville's third game in the Girl's Intercollegiate Basket Ball League was played last evening in the gymnasium of the Belleville Collegiate with Belleville Senior and Junior teams competing against the teams from Napanee Collegiate. The evening's games were not a success from the Belleville view-point, as both games were won by Napanee. The score in the Senior game was 24—3 and in the Junior game 26—16.

This was the first game in the new Cell gate and the gallery was filled with spectators. The rah rah's collegians rang out at intervals and loud encouragement to the players who worked with renewed vigor.

In the Senior game, Napanee showed fine training, and the Napanee forwards gained point after point with easy skill. At the end of the first period, Napanee was well on its way to victory with a score 14—1. In the second period the effort was renewed and the final score became 24—3.

The Junior game was very close and the spectators were kept in suspense till the final whistle blew. As each team gained a basket, the opposing team responded with points. The final result was in Napanee's favor with a score 26—16.

After the game the teams were served dainty lunch in the dining room of the cafeteria. This was followed by a dance in the girls' "gym" with the Belleville Collegiate Orchestra in attendance.

Line-Up

Napanee Seniors: Forwards, Donoho Wilson, Margaret Douglas; jumping centre, Dora Anderson; side, Marjorie Daly; guards, Kathleen Dickson, Marion Embury.

Belleville Seniors: Forwards, Lenore Stafford, Margaret Fairbairn; jumping centre, Gladys Munniss; Side, Ethel Field; guards Margaret Walker, Alice Potter, Jean McLaughlin.

Score: 24—3 for Napanee.

Referees: Miss McLaughlin, Miss Merry.

Napanee Juniors: forwards Kathleen McFarlane; Jessie McIlwaine; jumping centre, Marion Exley; side centre, Grace Joyce; guards Mabel Jackson, Margaret Walters, Jean Graham.

Belleville Juniors: forwards, Gladys Ureh, Bertha Gilbert; jumping centre, Helen Tilley; Side centre, Gertrude Boulter; guards, Marjorie Moore, Mary Lee.

Score: 26—16 for Napanee.

Referees: Miss McLaughlin, Miss Merry.

In the chairs.
She has gone ....
I know she'd want it left.

That's the way she'd want it.
For when she used to go away

When she'd come back
Things out of place disturbed her,

It wasn't founded that the cow should find the poppies.

In the maize, in the wheat, in the green hay
Or lies up the look in under you can see them—so.)

DONT CHIP THE PLASTER

When driving a nail into a plastered wall, first put it into very hot water until it is thoroughly heated. You can then drive it without breaking or chipping any of the surrounding plaster.

To remove perspiration stains never use soap. Soak the stained part in tea which a little ammonia has been added. Then wring, and if the mark has not quite gone, rub with lemon juice and wash out in clear water.

She ate the green and she ate the red poppies;
She lay down to rest and to chew her cud,
And to eat them again with reminiscent rapture—
The poppy and the pod and the sheathed round bud.

Of course she dreamed—having eaten poppies,
She walked the silver throughsphere that is the Milky way.
She had never seen cypresses, but certainly cypresses
Hemmed the road in, slender and grey.

And the sky was lavender, and dusty with moonlight.
She dreamed that she was Io, walking, dense,
She was so lovely and slim and white
That the god who looked on her loved her straightway.

SCORCHING LINEN

If linen is scorched badly, make a mixture by extracting the juice from two large onions; with it mix four tablespoonfuls of fuller's earth, half a cupful of soap jelly, and a cupful of vinegar. Bring these to the boil, let the mixture cool, and then spread it on the scorched place. Let it dry, then wash the linen in the usual way and let it lie on the grass in the sun for a time.

Answers to Correspondents

"W. O."—I do not think you could successfully bleach the color out of your frock. Strong bleaches are apt to destroy the material. You could, however, retint the frock to any color you like, with a simple dye.

"Country Girl"—Why not serve a chicken salad and hot biscuits? The salad can be made the day before, and the biscuits early in the morning and left in the ice box until lunch time; when they can be popped into a hot oven and baked. This makes a simple yet dainty and delicious course. For dessert serve an ice (which can me made and packed the night before) and in line of the regulation Brides' Cake, an angel cake or a Lady Baltimore cake, either of which is a delectable accompaniment to an ice Good lunch for "The Day" and all time to come.

"Billy Boy"—Mark Twain was once asked to propose a toast to "Women" at a dinner on the Correspondents' Club in Washington. His speech is the very thing for you, I think. Here it is:

"Mr. President, I love the sex. I love all women, irrespective of age or colour. We cannot estimate how much we owe to woman. She sews on our buttons, mends our clothes, she rocks us in at Church bazaars, she confides in us she tells us whatever she can find out about the little affairs of the neighbors. She gives us advice and plenty of it; she gives us a piece of her mind sometimes, and sometimes all of it. Wherever you place woman she is an ornament to the place she occupies, and a treasure to the world. Look at Cleopatra, look at Desdemona, look at Florence Nightingale, look at Lucretia Borgia."

Here there were cries from the guests of "No, no!" and the humourist went on—

"Well, suppose we let Lucretia slide. Look at the illustrious Widow Machree, look at Lucy Stone, and look at the mother of Washington. She never got up a boy Who could not lie! I repeat, sir, that in whatever position you place a woman she adorns it. As a sweetheart, she has few equals and no superiors. As a companion she is convenient; as a wealthy grandmother with an incurable distemper she is unspeakably precious. What would the people of the earth be without woman? They would be very scarce.

1-2 thspns chocolate.

Cream shortening, add sugar gradually. Add the unbeaten egg. Sift flour before measuring, then mix and sift flour, baking powder and salt and add alternately with the milk. Add the melted chocolate. Put two molds or tins of the mixture into a steamer, cover each steak with a blanket of onions. Serve with brown sauce.

HINTS FOR DOG LOVERS.

No doubt many of my readers own a dog of one kind or another and may welcome a few hints as to his treatment. It is, I hope, unnecessary to remind you that kindness must be the golden rule. Doggie must learn to love his owner, and should always be treated with gentleness, firmness and due consideration. Attend personally to the feeding and daily needs of your pet; he will then come to depend upon you, and give you a wealth of affection which he will bestow upon no other.

Doggie's Meals

Beware of over-feeding. Sufficient for his needs he must certainly have, but no more, and you must try to resist those pleading brown eyes of his when he stands at your side at meal-times!

Two meals daily are all he should have if he is to be kept healthy. The first may be given about nine o'clock in the morning and may consist of Dog Biscuit. Those known as the Pet Dog Biscuits are the most suitable for, if small dog.

An enamelled dish of water should always be within reach, and this should be refilled once or twice a day. Some dogs greatly enjoy a little drink of tea with milk in it, and there is no reason why they should not be so indulged occasionally.

The second meal should be given about four or five o'clock in the afternoon, and may be composed of scraps from the bread or boiled rice, with a little gravy. Don't forget that "Mr. Dog" likes variety in his food. Sometimes he might have a basin of bread and milk in place of the morning biscuit, or the meat may be reversed—boiled rice, with a little well-boiled liver or tripe constituting the evening meal, and bread and milk the second meal.

Next week we will discuss his toilet and other details.

Then let us cherish her, let us protect her, and let us give her our support, our encouragement, and ourselves—if we get a chance. But, jesting apart, every one here will cordially welcome the first woman of us has known, loved and honored the best of them all—his own mother."

JUST IN PASSING

FARM

Her husband built stone walls around the pasture,
To mark it off from fertile tillage land,
And from forests of pine.
Valuable in forty years.

But around her built a higher wall;
A wall that from her heart to stone
And buried out of sight the hopes she had—
Hopes that would have been fruitful,
Given a little sun...a little care...
And harvested in the right season.

He thought if he spent all his time On the tillage land,
He could leave the rest to God.

SANTA CLAUS COMES TRUE

Santa Claus is traditionally represented as being hairier and less merry sounds by reindeer. They are certainly among the swiftest animals in the world, and a project has taken shape for commercializing their fine quality of speed. A racing "stud" of twenty reindeer has been established in Vancouver and six Eskimo drivers are being trained to guide the animals in the narrow paths of the racing tracks. It is claimed that this innovation in the field of racing will show the public "what speed means."

MISTAKEN INTERFERENCE

At a meeting of the British Social Hygiene Council his dinner School held this past summer in Cambridge, an eminent Professor is reported to have said; "We should not dare to play the violin at a concert without knowing anything about it, and yet we do not think it necessary to learn the important art of love-making."

To the ordinary person, the Professor's concern as to the proper procedure in a matter of that kind is quite unnecessary. No guide-books, no strict set of rules, no special code of vocabulary, are required. Given a moonlight night, a pretty girl, an ardent swain—and leave the rest to destiny!

OSCULATORY

Recently there was recorded in the newspapers the death of a girl who had, some four years ago, been engaged to a consumptive young man, and from him, it was alleged, had received a poisoned kiss, which led to tuberculosis. There were, however, only vague indications that the young lady had thus contracted the fatal disease, and the girl herself had no reproaches to make with regard to her lover.

The case, however opens out a very interesting subject. The study of kissing, in a merely functional sense, presents a wide field for the contemplative observer. Indeed, osculation might be variously classified, to include for like for the baby, the kiss for the cousin, the kiss for the mother-in-law, and so on, ad infinitum. But the kiss for the sweetheart would always stand in a class of its own. Poets and novelists have for ages striven to describe it, but have always failed to give just the necessary hint touch to the description. Lovers themselves are silent on the subject.

As to the origin of the custom, it would be necessary to delve deep into musty tombs to arrive at its inception, and the custom which lingers round the old subject would be lost in the dry task of research. All that is necessary to know is that kissing has been in operation since historical records began to be compiled and that there is no prospect of its cessation.

A famous American humorist said he was frequently puzzled when he was in the Far-East, by the habit which men had of kissing each other, until he accidentally saw the faces of some of the Eastern women, who had hitherto been veiled. "Well," he continued, "man must kiss something, but rather that!"—and he did not conclude the sentence.

But to return to the subject of the sweetheart's kiss, an old-time rhymester aptly sums up thus—

"When we dwell on the lips of the girl we adore,
Not a pleasure in Nature is missing,
May his soul rest in Heaven, he deserves it, I am sure—"

Who was first inventor of kissing,
Now Adam, I verily think, was the man
Whose invention has ne'er been surpassed.

Then since this sweet game will
Creation beam,
To the end of the world will it last!"

An American seeing London, ordered a cocktail in the hotel bar. His choice was a speciality called "The Stars and Stripes." When served, he saw that the drink was composed of liqueurs of varying drinkities, the whole producing an effect of stripes. "That's all right for the stripes," remarked he American, holding the glass up in front of him, "but what about the stars?" "The man behind the bar grinned broadly. "Drink the cocktail," he advised, "and you'll see all of the stars!"

Here is an argument against the "modern" Shakespeare.

Modes and Moods

No, you can't have Juliet on a balcony
In knee-high skirts
And be impressive.
One must have the outward trappings of the inward mood.
Else the scene falls short of harmony.
A Juliet turned to Julie
Still the banister-rail with boyish grace
And calls to Romeo
"I prithee, a light, Romeo,
For my cigarette!"

Unexpected Hospitality

The best host and his guests had been talking for hours, at least the host thought it must have been hours, and he decided to end things right away. "Would you like to sample something French?" he whispered, bending forward. "The real thing—before we go to bed?" "Would I," returned the other, and his face lit up. "You bet I would!" "Right," said his host, and called in his housekeeper, "Jane," he said, "bring in that pot of Dubbee marmalade and a plate of biscuits."

The whole world knows Aspirin as an effective antidote for pain. But it's just as important to know that there is only one genuine Aspirin. The name Bayer is on every tablet, and on the box. 'If the name Bayer appears, it's genuine; and if it doesn't, it is not! Headaches are dispelled by Aspirin. So are colds, and the pain that goes with them; even neuralgia, neuritis, and rheumatism promptly relieved. Get Aspirin—at any drugstore—with proven directions.

Physicians prescribe Aspirin; it does NOT affect the heart

Bayer is the trade mark (registered in Canada) indicating Bayer Manufacture. While it is well known that Aspirin means Bayer manufacture, to assure the public against imitations, the Tablets will be stamped with their "Bayer Cross" trademark.

What a pleasure it is to sit down and eat a good, hearty meal without a premonition that there will be pain and discomfort in the process of digestion.

This pleasure is even greater to one who for years has been subject to chronic indigestion and has finally found a relief from his derangement by using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

Chronic indigestion usually results from torpid liver and a consequently constipated condition of the bowels. Naturally, there are headaches and billousness in many cases and much irritability and depressed feelings.

It is so easy to allow this condition to develop that almost before you know it you become a "dyspeptic".

But what a relief when you learn about Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills and put them to a test. In a day or two you are feeling fine and soon you realize that you have discovered the most effective regulator of the liver, kidneys and bowels.

Great Demand Is Shown for Boxed Variety; Higher Prices

Picton, Nov. 23.—Financial returns from the 1928 crop of apples in Prince Edward county will be just as large if not larger than last year in spite of the smaller crop," stated Leslie Smith, fruit specialist stationed here under the Ontario Department of Agriculture, in speaking to the Gazette this week.

"The reason for this," said Mr. Smith "is that prices are much higher for first quality fruit than last year. Second fruit growers this year have got as much as $6.50 a barrel for No. 1 fruit and quite a few got the same price for McIntosh, Snows and Delicious, although the probable average price paid for the popular varieties of No. 1 grade in Prince Edward was about $3.50 to $6 per barrel."

Spraying and Cultivation

The value of correct spraying and cultivation was emphasized by Mr. Smith as essential to a good crop of fruit. "Those orchard men," he said, "who put on all the sprays at the right time, and the Department of Agriculture co-operated with them in every way and cultivated their orchard certain year reaping the rewards of their efforts."

Mr. Smith explained cases where there had been carelessness, about spraying and poor cultivation. The crop was almost a failure with a lower yield and poorer quality.

That many fruit growers have made their sale of their crops this year than last, was Mr. Smith's opinion and it is understood here that many county growers had got from $4,000 to $5,000 from their orchards.

Apples in Boxes Shows Increase

"What is the price of apples put up in boxes as compared with those put up in barrels?" was the inquiry made.

Mr. Smith's answer was very informative and throws a light on the trend of the fruit industry.

Apples packed in boxes brought as much as one-third higher prices than those packed in barrels, stated Mr. Smith. In other words if a barrel of apples sold at $3, the same quantity in boxes would bring $8. Mr. Smith went on to explain the reason for this.

The average family buys at the city markets does not want a whole barrel of one variety, but is anxious to get one or two baskets of each variety.

Mr. Smith prophesied that inside of a few years a much larger proportion of the apple crop would be put in boxes and hampers.

Several large growers have already adopted the method of packing apples in boxes. Others will likely follow as they come to realize that higher returns can be realized and when they learn how to do the work.

"Boxes and hampers are the coming containers," declared Mr. Smith.

Apple Industry Improving

Mr. Smith considers that the apple industry in Prince Edward County is improving considerably each year. It used to be the case that if an orchard yielded a good crop one year, a poor crop the next was expected. But every year, but lime has brought about a great change in our ideas about that. The fruit growers nowadays look for a good crop

Mary Queen of Scots Always in Shadow of Dark Conspiracies

The Scottish Chai Systems threw the Nobles into the Central, Strategic and Impregnable Position Politically, Preventing that Alliance of Crown and Common: that in England held the Barons in check.

By William Arthur Deacon

Surrounded by treachery on every side, even in the persons of her husband and her prime minister, Mary Queen of Scots was in an impossible position. Her six years' rule in Scotland ended in failure because there was no one whom she could trust in the more responsible offices of government. When her brother, the Earl of Moray, was serving as prime minister, he was known to have assured the English crown that "he would find his devoted servants ready for any service asked of them."

If Mary had had the wisdom and means to break the power of the lords as ruthlessly as Henry VII had done in England, she might have found the security she never knew. Training and circumstances were against it. Brought up from babyhood at the Court of France, what could she know of the common people? Being a Catholic, she was alien to the majority of her subjects. Also, the clan system ensured an allegiance to the lord, except in cities which, in Scotland, were few. Finally, Elizabeth, fearing Mary as heir presumptive to the English throne, would have welcomed the excuse any limitation of the powers of the Scottish Protestant lords would have given her to pour her forces across the border, and unite the two countries under herself as Queen. Mary dismissed the English ambassador, Randolph, because he was caught delivering to Scottish lords 2,000 in bags sealed with Elizabeth's crest. Her confidential secretary, David Rizzio, was murdered, almost before the eyes, by fifty nobles because he was a foreigner and a Catholic, and because the Queen trusted him. Within six years she had to cope with four rebellions, and was twice imprisoned by her own subjects. The various political and religious factors invented in turn; and all plotted incessantly.

Treachery? Why, the poor woman was born in it and died in it. Before she was less than a year old, the Earl of Lennox bargained with Henry VIII of England to hand over the kingdom and the person of his infant sovereign, in exchange for the hand of Henry's niece, the Princess Margaret. To this end, Lennox invaded Scotland, with English troops; but, though he defeated his compatriots, they managed to save little Mary from the clutches of France. The son of Lennox and Margaret, was Henry Darnley, Mary's second husband, who in turn formed a plot against her; and so it went till she lost her head at Fotheringay Castle because somebody gave away Babington's plot.

Not much is clear from Margaret Kurtbaum-Siebert's "Mary Queen of Scots" (Nelson, Illustrated, $3.50), which tells the tragic story from Mary's arrival from France to her escape from Lochleven Castle in Kinross. Its merit is its historic faithfulness. The author is particularly happy in making clear the statesmanship involved in Mary's marriages, and the political results of each.

Born 1542, she was betrothed in her first year to Prince Edward of England. Brought up by her mother's people at the French Court, she married the Dauphin, 1558. Francis and Mary ascended the thrones of France, 1559, and he died, 1560. Having escaped Elizabeth's ships at sea, Mary arrived in Scotland, 1561. Surrounded by Protestant advisers, she soon faced the revolt of Ian Gordons, that of the Protestant Catholic clans of Scotland, which resulted in the death of their chief, the Earl of Huntly, and the execution of his son, Sir John Gordon. The suppression of rebels was popular.

On her marriage to Lord Darnley her cousin (and also Elizabeth's cousin) on July 29, 1565, her brother Moray and the Hamiltons promptly revolted. On their defeat, the rebellious lords escaped and were outlawed. Listening to the entreaties of her husband, and of her advisers — Catholic and Protestant — Mary pardoned the exiled Protestant lords who returned to power. Their first business was the forming of a conspiracy under the leadership of the King-consort to kill Rizzio and depose the Queen. This was put into effect March 9, 1566; and Mary was imprisoned in Holyrood for some days. But the swindling King, not content with treason to his wife and Queen, to whom he owed everything he was and had, must needs betray her to her sole accomplice. Mary escaped and gathered an army but the Protestant lords fled.

Having attained, they next murdered the King very publicly on the night of 10th-11th May, 1567, by blowing him up with gunpowder. Then they married Mary to Bothwell, who had carried the Queen (and also Elizabeth's crown) on July 20, 1565, her brother Moray and the Hamiltons promptly revolted. On their defeat, the rebellious lords escaped and were outlawed. Listening to the entreaties of her husband, and of her advisers — Catholic and Protestant — Mary pardoned the exiled Protestant lords who returned to power. Their first business was the forming of a conspiracy under the leadership of the King-consort to kill Rizzio and depose the Queen. This was put into effect March 9, 1566; and Mary was imprisoned in Holyrood for some days. But the swindling King, not content with treason to his wife and Queen, to whom he owed everything he was and had, must needs betray her to her sole accomplice. Mary escaped and gathered an army but the Protestant lords fled.

Having attained, they next murdered the King very publicly on the night of 10th-11th May, 1567, by blowing him up with gunpowder. This was the work of the consort-nobility of Scotland, Mary probably concurring. Their reason to object was the Earl of Lennox, father of the deceased. The Earl of Bothwell was created Duke in April 15th and acquitted by his peers at a gorgeous mock trial that

Stricken With Terrible Backache

"High-rigger" in very bad way until Gin Pills gave relief

To have kidney trouble, when in the heart of the woods during the wet season, is very serious, as Mr. J. F. Miller found out.

But let him tell the story himself. "In the woods, last fall," he writes, "I was soaked to the skin for days, and was in the bad. I was on the woods boss wanted to send me to the city for medical treatment. One of the boys advised Gin Pills. In four days I was back on the job. All the boys," Mr. Miller adds, "carry Gin Pills in their pack."

The truth is kidneys are such hard-working organs they can't stand neglect. Backache is only one sign of trouble. Dizziness, brief, dim in spells, swollen joints, headaches, in burning sensation attendant on scanty or too frequent urination are others. At the first indication of trouble, take Gin Pills. Avoid imitations. 50c, $1.00, Lumbago and even more serious kidney ills. 50c, at all druggists. National Drug & Chemical Co. of Canada, Limited, Toronto, Canada. 175 ended in a feast of jubilation at which the nobles signed a document vindicating Bothwell, crowned him with a crown, and nominating him as husband for the Queen.

Taking them at their word, Bothwell took Mary, a willing prisoner, to Dunbar Castle with some show of force on June 24th. She was divorced from his wife on May 7th, on the 12th solemnly pardoned for abducting her, and created Duke of Orkney. On the 15th she married him. This immediately drove the majority of the nobles into open revolt; and the latter at once set Darnley Field on June 15th, whereupon Bothwell was exiled and she was imprisoned in Lochleven, where, under duress, she abdicated on July 24th in favor of her infant son, James VI. After two years, she escaped into England and she was beheaded by Elizabeth's order in 1587.

The Darnley marriage was a more far-sighted move than has usually been admitted. He was the only other heir to the English Throne, so by marrying him she disposed of her only rival, and won the approval of England, since it eliminated the possibility of a foreign power — say Spain — getting a foothold in Great Britain through marriage with the Scottish Queen. This marriage also quashed Elizabeth's hypocritical advance to Leicester for the honor—an honor she would never have allowed him to accept, as witness the fate of Amy Robsart.

Of course Mary wanted Darnley before she had him. She had an eye for pretty things, and he was as good looking as he was empty headed. His feeling for dress was as artistic as his was unmanliness. A close-fitting doublet of silver-grey velvet, slashed with pale pink satin on the hips and round the sleeves, a pearl-studded silver-grey velvet lined with pale pink and trimmed with swandown hanging from his shoulders by a chain of gold: in camp, she moved freely about among her soldiers, cheering them by her own undaunted spirit. Her husband sat stiffly in his tent, in golden armor, "like a magnificent piece of decoration." Mary would ride all night till her companions of their wounds exhausted, and slept where they fell, while she called for messengers to take the dispatches she was giving write immediately. On one of these rides, her party heard horses approaching; and Darnley, who was in front, asked whether they were friends or foes, boiled. When Bothwell came with his hoop, he asked where the King was. "Ridden hibeed," said Mary. Bothwell laughed.

The reason for marrying Bothwell was, beside her love for him, that he was the only strong man of her acquaintance who showed any disposition to remain loyal to her. The French ambassador has left the opinion that nothing but petty jealousy caused the nobles to turn on Bothwell; that their primary excuse was that it was indecent for the Queen to remain the wife and husband's murderer. Considering that they had acquitted him, and were equally guilty, this shows an obviously insincere. Their expressed fear that Bothwell, the sole male of his prospect for children, might slay the son of Darnley and Mary (afterwards James I of England) is also peculiar in view of the child having been, almost from birth, in the custody of a noble appointed as guardian by the Parliament. The breaking up of this marriage, the constant tragedy of Mary's life, was due to mere lack of tact on Bothwell's part in abducting the Queen. This bit of chivalry must have been borne home to the nobles vividly that Bothwell on the Throne would be their master, and not their mere associate. This, they could not stand; so it became Mary's fate that the only possible spouse of effective trustworthiness she ever met, was promptly and ruthlessly denied her.

A FORD-CONRAD DUEL.

"A LITTLE LESS THAN GODS." By Ford Madox Ford; Irwin & Gordon; 361 pages; $2.50.

Any novelist who can write as masterly a piece of fiction as "The Good Soldier" is worthy of the closest scrutiny. Mr. Ford's four-volume war novel, starting with "Some Do Not" and ending with "The Last Post," stands with C. E. Montague's "Rough Justice," as the two other first rate war novels.

But an element other than merit or plausiness must enter into consideration, of. "A Little Less Than Gods." The dedicatory note states that this work was planned many years ago; and was to be written in collaboration with another author, and some work on it and then died. That unnamed collaborator was undoubtedly Joseph Conrad, and the work he did on the theme can only be "Suspense," the unfinished novel published posthumously three years ago. It was Conrad's ambition to make this story his crowning achievement; and though it remains no more than a setting, Mr. Ford is convinced that the implied challenge of "A Little Less Than Gods."

The striking resemblance between the two books extends beyond plot, period and characters; they share the same strong points and defects. Mr. Ford's has the inestimable advantage of a conclusion, while Conrad's always appeared to be getting nowhere but never arrived. "A Little Less Than Gods" preserves perfect proportions and every element, and the chief actor is a brave and not particularly astute young Englishman. Ford brings the principal Napoleon into the picture more than Conrad does; also his Napoleonic military officer is treated with more humor

Both, after the manner of the historical novel, give the reader the benefit of perspective as a sort of living background. Invisibly controlling the drama played by lesser historical characters in the foreground, Ney, for example, controls the fortunes of Mr. Ford's book in only one short passage; and the more complicated nature of his relation to Napoleon is repeatedly suggested as a great underlying fact. Similarly, Bothwell, in the one novel, is sensed always as the cold, implacable fate awaiting the fiery ambition of the Catalan.

What happens to these little folk in the face of so enormous a consequence to the strife of the titans behind "A Little Less Than Gods" is modern in its finished art. Mr. Ford's treatment performed by the banker Frejus, and the mysterious and fabulously wealthy Mr. Asshéton Smith. The latter is the sheer splendid in its Olympian view of the human consequences of a bout by a million petty circumstances, the obscure workings of the minds of thousands of obscure people. There is much more in it than Napoleon, "his mind always on the minds of his enemies." One comes with a shock on the revelation that one of the generals of Louis XVIII did not know Marshal Ney by sight. And always there is heart, and the fevered confusion of cross purposes in momentous issues. This does not make for a smooth, smoothly running tale; but the book does create the illusion of life through the brief storm, when Destiny appears to be very, very fickle. This, I take it, was the author's aim; and the experience is memorable.

MAY MODERNIZE MAYOR'S HOME

Mansion House, Residence of Lord Mayor, Needs Renovation

London, Eng., Nov. (By C.P.)—Modernization of the Mansion House, the official residence of the Lord Mayor of London, has been discussed intermittently since 1911, when the subject was brought to notice of the Corporation of London. The Mansion House was then said to be unfit for the work it had to do and incapable of housing Lord Mayor and his staff in comfort. The war, however, intervened. A scheme to deal with the whole interior of the building is now being considered. When the financial details are completed the Mansion Council will be asked to vote a large sum of money for the contemplated improvements, possibly as much as £100,000.

Carl Hentschel, public spirited citizen, a former member of the Corporation, and owner of Hendon, when chairman of the General Purposes Committee, went into the very difficult problem involved in the modernizing of the Mansion House. From intimate knowledge he expressed the view (and he has been responsible for the Mansion House) that the building could not be rebuilt on modern lines. He alleged nothing but "patching" was ever done, and that the committee only considered economy.

It is known that Lady Sybilla when Lady Mayoress, had misgivings about inhabiting the house the late Victorian era, enjoys the mode of family life which has developed and sheltered so many of our best daughters, as the story opens, are beginning to experiment with modern life. Although devoted to their father, they can not sympathize with his old-fashioned point of view. Mr. Swinnerton develops his story from this situation with great dexterity. There is, it is no propaganda for either side. Both youth and age appeal to his humorous sympathy and his presentation is scrupulously fair.

Fairness to both his characters and his readers is, in fact, one reason for this author's popularity. He plays no tricks to heighten his effects, but allows his drama to develop naturally from the inter-relation of his characters. He is as sensitive to the finer shades of conduct as George Meredith or Henry James, but lacks the obscurity which restricts the appeal of their writing. With these qualities are combined good taste and precision in language—too infrequent, unfortunately, in modern fiction.

Without these characteristics, another author might have used the same plot and achieved a trite or banal result. Mr. Swinnerton has given us a novel of distinction.

when her husband became Lord Mayor, and preferred to stay at an hotel until certain works were done. Even then the Lord Mayor and Lady Mayoress, like Mansion House was what the official residence of the City's Chief Mag istrate should be.

"The fact is that the committee has always been in a difficulty," says the writer. "Each Lord Mayor se'ts up rivires, desires naturally enough to move into the Mansion House at the earliest possible moment, and does not like the place being modernized properly.

Lord Mayor would possibly have to live elsewhere during his year of office. In such an event (and so far, it has not been suggested) the Mayoralty would have to be installed in one of the City Halls.

"The Mansion House as we see it today differs from the building erected for Sir Crisp Gascoigne (an ancestor of Lord Salisbury) in 1752. Originally the flight of stone steps beneath the portico was broken by a series of platforms, and the steps turned inwards towards a common centre. This was the proper, and indeed the only entrance. The Wallbrook, on side door gave access to a stable. Internally, too, much has been greatly altered. The present saloon was not constructed. There was an open courtyard on the site afterwards the Italian fashion. It was roofed in 1793.

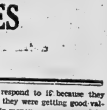

PRESS EXCELLENT ADVER. MEDIUM

London, Eng., Nov. 23.—(Canadian Press).—Sir Charles Frederick Rigbath, author and publicist, speaking on "Scientific Distribution," said there was no advertising medium so useful to the business man as the press was responded to with, such speed, and profit. Newspaper advertising paid better today than it ever did. Most of the goods now consumed by the public were sold under a branded name, and the most economical method of distributing these was by press advertising, properly done. The dealer would always stock an article which was nationally advertised in the daily press, because he was convinced first, that the article must be good or it would not be advertised at all; and secondly, that the pub lic would respond to it because they knew that they were getting good value for their money.

The Government had found newspaper advertising extremely valuable in increasing the sales of British goods through the Empire Marketing Board, Sir Charles said.

REAL MONEY SAVING CLEANING SERVICE
Sprague—the cleaner—started a new era in Belleville for low rate dry-cleaning some time ago and since that time an increasing number of citizens of Belleville and district have been taking advantage of the lower rate charged by Sprague.
It has resulted in extra business, of course, and Sprague's have been content to take less profit per garment, and handle the increased business.
They offer a prompt and regular cleaning service, a class of work which constantly brings repeated orders. Try this firm.

FORD CARS TRIUMPH IN SEVERE TESTS CONDUCTED IN GERMANY
Remarkable Ford Success Arouses German Interest

The rules of the German Adac Utility and Economy Run make good reading since the trial appear to have included all the severity of a motorcycle 'Six Days' trial plus some scientific tests that only the Teuton brain could have evolved. The Germans set out to discover which was the best car for the ordinary motor-driver, and with a thoroughness that is characteristic they catalogued the virtues of the ideal car, placed them in logical order, awarded marks for them, and then decided on a series of tests to find out how near each of the competing automobiles came to the ideal.
Of the fifty-three cars that were entered, four were Fords. The makers were allowed to run them either in standard form or modified in a few unimportant details, so long as the alterations were declared, but the Fords were stock cars.
The German authorities rightly considered that the only virtue of any car is reliability. A motor-car, they said, irrespective of its price or class must be able to run day in and day out over indifferent roads, at touring speeds, without attention.
The first section of the trial was the 126 kilometres from Berlin to Cottbus. This including starting, brake and acceleration tests. In the easy starting test, which was repeated every morning, the cars had to be started and driven under their own power within 60 seconds of the time that the driver had first touched the car. As the cars were left cold-soaked, and none was experienced during the test the night, the severity of the test needs no emphasising.
The second day's run was from Cottbus to Hirschberg, a distance of 172 kilometres, commencing with the inevitable easy starting test. On the third day, in which the distance covered was 231 kilometres, a mountain climbing test was included. The fourth day's wanderings terminated at Dresden, 271 kilometres distance; and on the fifth day a 501 kilometre roughroad circuit was made in the Dresden district. 491 Kilometres more brought the competitors to Adenau and the Nurburgring, the central point of the track in the world.
The next day-starting test, in which the Fords obtained highest marks in classes 1 and 2, has already been described. Towards the end of the trial a cold engine, or as the organisers termed it, "a starting with performance test," had to be undertaken. Here quickly the cars could get away from rest with stone-cold engines. On the night prior to the test snow fell, and after the engines had been started the cars were to be driven 700 metres (218 yards) up a 15 percent grade. The winner was the driver who took the least time from the instant that he touched the car to that when its wheels crossed the line at the top of the hill. The four Fords came respectively first, second, third and fourth in the trial, their best time being 58 seconds.
There were two brake tests, one at the commencement of the trial and the other at the end of it. The cars had to be driven at a speed of 50 kilometres per hour and then brought to rest. On the second occasion the Ford beat all others by stopping in a distance of 20 metres (under 22 yards), a remarkable effort when it is remembered that the car has just undergone ten days' strenuous test and travelled over 1,000 miles under extremely arduous conditions.
The fuel consumption test, too, was severe, for the distance over which it was taken was no less than 700 kilometres (434.38 miles). In this trial one Ford showed a consumption of 24.8 litres per 100 kilometres (11.1 miles per gallon). This exceptionally good figure was easily the best obtained by a car using an engine of this size. In all classes, in fact, the Fords were the first in its class, while another Ford came second.
Then came two rough road / hill climbs, one on the Neue Schlesische Baude in Glatz Mountains, and the other in the Nurburging. There was also an ordinary speed hill climb over the 12½ kilometre mountain circuit of the Nurburging. On the first the four Fords came respectively first, second, third and fourth, and on the second th Fords cam first, second and third. In this and see W. C. Leybourne next week and have those cars examined.

NEW STUDEBAKER EIGHT SHATTERS SPEED RECORDS

President Eight roadsters smashed all speed and endurance records for 24 hours between 5:14 p.m., November 11 and 5:14 p.m., November 12, when they raced against time around the oval of the Atlantic City Speedway track at an average speed of 85.82 and 83.20 miles per hour respectively. The car maintaining the highest average sped traveled 2044.8 miles during the 24 hours.
Both roasters were pronounced strictly stock cars, the same as are on display in showrooms throughout the Dominion, by officials of the American Automobile Association, engineers and supervisors of the trip.
Twelve new officials speed records for strictly stock cars were established by the Studebaker roadsters during the test. Three new records include the fastest speed averages ever maintained by any car, regardless of power, price or type. They stand supreme in the automobile world. Studebaker now holds a total of 126 official speed and endurance records, all of which were earned under the critical eye of the American Automobile Association. Recently the International Association of Recognized Automobile Clubs of Paris, granted official recognition to five world records and eight international records, all made by the President Eight.
This Studebaker model stepped into the limelight of popularity when, it completed its famous 30,000 mile run in less than 27,000 minutes. August 1. Never in the history of motor car transportation had any car attempted such a gruelling test of stamina and speed. The nearest approach to this record by any other car was a Studebaker. The Commander, which ran 25,000 miles in less than 23,000 minutes.
The latest achievement of the President Eight is a fitting climax to the 'records being made by this car. Unlimited less than a year ago, grg-antastical figures that it now cuts, cells any other eight-cylinder car manufactured today.

GOOD CLOTHING FOR LESS MONEY
Tip Top Tailors Offer Unusual Value At $24.00

Holiday time will coon be here, men, and so now is the time to have that suit or overcoat made. Before the holiday rush starts.
Naturally, the average man wants to be, and in many cases finds it necessary to be as economical as possible in purchasing his clothing; altogether the clothing item can, if not watched carefully, run into big figures in the family budget.
But there is a solution, and a means whereby the average man who appreciates style and smartness in his clothes, yet at the same time wants to be as economical as possible, can buy that wished suit or overcoat at a great saving.
It is possible through such organizations as the Tip Top Tailors, a nation wide organization of clothing houses, selling its garments, carefully tailored from high class cloths at the one price of $24 for either suit or overcoat. You may have been in the habit of paying $25 or $40 for suits or overclothing not nearly so good, so when you purchase a Tip Top suit and overcoat, you will be saving on purchase from twenty to thirty dollars and at the same time securing a suit or overcoat tailored to your individual requirement.
Clarke C. Dickens, Front Street, is local agent for Tip Top Tailors and will gladly show you this new suit and overcoat samples.

EXAMINATION OF EYES IS ADVISED
Great Trouble is Avoided After Thorough Care

If your eyes are troubling you at all three days the sensible thing to do is to drop in the office of Leybourne, optometrist such as W. C. Leybourne, and have them examined.
Mr. Leybourne, formerly of the optical department of the T. Eaton Company in Toronto, has had ample experience to advise your correctly and can tell the exact condition of your eyes. Examination is done gratis and there is found advisable to have glasses you will be told so. Otherwise, the knowledge that glasses are not necessary will not cost you anything whatever.
The optometrist of today has ample knowledge and equipment to tell quickly just whether or not one requires glasses; it is often found that the eyes are suffering through slight strain. On the other hand, neglect of the eyes, especially in children is the cause of much suffering and ill health generally in Ontario today.
If the average person realized the tremendous handicap under which a child with weak eyes was being placed through inability to see which could be overcome with proper glasses—a great many more would take advantage of the opportunity offered them by the skilled optometrist of today to have their children's sight corrected before the trouble becomes serious.
Call in and see W. C. Leybourne next week and have those eyes examined.

SLAP ON THE BACK CAUSED A TRAGEDY

New York— A slap on the back in congratulations on the engagement he had just announced resulted in the drowning of Wendell Jones, radio operator on the fruit steamer Princess May.
A ring and passage money for a girl in Carnarvon, Wales, were in the mails today, while police were looking for Jones' body in the East River. When he announced his engagement a group of shipmates gathered about him. Leo Pirala, an engineer of the steamer, was overhearty in his greeting and as he slapped the radio man he lost his balance, tripped on the deck and fell overboard, dragging Jones with him.
Pirala was rescued by a second wireless man.

GUELPH HONORS TALENTED SON
Edward Johnson Will Be Tendered Banquet There

Guelph, Ont.— In recognition of the fame which Mr. Johnson, world-famous tenor, has brought not only to his native city, Guelph, Ont., but to all of Canada, Mayor Beverley Robson and the City Fathers are giving a banquet in his honor on December 5.
At this civic function Edward Johnson will be presented with an illuminated address by His Worship the Mayor. On this occasion the Gramophone Company of Canada, Limited; for whom Mr. Johnson has made a number of Victor V.E. Orthophonic records, will present the City of Guelph with a life-size photograph of this great artist.
The archives of the city will also receive the first record made by the Johnson recording of "O Canada" and "The Maple Leaf Forever."
Mr. Johnson's life story reads like a Horatio Alger novel. Just a poor boy in Guelph, Ont., singer in the local Episcopal Church. A burning desire to achieve fame in the world of art. Several years of intense study in New York. Then having succeeded in acquiring together a sufficient amount of money, off to Europe for further instruction. TEN DAYS GIVEN DRUNK DRIVER

Magistrate Mikel Says Offence is Becoming Altogether Too Common

TWO ACCIDENTS

Kenneth Peterson Drove Car at Break Neck Speed on Front St.

Magistrate Mikel this morning sentenced Kenneth Peterson, of Picton, to serve ten days in the County Jail for being intoxicated in charge of a car last Saturday night. Peterson was not represented in court by counsel, and pleaded guilty to the offence. Magistrate Mikel in passing sentence declared that he was raising the penalty for this offence from seven to ten days because it was becoming more common in this district.

Peterson, who evidently was extremely intoxicated, was involved in two accidents before he was finally arrested. Speeding up Front Street, he crashed into the rear of a truck owned by E. Dickens and Son, which was parked in front of their store on Front St. Hastily backing away, Peterson, who was accompanied by a man named John Carey, also of Picton, speeded up Campbell St., and turned north on Pinnacle.

Scarcely ten minutes later a call was received at the station that there had been an accident at the rear of the Graham Cold Storage Plant on Pinnacle St., where two cars had been hastily damaged. Apparently Peterson, coming north on Pinnacle St., failed to see a car parked on the north side of the road, and crashed into the rear, sending it across the street and up on the sidewalk on the opposite side of the road. The Peterson car continued on its way in a circle, and according to eye-witnesses, turned around three times before it finally came to a rest against a tree.

Why neither Peterson or Carey were injured is a mystery, as the car was badly wrecked. Both men jumped and ran, but they were picked up on Front Street a little later. The car which Peterson stuck was owned by Albert Bannister of Plainfield, and although not badly damaged, nevertheless sufered considerably about the body. Peterson also had to pay the costs of the court with the amount to twelve dollars.

CAST OF 200 IN ROTARADA REVUE

Chas. W. Eddy, Director Promises Something New in Entertainment

The Belleville Rotarians this year have decided on something new and novel in the way of a production to procure funds for their crippled children's work in the form of a big operatic spectacle, "THE ROTARADA," which will be presented at the auditorium of the new Belleville Collegiate and Vocational School for five nights, commencing Tuesday December 4th at 8.15 p.m.

The cast is composed of 200 young people and will be alternately staged under the direction of Chas. W. Eddy, of New York City assisted by Miss Miriam L. Eddy. The Belleville Rotary Club having learned of the wonderful success this production received in New York decided to invite Chas. W. Eddy to reproduce this revue for the benefit of the people of Belleville and vicinity.

The Rotarada is a musical revue composed of fancy dances and drill, gems from light operas and musical comedies, refined specialties, stage pictures bright comedy and grand ensembles. Rehearsals are being conducted daily at the local Y.M.C.A.

LAY TRAP FOR CHEQUE ARTIST

Description of the Alleged Crook is Given Belleville Police

Belleville Police and Banks have been requested to be on the look out for a cheque artist who has been operating in Fraserburg lately, and who may be in this district at the present time. He is said to be about thirty-five years of age, dark complexioned, with a small black moustache and wears a gray hat and overcoat.

This smooth cheque manipulator went into a bank in Peterboro and presented a cheque for some seven hundred and fifty dollars which was alleged to represent part of the payment on a lot. He then opened an account, and returned the next day, drawing all hundred out. Since that time he has not been seen.

VESTRIS VICTIM HAS FILED SUIT

New York, November 26.—The first damage action resulting from the sinking of the steamer Vestris was begun in Federal Court today when Orrin B. Stevens, a survivor, fyled a summons and complaint in a suit for $250,000.

Counsel for Stevens obtained fiftn Federal Judge Bondy an order that subpoenas be issued for 122 members of the Vestris crew, who were booked to sail today on the liner Voltaire for Barcodot. The subpoenas require the members of the crew to appear Monday for the taking of depositions.

Stevens, who is manager of the First National Bank of Boston branch at Buenos Aires, lost his wife in the disaster.

KING GEORGE IS FEELING BETTER

Crowds Swarm About Buckingham Palace Awaiting Bulletins

NOT PERTURBED

Prince of Wales is Advised Not to Postpone Hunting Trip

London, Nov. 26.—Late this afternoon there was an atmosphere of confidence about Buckingham Palace. There seemed to be a feeling that tonight's bulletin would be more reassuring than the last two have been.

London, Nov. 26.—To a nation that awaited in anxiety over the sovereign's health the first official bulletin today failed to afford much relief when physicians announced that His Majesty had passed a restless night.

Anxiety continued since the statement did not reveal anything definite about the King's condition. The statement that pleurisy and varability of temperature must be expected at this stage of illness however led to a conclusion that the medical advisers were not perturbed. The bulletin issued at the Palace this morning earlier than usual and remained with the King only a short time. After leaving the sickroom they remained some time in the Palace talking to the members of the Royal household.

Crowds Gather

A large crowd gathered outside the Palace gates anxious for the latest word from the physicians. They were usual changing of guards and during the ceremony the Coldstream Guards played cheerful selections.

It was stated on good authority that a message was sent to the Prince of Wales yesterday telling him there was no need to change his plans. The Prince is hunting in Africa.

London, Nov. 26.—There was a surprise for the crowds in front of the Palace shortly before noon when official's brought out a glass-fronted mahogany case which they hung on the railings. The frame contained official medical bulletins on the King's condition and it was the first time it had been posted.

CONFERENCE ON TRADE EXPORT

Belleville manufacturers will have an opportunity to meet Mr. O. R. Wynne-Roberts, for four years has been Canadian Trade Commission in South Africa. Mr. Stevens will be in Belleville on December 10th and 11th and he will be pleased to consult with Belleville manufacturers and any others here who may be interested in the export trade of Canada.

Mr. Stevens is at present touring the Dominion in the interests of Canadian trade, and is visiting various cities, helping manufacturers and others overcome the difficulties with regard to the export trade and explaining the subject in full.

CARS RECOVERED BY LOCAL POLICE

Two cars stolen in Belleville over the week-end were recovered by the police in short order the first one being the property of Walmsley's wholesalers, and driven by Lee Ketcheson. He had left it parked on Bridge Square and then had gone to get a drink. Sometime during night, but when he returned his car was gone. It was later picked up by the police on Dundas St. near Church, and was found on the Third Concession of Thurlow. It had been abandoned there, and two tires were missing.

Allan Moore, 92 West Bridge St., reported to the police that his Ford coupe had been stolen from in front of his home about teh o'clock Saturday night and it was found about one hour later by the police in front of the Children's Shelter on Dundas St.

BELLEVILLE SEES TOTAL ECLIPSE

Early Risers Will See the Strange Phenomena of Planets

The sun rose yesterday, Nov. 25, at 7.13 a.m. and set at 4.45 p.m. It will rise a minute later and set half a min ute earlier each day during this week. The sun entered Scgittarius, the third autumnal sign of the zodiac, on Thurs day, Nov. 22. Its position in the sky is in the constellation Scorpio, just northeast of the bright red star Antares. The sun is moving south and has reached a point twenty degrees south of the equator.

The Moon

The moon is full at 4.06 a.m. early Tuesday morning. At this full moon the sun, earth, and moon all happen to be on the same straight line. This means that the earth will come between the moon and the sun, cutting off the light of the latter from our satellite, and causing a total eclipse of the moon. The moon will enter the outer part of the earth's shadow at 1.31 a.m., Nov. 27. It will be totally eclipsed at 3.33 a.m., but still visible owing to light refracted through the earth's atmosphere. The end of the total phase will occur at 4.59 a.m. and the moon will leave the shadow at 6.38 a.m., an hour before sunrise. An interesting phenomenon to notice will

TWO KILLED AS PLANE PLUNGES

24 - Year - Old Pilot Was About to Take His Mother Aloft

Sedonk, Mass., Nov.26.—While his mother waited for the promised flight, William Lang, 24 year old owner and pilot of the plane he purchased two weeks ago ordered to his death here yesterday carrying two youthful companions with him. The others were Stanley Daubra, 21, and Francis Clancy, 18. All were of Providence, Rhode Island. The plane crashed more than fifteen minutes after Lang's plane had taken off from the flying field at Pawtucket, Rhode Island.

Earlier in the day Lang had taken his father aloft and it was while the latter was on the first solo flight after to the flying field that Lang decided to give his friends a ride.

CHILDREN'S HOME TOTALEY BURNED

Detroit, Nov. 26.—Seventy children were rescued and none injured when a fire destroyed the summer home of St. Vincent de Paul Sisters of Charity, maintained for orphans and abandoned children. Most of the children were asleep in the home near Farming ton when the fire broke out. The rescue work was carried on almost entirely by a small group of sisters who

SPIRITED BATTLE

Forty-Five Nominated to Fill Council Seats; The Candidates Talk

From eleven o'clock this morning until one o'clock this afternoon nominations for Mayor, Aldermen and School Trustees took place in the City Hall. There were three nominations for the Mayoralty, Alderman A. Bernard Collins, Harry Greenleaf and William A. Woodley. The last-named although nominated, stated to the press that he had no intention of running for mayor.

If at least half of the nominees qualify, there will be a hot contest in the aldermanic field, as there are forty-five nominations for the positions.

In the school board, too, it appears asthough there may be a fight ahead, of the prospective candidates, for in Ketcheson Ward, to fill two positions, the two left vacant by the resignation of Arthur McGie, and the other by the death of the late Colonel E. D. O'Flynn, there are seven nominations.

From eleven until twelve o'clock the nominees for Mayor appeared before electors, with the retiring Chief Magistrate, Morley P. Duff, in the chair, Alderman A. B. Collins was the first candidate called upon to speak and his brief address outlined his activities upon the council for past three years. Mr. Collins spoke in particular, upon the Gas Department, and gave out the welcome news that this year, for the first time, there will be a substantial profit of some $3000 in this department. He said:

"It is indeed an honour, which I highly appreciate, to be placed in nomination by fellow Citizens, for the highest office in our Civic Administration and to be associated with the Veterans in municipal affairs who are aspirants for the same High Office.

"Let me say at the first place and emphatically thank my Mover and Seconder and with them all those good people from every walk in life, from Business, professional, mechanic and labor who have urged me to run, regardless of becoming a Candidate for the Mayoralty.

It has been my privilege and honour to serve to the best of my limited capacity, the good citizens of Belleville for three years, as a member of the City Council, and Sir, I want to take this opportunity to thank the Citizens for their co-operation encouragement loyalty and support.

And to those with whom it was my privilege to serve during those three years,—let me here publicly express my sincere appreciation and gratitude. In the three Councils of which I have been an humble member there has been a spirit of co-operation which made the task of the individual Council-man comparatively easy."

Ex-Mayor Paul Hanna

Continuing Ald. Collins said:

"Having publicly outlined my three years in the persons of Messrs. H. J. R. Graham, J. P. Wallace and my colleague Chairman were men of foresight ability and tact from whom we have rarely sought aid and by

TODAY'S THOUGHT

"It is so easy to row back a stone thrown with force from the hand, as to recall a word once spoken.

MENANDER.

KING'S HEALTH IS CAUSE OF ALARM

King George's illness has been received with much alarm throughout the Empire. His recovery four years ago was not reached without the utmost care and the favoring atmosphere of the Mediterranean. He is not a robust constitution and has arrived at a critical age when influenza, congestion of the lungs and such maladies are liable to be attended with heart complications. It is recalled also that his father's fatal illness began in a similar manner.

Nothing that mortal skill can do will be omitted in the care of His Majesty's health, and it is reassuring to know that the Queen has not interrinkled any of her ordinary duties. Her chief thought in life is the King's health and safety, and while she is confident her subjects need not be alarmed. No intimation had been sent to the Heir Apparent in Africa, and it is likely that a few days will restore His Majesty to his usual health.

TRUE CONSERVATISM LOPS OFF DEAD WOOD

The British Prime Ministry had a novel word to say in Scotland last week. He noted the revolution that is afoot in British industry. He was not afraid of the future and called attention to what is going on at present. "This is no time for incompetents, whatever their age," he exclaimed, denouncing those who fatten on joint stock companies and hold back the legions of labor. He rejoiced in the new understanding that is growing up between labor and management, and he is obviously not entirely out of sympathy with his son who has taken more advanced ground than his father may think expedient at the moment.

Mr. Baldwin's speech may be taken as a challenge to those who represent Britain as office. No nation is effete that is alive and capable of growth and development. "He is a true Conservative that lops the mouldered branch away," wrote Tennyson, and the mouldered branches in Britain are having less consideration than in some other countries. It is for the Dominions to show their sympathy with the new time and the new policies. Co-operation is the word.

THE FIRST SNOW FALL A TOUCH OF MAGIC

Poets not a few have found in the first snowfall a theme to their liking, and quite a respectable book of verse might be collated of these dainty effusions, to say nothing of the ideal of light essays written in tribute of the pioneer snowflakes which mark the turn of the year. An English critic has said that the characters in Jane Austen's novels are the sort of folk who would regard the slight downfall of snow as an event. And why not? It is an event. It is one of those magical touches whereby nature, with that peculiar easy and eerie grace, and in perfection of strange silence, touch of fire yet, leaden sky, changes smothers down the desert of noise we call our earth.

Then we look out of the window to behold a world changed into a sleeper of woolly whiteness, "radiant, spotless, and exquisitely pure," and the landscape, but yesterday a mingled buff and green is transformed into an etching of black and white, betokening that King Winter has once more taken charge of our climate. All words are lame and tame beside the picture which greets the gaze when trees become ghostly and their branches carry a lustrous blur of the first snowfall, and the landscape lapses into a sort of tender dreamwold, the while we find ourselves strangely re-visited by subtle elfin emotions that "touch a with string of recall."

We remember the yesterdays of childhood amid the snows of yester-year, and how we beforetime used to flatten our noses against the window-pane just to give a childish salute to the grave, magical and stealthy onset of the goose feathers somehow spun out of the vagrant winds and a scowl of cloud. What a rare tapestry Mr Noyes makes the solemn fir tree in discourse upon this theme, to say that my brother, the hawthorn has dreamed a new kind of snow," and belike so feathered the boughs that their infant blossoms sleep the more hopefully and soundly in the sap because of the soft blanket flung over their cosy crib.

"Out of the bosom of the air,
Out of the cloud-folds of her garments shaken,
Over the earth and sea,"

Over the earth and sea, brown and bare
Over the barrens fields forsaken,
Silent, soft and slow,
Descends the snow."

FIFTEEN YEARS FOR MAIL BANDITS

Three men were consigned in Toronto by Mr. Justice Wright recently to Kingston penitentiary for 15 years; another was sent to the "big house" for ten years. These were the perpetrators of the spectacular mail car robbery at Toronto Union station on the night of June 18—a stickup so carefully planned and efficiently executed that the public, reading about it the next day, declared it to have been "a slick job." It would have been strange if the story had had any other ending than that written by Justice Wright yesterday. Over and over again, it has been demonstrated that the odds are overwhelmingly against those who pit their wits against the forces of law and order, says the Hamilton Spectator. One of the men who was booked in for a very severe trial once before to make some so-called money, through the medium of a mail theft, and was sent to prison for five years to ponder over the fact that he had made a bad guess. Released from prison at the expiration of his term, he secured honest employment as a drain cleaner. Now, as jobs go, that is lowly employment, but, compared with penitentiary life, it is a distinct advance in the social scale. Yet when temptation came to this man McLeod again, he was unmindful of the stern lesson of five years before. This job was to be done differently. This was to be a "neat bit of work" that wouldn't leave the police a thing to work on. Nothing was to be left to chance. At a series of conferences, elaborate stills to be used in the remote chance of suspicion resting upon the gang were fixed on and rehearsed as carefully as any stage production. And out of all the planning and scheming emerged a house of cards that toppled over when the law huffed and puffed. It was some weeks after the robbery before the police connected McLeod and the other members of the gang with the crime. Who, of the known criminals of the country who might have done a job of this kind, were out of prison at the time of this robbery, the police records revealed. McLeod, involved once more, became an object of surveillance. It was not long before his suspicious actions convinced the authorities they were on the right track and the trap was set and sprung. Fifteen years is a long time. Yet McLeod and his pals will have served a useful purpose if their fate deters others who might be tempted to get some of the same kind of "easy money." With one voice, they will depose, we think, "that there ain't no such animal."

FOR SLEEP

There is no way with sleep but to die
each night—
Drop like a drowning swimmer in the flow
Of heavy waters crushing out the light,
Closing above a last thin watery glow

Unfearing and unhoping, you must ride
The lonely current of a nameless stream
That bears you onward towards its end
With weight of waters heavier than dream;

And down beyond the world at last
you will sink
Deeper than time, and where all time
is vain;
And in the abode of sleep, as beyond the brink
Of death, give up the body and the brain;

Knowing you cannot wake, nor any sound
Trouble your silence like a distant bell;
Knowing that nothingness will close
you round.
And in its still embrace you will fare well.

OTHER MEN'S THOUGHTS

Members of the City Council complain that their speeches are lost in the ceiling of the Council Chamber This, however, is not the ceiling's only charm. It is richly carved and very pleasing to the eye.—Montreal Gazette

It is not impossible that in the future the number of the Canadian provinces will be increased. The states of the American union number 48, and the Dominion is larger in area than its neighbor. For the present, however, it seems that this country has too much rather than too little government. With one federal parliament and nine provincial assemblies, Canada has probably more legislative machinery to pay for than any other country, relatively to population.—Saskatoon Star-Phoenix.

Mr. William Johnstone went to Descronto today to attend the funeral of the late Mr. P. S. Rathbum.

Mr. Eugene Fairfield has returned to the city after a successful season of cheese making near Chatham.

Miss Teale, of Albert College, who has been in ill-health, has gone to her home in Ridgeway for a short rest.

Mr. J. R. Mikel of Belleville is in Ottawa in the interests of the Kemptville Milling Company.

Miss Butler, of Belleville, was was among the visitors from a distance at the R. M. C. ball at Kingston, and was much admired. She was attired in a delicate pink silk skirt, under gauze shot with gold. The bodice was trimmed with pearls in pretty design.

About People

Inspector Williams of the Toronto Police Force, who recently died suddenly, was a conscience by instinct. It was not long after his appearance on the force as patrolman before his superiors recognized that he had that native sometimes which carried exceptional promise in the constant battle against crime. He ultimately head ed the city detective staff. One day he was seen thumbing the pages of a list of wanted men. There was a man in custody in Toronto, whose face the inspector had seen somewhere many months before. After looking through several books, glancing only for an instant at each, face he stopped. "There's your man, only now he has no moustache, and the styles are a little different." The picture was 25 years old. Again he was sure that a man in custody in Toronto on a minor offence had been there years previously. That recollection caused hours of work for the fingerprint expert, but eventually the print was found, taken fifteen years before, when the prisoner was caught pocket-picking.

Commissioner Smiddy, of the Irish Free State at Washington, voiced the new national aspiration in a recent Boston utterance. "Admittance to the Free State National University," he said he, "is conditional upon a knowledge of Gaelic. Our idea is to make the people truly Irish and Gaelic. I do not want to become an American, an Englishman, or a Frenchman. But speaking our own language we are also intensifying our distinct type of nationality. We are a peaceful people, not combative. Not one Irishman in Ireland can carry arms. You cannot govern the Irish people with firearms."

In the Newfoundland election Sir Richard Squires, leader of the opposition, proved himself nothing if not original. He had phonograph records made; on one side of them his record; on the other side, what he promises to do. Couples of these records have been supplied to all of the opposition candidates, and at public meetings the people shall hear the voice of Sir Richard himself. For his purposes, and in his physical circumstances, it was better than the radio.

Letters to the Editor

227 Ann Street,
Belleville, Nov. 22, '28

To the Editor,
Intelligencer,
City.

Dear Sir:—

An appreciation.

Following the publication of an anonymous letter received by Wallace Hawkes Robb, it seems about time for someone who really knows his sterling qualities as a man, as well as his literary genius, to let him know that Belleville is going to miss him. His unselfish work among the children has taught them to take a large interest in bird life, besides teaching them the real value of our Canadian birds.

Wallace Robb doesn't go down to the City Hall and broadcast all his acts of charitability, but Belleville is losing a man who lives his life according to the Golden Rule. I am sure that the majority of intelligent Bellevillians have appreciated his efforts to wake us up to a genuine love for our little feathered friends.

He is as old Belleville-boy and his heart has always been centred in the city of his birth, but he is fearless and speaks the truth and that kind, of man is what we require criticism.

We wish him and his family every happiness in the great open spaces of the veritable "Paradise" he has secured.

A FRIEND.

AIR ROOM IN THE NOSE

As a parent you make sure that your youngster gets enough to eat also sufficient sleep.

You likely try to have him remain outdoors as much as possible and also encourage him to play.

Did it ever occur to you that in addition to food and sleep he needs a certain amount of air or oxygen going into his lungs with each breath if he is to develop physically in the proper manner?

Now you haven't a spirometer which measures his lung capacity, but you can put a tape around his chest, see that the tape line goes across the low er part of his "wings" or shoulder blades behind, and across his nipples in front.

Have him take a long breath and if he expands the tape one and one half inches above what it is when he is standing naturally, that is a fair average for a boy of twelve. If you can show him how to let all the air out of his lungs and find that the measurement is then one and a half inches less than at the normal position, that also is a fair average. This means then an expansion of three inches altogether. Younger or older children should be less or more than this in proportion.

Now what may be causing the youngster to be getting less than the necessary amount of air?

The size passages of his nose may not be wide enough due to the fact that they have been narrow since birth, or because there is some enlargement of the lining of the bones of the nose, or perhaps the tonsils are enlarged.

Dr. Gauthier, of Paris, has developed an air method of widening the air passages of the nose.

He uses hollow rubber balls (so call led massages) which he inflates by injecting a syringe full of water and leaves in the nose for several minutes.

From eight to ten sittings have given remarkable results, the lung capacity increasing almost a pint.

He was able to show a number of children thus treated, whose physical development, which had been retarded had rapidly improved.

Now on exhibition at other method can increase the lung capacity like play, because play creates an actual desire of air.

However it should be worth your while if your youngster is not developing properly to have his nose examined, and see if there is enough air room.

WEAR SMILE WHEN COLLECTING TAXES

Paris.—"Collect taxes with a smile" is the substance of instructions issued by the ministry of Finance to agents clerks and other employees of the ministry charged with the collection of taxes.

The order specifically forbids the use of rude language, discourtesy of any kind, useless insistence and bullying.

The agents of the treasury are ordered to perform their duties in a spirit of good nature and conciliation. Some advanced in years, and perhaps overance of youth, have on occasion made worked, have sometimes shown a tendency to lose their temper. Others too young perhaps, with the intelligence a distasteful parade of their superiority and bragged of their professional knowledge only recently acquired."

The order was issued, it is explained, in reply to numerous complaints received at the ministry.

RED CROSS BANQUET.

This evening at the Queen's Hotel there will be held a Red Cross Banquet with Dr. Routley a director of the Ontario branch of the Red Cross, as the main speaker. There have been about one hundred and twenty-five reservations made for the evening and a wide appeal for help for the Red Cross is to be made.

POLICE COURT

Joseph Kelly of this city, was arrested last night on Front Street, for being intoxicated in a public place, and was fined fifteen dollars and costs or in default of twenty-one days in jail by Magistrate Mikel today.

Deamon Hoover appeared charged with being intoxicated and with having liquor in an illegal place. He had his case adjourned until next Monday.

Roy Jarvis, who was with Hoover when he was arrested, was fined fifteen and costs for being intoxicated. He was arrested at the rear of the Royal Canadian Hotel, and after Constable Thompson had taken both men to the station, he went back and found a partly filled bottle of gin. This was said to have been the property of Hoover.

MANY TO ATTEND CHAMBER DINNER

ROTAKINS STAGE GARRISON FINISH

Snatch Laurels From Locals In Fast Basket Ball Game

The gallery full of spectators who came to witness the basketball programme at the Y.M.C.A. Saturday night did not come in vain as they were rewarded with two good games. Rotakins of Toronto paid their first visit to the local Association and they certainly lived up to all advance notices as regards their basketball playing capabilities. Somewhat slow to get started, the visitors allowed the Y players to obtain a nice lead before they became familiar with the small floor. At half time Belleville were out in front with ten points to the good and are every promise of lightning like play. With less than three minu tes to go the score was tied and at this point the local players threw the game away when they forsook system and indulged in long distance shooting allowing Rotakins to nose out with the score of 36-35.

The girls league game between the Loons and the Robins, although rather one-sided as regards score, was nevertheless an interesting fixture to follow. The visitors had a marked advantage in their combination play giving them consistent shots but towards the end of the game the Loons tightened up on their defense with a marked result in scoring effort and position. With additional experience the losers will build up a strong constitute and we venture to predict there will not be the difference in the score when these two teams meet again.

PERCIVAL MOSSMAN FACES SERIOUS COUNT

Percival Mossman, of Sidney, was arrested by the Provincial Police on a very serious charge and will appear in Police Court in Picton, where the offence was alleged to have taken place, a week from Thursday. Mossman is out at the present time on bail of five thousand dollars and bond of twenty-five hundred. He will be tried before Magistrate Herman, of Picton, and was arrested by Provincial Constable Price Morris, who is stationed at that town.

DR. MESSINA IS SPECIAL SPEAKER

Large Attendance at Sunday Meeting of Men's Association

The Bible lesson at Bridge Street Mens Association was conducted yesterday by Rev. Dr. Malott. Devotional exercises and the singing of gospel songs were presided over by the president, Chas. Aarton.

The special speaker was Dr. Messina, teacher of Latin and other languages in our local collegiate. Dr. Messina was born in Italy and for awhile taught at Cambridge University, England.

Combie here and a member from Toronto, he has taken a keen interest in our city life.

It's subject yesterday entitled "Italy Since The War," was dealt with in a first hand way and was listened to with rapt attention by a large number of men in the Community Hall. They were given an insight into conditions in Italy that otherwise might not be secured.

"Of all the wars that Italy has participated in, the late great European war exceeded all others in upsetting the tenor of life in Italy as it did in practically the world," said Dr. Messina. "There has been in Italy as in other countries the struggle towards democracy as against the monarchy form of government, but the latter interest or assertiveness appears to prevail, sometimes where Democracy in in the ascendancy. Of course every nation sometimes submits to domination even under democracy in contrast to Britain's history where the lower classes insist on agitating for reforms in their own behalf." Dr. Messina dealt with conditions in Rome during their modern history. Italy, he said went into the world war because their democratic ideals prompted and to assert her national spirit along with her allies. After the armistice, Italy's position was not quite as secure as before the war.

The Socialists and Communists element, heading the country toward a situation as in Russia. The Fascisti, organized by Premier Mussolini in response to signing legislation according to their demands. From Dr. Messina's description of their present mode of government, it is one unlike any other in the world's history and is along the totalitarian principle of representation by various classes and professions—

"Parties have nearly obliterated the fifty per cent of the populati-" luiberts on-lookers linked up in support of agressive forces for progress rather than follow the negligent policy of those endeavouring to hold power.

The financial situation of Italy has been put in good shape and the great devastation of the country under government is in restraining the wild hard sweep of Bolshev ism which has alighted Russia on.

At the conclusion of Dr. Messina's well-prepared and illuminating discourse a hearty vote of thanks was tendered him to which Judge Deroche also spoke from his observations that ear while touring Italy and over which ex-mayor W. C. Mikel as well moved his appreciation.

MOVING SHIRT-TALE IS HEARD

W. B. Deacon, Past President, Speaker ToDay; Oshawa Report Given

Mr. W. B. Deacon, past president, told the Rotarians a moving shirt tale at today's luncheon. It was Vocational Day and as one of the members of Toon Webber's energetic committee, Mr. Deacon had to tell his class-fication. His story went back to the Garden of Eden where he claimed Adam designed the first garment of this nature, traced the history of the shirt down through the Roman Empire and the ornate period of the Middle Ages to its present strictly utilitarian status. Shirts are shirts now whether they sell for sixty-nine cents or thirty five dollars. One of the most interesting points in the story, perhaps, was the account of the United States company who spent over a million dollars trying to teach the Englishman to wear a coat shirt and failed. Ninety five percent of the shirts sold in Eng land are pulled on over the head in the good old way.

Rotarians today were asked to answer a questionaire on Rotary. There were twenty-six questions and from a little private glance at the examination papers Colonel Dan Barragar is going to be sadly disappointed at the knowledge which the local members possess of Rotary. It is probable that several of the members will have to attend private lessons to brush up on the subject. The answers will be read out at next week's luncheon and some Rotarians will probably be considerably embarrassed.

Jimmy Bone reported on the Rotary meeting at Oshawa last Friday night when the club of that city inaugurated their new hall donated by the General Motors with a dinner and programme to which all the clubs of Eastern Ontario were invited. About seventy including President Mac Robertson, went up from Belleville.

BIG, BLACK GRIZZLY SHOT NEAR NORWOOD

Norwood, November 26—A large black bear, weighing over 200 pounds was shot in the township of Asphodel on Thursday morning. A few of the sports in that district had gone out for a hunt when they came across the tracks of a bear in the wet snow leading into one of the fields of A Leslie. The bear was followed and in a short time John McColl and Jas. Comstock came upon the bear. Bullets from both guns put an end to Mr. Brulin and a team was secured to remove the carcass to Leslie's barn where many of the neighbors viewed the animal. The hunting party consisted of James and Harold Comstock, John McColl, Alex and Norma Leslich and Clarence Douglas.

C. G. I. T. GROUPS HAD CHARGE OF CHURCH SERVICE

The order of the evening service at Bridge St. Church was changed and somewhat last night to fit in with the attendance of groups of Canadian Girls in Training from other churches also; St. Andrew's Presbyterian Emmanuel Reformed Episcopal, Victoria Ave.; Baptist; John St. United; Tabernacle United, and a representation from Tweed who came in single file from both vestibules of the Church taking seats in the centre of the auditorium and the choir loft. Dressed in their C.G.I.T. middy costumes they made a striking appearance and their singing as they came in and the invocation made a very reverent and impressive setting to this service.

Miss Jessie McPherson, of Toronto Girls' Work Secretary for Ontario, was introduced by the Pastor, Rev. Dr. Malott. She spoke upon the emblematic sign of the C.G.I.T. that of the pilgrim staff.

"Life is sort of a pilgrim affair, she opened. "Jesus is our Great Pilgrim." There are three outstanding features in our pilgrimage in life, that of health, strengthen upon eyes and purpose. Jesus was a vigorous man to associate with and perform such a task as He accomplished. If we are observant we shall see the real beauty in nature and will find it meaning-f..l. Jesus glorified many common things and incidents. To have a goal in this life also is a necessity. The history of our early Canadian adven tures showed that pioneer men had more interest of discovery at heart they were ned too over every welfare of their whole associations and notably led in an unselfish spirit. It is the duty of older pigrims to point out the sign posts on the way for particularly the young.

During the service a group of C.G. I.T. girls sang their pilgrim refrain "Who Would True Valor See" composed by John Bunyan, 300 years ago. The regular choir at the church rendered forcibly Schnecker's "On ward Christian Soldiers."

Just For The Feminine Reader

A TRIBUTE TO TORONTO'S FEMININITY

Toronto women are beautiful right down to their heels." One of the American visitors paid this tribute at the Royal Winter Fair on opening night. And wasn't he right? Never have Toronto women been prettier and. And if frocks were completely hidden under furry or brocaded coats, heels twinkled to suggest the gorgeousness above.

The brilliant studded heels now come in pastel colors to match frocks, in blue, and pale pink, in a creamy beige, in black with low knots of brilliants, as well as a heel completely studded with brilliants.

There is a suggestion for someone who has a party-popular woman on their list. You mightn't know the size of chiffon hose, nor the shoes, but you could be very up to date with a gift of a pair of heels and she would find a shoemaker to do the rest.

THE QUESTION OF A NEW EVENING GOWN

Now that the Christmas festivities will soon be here the question of a new evening gown looms up. We're apt to become tired of the frocks we wear for evening in spite of the fact that we may not wear them as often as older gowns but the fact remains that every important event that comes up, we feel the need of a new dress. Much care should be taken in the selection of our gowns for evening wear. The new-fangled style is pretty, utterly pretty but such a fashion cannot be essayed by the plump woman of forty-five. One must be youthfully slim to wear a gown of this type. But no one should have any difficulty in finding a becoming model among the fashions of today. For the older woman there are the beautiful velvet gowns in transparent or printed velvets which are particularly flattering to the stout figure. Colors, both dark and light are fashionable. Some very pretty styles are shown in black or dark tones of taffeta, simply made, with the new burtle bow as the only adornment. Dresses lavishly beaded or sequined are also among this year and is charming for the debutants as white or beige seems to be essential for the debut. Be sure you like your new gown however, before you purchase it and you will have a much better time at the party or dance, as no woman ever enjoys herself when she is not satisfied with her appearance.

CULTIVATE YOUR CHILDREN'S FRIENDS

It behooves the mothers of growing children to become acquainted with their children's friends so that they may be able to direct them in the proper choice of companions. The child who has no playmate is indeed a lonesome sight and to be pitied, and so is the grown child who has no chum. All children must come into contact with the world of people and theytstart even before they get to school, as a rule, and of course as soon as school days commence, the child is thrown with other children continually. Out of the best flock they encounter there will they select someone to by their especial friend. With a mother's guiding hand this selection will probably prove profitable, but as is the case with our public school system, there is much opportunity for error, and that there is danger that a child, who of course has not the discernment of the adult, may make a wrong choice with his friends. If the child brings his friends to the house it will be an easy matter for the mother to decide whether or not he is a suitable companion. So much depends on one's comrades, especially in later life, that it pays to supervise the playmates with which one's children associate. For one is often judged by the company one keeps.

LENORE

WHAT'S NEW

(From A Woman's Standpoint)

London reports that the modern woman's favorite jewel is the emerald.

Princess line, for evening are gaining in vogue in Paris.

The draped felt hat of the Breton style is popular with the debutantes.

Flower and fruit patterns are also fashionable for the winter's printed frocks.

Paris midseason frocks stress the lapportant of circular flares, but remain slim in line.

Blended perfumes are to take the the place of those with but a single scent, and the latest experiments reveal the use of a mixture of violet and lily of the valley, the other of red roses and violets.

Paris designers have effected a unique combination of the elected silhouette for three-quarter length coats on slender lines are wrapped closely about the figure, and the accompanying dresses have full, flufty skirts, extending below the closely wrapped coat.

A wealthy London woman has gone one better on the lamb and lion by ordering an entire coat of lion skin lined with lamb, and made as to be reversible. That's all there is to it. I'm going to notify the Kerrs. Let them deal with her."

Harry nodded in assent. "I think we should get in touch with Mr. Kerr at least. Of course, this is a very delicate situation. If his girl is not Constance, then what has happened to Constance?"

The Count was slumped in a chair. At the proposal that the Kerrs be notified, he sprang up. The Baronne's words filled him with apprehension.

Suppose all this, this girl had said was true? That she did not know the fact of his marriage to Constance. He did not want her father on the ground, prying investigation, perhaps unearthing the secret marriage. Better to wait a bit and question the girl at length.

He turned to the Baronne and said in his most diplomatic manner:

"I do not think, my dear friend, that you have realized the situation at all sides. Suppose that this girl is telling the truth—if we send for Mr. Kerr and he makes an investigation will not the whole matter become public, at least known to our own circle? Think of the light in which we will be placed. After all, it is best to delay for a few days before taking any one into our confidence? We don't want to be made ridiculous, that is how we'll appear, if it becomes known that this person fooled us.

Think of your position!"

The Baronne fumed. She said that she had already been made ridiculous. She was determined to be revenged for that. Yet Bellefonte knew that he had won her over. Harry, however, wanted action at once.

"If this girl isn't Constance Kerr, I want to know where Constance is," he kept saying.

"So do I, my dear fellow," the Count would reply, suavely. "But let's not turn the case over to Mr. Kerr. He'll go at once to the matter. You surely must realize that it won't do Constance Kerr's name any good to be dragged into a mess like this."

"After all, we must think of that."

Harry agreed. "But what do you propose?" he asked.

"First of all, let us agree not to do anything more until morning," urged Bellefonte. "This has been a very nerve-racking, and we all need sleep. I suggest that we let the Baronne and this young person go to the club. The Baronne will see that she does not get away. Then you and I will return, and, in the morning, we shall meet and make our plans!"

During all this, Sheila had been silent. She had but one consolation. There would be no duel in the morning. That was something. Surely Constance, when she arrived, would forgive her for having made her confession, once the motive had been explained.

The Baronne rose and put on her wrap. "And I am to be this young person's jailer?" she asked.

"I'll promise you that I won't try to get away," said Sheila, quietly. "I want to find Constance Kerr just as much as Mr. Edmond does. She pretended to be in Paris a few days after my arrival, and I have been so worried.

"I should think you might be, if the story you tell is true," cried Harry. "Granting that it is true, the thing that puzzles me is the reason for it all."

"That" said Sheila, "is Constance's secret. If she cares to tell you, then secret. If she cares to tell you, then well and good. If she does not, I certainly can't tell you anything more. It was to prevent this that I said that I betrayed her confidence."

At these words, the Count looked at Sheila approvingly. That last remark made him very uneasy. How much did the girl know? The situation she had created was a very delicate one. He must act with the greatest care, for he had such at stake. He was glad that he had persuaded the Baronne and Harry to do nothing immediately. That would give him time to carry out a plan that had been forming in his mind for the past hour.

Gay Adventurers By Mildred Barbour

CHAPTER 31
THE CONFESSION

Many times since she had been impersonating Constance Kerr in Paris and Cannes, Sheila Allen had tried to picture to herself the scene that would follow her announcement that she was not the heiress to the Kerr millions, but merely a person who was her double in appearance.

There would be denunciations, a demand for explanations, and finally a reckoning with the authorities for violation of the passport regulations. That was the situation her imagination had conjured up, time and again.

Now, as she faced the Baronne, the Count, de Bellefonte, and Harry Edmonds and said that she had come to Paris at Constance Kerr's request, to impersonate her, she was sure that she had been justified in all her fears.

She felt a terrible pang as she thought of the trouble that her confession would bring to Constance, but she was convinced that silence must be silent any longer.

She was between two fires. If she kept her secret, and Harry met the Count in a duel and was killed, how could she ever face Constance?

So, taking a deep breath, she told the story of her meeting with Constance, omitting only the fact of Constance's marriage and her reason for going abroad. She said that Constance had done a rather indiscreet thing and that she preferred to drop out of sight for a time. The Count, she noticed, looked relieved.

For a moment after she ceased speaking, her listeners stared at her, as if they did not understand what she had said. Then the Baronne sprang to her feet and poured forth a storm of cues bombarded her in French.

"The police," gasped the Baronne. "Send for a gendarme at once!"

The Count turned to Harry. "Until we get to the bottom of this, my dear fellow, I must insist that you remain here."

"But Harry was not listening. Taking Sheila by the hand, he looked at her long and earnestly.

"You Constance—you're not Constance?" he murmured. "Let me understand this. She went to London—"

He broke off abruptly and shook Sheila's arm. "Where is she then? Oh, this must be a dream. I can't be here—"

"I give you my word that I'm telling you the truth," said Sheila.

"Your word!" shrilled the Baronne. "The truth. Why, I don't believe a thing you say!"

"Why," said Harry eagerly, to the Baronne, "you think she really is Constance?"

The Baronne glared at him. "I haven't the least know what I think," she retorted, half to herself. "Such conduct. If this girl is Constance Kerr, she's a shameless hussy. That's all there is to it. I'm going to notify the Kerrs. Let them deal with her."

Harry nodded in assent. "I think we should get in touch with Mr. Kerr at least. Of course, this is a very delicate situation. If this girl is not Constance, then what has happened to Constance?"

The Count was slumped in a chair. At the proposal that the Kerrs be notified, he sprang up. The Baronne's words filled him with apprehension.

Some Helpful Hints For Busy Housewives

There is no doubt the table that is planned a week in advance, will be the most economical and varied of any. Of course, we cannot always keep exactly to our original plans for the housewife can judge exactly the amount of things left over, but the outline could then be carried over a few days and the following week's meal, would be simplified.

With winter just ahead you're going to have to stay indoors more. Change the furniture around a bit so that the room outlook will be a little new. Move a picture, turn a chair another way, add a book-rack or an end-table. It will make a difference that will make home more interesting.

WHEN DID QUEBEC WOMEN LOSE VOTE ?

Montreal Que., (By C. P.).— The following open letter on the question as to when the women of the province of Quebec ceased to have the right to vote is addressed to the Hon. Ernest Lapointe, Minister of Justice, by the Canadian Alliance for Women's Vote in Quebec:

Hon. Ernest Lepointe, Minister of Justice, Ottawa:

Dear Sir—We beg you to accept our most sincere appreciation of the address which you gave before the Provincial Suffrage Committee on October 21.

Would you kindly inform us when the right to vote formerly possessed by the women of our province was taken away? Is it from what extract unknown to us—Fitch Private Minister and on what date ?

Eminent jurists who have seriously studied the question, have not as yet found any document to that effect and are, therefore, of the opinion that there is nothing in our constitution to prevent women from voting as they did in 1820 and perhaps later. An important group of women of Montreal will register on the present voters' list and will claim their provincial as well as their federal rights.

Respectfully, Canadian Alliance for Women's Vote in Quebec.

DIVORCE NOT ON WANE SINCE THE PRESS SILENCE

On the Cntrary, It Increases, Show Statistics From London

London.- Divorce has proved so popular under the law forbidding newspapers to publish court details that the president of the high court has been compelled to appoint two assistants for the Michaelmas term.

This country, which was once one of the hardest nations in the world for details of action-up family [illegible] seems to make purpose are running to believe that they have helped to create a Frankenstein monster which now do more to encourage divorce than to hinder it.

A further complication in the divorce situation is seen in the announcement that shortly there will be launched an agitation for the right to divorce on such grounds as separation owing to penal servitude, chronic alcoholism and temperamental difference. The only grounds upon which a divorce can now be obtained in England is adultery.

Some strange and unusual matrimonial tangles will worry the judges this season. The secrecy law bars encroachment on much collusion in petitions for divorces that it has been announced that the judges will not accept as admissible corroborating testimony a confession of a husband.

Name The Twin Gypsy Girls

Rosa, a famous Gypsy maiden, recently arrived in Canada to search for her twin sister whom she has not seen for a number of years. Rosa is very fond of dancing and at present is appearing in a Toronto theatre. Although all of the girls are much alike, Rosa can easily be picked out by the fact that she has a mole on her left cheek. Can you find the twin? If CANADA LIFE, it is more efficient than it looks, but very interesting and profitable, too.

Rules And You In Winning

1. For the correct and neatly print your name (Mrs., Mr., or Miss) and full address in coupon provided. Use a sharp, hard lead pencil only.
2. Write neatly the names of the twin Gypsy girls in the order of their appearance.
3. Cut out this advertisement around outside and mail to us.
4. Prizes will be awarded by a judging committee of three Toronto business men in the event of tie contestants.
5. In case of ties, the judges will either reach a final decision through a further contest, or prizes of equal amount will be awarded to each successful tie contestant.
6. Competitors must be over fifteen years of age.
7. No one connected with the company is eligible to compete.

Positively NO SELLING Required
YOU WILL ABSOLUTELY NOT BE REQUIRED TO SELL GOODS, CANVASS OR SOLICIT SUBSCRIPTIONS. Your success in this contest is entirely an advertising campaign and you will only be asked to mail a very simple statement of facts about "Travel" products. BUSH YOUR ENTRY NOW. "COLLEGIATE CHATTER"

By Helen Jones

We not only associate that imposing structure on John Street with the word "Collegiate", but also mid-term examinations. The Christmas examinations are being set earlier than usual this year in order that they may be over before the official vacation of the school. The students will write on the majority of the papers on Thursday and Friday of this week, November 29th and 30th.

Last Thursday, November 22nd, the two fifth forms, VA and VB played their game of basketball. The game was very exciting as the teams were quite evenly matched. VB's forwards played excellently but were slightly handicapped by VA's practiguards. VA had a more perfect combination and they certainly put it to good use whenever they held the ball. VA's forwards played expertly, especially Isobel Hinds, who gained two excellent shots. For several minutes, the score was tied, then, after a short consultation with their captain, Margaret Fairbairn who is also captain of the Senior Collegiate team, VB made a desperate effort to break the unity. They played more quickly and more accurately than they have ever done. The whistle blew. They were victorious. The final score was 36-28 in favor of VB. This proved to be the closest inter-form game of the season so far and it is not likely that any two teams could be more evenly matched. Miss England acted as referee.

Speaking of basketball games— we regret to say that we lost both senior and junior games to our Napanee friends last Friday night. The junior teams were very evenly matched. Napanee had a well planned combination and a snappy little side-centre. We were ahead in the first half but the periods were 10 minutes and as our girls have always played three ten-minute rather than two fifteen-minute periods, they were too tired to finish with as much zest as when they started. This is the first game they have lost, however, and we are very hopeful for their success with Trenton, their next opponent.

The Seniors were mistably defeated Helen Tilley the Jumpkinettes played well, while Jean MacLaurin, the Seniors' standby, played with accuracy and determination. Margaret Fairbairn, the captain, hurt her knee bravely stuck to her guns even with sure defeat in view.

Lunch was served in the cafeteria to the girls and their chaperones and their assistants, after which a dance was held in the gymnasium. The Collegiate Orchestra played exceptionally well though it was their first appearance this year.

The proceeds of the games amounted to twice what they usually received, and, in fact, it was three times as much as they got two years ago. This speaks well for the Girls' Athletic Association.

The Literary Society has a very attractive and distinctive looking card for this season. It folds up like an envelope. The crest is on the outside and the picture of the school on the middle. Compared to previous years we are not taking orders unless we bring the money so that in the end we shall find ourselves financially ahead rather than in arrears. The crest which was chosen was that which is on the front of the school. We hope those who have never sent the new Christmas card will like it and we thank those who have already purchased some for enabling us to send for such a large order. We expect the cards to arrive about December 14th. There will be no surplus cards for last minute sales.

DUCKS HINDER PLANE'S FLIGHT

In recent weeks the Ontario government service flyers in North-western Ontario have had considerable trouble with the wild geese and ducks in the James Bay area.

So plentiful are these birds this season that on several occasions pilots men have delayed their flights rather than take a chance with so many birds in the air at once.

Only recently Captain W. Roy Maxwell, director of the service, landed on Hannah Bay, to the east of Moose Factory, and was held there long past schedule simply because high tide brought in around him great clouds of geese and ducks that made his take off impossible.

"If one of those birds ever hits a prop or vital part of the machine," said Captain Maxwell, "it would be good night for you."

When the fliers first started working in the James Bay area Indians used to take an occasional pot-shot at the machines, because the whine of the motors drove the geese away.

"Now, apparently," says Captain Maxwell, "the geese want to get a crack at us, themselves."

BELLEVILLE Y'S MEN PLAN LADIES' NIGHT

Owing to the absence of Dr. Bishop, Principal of Albert College, who was scheduled to speak at the regular meeting of the Y's Men's Club last night, the session was devoted to the entertainment of the ladies. Dr. Bishop's absence was occasioned by the illness of his wife.

Owing to the absence of the speaker, Rev. Stanley Paisley was in the chair. Joe Blackburn acted as Sergt.-at-Arms and "Cap" Rooney lead the singing.

During the course of the evening Richard Arndt rendered two solos with Arthur Crosse acting as accompanist.

Three new members who were recently inducted into the Club, "Ned" Symons, Art Trusah, and "Hick" Carter made brief speeches, thanking the Club for accepting their membership.

President Pauley announced that the annual Ladies' night will be held on Friday, December 14th, in the YMCA building while the plans for the annual dance immediately after the New Year are being laid.

Club will visit the House of Refuge in the near future and a committee of the old folks with a program. It was also decided that the regular Christmas meeting for those in less favorable circumstances, will be made. Committees were named to draw up plans for these events.

RECORD SET OF 1 MILLION CARS

By January 1st Is Expected That This Peak Will Be Reached

By PHIL J. DUGGAN

(Sales Manager, Durant Motors of Canada, Ltd.).

It seems highly probable that by January 1st, 1929, this nation numbering approximately ten millions, will own one million motor vehicles.

No other country or comparable size comes anywhere near this figure. Even the United States, with a vast and highly protected home market, with a quantity production which enables cars to be sold and operated at much less cost than in Canada, does very little better in proportion and no better at all when the extra cost is taken into consideration.

Five Years Growth

In the five years ending 1927 the number of cars registered in Canada increased by about 84%, the greatest increase being registered by the Western Provinces, led by British Columbia with a rate approximating 100%. Canada's growth in car ownership during the five years mentioned was much greater in proportion than that of the United States. In 1927 Canadian factories produced 167,252 motor vehicles, or over 12,000 more than the combined total for the years 1921 and 1922 and 50,000 more than the total number of cars owned in Canada in 1916.

Even in these days when one still occasionally meets someone who thinks of the motor car as a national debt instead of a national asset, it is hard to assimilate the trade figure of the Dominion machines, because the whine of the motors drove the geese away.

Savings Increase

The five years under review have seen the greatest increase in the savings of Canadians yet recorded. The period has also seen a record increase in the number of insurance policies and the amount invested. Bank clearings, individual accounts, the value of buildings erected, sales of farm and employment, have each and all reached very high levels.

The great increase in the nation's savings in face of the great increase in the purchase of cars and the growth of installment buying has provided economics with an interesting problem.

Utilize Credit

Citizens of today are far better informed than their predecessors. They have fewer fallacious illusions. Many Canadian families own motor cars for the simple reason which owned a horse and carriage forty years ago and the increasing down of the limitations in that direction has enabled them to break more down in other directions. Hence they have become, to an ever-increasing extent, investors. They buy goods on the installment plan precisely as they have learned to utilize their credit; naturally a few use this system unwisely but never in history has the percentage of loses been lower.

A Flat Report

In 1927 the Dominion exported 29,660 motor cars valued at $22,150,000 and 17,514 motor trucks valued at $8,776,000, together with motor parts which bring the total up to $31,883,462. These exports went to about 110 different countries and in several cases represented a substantial part of man ufactured products to that country. Given the fact that the manufacture of only eight million dollars worth motor vehicles provided regular employment for many thousands of Canadians, this export trade of over $30 millions from Canada has probably done more to create a national consciousness of the value of export trade than any other factor.

Trade In Empire

Great Britain was Canada's best customer for automobiles, purchasing over five and a half million dollars worth in 1927. The British West Indies was second with $4,277,000, and Australia third with $3,253,000. Such little-known countries as Iraq 4546 cars and trucks; Peru, 2,026 vehicles and Uruguay bought 431 passenger cars. Italy, Norway, Switzerland and Spain were also good customers. Only European countries not buying Canadian motor vehicles are Russia and it will surprise many readers to learn that 226 Canadian-built, together with a number of trucks, were exported to the United States.

Fashions of Cars

Of the total number of passenger cars made in Canada in 1927, 73 per cent. were closed cars. This trend towards closed cars has been steadily increasing for a decade; in 1920 the proportion was only10 per cent, in 1921 it was 40 per cent, in 1926, 55 per cent, and last year 73 per cent. In the United States it is much higher; the average for Canada and the United States combined being 62 per cent in 1927. Four and five passenger cars are easily the most popular, about 86 per cent. of all cars produced in Canada in 1927 being of this size. Two and three passenger cars were about 12 per cent of the total while seven passenger cars accounted for about 2 per cent of the total.

Nearly 50,000 automobiles are scrapped in Canada every year. In the United States every 20 minutes the total numbers of cars sold are to replace olding every week instead of twice a year. Here the Canadian Research Bureau estimates that about 31 per cent of the cars purchased are to replace worn out vehicles.

Two days before this article was written, motor buses, fitted with sleeping berths commenced to run regularly between London and Newcastle, England.

Britain was the pioneer user of motor buses, but it required a film of the above character to awaken those who live outside of the British Isles to the extent to which motor vehicles are dominating the field of land transportation. The above bus service recently inaugurated is planned to run every night, leaving London close to midnight and arriving in Newcastle in time for breakfast. The sleeping berths are arranged in similar fashion to that common in Canadian Railway trains and the fare is somewhat lower than the rail fare.

Lists Not Accurate

There is no definite information as to how many motor buses now operating in Canada because in certain provinces they are included in the registration of light truck lists. Ontario had only 480 and Quebec 476 in 1927, so that it is obvious that the Dominion does not use anything like the proportion used in either Britain or the United States.

The reason is, of course, the lower density of population. Buses have to be operated in densely populated areas to be profitable.

Farmers Big Buyers

Until recently, the Canadian farmer had not compared very favorably with his contemporary in the United States as a motorist, but during the past two years the Canadian farmer, as a class has figured very near the top of the list as a buyer of cars and trucks on this continent.

A former Canadian farm publication recently found that 75 per cent of its subscribers in Ontario possessed one or more automobiles and 14 per cent owned a tractor.

In the prairie provinces over 37,000 motor cars and trucks were sold to farmers both last year and 1927, and sales during 1927 and 1928 greatly exceeded previous high levels.

In 1921, 34,000 prairie farms had tractors; the government census of 1926 showed over 50,000 tractors in use on these same farms and more were sold in 1927 and 1928 than in several previous years. About 43 per cent of the Prairie farms in 1926 possessed a passenger automobile in 1927.

BELLEVILLE SEES

be the spectacular appearance of the eclipsed moon. This is owing to the fact that at the time of eclipse the moon is illuminated by light reflected through the earth's atmosphere which cuts out the blue rays of light.

The moon rises tomorrow at 3.47 p. m. and sets after 5.30 in the morning. It rises about an hour later each day after noon and on Saturday rises at 9.23 p. m. and sets after 6.30 on Sunday morning. The moon occults Mars at 10.30 p. m. on Nov. 29, but the event takes place thirty minutes after moonset and so will not be visible in Toronto. Mars will be 1.2 degrees south of the moon just before sunrise.

The Planets

Mercury is in the morning sky but too near the sun to be observed.

Venus is in the morning sky in the southwest after sunset. It now sets about 8.30 p. m., two hours after the sun. Venus, owing to its large apparent size and may be seen almost directly the sun sets. It is a white star with a blue color being imparted by a thick bank of atmosphere which envelops her and have never broken to let us see the surface.

Mars is in the eastern sky for the first part of the night and rises about 7.30 p.m. in the middle of Nov. It is almost twice as bright as it was at the beginning of the month and has a set magnitude of 1-2. This means that it is almost as bright as Sirius, the Dog Star, which may be considered by its brightness and its fiery red color. There will be a beautiful conjunction of Mars and the moon on early Thursday morning just before sunrise. Mars will be south of the moon.

Jupiter is nearly three times as bright as Mars and dominates the sky for the greater part of the night. It is in the constellation Aries, rising before sunset and setting about 5 a.m.

Saturn is in the west in the even ing sky, but too near the sun to be seen.

Uranus is in the evening sky in Pisces and sets about 2 a.m. its position for Nov. 29 is R. A. O. hrs. 14 min., Dec. 0 deg. 45 min., north.

And from the Civic Officials and Civic Employees we received at all times invaluable support and co-operation.

Ladies and Gentlemen;—

Belleville is experiencing a period of prosperity and everybody should have a fine City with living conditions and educational facilities second to none in the Dominion.

It will be the duty ofthe incoming Council to foster and promote industries so that every laborer and every skilled mechanic will have full time employment and receive a living wage in return for the services rendered.

The stability ofthis country rests upon a contented labor, not only should the laborer receive a living wage but in my opinion the Civic Departments should set the pace in pay

Mayoralty

I seek neither honor nor glory, but merely an opportunity to better serve the city.

H. W. Greenleaf

Attention! Citizens of Belleville

Sometime during this week, every household and business firm in Belleville will receive a call from Friends of the Red Cross, who are voluntarily contributing their time to this great cause.

Have Contributions Ready

It will be of great assistance if contributors will enclose donations in the envelope received through the mail, write name and address on the outside, and have ready for canvassers when they call.

The Appeal

The Red Cross is appealing to you to link yourselves in membership in this great organization, which is doing so much to relieve suffering in our own Province.

Chairman: Mr. John Elliott month.

We hope ere long to see every square foot of industrial area in Prince Ward and elsewhere occupied by flourishing full time industries.

Belleville has several flourishing industries, among which is to be number ed the City's own Gas Industry which in 1928 the gas losses were 53% of the make. That loss has now been reduced to 30% for the first nine months of the present year and when returns for the whole year are available we hope to have reduced the loss ses of gas to 15%, which is no mean achievement in a space ob about two years.

Profit of $2000

Last year we had a slight surplus from operations. This year for the first so many, we will have a substan tial profit of upwards of $2000.00.

In the achievement of this result as Chairman of that Department I had the whole-hearted support and co operation of my Colleagues in Council and of every civic employee and for that matter of all the citizens.

Ladies and gentlemen I now seek the honor of the Mayoralty, that I may be permitted to assist in the completion ofthe work undertaken.

In conclusion, I thank all those who have kindly and generously supported me in the past.

My record is an open book, upon it, I ask you to pronounce the verdict. I will be satisfied, and further in the Council of 1929 or in my private capacity it will be my privilege to strive for the unity and prosperity of Belleville that it may take its rightful place in this Great Dominion under the flag of Equality, Liberty and Justice."

Harry Greenleaf next arose, and spoke briefly, painting a glowing picture of Belleville's future, and prophesied the new municipal building programme next year. Mr. Greenleaf thought too, that a satisfactory arrangement could be entered into between the City and McCvil brothers gasoline station. He complimented Mr. Reid on the Parks Board and the part he played in paying bisition street.

Harry Daly, in retiring, said that he had tried to do his duty. "I have conscientiously done the best that I could," he stated, "for the past years I have enjoyed the work. The associations I have made, I will remember for ever, but I am retiring due to too great private interests that take up too much of my time."

BELLE THEATRE

"The Port of Missing Girls," is now at the Belle Theatre.

The producers have shown a keen insight into the average run of human nature by not overdoing it. There are plenty of opportunities to run away with the film, and many times it could have been depicted so as to offend good taste. There is nothing of this kind in the picture, and yet because of several sensational climax es without exaggeration, and melodrama ally will leave in its wake plenty of food for thought long after its runs is completed.

The characters are admirably cast throughout. Barbara Bedford as Ruth King, is the feature role. Adds charm and entertainment to the picture. She is supported by Malcolm McGregor as the dashing young bootlegger with a luxurious car who rescues her from sailing into the infamous "pen".

There are a number of scenes in which superb acting is depicted among them the one where Ruth's father, in the agony of suspense caused by the disappearance of his daughter—fills daughter—the last one on earth whom he would suspect of any wrongdoing, resorts to the "dope" to talks through the "nuke", imploring everybody, everywhere to help him find his daughter. His stress of mind, emotion and his agonized appeal electrify the audience.

There were 500 city girls reported missing in the United States last year. What became of them? Who is to blame?

The picture answers these questions.

WHERE THE ZOO GETS ANIMALS

Strange Farm Situated Near Little Hamlet In U. S.

Nashua, N.H., Nov.—One of the world's strangest farms is lay ng plans for one of next season's strangest zoos.

Near Hudson Center, a few miles from Nashua, a placid white lane house nestles on a typical New England slope. If one did not notice a little white sign on a pole near the road's edge, he would have no reason to believe that the barnyard beyond the rooms contained anything more startling than contented cows.

As a matter o fact, cows seem to be about the only animals never seen by visitors at the farm. There are elephants, leopards, hyenas, bears, monkeys, yaks, camels, buffaloes, peafowl, rebras. African ganders, parrots, pythons, lions tigers eagles, lynxes, grun and other unexpected creatures in the barnyard, barns and in the pastures beyond.

If one did notice the white sign in the dooryard he would know this was "Benson's Animal Farm." The world known Allen Benson have found here a wonderland almost as surprising as one conceived by Lewis Carroll. Even the passing brook contains its surprises for out of it are taken, not trout, but seals. Instead of producing hay, the farm produces fish grass for aquatic tuns.

John T. Benson, proprietor, of the farm, is American representative of Carl Hagenbeck, of Stellingen, near Hamburg, Germany, renowned animal tor of wild animals.

From this farm are taken animals to fill the ranks of performers in circuses. Zoological gardens draw upon it for specimens for public display and such private individuals as des're special animals for their estates find them here.

Men who look and dress like ordinary farm workers, but who receive heavy salaries, teach the animals their t'cks and stunts that later delight circus audiences. There is no glamor of red and gold paint, of blaring bands, of nasty uniforms. In the quiet of this farm Benson calmly and unobtrusive ly phants learn to kneel to stand on their hind legs, to sit down on monster kegs and go through all the other performances customarily seen in staged exhibitions.

Quick-witted ponies learn to tell pu sled audiences the correct time and otherwise thrill onlookers. Tigers forget their ferocity and learn to go through the evolutions and drills that Benson's trainers rehearse them. Parrots learn to sit on perches and t'k tall. Bears are taught to walk like men and amuse children in shows or at wayside stands.

CONFUCIANISM NOW IS LOST TO CHINA

Nanking, China, Oct.—Confucianism, under the Nationalist regime, has lost its last claim to be the state religion in China.

The Nanking government has decreed that nothing be done to prevent veneration to the memory and teachings of the great sage, but the old influence of Confucius has crumbled under the weight of modernistic nationalism.

This summary of Nanking's attitude toward the ancient faith and code which has moulded Chinese thought and conflict for more than 2,000 years was given by a direct descendant of Confucius who is also a member of the Nationalist government, in Dr. H. H. King (King Hsiang-hsi) of the 79th generation in direct line from the sage, whose full name was Kung Fu-tzu. Dr. King, alumnus of Oberlin and Yale universities, is minister of finance and economics and is also proud of his Confucian lineage, is a Christian.

"Many persons, especially abroad, erroneously conceive of confucianism as a religion," said Dr. King. "Confucianism should be a code of philosophy, a standard of ethical conduct for which no claim is made of divine or supernatural sanction. However, the policy of the Nationalist government is complete religious freedom and toleration, and we shall do nothing to interfere with those who still worship Confucius."

"Certainly we shall do nothing to cast disrespect on the memory of this great man, who is venerated as the Great Sage, and teacher of the Chinese people."

TESTING NEW WHEATS

Canadian farmers are taking a keen interest in the "local variety" tests being conducted with wheat under the supervision of the Department of Agriculture. The ultimate object is to find out as far as possible the varieties of wheat best suited to the different types of soil and different localities in the Prairie Provinces.

SHREDDED WHEAT

On the table in a jiffy—pleasant to eat, easy to digest. The perfect Canadian breakfast.

For whole wheat strength—the wafer, TRISCUIT

Made by The Canadian Shredded Wheat Co., Ltd.

And did you hear Josef Hoffman, the world's greatest pianist, last night?

Hoffman appeared under the sponsorship of the Atwater Kent hour and played four brilliant compositions, showing off his technique to the best ability.

His Valse Triste appeared to be the best composition of all, played with infinite feeling.

His other numbers were showy, brilliantly executed, but cold, with no life to them. Nevertheless, it is rarely that one can hear this celebrated pianist without going to New York City, or occasionally Toronto and paying about $3 or $4 a seat to hear a recital.

A critic says that Hoffman is the only pianist in the world to-day that can play Liszt's Rigoletto Hall. Toronto. And that's a compliment.

Another most pleasing feature that came over the air last night was Collier's Hour, often called the most popular hour on the air, bar none.

Static was surprisingly absent last night, and listeners could get that delicious thrill when the Master of Ceremonies Graham McNamee, lifts his boots without the atmosphere helping the weird effects along.

Tonight, radio fans will have the opportunity of hearing the Philharmonic Orchestra over a chain of Canadian stations from nine-o'clock until ten.

And that should be worth listening to. Anybody who has heard the Maple Leaf hour before this knows what enjoyment is in store for all.

BRONCHITIS OR HEALTH

Bronchitis is a very serious condition. Many cases pass into pneumonia and many lives are lost because the patient views bronchitis as merely a cold. If you have a tendency towards recurring attacks of bronchitis, you should have your chiropractor discover the cause and correct it.

TORONTO WITH BRILLIANT FINISH HANDED MONTREAL A TRIMMING

Canadiens Given Set-Back by Americans — Detroit Tied

Toronto, November 26.—Montreal's hard-hitting Maroons succumbed to the accuracy and speed of a dazzling Toronto forward line and a sturdy defence here Saturday night when the Maple Leafs won a 4-1 decision in a National Hockey League fixture.

Without "Hooley" Smith, whose nose injury received in the Ottawa Maroon game Thursday, kept him out of play, and Dunc Munro, Maroons held the speedy Toronto outfit to one goal in two periods, but wilted in the third and allowed Horne, Bailey and Lowry to rip shots past Clint Benedict. Oatman secured Montreal's only goal three-quarters way through the final session after he had taken a pass from Siebert.

The victory shot the Leafs into a tie for the second place with New York Americans, a point behind the undefeated Ottawa Senators, in the standing of the International section. Montreal rooms now occupy the cellar position, a point below Canadiens.

Montreal, Nov. 26.—Canadiens and their supporters absorbed a terrific knock when they were beaten by the New York Americans at the Forum Saturday night, 4—3. But the local players and 11,000 of their supporters, learned exactly why it is that the Americans are one of the two undefeated teams to date in the N. H. L. and why they—a mediocre combination—are rising up in second place in the race, tied with Toronto, but with a game in hand.

A flash of hockey brilliance when two teams, added to sixty minutes of steady battling won for the Ottawa crew. These Yanks will not go down when they should according to all precedents of hockey. Halfway through Saturday's contest the Americans were trailing 2—0, and it looked like a walk over for Canadiens against Tommy Gorman's group of veterans. But the minute Canadiens let down, Americans plunging right along and trying ever; second, fought their way back to a tie. They saw Canadiens take a lead again in the third period, but they knotted the contest again. Then, when it appeared as if overtime was certain, But let Joe Simpson whipped himself down the ice and left drive as the Canadien defence closed on him. Hainsworth got his stick on the puck but could not hold it, and American s took a lead which they held for the few minutes remaining.

Detroit, November 26.—The Ottawa Senators, at the top of the International division of the National Professional Hockey League, remained unbeaten here Saturday night after an unbeaten battle with the Detroit Cougars which ended in a 1 to 1 tie. The game put the Cougars in for a tie for first place with the New York Rangers in the American division.

To Alex. Connell, Ottawa goalie went the credit for the game, Time and again, when Lewis, Ray and Herberts Detroits forwards, broke through the Senator's defence wall, he saved sensational style. He was forced to work almost twice as hard as "Dollie" Dolson, Cougar goal tender.

AMERICANS WANT GOALIE WALSH

Montreal, Nov. 26.—Manager Tommy Gorman is on the hunt still to purchase "Pat" Walsh, Marcog sub goalie, from Vernon Forbes, it was announced this after the American-Canadian game here Saturday night. Vernon Forbes, regular American goalie played in the nets for the first time this season. Forbes turned in a winning game, but the acrobatic little netguardian was painfully nervous and shaky. At one of the rest intervals he was taken ill, but was able to go back into action when the ball sounded. Norman Andrews Forbes is not fully recovered from his illness which developed shortly before the season opened.

ANNUAL MEETING HOCKEY ASSOCIATION

The Ladies' Ontario Hockey Association is holding its annual meeting on Saturday, December 8th, 1928, at 2:30 p.m. in the rooms of the Amateur Athetic Commission, 93 Adelaide St., W. Its aim is to get back to the standard of its initial year, 1922, when it embraced 17 teams. We would be interested and pleased in seeing an entry from your town. Your co-operation will help us achieve our aim. Make up your mind now that you'll send a delegate to represent you at the L.O.H.A. meeting on December 8th Information with regards to the Association, playing rules, affiliation fees, etc. can be obtained by communicating with Ella Rosenfeld, 961 Queen Street, W., Toronto.

The word gigmanity, was coined by Carlyle to describe the British Philistine idea of respectability.

"START GETTING WELL TODAY!

KEEPING THE STOMACH HEALTHFUL

"So you, too, have been forced to live on crackers and milk and other equally uninteresting and joyless diets." How often has this remark been addressed to you?

Barring abuse, every one should be able to eat what he likes in reasonable quantity, without suffering. The facts, however, are that nearly every one is limiting himself, and trying to temper the quantity and kind of foods eaten just to pamper a delicate stomach.

Stomach health depends upon a normal supply of nervous energy. The chiropractor finds the alignment of joints of the spine distorted at what is known as "stomach place" in every case of stomach dis-ease. When a chiropractor spinal adjustment accurately restores the alignment at "stomach place" digestion once more becomes vigorous and effective.

Corrections of astigmatism should be worn steadily?

Yes. It should be remembered that the glasses correct the error. When they are not worn the error is not corrected.

At what age is astigmatism most prevalent?

At no particular age. Persons are usually born with it. Like far sight it may not be suspected in youth for reasons already given.

A parent would make no mistake in deciding to learn the condition of his child's eyes?

No. Whether or not help is needed that is a desirable thing to know.

OSHAWA CAPTURE FOOTBALL TITLE

Motor City's Squad Handed Varsity Wanderers A Lacing

Oshawa, Ont., Nov. 26.—Oshawa Blue Devils won the O.R.F.U. intermediate title here Saturday by a score of 16 to 7, overcoming a lead of seven points secured by the Sarnia Wanderers, on Wednesday at the tunnel city when the latter won by eight to one Oshawa thus won the round by 17 to 13.

If it had not been for the famous holds from Nelson McPherson's boot, Sarnia would have been more than overwhelmed. It was a clean-cut victory leaving little doubt as to the relative merits of the teams.

Sarnia was forced to rouge early in the game, and this seemed to presage the final result but when Norman Geary, the fleet Sarnia back grabbed the ball on the Oshawa 35-yard line, skirted the end and outran the whole Oshawa team and planted the pigskin behind the Oshawa goal for a touchdown the game seemed, for the moment at least, sewed up for Sarnia.

JUNGLE KINGS DEFEAT ORPHANS

Varsity Succumbed After Holding Tigers In First Half

Hamilton, Nov. 26—Hamilton's famed Tigers captured the Eastern Canada football championship here Saturday when they defeated Toronto Varsity Orphans, champions of the O.R.F.U., by a score of 28 to 8. Next Saturday they will clash with Regina on a Hamilton field for the champion ship of the Dominion. The Orphans troublesome for the first half of the game. Tigers led only by 8 to 5 at the interval but the superiority of the International Union representatives certainly asserted itself in the final thirty minutes of play, especially in the last quarter when they scored three touchdowns and a single point.

Tigers were the first to check in the early stages because of the blue team's plucky fight, deadly tackling and the masterly kicking of young Jack Sinclair, the collegians' backfield ace. The jungle kings also contributed largely toward their own failure to pile up points in the first two quarters by lack of co-ordination in all departments and offside penalties that cost them 70 yards and numerous scoring chances. But when Coach Roddon got through telling his stalwarts their mis takes during the rest period the Big Four champions stepped into some much lighter opponents with a vengeance and the third quarter was not very old before they had shoved the pigskin into scoring position. They insisted a rouge and a field goal to increase their lead to twelve to five and from then to the finish it was a rout.

5,500 FANS WITNESSED FIRST HOCKEY MATCH

Buffalo, November 24.—Fifty-five hundred sport fans saw the first professional hockey match in Buffalo Saturday night when Niagara Falls defeated the Bisons, 1 to 0, in the new Fence Bridge Arena. The Port Erie, Ont. The solitary goal was registered after 18 and one half minutes of the second period had elapsed, when Frank Foyle, sub wingman, drove a shot at Bill Vaughen, who fended it off, only to have Steele ride in and poke the rebound into the cage.

PHILADELPHIA TEAM LOST TO SPRINGFIELD

Springfield, Mass., November 26.—The Springfield Indians easily defeated the Philadelphia Arrows of the American League game here last Saturday. The score was 4 to 1. A crowd of 5,000 saw the contest.

The third period was a rough affair and held 15 penalties. Marsden of Springfield and Sykes of Philadelphia drawing majors for mixing things up on the ice.

PETES WELCOME THE RESIGNATION OF CLAN DALEY

A wise-cracker in the Peterboro Examiner says:

That was good news from the Central Ontario Baseball Meeting at Deliro Saturday. The resignation of the Kingston Pirates was just about as welcome to the Pirates as the announcement of the perfect here of a couple of 400 hitting outfielders would be. They don't got nothing against Mister Joe Daley and his men personally, Mister Daley crabs in a ball game, but who doesn't? And the Petes always got a kick outa hearing the Kingston pilot rave, but they don't like the Kingston grounds nor the Kingston fans, nor that long trip to Kingston and already they're taking more interest in baseball, knowing that the circuit next summer will be a 4-team one.

And by the way, Mac this Central loop is going to be stronger than ever next season, and you remember the league winners copped the Ontario honors this last summer. The hot stove league dope shows the team, strengthening their fences, ready for the 24th May. From Deloro comes reports of a crack college football player as a catcher which causes Mister Jeff Hardill to wise-crack that he can't kick no field goals from behind the home plate, also, some more reinforcements for the Smelters, including a pitcher of sorts. Belleville advices is that Mister Walter Gorow has been seeing a lot of the country, and that spay have something to do with the reports that new faces will be mingled with the familiar ones on the Belleville lineup next season. Lively another pitcher to share the burden with Mister Hoot Gibson anyway. Oshawa for last season collected a whole side of the argument. He is a red-hot baseball fan, a worker, and a level-headed sorta cuss who ought to keep the Central loop outa jams and working smoothly as season.

CHRIST CHURCH YOUNG PEOPLE RENDER PROGRAM

A large number of young people gathered Fri. night at Christ Church Parish Hall for the annual meeting of the Anglican Young People's Association. The meeting took the form of a social evening, and invitations having been sent out to Albert College, the Ontario School for the Deaf, Ontario Business College, and the nurses at the Hospital, a number of young people from each institution were welcomed by the A.Y.P.A. as their guests for the evening.

The Rector, Rev. C. E. Clarke acted as headman and opened the meeting with prayer. After the usual business had been dispensed with the following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

Patron—Rev. C. E. Clarke.
President—Mr. James Varley.
Vice-Pres.—Mrs. Harris Emberry, Secy-Treas.—Miss Minnie Diamond.

After the election of officers the newly elected President presided over the meeting and the following program was thoroughly enjoyed by all present:

Community Singing—Mr. Harry Wilkins at the piano.
Pantomime—Conducted by Mrs. Earle Hickey.
Dance—Miss Betty Morgan.
Comedian Songs and Jokes—Messrs. Victor White and Gordon Rose.
Duet—"Peat and Repeat"—Misg Helen Symons and Mr. Frank Lang.
Song—Mr. Harry Mapley.
Introduction game
Encore—Master Charlie Thorn.

At the conclusion of the program a dainty lunch was served, after which dancing was thrown for another hour. During the dancing a hearty vote of thanks to all those helping to make the evening a success was moved by Mrs. Fred Symons and seconded by Mr. Roland Symons.

Just before the singing of the National Anthem which brought a most successful evening to a close, the President announced that the next meeting would be December 14th and would be Kiddies Night.

HEAVY LOSSES FOLLOWING GALE

Nine Killed and Shipping Facilities Held Up In Coast

London, Nov. 27—Havoc, swept over the British isles during nine dead and crippled shipping in its wake, a southwesterly gale that was today roaring over western Europe. The storm was fully as strong as a week ago. Many persons are injured and the loss of property was heavy.

One of those killed was a Liverpool seaman's home man. The wind caught his signs, tossed him in the air and dropped him in front of the wheels of a truck. He died in the care of the German steamer Kerrewayk which sunk in a gale 945 miles west of Ireland. There is no doubt, though it was known that a number had been saved. On another was particularly severe today at the channel ports of France and along the French Atlantic Coast. The gale found its way over northern and western France, it brought down chimneys, up-rooted trees and disrupted telephone and telegraph service. The weather predictions were that another gale was racing across the Atlantic and bearing down on England.

BANDIT IS KILLED BY INTENDED VICTIM

New Albany, Ind., Nov. 25.—An unidentified bandit was dead today after an unsuccessful attempt to rob Thomas Winninger, 65 year old store keeper. The victim entered the store with two women and a boy when Winninger and some customers. The shopkeeper fired the shot gun and hit the bandit in the head. His companions escaped in an automobile.

PASSENGERS MAY START AN ACTION

New York, Nov. 24. — Orrin R. Stevens, survivors of the Vestris disaster, announced today that he would organize the rescued passengers in committee for a joint legal action against the Lamport and Holt line owners of the ill-fated ship which sank down two weeks ago with a loss of more than one hundred lives.

The proposed committee would include all the first cabin and third class passengers financially unable to do so and could possibly claim a lump sum, covering the joint claim of the passengers. It must also represent relatives of the victims.

NEW AUTOMOBILE FUEL INVENTED

Dr. Jacobus Aarts, of Netherlands, Promises Substitute for Gasoline

Pittsburgh, Penna., Nov. 27.—The invention of a new automobile fuel dry powder named carbonal phine, promised by its inventor to simplify auto engine construction and practical by using steam power was announced in a paper presented to the International Conference on bituminous coal here today.

The author is Dr. Jacobus Aarts, of the Netherlands. The fuel is made by changing coal into carbon dioxide then into carbon monoxide and this into carbonal phine, the author claimed. The fuel is claimed to be the first stricter imagination with low combustion point and great lubrication power. It can be used in liquid plas tic or solid form.

EXPORTS OF U.S. SHOW INCREASE

New York, N.Y., Nov.—Cattle Slack's situation in the world market are developing an export trade which on the basis of reports covering the first nine months is larger in volume than any year since 1921, the National Foreign Trade Council reports.

The total value of industrial or partly manufactured goods made up 75 per cent., the highest proportion on record, of the $3,240,000,000 worth of exports reported in the end of September. Valued at more than $2,000,000,000 they exceed all the records for commodities from any other native except agricultural products for the period of 1925-$50,000 in automotive products, 10 per cent. to $210,000,000 in industrial machinery, 25 per cent. to $65,000,000 in agricultural machinery and 20 per cent. to more than $44,000,000 in electric specialties. Exports of electrical machinery and apparatus increased by 50 per cent., to $27,000,000. Manufactured cotton, 9 per cent. to $125,000,000 and there were smaller gains in other lines. Shipments is said to have assumed its place as best customer of the United States, her people buying at the rate of $61.40 per capita, nearly five per capita account of any important nation with any other. The United Kingdom, Germany, Canada and France were as the next best customers, purchasing with Canada, Cuba, 94.5 per cent. of all the exports despite the fact they are this country's chief competitors in the sugar industry.

About 38.4 per cent of the imports came from Canada, United Kingdom, Germany, Cuba and Japan as compared with 39.5 per cent in the years between 1921 and 1925 and 40.5 per cent. between 1910 and 1914.

LOCAL ARTISTS WERE HEARD BY LISTENERS IN SOUTHERN STATES

Belleville Possesses Fine Talent for Future Broadcasts

November 22, 1928.

Mayor Duff,
Belleville, Ont.

Dear Sir:—

We are enclosing copy of letter received from Ft. Louis which speaks for itself. After reading the letter, I think we have been sending you, you will realize the extent of the Belleville broadcast.

Undoubtedly, there were thousands of people who listened in to your program.

Last evening we had Brantford on the air but we did not get the same response as we did out of Belleville but whether this is due to your efforts, or to the talent or to the selections chosen by the artists, we do not know, but Belleville undoubtedly was one of the best evenings we had.

With kind regards,

Yours truly,
W. T. Cole,
Manager.

Dear Sir:—

I want to tell you how I enjoyed your concert Nov. 14th, which was dedicated to Belleville. I lived in Belleville—was born and brought up there and I certainly was delighted when I heard the announcers say the singers and Mayor were from Belleville. I received a wonderful reception and enjoyed it all. We have been very fortunate getting Toronto stations, but Some nights it comes in very clear, and it was the night of the 14th. Thanking you.

Sincerely,
Pranced Johnston

14th November, 1928

Dear Sirs:—

I have been listening in to your broadcast from CKGW at Weston. The program dedicated to the city of Belleville by Belleville artists was exceedingly fine and the interesting talk on that city has aroused my desire to pay it a visit in the near future. May I add your station was much clearer than many we have on display. Hoping to hear you when I tune in next time.

Yours truly,
Elsie E. Jones.

CKGW.
Gentlemen,

It was a rare treat to listen in on your Belleville program last evening from 10:30 to 11:30 o'clock. All of the members were clearly heard even in competition wit nearby powerful stations as WBZ and KDKA. As Belleville is my former home and being well acquainted with all of the artists appearing, it was with a great deal of pleasure that I listened to their various contributions especially to Ina Ray Hutton who happens to be a brother. Thanking you for the particular broadcast, I am

SALVAGED GUNS FROM CITY DUMP

Trophies of Canadian Victory Thrown Away By Peterboro Council

FEELING RUNS HIGH

Veterans, Five Hundred Strong, Replaced War Relics on Legion Lawn

Peterboro, Nov. 27. —. Peterboro's Great War veterans, parading almost five hundred strong, salvaged the three German guns capsized by Past ern Ontario units during the last days of the Great War from the ash piles of the city's dump last night and placed them on the only property owned by the returned men in the city, the lawn of their Canadian Legion. The three war trophies were taken earlier in the day from Confederation Square, in the centre of the city, and placed on the dump on orders from a subcommit tee of the City Council.

Denounce Council

The action of the City Council was strongly denounced and the Council characterized as a "Tin-horn body" which had committed a deed that was disgraceful to the city of Peterboro' and the Dominion of Canada at large. The consensus of feeling was that the veterans were outraged, not so much at the removal of the guns, but by the action of the City Council in relegating them to the city's dump.

Action Explained

The suggestion of moving the war trophies was first discussed early in the summer at a meeting between a tt committee of the City Council and the Peterboro' War Memorial Committee. Then a lady member of the committee complained that many mothers of boys who gave their lives in the Great War shuddered every time they passed the guns, as they feared they might have been the ones that caused their sons' death.

Written in bright red chalk on one of the guns was "For Sale: Two Bits." The trophies were grouped in and confusion about the trunk of an old tree from the mumbles of two stuck long poles bearing signs, and on the trunk of the tree was a sign "To the Dump."

The guns were presented to the city in June, 1920, and there were many speeches declaring that the glory of the men who captured them would never fade. At that presentation the guns were accepted on behalf of the city for posterity, and were to be full of meaning for future Peterboro' gen erations.

HEAVY WEEK AHEAD OF BADMINTON CLUB

There will be a full week for the Belleville Garrison Badminton Club this week, Picton. It is understood, on Thursday evening is sending a strong set of teams to Belleville and on Saturday at least two Toronto Clubs will have teams at the armour ies.

The Granite Club, and the York Club are sending ten or twelve teams for inter competition, but this is not a league match, as the Queen City is not in the same group as the local club.

FLOODS FOLLOW WAKE OF GALES

Dykes and Seawalls Demolished by Waves, Several Towns Inundated

London, Nov. 27.—Floods today followed a wake of gale which caused the loss of a score of vessels in Western European waters and took toll of a hundred lives. From Belgium north to Pritian Island, lowlands were inundated as the sea was driven in on them by the raging winds. Dykes and seawalls were demolished by the waves. At Ostend, water ran down the streets and flooded ground floors of buildings. A number of houses at Rotterdam, Holland were abandoned. Today the gale had somewhat abated in Western Europe but was raging with indiminished vigor over the Mediterranean, spreading disastrous shipping damage which characterized its passage over the west coast. Losses in Great Britain alone from recent storms were estimated at a million pounds of sterling.

THE WEATHER

Moderate southerly winds, fine some what higher temperature. Wednesday —south west winds cloudy and milder scattered showers.

Mr. Walsh, by the use of lantern slides illustrated the proper feeding watering and care of poultry, Pancing from Sidney Township, Prince Edward County as well as members of the local Association gleaned many interesting points from Mr. Walsh's lecture. A number of ladies were also present.

Mr. Truaisch, President of the Belleville Association was in the chair and thanked the speaker for his splendid remarks. The Belleville 'Winter Poultry Show will be held on January 8, 9, and 10, it was announced.

Wooden Ramps Still Do Duty At Service Station Despite Order

No act on has been taken as yet with regards to the moving of the wooden ramp at the curb at the McColl Bros Service Station. Official notification to remove the ramp was sent to the McColl headquarters in Toronto last week, but apparently they are waiting for the city to remove it.

As the matter now stands, the service station is operating as though the City Council did not exist, and from all advices that can be secured, the McColl brothers will fight the city in the law courts to keep it running.

Milton DeLong, manager of the Mc Coll Bros. Service Station, received notice to-day to remove the wooden ramps, but McColl Bros. have given him orders to leave it as it is. Action is promised in the near future.

NOTED RESIDENT IS DEAD AT 87

Mrs. W. Hamilton Was Born At Hudson Bay Factory In 1841

For almost half a century a resident of Belleville and one of the oldest citizens, Mrs. Mary Hamilton, wid ow of the late W. Hamilton, died early this morning in her 88th year. The aged lady had enjoyed good health and the use of her faculties up until about four weeks ago when she fell down a flight of steps, cracking her hip, and she failed to rally from the accident.

The late Mrs. Hamilton has had an eventful life. She was born at Rupert House, Hudson Bay, in 1841 at a time when the fur trade was just opening up the wilderness of North Western Canada. Her father, Robert Miles, was Factor at the Moose Factory of the Hudson Bay Company and Mrs. Hamilton had many tales to tell of her early life in the country then popular ed almost solely by Indians.

Mrs. Hamilton's husband was manager ofthe former Merchants' Bank in this city previous to his death in 1907. Following this she spent some years in Lindsay with her daughter but the family returned to Belleville about 1916 where they have since resided.

Many Descendants

Mrs. Hamilton is survived by six children, sixteen grandchildren and three great grandchildren many of whom reside in Belleville. They are Mr. H. Hamilton, of the Bank of Montreal; Montreal; W. M. Hamilton of the Dominion Bank at Winnipeg, and Robert S. Hamilton, of the C.N.R. at Belleville. The daughters are Mrs. W. J. Thompson, Mrs. Robert E. Dow and Mrs. Kenneth M. Taylor, all ranchildren are living in Belleville at present; Mrs. Kenneth Weir and Robert, Kenneth, Margorie and Catherine the children of Mrs. Taylor; Mrs. Margaret Williams, the daughter of Mrs. Thompson, Miss Kathleen Orr and Miss Joan Hamilton, the great grandchildren are also in Belleville, be ing the two small daughters of Mrs. Williams and the infant daughter of Mrs. K. C. Weir.

The late Mrs. Hamilton was a member of St. Thomas Church for many years. The funeral will be held on Thursday after noon, November 29th, 1.2.30 p.m., to St. Thomas Church. Interment will be held in the home at 2 o'clock.

HYDRO WON HARD FIGHT AT POLLS

Southampton Voted 228 to 125 in Favor of the Commission

Southampton Nov. 27—Hydro won the final stage of the Southampton power battle in handy fashion today, when ratepayers, by a vote of 228 to 125, authorized the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission to proceed immediately with the survey which ultimately, it is expected, will bring "power at cost" to the people of this community.

The spirited campaigning which characterized the power fight during the past couple of weeks prevailed down to the very last moment. Instruction of the interest displayed by the ratepayers in the battle can be gauged from the fact that the 353 ballots cast during the day represented practically the total vote available of all property holders, and from the fact that the last vote was cast before 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

May Appeal Vote

There was strong talk last night o the ratepayers' verdict, on the ground, it was asserted, that anti-Hydro voters had been left off the lists. Reeve James C. Tobnie, strong Hydro proponent, was inclined to scout the possibility of such action.

On the other hand, W. H. Grove, Assistant to the President of the Pushar interests, stated definitely that he would confer with the firm's solicitors.

"Of course," said Mr. Grove last night, "I am speaking for the company but I would say offhand, that the verdict will be appealed."

The citizens who supported the anti-hydro cause celebrated the victory by a street demonstration late tonight.

Gratifying Says Premier

Commenting on the Hydro victory at Southampton last night Premier Ferguson said: "It is very gratifying the people realize that their own initiative is desirable to have in their own community, and that they are to be partners in a business organization to which they have been contributing. We endeavored to avoid conflict with a private company by negotiations, but found it impossible to meet its requests so we had to go into the field ourselves."

ANXIETY PERSISTING OVER KING'S SLOW RALLYING FROM SICKNESS

Physician's Bulletins Are Non-Committal—Fever Has Abated

SLIGHT IMPROVEMENT

Duke of York Says His Father Is Somewhat Better Today

London, Nov. 27—Anxiety over King George's illness received little relief this morning when physicians issued a non-committal bulletin. The physicians said the royal patient had passed a more restful night and that his fever reported had somewhat abated. Temperature was not given and other condit ionsnow r e conditions were said to be unchanged.

Doctors were at the palace early, arriving shortly after nine o'clock, but it was not till noon that they left the sickroom and issued a bulletin. Hundreds of persons were around the palace when the bulletin was posted on the railings of the gates.

The Duke of York, speaking at a meeting of the British Poster Advertising Association today said, " I am glad to be able to tell you there is a slight improvement in the King's condition this morning. Every one will know what pleurisy is and how prea lous it can be. There are two things to be remembered, from the nature of the illness progress must be slow and there must be ups and downs, but progress has been made.

Code Message is Prince

London, Nov. 27.—Exchange telegraph despatch from Capetown says word was received from Dodoma, Tanganyika, that a code message reached the provincial Commissioners and a fast motor car was sent at once to meet the Prince of Wales, who is coming in from camp. The despatch says that the code messages contained instructions for the Prince to return to London.

Taking Normal Course

London, Nov. 27.—King George's stamina was undergoing a severe test today, but the consensus of opinion from pleurisy and consequent loss of strength. Although anxiety has not diminished, the variability of his temperature and the persistence of pleurisy were regarded as reasons for the present stage. Pessimistic view of the royal condition reported by the Daily Mail today did not appear to be shared by other papers.

Better Night

London, Nov. 27—It was announced officially this morning that the King's temperature was somewhat lower but he was otherwise unchanged. He spent a more restful night.

Prince at Dodoma

London, Nov. 27.—The Evening News today printed a despatch from the Pretoria Bureau, reporting correspondent of the Daily Mail with the Prince of Wales, dated Dodoma, Tanganyika Territory, Monday, reading, "Important message for Prince of Wales arrived this evening. Courier was immediately despatched to meet him on road from his camp to Dodoma. Prince is due here early this evening."

The news adds that a high official at Buckingham Palace said that the Prince's return to Dodoma was part of the plan made before he knew of the King's illness and was not due to any request from England.

God is the author, and not man; he laid
The key-note of all harmonies.

PROHIBITION HAS LOST MUCH GROUND

New Zealand has joined the list of countries and provinces which have tried prohibition as a method of liquor control, and found it wanting. In the recent referendum, there was a majority of 136,000 votes against the retention of prohibition, and by charge of some system of licensing. Following upon the change of opinion expressed by the people of Ontario and some of the other provinces of Canada, this is significant, since it shows that widely separated lands are experiencing the same difficulty in making a law of total prohibition successful. In the United States, of course prohibition still holds good, in theory, but the people there have had no opportunity of expressing their views on it. The recent election was not a test of prohibition for there were so many other issues involved in the presidential contest that no verdict could be expected on a straight liquor question.

It is apparent, however, that prohibitory legislation, when it deals with a matter of personal liberty, cannot be a complete success. The people of Canada and of New Zealand rank amongst the highest in the world from a moral standpoint, and in standards of living, and yet they would not tolerate prohibition of liquor. They could see advantage in a proper system of control, but hope to see prohibitory measures on the statute books. This should provide a significant lesson to those who are interested in the promotion of real temperance, and should convince them that their best future policy should be to consolidate the control system now in effect, rather than to fight for something which has been discredited in so many different parts of the world.

MOTHER LOVE MAY BE A WISE LOVE

If an eighteen year old boy, arrested for robbery, should escape from jail, and run home to his mother, one would hardly blame the mother if she should help him to make his escape from the pursuing authorities. It would be easy to understand how her mother love could over balance her knowledge that he really ought to pay for his crime.

Such an illusion youth of that age, jailed in Kentucky for robbery, escaped and went home— and his mother sent him back to jail. He re-appeared at the jail a day or two later, saying his mother had told him to return and "take his medicine" and to lead a better life hereafter.

That young man's mother did not love him any the less when she sent him back to serve his sentence, within the walls of a jail. On the contrary, she loved him all the more, and showed herself a woman of considerable strength of character. She refused to give way to unwise emotionalism when she could easily have been excused for doing so, and, in doing this, she did her son a greater service than if she had helped him to make his escape. True, mother love is not always that which finds the path of least resistance but that which looks far ahead into the future, and tries to see what, in the long run, will be the best thing for the one who is the object of that love.

CHRISTMAS TREES SOURCE OF PROFIT

The annually recurring controversy regarding the destruction of evergreen trees to supply the Christmas trade is again under way. It was stated last year that too much fuss was being made over the matter, that the number of trees marketed was comparatively insignificant. The view is hardly borne out by the article contributed by Mr. Frederic Hudd, Canadian trade commissioner, to the Commercial Intelligence Journal. The United States alone requires about ten million trees. It is estimated, and of this number Canada supplies between three and four million. Over a million Christmas trees were shipped to the United States from the province of New Brunswick alone, last year.

There figures are impressive, and the situation is made still worse by reason of the fact that in the New England states blight is responsible for an embargo, which has caused the demand on Canadian resources to be greater than ever. The Canadian Forestry Association is interesting itself helpfully in the problem, and has made certain proposals which, if adopted, should ensure the preservation of our forests and at the same time permit the continuance of the ancient and delightful custom of setting up and decorating the yule tree with all its pleasant associations.

The plan of the Forestry Association is to encourage the planting of spruce and balsam specially for the Christmas trade. These would be set out in forest plantations and cut down when they grew to suitable size, leaving the other trees to reach maturity. It is said that two thousand Christmas trees could be grown on a single acre, and that a profitable trade might be developed in this way.

The suggestion is made that abandoned farms might be turned to good account at a very low cost, amounting to about only one cent a tree. The present practice of going into the bush and lopping off the tops of growing trees is strongly condemned, as it deserves to be, the example of European countries being cited, where Christmas trees are the culled thinnings of the forest, removed to the advantage of the latter. If the matter were properly organized, there would be no reason for opposition; on the contrary, the trade would serve a double purpose—it would be a judicious act of forestation and provide a profitable business for those engaged in it.

"Ah" said the guide, "it went back after another rock."

THIRD DEGREES NOT PRACTISED

Not the Custom Among Scotland Yard Officials Is Stated

During his examination by the commission investigating the London Metropolitan Police Department, Sir Ch lds Wyndham dealt with third degree charges. He is the head of the Criminal Investigation Department of Scotland and has signified his intention of retirement—along with the police head, Sir William Horwood—the latter being replaced by Lord Byng.

Sir Wyndham said while under examination, that he had a definition of the third degree from Webster's International Dictionary, 1911. He read this as "the severe examination or treatment of a prisoner by the police to extract an admission."

It had been his experience that the first occasion on which the term third degree had been used was at the first appearance of the accused before a magistrate, when he said that his statement had been taken by means of threats or cunning. The magistrate decided the point by either accepting or rejecting the evidence.

The Chairman: Supposing he accepted the evidence?—It has never been so in my time.

The witness pointed out that when a man was charged with a serious offence he was always remanded, and during the remand he was under the jurisdiction of a governor, a doctor, a chaplain, warders, and prison visitors.

"I suppose," said Sir Wyndham, "that if the accused person has in fact been brutally treated he has had a week in which he is under other persons, during which time he could ventilate his grievance. I suggest that the suggestions of third degree are never put forward until a man is before the magistrate.

"I have never had a case of alleged third degree all the time I have been at Scotland Yard, until the man has reached the magistrate, when I am important, and I have never known a case where the magistrate has not accepted the evidence that a statement has been properly obtained."

GEN. BOOTH PROGRESSING

London, Nov. 26.—General William Bramwell Booth tonight was reported to have had a quiet day after a rest last night. It was said that his progress during the last week had been fairly satisfactory for his recovery from the grippe from which he is suffering.

About People

Senator Norris (Rep.) Nebraska, who was said to have made Mr. Hoover nervous during the campaign, by his pouring Smith's power plans in fearless and tireless in his progressivism. However, his defection did not materially affect the north-western farm vote. He it was who in Washington, waged a long war on Henry Ford's bid for Muscle Shoals, Norris succeeded in converting the legislature of his own state which had unanimously demanded that he support it, then in overturning a strong majority in Congress for it. He studied water power so deeply that he astonished seasoned engineers. He was not content to view the Muscle Shoals plants, but came to Canada to see first hand the results of government operation of public utilities especially electrical plants. His own bill for a federal power policy the fruit of years of intensive labor, was the one that Mr. Coolidge killed by a pocket veto.

Ben Turner chairman of the Yorkshire Textile Union Congress at Swansea, England recently thus expressed himself: "The trade union official has by very learned lecturers been cannot confine his work to purely hours and wages. He must understand compensation law, the Factory Acts, and the many other acts which apply to trade and industry. He must have knowledge of accountancy, must be sober in mind and judgment, and also be equal to a faster existence than the many people he is associated with in the union, and the friendly adviser of the thousands who are outside his own particular organization. He has to be a real father to the chap, to accept his share of responsibility, and not to be afraid to say yes or nay, even risking popularity for the sake of justice, while being unobnoxious in his relationships with other people in the world."

CONSERVATIVES DENY ATTACKS

N. S. Tories Claim the Spoils Did Not Fall to Victors

The Sydney Post challenges those who have charged the Rhodes Government with the fierce partisanship—with pursuance of the doctrine that to the victors belong the spoils, in these words:

"Never in Canada's political history have so few dismissals of note been made on a change of government as have followed the accession to office of the Conservative party in this province.

"Of the 18 sheriffs left by the Armstrong government, only one was dismissed, and that one had been guilty of official misconduct. All the school inspectors, officers of the court, registrars of deeds and of surrogates who were appointed by the Liberals, and who are still living, continue to occupy the positions.

"Every deputy minister of the late government is still in office. The personnel of the board of utilities, the most highly remunerated officers in the province, remains undisturbed. Engineering one also has just passed the half-way mark.

"There has been only one removal from the compensation board and that single change was amply warranted and long overdue.

"It is perfectly obvious that in making a sweeping, almost clean sweep of civil servants placed in office by the late government, the new administration ran the risk of faithfulness and espionage from within. It would be remarkable indeed if in such cases should come to light. After three years in office, the government should now be in a position to pass judgment on the merits or demerits of these public servants, and to deal with the situation as the facts may warrant.

"The evils of patronage should be introduced, the survivors of such evils should certainly not be tolerated."

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

WHY DRINKING WATER HELPS

A friend, or perhaps a relative, has had ons of his kidneys removed and when you remember the important work of the kidneys—removal of waste—you wonder how he is going to get along with one half of the kidney function entirely lost.

The kidney is made up of a large number of little "units" that filter the wastes from the blood and then these wastes are carried down to bladder and thence out of the body.

Now each little unit is independent. As the blood passes along it takes as much waste as it can from it. It does its job for a certain time and then takes a rest.

As some units rest other units take up the work for a while then these latter rest and so forth.

As Dr. N. F. Ockerblad tells us "It is evident that the kidney acts in the most efficient manner in that only units are in action at any given moment as do the work required. When the work is slight many units are resting; when the work is heavy many more units are in action."

Research men tell us that all through the animal and plant feature it is always just a little ahead of our needs and the same would apply to the work of the kidney as a compensatin cannot be put on the kidneys to throw all the filtering units into action at once. In other words there are always some units that are "resting."

What does this knowledge mean to you?

That if you eat too heartily particularly of meats and do not take any exercise there is going to be an increased amount of waste in the blood that must be removed. The removal of a considerable portion of this must be done by the kidneys.

It is therefore of help to you if a goodly number of these filtering units in the kidneys get busy and remove these wastes.

How can you help them to remove the wastes?

By drinking water or other fluid substances.

Increase in fluids hastens and increases the removal of wastes for the very good reason that more filtering units are thrown into action at any one time.

Hence the value of a glass of water two or three times a day.

OFFICIAL VISIT BY DISTRICT DEPUTY

District Deputy Grand Master J. O. Hertiy will pay an official visit to Lake Lodge, A.F. and A.M., Ameliasburg, this evening. In addition to a large number of the brethren and officials who will go to the Lake Lodge this evening the degree team will be augmented by Mr. C. F. Herrington, K.C., and a number of other visitors from Napanee. Mr. Herrington will be one of the speakers at the banquet that will follow the lodge meeting.

The inquest to inquire into the death of the late Edward Foley who passed away in the Belleville General Hospital from injuries received at the plant of the Canadian Industrial Alcohol Company at Corbyville will be resumed at the police court before Coroner Dr. Tennant tonight at eight o'clock. Foley, who was employed in the Grier House at the Industrial Alcohol Company, slipped or fell into the machinery and his leg was so badly mangled that it was necessary to amputate it. Suffering from loss of blood as well as the severe injuries Foley died in the Belleville Hospital last Wednesday.

SPLENDID WORK AT BOYS' HOME

Dr. Raymon Tells Kiwanis How Bowmanville School Functions

Kiwanians learned with interest this afternoon of the work and aims of the Bowmanville Boys' Training School. Dr. Raymon, Superintendent of that institution, was the speaker and convinced his hearers that the Boys' School at Bowmanville must be ranked among the most valued of its kind in the country.

Two years ago this school was opened for the purpose of giving useful and proper direction and education to the dull normal boys through the cooperation of the various Service Clubs in this Province, especially Kiwanis, the humane boys have been graduated and placed since the opening of the school. The speaker stressed the fact that the Boys' School did not enroll mentally defective boys, but rather boys who in their home life had not the proper environment and opportunity to develop into useful citizens.

In the Training school, boys find a broader curriculum than is to be had at any other residential school, and are given the opportunity of choosing the life work they wish to do; practical courses are available in agriculture, mechanics, and other lines.

The boys are taught to appreciate what they receive, it being the experience of Dr. Raymon that what is obtained without effort is not appreciated. Expression of youth in natural and expected, but it is made clear to the boys that in their attendance the rights of others must be respected and the value of property.

DEPUTY VISITED AT LAKE LODGE

Record Attendance — Ban quet Followed the Regular Lodge Meeting

District Deputy Grand Master, J. O. Hertig paid his official visit to Lake Lodge, A.F. & A.M., last Tuesday and one of the largest attendances in the history of the Lodge was on hand with about one hundred and seventy members of the district present, with eighteen lodges represented.

The officers of the lodge exemplified the 2nd degree work in a manner commented by the District Deputy Grand Master on their review work.

Following the Lodge meeting a banquet was held, with a most elaborate menu, Worshipful Master John A. Black presided as toastmaster. The toast to the Grand Lodge was proposed by Wor. Bro. Giles and responded to by D.D.G.M. and Right Wor. Bro. W. S. Herrington, K.C., of Napanee. The toast to the visiting brethren was proposed by W. Bro. Noxon and responded to by Rev. C. E. Clarke,

ROTARADA REVUE MAKES PROGRESS

Leading Roles Will be Announced Within Next Few Days

There seems to be little doubt that the Belleville Rotary Club's big five day Rotarada Show will be one of the best received in this city. Some two hundred and fifty Belleville people are taking part in the show, and as it will be put on in the new Belleville Collegiate and Vocational School, an ideal setting is promised.

The Rotarada Show will be something entirely new and different for Belleville and district people, as there will be skits, burlesques, musical comedies and one act plays combined to make an evening full of enjoyment for all who attend.

Miss Miriam L. Eddy, who is here assisting with her father, Chas. Eddy, in the production of the Rotarada, told the Intelligencer today that two or three of the leading local parts had already been assigned, and that the remaining roles would be given out within the next two days.

Leading Parts Given

"No favorities will be shown, and the very best in the city who have shown any desire to take part will play the leading roles," Miss Eddy declared that so far no petty jealousies have developed, which is something different than often occurs in amateur productions, and none are expected.

Rehearsals are being held every afternoon at the YMCA and those who will be soloists in the different groups are practising hard for their parts. This will greatly help in the production of this Rotarada Show will be the large stage at the Collegiate, this stage is larger than any other in the city, but no doubt will be taxed to the utmost when two hundred people congregate on it. All in all, the Rotarada Revue will be a show to look forward to and to remember after it is over.

CROWD ATTENDS BAZAAR TODAY

Girls' Club of St. Andrew's Church Stage Successful Affair

Many and varied were the offerings to tempt the seeker of Christmas gifts at the bazaar given by the Girls' club of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church this afternoon. At the fancy work table, presided over by Mrs. Wallbridge and Mrs Blair, the display was attended much attention. The Apron Booth displayed all varieties from the dainty fancy aprons meant only for ornament to the large substantial ones strictly for utilitarian purposes. Mrs. Bell was in charge here.

The candy booth under the direction of Mrs. Young was attractive with its decorated in green and white with the attendants dressed to correspond with the color scheme. Home cooking was available in charge of Miss Holmes and Mrs. Rutherford was also patronized.

The tea room looked attractive with small tables centred with the red berries of the bitter sweet. Home cooked tions were carried out in yellow. Mrs. Ransome supervised the tea room and was assisted by other members of the club. The work was distributed among the club members, who ably assisted by the various committees.

Mrs. Bateman, the pres dent of the club, was the hostess of the afternoon and received at the door.

WEDDINGS

BOWLER-CALLAGHAN

A quiet wedding took place at St. Michael's Church this morning when Mrs. Bernice Callaghan, Point Anne, was united in marriage to Mr. Thomas Bowler also of Point Anne. The young couple were attended by Miss Elizabeth Hart, sister of the bride and Mr. Ernest Bowler, of Trenton, brother of the groom. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Fr. Killeen. Following the wedding the party adjourned to the Hotel Quinte where a wedding breakfast was served after which Mr and Mrs. Bowler left for a short honeymoon to Buffalo and New York City.

TODAY'S MARKET

Main Tendency Upward

New York, Nov. 1.—The main price tendency in today's stock market was again upward although the market developed more irregularity than in preceding sessions due to rather general desire to take profits before Thanksgiving day holiday. Cooper and Bethlehem shares were in forefront of advance with sprinkling of high grade specialties marked up five to twelve points by pool operators.

Banks called $40,000,000 in loans, presumably for week end holiday and month end demands and the call money market eased from seven to seven and a half and then six to eight per cent.

There was nothing in the days news to explain renewed accumulation of copper stocks although the belief persists in some quarters that further advance in red metal prices is likely before the end of year. Anaconda touched 65 for first time and American Smelting 160, Guggenheim Exploration and United States Smelting moved up three to four points, the last named also touching new high. Nevertheless al Nickel ran up twelve points to new high at 281 3-4.

Among many other industrial and allroad issued to sell at years best prices were Montgomery Ward, Chrysler an International, Allied Chemical, Columbia gas, Allis Chalmers, Goodyear tubber, Nash Motors, Stewart Warner, White Sewing Machine, Pere Marquet, Int. Combustion, Newhaven and Chicago Great Western Common and preferred.

Deaths And Funerals

ROBERT J. CAMPBELL

Robert J. Campbell died yesterday afternoon at his late residence, on the 6th Concession of Sidney. He was born in Ringsterford Township 74 years ago and has lived at his present home for 48 years. His father was Robert Campbell. He is survived by his widow, one daughter, Mrs. Frank Pinkle, Sidney Township; two sons, Fred at home and William of Montreal; one brother, Hugh Campbell of Arkona, Ontario; one sister, Mrs. John Latta, of Toronto. Interment will take place in Belleville Cemetery.

ALAN GEORGE WESLEY COOK

Mr. Alan Cook passed away on Thursday, November 22nd at the family residence, MacDonald Ave., following an illness of three months' duration. Always of a bright, cheery disposition, he will be greatly missed by his family and numerous friends. The funeral took place from his late home on Saturday, November 24th at 2.3 p.m., the Rev. McCutcheon of Tabernacle Church officiating at the very impressive service. The many friends and neighbors present at the beautiful floral tributes betokened the high esteem in which he was held by all. The late Alan Cook leaves to mourn his loss his mother Francis Cook, his father, William Cook; three sisters, Mrs. Donoghue and Mrs. Pitcher, of Montreal; and Miss Mabel.

The pall bearers were: R. A. Munnings, W. Smith, B. Langabeer, D. Osborne, L. Reinoul and E. George.

Floral tributes were as follows: Pillow—Father and Mother.

Wreaths—

Sister Mabel and Aunt Bertha.

Sister Florence and husband and niece, Mildred.

Mr. & Mrs. H. Cook and family.

Rack Warehouse, Corbyville.

Cooper's Shop, Corbyville.

Claco Social and Athletic Club, Corbyville.

Sheaf—

Mr. and Mrs. H. Clarke and family.

Miss Dorothy Myerson.

Mr. and Mrs. Weir.

Mr. and Mrs. Pitcher and family.

Basket of Carnations.

Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Munnings and son and daughter.

Sprays—

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Miles.

Misses Hilda and Kathleen Gill.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Holmes and Mr. Hully.

Mr. and Mrs. David Osborne and family.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Patrick and family.

Mr. and Mrs. George Earshman.

Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Cerow.

His Boy friend, Mr. Harold Muir.

Mrs. Ivers and Margaret.

During the service the following hymn, which was selected by his old Sunday School teacher, Mr. Hinchcliffe, who is now eighty-two years old and who taught the deceased when he was five years old, was sung.

I love to hear the story
Which Angel voices tell.
How once the King of Glory
Came down to earth to dwell.
I am both weak and sinful,
But this I surely know,
The Lord came down to save me,
Because he loves me so.

GOD SAVE THE KING

It gave us the greatest feeling of pride on Sunday evening when the church service was opened with the national anthem instead of the usual doxology. Somehow we become accustomed to hearing "God Save the King," played at the theatres, and at nearly all public meetings but it takes on an added significance to hear a congregation rise and implore God's blessing on their sick King. I suppose this same was duplicated in many little scene was duplicated in many other churches on Sunday, and it makes one realize how dear is the royal family to the hearts of the British people. We had a football match on the subject. We had a football match on this subject. We had a football match on this subject. We had a football match on this

NATION-WIDE WORK OF RED CROSS EARNS SUPPORT OF ALL CITIZENS

Campaign for Funds Under Way With Banquet in Queens Hotel

WANT $3,000 HERE

Dr. Routrey Gave Some Idea of Scope of Society's Activities

Dr. Routhey, Director of the Ontario Red Cross, was the main speaker at a Red Cross Banquet held in the Queen's Hotel last night. Dr. Routhey made an appeal for funds for the Red Cross and asked Belleville to give liberally. Belleville's allotment has been $3,000, which should not be hard to raise, in a city of this size.

There was a good attendance at last nights meeting, a splendid attendance. The majority of the guests were ladies and Mrs. Branscombes Girl Guides were well represented.

The speaker of the evening Dr. Routhey, was introduced by Mr. John Elliott, chairman of the local Red Cross Board, and the doctor explained some of the aims and objects of the society. "The inspiration for the Red Cross came from Florence Nightingale," he said in opening. "We have just passed anothersanniversary of the Great War. Why is it that we commemorate this service year after year? What is the reason that we bow our heads for two minutes? There are two reasons for this. Of the 58,000 of our Canadian soldiers buried in Flanders and second, there are some million maimed as a result of the Great War."

Alleviate Suffering

"More should be done," the speaker continued, 'to alleviate the suffering and ill health of our people. We are on the threshold of the day when ten times more effort will be made for the health of the people.

"There are twenty-five hundred men in the hospitals of this province. The Red Cross is carrying on today among these twenty-five hundred, and helping a lot of disabled men in the outlying districts of the province. But the Red Cross is behind them."

"The Red Cross stands ready to take its place in any disaster in Ontario. They could be ready at a moment's notice. There are fifty-one families in Ontario that are being taken care of by the Red Cross at the present time, families that have lost their bonres. "In the Junior Red Cross department splendid work is being done. This cause has three objects before it —the Health Club, the idea of friendliness around the world and to teach the value of service. Each department has been instrumental in treating 1,500 children." The speaker spoke of the thousands of young people that are going into the north country and doing splendid work. "They go in little groups here and there," he said. "It is for these thousands of young people that I plead. There are twenty-four hospitals in the province under the direction of the Red Cross and they heed your support. There are five thousand patients in these hospitals.

Saving Young Mothers

"Our nurses are in attendance upon prospective mothers. In a district there has not been one mother lost at childbirth. I plead for your help. This is a speedy work. It is a work that will have spontaneous results."

Mrs. Agnes Mercer was the close on the meeting, divided the work among the various women's organizations in the city of collecting funds for the Red Cross drive. Music was furnished during the banquet by Messrs. James Bankier and Al. Millman.

DOMINION BANK TO ISSUE NEW STOCK

The Dominion Bank is to issue one million dollars new capital stock. Notices are being mailed today to shareholders of the Dominion Bank announcing an issue of one million dollars new capital stock to shareholders. There is no special significance in this act or by the Board of Directors. The issue is made simply to keep pace with the development of the country and the steady expansion in the Bank's own business. The new shares are being issued at two hundred which will give rights of considerable value to bank shareholders as the stock is at present selling in the neighborhood of 270 When the new shares are fully paid up the bank's capital will be $7,000,000 and the reserve fund $9,000,000. It is felt that the shareholders will take advantage of the new issue. Canad an bank stocks provide an excellent investment and have been somewhat neglected during the past year or so for securities in many cases of a more spectacular character.

GUEST SPEAKER A NOTED WRITER

Canadian Club to be Addressed by Well-Known Canadian Author

The Women's Canadian Club of this City have been especially fortunate in securing as their speaker for tomorrow night's meeting, Mrs. Florence Randal Livesay, a person well known in literary circles in this country. Her subject is to be "Ukraine in Song and Story," and will be especially interesting in view of the fact that Mrs. Livesay has written a book of verse "Songs of Ukrainia" which has been widely read. Subject matter for these verses was gleaned from her home in Winnipeg on the threshold of the great Canadian West which is rich in Ukrainian lore.

Mrs. Livesay's own history in itself is most colorful. Born in the picturesque Eastern Townships of Quebec, in a setting beautifully suggestive to one poetically inclined, she was educated at Compton Ladies' College, later known as King's Hall. At an early age she chose for herself a literary career and began her journalistic activities on the Ottawa Journal.

Married Arthur Beers

In 1902 she was among a group of forty women who left upon the request of Chamberlain, the then Prime Minister of Great Britain, for work among the Boers in South Africa. On returning to Canada she took up residence in Winnipeg and was engaged on the Winnipeg Telegram and Free Press. It was while in Winnipeg that she met her husband, J. S. B. Livesay who is himself the author of several books, among them "Canada's Hundred Days," based on his experience as War correspondent during the last three months of the Great War.

Mrs. Livesay is also the author of book of prose, "Savour of Salt," which is perhaps, her best known work. This book deals with Irish life and Irish humor in the new country and has been widely acclaimed not only by the press of Canada but by that of the Old Country as well. London, Glasgow, Cork and all the leading cities in the old land have spoken highly of this colorful work.

Mrs. Livesay speaks tomorrow night in the lecture room of the armouries and a large number of members should be on hand to greet her.

SCISSORS USED IN TAILORS' DUELLO

Budapest.—Scissors were selected as the proper weapons when Antal Reisfarck and Janos Leiter, two Budapest tailors, decided to settle an affair of the heart in true knightly fashion.

Antal and Janos quarreled over a girl in Hungary it is customary to settle such quarrels with a duel. Usually light sabres are used, the one cause losing taken that neither party can be severely cut.

These two rivals had heard of duels but were not aware of the precautionary measures which "gentlemen duellers, take when defending their honor. They decided to settle their differences in real earnest.

Leiter is now minus part of his nose and Reisfarck part of an ear. Both have a number of gashes on the face; and both will have to explain their fight to a police magistrate as soon as they are released from the hospital. Though still practiced, duelling is forbidden by law.

There are 8,500,000 women employed in the U. S.

She "CLOCKS" the Telephone

THIS YOUNG LADY'S JOB is to "clock" the telephone service. She sits there with her decimeter stop watch and measures to tenths of a second the time taken to complete a call. Other "clockers" record the errors made, the speed with which "trouble" is repaired, all the items of telephone efficiency.

If speed and efficiency are not constantly on the climb these are the people who know it first and then there is a grand hunt to find out what's gone wrong.

It is a good game. It gets results. That is why your telephone serves you better this year than it did last year, and next year will serve you better than now. That is why it has contributed its share to Canadian progress.

FOR EXAMPLE, seven years ago the average interval from the time you lifted your telephone receiver until the operator answered was 5.1 seconds. Today the clocker finds the interval cut to 3.7 seconds. Tomorrow it will be still less.

Seven years ago there were 95 slow calls in every 1,000—a slow call being one in which the operator takes ten seconds or more to answer. Today there are only 33 in every thousand.

The number of errors of all kinds has been reduced from 40 in every 1,000 calls to 16, which is over ninety-eight per cent perfect.

FIVE YEARS AGO you ran 27 chances in every 1,000 calls of getting the wrong number. That is down now to 13 chances in 1,000, or nearly 99 times out of the 100 right.

There are only two chances in a thousand now that you will be cut off. There were five chances in a thousand, five years ago.

There used to be eight times in a thousand calls when you would break in on somebody else's conversation. Now there are only two such double connections per thousand.

THERE ARE "CLOCKERS" at work in other directions too and here are some of the things they have recorded.

The time taken to repair "trouble" on a line now has been cut to one-third of the time taken five years ago.

The time taken to install a new telephone used to be three hours and forty-five minutes. It has been cut now to one hour and forty-five minutes. That means something in hours saved, with 139,000 telephones installed in Ontario and Quebec this year.

PRETTY GOOD results. But the clocker isn't satisfied. Nobody in the telephone business is ever satisfied with today's mark. The system tomorrow must always be better to keep pace with the Canada of tomorrow.

Published by The Bell Telephone Company of Canada to tell you something about the telephone business and the people in it.

News Of Movies

BELLE THEATRE

That much heralded film "The Port of Missing Girls" opened a three day showing at the Belle Theatre last night before a large audience and the picturesproved one of the best to be shown at the playhouse for some time. The film is certainly not overdone by the 'producers who have shown a keen insight into human nature in not exaggerating the story. Nothing in the picture can possibly offend good taste; there is nothing of the kind in the story and get because of sensational climaxes which are really sensational the picture is bound to leave one with plenty of food for thought for a long time.

There were 75,000 girls reported missing last year in the United States and the picture answers the question of what became of them.

The characters are exceptionally well cast; Barbara Bedford, as Ruth King is outstanding. She is supported by Malcolm McGregor as the dashing young bootlegger with his luxurious yacht and rescues her from sailing into the infamous port.

There are many scenes of superb acting; one especially when the distracted father resorts to the radio broadcast in an endeavour to locate his only daughter who has mysteriously disappeared.

CAPITOL THEATRE

As interesting and stirring a romance as local theatre goers have seen in a long time is presented at the Capitol Theatre these first three days of the week in "Glorious Betsy", with beautiful Dolores Costello and Conrad Nagel in the leading roles.

Dolores Costello has scored many outstanding successes lately and "Glorious Betsy" is one of her finest and most productions; it is a glamorous romance of two lovers who defied an Emperor and finally won happiness, at the price of an Empire. See this picture if you would see thrill at the daring deeds and thrilling gallantry of the gentlemen of the South and gay ladies of France a Century ago.

A strong caste of artists includes John Miljan, Marie McDermott, Betty Blythe and many others; beautiful costumes, plenty of action and not a few thrills combine to make the picture a good one. It has just played to all large theatres.

On the stage, a meritorious offering of singing and dancing with three pretty girls was very well received; and was an exceptionally good feature of the programme.

MANITOBA CONVICTS GAVE FINE RECITAL

Winnipeg, Man. (By C. P.)—Musical talent of a high order was revealed at the concert given by the band of the Princess Patricia Light Infantry in the Manitoba penitentiary recently, when convicts furnished a male chorus that was enthusiastically and manifested an enjoyment throughout the entire programme and always found among people attending concerts. There was an improvised choir composed of engineers and firemen and petty thieves that would have done credit to a choir of free men with opportunities for practice. The concert was held in the school room of the penitentiary and the full band of prisoners, attending was 270 all told.

ANNUAL MEETING TRENTON GOLF CLUB

Trenton, Nov. 26—The annual meeting of the Trenton Golf Club was held in the town hall on Wednesday evening. The meeting was well attended and the various reports received were satisfactory, the financial condition as set forth by the secretary-treasurer's report showing progress. The improvements during the year were favourably commented upon.

The following officers were elected: Hon. Pres. James Little; Hon. Vice-Pres. Dr. T. S. Farnscomb; President, W. J. Mann; Sec'y-Treas. M. W. Anderson; Chairman of Greens, E. M. Parker; Convenor of House Committee, Mrs. H. D. Graham; Men's Captain, R. Y. Wemys; Directors, H. F. Whitter, G. Alyea, W. W. Miller and O. E. Ross.

23 HORSES PERISH IN FIRE

Radio Air Gleanings By Static Bug

FOR TIRED SLEEPLESS NERVES USE Dr. Chase's Nerve Food

Well, there is one either mighty good radio act in the city, or else the fan who owns it is awful lucky.

Because Mr. Jack Allen, Albert St., picked up KFI, Los Angeles; KWKH, Fic...ort, Louisiana; KOA, Denver, Colorado and WBAC Fort Worth, Texas all in the same night.

And Mr. Allen claims that he got exceedingly good volume through his loud speaker on all stations.

He has a Stewart-Warner all-electric rcl. which information above shouldn't hurt the prestige of this little set.

It is quite a feat to be able to pick up KFI on any night, and although it is not heard regularly, once in a while somebody makes the grand state most that they had succeeded in connecting with it.

The trouble with trying to find these stations in California and the far west is that one has to stay out of bed until the wee, hours of the morning.

However, no true radio addict minds that.

Reception was exceedingly good last night, and two more enjoyable hours were on the air. The one and only Roxy presented his extravaganza as usual and the Philharmonic orchestra over the Canadian chain was good.

Later in the evening the Variety Hour, from WENR (are those the call letters?) Chicago, provided a splendid hours entertainment.

And it certainly was a treat to hear that old favourite "The Wreck of the Julie Plant." It seems years since this has been sung.

Two Ways to Avoid Sour Stomach

PAMPERING the stomach as you now keep out of trouble! But it's far easier and safer to eat what you like, and let Pape's Diapepsin keep the stomach free from excess acid. Plenty of people past "three-and-ten" keep stomachs young because they know this one secret. Because it is so quick, so safe and so sure in ending digestive troubles, millions rely on "Pape's Diapepsin." "Pape's Diapepsin" is unequalled as an indigestion remedy and dietary corrective, yet it costs only 60 cents a package at all druggists.

If your stomach ever torments you get "Pape's Diapepsin" at once and recapture the pleasure of care-free, painless digestion. You may have felt that nothing can help your particular difficulty, but we have others to whom this remedy proved a pleasant surprise. This effective, quick diapepsin may do as much for you.

Who is Your Skinny Friend, Ethel?

Tell him to take McCoy's Cod Liver Tablets. Better for a couple of months and get enough good healthy flesh on his bones to look like a real man.

Tell him, it's the only way to take those grave-like hollows from his cheeks back.

Tell him that thousands of thin, puny, pallid, nervous men all over America have improved their physical health and appearance and bless the day they first heard of these wonderful sugar coated tablets so full of weight producing and health building essentials.

Ask for McCoy's Cod Liver Extract Tablets. Doyle's Drug Store has them in stock. Every druggist sells them—60 tablets—60 cents—economy size $1.00. Almost any thin man or woman can put on five pounds of healthy flesh in 30 days or your money will be refunded.

One woman put on 15 pounds in six weeks. Children grow robust and strong—feeble old people feel younger in a few weeks.

YOUNG RECRUIT TIED FOR LEAD

First Official Scoring List Issued for National Hockey League

HORNE FOUR GOALS

Bill Cook Heads Snipers in U. S. Division—Penalty Records

Montreal, Nov. 27.—The first official scoring list for the National Hockey League, including games of Sunday, November 25, presents a rather unusual appearance.

In the Canadian Division of the league, a player who came up from the minors, after brief previous major league experience, is tied , with a defence player for the leadership. In the American Division, the leadership looks quite natural in the hands of Bill Cook, brilliant right wing of the world's champion New York Rangers, coupled with George Hay, crack left wing of Detroit Cougars, and Frankie Boucher, also of the Ranger forward line. The newcomer to the major league appear in the first six in the American section, however.

"Shorty" Horne, the Little Hercules of Toronto Maple Leafs, a player who had brief major league experience with Montreal Maroons and then was farmed out to the Canadian Professional League, is tied with Frank Clancy, dashing defence player of Ottawa Senators, for the lead in the Canadian Division. Each has four goals and one assist.

Bill Cook, the Ranger star, has scored three goals, but Hay equals him on points with two goals and an assist. Frankie Boucher is also on even terms with the other two. He scored one goal, but this unselfish for ward furnished the assists in two cases. Victor Ripley, the blonde youngster who was secured by Chicago from the Calgary League, and "Buch" Keeling, the forward sold by Toronto to the Rangers, are tied with two goals each.

Much emphasis has been laid on the fighting qualities of the New York American team, so it is noteworthy that the leader in penalties in either section is Lionel Conacher, the "Big Train," who captains the New York club. The heavy defence star has had 11 minors and 1 major for a total of 27 minutes. Eddie Shore, the rugged Boston Bruin defence star, has had 10 minutes in penalties, leading the American section, while the irascible Aurel Joliat, diminutive but belligerent Canadien left-winger, has the same amount. "Hooley" Smith, Montreal Maroon forward, has 18 minutes. Ching Johnson, burly defence star of the Rangers, is second to Shore in the American section, with 14 minutes. Ching Johnson, burly defence star, has been leading Lionel Hitchman who has had 12 minutes in the cooler.

Your Eyes and Our Service

By J. A. McFEE, Optometrist Belleville

How often is it necessary to have the eyes examined?

Generally in youth one examination is sufficient for years. For old sight an examination every year or so is desirable.

That is because the eyes change faster in later years?

Yes. Old sight is the only condition where the change steadily occurs. The errors of vision—far and near sight and astigmatism remain constant as a general rule, through life.

Are the errors of vision often combined?

Yes, frequently. Far or near sight and astigmatism are often present together. Then after middle life old sight is added to these.

VARIETY HERE IS APPEALING

Most Wonderful Thing About Canada Say Young Visitors

Montreal.—"The most wonderful thing about Canada is her infinite variety. To the traveller she appears not one country but many." This sentence taken from the prize winning essay is characteristic of the views regarding the Dominion held by the members of the "Young Ambassadors" the fifty boys and girls who toured the country last summer. On their return the youthful travellers were, invited to pen their views and summarize their experiences.

The prize winning essay was written by Mollie Rushton, Great Harwood, near Blackburn, under the caption: "What I think of Canada." Miss Rushton wrote:

"The most wonderful thing about Canada is her infinite variety. To the traveller she appears not one country but many. Sailing up the St. Lawrence he comes to a quaint, old France then, in the Maritimes, to a green, pleasant England; to North Ontario—a wilderness, one day to be one of the world's richest mining districts—to Niagara—an army land of fruit trees and blue waters. He crosses the vast, rolling prairies, golden with grain;—the Rockies—an even grander Switzerland; and there in the West he finds a land of great forests and rushing rivers—a glorified Norway. Yet, travelling always on one great national railway, among people of the same tongue, and the same ideals, he sees these varying countries without the discomforts of customs, barriers, exchanges, differing languages and national jealousies.

"Nature has indeed been kind to Canada. She is beautiful;—her towering mountains, her wide prairies, her mighty waterfalls dark forests, rivers and lakes abound with life, fruitful fields. Above all, there is her climate, her almost perpetual sunshine and her dry, unbelievably clear air.

"One is impressed, too, by Canada's towns and cities with their clean, unpolluted air, their wide clean streets, their noble public buildings, their schools and colleges beautifully situated and splendidly equipped, their wellkept homes and gardens. Who, having once seen them, can forget the stately buildings of Ottawa, the busy streets of Toronto, Winnipeg's broad thoroughfares or the beautiful situation of Vancouver?

"But to me, it seems the deepest impression of Canada which the visitor receives is that made by his people. Despite the vast size of Canada, despite the many races which have gone to form her people—there is a nation of Canadians as truly as there is one of English or of French. The early settlers have sent out from every country of Europe to make a home for themselves in the new world; and Dr. Callaghan with 718 and Drumm with 701 were the outstanding scorers. they have brought with them the best characteristics of their native lands, and still uncultivated. In rural resources Canada ranks next to the United States, and may one day surpass her. Her rivers and lakes, distributed throughout every part of the country, provide abundant 'white coal' for her growing industries.

"Half a century ago, where Vancouver now stands, was virgin forest; and prairie grasses grew over the site of Winnipeg. Fifty years have witnessed phenomenal changes. With her vast resources as yet but lightly touched, it is certain that the next fifty years will leave Canada incomparably greater—one among the ruling nations of the earth."

The delights of travel on the Canadian National Railways appealed to all of the writers and there were many references to the pleasures, comforts and conveniences of the dining and sleeping cars and the hotels.

Ruth E. Newbigging, of West Kilbride, Ayrshire, prize winner amongst the writers answered the questions: "Why I should like to live in Canada,' by saying:

"Canada offers an irresistible appeal, alike as we as I know, to young and old. During my trip across the country I did not hear a single person express the opinion that life in the Old Country was the better. The Canadian thus appeals to both natives and settlers.

"It is this fallurious appeal that makes me wish that I lived in Canada. I love the Canadian spirit of hospitality and welcome, and the entire lack of that stiff formality which makes us Englanders stand aloof from each other. First and foremost, this feeling of equality and friendliness draws me to Canada.

"Apart from the people altogether Canada is a smiling and inviting land. There are chances for all. And in a country of such vast dimensions there are surroundings to suit all. We must not have strange tastes who cannot find something to his liking between the shores of the Atlantic and the Pacific.

"My difficulty would be in choosing a place to settle. I was so charmed everywhere I went. The towns are so modern and so handsome, while the rural districts are more beautiful if not quite so advanced. Nature has been good to Canada in more ways than one.

"From a homepoint of view I envy Canadian housewives the facilities that boundless electricity offers. Canada is far ahead of us in labour-saving devices and thus in its homes drudgery is minimized.

"I should like to live in Canada, because it is one can find towns without two houses alike. Life in such towns must be most interesting and entertaining. The first thing that impressed me in Canada was the total lack of fencing round private gardens. The absence of a barrier between the stranger and the native is an introduction in itself. Such freedom does not seem attainable in this country, and yet I cannot see why. Almost involuntarily I visualize complete gaiety, crisp apples if the walls of the orchard were away, yet in Canada, in many places I saw fruit trees growing along the roadside, and all laden with ripe fruit. This feeling of understanding is the one thing and I should cultivate in Canada so that I could cultivate it. It is unfortunate that everybody in this country has not an opportunity of seeing Canadian life, for then there would be understanding among the people at home, and a greater number of emigrants, if such is possible.

"Having said all this, I begin to wonder why I am in this country at all. It is purely on account of circumstances. I hope to be back in Canada before very long."

Canadian National Railways Publicity Department.

The Varsity Orphans made a gallant fight against superior odds in the Eastern Canada football final at Hamilton on Saturday and it was not until the final period that the students succumbed to the battering-ram tactics of the Tigers. The superb tackling of the Orphans was one of the features of the game. In the photograph from left to right are Jack Sinclair, the kicking half-back; Art Smith, the great little tackler; Ralph McIlmoyl, the manager of the team, and below, the original Orphan mascot.

Too Much ACID

Many people, two hours after eating, suffer indigestion as they call it. It is usually excess acid. Correct it with an alkali. The best way, the quick, harmless and efficient way, is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. It has remained for 50 years the standard with physicians. One spoonful in water neutralizes many times its volume in stomach acids, and at once. The symptoms disappear in five minutes.

You will never use crude methods when you know this better method. And you will never suffer from sour acid when you prove out this easy relief. Please do that—for your own sake—now.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. Each bottle contains full directions—any druggist.

TARIFF BRITISH COLUMBIA ISSUE

Victoria By-Election May Give Canada's Answer to Hoover

Vancouver, November 26—The election of Herbert Hoover as President of the United States has resulted in an unexpectedly bitter federal by-election campaign in Victoria. The dispute of course is not over the personal choice but the effect of that choice, which has led to a merry battle. The Conservatives have announced they would meet Hoover's promises with increased Canadian duties. Not for years have the federal parliamentarians taken such a keen interest in a by-election until now. An extraordinary importance is attached to the Victoria result. The campaign foreshadows the attitude of the Government and the Opposition at the next session of Parliament in which the tariff it is felt here, will be by far the most important subject dealt with. Such prominent "outsiders" as Hon. R. B. Bennett, Conservative Leader; Hon. E. A. Robb, Minister of Finance and Hon. J. H. Malcolm Minister of Trade and Commerce, are in the local fight. The Conservative hierarchy that at the next session at Ottawa they will demand that Canada build up her tariff wall brick by brick with any increase ordered by the new United States administration.

"Canada today is the greatest factor in the United States' prosperity", said Gen. J. A. Clark, M.P. for Bareard in a speech "and will continue to be so unless we answer Herbert Hoover wall as high a tariff wall as he promised to the farmers of his country during his election campaign.

OTTAWA DENIES 1929 ELECTION

No General Appeal Will be Made Next Year; Tax Relief

Ottawa, Nov. 26.—More air has been caused outside than inside by a report recently published in Quebec to the effect that there would be a federal general election next year, and that, following the abolition at the coming session of Parliament of the income tax and some other spectacular local reliefs, the appeal of the Government to the people would be based on this lightening of the burden on the private purse. By creating an atmosphere of mystery about the hidden but dependable source of the story, its author sought to cause a sensation.

No Quebec City cabinet minister would jib such a lie. Tax relief there, when flown, have their tethers not far from Valleyfield, but they are rare birds. In any case, there will be no federal general election in 1929 and there will be no abolition of the income tax previous to that appeal. The income tax rate is payable of reductions, which will come with these reductions will be wrapped up in angularities of application that it is difficult for a parliamentary candidate to convince his supporters that it is either really a reduction or really an increase, and the present Government are more likely to look for other means of ingratiating the taxpayers. It is also probable that in the two years the extra tax will be abolished.

The present sales tax rate is 3 per cent. At the coming session Hon. Jas. A Robb, Minister of Finance, will announce the further reduction of 1 per cent as has been his practice in the past two or three years. The rate will then be 2 per cent, a percentage which it is held here, is not profitable to collect, so that when the time for an election appeal comes in 1930, the Minister of Finance could safely promise complete abolition of the tax at the subsequent session.

VESSELS BEATEN BY HEAVY GALE

Western Coast of Europe in Throes of Terrific Storm

London, Nov. 26—The western coast of Europe was being buffeted today by a terrific gale which had already taken twenty-nine lives, the most of them at sea where there was a heavy toll of shipping over the week end. Besides the twenty-nine known dead there were at least twenty missing with conflicting reports as to the safety of a score more.

While the gale was violent over land only six persons were reported killed in Great Britain. All the other deaths were at sea.

London, Nov. 26—Gale of four days duration was sweeping the coast of western Europe, the Mediterranean and Africa today and taking a heavy toll of shipping. No less than 21 ships appeared on Lloyd's lists as wrecked or in distress. The air was full of radio calls of distress, from the vessels in peril, lifeboats and tugs were doing gallant service on all the coasts and the toll of rescued from the ships was greater than the lists.

The forecast from today did not encourage the hope of immediate improvement in the weather and the public was told to look for more fury from the gale.

One of the most notable rescue feats was the saving of 84 men from the sinking German Schonbirds, Pommern, near the Isle of Guernsey after the number of big steamers poured oil on the terrific waves which threatened to engulf the ship.

RECORD BAG FOR YANKEE HUNTER

Montreal — What will probably stand for some time as a record day's bag for a hunter and fisherman in Canada was enjoyed by Harry S. Sauers, Philadelphia, big game hunter in the Lake Edward district of Quebec. Accompanied by expert hunting C. K. Howard, manager of the Tourist and Convention Bureau of the Canadian National Railways from O. K. Rowley, who outfitted Mr. Sauers, this gentleman left camp at eight o'clock in the morning for a day's hunting and fishing. On his way up the Rat River he cast a fly into each of the pools and landed a 63-4 pound speckled trout; about ten o'clock on the same morning he shot one of the largest black bears which had ever day's hunting and fishing which will be taken in the territory, and concluded his hunt, at about 4.00 o'clock in the afternoon he brought down a fine bull moose with a 53 inch spread of antlers. Mr. Sauers was accompanied by his wife, who also secured a fine bear during her visit to the territory. The bag secured by Mr. Sauers is considered to be a record for one

ACTIVITY OF THE FRENCH PRESIDENT

Garton Dourmergue, President of France, has surprised everybody by his tremendous activity. In the space of 48 hours he opened the radio and cycle show, inaugurated the horticultural show, and attended the first performance at the Opera Comique of the Bartered Bride, in commemoral on of its anniversary. He is the first French man who has had his photograph transmitted by telegraph by the remarkable machine now on view at the wireless exhibition. The picture upholds the reputation that the president possesses of being the man who smiles most in France. The smile legendary. Never since have the servants at the Elysee been the president have the palace with a grave mien. His features and figure turns with a smiling face, happy and contented with his duties. Yet behind this smile there is a wonderfully alert intelligence.

EASY TO FORCE WINTER RHUBARB

Roots at Least Two Years Old Give the Best Results

To successfully force rhubarb in the cellar during the winter months is one of the easiest and simplest of undertakings. Strong, healthy roots that are at least two years old from seed or old crowns will give very satisfactory results. These should be dug up late in the autumn or just before the ground freezes up for winter. Allow as much earth to adhere to the roots as possible, allowing them to remain on the surface of the ground until the soil and roots have been frozen through. Freezing is essential to good forcing as it has been found by experiment that roots that were not frozen before being placed in the cellar did not do as well as those that had been frozen.

A dark cellar where the temperature can be maintained around 50 degrees F. to 65 degrees F. will be quite satisfactory. The frozen roots and soil should be brought in and placed on the cellar floor adjacent to the furnace. Sand, earth or cinders should be placed around the roots to maintain an even moisture supply. At intervals of a week or ten days, it may be found necessary to apply water to the soil mulch. It is unnecessary to apply fertilizer of any kind since the growth is root-stalks have sufficient plant food stored up in them to produce at least four good plantings.

Under proper conditions, the first pullings should be ready in about four weeks from the time that the roots have been placed in the cellar. To maintain the supply throughout the winter, a second lot of roots should be brought in when the first pulling has been removed from the previous roots. Five roots properly handled should produce about sixty pounds of a marketable product.

When the fourth pulling has been removed, it is a good plan to place the roots out-of-doors again and allow them to freeze. These roots can be planted out in the spring in good soil to recuperate.

PUBLIC OWNERSHIP OF ELECTRIC POWER PLANTS FULLY EXPLAINED

Hon. J. R. Cooke and F. A. Gaby Address Chamber of Commerce Banquet

CITE FIGURES

Hydro Commission Advocate Purchase of System By Municipalities

Vast potentialities remain ahead for the City of Belleville providing the municipality decide to purchase, the power rights of the Hydro Electric Commission as outlined by the Hon. R. J. Cooke, and Mr. F. A. Gaby, Chief Engineer of the Hydro Electric Commission at the annual banquet of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce held in the Quinte Hotel, last night. In a concise, lucid, and clear manner these two men gave a complete review of the situation, touching particularly on the advantages which will be enjoyed in the nature of new rates in the district, it was one of the most successful banquets ever held under the auspices of the Chamber of Commerce and many left the gathering duly impressed with the question of assuming the power agreement. The instances of other cities which purchased the local plants and by means of issuing debentures, paid for the system within a few years, were cited by the Hon. R. Cooke and Mr. Gaby and while this Hydro situation has been more or less "over-worked" of late, it was explained in such a manner as to leave a lasting impression.

Mr. R. J. E. Graham, President of the Chamber of Commerce was in the chair and in his opening remarks on welcoming the two distinguished speakers and explained the work which was being carried on by the Chamber of Commerce in Belleville. "The Chamber is an organization of the residents of a community for the purpose of benefitting their own particular city," he said, "Belleville celebrated its 101st anniversary this year, at the time of incorporation the population was 10,000 and last year it was 13,000, a small increase for that period. In the last ten years alone the Chamber of Commerce was organized, there has been a real stimulus along every line. We are in the centre of a great agricultural district," said Mr. Graham, "and I firmly believe that we have the stock to make it one of the most important cities of Eastern Ontario. We have attracted a number of industries to the city and some of them have increased their production tremendously, they are satisfied with the location and the results achieved." He named the Meade-Johnston Company, Aimilite, Sherwood-Adamson and the J. J. Cash Company as outstanding examples of the new

EUCHRE PARTY WELL ATTENDED

Conservative Women Hostesses to Splendid Crowd Last Night

One of the most successful card parties to be given this season took place at the Conservative Club Room, last night when the ladies of the Conservative Club were hostesses to a splendid crowd. There was quite a representation of candidates who are seeking election honors, present. The prize winners of the euchre were announced by Mrs. R. Ketcheson. Mrs. T. Green was the winner of the ladies' first prize, with Mrs. P. Jeeson second and Mrs. Arthur Naylor third. The fortunate gentlemen were Mr. Monahan, who won the first prize, Mr. Thomas, Green who won second prize and Mr. E. Cherry, third. The mystery prize went to Mrs. Charles McMechan who at the conclusion of the play was with Miss Conservative, in the person of Mrs. Bertram.

The refreshments were served by the committee in charge, after the euchre game, and proved to be a close a most enjoyable evening.

CENTRAL ONTARIO CHEESEMEN COMING

P. W. McLagan president of the Montreal Butter and Cheese exporters Association has written to Mr. Irwin, local Dairy Grader, stating that he will be in attendance at the Central Ontario Cheesemaker's Association convention that will be held here on December 5th and 6th. Mr. McLagan will represent officially the cheese men and butter men of Montreal, the only representative from the province of Quebec.

Preparations, Mr. Irwin stated this morning, have all been completed for the convention and a record attendance is expected to be on hand. Over two hundred cheesemakers from Central Ontario will meet in the city hall on December 5th and 6th to discuss the problems of the cheese industry in this section. A monster banquet will be held in the Quinte Hotel on the evening of the 6th.

GATINEAU POWER READY FOR USE

New Current Was Switched on for Belleville Early This Morning

Although local citizens may not, and probably are not, aware of the fact, this morning another power line was linked in with the Central Ontario System, and will feed in power to the system from now on. The Gatineau Power Line has become a part of this Hydro district, making the fourth system from which Belleville will get her power.

Mr. G. B. Smith, Inspector for the Hydro Electric Commissi at Belleville, is in Gatineau today, and it was expected that shortly after the noon-hour he would turn the switch that would officially feed the power from the Gatineau system into the local distributing system. There will be no change in rates at least in Belleville, on account of the new power lines, the Honorable J. H. Cooke stated last night at the Chamber of Commerce.

Give Revenue of Power

Speaking to the Press today Mr. Scott, local manager of the Hydro stated that electric power users would not notice any difference in their power, or rates from that system of power came. However, in case of something happening to one of the other systems it would always be possible to fall back upon the Gatineau power. If a storm should interfere with the power from the Trent system, then additional currents could immediately be obtained from the Gatineau, as it is not likely that both systems would be put out of commission at the same time.

Delivery on it as a commercial power unit will not take place officially until December 1st.

MORE DEATHS FROM SPINAL MENINGITIS

Twin Falls, Idaho, Nov. 28.—The deaths yesterday of a physician and a nurse who had been stricken with meningitis patients, brought the death toll of disease to nine, according to six, since it was discovered November 6. All public gatherings are now banned and a limited quarantine has been established.

STOCKS KEEP CLIMBING DESPITE STIFFENING OF CALL MONEY RATE

Pre-Holiday Profit Taking Fails to Halt Market for Long

New York, Nov. 28—Faced with the prospect of relatively firm call money rates for the balance of the year, the stock market nevertheless resumed its upward movement today, with the advance reaching violent proportions in some of the high priced specialties. Considerable irregularity developed in the early trading as the result of rather heavy pre-holiday profit taking which followed the marking up of the call money renewal rate of eight per-cent and a slight hardening of time money rates, but in most cases the offer nor here well absorbed.

Shortly after midday, powerful pool again stepped into the market with large buying orders and the bull movement was again in full swing. The days' news was largely favorable. With the heavy holiday demands beginning to make themselves felt, little hope is held out by bankers for easier rates in the near future, should interference in the power from the Trent system, the additional currents could immediately be obtained from the Gatineau, as it is not likely that both systems would be put out of commission at the same time.

Delivery on it as a commercial power unit will not take place officially until December 1st.

FIFTEEN ARE IN RACE FOR SEATS

Nine of Last Year's Aldermen Will Try to Retain Places

GOOD NEW MEN

Walter Patterson, Sigmund Wessman and Dr. Kinnear Are in Field

As was anticipated there will be only two in the contest for the mayoralty for next year. Aldermen A. B. Collins and ex-Alderman Greenleaf filed their qualification papers early and Ald. Woodley who was nominated for the mayoralty decided to stand for re election in Ward 2.

Fifteen For Aldermen

Until almost the dead line hour last night it had all the appearances of an acclamation for the aldermanic seat for 1928; in fact it looked even worse than that as it appeared as though not enough candidates were qualified to make up a City Council. Last minute arrivals brought the num ber up to fourteen and then Alderman Russel Wotten who had expressed his intention of retiring this year was prevailed on at ten minutes to nine to file his papers. So there will be fifteen candidates in the field for the twelve seats in Council.

Nine of last year's Council are standing for re-election, Aldermen Woodley, Rollins, Reid, Donahue, French, Tice, Hyde and Wotten. As Alderman A. B. Collins is in the field for the Mayor ship, ten of the 1928 Council may be back for another year.

Seven New Candidates

Most of the new candidates are no strangers to the municipal arena and some of them have served their appre ntieship in former years. Of the more prominent candidates is Walter Patterson of the Patterson Contracting Company, who has been in the public eye since he erected the McColl Brothers Gasoline station at the corner of Front and Bridge Street which has been a bone of contention for some weeks.

Mr. Patterson has been one of the largest employers of labor in the city during the last summer, he having built the majority of the gas stations that have been made their appearance in the city recently. Mr. Patterson served in the Council some years ago and has had a wide experience in the municipal field.

Harry Hill has been a resident of the city for many years and is making his initial bow to the ratepayers this year. Mr. Hill is a member of the Rotary Club and other organizations and his entrance in the field is a welcome addition.

SCREEN ARTISTS 'FLU' VICTIMS

Hollywood Calif., Nov. 28.—Th rteen motion picture stars and two directors were confined to bed today with influenza. What was described as a "mild epidemic" struck the colony yesterday in the Metropolitan district of Los Angeles. Six new cases were reported yesterday bringing the total for the month to 1,200. Two deaths to date have been forty one. Clara Bow and John Gilbert are among the film stars suffering.

KING GEORGE HOLDS UP WELL IN FIGHT AGAINST AN INSIDIOUS FOE

Right Lung is Badly Infected but His Strength is Maintained

MUST BE ANXIETY

No Change in His Majesty's Condition Reported This Afternoon

London, Eng., Nov. 28.— Letter from the King's physician, Lord Dawson, of Penn, submitted to the cabinet this morning and ordered published, said His Majesty was suffering from inflammation and congestion of the right lung, with extensive pleurisy on the right side.

There must be anxiety, the letter said, due to the infection, which is serious. The condition of the lung, however was somewhat improved and it is pointed out that the King's strength is maintained. Lord Dawson stated that the illness thus far was be ing controlled and he hoped its duration could be curtailed.

Make Second Visit

London, Nov. 28.—At 1.30 this after noon the physicians, Lord Dawson and Sir Stanley Hewett returned to the palace for a second visit today at

Condition Not Altered

London, Nov. 28.—Shortly before noon, the King's physicians issued the following bulletin. "The King has had a quieter night. His temperature and general condition remains as before."

Condition Is Are Reported

London, Nov. 28.—With the Prince of Wales about to undertake the long journey home from East Africa to be at the bedside of his father, little change was indicated in the King's condition by today's medical bulletin. The King had a more restful night, but his temperature and general condition was unchanged.

Coupled with last nights bulletin which said the king's temperature was lower and his strength maintained, the bulletin gave additional encouragement to millions of anxious subjects. A sinking feeling of asthame tion with the morning bulletin appear ed several post offices and city journalists, Sir Stanley Hewett and Lord Dawson, of Penn, remained in the palace only about an hour and a half.

Official circles in London, reiterated that the decision of the Prince of Wales to return had been taken on his own initiative and that he had neither been instructed nor advised from London to cut short his hunting trip.

PRINCE RETURNS WITH ALL SPEED

Has Not Been Recalled But Wishes to be With His Father

London, Eng., Nov. 28—Despatches from Africa today told of the departure of the Prince of Wales from the big game hunting ground of Tanganyika, to the bedside of his Royal father. Progress of the Prince's train, drawn by a wood burning engine which had to halt every hour for fuel, over a narrow gage track was related by Sir Percival Phillips special correspondent of the Daily Mail and Evening News with the party in Africa.

When dawn broke today the Prince looked out of the windows of his tiny car on the parched African desert which stretched for endless miles beneath a sunless sky. His night had been sleepless, and the train, though making the best progress possible, must have seemed to him to be literally crawling toward the coast.

On the arrival at Dodoma where he boarded the train last night, the Prince was delighted with the news that his father was not in danger. Soon afterwards cipher messages arrived which caused him concern. He ate no dinner, but refused to allow cancellation of an informal dance which was planned at the hotel.

Will Join His Brother

Dare, Salaam, Tanganyika, Nov. 28 —The Prince of Wales is expected to arrive here at eight o'clock this evening. He will board the Governor's launch "Assele" at once, eventually transferring to the cruiser H.M.S. Enterprise, which will proceed to London. The Prince travelled by special train from Dodoma after notifying Premier Baldwin that he was returning to England as soon as possible.

Whereabouts of his brother, the Duke of Gloucester on the point at which he will join the Prince are not known here. The two parted some weeks ago in the course of their hunting trip in Africa.

GAS EXPLOSION IS CAUSE OF 3 DEATHS

TODAY'S THOUGHT

Our words have wings, but not where we would.

GEORGE ELLIOT.

SUPER-WOMAN HAS MADE HER DEBUT

The super-woman has appeared. She has been around for some time though unsuspected. Her characteristics have been noted and here are a few of them. She never wears jewels, even at formal functions. She wears low heels at all times. She dresses dark blue and black, even when she is not in mourning, as she now is for her father. She never reads fiction, but pores over books of economics and sociology every night before going to bed. She takes modern pictures herself. She is the family chauffeur, driving the car for her husband across the continent. She is a finished carver of any joint or bird. She speaks five languages. She is fond of knitting. She has no fear of anything, even of ridicule. She flatly refuses to be interviewed about anything so any time. Her name is Mrs. Herbert Hoover.

TEST OF RELIGION IS IN FINAL EFFECT

John D. Rockfeller, Jr., has come to the conclusion which has impressed itself on so many others, that the stress on theology rather than upon religion has so confused the mind of youth that it stands aghast at the contradiction. He made the statement at the dedication of a new cresless college chapel, the gift of his father to the University of Chicago. It is intended "to promote the religious idealism of the students of the University." It is not intended to serve any one sect but any religious body which desires to use it. "In the light of experience and passing years," said the younger Mr. Rockfeller, "a broader and more tolerant religious spirit has been developing in this land and in others."

But while the present generation is not infrequently repelled rather than attracted by religion, as it often finds expression in the bewildering variety of churches of today and while it has an ever-lessening interest in what men say about Christ, it is vitally interested in Christ Himself. Youth stands aghast at the sorry unchristian spectacle of good men and women hurling anathemas at each other because of differences of theological belief and denominational partisanship. Naturally the younger generation say, he remarked, "if church members are more interested in whom they will keep out of their religious bodies because of theological differences than they are in helping people to be strong in body and clean in mind and pure in heart we will waste our time with nothing so hypocritical and useless; rather we will we give all religion a wide berth and have none of it".

There are still many people who will regard this benefaction of the Rockfellers, as an evil thing, inspired by Satan. There are hosts of people in the world absolutely without a sense of humor, bigoted, narrow, unable to conceive that any view point which they are unfamiliar or have not been trained in from their youth, may be quite as correct or even more so than the one they hold. They have been trained, probably, not to exercise their God-given reason, the light that lightens every man coming into the world, and that distinguishes him from the brutes. They are not to be blamed for their incapacities and limitations. But they are not without guilt in the matter of shutting against the light." It is not a shame for a man to be ignorant. But it is a shame for him to remain ignorant when the opportunity is offered him to learn.

The most difficult people to deal with are not the ignorant, but those who do not wish to learn. They are either obstinate or stupid, and it is difficult to say which is the worse. But they have a right to live and think as they please and build on that foundation until the final test of experience convinces them as to the true character of their building, "whether it be gold, silver, precious stones, wood hay, stubble; every man's work shall be made manifest."

For it is not a belief or an opinion that counts. Every man's work is tried as by fire. Every man shall be rewarded according to his work. That is the lesson dinned into the reader of the New Testament, if he will read it all and not merely chosen passages that suit the rest. Of course people are helped by their honest opinions, but it is not their opinions but their honesty that helps them. They must learn to discriminate. When they cease to be honest in their desire for truth, and prefer to hold fast to what perishes rather than open their minds to a fuller vision of truth, they are approaching the trial of their works "lossmuch as ye did it," or did it not, is the final test.

PASSING YEARS
(From the Intelligencer of This Day 20 Years Ago)

A meeting was called last evening at Rigg's Music Store to organize a musical organization. The society will be known as the Harmony Club. Officers are — Hon. President, Sir MacKenzie Bowell, K.C.M.G.; President, J. J. B. Flint; Vice-President, Col. Campbell; Secretary Miss Hungerford; Treasurer, Miss Ward; Director and Manager, J. N. Doyle; Associate Directress, Mrs James Grant.

Mr. George H. Pope is in Ottawa on departmental business.

Miss Mary Zulck of Desoronto, is visiting friends in the city.

Mr. E. B. Goodwin, Superintendent of Government Dredges, is in the city.

Miss Davison, daughter of J. G. Davison, Dundas street, received an injury last week from a falling wagon tongue.

Rev. Eli Woodcock of Brockville has spent a few days in this city recently.

HAVE YOU HEARD THESE?

Little Willie: "Mamma is papa going to heaven when he dies?"

Mother: "Why, son, who put such an absurd idea into your head?"

"Henry wanted to kiss me last night."

"How do you know he wanted to?"

"Because, said the pretty girl, "he wouldn't have done it if he hadn't wanted to, would he?"

"Harold, how much do you love me?"

"Well you see, love is not the sort of thing you can weigh up in shop scales is it? But, still—I love you."

"But— but would you— would you go through fire and water for me?"

"Now, look here, if that's the sort of fellow you want you'd better marry a fireman."

"Will you please see that your engine driver on the 11:50 does not blow the engine's whistle when passing Rose avenue on Sundays?" said the complainant.

"That's impossible" protested the official. "Why shouldn't he?"

"Because our minister always preaches until the 11:50 passes. Last Sunday it was twenty-five minutes late."

About People

Ex-Mayor Taylor, of Vancouver, according to the Toronto Telegram, insisted on reading to a campaign audience the glowing obituaries which local papers printed when it was thought that Mayor Taylor was dead owing to an encounter with the propeller of an airplane. Subsequent encounter with the polling booths has left Mr. Taylor the subject of a much cheaper post mortem in which the obituaries may not be painted in quite the same glowing colors. It is a good thing to know when to stay dead, moralizes the Toronto newspaper.

Phillip Guedalla, "Bonnet and Shawl"—a book dealing with the eminent Victorian ladies in England, conveys the view that Lady Tennyson protected not only her lord but those unfortunate visitors who suffered from the Laureate's gratitude. The poet gave her two and a half lines of a new "idyls of the King" for a wedding present one year. In those times per line" is right in not only the brand butter but the sherry and oysters. Mrs. Gladstone, in the 90's, it is chronicled so carefully over her husband's health as to actually prolong his life. To her goes some of the credit for one of the most extraordinary phenomenon, a prime minister at eighty-odd years of age. That these distinguished gentlemen moved their ladies in a manner that pompously Victorian manner and that their ladies responded with it, coming Victorian modesty is not negated in the recital.

WHY LIVER DIET SOMETIMES FAILS

Now that it is definitely proven that liver will cure pernicious anaemia it is gratifying to learn that an extract of liver has been perfected that has the same effect as a half pound of liver eaten daily. Drs. Sturgis, Isaacs and Smith of Ann Arbor, were able to bring the number of red corpuscles in the blood to normal in a series of twenty-eight cases of pernicious anaemia.

They were able to detect an improvement in about three days, gradually reaching normal in about six to eight weeks.

The first sign of improvement was an increased appetite and a sense of well be ng. This improvement usually appears about the fourth to the fifth day.

You will remember that a few months ago a research man was able to show that the liver diet actually increased the appetite and this liver extract does so, also.

However it was noted that three of the patients did not seem to improve despite the use of the liver extract. These were found to have an infection of some kind. When this infection was removed they began to improve also.

Now what is this going to mean?

Unfortunately the idea should not be that cali's liver and only cali's liver is effective in the treatment of pernicious anaemia, whereas the liver of other animals is likewise effective.

Consequently now that an extract of liver may be obtained the idea of liver itself, of which so many folks grow a bit weary, is not absolutely necessary.

And the second point is that if the liver itself or the liver extract does not seem to be helping the patient, there is likely a cause. And that cause, as mentioned above, is likely to be an in-

ROTARY CLUB TO ASSIST KIDDIES

Rotarada in Belleville Collegiate Next Week A Spectacular Revue

"Spectacular Revue to be presented by the Belleville Rotary Club for the crippled children's fund."

The "Rotarada" will be presented in the Auditorium of the Belleville Collegiate and Vocational School on the evenings of December 4th, 5th, 6th and 8th, at 8:15 p.m., the proceeds to be devoted to the Cripled Children's fund.

Those who have attended Rotaradas in other cities in the past will have pleasant memories of these spectacular musical revues, which, although staged by amateur performers, are as well staged and organized and the cast is so efficiently trained that they compare most favorably with many professional productions.

Captain Charles W. Eddy, director of the Rotarada, and Miss Miriam L. Eddy, who coaches the dancers, both have expressed their satisfaction with the exceptional qualities and ability of those who have worked hard and efficiently to ensure the proper selection of members of the various groups, so that the best effect will be obtained from the many members on the program. The Rotarada is to be similar to those which have been put on with increasing success for a number of year. in New York and Brooklyn and the affair to be staged here will be practically the same as that which was recently produced in the Flatbush and Bay Ridge districts of Brooklyn and resulted in considerable financial returns for the Brooklyn Bureau of Charities.

The program will consist of a series of solo and group vocal and dance numbers and will include the complete Rotarada concert numbers and specialties.

It is expected by the Committee that the Auditorium will be filled to record capacity each night, and those who desire to obtain seats should get their tickets will be on sale for all performances at the Hydro Electric Shop on and after Saturday, November 24th, at 10 a.m. and at the Auditorium on the evenings of the performances.

WAVES BREAKING OVER THE DYKES

Wide Stretch of Holland and Belgium Are Under Water

Paris, Nov. 28.—With the lowlands of Belgium and Holland suffering another storm appeared brewing over Western Europe today. Mouthainous seas were reported piled up against dykes from reaching the ships of the French coast with South result that many were forced to remain tossing in the giant waves outside Havre Boulogne and other ports. Deceived by the temporary lull in the storm ten fishing boats put out from Dunkirk. Eight managed to get bac bkut two were sunk and three men drowned.

With the gales down, the waters were sweeping over wide stretches in Belgium and Holland, tearing houses, flooding fields and drowning livestock. The death toll in Holland alone amounted to 58.

Deaths And Funerals

MARGARET BURKITT

Profound sorrow and general expression throughout the community when it was learned that Margaret Matilda McKeown, wife of the late George Burkitt of the 4th Concession of Sidney, had passed away to her eternal home quietly and peacefully, on the afternoon of October 31st at the age of 83 years. She entered into Heavenly rest after a lingering illness of more than a year's duration, an illness borne with wondrous patience and calm unfaltering trust, yet we feel that she has left with us such memories of sterling worth, gentle and kindness of heart, that "To know her was to love her." It is the testimony of many friends and her happy spirit will ever remain a fragrant memory.

Prior to her removal to Sidney, she deceased lived on the 12th Concession of Thurlow, where she was married in 1884 to the late George Burkitt, being the first couple to be married in St. Mark's Church, by the late Rev. C. M. Harris.

The funeral was held at her late home on Friday afternoon November 2nd, and was attended by a large con course of friends and neighbors. The service was conducted by her pastor, Rev. R. P. Byers, who spoke sympathetically of the life of the departed. She was laid to rest in Frankford cemetery, there to await the resurrection of the ust. Left to mourn the loss of a loving mother are eight children: Mrs. Robt. Mabee, Rylestone; Arthur Burkitt, Bonarlow; Mrs. Alex Bush, Stirling; Messrs Ernest, Thomas, George, John and Miss Kathleen of Frankford, also her surviving sister, Mrs. Catharine McKeown, of Bonarlaw. The late Mrs. Burkitt was the second oldest of a family of nine, being a daughter of the late Thos. McKeown. The brothers and sisters are Mrs. Linde Roblin, Springbrook; Mr. Wm. McKeown, Rylestone; Messrs Thos and John McKeown, Bonarlaw; Mrs. Lillian Anderson, Rylestone; Mrs. John Stuart, Rylestonw. Two sisters, Mrs. George Frost and Mrs. S. Robbin having predeceased her.

The pall bearers were Messrs F. Mallory, George Morrow, Earl Bonisteel, Rob. Bush, Ulin Welbourne, George Pollard.

The floral offerings were:Gates ajar, family; Sheaf, grandchildren; Wreaths, brothers and sisters; Sheaf, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Kingston; Mr. and Mrs. John Roblin; Mr. and Mrs. M. Reynolds; Mr. and Mrs. Bert Bush; Trinity Church Guild; Uniondale Institute.

BASKETBALL

Two basketball games of more than usual interest will be played this night at the Y gymnasium, when the Alerts look up with the C.M.T. and the Shepherd-Adams crew try to take a fall from the American Optical. The represented Algonkers won their game with the Optical last Wednesday, this being the first they have won this year, and they promise to make things interesting for the league leading C. M. T. team tonight.

The second game will be one of the best this season, as both teams are tied for second place and the winner is practically sure of a place in the play-offs. As the curtain raises on the game there are two business girls' teams, the Loons and the Robins will start at seven-thirty. No doubt a large crowd will again turn out for these games.

WHY MEN MARRY THEIR SECRETARIES

Why do so many men marry their secretaries or typists—the question raised again by the case of the stockbroker Brown of Sydney, who became engaged to his typist and made a will in her favor before committing suicide.

Not all these engagements turn out so disastrously. "I have known many cases," said the head of a Women's Secretarial Training College, to the Sunday Dispatch, "and I cannot recall any failures."

A former office girl who married her employer a well-known engineer, who was a widower, said she thought that the real explanation lay in the interest and sympathy a good secretary takes in her employer's work.

So many women, she said, think it a mistake to show any interest in the business and labors their husbands have to contend with. And they make men bore by recalling their litany of trivial domestic difficulties—the continuance of the butcher, or the baker, or the housemaid. . . .

The secretary, on the other hand learns to anticipate the wishes of her employer, and to save him from the minor annoyances in the day's work. Gradually the employer, often without realizing it, comes to depend more and more upon his secretary and to find her company and conversation more and more delightful. After all, a man's work is more than half his life.

In addition, the office girl, as a rule takes a natural pride in her appearance. Her employer never sees her in the dishabille of the housew fe busying herself with her early morning household duties.

CHRISTMAS IS FOR THE CHILDREN . . .

"Do your Christmas shopping early" is indeed a time honored injunction but less none of its forces through repetition for is is indeed well to start in good time. Christmas is a time for urging no but we cannot neglect it we are so tired that we can barely manage to get along. After the rush of shopping and cooking and baking many women regard the day itself as merely a time for a well-earned rest. But this should not be. If we start early and take things gradually there will be no necessity for a nervous prostration the last few days. Bake the cake and pudding early, plan your presents just what you are going to give mother and Dad, etc., and go ahead and buy these things, don't change your mind half a dozen times and every-body come back to your original idea. And if there is to be a tree this should be the happiest part of the whole Christmas program and be sure to retain this with the children, don't disappoint them with your indifference when they ecstatically show you the wonderful things that Santa has brought them. Even if you have spent much time, trouble and energy on these self same toys, you can surely manage a little surpr se and enthusiasm. As is the case of the whole year for the little ones so let nothing mar their whole-hearted enjoyment of it.

PRO AND CON OF BRIDAL SHOWERS

Kitchen showers, bathroom showers, bedroom (or if you prefer it, boudoir) showers; showers of every description —manna from heaven to the young bride when she commences to keep house in her shiny new apartment. The institution of marriage admittedly has many draw backs, and not the least of these is the custom of holding a shower for the bride-to-be. That is from the standpoint of her many women friends on whom the lesser but numerous contributions for these various gift parties is the usual procedure is a disturbing ills. The friends of the bride-to-be arrive at the home of the shower giver. Here with gift appendages to the occasion. The packages are taken from them by the hostess and placed n a large basket, if there are enough to fill a large basket—discretion should be used here. The prospective bride then arrives and everyone gathers around a pot of tea. The honor-guest is then in line for felicitations and congratulations and if she has any married friends present, probably warnings and commiserations. Following the tea and chatter, the little brother or sister of the hostess, if someone else's little brother or sister comes marching into the room with the gift-laden basket. The guest of honor a converse, and the party breaks up with more wishes for good luck and more advice. This may be repeated three-or four times during the week although in our city there are not quite as many weddings as that, say once a week there'll imagine the drain on the pocket book. It is probably true that the bride has gone through numbers of the same ordeals, but she is hardly getting some return on her investments. What of those who never marry; and are doomed to go through life attending the showers for her more for tunate sisters? As one girl remarked apropos of this subject, "You know Few was is described? Well showers are that too."

LENORE

WHAT'S NEW

(From A Woman's Standpoint)

Three colors most featured for 'dressy evening wear just now in New York are bright red, pale green and soft yellow.

There is an increasing vogue for woollens with silk prints and the latter is employed for the blouse or the skirt of a costume, but seldom both, while it may form only a very striking trimming such as inserts and pipings, and in the same way solid color silks are allied with prints.

New York notes that white, black and red in varying shades are outstanding, but dazzling hues of green and violet in flat crepe are shown as the smartest of youthful dress fashions to be worn with fur coats and dark fur-trimmed coats while raspberry is one of the latest shades.

Leather coats grow more and more popular for race meetings in the winter months, and dozens of these were to be seen in all colorings, both on the stands and in the paddock recently at Newmarket, where Lady Broughton wore what was perhaps the most decorative of these—a three-quarter length soft suede coat in turquoise blue reinforced with a lining and revers of grey astrachan fur.

Pearls have recovered their former vogue and the simple choker or rope is seen on nearly every smart woman in Parisin the daytime especially, and there is the choker of medium size pearls with rich jewelled fastenings; apt to be made of a semi-precious stone mounted on silver, or the long rope of smaller pearls twisted two or three times around the neck is also often worn, while some women wear it combined with another choker of larger pearls.

Some Helpful Hints For Busy Housewives

Cheese rinds, carefully scraped, can be used to flavor soup.

Mirrors hung in such positions that the sun shines directly on them will in time, become cloudy.

Cooking utensils should not be kept in dark, unventilated cupboards—they require light and air for good service.

Two cupfuls of granulated sugar make one pound, but if you are using powdered sugar you must use two and a half cupfuls if the recipe calls for one pound.

"COLLEGIATE CHATTER"

By Helen Jones

There are many societies in the school which you do not know of, perhaps shall we take a brief review of them?

Of course, you have heard of the Literary Society but do you know what duties it performs? Primarily the Literary Society should seek out and develop any literary talent among the student body. This it endeavours to do through the annual magazine, the Elevator, the school play, short plays, oratorical contests and various other devices. Do you ever stop to think that the Literary Society performs many unpleasant and unprofitable duties for the convenience of the students as a whole.

On the Christmas cards which we seem to sell at such a high price, we make a profit of three cents per dozen, which amounts to about 2.50 for all that we have sold. This is not much for the trouble to ordering them, draw ing the cards and staying for hours after school to sell them. Nevertheless it is one of the duties of the Literary Society.

* * *

Many other such duties from which the society seems to be deriving such vast sums are in reality not means of obtaining money but of duties done for the convenience and pleasure of the rest of the school, often at a loss.

* * *

When next you think of the Literary Society, don't think of it with disgust for the things it hasn't done but remind yourself of its merits.

* * *

If you have anything to bring before the Literary Society bring it to our new room No. 215. The room formerly No. 302, has also been given to the Elevator Society which we will speak about later.

* * *

The first forum have started their series of basketball games. Be sure to give them your support.

* * *

The Girls' Athletic Association is an other of the flourishing societies at Collegiate. It was Nov. 16, that the day after school and carries on its business.

* * *

Perhaps it would be enlightening to learn of some of the duties of this group. It sponsors girls' sports in the Collegiate, and under this heading many duties are grouped. Schedules are arranged with teams from other collegiates and the travelling expenses of the B. C. I. girls' teams are paid by the Association. Entertainments are arranged for the visiting teams after the games and every consideration is shown.

* * *

Just now the Association is busy carrying on the business of the basket ball season. On Friday evening Belle ville plays its second home game in the girls' gymnasium.

* * *

The officers for the association for 1928-29 are as follows:—

Honorary President—Miss Agnew.

President—Kathryn Gallagher.

Vice-Pres.—Margaret Fairbairn.

Secretary—Jean McLaughlin.

Treasurer—Jean Wallbridge.

Social Committee:

Advisors—Miss England and Miss Sutherland.

Convenor—Jean Fairbairn.

Members — Mary Lou Robinson, Dorothy Bugg.

Form representatives — Margaret Walker, Marian Fairbairn, Ana Gart ey, Helen Wilson, Mary Goode, Marion Lyons, Frances Thompson, Margaret Chant.

Men were at work during the week end laying out the Badminton court in the boys' gymnasium. This is for the teachers,

Do not forget the game on Friday night. They play with Trenton and due to the new arrangement of the league we are hoping for success. There will be a dance after the game. Come prepared to cheer Belleville to success and to keep up on the way for the championship.

The Literary Society's first meeting this year will be held on December 19th, for which they are planning a pageant which gives the evolution of Belleville's secondary schools. Come and see the 'Shades of Past Teachers', the Red Cross Nurse, the Girl Guide and other suggestive characters.

There will also be a musical program,

CHAPTER XI

WHO IS SHE?

The Baroness's intelligent announcement that she intended calling in the police in her efforts to find out whether her guest Count Rene de Bellefonte Kerr brought startled protests from Harry Edmonds and the Count de Belle fonte, and a great deal from Sheila.

"Please," begged Sheila, "don't think I have had any hand in bringing harm to Monsieur Kerr, that an absurd idea. You wicked woman!"

"Now this is quite unnecessary," said the Count, standing to make himself heard above the babble of voices. "A few moments ago I asked that I had done something that I felt sure would clear up everything. Let me tell you about it. Miss Sheila, and you, Madame Belden, is in Baden-Baden. I took it upon myself to get in touch with the lady this morning. Well, I have a long story short. I informed her the her presence is required here at once in a matter affecting the welfare of her niece."

"What did she reply" breathed Sheila.

"Her answer," said Bellefonte, "was in telegram."

He unfolded a slip of paper and handed it to the Baronne. She read it with Harry and the Count looking over her shoulder.

"Would it be asking too much to be allowed to know what she says" asked Sheila.

The Baronne ignores the request but when she had finished reading the message, Harry took it from her and gave it to Sheila.

"The old blister is very much wrought up," he volunteered.

Sheila took the message and read:

"What ll the matter now. I suppose my niece is about to marry some fortune hunter and wants me to be on hand to give her away. Well I'm not coming. Let her get married in the parish church for all I care. Am not interested in the affair. Am sending her a present. Hope she likes it. Am sailing for Europe on the Olympic. Will be in London at the Savoy for a few days. Then going to Paris. Will be there for the winter. Am not coming to the wedding. Am sending my regrets

GARNET WHEAT PROVES POPULAR

Dominion Cerealist Returns From Extended Trip to Western Canada

L. H. Newman, dominion cerealist and director of the experimental farms service, has returned from an extensive trip through Western Canada.

During his trip he visited practically every district where spring wheat is grown, and found conditions generally favorable for the production of wheat. Reward is still the most popular variety, closely followed by Garnet, which is rapidly gaining favor with the growers.

Some of the farmers are this year testing Red Bobs wheat. The variety is reported to have done well, though actual figures on yield, etc., have not been compiled. Mr. Newman pointed out that it had been impossible to determine anything definite with regard to this variety's rust-resisting qualities because there was practically no rust in Manitoba and very little elsewhere. Conditions in the west, Mr. Newman describes as distinctly above the average.

Particularly good are the reports on Garnet wheat, one of the originators of the experimental farms service. One of the subject of this remarkable wheat early last year, the Dominion cerealist stated, "that history of Garnet wheat is almost an epic in the realm of scientific achievement. It reveals a story of almost half a century of patient but determined effort, replete with discouragements and disappointments, but rewarded ultimately by definite and indisputable gains."

In 1914 Garnet wheat was included in the regular variety test-plots at 26 of the experimental farms. In 1918 it was tested at the experimental farms in the Prairie Provinces. In 1919 the branch farms were able to sow 320 acres, from which production 9700 bushels. In 1926, 6054 bushels of Garnet were offered to prairie farmers with 4-bushel limit. Some 2836 of these, including 852 soldier settlers, farmers, including 852 soldier settlers, farmers, including 852 soldier settlers, farmers

Two Feature Pictures.

If you are of the opinion that there is nothing new in the comedy line on the screen then journey to the Regent Theatre during the engagement of Marjorie Beebe in "The Panner's Daughter." You'll be shown for the morrow for three days and you will see the comedy find of years in this red-headed, green-eyed youngster, still in her teens, who is rated by experts as the first natural screen comedienne to be revealed since the palmy days of Mabel Normand.

Following the exploits of Bob Steele, FBO's western star, in "The Trail of Courage" at the Regent theatre tomor row is like hitting the desert trail for excitement and screamers.

This production, which is one of the best young Steele has made since he was promoted to stardom, gives a vivid picture of the hardships encountered by desert travelers.

BELLE THEATRE

In "That's My Daddy" which will open tomorrow at the Belle theatre is offering the all time triumph of vaudeville screen comedy.

The story was written by Reginald Denny and Carl Laemmle, famous farce, and who also wrote his previous success "Past and Furious."

Fred Newmeyer, the man who directed Harold Lloyd for three years came directly from the Lloyd organization to direct Denny.

"That's My Daddy" is an unusual picture, for in many ways a departure from the farcial subjects in which Denny has made his name and fortune. Instead of a continuous laugh riot it unsurpassed, there are spots where the comedianne become convulsive, but on the whole it is a bunch of child pathos injected by the remarkable acting of Jane La Verne, a baby prodigy recently discovered by Reginald Denny himself.

The cast of this picture is exception al with Barbara Kent, Wampas Star of 1927, playing the feminine lead and Lilian H.Ch. well-known leading woman playing the second lead.

Others in the cast are Tom O'Brien Jane La Verne, Mathilde Brundage Wilson Benge, Armand Kalla, Charles Sullivan and Art Carney.

The story concerns the little girl befriended by Denny and is featured by a gorgeous wedding on board a palatial private yatch.

Aspirin Braces Up Cut Flowers

Experiments have confirmed the fact that cut flowers may be prevented from fading by giving them an aspirin bath. The experiments are being conducted with chrysanthemums. The treated blooms out-lasted the untreated by several days. Flowers which were badly wilted were given fresh water and an aspirin tablet. They revived in two hours, looking as fresh as they did when picked. The leaves, however, remained wilted. The aspirin acts as an antiseptic, interfering with the enzyme which causes the clogging of the stem as its cut surface.

Old Time Torture No Worse Than

Mr. McArthur's experience with inflamed kidneys.

Gin Pills brought relief

Hospital loomed up in front of William McArthur, of Saint John, N.B. Life was a living misery.

As he himself puts it, "I suffered for 6 months with kidney trouble. Doctors said I would have to go to a hospital before I could go back to my heavy work in the machine shops." Fortunately, at this critical time, his druggist suggested Gin Pills. What a boon! "After taking 3 boxes," Mr. McArthur concludes gratefully, "I had no more trouble."

Gin Pills have relieved countless cases of acute kidney condition similar to this. Before serious trouble can develop, take this reliable remedy—at the first sign of bad backache, stabbing headache, dizzy spells, disturbing urinary secretions, or burning, scanty or too frequent urination. At your druggist's, also. National Drug & Chemical Co. of Canada Limited, Toronto, Canada. 179

Man So Nervous Feels H's Stomach Jump

"I got so nervous my stomach felt like it was jumping. Vinol entirely relieved the trouble. I feel better than in years."—J. C. Dube.

Vinol is a compound of iron, phosphates, cod liver extract, etc. The very FIRST bottle makes you sleep better and have a BIG appetite. Nervous, easily tired people are surprised how QUICK the iron, phosphates, etc., give new life and pep. Vinol tastes delicious.

Old Time Torture No Worse Than

Mr. McArthur's experience with inflamed kidneys.

Gin Pills brought relief

Hospital loomed up in front of William McArthur, of Saint John, N.B. Life was a living misery.

As he himself puts it, "I suffered for 6 months with kidney trouble. Doctors said I would have to go to a hospital before I could go back to my heavy work in the machine shops." Fortunately, at this critical time, his druggist suggested Gin Pills. What a boon! "After taking 3 boxes," Mr. McArthur concludes gratefully, "I had no more trouble."

Gin Pills have relieved countless cases of acute kidney condition similar to this. Before serious trouble can develop, take this reliable remedy—at the first sign of bad backache, stabbing headache, dizzy spells, disturbing urinary secretions, or burning, scanty or too frequent urination. EQUATOR GOOD SPOT TO LIVE

This Is Contrary to Popular Belief, But It Is True

New York— Contrary to popular belief, the equator is a delightful summer resort, says Carveth Wells, British explorer who has just arrived in New York from Central Africa where he has been for three months as a member of the Maseie Expedition to the Mountains of the Moon, sent in June by the Chicago Geographic Society.

"The climate of equatorial Africa is so delightful as that of Bermuda," he declared. "It is temperate the whole year round. The greatest discomfort we had was from snow and hailstorms, but even when our feet were being chilled by the snow we were compelled to wear sun helmets and spine-pads to avoid sunstroke.

The Mountains of the Moon, which the Maseie expedition set out to explore, were well known to the ancients. Ptolemy mentioned them in his geography, but until twenty years ago scientists have always disputed their existence. It was impossible it was said, for snow-capped mountains to exist on the equator. Even when Stanley, in 1888, said that he had seen them, the scientific world was incredulous.

The cause of this mystery, said Mr. Wells, is that they are only visible in the sky for a few hours every three or four months. For the rest of the time they are hidden in mist and clouds. It was not until 1906, when the Duke of Abruzzi had to discover them, that the existence of the Mountains of the Moon was generally acknowledged. Then it was the tracks of the Duke of Abruzzi that the Maseie expedition followed. At the summit they found the Duke's name cut and in tin. With it Mr. Wells placed his own card and Mr. Maseie, vice-president of a soap company, who financed the expedition, left a cake of soap.

According to Mr. Wells' account the Mountains of the Moon are a paradise for botanists and zoologists. Heather, which flourishes on the moors of Scotland to a height of nine inches or a foot, grows there thirty feet high. Groundsel, beloved of canaries, grows to twenty feet. Parsley grows nine feet high and Mr. Wells found a lobelia in the snow ten feet in height. At the equator, too, are found the finest strawberries and cream all the year round, though there are no mammoth strawberries.

When in Rome, do as the Romans do—originated in this way. Saint Augustine, puzzled, became they fasted in Rome on Saturday, consulted Saint Ambrose, who said, "When I am here, (Milan) I do not fast on Saturday, when at Rome, I do fast on Saturday."

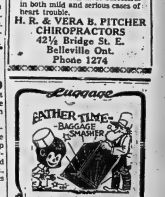

Deer are plentiful in northern Ontario, Dominion this year.

New $250000 St. John's Catholic Church in Champaign, Ill., was dedicated.

HEART TROUBLE OR HEALTH

There are many forms of heart trouble. Some of them are very serious, while some are little trouble. All, however, may easily develop into very dangerous ills. It is right for that, we are dependent for the proper circulation of blood. Therefore it is essential that this delicate mechanism be kept in the best of condition. Chiropractic has been most successful in both mild and serious cases of heart trouble.

BALL SEASON ON PACIFIC COAST

It Is Expected to be Opened Earlier Than Last Year

New York, N.Y.—Early opening of the Pacific Coast Baseball League probably will not interfere with the plans of three major league clubs to go west for training. The Pacific Coast will open its 1929 season March 26, one week earlier than in 1928, and as a result a number of exhibition games scheduled with visiting major league outfits will have to be cancelled.

The Chicago Cubs, however, will remain at Catalina Island and the Pittsburgh Pirates at Paso Robles. The western movement for spring baseball conditioning has gained a recruit in the Detroit Tigers, although the American Leaguers will not continue on to California, stopping at Phoenix, Ariz.

The Tigers under George Moriarity use San Antonio as a camp and John J. McGraw with his New York Giants will pick up in Texas where Detroit leaves off.

William Wrigley, Jr., owner of the Cubs, also owns the island where his club trains and he will not permit changes in the Pacific Coast schedule to cause him to move. The White Sox, the other Chicago entry, is also moving its training camp west but not far enough to be concerned over the Pacific Coast schedule. The Sox will train at Dallas, Texas, instead of Shreveport, La.

The Pirates may not be able to get in their series with the Los Angeles Club but will play San Francisco and then move on to Phoenix, Fort Worth, Dallas, San Antonio and Memphis.

It is understood that Detroit will play both the Cubs and Pirates as they move east and follow with games in Texas and other states of the once "Solid South."

Your Eyes and Our Service

By J. A. McFEE, Optometrist Belleville

A person may have two or three abnormal eye conditions demanding correction?

Yes, such combinations are frequently met with by the Optometrist. . . .

Are separate lenses required for these errors?

No, they can all be combined in one pair of lenses. And when so furnished the lenses must be prescribed and prepared with the utmost accuracy.

It would seem scarcely possible for a person with combined errors of vision to be properly supplied with a correction without undergoing an examination?

No other way is safe or satisfactory.

OCEAN FULL OF STABLE RIVERS

But Statement that Stream Flows Between Poles Is Doubted

That the ocean is full of "rivers" nobody can doubt, and that some of these great currents, like the Gulf stream in the earlier part of its course are practically permanent is also a fact that seems to be demonstrated, but that, as recently announced, there is an ocean stream flowing between the poles is a statement that will require a great deal of corroboration by actual and extensive observation before it can be accepted as representing a fact of nature. The ascription of the theory to Commander Smith, of the U. S. Coast Guard, who has lately been exploring the sea between Greenland and Labrador, may give it an apriori standing standing for investigation.

This mysterious "underwater stream or creek," it is asserted, flows northward over the cold ocean bottom "from the South Pole." It gets warmer as it passes the tropics and the equator, and at Greenland its temperature has became 2 1-2 degrees centrade. There it sweeps into the other currents and begins its long, slow low back to the icefields of the south"

If the existence of such a current crossing the equator in both directions personally understeath its going north and above in returning south should ever be established, there would be a revolution in the physical charts of the Atlantic.

But there is nothing hypothetical about the recent discoveries of the Coast Guard concerning the birthplace of the North Atlantic icebergs. Along the west shore of Greenland, where the mighty and mysterious ice cap covering the strange intrusive omininit crowds its glittering edges down to the sea, there are special "danger solnds" where the projecting glaciers "calve bergs."

These ocean "calves" of the white north find their way out of the recess s of the fiords in which they are born into the well-known "Labrador current," which flows downward brough Baffin Bay, carrying whole leets of chilling bergs as far south as the banks of Newfoundland, where they lose themselves in the fog created by their own melting—for as their ice dissolves heat is extracted from the enveloping atmosphere, so that its disappearance condenses moist warm air in vast white clouds on the face of the water far around the bergs. And the trans-Atlantic "greyhounds" drop their pride of speed as they venture into these obscuring mists, and blow their hoarse and melancholy horns to scare away, not that impassable bergs, whose steel-hard backs would instantly crush a battleship, but the chance lalking vessels which may lie in the rack, or some other mechanic monster of the deep that may be feeling a way through the same perilous obscurity.

Whatever the truth be about a current between the poles, the facts reported concerning the ice currents which appear to meet in the Newfoundland region seem incontestable. The menacing white fleet from the north brought down by the Labrador current meets the warm waters brought north by the Gulf Stream, and the enveloping fog immediately betrays, like a battle cloud, the site of the atmospheric contest. The warmer water clothes itself with warmer air that is laden with invisible moisture. But at the touch of the ice and the chill of the polar current, the moisture be comes a blinding curtain, shot through with drizzly rain. North and South are met in aerial battle—the Equator against the Pole! Man's inventions are negligible in the midst of that conflict.

Behind Disko Island lies one of the principal arsenals of the Arctic .....and ice fleet. It is called "Disko Heaven," and Commander Smith describes it as being completely filled with great bergs, "all the huge white masses moving forward irresistably," as if eager to begin their career on the man-haunted lanes of the sea.

GRAF ZEPPELIN FOR NORTH POLE FLIGHTS

Berlin, Nov. 27.— The Dirigible "Graf Zeppelin" which has just completed the first round trip trans-Atlantic commercial air voyage in history will be placed at the disposal of the international Aero Arctic Society for two North Pole trips in 1930, it was decided at a conference today between Nansen, noted explorer, Dr. Hugo Eckener and government officials.

Ford Cars Need AUTOMATIC Motor Protection

The Price is Low — the Protection Great.

Motor Protection must be Automatic

JUST around the corner, cold — the greatest enemy of all motors — is waiting for a chance to take away some of the life and pep in your new Ford motor. Give cold a chance — and your motor will show it.

There's a way to beat cold

This way has been adopted by the leading manufacturers in the industry. It's the way now used on Cadillac, Lincoln, LaSalle, Hupmobile 8, Chrysler 75 and 80, Dodge Senior Six and Pierce-Arrow.

It's a way that leaves nothing at all to your memory. It works automatically. With scientific accuracy—to protect your motor's vital parts against the enemy, cold. Automatic Motor Protection it's called—which really means Fines Automatic Winterfront. For Fines is the only automatic radiator shutter on the market.

Be sure your shutter is automatic

With a Fines Automatic Winterfront on your car, you are always sure of full protection against excess dilution, stored gasoline in the crank walls, fouled spark plugs, Permeance, excessive carbonization. These are the troubles that bring costly repair bills and lower the efficiency of your motor.

Special low-priced Winterfronts for Fords

Now—so that every Ford owner may have, and afford, the benefits of automatic motor protection—we offer a specially priced Fines Automatic Winterfront, specially built for Ford cars.

It has the identical features of positive, dependable, automatic operation—and, in addition, it adds another note to the distinctive beauty of the new Ford.

Drive in—we'll equip your Ford—and you can forget cold for the life of your car.

firms which have located here chiefly through the instrumentality of the Chamber of Commerce. We hoped to have something more definite this year," he continued, "but we have more actual prospects for new firms than ever before in the history of the Chamber of Commerce. The city has been transformed within the last few years from a sleepy little village to a thriving city and all this regard the Chamber of Commerce has played a prominent part."

Numerous Factories

"The organization has other functions besides the industrial. It looks to the fostering of civic pride in various forms, etc." He went on to point out the various benefits gained from the open forum meetings held last year under the chairmanship of Dr. Bennett. "Matters of vital interest were discussed here and the benefits extended by the city." He touched upon the tourist publicity bureau fostered by the Chamber of Commerce but did not give an "advertiser." "Tourists are directed and attended every courtesy and they carry a good impression with them when they leave for their homes." He paid special tribute to the directors as well as the manager, Mr. Sherlerty, whom, he said, has been a most painstaking worker and although offered much more lucrative positions, preferred to remain here. He spoke of the solid support given by the City Council on any reasonable request, which had been submitted for their approval. "But we cannot succeed without the hearty coöperation of the citizens and while we have plans for Belleville's future, it is necessary that we get co-operation."

The Hon. E. J. Cooke, M.P.P.

In beginning his address, which was interesting to the full, Mr. Cooke said: "Belleville is interesting because it is the centre of the total manufacturing industries of the whole dominion are located there. And they is a greater density of high tension lines in that section of the province than in any other section of Ontario. The Niagara power zone represents 70 percent of the total power present of the total population of the province, 85 per cent of the manufacturing industries are located there, 75 per cent of the electrical railways and 43 per cent of the steam railways."

This, the speaker pointed out, was conclusive evidence that the Hydro Electric Power Commission contributed to the prosperity in the districts in which the Commission operates. The Power Commission had got a great deal of the credit, and much criticism, but a great deal of the credit is due, Mr. Cooke stated emphatically, to F. A. Gaby, Chief Engineer of the Commission.

The Power Commission, it was pointed out was composed of three members who looked after the framing of legislation and the financial administration of the organization. The methods by which the Commission finances are either by bonds or by direct advances in cash by the province. The rates we must pay are decided by the Commission. The rate of charge is interest on the investment, some 5 per cent; this year it was 6 because a certain amount of money is necessary to build up the sinking fund, (10 percent) that is, to build up renewal reserves so that at the end of the forty year period it will be found that all utilities are in perfect working order, or else there will be sufficient funds to rehabilitate them; the contingency fund, some 1 percent; fifth the amount of revenue to pay the province one-half, and 40 cent percent; sixth, the amount of money paid in municipal tax and lastly the general operating and administration charges, a total charge, of about 12 percent.

"The costs of the power can never be uniform," stated Mr. Cooke. "The Commission must aggregate the rates in order that the local Commission may retain the deductions that they have paid."

Rural Distribution

A most important phase of the question next arose, that of rural distribution. The methods of the Hydro differ in the country from the urban centres. The urban centres issue their own debentures, to construct their own distributing systems. But the Hydro does not ask the rural sections to invest one cent of money. All the urban centres have to return every dollar with interest. But only fifty percent of the money loaned is asked back from the rural communities.

And in that there is one on an average three miles of rural lines put up during every working day, in the distributing system. The reason that prompted the legislature to bond Lighways and give grants to the rural districts was the same reason that the rural lines were financed. At the time of the Privy Council Judgment the statement was made that there is a great movement from the rural districts to the city. It is a question causing great anxiety. One of the chief considerations in dealing with the problem is the large accumulation of wealth in the city. The average assessment per farm is $5,000.000 to the square mile; in Belleville it is about $2,000,000 to the square mile. Yet, in this country, in the three front townships, with an area of about 90 square miles, they have only a net $10,000,000 assessable.

"If you ask the reason on the part of agricultural natives," said Mr. Cooke, "then generous assistance must be given today to the construction of light and power. This that we might brighten their lives. In the country today we realise that we need our cities as manufacturing centres and social and educational centres, but your best interests lie in seeking to make a prosperous rural community."

With these thoughts in mind the province bonded for construction of rural lighting.

Previous to 1921 three hundred and five miles of rural lines were built. In 1922 the Hydro constructed nine hundred and sixty-five miles, an average of over three miles a day. The effect has been to decrease the charge in rural districts. In the United States, where there is no bonding assistance, the charges are over forty percent greater.

Eight Different Systems

Mr. Cooke then outlined briefly the outstanding features of the eight different Hydro systems in Ontario.

1st, Niagara System, three plants, 850,000 H.P. Capatal cost $125 H.P.

2nd, Georgian Bay, 24,000 H.P. $128 per H.P.

3rd, Thunder Bay, 75,000 H.P.

4th, Nipissing Power District, 600 H.P. $194 per H.P.

5th (Four systems) between the counties of York and the Ottawa River, St. Lawrence, Rideau and Central Ontario.

Mr. John Elliott

Mr. John Elliott introduced Mr. Cooke to the audience. "What a fine talent takes place in the twenty years," stated Mr. Elliott. As functions, Mr. Cooke there used to be at the table Sir McKenzie Bowell, Mr. North, Mr. Porter, Mr. Corby and others and all have passed out of those veterans, and that is H. J. Graham, who has done much for Belleville. He has been the representative of the Chamber of Commerce in distant lands. He is not only a representative in Belleville, but the whole of Canada."

Mr. Elliott spoke of the Hydro in the province of Quebec, and the progress made in the last five years. The total horsepower initiut province was 1,500,000 and today stands at 4,500,000. The cheap power is the cause of the splendid development.

Mr. Elliott painted a glowing picture of Belleville's future and went on to tell of a visit to the Winter Fair at Toronto and spoke especially of the 800 young farmers that had paraded there. "Hastings," he said, "too had representatives there. He closed by referring to the great work done by C. N. R. in building up prosperity in Belleville.

Married In Niagara

Mr. F. A. Gaby, Chief Engineer of the Hydro Electric Power system was called upon and introduced by Chairman Graham. "Mr. Cooke has explained the underlying principles of the organization and I will relate a few facts and figures which are concrete evidence of the success which is attending the efforts of other municipalities who have assumed the hydro system.

"The total investment in the Niagara district where twelve municipalities were operated with a capital expenditure of $8,410,000 with a load of 200 horsepower. He traced the rapid development in the district and this year it is $100,000,000 invested with a delivery of 850,000 horsepower to over three hundred municipalities.

"Similar progress has resulted in the other seven Systems," said Mr. Gaby and Niagara's success was one hundred percent and spread rapidly to other sections of the Province. In Ontario at the present time there is a total investment of $180,000,000 for over 1,500,000 horsepower. There is $97,000,000 invested by local municipalities in Ontario.

He explained that the Hydro Commission acts as a Trustee for the owners which are the municipalities. "The Act provides that each municipality may appoint its own Commission and the town or city may issue debentures and standard accounting system may be established but the Commission establishes uniform by type rates. He pointed out that an interim rate is made at the beginning of the year and payment is made for power received. If there is any surplus in operation it is returned to the municipal by and similarly if a loss is incurred it is charged up.

"There will invariably be a surplus if the system is operated on a sound systematic basis," said Mr. Gaby and all surpluses are transferred to the books of the municipality. "In 1927 there were two hundred and fifty municipalities had a surplus of $1,291,000 with a sinking fund of $1,125,000 and a depreciation reserve of $1,282,000 making a sum of $4,700,000 set aside to maintain their property in Belleville.

To further illustrate the point, Mr. Gaby allowed that in 1921 there was a sinking fund of $870,000 while this had now accumulated to $10,500,000. The combined reserves are now between $12,000,000 and $14,000 000 on an investment of $110,000,000. He gave a brief history of the Hydro and its spread in the Province 88 per cent of the Commission's debt has been paid off, over 6 lowatt hour and 80 per cent of Industrial firms pay less than 3 cents per kilowatt hour and 98 per cent obtain power at less than twenty-five dollars per horsepower.

"The Hydro Electric Power Commission since the commencement of operations have saved the Province of Ontario $277,000,000 "said Mr. Gaby. He remarked on the spread of work done by the Planning Department. "Planning about a million underlining regarding the purchasing prices and underlying principles of the Hydro Electric Power Commission.

Loss First Year

"In 1921 there was an obligation to which require local rates and Peterboro bought their local distribution system. He stated that valuation of $1,200,000 five per cent was placed on the property and Ontario system in 1916 and that it was purchased for $8,250,000 4% per cent. It was found there were $65,-350,000 bonds at five per cent on the system. In the first year there was a net loss of $170,000, due to the fact that a number of branches were on a non-paying basis particularly the electric railway and other utilities. He said the net valuation placed on the Belleville system is $900,000 and revenue for 1928 was $190,000, the yearly operating expenses are $137,000, leaving a surplus of $53,000 which could be applied toward pay ng off the debentures and interest.

Mr. Gaby stated under the present operating conditions that it was the policy of the Government to hand over the properties at the actual value. He pronounced that Lindsay had acquired and is operating its own plant and it has already exhibit shortlisted as a paying proposition. He added that also necessary by-law must be passed to enter into an agreement with the Hydro Power Commission for the generation and transmission of power. He explained that the Madawaska River would be a constant source of power supply for the next twenty years but said that large quantities of high load power must be accessible.

The speaker pointed out that a pension fund was set up by the Commission as well as as an emergency fund continued.

Mayor Ellis is to cover liability in case of accidents. In answer to a question Mr. Gaby stated that the Commission advances the rural power lines in same manner as by wholesale and that the accounts are returned to the Commission and operated as utilities. In explaining the twenty-year contracts for rural lines he said it was for their own protection in case one Consumer became dissatisfied or desired his service dis-

During the course of the evening, solos were rendered by Messrs. Dr. Hall, Ner "Jimmy" Beakley and Al Stillman. Jimmy Beakley lead in the community singing with Leo Rigg at the piano. The banquet was well-attended and it was the unanimous of the meeting that some steps should be immediately taken with the hope of acquiring the local system.

King George Gains In Fight For Life---Signs Today More Hopeful

PLAN READY FOR SCHOOL OPENING

Hon. John S. Martin and Bishop Seager to be Speakers

OTHERS EXPECTED

Function Will Spread Over Both Afternoon and Evening Sessions

Careful preparations were made yes terday afternoon at the special Board of Education meeting held in the high school for the official opening of the Belleville new Collegiate and Vocation al School on December 12th.

Both the Hon. John S. Martin, Min ister of Agriculture and His Lord ship Bishop Seager, Bishop of the Diocese of Ontario, will officiate at the opening, while the universities fo Toronto, Queen's, Western and Mc Master will be asked to have repre sentatives present for the important function.

The official opening will take place in the evening, when the Honorable John S. Martin will be the principal speaker. At this time members of the Board of Education, past members as far back as twenty year, members of the city and county councils of Hast ings and Prince Edward and other dig nitaries will grace the platform of the auditorium.

Program For Children

A special afternoon programme will be held, however, for the express bene efit of the school children of the city, and at this function a choir composed of eighty voices, represent ing the four public schools of the city will probably sing. At the present time Professor Rumi is training this choir.

The school will be thrown open for inspection in the afternoon, too, and it is expected that the building will be jammed with citizens who have been waiting for some time to get a glimpse of the new edifice.

Mr. John Elliott, chairman of the Board, yesterday afternoon invited the Board members to be his guest at luncheon in the Quinte Hotel at noon of the 12th of December.

But the evening will see the im portant gathering. With the Honorable John S. Martin as the chief speaker, and Bishop Seager, with Principal Taylor of Queen's University, and President Falconer of Varsity, if the last two named can be on hand, sup porting him, a most interesting pro gram has been promised.

Bishop Seager to Speak

It is tentatively planned to have Bishop Seager the chief speaker at the afternoon function and also have the Hon. John S. Martin address the gathering, with the speakers reversed for the evening.

Principal P. C. McEwarin is to supply some students of the school as ushers, and invitations will be sent to the past members of the Board, the City Council the two County Councils and a few other leading citizens or persons to be on the platform in the evening.

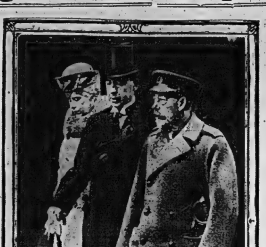

Mr. Elliott, who had yesterday to leave for Toronto, will appoint a com mittee to take charge of affairs, up on his return. This committee will look after all details of the affair, see to printing a souvenir program printed, and arrange the program for afternoon and evening functions.

THREE PICTURES FOR WHARF STREET CLUB

Mr. W. C. Mikel, K.C., will add a pleasing feature to the programme at the Wharf St. Debating Club this even ing at their annual "bun feed." Mr. Mikel will present the Club with pic tures of the three great Premiers of Canada, the Right Honorable Sir John A. MacDonald, the Right Honor able Sir Wilfrid Laurier and the Hon orable Sir Mackenzie Bowell. These pictures should prove an adornment to the walls of the Club House.

GERMAN MINISTER IS IN POOR HEALTH

Ottawa, Nov. 29.—Department of Ex ternal Affairs has received an inquiry from the League of Nations asking if Canada would consent to a meeting of the Council of the League elsewhere than in Geneva. The message states that the inquiry is due to the possi bility that the health of the German Foreign Minister, Gustav Stresemann might make it difficult for him to go to Geneva. Premier King has the in quiry under consideration.

Where King George Caught His Cold

Although the king's condition has shown improvement, pleurisy continues to be a prominent feature of his pres ent illness. His majesty is seen in the ABOVE illustration in company with the queen after the Armistice Day ser vice at the cenotaph in Whitehall on Sunday, November 11. During the cere mony the king stood bereheaded in the chilly drizzle of rain and it is thought this may have been the or iginal cause of his present illness.

Fearless Postmaster of Minot, Me., Asks for Hotel Accommodation

Montreal, Nov. 29.—The ignorance of some people is refreshing, according to Stanley Cook, Secretary of the Montreal Board of Trade. He has just received a letter from a place called Minot, in the State of Maine, asking if Montreal had a livery stable large enough to house six dogs, a butcher shop where twenty pounds of meat for dogs could be purchased and hotel ac commodation for two men.

The "questionnaire" descr bed the plans of Postmaster Alden Pulsifer of Minot, Me., to drive a dog team from that point to Montreal and back accom panied by his brother, George Pulsifer. The letter declares that the two men will carry what is claimed to be the "first international dog-team mail." It is also pointed out that this "mail" will be distinct Government mail.

It is stated that the official start will be made from Lewiston, Me., on December 20, bear ng greetings from various State and Civic Officials to local Officials.

Ancient Aristocratic Vehicles Go Under The Hammer At Paltry Sums

Hamilton, November 29.—Redolent of those calmer days of twenty-five years ago, a number of elegant coach es, phaetons, victorias and cabs, were sold by auction yesterday for less than one could have hired them for an hour or two when the horse was su perene.

The auction sale took place at Sam McKay's stable, the most fashionable in Hamilton until the automobile be came numerous.

The highest selling victoria, which cost $1,500, made of the choicest of woods, leather upholstery, bevelled glass doors, and not a creak in its gear, went under the hammer for a paltry $2. A beautiful red cutter, one of those affairs which used to symbolize Canada's jingling winter time, went for 40 cents, and Auctioneer Gladwell had to beg to get that much.

The vehicle in which Adam Brown was wont to ride for many years, a splendid aristocratic carriage, sold for $3.50. The wheels alone were worth $50, so Mr. McKay said. Valuable bar ness, buffalo robes, ornamental whips and other such equipment went for al most nothing.

HOPEFUL NOW OF KING'S RECOVERY

Infective Process Held in Check Regarded as a Good Sign

SLEEPS DURING DAY

Passed Restless Night—Bulletins Issued Have Reticent Tone

London, Eng. Nov. 29—There was a more hopeful atmosphere around Buckingham Palace today as a result of the bulletin issued by His Majesty's physicians, Sir Stanley Hewett and Lord Dawson, of Penn. It was re ported that the infective process was being held in check. The fact that there was no spread of infection was welcome news. While the bulletin in dicated that the King did not have much during the night, it was pointed out that he had been getting a consid erable amount of sleep during the day.

Bulletins Reticent

London, Nov. 29— Extreme reti cence continued to characterize the medical announcement issued at Buck ingham Palace on the illness of the King. Though in its issue last even ing's bulletin from Sir Stanley Hewett and Lord Dawson of Penn was regarded as favorable, especially when read in connection with a letter which the two physicians sent to the Cabinet earlier in the day.

It was noted, however, that again nothing was said about the King's temperature or pulse, and that even the rather reserved statement that "his strength was maintained" was omitted. The bulletin said this:

"The King passed a restless night, with some sleep; otherwise conditions are unchanged."

DOES NOT KNOW

Duke of Gloucester Not Yet Informed of King's Illness

London, Nov. 29.—While the Prince of Wales has already com pleted the first stage of the long journey to his father's sickbed there was no news of the plans of his brother, the Duke of Gloucester. It is improbable that the Duke who is hunting in the wilds, has yet received word of the King's illness.

SUGGESTION NOT LIKELY TO WORK

Proposed Naval Conference Declared Much Out of Order

Washington, Nov. 29.—Silence from the White House today met the caustic criticism from Senator Swanson, Vir ginia, has been the reaction to Aire Britten's proposal for a Naval Confer ence. Britten, chairman of the House Naval Affairs Committee, called Stan ley Baldwin, premier of Britain sug gesting that members of the committee of the British Parliament meet to talk over the question of sea equality Senator Swanson said the proposal was revolutionary, pointing out that any treaty of disarmament must be rectified by the senate and made by the President

Horrifies Diplomats

London, Nov. 29.—While the British Foreign Office takes some general in terest in Representative Britten's pro posal for an Anglo-American parlia mentary conference on naval affairs, no answer will be sent from there. It is felt that the proposal is a par liamentary matter.

A Liberal newspaper, the Star, says British has horrified diplomats, who listed traditions and laid himself open to incarceration in the "Tanjee equivalent of the tower of London". It is possible the Star says, that what Britten and Lord Cecil think about, their Governments may think tomor row.

Lord Lee recently made a proposal similar to that of Mr. Britten.

ROYAL BANK TO RAISE CAPITAL

Directors Announce Issue of 50,000 New Shares at $200

Montreal, Nov. 29.— The Royal Bank of Canada announced today that the directors have decided to in crease the paid-up capital of the bank by issuing 50,000 new shares at $200. The issue will bring the bank's paid-up capital to $35,000,000, with re serve fund of $35,000,00. The new shares have been allotted to shareholds of record as at the close of business today, on the basis of one new share for each six shares now held.

Since the last increase, which was two years ago, there has been a sub stantial growth in the bank's business, and the new issue is in accord ance with the established policy of the Board of Directors to increase the capital of the bank from time to time in keeping with the growth of busi ness.

On the basis of present quotations, the "rights" shareholders will receive are worth more than $30 a share.

ASKS ALL SHIPS TO RENDER HELP

Urgent S.O.S. From Canadian Freighter 1500 Miles off Pacific Coast

Vancouver, Nov. 29.—"Chief Maquilla" of the Canadian-American Shipping Co., from which SOS calls were picked up by coast radio stations this morning is about 1500 miles off the Pacific coast en route from Kildonan, B.C., with grain for Shanghai.

A later message from the Osaka Shosen Kaisen line to "Arabia Maru" said that the ship was rushing to the assistance of the distressed vessel. The SOS said the situation was urgent and asked ships to stand by. Nothing has been heard since the uneasiness is felt. The possibility is considered that the ship's deck load of lumber might have shifted, causing her to list.

The "Chief Maquilla" registers 9,500 tons and carries eight officers and 32 men.

S. O. S. SIGNALS ARE HEARD FROM VESSEL

Seattle, Wash., Nov. 29.—SOS calls heard today indicated that the steam er Chief Maquilla, freighter, which was in distress off the tip of the Alas kan peninsular. Candidates Face Bitter Test At Wharf St. Debating Club Tonight

Tonight will see the annual test of the mayoralty and aldermanic candi dates when they attend the usual "Bun Feed" at the Wharf Street Debating Club. This is the acid test for those who aspire to political honours in the municipality, and any speaker who can hold his own with the electors of Prater Ward at the Debating Club is almost sure of election.

Short, pithy speeches and free partee which will be intermingled with the candidates' efforts, the fra grant odour of hot dogs plentifully be sprinkled with onions and mustard will make the evening one long to be remembered by the candidates, whether they be elected or not.

131,754 IMMIGRANTS ARRIVE IN CANADA IN FIRST SEVEN MONTHS

Figures Released by Department Shows Only 47,390 Were British

CANADIANS RETURN

20,854 Native Born Reported As Coming Back to the Dominion

Ottawa, Ont., Nov. 29.—During the first seven months of the current fis cal year, 131,754 persons immigrated to this country, of these 47,390 were British, 62,990 from foreign countries outside of United States and 21,374 from the United States.

Returns issued by the Department of Immigration today show that the month of August was the peak period for British immigrants, when 13,660 persons' came to Canada. Canadians who returned from United States from April to August numbered 20, 850 native born Canadians, 1,923 Brit ish subjects with Canadian domicile and 7666 naturalized Canadians.

English immigrants continue to lead in the majority with 26,178 persons coming from England, 12,868 from Scotland, 7,588 from Ireland and 3,- 758 from Wales.

Germany provided the largest pe portion of those from preferred European countries, 9,710, while Ruth enians outnumbered all other non-pre ferred nationals with 13,727. In the corresponding period of 1927 the gross figure was 118,454 which represents an increase of 11 per cent for 1928.

REPORT ON W. C. T. U. CONVENTION GIVEN

With Prayer, Canada Will Yet Become a "Dry" Country

One of the most successful and interesting meetings ever held by the T. W. C. T. U. took place last evening when the "Eclipse Y" met at the home of Mrs. George Cole, Catherine St.

A large number were present including several guests, members of the W. C. T. U. One of the outstanding features on the programme was the report given by Mrs. Lockyer who was a delegate at the W.C.T.U. convention recently held at Ottawa. At this meeting the fact was stressed that the women of this organization need not become discouraged at present conditions but through work and prayer Canada would still be a "dry" country.

Miss Turner, one of the guests present, kindly favored with two beautiful vocal solos, Indian love songs written by Pauline Johnson. The study book was then taken by Miss Phoebe Donaldson after which the "Temperance Clippings" were read by the various members and lead by Miss Grace Kenny, President, to whom the growth of the "Eclipse Y" is due. The meeting was then brought to a close after which a dainty lunch was served by Mrs. Cole and a social time was enjoyed by all.

HUGE LENS FOR NEW TELESCOPE

Will Have 200-Inch Reflector and be Largest in World

Pasadena, Cal.—The largest telescope ever made, twice as big and four times as powerful as the present great instrument, will be erected on Mount Undesianded California top. It will be a 200-inch reflector.

The announcement was made by the California Institute of Technology, to which the International Education Board has made an appropriation to build the telescope, laboratories and shops for its operation. The Carnegie Institution of Washington and the Mount Wilson Observatory are co-operating.

The present world's largest telescope is the 100-inch reflector on Mount Wilson, California. The 200-inch reflector, as large as the floor of a good-sized room, will have four times the power of the 100-inch. For example, the canals of Mars in the new instrument will show only the diameter of the 100-inch images, but this doubled diameter means that they have four times the size and four times the light.

"What we hope to learn with the new telescope," the announcement says, "it should render possible the solution of many 'island universes' beyond the milky way, the nearest two or three of which are now but slightly known. It should tell us something about these spiral nebulae, millions of light-years distant, and much about the development of the stars of our own Galactic system, one of which is the sun with its encircling planets. It should solve many of the problems of physics or chemistry that depend upon the enormous masses or temperatures, or upon the immense density or extreme tenuity, exhibited by celestial bodies in which titanic experiments exceeding the capacity of any terrestrial laboratory are constantly in progress. Incidentally it should reveal hundreds of millions of stars and hundreds of thousands of nebulae beyond the range of existing telescopes."

"The present most remote seen nebula is estimated to be at a distance of 100 million light years, a light year being the distance light travels in one year. There are fifty thousand of these nebulae now known. Among the "titanic experience", new light is expected upon Millikan's discovery of rays from space which he identifies as probably from the creation of the elements of which this world and other celestial bodies are made.

A possible auxiliary, still in abeyance, is a 60-foot Michelson stellar interferometer mounted on the telescope. This instrument measures the diameters of stars, existing telescopes have just been large enough to permit measurement of a few star diameters, and doubling the capacity of the new instrument opens a field of spectacular possibilities.

One measurement hoped for is the binary stars, which are two suns close together, revolving about each other. Such measurements are believed to hold one of the secrets of how worlds are created.

Eye strain, unremedied with correct glasses, will make school work distasteful and will retard advancement.

BRITAIN DENIES NEW ALLIANCE

England to Work Jointly With Other Powers Respecting China

London, November 24.—Categorical denial was given in British official circles today to suggestions from Tokio that the Anglo-Japanese alliance has been or will be renewed in spirit or in letter and will immediately lead to closer co-operation in China. Britain's policy on China is definitely governed by the Washington territoriality conference and the British declaration of 1926. This country, it is declared, has always co-operated with other great powers in China and will continue to do so, but it is flatly denied that such co-operation will now evolve into a new working agreement with Japan or be restricted in any sense to her.

From authoritative information not wholly official sources, however, your correspondent learns that Count Uchida did propose during his visit to London that Japalese and British policy in China should once more be as closely co-ordinated as it had been agreed at the Washington conference by the nine powers interested in China that they would not enter into any treaty or arrangement seeking special rights or privileges and would maintain full, frank communication with each other. This attitude has been modified in practice, and what Count Uchida proposed is that Japan and Britain at least should return to it. The proposition was reciprocated on the British side, and it is declared was communicated to the United States and other powers. The 'understanding is said to be no way directed against China, but rather intended to check possible exploitation of differences between foreign powers by the Chinese Government. It is declared to be in no sense an exclusive understanding and to imply only that there should be full, frank exchange of views between the two governments wherever either engaged in diplomatic negotiations with the Chinese Government.

CLASHES MARKED TARIFF HEARING

Steel of Canada Argues That Aid Will Make Competition Severe

Ottawa, November 23.—"If Mr. McMaster is not willing to support us in our application for this bonus for a bounty of 50 cents per ton on Canadian coal used for metallurgical and coking purposes, then we might as well go home now," declared J. H. Gundy of Toronto, one of those responsible for the recent reorganization of the British Empire Steel Corporation before the Advisory Board on Tariff and Taxation late this afternoon.

"I certainly would object to such a bounty if you trundled it into the iron and steel business," replied Hon. H. Mcmaster, K.C., of Montreal, president of the Steel Company of Canada, with plant at Hamilton and Montreal.

This exchange between representatives of two of the principal steel industries of the Dominion brought to a head late this afternoon a spirited controversy between these and other officials of the two concerns, which occupied a considerable part of the afternoon sitting of the Tariff Board, which is hearing the application of the British Empire Steel Corporation for a bonus of 50 cents per ton on Canadian coal used for metallurgical and cooking purposes.

Bituminous coal imported into Canada for metallurgical purposes, for the smelting of ore is granted a draw back of 99 per cent., but the same kind of coal imported into Canada for purely cooking purposes is not given a drawback.

The Steel Company of Canada at Hamilton plant, imports bituminous coal for its metallurgical purposes, but also makes coke and gas, which by-products it is able to sell to advantage.

The Dominion Steel and Coal Company whose application for the removal of the duty on soft coal was heard by the Board yesterday, the Canadian Gas Association of Canada, the By-Product Coke Manufacturers of Canada and the Hamilton By-Products Coke Ovens Limited, al harged the removal of this discrimination between such a company as the Steel Company of Canada which is able to get soft coal in free primarily for metallurgical purposes but secondarily for coking purposes and the ones who make coke only and who cannot get their soft coa free.

TRAPPING TRAGEDY TAKES FIVE LIVES

Joseph Reynolds, Wife and Three Children, Drown

Pembroke, Nov. 29.—Joseph Reynolds, his wife and three children were drowned at Kipawa Bay, an inlet of the Ottawa-Mattawa River, ten days ago, according to reports received here today.

The meagre details which were received came from Moor Lake, about forty miles from Pembroke, at the scene of the accident is 90 miles to rond Moor Lake, in the Province of Quebec. According to the scant report, Mr. Reynolds, with his wife and three small children, was drowned from a canoe. The father, mother and one child were found, and the search is still being continued for the bodies of the other two children.

Joseph Reynolds, whose age was around 26 years, was a trapper. His home was not far from Stubbs Bay, which is an Indian settlement, and one which is visited by the priest from Wylie in the winter.

GEARS Stick?

Do This At Once To Ease Up Your Gear Shift—Avoid Costly Repairs

Drive in for Alemite No. 927 Cold Weather Gear Lubricant

Protects Gears at Below Zero Temperatures.

IF your gears "stick" these wintry days—if you have to push and tug on your lever when you shift gears — there's something wrong with the lubricant you're using. This annoyance is not necessary. Your gears should always shift easily. Even on zero days.

And sticking gears are more than a nuisance. It's a plain warning of big repair bills on the way! For it means that the lubricant in your gear boxes has congealed from the cold. Summer gear lubricant harden in winter—and this causes serious results. When your gears turn in hard lubricant they put a "chain pull" through it, push it up against the side of the gear boxes, then whirl away idle after mile without any lubrication at all.

That's the way grinding, noisy gears start. Then come serious gear troubles.....big repair bills. Today you can "ease up" your gears instantly — and avoid these heavy repair bills.

Come in. Have the gears in your car thoroughly cleaned out, and Alemite No. 927 Cold Weather Gear Lubricant put in. A special WINTER lubricant that actually flows at below zero temperatures and retains its lubricating qualities at far below zero. Thus your gears shift with summer ease, even in coldest weather—and you are assured of efficient lubrication.

NATIONALS LEAD BASKET LEAGUE

Stephens - Adamson Wins From American Optical in Second Fixture

Three good games of basketball were played last night at the Y gymnasium, the curtain raiser being a Business Girls' League game between the Loons and the Ravens, which was won by the Ravens 27 to 6. The Ravens had the advantage over the Loons in shooting, but with a little more practice the Loons will make any of the other entries step.

The Nationals, under the direction of Vern Weir, retained the leadership of the league by taking a fall out of the Alemite in a hard fought game. The Greasers, in the first half led by quite a wide margin, but were not able to stand the prosperity which has so seldom been theirs, and dropped back in the last half, being nosed out, 25 to 20. Vern Weir was the big noise in this game, collecting 18 of his team's 20 points.

The third and last game was won by the Stephens-Adamson outfit, 23 to 17. This game was for the second place position and as a result, to get in the play-offs the Opticals will have to win their one remaining game and the S. A. boys must lose the ex.

The line-ups:

LOONS: M. Cartley, H. Cather, L. Haines, R. Stevens, T. Campbell, H. Symons, E. Cook and V. Rigby.

RAVENS: J. Croft, S. Melchior, L. Melchior, A. Wilkins, and M. Cruji.

PUSSYFOOTERS ARE CHAMPIONS

Dean McMillen's Team Disposed of Third-Platters Last Night

Dean McMullen's Pussyfooters are football champions! Champions of all that they survey at Albert College. They won the honors by disposing of Pearce's Third-Platters in a thrilling game on the College campus last night by a score of 21-18. Football has been a live topic of discussion around the College halls for some time and the two surviving teams took to the field last night in the hope of settling their disputes. The result was in doubt until the final whistle but the Pussyfooters staging a gallant finish came through to snatch the laurels from the Third-Platters. Jack Yuill and Chink were the stars for the winners while Holmes played a very smart game for to Platters. Immediately following the game the Pussyfooters and their supporters made a round of the business section of the city celebrating the great victory. The Pussyfooters will occupy the pedestal until next Autumn when the laurels will again be staked.

BAPTIST WOMEN MET IN TORONTO

Missionary Society Has Enjoyed Successful Year—Many Speakers Heard

On Thursday and Friday, November 22nd and 23rd, there was held in Jarvis St. Baptist Church, Toronto, the second annual convention of the Regular Baptist Women's Missionary Society. Wonderful progress has attended every department of the work the amount raised for Missions during the year being over $8,000. This is especially gratifying in view of the fact that under the regulations of the Society no membership fee is exacted the basis of admission being the signing of the articles of faith. The number registering at this Convention was 612, but that gives no indication of the attendance, as Jarvis St. Church was well filled at the evening sessions by returned missionaries, and one interesting feature was a programme of messages from 12 of the children of Moira St. Mission, which was in itself a masterpiece in training. Addresses were given by Dr. Shields, also other ministers and workers, the morning election of officers etc. The first annual Convention of Churches of Ontario and Quebec is being held in Bastin Ave. Baptist Church, Hamilton from 27th to 30th of November. The evening services except Tuesday will be broadcast over CHML (341 wavelength) as follows: Wednesday, 8.00 to 8.30; Thursday, 8.00 to 9.00; Friday, 8.00 to 10.30.

On Thursday evening the presidential addresses will be delivered by Rev. T. T. Shields, D.D. and on Friday evening this "Forward Daughter" will again address the gathering. Tuesday and hear this fearless defender of the faith; whom even those who do not agree with him admit to have a wonderful preaching ability and a great command of the English language.

BOXER DIED FROM AN ACUTE HEART DISEASE

Sandusky, Ohio, Nov. 29—Acute dilation of the heart caused the death of Donald "Tiger" Huff, local boxer, who collapsed during a contest here Tuesday night, the coroner decided today. Huff fell to the floor just before the end of the sixth round, after his opponent Emil Bartsch had delivered a series of blows to the head. Bartsch, who fights under the name of "Chuck" Mangin was arrested on a formal charge of manslaughter and released on $5,000 bail.

GOOD WISHES FROM THE UNITED STATES

New York, Nov. 29.—The New York Sun says editorially respecting the ill ness of King George:

"If his struggle with a treacherous disease, doubly dangerous in the November climate of London, should prove to be a critical one, then the gallant and modest gentleman, the Sovereign whose watchword is devotion to duty, this lover and reverent head of a great Empire, will have with him the heartfelt sympathy and good wishes of the civilized world."

QUEEN BEE FOOD TO PROLONG LIFE

Dr. Banting and Prof. Jackson Will Probe Its Elements

Toronto, November 29.—J. McArthur, prominent Toronto bee man, said today that Dr. F. G. Banting, discoverer of insulin for the treatment of diabetes, and Prof. H. P. Jackson of the University of Toronto, will carry out research into the life-prolonging possibilities of "Royal Jelly", the strange and peculiarly potent food which the worker bee places in the queen cell to feed the larva of the full set mothers of its race.

Mr. McArthur said Dr. Banting agreed that there were immense possibilities in a research of this kind, and aid of many of his fellow-beekeepers at the meeting of the Ontario Beekeepers' Convention in securing a supply of this "royal jelly" for examination purposes. The jelly contains substances which prolong life, and, if properly analyzed, these might be applied to human beings, McArthur believes.

Mr. McArthur explained that while the worker bee lives from six weeks to six months, the queen bee will live from three to five years. He said the creation of a queen bee was merely a matter of deposition of an egg in a queen cell, together with the special food, which the larva consumes prior to emerging as a full-fledged queen.

PLAY WITH PIRATES OR NOT PLAY HOCKEY

Montreal, Nov. 29.—Mooted transfer of Roy Worters "bold-out" goalkeeper of the Pittsburg Hockey Club to the New York Americans will not be allowed, President Calder of National League announced today.

QUEEN LABORING TO HELP PEOPLE

Sea Causes Immense Damage Along the Belgium Coast

Brussels, Belgium, Nov. 29.—Inhabitants of Flanders today battled desperately to stem the mad rush of the sea through the great breach in the dike near Breedene and Kursaal.

Queen Elizabeth, was personally superintending relief in the flood-stricken regions of the Meuse, Sambre and Ourthe Valley. Travelling in a military barge the Queen had some thrilling experiences.

Dikes along the Belgian coast were down and the sea flooded highways and fields near La Treport, At Boucainville, Normandy, several unidentified bodies were washed up and three hundred feet of concrete dike was carried away.

Among a party of Moroccans that arrived in Algeria was a giant 9 feet 4 inches tall.

YEAR FOR MINE IS SATISFACTORY

Lake Shore Bullion Recovery Said to Show 20% Increase

Toronto— Two financial statements one covering the year ended June 30, 1928, and the other for the quarter ending September 30, 1928, have reached shareholders of Lake Shore Mines, Limited. Bullion recovery for the twelve months' period showed an increase of approximately 20 per cent., and net profit about $120,000. Dividend disbursements amounting to $1,000,000 were paid after all charges, leaving a balance at the credit of profit and loss of $95,881.

Bullion production for the year was valued at $3,629,218 compared with $3,105,046 in the preceding period and $2,225,156 in 1926. The number of tons milled was 227,962 against 214,293 tons in 1927 and 125,576 tons in 1926. An average recovery of $15.21 per ton is indicated, contrasted with $14.50 in 1927, and $17.79 in 1926.

The profit and loss account, showing bullion production at $3,629,218, and interest earned of $23,260 making total revenue for the year $3,651,577. From this has been deducted expenditure on mining, milling, maintenance, general expenses, and provision for taxes after deducting sundry revenue, $1,566,; administrative costs of $35,855,; provision for depreciation of buildings, structures and equipment, of $252,852, and exhaustion of mine, $120,000, leaving net profits of $1,680,281 added to surplus, bringing total profit and loss balance to $792,253.

Total assets are valued at $2,542,912, of which $1,468,436 consists of cash, bullion on hand, accounts receivable investments and Dominion of Canada and municipal bonds. Mining properties less reserves are placed in the bal ance sheet at $42,638 and buildings, etc., at $310,185.

On the liability side, current assets are shown at $300,341, reserves, $11,839 and capital and surplus $2,180,838.

Bullion recovery for the three months ending Sept. 30 was valued at $1,027,982, and interest earned $3,150 a total of $1,036,175. Expenses amounted to $611,734 including provision for depreciation and exhaustion of $90,000. Profit then stood at $242,640 out of which dividends were paid amounting to $100000, and surplus increased by $19,440 to $817,975.

President Harry Oakes in his remarks to the shareholders says that the year was of particular interest on account of the commencement production of the major part of the mine and mill expansion, and states that the developments of the lower levels of the property have been quite in keeping both in volume and grade of ore. CLEANED SEED

The new policy of seed houses this year of buying cleaned seed instead of "in the rough" stands from the thresher is flimsy a step to bring this business into line with the purchase of other farm products, it is pointed out by representatives of the seed trade operating in Eastern Canada. Years ago practically all farm products were bought on a flat basis of so much per pound or per animal regardless of quality. But that sort of thing did not last. First came the culling of milk on a quality basis, with the product containing a high per centage of butter fat, commanding the highest price. It was not long before a hog grading policy was established with a premium on certain type, and later came egg grading. Practical ly every farm product handled today which is graded basis.

The practice of purchasing clover seed just as it came from the thresher was a gamble with all the chances against the grower who was making an honest effort to produce seed, free of weeds and other trash. In order to cover loses from handling dirty seed, buyers were forced to pay a flat rate which gave the man producing a fair seed exactly the same as the one who was not particular about weeds, and chaff and other foreign material in his seed. Sometimes the dockage on this uncleaned seed ran as high as forty per cent with 12 to 25 per cent fairly common. This meant that from a tenth to over a third of the total amount purchased was worthless and even dangerous trash and no person could get ahead very much the farmer wants would amount to. With the seed cleaned before being offered, the farmer is selling a commodity in an open package and not a "pig in a poke," the buyer knows exactly what he is getting and the cleaned seed gets the top price. It is no longer necessary for the producer of the uncleaned seed to carry along the product of the weedy fields, yet that is exactly how it is carried under the burlap-from-the thresher policy as the purchaser had to count on having enough profit on his clean lot to cover the losses of those which he

JAMES BARRIE HEADS CONCERN

Sir James President of Royal Scottish Corporation for Coming Year

London, Eng. (By C.P.)—Sir James Barrie has accepted the position of president of the Royal Scottish Corporation for the coming year. The succession of Sir James to the leadership of the oldest and one of the largest charitable organizations of its kind in Britain is a mark of significance from the point of view not mere ly of the personality of the writer him self but from that of metropolitan whose destinies he will now help to control.

Sir James has hitherto shunned the limelight, and his acceptance of a task which of necessity involves sensitive able social activity, is attribute to his sympathy to the claims of charity These claims, as represented by the scope of the Corporation, are numerous and urgent and cover the whole field of Scottish life in and around London. It was founded in 1813, at a time when Scots needed all the helping hands which could be reached out to them, and was incorporated by Royal Charters in 1665, 1675 and 1715.

A relic of its early days in the shape of a fine brass breastplate memory-box which was lent sight of for many years and unfortunately unearthed in a second-hand shop, is always displayed at the Corporation's annual festivals as a token of a long record of good works, and when Sir James gives the inspiration for a memorable and characteristic speech for as great a case as ever occupied the thoughts of Mr. M'Connochie.

The Japanese government has purchased 5,000 Canadian hens for its experimental poultry station.

The exhibition kit carried by the Hyrd Antarctic expedition weighs one ton.

Thoughts were clean enough to grade No. 1 or 2 but did not when run over the mills.

SUGGESTIONS FOR HOLIDAY PARTIES

By Barbara Brooks

Holiday time is the most interesting season of the year in which to give a party. There is no difficulty in planning decorations because so many things are appropriate and the gift shops offer a wide variety of place cards and favors cards if you do not have time to make your own. The hostess is in luck whose turn it is to entertain her bridge club in the late fall or near Christmas.

For a late fall party, an orange and yellow color scheme is good. Carnations dominate in their glory, ranging in hue from huge balls to tiny buttons and in color from palest yellow to deepest orange. Candles may be used to match in either match or in contrast to the flowers.

The simplest kind of refreshments can be served. The hostess may serve table or buffet with the emphasis on the right choice of food. The served with a bowl of orange and lemon, tiny egg sandwiches and corn flake macaroons will carry out the color idea. The bread for the sandwiches may be cut into rounds, diamonds or other shapes. Cream cheese may be added to the mixture or served instead of sandwiches.

Here is a more elaborate menu which is especially appropriate for an even ng party—Welsh rarebit, buttered toast, thin strips of carrots, celery and olives, decorated cottee and sun shine cake. If you have electric appliances, it is interesting to make the rarebit, toast and drink at the table.

We are giving the recipes for the Corn Flake Macaroons and Orange Biscuits. The egg filling for the sandwiches is made by chopping hard cooked eggs and combining them with mayonnaise and seasonings. Make decorfelinated coffee according to your favorite coffee recipe. This is a drink which can be enjoyed by all your guests without being followed by a sleepless night.

Corn Flake Macaroons

2 egg whites
1 cup sugar
1-2 teaspoon vanilla.
1-2 teaspoonful
2 cups Kellog's Corn Flakes
1-2 cup nut meats (chopped)

Beat the egg whites until stiff, add the sugar gradually, then add vanilla, cocoanut, Corn Flakes and nut meats. Drop by teaspoonfuls on buttered pan and bake in a moderate oven (400 degrees F.) until the macaroons are a delicate brown.

Orange Biscuits

2 cups flour
4 tsps. baking powder
1-2 tsp. salt
2 tablespoons sugar
2 tablespoons grated orange rind
1-3 cup shortening
3-4 cup milk

Mix and sift dry ingredients, add orange rind. Cut in shortening. Add milk to make soft dough. Toss on floured board and cut in small rounds. In center of each biscuit place a small lump of sugar which has been dipped in orange juice. Bake in a hot oven (425 d. F.) for about fifteen minutes.

Letters to the Editor

Bellevile, Ont.,
Nov. 28, 1928

To Editor of the Intelligencer.
Dear Sir:—

Kindly allow me space in your paper to say a word to the public regarding the Charity Dance on Friday Nov. 30, which is being sponsored by the Ukrania Club. I understand that this dance is being put on in aid of "The Children's Shelter and Home for the Aged", with prizes donated by prominent men. As a rule benefit affairs are usually put over with as little expense as possible, in order to have proceeds for those who are to be benefited. In this case, Mr. Ukrania who appears to be head of the Utopia Club is bringing a Toronto Orchestra here which will cost about three times as much as a local orchestra. This is quite an insult to our splendid efforts bility, if any, in connection clients and especially when there are four good orchestras in the city to choose from. If the members of this Club do not care to patronize home musicians, why should the citizens patronize their card party and dance?

I am sure that the combined efforts of our local boys would prove just as efficient and satisfactory as those of the "Ambassadors" of Toronto.

In closing would like to say that there are two Belleville orchestras that would have been only too glad to amalgate for the occasion and played gratis for this "Benefit Dance", had their leaders been consulted.

Thanking you,
I remain,
Signed:
Not an orchestra member but one who is interested.

BABIES GAIN BY THIS SIMPLE METHOD

Doctors say, scoring waste in baby's digestive tract is usually back of any failure to gain normally according to schedule. And the best proof, this is true, is the quick way, weak, fretful puny babies improve when you cleanse their stomach and bowels and put them in order with a few doses of purely vegetable pleasant tasting Fletcher's Castoria. This gentle, harmless laxative is the doctor's first thought to relieve those ills of babies and children, such as colic, gas, constipation, sluggishness, sour stomach. Be sure you get genuine Castoria in the bottle that bears the Fletcher signature.

Now A Sea Music Festival

The Sea Music Festival, January 22-26, will be staged in this, the literal Vancouver, Island in a general view of the Canadian Pacific Empress Hotel and the beautiful Victoria Harbor and Gardens of the Island.

The idea of a Music Festival is not new in Vancouver, but the Festival devoted entirely to sea music, which is being organized to take place in this city next January, is the first of its kind, and as such is attracting wide-spread attention. There is a vast amount of music connected with the sea, dating back as far as the Song of Miriam, which tradition says was sung to the Children of Israel, on the bank of the Red Sea. Yet somehow no one till now had thought of devoting a whole series of concerts to this subject, and it is a tribute to the growing importance of Vancouver as a world port that the Canadian Pacific Railway, which is organizing this Festival, should have chosen to locate it here.

It is less than two years ago since the Canadian Pacific experimented with its first Music Festival, which was held at Quebec and dealt with the folksong preserved by the French-Canadians who are forefathers brought these old songs with them to this country three hundred years ago. That experiment met with such favor that it was repeated on a still more ambitious scale last Spring, when Toronto, with its many visitors to Quebec from other parts of Canada and from the United States, the Governor-General showing his interest by going down to attend the celebrations in special train. They have had the effect of creating a better understanding of the French-Canadian people, and the lovely old melodies which had hitherto been known mostly in the backwoods of Quebec, are now being sung all over Canada. The leading musicians of the country are realizing that in these melodies Canada has a priceless heritage.

Following on the Quebec experiment, a Scottish Musical Festival was staged at Banff, in connection with the Highland Gatherings. This made such an appeal to the national pride of the Scots that the idea was repeated at the second Festival last September.

At Winnipeg, the Canadian Pacific selected another phase of popular music available in this country, namely, the folksongs of the settlers of Continental European extraction, who are now generally classified as New Canadians. Fifteen racial groups participated, and the demonstrations of folksong and folk dancing was a revelation to the Anglo-Canadians. One practical result of this Festival is the projected Folk Song Museum, for which the City of Winnipeg has declared its readiness to provide a home.

On which the various racial groups have offered to build typical peasant cottages in which their handicrafts may be permanently exhibited. Such a Museum would undoubtedly provide Winnipeg with one of the most attractive which at present is admittedly lacking, and would also be the source of enormous interest and profit to every thoughtful citizen of Canada.

What will result from the forthcoming Festival at Vancouver remains to be seen, but there is every evidence that it will be well worth attending. A galaxy of concert stars will be supported by a number of local choirs and by the Scottish Symphony Orchestra. John Goss, Joanne Dusseau, Paul Ehl, and the Hart House Quartet, are included in few of the names that should attract the crowds. Most interesting of all, perhaps, will be the Sea Chanties which Fl. Wallace, once a captain on a Bluenose boat and author of "Wooden Ships and Iron Men" will stage. Captain Wallace has collected chanties from sailors on Canadian, sailing ships, and can thus give a truly Canadian flavour to those fine old Sea Songs. The Festival, which will last four days, will be held under the same direction as the Yuletide Festival which has been held around the Empress Hotel at Victoria a month earlier.

INCOME TAX NOT TO GO JUST YET

Hon. J. A. Robb Says Its Removal is Far in the Future

NO TAX-FREE BONDS

Government Will Issue No Exemptions When Present Ones Expire

VANCOUVER, Nov. 29.—Day dreams of money on the income tax in Canada—the subject of recent political speculations emanating from eastern Canada —were rudely shattered by a few terse sentences in the speech of the Hon. J. A. Robb, Minister of Finance, to the Vancouver Canadian club yesterday.

"To speak of the income tax for a moment," he said, "there is no situation there which I wish to dwell upon. Some person in the east has had the idea that this tax will be removed. I ask those gentlemen who hold tax-exempt bonds which mature in 1933—and I want to say to those gentlemen that the Government will not issue any more tax-exempt bonds—who is going to pay the interest on the bonds which are floated to refund these security es?"

Will Stay

"The income tax will be lighter as conditions permit, but the income tax is going to remain in Canada for a long time. They have had it in England for a long time. There are men in this hall who are younger than I, and I believe they will live to pay income tax for a long time."

The minister asked his audience to compare the tax of Canada with those of other countries of the world. When Canada's taxes are observed with those of some of the states in the country to the south, people in this country had little reason to grumble, asserted the minister.

During the course of his address, the Hon. Mr. Robb dealt with the subject of trade in the Pacific. He repeated some of the statements he made in Victoria regarding the financial position of Canada and the accomplishments of his admin stration in the retirement of debt by current revenue.

After expressing surprise at the growth and prosperity he had seen in British Columbia, the Hon. Mr. Robb went on to say that he would return to his work in Ottawa with a better knowledge of the a ms and ambitions of this province.

Parallel With U. S.

Speaking of the division of Canada on public questions, the Hon Mr. Robb drew a parallel with the United States. However, he continued, United States part es seemed to be unanimous on one subject during the recent election—the deplorable cond tion of agriculture. Now the election is over; I doubt if you will find them singing the same song. We in Canada m ght well unite on a policy of saying all the good things we can about our country. The days of calling ship communication are gone, and we must remember that what we say today will be read by the world tomorrow.

"Canada need have no forebodings about her future. It is true that we have a big debt. But we must remember that Canada was in the war from the drop of the hat. We have asked no favors from anybody. There were difficult times for my predecessors during the war and during the period immediately following it, but in 1924 we turned the corner," remarked the Hon. Mr. Robb, amid applause.

Reducing Debt

The speaker said that during the five year period ending March 31 this year, Canada had reduced her debt by $126,000,000, or at the rate of more than $85,000 per day. That was not a bad record for 10,000,000 people, he declared.

In October of this year, he continued $53,000,000 indebtedness had been retired from current revenue. Next year he hoped to retire $60,000,000 by the same method.

"We want to make further tax reductions, but I am not going to say anything more about that just now," said the speaker.

The demand for money for roads and other expenditures continued the Minister, has led to some duplication in taxation between provinces and the Dominion. This is particularly true in British Columbia, where an income tax is in force. Reduction of taxat on in order to clear these fields is desirable, but the income tax is here to stay for a long time, the minister said.

Most respectfully solicits your VOTE and influence for re-election to the office of Alderman

FOR 1929

To the Electors of Belleville:

I respectfully solicit your support as a candidate for Aldermanic honors in the Election of Monday, Dec. 3rd.

Belleville has now been my home for more than seven years. As president and general manager of Belleville Electric & Stamping Ltd., I have been endeavoring to build up here a manufacturing industry that would, in turn, give employment to a considerable number of our people and assist in the development of the city.

Our success has surpassed our expectations for we have shown a satisfactory profit from year to year and 1928 will be the best in our history. We look to the future with confidence and optimism in the years to come. We have established at Belleville without selling any bond stock subscriptions or asking for financial assistance of any kind. Our factory now occupies the whole of the ground floor in what was formerly the Bank of Nova Scotia Block.

I feel that I can serve the interests of Belleville citizens in other useful ways if I am permitted to enter the municipal council and become an active participant in its deliberations. I therefore solicit your support and influence at the polls next Monday.

Faithfully yours

VIVID STORY OF UKRAINIA TOLD

Mrs. Florence Livesay, Traveller and Poet, A Fine Speaker

Ukrainia, its customs and poetic history of its people were vividly portrayed in an illuminating address delivered to the Women's Canadian Club in the lecture room of the Armouries last evening by Mrs. Florence Randal Livesay, who has herself written many charming poems on this picturesque people. Mrs. Livesay, whose book of poems, published in 1916, was the first English translation of Ukrainian folk songs, gathered her material from her acquaintanceship with a native girl who had made her home in the Canadian west. In this volume Mrs. Livesay has contributed, not only to Canada, but to the world some thing "new and different" in poetry. For them, Ukraine and its folk-lore Really a part of Russia, the Ukraine is situated in the Caucasus, but its people retain a passionate love of their own small country. Its tragic history is reflected in much of its music and poetry. Taras Shevchenko, a poet of the early nineteenth century, is much beloved by his people and in his book of poems "Kobzar" gives a keen insight into the lives of his country men. Mrs. Livesay read many translations of his works which were originally written in the Ukrainian dialect for Shevchenko could never attain that passionate fervor in the Russian language that he could in the per haps less elegant dialect of his own people. One poem was a charming description of a forest, another was typical of the wild free Cossack, the military of the country, a dramatic story tersely and vividly told. The women of the Ukraine, the speaker said, were very beautiful and the men dashingly handsome. "Dark-browed" was an expression used by them as typical of feminine beauty and "a man of a golden-haired, brown-eyed type.

National and Folk Songs

Mrs. Livesay then read some of her own charming verses dealing with the customs of these people as she knew them in our own West. Mrs. MacColl then played some of the folk songs which proved an added attraction. This was the first place said Mrs. Livesay, where such music had been available. Their dancing and singing is especially interesting and reflects their national life. Some of their quaint old customs still prevail. The speaker told of the "marriage brokers" who are instrumental in arranging betrothals. Many of their customs have their origin in the dim past. The "marriage wreath" is a survival of the wedding bonnet of the Chinese while the bloomers and other parts of the uniform of the Cossack is of Turkish origin. Their music and poetry, much of which is sad and mournful, is a reflection of the long past of their country, though the people themselves are naturally happy and cheery. Much is heard of their "grass-hills" and many touching legends are associated with them.

Saviour of Sal

In concluding Mrs. Livesay read extracts from her book "Saviour of Salt" which deals with Irish life in a small settlement in Ontario. The story was derived from the lines of a verse by an Irish poet "Tell your salt has lost its savor, and your virgin soil its crop", "Auntie McCool," one of the whimsical characters of the story, seems to be a vivid and clearly drawn personality.

A vote of thanks moved to the speaker after her delightful address was conveyed to the speaker by Mrs. W. N. Poston who presided over the meeting.

Canadian National Engineers Design Oil-Electric Locomotive

Radical economy in operating costs forms the prime objective of the Canadian National Railways newest design in locomotives, representing a revolutionary departure from present standards and practice, which has just been placed in service on the main line between Brockville and Belleville. This new locomotive represents a tremendous advance in the use of the oil-electric type of locomotive and forms a distinctive offering on the part of Canadian engineers towards the solution of the transportation problems of this continent. As the National System was the pioneer three years ago in placing into service the first oil-electric car of 200 horse power rating, its engineers have maintained leadership by the introduction of this locomotive, new in character and design, for fast passenger and freight service.

The new locomotive is the further practical application of the use of fuel oil in railway transportation in which an oil engine is used to drive a generator for supplying electrical energy to the propulsion motors. Power and speed are obtained at costs far below those of coal-fired steam-driven locomotives.

The power developed by the oil engine is converted into electrical energy by the generator, transmitted to the traction motors geared to the driving axles, where it is utilized in developing tractive effort and speed. With the present gear ratio, which was laid out for high speed passenger service, the locomotive will develop a tractive effort of 100,000 pounds during the accelerating periods. The electrical system of transmission utilizes full engine horse-power over a wide range of speed and tractive effort without a change of engine speed or shifting of gears.

The Canadian Pacific has decided on a new ferry service between Steveston, on the mainland, and Sysney, on Vancouver Island, according to Captain C. D. Newcombe, manager of the B. C. Coast Steamship Service. The new service will begin early next summer, being inspired by the increased demand for short water hauls.

Tourists to Victoria, the capital of British Columbia, this year numbered 210,000, according to the Victoria Publicity Bureau. Tourist travel from Canadian points and from the west coast of the United States to Vancouver Island and Victoria, via the C. P. R. and the coastal steamship service, show an increase over last year.

New York newspaper cameramen want cow-boys to do their stuff on the parapets of sky scrapers and are not content with ordinary portraits, was the comment after observation of Guy Weadick, manager of the Calgary Stampede, who returned to Canada recently from negotiating for a Stampede to be held in Madison Square Garden, New York. "They wanted real action for photographs," he said, "and even had to lasso policemen from the top of buses on Fifth Avenue to please them."

Grain storage facilities of the harbor of Vancouver, B.C., have now exceed 10,000,000 bushels, will be largely increased in addition, and is believed, in view of the fact that storage bins are already nearly filled and the westward flow of grain may have to be reduced in consequence. It is being reported currently that the Alberta Wheat Pool, the Manitoba Wheat Pool, grain and other grounds will add storage capacity of 20,000,000 bushels.

Over 175,000 trees have been planted along the main highways of the province of Ontario during the past two years by the Roads Department, in following out its established scheme, which includes co-operation from residents along the roads. "Now the beginning of the season," states an official bulletin, "the Minister of Roads has been insisting on the importance of beautifying roadsides. The matter can now travel throughout the province as matters and perfectly maintained roads."

"Canary Korndyke Alcartra," Holstein-Friesian cow belonging to Mr. Peter Pirie, Pine Grove Farm, of Boharm, Saskatchewan, has been declared the champion three-year-old heifer producer, according to an advice received by the owner from the live stock commissioner at Ottawa, stating that she now has won the world championship with an enormous margin in any space. The record of Canary Korndyke Alcartra for 305 days was 1,089 pounds of butterfat, or 106 pounds more than any previous record holder. In the 305-day period the cow produced 24,236 pounds of milk with an average test of 4.49 per cent.

There is no doubt in the mind of L. S. Jarese, of New York, as the New York Central Railway is to whether moose will attack human beings. Although the subject is a controversial one among big game hunters, decisive testimony has been adduced recently in the experience of Mr. James in the Mexagama district, 175 miles from Belleville and Chapleau in Northern Ontario. He was guiding in the canoe along the shore of the Spanish River and came upon a bull moose unawares. The animal at once gave chase and only by dint of hard paddling by Pete Commanda, the Indian guide, were they able to escape. Another canoe in near was similarly pursued.

REGENT THEATRE

2 Feature Pictures.

"The Trail of Courage" which will open today at the Regent theatre is another western thriller made famous by Bob Steele, FBO's 21-year old star. Not only is it filled with tense dramatic action, but contains little touches of comedy throughout, making the picture one of the most enjoyable and interesting of westerns.

"The Fa'rmer's Daughter", now showing at the Regent Theatre. This is a hilarious rural comedy concerned in which Marjorie Beebe makes her debut as a featured player. Arthur Stone, Sam De Grasse, Lincoln Stedman and Warren Burke help make this picture an outstanding success.

BELLE THEATRE

While lies have caused lots of grief in actual life but they cause lots of joy in Universal's new Reginald Denny Comedy, "That's My Daddy" which is now being screened at the Belle Theatre.

This very gay comedy of situations starts with a while lie told by a little five-year old girl, Danny Hill naturalizer lie to save her from a spanking and has to plunge himself into an interminable maze of prevarication to cover up his original innocent fib.

This rapidly moving comedy situations highly amusing to the audience but which wouldn't be so funny if it came to be in the home itself.

However, one of the secrets of comedy is to have the hero bring about the situations in which he finds himself through his own misguided actions.

Anyway, said Danny after seeing a preview of the rollicking farce, "I'll never tell one lie in my private life after this horrible example. Yet I think that "That's My Daddy" is the best farce I have made. I enjoyed making it more than any recent production."

"That's My Daddy" was directed by Fred Newmeyer with a supporting cast including Barbara Kent, Lillian Rich, Tom O'Brien—Jane Le Verne, Mathilde Brundage, Wilson Bibngh, Arnold Kalli, Charles Clarke and Art Currier. Denny wrote the story himself.

DEMOCRATS EXPECTED TO BREAK UP AND FADE OUT FROM PICTURE

Republicans Dislike Prospects of Collapse of Regular Opposition

SPLIT OWN RANKS

Hoover May Rush Through Program to Forestall Insurgents

Washington, November 28—The National Democratic party finds itself today in much the same situation as that which beset the national Whig party after the presidential election of 1852. The Whigs in that election made a respectable showing on the popular vote, but received the electoral vote of only four of the thirty odd states then composing the American Union. The party had no policy which seemed likely to attract popular support. It was divided on the slavery question; it had been overwhelmingly defeated at the polls; it had no particular reason for living and, almost immediately after the election, it ceased to exist. The Democratic party then in control of the Government, profound itself without a party, in opposition. Before long, however, the Democratic party was born. The Democratic party thereafter so rapidly disintegrated that within seven years after the death of the Whig party it encountered an overwhelming defeat.

Party Is Dead

It is therefore likely that the Democratic party of today can do no great or harm to the Republican party either by ceasing to exist. It has already practically ceased to exist as a national organization. For state and municipal purposes it will be convenient for groups of electors in various parts of the country to call themselves Democrats. The word "Republican" being offensive to many southern ears, it is likely that the Hoover supporters in the south will adopt some hyphenated name containing the word "Democratic" But the two-party system in the United States has abnormally terminated. The Democrats are aware of this, and so are the Republicans. Indeed, Republican leaders like Speaker Longworth are plaintively pleading with the Democrats to keep their shop afloat, "for Republican party is a many-sided organization. International bankers get financiers, and captains of industry keep in step with Smith Wildman Brookhart, and even wilder Socialists on election day. On one November day in every fourth year the most incongruous elements unite in solemn against the Democratic party. If the Democratic party faded out of the picture, the unwieldy Republican party would rapidly disintegrate.

Party Left Impotent

No political party disbands merely because it suffers a smashing defeat. The Republican party in 1913 made a much worse showing in the election returns than did the Democratic party in 1928. In 1912, Mr. Taft, the Republican candidate for President, ran third on the poll, carried only two states, Utah and Vermont, and received only eight electoral votes. But Mr. Taft and the Republicans were aware that the Roosevelt revolt was only a flash in the pan and that Colonel Roosevelt and his supporters would soon return to the fold. The Republicans had some definite views on public questions, notably the tariff, which they believed would surely prevail at some future election. But the Democratic party of today has no basis at present no cause for which it is contending. More than one political party in more than one country, in a similar plight, has been held together by loyalty to its leader, by a sense of comradeship among its members, by a hope, however faint of soon again returning to power. The Democratic party has no almost ineffable. Its leader has been massacred, an democrats were as active with in democrats, with their unceasing gentle of born blundering, have driven the Democratic party into more

BIG BROTHERS MOVEMENT HERE

Has Been Success in Australia, Extended to Canada?

London, Eng. (By C. P.)—The Big Brother Movement, which has achieved remarkable success in connection with the movement of boys to Australia, will be extended to Canada if the hopes of its officers are realized. Captain Thornton, M.C, travelling representative of the movement, in returning from Australia to England will pass through Canada in November and visit various Canadian cities to explain the movement to the Canadian people.

At present boys are only sent to Australia under the scheme but the London Committee, with headquarters at Australia House, point out that there is an abundant supply of boys of the right type coming forward. 400,000 boys leaving school annually in England. The Prince of Wales is patron of the movement.

Richard Linton, an Australian, founded the movement. Travelling about England in the interests of stimulating the movement of British youths to Australia, he realized that a big deterrent was the natural attitude of parents who wished some assurance that the moral and physical welfare of their boys would be looked after by some reputable and disinterested person. On returning to Australia he got together a band of citizens, and who undertook to act as guide, philosopher and friend to one English boy migrant.

These men were termed Big Brothers. And so it followed that boys leaving England were termed Little Brothers. During the three years that have elapsed 1,500 boys have gone out to Australia as Little Brothers and there is no lack of Big Brothers on the other side.

The Little Brother is selected if he is a clean living, well mannered British boy who is determined to work hard on the land. He must have reached the sixth standard of elementary education. He has to pass the medical tests of the Migration Authorities.

He undertakes:

1 To follow the advice of his Big Brother in all must be remembered the latter is not his employer.)

2 Not to leave his employer without the Big Brother's written permission.

3 To consult his Big Brother in any trouble.

4 Not to drink spirits or gamble until he is 21.

5 To open an account at a savings bank, and to save at least half his earnings.

6 To write to his parents and his Big Brothers at least once a month.

On arrival the Little Brother is met by his Big Brother and he, in due course despatches him to an approved farmer who agrees to pay him $3 a week and his keep (exclusive of clothes.)

SOAPSTONE IN CANADA

Soapstone was produced in Canada for the first time in 1922 the material being taken out in block form and consigned to kraft paper mills for furnace linings; this stone came from a deposit at Robertson, Quebec. Other deposits have since been opened up in the same district; and important developments are also reported from Vermillion Bay, Lake of the Woods region, Ontario.

ALBERTA PLACE-NAMES

Alberta mountain names really date from the time of the Palliser Expedition, 1848, to which we owe many names given in honour of such eminent British scientists and naturalists as Lyell, Gould, and Forbes.

Can You Find Errors That Proof-Readers Passed Up?

(From the "While-Standard)

Proof-reading is not the easy work that many people imagine it to be. Lately we noticed that a subscriber had sent an Ottawa newspaper the following quotation from a London paper in which he claimed there were no less than twenty-five mistakes.

"And now, Ladies and Gentlemen, I come to my penultimate point—and with this I must finally close. My opponent has had recourse to language which I prefer paraphrasing than quoting facetimie. He declares that I have accomodated my views with those of the Committee." Fortunately, I am insured against slander. But, at the same time, I cannot help but remind him of the Committee possessing the unalienable right to refuse adoption to any candidate it may think proper. Now, Ladies and Gentlemen, I refuse to indulge in mutual recriminations. Rather let my opponent wag the clerm hoof alone. Rather let both he and his party remain in their retrogressive stagnation—a stagnation which has been substituted by us with a policy which is the opposite etheric, a policy of less words and more deeds. And so I ask every elector to lay and find out the truth for themselves before entering the ballot-box. If this be done without passion and without prejudice, then I venture to prophecy that the result of this election will exceed our most sanguinary expectations.

It may interest some of our readers to try if they can discover the twenty-five errors. It may teach them to appreciate how few errors there are in the newspapers considering the rush in which much of the work has to be done frequently.

EXPECT LISTING FIRSTROOK BOX

Application Made to Toronto Stock Exchange and Sanction Required

Listing of the shares of the Firstrook Boxes Limited, issued through Gairdner & Company in July last, is expected in the course of the next week or two. Application has been made and the sanction of the Listing Committee of the Toronto Stock Exchange is now only required before these shares appear in the unlisted section.

Firstbrook Boxes Limited, are report ed to be doing a large volume of business in all branches. It is understood, recent monthly volume has surpassed the best figures shown since 1918 and a very favorable posit on also exists regarding orders in hand and the prospects for future business.

The new factory being erected at Mount Dennis is in an advanced stage of construction and as it will on completion house all the manufacturing processes now being undertaken in separate plants greater efficiency of operation and quicker despatch of finished goods called for a total floor area of some 130,000 square feet but were later changed to enompass a greater area and on completion will comprise 160,000 square feet of floor space.

The plant will consist of a sub basement and first and second floors. Large elevators are to be installed at either end to take care of incoming supplies and outgoing finished products. Each of these floors will be entirely given over to one separate branch of the business so that there will be straight line flow production in each section. Local on the carton department will be on the second floor, the west en box section on the first or main floor and the corrugated paper division in the sub Sasement.

The siding to the plant which connect with both the Canad an Pacific and the Canadian National systems is already in operation and loading and unloading platforms are arranged at the level of the main floor Present indications are that the plant will be ready for occupation on January next and management plans call for the minimum disturbance in production through the change over from the old pliblis to the new factory. Is is estimated that the wooden box divis on will be completely transferred in one week and the carton and corrugated section in another.

FEEDINGS FOR DAIRY CATTLE

The individual qualifications of the herd are important points to consider when feeding concentrates to dairy cows. The feeding of expensive concentrates to a mediocre producer is a best a risky investment; on the other hand, certain cows in the herd, often without the owner being aware of it, would make profitable use of a daily allowance of concentrates, especially when these can be largely grown on the farm. High production cannot be obtained without the use of concentrable concentrates, but profit is not, incompatible with such an expense and it is a mistake to let the cost high records are always achieved with a loss of money.

By consulting the report of the Experimental Station of Sta. Anne de la Pocatiere for the year 1922, it is seen that the heavy milkers caused more expenses, but ultimately yielded more profit. For the benef t of the reader the following table has been compiled from the above-mentioned report:

LOT 1: No. of cows 7. Average milk production lb. 12542; Income per cow $221.82; Feed cost per cow $102.27; Profit over feed-per cow $121.56.

LOT 2: No. of cows 8; Average milk production 8754 lbs.; Income per cow $147.72; Feed cost per cow $70.70; Profit over feed per cow $77.08.

LOT 3: No. of cows 6; Average milk production 6404 lbs.; Income per cow $113.05; Feed cost per cow $40.75; Profit over feed per cow $4.30.

The column "Feed cost per cow represents the value of the feed used Exiter was valued at 30c. per pound and the skim milk at 20c per hundredweight. The value of the calf was not included in the income.

A glance at the above table will show that the profit over feed of the first lot was more than double the profit from the last one; in other words, it is more profitable to feed one good cow than two of average quality., and the use of concentrates is more profitable in the f rst instance than in the second. The "feed cost per cow" column reveals that the feed cost increases with the production. There is nothing surprising in this for can we expect that the cow will manufacture milk from nothing? After-all, it matters little that the feed cost was greater if the cow returned more profit.

In any case, the nineteen cows whose average production is recorded here were fed according to their individual qualifications, and each one yielded a profit. It is easily surm ed that the feeding practices of the first lot applied to the second and vice versa might have caused a deficit instead of a profit. Therefore, the breeder must first know the qualifications of his cows and then feed them accordingly.

GASOLENE FOR SHALE

Pressure-cracking tests on Canadian crude shale oil and on bitumen from bituminous sands show that these raw materials are important reserve sources of motor fuel. Gasolene yields of 18 to 20 Imperial gallons per ton of shale reported and about 40 per cent by volume of the dehydrated bitumen are reported. Other products from these oil and bitumen raw materials are appreciable quantities of good value coke and uncondensed gas of high calorific value. The quality of the gasoline from the shale oil may be considered good, and that from the bitumen exceptionally good.

ALBERTA PLACE-NAMES

Of the Indian tribes living on reserves in Alberta today, Cree and Blackfoot bays contributed largely to the place-names in the province. A few Beaver Indian names are met with. Stoney Indian names are on record, but few, if any, are in use. Iroquois, Sioux and Chipewyan names are unrepresented in the province though Chipewyan names occur farther north.

Opera in your own Home —and besides—the songs of famous concert singers—the best from the vaudeville artists—entertainment from everywhere—any time!

A mighty paean swelling from a hundred throats . . . a velvet tapestry of tone that fairly lifts you out of your chair . . . now soothing, now stirring, as the melody changes from pianissimo to fortissimo in a kaleidoscope of color. Your are listening to an operatic chorus, in your own home!

So flawless is the music of the new Orthophonic Victrola—you can pick out the tenors, baritones, sopranos and contraltos as distinctly as a weaver can separate the strands of a Gobelin tapestry. Each voice is there, and yet it is the design you feel, and not the single threads. Whatever you like most in music, this great instrument will bring to you, in all its glory. Go into any His Master's Voice store and compare this new music with your conception of the old talking machine.

The new Orthophonic Victrola—a patented Victor product—is made in a range of beautiful models, designed in fine walnut or mahogany. Electrically driven, if you wish, at slight additional cost. Prices from $1400 down to as low as $115. On convenient payments from His Master's Voice dealers.

TODAY'S THOUGHT

The opportunity to do mischief is found a hundred times a day, and that of doing good once a year.

VOLTAIRE.

CENTRE OF UNIVERSE SAID TO BE FOUND

Dr. Harlow Shapley has discovered the centre of the Universe, he announces as a practical certainty. Apart from the fact that there is nothing certain, except uncertainty, we need not worry about the centre of the universe having been discovered. All that seems to have been demonstrated by Dr. Shapley in his calculation that some of the outer universes which he has observed are 100,000,000 light years distant. These unimaginable figures do not convey anything to the ordinary mind, and very little more than figures to the extraordinary mind.

But while there is still some conflict over the position of the centre solar universe it is clear that the absolute centre of the whole manifested creation must be a still less determined certainty. Each man in his own consciousness feels himself in his puny way the centre of things, and the time is far distant when he can identify himself with that which commands all Being. The old Hermetic conception is not unhelpful—the Centre that is everywhere, and the circumference nowhere.

CODE OF THE SEA UNIVERSAL LAW

Much has been written since the sinking of the Vestris regarding the code of the sea, that code which compels any vessel to change its course to go to the assistance of another in distress, and which also provides that, in case of a ship having to be abandoned, women and children must be rescued first. As a delight on the significance of the first part of this code, as given above, it is interesting to note what it cost the owners of these vessels which helped in the rescue of the survivors of the Vestris.

In the matter of human life, of course, cost is not considered, yet the financial cost of the changing of their course to the rescue ship owners is considerable and will reach to about $40,000. This expense is mainly for extra fuel burned, food consumed by rescued passengers, equipment lost and damaged and the cost of radio messages.

Many people wonder who pays this cost, and the significance of the attention which is paid to the code of the sea time is to paid entirely by the owners of the rescue ships. It has become traditional that these costs are a debt of the sea, and each time here in this liberal country, of course, the circumstances to one of its own ships other vessels would rush to the scene, regardless of cost. This is a high tradition, one which has come down through centuries of sea-going, and one which points to the moral that where human life is in danger on the high seas, nothing short of death itself will prevent other seamen going to the rescue of those in peril.

ARE OUR OWN COURTS ABOVE ALL REPROACH

The four trials of Bartley J. Brooks, Toronto youth, alleged to have been implicated with Dr. O. J. C. Withrow in an illegal operation that caused a girl's death, are reported to have cost the young man's father $40,000. The cost to the crown, it is estimated, was approximately as much.

In May of last year Brooks and Withrow were convicted. The former was sentenced to five years in prison and the latter to a term of seven years. Dr. Withrow had not the wherewithal to appeal the court's decision, but Brooks, the scion of an affluent household, did not suffer the handicap of lack of funds. He appealed to the supreme court of Ontario and his appeal was not allowed.

The case next made its appearance in the supreme court of Canada and here Brooks had better luck, the finding of the Ontario court being reversed and a new trial ordered. Tried a second time, Brooks' fate was left in the air when the jury disagreed. A third time he answered to the charge and again the jury disagreed. A few days ago, the fourth trial concluded with the acquittal of the defendant and the precious freedom he fought for is again his.

It is possible that had Dr. Withrow had the resources at his command that Brooks enjoyed, that he also might have successfully appealed. There is an indictment in this long-drawn-out case of our court system. The flaw is not difficult to find. We pride ourselves that justice is meted out without fear or without favor, but hasn't it been demonstrated that money talks no less convincingly in our court system than it does across the border line?

Dr. Withrow was given a fair trial and he took his bitter dose without a murmur. He violated a law of the land and the ethics of an honorable profession, but all the testimony indicated that he was more concerned about the plight of a girl in disgrace than in monetary reward and, Brooks having been acquitted, it is not surprising to read that a mass meeting has been called in Toronto to enlist the public in an appeal to the minister of justice to secure the physician's release.

The most tragic feature of the case—that the girl is beyond all human aid—is the one, we thing, that is being given the least consideration.

OTHER MEN'S THOUGHTS

The notoriety attaching to some men who have evaded the police and who have become rich through crime especially that of banditry, exerts a considerable influence on others who have not the faculty of unalloying the end from the beginning.

So many think that because one succeeds by a bold stroke others can, but the apparent success of one seldom lasts, for it involves a continual dodging here and there and life for such becomes more of a nightmare than anything else.—Guelph Mercury.

It would appear that the Vestris was lost for the want of a little rubber to make water tight the ports and doors, if the testimony of a witness is to be accepted who testified that he had noticed the officials of the line of what was needed. For want of a nail the shoe was lost. For want of a shoe the rider was lost. For want of a rider an army was lost. For want of an army a nation was lost. For the sake of a dollar's worth of rubber four million dollars' of ship and cargo go down and 111 lives.

Miss Hurley is the guest of her cousins, the Misses Hurley Hunter St. Peterborough.

Mrs. Eli Woodcock of Woodstock has returned home after spending a few days in Belleville.

Miss Mable Root left the city yesterday for Toronto where she will in the future reside.

Mr. J. J. Kelso, Superintendent of Neglected and Dependent Children, is to give an address in the Y.M.C.A. tonight.

The vital statistics for the month of November are 9 births, 12 deaths and 13 marriages.

HAVE YOU HEARD THESE?

Nervous Suitor: I say, I believe your brother saw me kiss you. What shall I give him, to make him keep silent?

Girl: His usual price of fifty cents.

Spiritualist: Mrs. Smith your dead husband commands you to go home.

Mrs. Smith: Commands? That is not my husband.

Officer (examining recruit): ' Have you scars on you?

Recruit: No, but I can give you a cigarette.

Lisa, the Negro cook, answered the telephone one morning, and a cheerful voice inquired, "What number is this?"

Lisa was in no mood for trifling questions, and said with some asperity: "You all ought to know. You done called it."

Letters to the Editor

Belleville, Ont., Nov. 27, 1928

The Editor,
The Daily Intelligencer,
Belleville, Ont.
Dear Mr. Editor:—

I would like to make a few remarks in regard to the Red Cross Campaign this week.

In the first place, the great service the Red Cross is rendering this Province is supported entirely by voluntary subscriptions. The other cities and towns throughout Ontario are endorsing this splendid work, which has for its object the alleviation of suffering throughout this Province, by contributing their share.

This is the first time Belleville has been asked for their share since the War. And yet we are more intimately concerned in this work than many other cities, as our County of Hastings is benefitting by the Red Cross operation at two "Outpost" Hospitals at Bancroft and Coe Hill.

Going further north, you see a chain of these little, hospitals, twenty-five in number, bringing 25 pioneer settlers in Ontario, settled at first Canadians, Ontario, medical assistance, which they would otherwise be without.

Again if you should sometime visit the disabled soldiers in the hospitals in Ontario, you will find Red Cross friends, who are voluntarily visiting these men daily, and trying in every way to make them feel that, although they are spending the best years of their lives in hospital, the people of Ontario have not forgotten them, and are not lacking in appreciation for what they have done.

These are only two of many other things the Red Cross is doing in their great Peacetime endeavour.

Letters have been mailed to all houses, and business firms in Belleville. Teams of workers from many organizations in the city have volunteered to collect the envelopes, enclosed in these letters for subscriptions. The collection will be made during this week.

It appears to me that this is an appeal Belleville should liberally support, as the work 's of the very finest calibre Even one dollar, which constitutes a

About People

Already, Herbert Hoover has had a taste of the loss of personal freedom that goes with election to the presidency of the American nation.

On the day after election he found his Palo Alto home guarded by several unobtrusive capable-looking men in civilian clothes. These men will watch over him until he finishes his time in the White House. They are secret service operatives, charged with the safety of the president and in recent years it has been deemed that the presidentelect also must have their protection.

A number of presidents, notably Roosevelt and Harding, grew tired of this eternal vigilance, and delighted to outwit their guards. But the surveillance is necessary, for all that. Mr. Hoover cannot escape it. It is one of the prices he must pay for his elevation.

Sam Donaldson, a former mounted policeman, was the Conservative candidate, in a Prince Albert election, several years ago, and recalls him from Press Press. When the election results came in, Donaldson was soundly beaten. How ever he found that in the few northern polls, where through h's acquaintance with the trappers and isolated settlers he expected a majority, he secured scarcely any votes at all.

An inquiry was held and it was discovered that in some subdivisions the officials never even reached the polling places. They played poker in a tepee in the woods and cast their own ballots. They ran out of names and included many, such as Jack Spratt, Bill Pine Tree, Tom Fir, etc.

The protest of Mr. Donaldson was upheld and in the forthcoming by-election he was given an acclamation.

THE TURN

Our dread is lifted — she is saved again,
Saved to arise set our world aright,
Saved to breathe freely and be freed of pain,
O Life is good ! O Life is sheer delight !

Now in my bed I need not anxious listen
For mercenute ominous within her room;
Now I can lie and watch the white moon glisten
Upon my window in the ghostly gloom.

Now life, a sane come from a prison cell
I use again the little common ways,
The dear neglected things I knew so well,
Ere Death came shadowing these restless days.

The long calm hours, the books beside her chair,
The simple customs have again begun—
Oh, lily are hers and mine once more to share,
The music and the laughter and the sun !

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

WHY REMOVE TONSILS?

If you are a parent you must often wonder why the tonsils were ever put in children if they have to be removed.

Sometimes you have seen an improvement in the health of a youngster after the removal of tonsils, and in other cases you have, to admit that the youngster was getting along pretty well from a health standpoint until his tonsils were removed.

Now what about tonsils anyway?

Well they wouldn't be in the body for any use not meant for some useful purpose. That useful purpose is the filtering of poisons out of the blood.

What about these poisons, when as a matter of fact some individuals haven't any tonsils.

They are simply filtered out or removed by other glands, that's all.

Dr. F. Pearce Strum says that an enlargement of the tonsils may be an attempt to make a simple organ like the tonsils perform the work of other glands which really should be doing the work, but which are not doing it properly.

The enlargement of the tonsils occurs when the youngster is being exposed to all sorts of childhood infections.

When this period passes the tonsils get small again and tend to disappear.

When the tonsils increase in size it means that the little germ centres increase in number.

These centres have the power to destroy harmful organisms.

It is to these centres then that the white corpuscles of the blood come with the harmful organisms, and have them destroyed.

You can readily see then that to remove normal tonsils, or even large tonsils, may be taking away from the youngster some of his ability to destroy harmful organisms.

If tonsils then are protectors, why should they be removed?

They should never be removed because they are large, unless they obstruct the breathing, but should be removed only when their power or ability to destroy harmful organisms has been lost.

Your family doctor can tell you when their tonsils cease, because the tonsils will show it.

WOMEN FAIL TO OBSERVE RULES

A few minutes spent at the corner of Bridge and Front Streets will convince the bystander that the public of Belleville seem to require some education about these rules of traffic for pedestrians as well as motorists. Motorists are fined if they drive against the red light but pedestrians will cross with the signal against them with the most nonchalant attitude in the world, as though to say "Providence will take care of me". And women are the most flagrant offenders in this line. Even women with baby carriages will bump them over the curb and into the stream of traffic without a glance at the signal. The light is meant primarily for motorists we suppose, but it is also to safeguard the pedestrian. "The poor pedestrian" is the universal cry but it is really a matter for wonder that there are not few er pedestrians considering the chances some of them take.

Pedestrians should cross the road with the green light. This is usually done in larger cities, but no one seems to bother about it here. It is wise of course always to watch for some motorist who may be taking a right hand turn against the red-light. If these precautions are observed it may save a few gray hairs for the driver as well as for the walker.

HOW WOMEN ARE TO ACHIEVE SUCCESS

Health, married happiness and one's attitude toward her work seem to be three paramount problems before successful business women, judging from opinions of outstanding women in the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's clubs.

From Reno, Nev., naturally came tips for more consideration in marriage, that divorces may be fewer. Miss Pelice Cohn, attorney, only woman U.S. referee in bankruptcy, spoke about marriage from a close-up of hundreds of divorce cases she has handled in Reno.

"It is only a step," she asserted, "from the disillusionment and discords of the divorce court to the happy, successful marriage.

"Discord, with its eventual divorce, is predicated on lack of consideration, understanding, selfishness and a growing demand for pleasure money. There seems a woeful lack of desire to save for any permanent thing, such as home.

"Women who work seem to understand that compatibility, unselfishness and humor are three first principles of happy marriages."

"With these basic qualities, love will be the welding force to hold a couple together. I think children are needed too, for the really happy marriage."

Dr. Bertha M. Maxwell, from Williamsport, Pa., thinks health should be the first consideration of all working women. Other problems must be solved in turn. But, given health, everything else is easier.

MUCH DEPENDS ON CORRECT CARRIAGE

Are you forgetting what a difference it makes in your appearance, your comfort and even your age, to hold yourself up straight. It is a good habit. It protects you from deformity, flick or well, keep your shoulders back, keep your back erect and hold up your head. When you awake in the morning you might pull out your pillow and lie perfectly straight and flat on your back in bed for ten or fifteen minutes until it is time to get up.

If you are ill and have to remain in bed for a while be sure that you keep a good position. The effects of a bad position are insidious. Straighten your back and your legs in bed now and then.

If you form the habit of holding up your shoulders and keep it up through life you have done a good deal to keep your good health. For one thing, your lungs and other organs have a chance to expand properly and you know how important that is.

A famous doctor, who has recently carried on much study of the physique, says that the coming of sleep is largely due to muscular relaxation.

You know when you do not go to sleep as soon as usual your eyelids and muscles of the face near the eyes are more or less contracted and tense. Let go. Drop your body on the bed. The mattress will support it. Do not fold your arms tightly or cross your feet, or clench your fist. Just let yourself alone and let yourself go and you will go to sleep.

Some Helpful Hints For Busy Housewives

Use lightly buttered whole wheat toast for the small child's breakfast.

You lengthen the life of rugs and carpets if you clean them frequently and thoroughly.

Lights in the kitchen should be placed so that they do not throw a shadow on the housewife's work.

Keep the dirt bag of your vacuum cleaner empty. A dirty bag cuts down the efficiency ofthe machine.

Do not fasten linoleum to the floor with tacks. Wait two weeks after it has been laid. This allows it to stretch.

MADAME NAIDU LIKES MODERN SLIM FIGURES

Leading Woman of India Admires Western Women Especially

Modern women remind Madame Sarojini Naidu of slim, beautiful birds. Today's leading woman of India, who succeeded Mahatma Ghandi as president of the Indian National council and the spokesman of her people, became most enthusiastic about the Western women.

"They are like swallows," she went on, "so graceful straight and tall. There is strength as well as beauty in their figures. And their slender ankles—how pleasing they are, not only because of their sculptural perfection and activity. They typify cleanliness."

Madame Naidu, who was christened Sarojini Chattopadhinya, quite truly is the greatest woman India has produced. Born a Brahmin, in a family of broad learning and intellectual standing, she was carefully educated in a country where most of the women are illiterate.

At 16, she went to England and spent three years in a British university, where she wrote creditable verses which later were published.

Wed Out of Caste

On her return to her native country in 1895, she startled the Indian world by marrying a Dr. Naidu, who, although an "intellectual was not of her caste, for the union was a scandal. Since his death she has plunged into her chosen work, that of emancipating the women of India.

Madame Naidu is a small woman, but she is dynamic. Her flaming costume, which she always wears, with its draperies, contrasting colors and jewels and gold earings claims first glance. A second one, however, focuses attention on a face which seems extraordinarily intelligent and wise, with alert, beautiful brown eyes.

She is arousing her countrywomen to a fight for the eradication of all the social and political handicaps placed on them by the caste system. She assails "purdah"—which means keeping women in seclusion—child marriages and enforced widowhood—though she points out that these terrible evils are not universal in India and that they are not unknown in other parts of the Orient.

Not a Feminist

"I have been here such a short time," she said, "that I cannot begin to judge Western women, or make any estimate of what Western freedom has done for women. But all that I have seen so far of Western women and homes has been most attractive to me.

"To me the home is most important. It is woman's natural sphere. The house groups here seem much smaller to me than in my own country. There we care for our whole families, our relations, our grandmother's first cousin, and our fifth cousin's husband."

Madame Naidu says she is not a feminist because she does feel the necessity of a separate woman's movement. She does not believe that there is any arbitrary division of man's work and woman's but that each should do the special work for which he or she is fitted.

Gay Adventurers By Mildred Barbour

As Sheila entered, Mr as Belden smiled. The Count and Harry, with whom she had been chatting, sprang to up. There was an undeniable air of tension, but she did not seem to notice it.

"Ah, Constance, you nuisance," she said, as Sheila walked toward her. "What are you up to that Cella here must drag me all this distance? Want to go and watch me dress, I suppose."

Her tone was as imperious as her manner, but she embraced Sheila warmly and patted her arm. "Lovely thing, even with all that truck on her face." she said, turning to the Baroness. "Always was my favorite niece—see myself in her, I suppose, that's why—Well, what are you all staring at," she demanded, suddenly aware that her audience was gazing at her finely.

CHAPTER 24

"MY FAVORITE NIECE"

When Sophia Belden greeted Sheila as if the girl were her niece, the Bar ess Bellefonde, who expected to hear the old lady denounce her as a imposter, almost gasped with amazement.

Harry, who had come to the conclusion that Sheila was Constance Kerr and that her protestations to the contrary were based on reasons that she did not care to disclose, almost laughed aloud. He flashed a look of triumph at the Baronne and the Count.

Miss Belden must have sensed that something was amiss, for she said sharply, for the second time; "Well, what are you all staring at?"

"Nothing—nothing at all," said Harry promptly, "I was just struck with the really amazing likeness between you and Constance. I suppose the others were thinking the same thing," He smiled maliciously.

There was a note in his voice that seemed to say: "Speak now or forever hold your peace."

Sheila looked from the Baronne to Bellefonte. Neither seemed to have any accusation to make.

"I take it," Miss Belden resumed that you've been up to some monkeyshines, Constance, and now you've come to help you. . . . For goodness sake, stand there staring at me. I never knew you to be so reticent."

Sheila, except for a murmured word of greeting, when Miss Belden embraced her, had been too panic-strick en to speak. Now she managed to smile and say:

"Yes, Aunt Sophia, I do rather need your help, Constance—"

"Well, whatever it is, please let me have the story at once, for I want to get back to Baden Baden as soon as possible."

"Let me tell you how things stand", Harry interposed. "You know that I've been in love with Constance for a long time, and that her father and mother won't consent to our marriage."

"Yes, I know," said Miss Belden grimly. "They think you ought to have a million dollars before daring to think of marrying their darling."

She broke off abruptly and, turned to the Count, who had begun to bristle at Harry's words. "You're not in the field, too, I hope. Because I know your case is hopeless, as far as my brother-in-law is concerned." He use in blinking eyes, is there?"

"No," he muttered, glaring at Harry, who was grinning openly.

"My advice to you, young woman," said Miss Belden to Sheila, "is to marry this lad, if you're in love with him. He's persistent. You've married him, have you?" she asked sharply.

"Why," said Sheila faintly."

"Well, you'd better mind what you want to do. I'll back you up as much as I can, but don't expect me to wait around for the wedding. Now ever, I'll be glad to have you come to Baden-Baden for your honeymoon."

The Count, meanwhile, was talking n an earnest undertone to the Baroness. She nodded and smiled.

"I'm sure Miss Belden will want to rest a bit before dinner," she said, "so I'll suggest that you take her upstairs, for it's after six o'clock." As Sheila and Miss Belden left the library, the Baronne motioned Harry and the Count to remain.

"What do you make of it?" asked Bellefonte.

"I told you she was just having a little fun with us," said Harry.

"And you," said the Count hotly, "are taking a most disgraceful advantage of me by enlisting Miss Belden sympathies in your cause."

"Oh, stop it, both of you," said the baronne, as Harry began a furious retort. "We have other things to think of. For one thing, I suppose we must now accept this girl as Constance Kerr."

"Certainly," said the Count. "Edmonde is right. She was hoaxing us all along."

"And now I shall have to bumble myself before her," mourned the Baronne. "I'm afraid I wasn't very tactful. But I was so furious at the way she treated Carl."

At dinner that night Miss Belden made Bellefonte furious by treating Harry and Sheila as if they were engaged. She described the heirlooms she would give her niece when she married, and wound up by saying:

"And I've remembered you handsomely in my will, Constance."

Sheila murmured her thanks, and Harry audaciously said:

"Aunt Sophia, you're a darling."

By the time Miss Belden was ready to leave the next morning, Bellefonte was heartily sorry that he had been the one to bring her to Cannes. She bade Sheila and Harry an affectionate farewell, saying to Harry:

"When you and Constance are married, I hope you'll be able to cure her of her fondness for practical jokes. Now that series of silly telegrams I received when she was supposed to be ill in Paris—things like that annoy me to death. I was afraid this trip would turn out to be a wild-goose chase, and I almost decided not to come, but something told me I'd be-

TIGERS ALMOST CANADA CHAMPS

Some History of Western Canada Winners Who Have Come East

Tigers have not yet annexed the Canadian football championship, but unless the Regina team, which plays in Hamilton next Saturday, is a great deal stronger than other teams which have come out of the west, there is no reason why the Bengalese should not start looking around for a suitable spot to display the Grey cup, emblematic of the Dominion honors.

Four attempts have been made in years past by champions of Western Canada to carry the mug out to the prairies, but each attempt proved a dismal failure, although the brand of football played in the west improved each season, and some day a team is coming east to carry off all the glory that goes with a Canadian title.

Next Saturday's game here will be the second time that Regina has struggled for the honors. The first team from the west to come east was Edmonton, in 1921, being beaten by Argos, Eastern Canada champions, by a score of 22 to 0.

The defeat did not prevent Edmonton from making another attempt the following year, and the western wizards fared a little better, being beaten by Queens by a score of 23 to 1.

Regina was the home of the football monarchs of the west in 1922, and the team came east to meet with the word defeat at the hands of Queens that any team has suffered in recent years. The Students ran up a total of 54 points that year, while the West corners failed to get even a peek at the Collegians' goal.

The west was not represented in the final in 1924, but in 1925 Winnipeg sent its champions east to meet Ottawa, the Senators winning by a score of 24 to 1. That was the last attempt the west made to win the Canadian title, but they claim that the Regina team, which won the prairie honors this year, is much faster than any that ever represented that city, and it is to be hoped that such is the case, for while Hamilton fans naturally want Tigers to win, they like to see them opposed to a team capable of staging an interesting duel.

USE AEROPLANES TO FIGHT COYOTES

Denver, Col. (By C. P.)— Use of aeroplanes in the fight against coyotes is being considered by government officials in Colorado. It is the intention of Leo L. Laythe, head of the biological survey, to arrange for a trial flight soon, and if the experiment proves successful, planes may frequently be used.

Laythe has communicated with survey officials in Wyoming where a similar experimental flight was made on October 18. Albert M. Day, leader of predatory animal control in Wyoming, said his assistant H. P. Williams, shot six coyotes in less than an hour and a half from a plane. Williams used a shotgun.

Your Eyes and Our Service

By J. A. McFEE, Optometrist Belleville

There is no guessing with the instruments the Optometrist uses?

No, he can if he wishes supply a correction without asking the patient a question. His instruments reveal exactly what the eyes require, and by exercising care in the preparation of the lenses, their insertion in the mountings, and adjustment to the features he can with confidence expect satisfaction in practically every case.

His interest in a case does not cease with the supplying of glasses?

No. His service includes a supervision over the correction over an indefinite period. He is glad to be of assistance in re-adjusting the mountings or in any other way that will promote the welfare of his patients.

O'BRIEN RIGHT IN HIS RULING

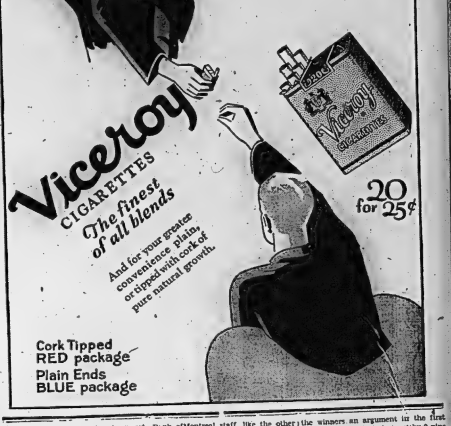

So Say Prominent Officials Regarding Play in Saturday's Game

In every sporting event of importance, something crops up to create an argument that is continued long after every other happening in that particular contest has been forgotten. Saturday's Eastern Canada football final between Toronto Varsity and Hamilton was no exception to the rule. In the last quarter, when Jackie Baker picked up the ball after Glenn Small had fallen and lost possession and raced 25 yards for a touchdown, there was considerable doubt in the minds of a large portion of the crowd as to the legality of the play and many were heard to express the opinion that Umpire Joe O'Brien erred in permitting the counting of the touchdown.

Since Saturday, arguments on the play have been heard on all sides, and those who were of the opinion that Baker had no right to pick up the ball as it was lying in front of Small still insist that Umpire O'Brien presented the Jungle Kings with five points.

O'Brien's version of the incident is that Small was in the act of passing the ball back to Baker when he fell, and that, when the ball hit the ground it took a freakish bounce forward, therefore the pass was considered completed, and he termed the ball loose. That being the case, O'Brien states, Baker had every right to grab it and start running from where Small left off. O'Brien was on top of the play and in a fine spot to make a ruling, therefore, there is nothing for us to but accept it.

Bob Isbister, former Tiger star, than whom there is no one in the Dominion of Canada better versed in the rules of the great autumn game, agrees with O'Brien's ruling, and his opinion should carry weight.

GEHRIG CLEARS RUTH OF CHARGE

Jimmy Wilson, catcher of the Cardinals, is so well thought of in his home city of Philadelphia that when Babe Ruth cut him down at the plate in one of the world series games the Babe put himself in bad with a host of his admirers in the Quaker City. His teammate Lou Gehrig, was informed of how some of the fans felt there toward the Big Bambino and he did his best to square the big slugger in right again.

Gehrig attended the dinner to Herb Pennock in West Chester just outside of Philadelphia the other night and received the glad hand from the throng present for his great work in the world series.

Touching on the spiking of Wilson, Gehrig said there was nothing like that in the mind of the home-run king after he went into the plate. "Of course, you know," said Gehrig, "Ruth is out to score the runs and will take full advantage of every fair means to tally.

'Ruth is too big a star to resort to anything but fair sportsmanship" explained the Yankee first baseman. "He would be the last man in the game to injure an opponent. You must admit that Ruth was right in sliding into the plate feet first, and if he could jostle the ball out of the catcher's hands, that was legitimate."

It was Wilson who first said that Ruth cut him down and this led many to believe that the Yankee star had done so purposely. Gehrig said that Ruth was angry when he read the yarns that he tried to spike the Card catcher.

RECREATION BOWLING

In the usual weekly bowling competition in the B B E League, the O B C were three points and the Brokers won one, the Brokers getting away to a good start by winning the first game by seven pins, but weakening in the second and third game. Duranleau for the students and Allen for the Brokers rolled the highest scores.

In the second game, the Standard Bank boys won three points from the Bank of Montreal staff, like the other game the Montreal boys won the first game and lost the next two and total. Percy and Horton were the leading bowlers for their respective teams.

Her Monthly Love Letter

The first day of the month, and every month comes this love letter to her. For over two years now she has been receiving it, and it will come with the same regularity as long as she may live.

It was a thoughtful, loving husband and father who made this arrangement. His love letters really come from Beyond to the little family, for by a provision made years before he died, The London Life was to send his wife $100.00 a month as long as she should live.

Amoie beautiful thing wasnever arranged. Both wife and daughter are guaranteed the necessities of life. The home is preserved; the mother's love and care is extended to her little daughter; the child is assured of proper surroundings, a good schooling, and every opportunity in life.

And how easily it was arranged—how simple the doing of a deed with such far-reaching effects. An annual deposit equal to $5.80 per week in a London Life Monthly Income Jubilee Policy taken when he was 30, accomplished it all.

Ski Championships for Banff

Announcement that the Western Ski Championships of Canada would be held at Banff during the Carnival Week February 2-9 is greeted with enthusiasm in practically every corner of the continent. Skiing has always been a feature of the Carnival, but this season, world's champions will gather there and present an exhibition which in itself would be worth travelling a thousand miles to see.

● The Banff Ski Hill is undergoing improvements at the present time to allow for longer and more spectacular jumps and a cabin is being erected on the top of Stony Squaw Mountain by the Banff Ski Club which in addition to supplying several runs suitable for beginners as for experts. Last year a favourite event country run was to Lake Louise, part of which was accomplished as automobile tow. That this is a worthwhile run may be gathered from the photographs above.

But the skiing is only one side of the Carnival life. There are the dogs and the derby, the ice and the skating, the tobogganing and sleighs, the dances and fancy dress balls, curling and hockey, a properly organized sports program and a general atmosphere of spontaneity, gaiety and fun. W. A. Brewster is chairman of the Carnival, George Hunter insecretary and the Queen of Banff Winter Carnival for February 1929 is Kay Harrison of Vancouver. Miss Harrison's might easily have been a crown of beauty and popularity, but it was also her prowess on an all-round sportswoman which gave her the title. Here will be a very merry court and it will embrace all those whose pleasure takes them to Banff during the period of her sovereignty.

Wharf Street Debating Club Passes Judgment on Civic Aspirants

Practically every aspirant for municipal honours to the elections which take place next January faced the ordeal last night at the Wharf St. Debating Club, which held one of its preelection meetings of all time in the Club Rooms at the west end of Wharf St. Benjamin Sanford, president of the Club, had made all possible arrangements for the comfort and enter tainment of the guests, and to say that the evening was enjoyed by all is putting it mildly.

Jack Cornell, Shud Rath, Ben Sanford, Frank Keegan, Matt Weir, Will Whalen, George Ackerman and Tom Whalen are right oldest members of the Club, and they have been active in its interests ever since. Eight years ago Oscar Spencer and Harry Fry organized the Club Orchestra, and they were on hand again last night to add their share to the entertainment. Although crowded at times, the one hun dred and fifty men who jammed their way into the small building listened intently to the addresses of the candidates, and few if any seemed to tire plents of much heckling, all of which was given and taken in good part.

Some Order Maintained

Charlie Hanna acted as chairman of the evening, and equipped with an axe, held good order for a small part of the time—any of the members became too inquisitive into what certain members of the Council had done or failed to do, Charlie was right there with the axe to quell any disturbance. Harry Thompson, another old member of the Club, did his best to banish any gloomy spirits in the crowd, and succeeded extremely well at times, but timed remarks keeping the crowd in high glee all through.

Part way through the meeting, Chairman Charlie called for a two minute silence out of respect to the memory of three of the members of the club who had passed away during the past year, mention being especially made of Col. "Eddie" Guss, whose death left a vacant chair at last night. His place will be hard to fill, and those comrades and friends who had known him well joined in paying their respects to his memory.

The first speaker was F. S. Anderson, a candidate in Foster Ward for MEETING SHORT FOR COMMITTEE

Aldermen Anxious to Get Down to Wharf Street Club's Feast

Last night's meeting of the City Council was short and sweet, as most of the members were in a hurry to get to the Wharf St. Debating Club meeting. Three recommendation were passed at last night's meeting, the first of $4230 be made to the Old People's Home to offset the cost of cutting the trees and repairing the street in front of the Home.

It was also recommended that the City Treasurer be authorized to issue a cheque to C. I. Frederick, secretary of the Teachers' Institute of South Hastings for $18.87 being the proportion of the amount for which the city is liable in connection with the cost of the Teachers Convention. The City Treasurer was authorized to credit the sum of Thousand Dollars to the credit of the Ambulance Fund, this being the revenue derived from the operation of the ambulance.

STRANGE MISHAP DESTROYED EYE

Explosion Resulted from Contact of Shovel with Object in Refuse

Harry Copeland, 344 Pinnacle St., lies in the Belleville Hospital today with the sight of his right eye lost and numerous cuts and lacerations on his body and arms presumably as the result of the explosion of a dynamite cap, about ten o'clock this morning.

Copeland is employed by Mr. Nathan Orr as garbage collector, and in the course of his morning duties, he stopped at the Court House and was told to refuse there. The Court House has a cement box some ten feet long and three or four feet wide which is used to keep the refuse in from one collection to the next. Apparently it is the custom to shovel this refuse from the box into the wagon.

Could Not Save Eye

The unfortunate man had scarcely set to work than there was a loud explosion, and workers in the nearby offices looking out their windows, saw the man fall to the ground. Rushing to his aid, they found that his right eye was badly cut, as well as his arms and face. He was taken to the office of Dr. Tennant by B. C. Donnan, County Crown Attorney, but as the doctor was out, he was next rushed to the hospital. Here Dr. Morgan removed several pieces of metal from the man's arm and face, but the sight of his right eye could not be saved.

Apparently Mr. Copeland's shovel had struck a dynamite cap or some other explosive, and the impact from the shovel set it off. Mr. Charles Kerr, of the County Clerk's Office, and Mr. Donnan were the first on the scene, and rendered first aid at the office of Dr. Tennant. Mr. Copeland is married and up to the time of his employment by Mr. Orr was working for the City of Belleville.

TRYING OVER AGAIN

New York, Nov. 30.—Louis Untermeyer and Jean Starr Untermeyer, poets, who were divorced in 1926 after a married life of near, 16 years, have remarried. Mr. Untermeyer disclosed today. He declined to say when or where the ceremony was performed. Mrs. Untermeyer obtained a divorce at Clayton, Mo., last Friday.

Loose Brakes And Glare Lights Under Ban Of Highway Officers

Highway Traffic Officer Prink issued a warning today to all motorists who are using the highways these days to have their lights and brakes tested, as there are many cases of glaring headlights. With the snow now coming on, the highway is becoming more dangerous, and if the lights of one glare into the other driver's eyes, there is a strong likelihood of accidents.

Mr. Prink intimated that cars are likely to be stopped at any time for the next two weeks and have their brakes tested, as nothing has been done in this regard for some time. Perhaps it would be just as well for the motorists of this district to attend to the important factor in safety Driving immediately before it is brought forcibly to their attention through the medium of the police.

King's Chances of Recovery Some Better To-day But Progress is Slow

London, Nov. 30.—King's physicians issued the following bulletin today, "Inflammation of lung and pleura shows some improvement. Temperature is slightly lower. Time of exacerbation of infection it must be noted has not yet passed and in any case progress must be slow."

This bulletin was posted after prolonged visit of Sir Stanley Hewett and Lord Dawson of Penn during which they called in a third eminent physician Sir Humphrey Poleston for consultation. The doctors reviewed the whole aspect of case and the official bulletin was issued some two hours later than usual.

Owing to the delay in issuing the bulletin there was an exceptionally large crowd outside Buckingham Palace when the statement finally appeared. The crowd surged forward eagerly to read brief words.

Hope for normal recovery was perhaps stronger today than since the seriousness of the situation became known. Lancet, the leading medical journal, reviewing the case took a decidedly optimistic view, though pointing out the seriousness of the malady in man of the King's age.

CALL MONEY GOES TO 10 PER CENT AS THE MARKET BREAKS SHARPLY

Statement of Sir Joseph Flavelle Started the Downward Trend

New York, Nov. 30.—Sweeping reaction in stock prices inspired by the making up of call money rates from 8 to 10 per cent and a wide open break in Canadian Marconi on the New York curb market took place this afternoon, after a wild outburst of bull enthusiasm at the opening of the New York stock exchange had carried several issued up 5 to nearly 15 points Early gains quickly melted away under the flood of selling orders and several of the high priced special ties dipped 3 to nearly twenty points before Wednesday's final quotations.

The rise in call money followed the calling of between 400,000,000 and 450,000,000 in bank loans, presumably to meet unusually heavy month end disbursements. Call money has not been as high as 10 per cent. since October 1 when a similar month end "squeeze" took place and while the high rate is regarded as temporary, bankers look for easier money rates until after the end of the year.

The break in Canadian Marconi was attributed to the statement of sir Joseph Flavelle, president of that company that the stock was too high. It has been estimated that 1928 earnings will be only about two cents a share so that the stock has been selling at 1,400 times its earnings.

WAITING DEVEL OPMENTS HERE

City Engineer Campbell, had City Employees do the Job on Instructions from City Solicitor Graham—Steps Necessary According to Council's Resolution at Last Meeting.

As anticipated, trouble is brewing for the City Council following their action last night in ordering the woodden ramps removed from the Front Street entrance of the McColl Brothers Service Station at Front and Bridge Streets.

A fifty thousand dollar damage action will be brought against the City of Belleville by the Petroleum-McColl Gasoline Company, according to Walter H. Paterson of the Paterson Coal and Junction Company. He informed the Intelligencer this morning that Mr. C. S. Gritin, President of the McColl Company notified him last night that the writ will be issued today and will be in the hands of the City Clerk Wilfred Holmes tomorrow morning.

The announcement is the direct result of the removal of the ramps on the Front Street side of the gasoline station last night. The ramps were removed by City employees on orders from Chas. Campbell, City Engineer who was carrying out the instructions of City Solicitor R. J. E. Graham acting on the City Council's resolution.

The ramps were taken away at 6.45 yesterday afternoon and at seven o'clock the lights were extinguished and the lock placed on the station. Mr. Hilton Delong the lessee of the station told the Intelligencer that he was advised by McColl Brothers that in the

SHOT AT WHEEL OF SMALL BOAT

United States Coast-Guard Killed One and Wounded Second Man

Buffalo, Nov. 30.—Federal and Niagara County officials today started investigation of the killing of Carl Ander son, Lewiston and the wounding of Edmund Sahr, Niagara Falls, by Coast guardsmen in the capture of the cabin cruiser "Stag" at the mouth of the Niagara River yesterday. Coast guards men say the shooting was justified, that they suspected the boat of carrying ale from Canada and that when ordered to hove to, it did not comply. The boat was then riddled with machine gun fire and Anderson at the wheel was instantly killed, while Sahr received a bullet in the cheek.

Sahr's story is in direct conflict with that of the guards. He says the boat was disabled when overhauled and he and Anderson were tinkering in the engine. It was pulled to shore by a line from the Federal Chaser, when the coast guards left him with Anderson's body, saying that they were going for a doctor. When they did not return within an hour, he made his way to a farm house, from which he was taken to the hospital at Niagara Falls. There was no liquor aboard the boat.

Anderson leaves a wife and three children range in age from seven to thirteen years.

No Protest At Ottawa

Ottawa, Nov. 30.—Neither the department of Foreign affairs nor the Department of National Revenue has received any protest in connection with the shooting of two men on the cabin cruiser "Stag" by United States coast guards. If the men are United States citizens, it is unlikely that any protest would be made to Ottawa.

WHEREABOUTS OF DUKE UNKNOWN

Gloucster Is Still in Wilds of Africa — May Meet Wales

Capetown Union of South Africa Nov. 30.—The Duke of Gloucester, whose exact whereabouts are unknown is believed to be somewhere between the towns of Abercorn and Broken Hill. There is no telegraph at Abercorn, but there is a good road for 500 miles to Broken Hill, where the Rhodesia white train is waiting. The Prince of Wales toured South Africa in 1925 in wattling. It is expected the Duke will make this train at Broken Hill is the first point of civilization he will reach. The Prince of Wales is waiting forthe Cruiser Enterprise which is to take him to England. He is at Dares Salaam, Tanganyika. It is not known as yet whether the prince will defer his departure until the duke's return from the wilds. The cruiser is at Dares Salaam today and Sunday. The original plan was for the Duke to join his brother at Broken Hill onthe completion of their several hunting excursions.

Gets Suspended Sentence For His Good Judgment In Loving To Sleep

James Stewart of Peterboro was this morning given a suspended sentence by Magistrate Millet of being intoxicated in charge of a car. Stewart committed the offence about three months ago when he stopped his car along side the road and went to sleep.

Mr. Millet found him guilty at his trial and adjourned the case for judgment till today. As no property damage had been done and taking into consideration the fact that he knew he was incapable of driving a car, and therefore went to sleep, Mr. Millet felt that justice would be satisfied by Stewart paying the costs and issuing a suspended sentence for six months.

HALL COST MORE THAN EXPECTED

Marmora Will Open Memorial Building with Festivities, Dec 28th

Friday, December 28, is the date which has been formally set for the Marmora's new memorial Hall. As part of the program of the day, a supper will be served and a dance in the Town Hall are being considered. Prominent men are being approached to take part in the opening ceremonies.

The cost of the building having exceeded the amount provided for in the by-law previously voted upon, and by private donations to the extent of $4,000., the qualified electors are being asked to vote on December 10 on a measure authorizing the borrowing of $4,000 by the issuing of debentures for the purpose of paying the portion of the cost of the building not otherwise provided for.

MOND INTERESTS BEHIND SCHEME USING B. C. COAL

British Syndicate will Erect Large Plant in Pacific Province

BUSSEY PROCESS

Petroleum and By-Products to be Manufactured— Enormous Deposits

Vancouver, November 30.— Plans of powerful British interests, said to be enormous coal fields around Telkwa, backed by the Mond group to develop B.C., and produce petroleum and other by-products, become known at Victoria today, following the recent sale of the Telkwa colliers to unnamed purchasers.

The program of the British syndicate behind this project calls for the erection of large plants to use the Bussey low-temperature carbonization process for the manufacture of coal into many commercial products, after the extent of coal holdings around Telkwa have been determined.

Mond Interests

The disclosure of these plans, which already are well advanced, is thought to confirm the original report that the Mond interests, headed by Lord Melchett, were behind the Telkwa colliery sale. This was the understanding of Telkwa people interested in the deal, and now it has been learned definitely that British interests are organizing to go ahead with the coal-manufacturing scheme.

This gave new significance to the application of the Telkwa Kitimat Railway Company to the Legislature for a private bill granting it a charter to build a railway from Telkwa west and south to the head water at Kitimat.

Whether the British interests promoting the coal exploration industry are actually behind this railway program is not known at the Parliament buildings here, but the projects are closely related, and that the railway is designed to carry out to the coast the products from the Telkwa deposits was generally believed.

The route of the railway as described in its application to the Legislature would take it through the heart of the coal areas lying around Telkwa and west of that point in the big are of land lying directly south of the Canadian National Railway.

After going west to the Copper-river coalfields, the application says, the line would go to the head of Varnuxsol on the Skeena river, connecting with the Canadian National Railways, and thence to Kitimat on the water at the head of Douglas channel.

Use B. C. Coal

This gigantic undertaking is designed to utilize British Columbia coal for the first time in a big way for the manufacture of its by-products. The Telkwa and Copper river coals, it is stated, have been tested and found peculiarly Valuable in the production of petroleum, tar, ammonia and coke.

The syndicate interested will, it is stated, bring to the province the Bussey low-carbonization process, which experts expect to revolutionize the coal business by making possible the retention of coal into many important products at low temperatures. Extensive works will be necessary for the installation of this process.

These proposals have not been laid before the Government yet, except in the case of the railway. The company, which is asking the Legislature for a charter, sent representatives to see Premier Tolmie recently, it was learned to acquaint him with their plans. They are not asking for direct financial assistance, but request the Government to give them land grants in the very large contiguous to their line. The Government has not made any decision on the matter yet, but will gather further information on the railway company's plans.

Kitchen Heater

A very convenient coal heater for the kitchen. Has adjustable legs, so that it may be placed beside the gas range with cooking tops on the same level. Has a good-size cooking top, with two 8-inch covers, one reducing. The fire box is of ample proportions and is very economical on fuel. May be had in a variety of finishes to suit your gas range. A water front may be supplied.

RADIO NEWS

And yesterday was Thanksgiving Day in the United States.

Which radio addicts might have justified for themselves had they turned on the radio yesterday afternoon. For there was big football games all on this day in the U.S.A. and there were certainly plenty of them yesterday.

But it does seem funny to switch on the set on New Year's Day and hear a rugby game. But it's true. Every New Year's game is played in the Rose Bowl, at Pasadena, Calif. on the last year between Leland Stanford and the University of Pittsburg.

Monday evening will see the re-appearance of the Philharmonic Orchestra, perhaps the most popular event on the Canadian chain of radio broadcasting stations.

And Jean Wood, noted Canadian pianist will be guest artist for the night. It should be a splendid entertainment.

To-morrow night the Leafs-N.Y. Americans hockey game will be broadcast over CFCA, Toronto. At least part of it will, that is. Popular event will be a summary of the first period, and play by play description of the second and last periods of the game.

The good reception experienced lately seems too good to last.

And this will be all.

MAY USE HUDSON BAY LINE 1929

Fifty Miles of Road Remain to be Completed Next Season

Ottawa, Nov. 30—Fifty miles of road will be all that is left to construct on the Hudson Bay Railway following the close of the construction season, which has not yet ended. It is expected that by the end of next year a workable line, capable of carrying freight trains, will be running into Fort Churchill. The method employed to attain this will be to lay the last few miles down to the snow, train-filling with ballast as occasion serves at the break-up.

In this way a considerable quantity of material for theco nstruction of the harbor works at Fort Churchill will be taken in during the winter of 1929-30.

Naming Stations

Progress has been made with the establishing and naming of stations on the Hudson Bay line. Seven of these have been done as follows; Mileage 364.9, Charlebois, after Mgr. Charlebois, Bishop of Keewatin, and 41 years president in the Hudson Bay country; mileage 347, Weir River, name of river crossing railway in the vicinity of this siding; mileage 382.6, Lawledge, after F. W. Lawledge, one of the engineers engaged on the original surveys of the Hudson Bay Railway; mileage 362.1, Thibaudeau, after W. Thibaudeau, who made reconnaissance surveys for the Dominion Government in connection with the railway route to Churchill in 1900; mileage 400.4, Silcox, after Major L. S. Silcox, locating and division engineer on the first construction of the Hudson Bay Railway; mileage 408.2, Starnes, in honor of Commissioner Cortlandt Starnes, present administrator of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police; mileage 312, Herchmer, in memory of former Commissioner Lawrence Mounted Police, who rendered great service in the development of Western Canada.

During first two days of rabbit hunting season in Ohio, two persons were killed and 21 injured.

SUCCUMBED TO INJURIES

CANDIDATES

the position of School trustee. He told of having served on the School Board for the past two years, and would appreciate the support of the voters of Foster Ward. After much discussion, it was decided to support him if he would leave the doors of his coal sheds unlocked from now until election day. Harry Hill, a new man out for the position of Alderman, also asked for the support of the voters of Foster Ward, as did William Parrish. Charlie Dolan was then called upon for a few words, and he made them few, but found time to tell a humorous story or two.

This Years Aldermen

Aldermen Rollins Reid, Hyde, Woodley and French all were present and all made short speeches asking for the support of the voting public. Mayor Duff was also present and thanked the men present for the support they had given him in the past year, and hoped that they would do the same with whoever was elected this year. William Day, Dr. Kitmere, Walter Patterson and S. Wesaman, also all new men aspiring for the municipal honours, told what they would like to do if elected and asked that the voters of Foster Ward support them.

Mr. Geo. Tree was an absentee.

President Ben Sanford was then called upon for a few words. He told of the starting of the Club, how it had been enlarged twice by building additions to the rear, and how it now needed to be built larger still, as this meeting showed that the present space was not enough. He invited those who were present to come oftener than just once a year, as the Club was open three hundred and sixty-five days a year, and when asked whether or not they were intending to change the name of the Club to the St. Paul St. Debating Club, was very emphatic in his answer that they had no such intention.

Mayoralty Candidates

C. C. Stewart, the other candidate in Foster Ward for the position of School trustee, also asked for the support of the ratepayers, promising that he would do everything in his power to help that Ward. M. A. B. Collins was the first of the mayoralty candidates called to speak. He declared H. F. Ketcheson also spoke, his subject on which he dwelt briefly, being the high cost of coal; the streets. Much discussion took place over this. His Honour Judge Prackel, also feeling that the cost was too much.

Col. Riordon, W. Boyes, W. Axley and George Foster were introduced to the assembly, but as the hour was growing late were not called for speeches. Following this, the members of the club handed around Hot dogs and pickles, as well as soft drinks and cheese. Jimmy Brennan step danced, while Ab Wheeler, the king-of Belleville's Old Time Minstrels, showed that he still can entertain when called upon. Fred Burke sang a few bass solo, and the evening came to a successful close by singing God Save the King.

It was decided that the membership fees would remain the same as last year, viz.: $7.50, $10.00 and $15.00 for first, second and third year players respectively.

BOTTLE APPEARS JUST TOO LATE

Magistrate Refuses to Convict on Evidence of Finding Gin

Damon Hoover, who appeared in Police Court this morning charged with having liquor illegally and being intoxicated in a public place, pleaded guilty to the latter intoxication charge and was fined the usual fifteen-and-costs, but was found not guilty on the other and more serious charge.

Police Constable Thompson arrested the accused along with a companion by the name of Jarvis last Sunday night at the rear of the Royal Cafe on Front, where they were trying to get in in order to get something to eat The policeman then marched the two men down the alley to the Bridge and Square, on his way to the Police Station.

Evidence Too Late

Just as he neared the street, however, Hoover was alleged to have dropped a bottle into a garbage box. Thompson heard the sound, but fearing to let his prisoners have the opportunity to escape, did not stop to look for the bottle, and took them to be look-up. He returned to the alley minutes immediately, however, and found a bottle of gin about half full in the box. Magistrate Mikel declared that he could not convict on the evidence, and told the constable that he should have taken a chance on the prisoners escaping and rescued the bottle of liquor at once.

Hoover himself swore that the liquor was not his, and that he did not have any permit. He had taken a few drinks at Jarvis' house, and that had been what had made him intoxicated. Magistrate Mikel accordingly dismissed the case.

their legal advice. And so in the city today. The gig station has been a current topic of conversation in the city since the matter was first issued. — Hyde and Ald. Cherry have been the chief champions of the motion and both were opposed to litigation in any form. Ald. Hyde furnished the only opposition at the last council meeting to the removal of the ramps.

City Clerk, Wilfred Holmes, stated this afternoon that a statement of no writ had been received as yet and he had not been officially informed of the Company's intentions. E. A. Graham, City Solicitor, said he had heard nothing of the proposed law suit other than the notice which was current on Front Street today. Mr. Graham did not wish to make any comment on the situation other than the fact that he had merely been acting on the City Council's, or the Company's instructions. Mr. E. A. Mr. Graham did not wish to make any comment on the situation other than the fact that he had merely been acting on the City Council's, or the Company's instructions. Mr. E. A. Mr. Graham did not wish to make any comment on the situation other than the fact that he had merely been acting on the City Council's, or the Company's instructions.

Refuses to Comment

"What about the original plans submitted by the Gas Company, did they show the ramped sidewalks and if so would that affect the result of the suit?" he was asked. Mr. Graham replied that he was not privileged to give out any information without consulting the Council.

Ald. Edward F. Cherry when interviewed said "I think the City of Belleville should stand pat and not meet McColl Brothers representatives with the object of trying out the trade question. A meeting was called for to determine its effect. On Saturday nights a watchman should have been placed at the corner to watch the entrance. If no amicable settlement was reached it should have been left in hands of the Public Utilities Board instead of dragging it into the courts. That's my attitude and has been from the start. It was a mistake on Mr. Campbell's part in issuing the permit originally and if he does not withdraw it, I favored indiscretion. I feel that the City should have made the best of it by using the ramps until expensive even in the case of a win and I understand that the same situation became same 4.46 in St. Catherine and that the city lost the action."

Collins Will Not Talk

Ald. Collins who is in the field for the Mayoralty did not wish to express his opinion but understood that the original plans did not show the ramps. "They came back and asked to ramp the walk on both sides and the Council informed them to proceed with the ramping of the bridge but not on the Front Street side. They have violated our ultimatum" he said.

Milton Delong said that the station was promptly closed at seven o'clock last night after the ramps had been removed but Mr. Delong said he would further instructions from Toronto.

Chas. Campbell, City Engineer, produced a letter from the City Solicitor instructing him to proceed with the removal of the wooden ramps.

President Gave Instructions

Mayor Morley Doyle, when on the phone last night, told him the ramps were "up and questioned him regarding further steps" said Walter Patterson. "He advised me not to lay another ramp in place of the one removed and emphatically stated that a ramp would not be laid today. "Those ramps belong to me, I laid them according to instructions from the Company" Mr. Herman declared. "I understand the suit will be entered in the City Hall today. Press from the property as taxpayers."

"Have McColl Brothers a Solicitor in the city" questioned the scribe? R. D. Ponton acted for them on the deed of the property but I do not believe he can act now since Mr. Graham the City Solicitor is a member of the firm. "There has been some rumors that another party is connected with the Construction Company; what about it?"

"I am the sole owner of the Company's property and it is registered in the Registry office."

The Street Entrance

"The original plans showed the exact location of the pumps and City Engineer would understand that we could do business only by providing an egress on Front Street. Toronto passed a by-law prohibiting crossing the Walk and they have none in Belleville nor in any other city in Ontario outside Toronto".

Mayor Morley P. Duff stated that he had heard nothing of the proposed suit. "I don't see what grounds they have for suing the City, all that we've done is to remove the ramp?"

"But you're prevented them from having access to their property?"

"That's all right but they cannot enter it just where they please and they never made a request to enter on Front Street so far as I know of. We gave them permission to ramp the walk on Bridge Street but not on Front Street" stated His Worship "It's purely a legal matter."

Looks Like Bad Policy

One prominent citizen said, "It's been enough the City Engineer issued a permit after the Shell Company were refused by the year previous but the Council not place it in the restricted area at that time' and why did the Engineer defy the Council and issue the permit. It looks like bad policy for the City to have a lawsuit."

"I still think the whole thing can be amicably settled" said Ald. W. J. Woodley "it's really a trivial matter and I think we can settle it outside courts. "In recent conversation with Milton Delong the lessee I suggested the building of an iron railing from the south side extending ten feet, to protect the building occupied by B. J. Black and from the egress north to the corner." "This would have served to decrease the possible danger for pedestrians. I was to have submitted this proposal to the Council at the Council meeting last night and Mr. Delong promised to be on hand. In the meantime the City removed the ramps which lead to the threat of a law-suit. When the Company first started to build they claimed the right to a Front Street entrance but ten days later they came back and asked us for permission and I'm positive there's no reason for action over the removal of the ramps."

Deaths And Funerals

ROBERT CAMPBELL

The funeral of the late Robert Campbell took place from his residence in Sidney Township, near Foxboro, to the Belleville cemetery, on November 30th, 1928. The deceased was a progressive farmer of the district, a Conservative in politics and a neighbor who was always willing to help. All his life he was interested in Christian work in the church and Sunday school.

"Then shall the dust return to the dust as it was, and the spirit unto the God who sent it."

MRS. ANNIE MAY DAFOE

Mrs. Annie May Dafoe passed away early this morning, after a brief illness. The deceased was a daughter of William Moon, 6th Confession of Sidney and had only resided in Belleville since March of this year. She was born in Sidney in 1855, and was a member of Tabernacle United Church. She is survived by a husband, Albert Dafoe, four children, Roy, Emma Garland (Mrs. Donald); two brothers, Roy and Frank of Winnipeg and Sidney, respectively. Interment will take place in Sine Cemetery.

SARAH MARSH

Mrs. Sarah Marsh died this morning at her residence 223 Dundas street. The deceased was born in Sidmouth township, eighty years ago and was a daughter of Robert Stillman. Her husband, Matthew, predeceased her 18 years ago. She is survived by one daughter, Mrs. A. F. Stillman, Belleville, and one son, William S., of Rochester, N.Y. was a member of Bridge street church.

MRS. MARY HAMILTON

The funeral of the late Mrs. Mary Hamilton took place on Saturday afternoon. A short service was held at the home at 2 o'clock and at the church at 2:30, with Rev. John Ellis officiated by the Rev. A. L. Geen conducting the services.

There were many beautiful flowers and the bearers were Messrs J. Cooke, Robert Tannahill, T. E. Robinson, E. J. Butler and Harry Thompson.

FUNERALS AND JAUNTS EAT INTO RESOURCES OF DEBATING CLUB

Members Gravely Pass Statement Cooked up for Their Entertainment.

Funerals are getting more and more expensive every day. Ask the Wharf street debating club! $2.50 worth of the club finances pranced merrily in to Sanford's pockets according to the auditor's report, for the service of burying Shad Rath's cat, found under the club house. Just why should the cat want to go under the club-house, and why it had to pick this particular spot to die in, is deeply shrouded in a cloak of mystery. However, as $2.50 the cat ought to have had a decent, respectable funeral.

The report showed a favorable balance with $24.60 assets, these aforementioned assets being for the greater part a million quantity in most clubs. Nevertheless, if all reports be true, the club's finances won't stand many more trips like Bob Bland, Jr., had this summer. Bob was given $25 for a week's survey of the harbor on the good ship "Verona."

There is a keen suspicion that many of the items are faked in the financial report as submitted to the Club last night and which appears below:

Auditor's Report.

MAKE MUSEUM OF FAMOUS HOUSE

Napoleon's Last Residence in France Dedicated as Public Museum

This century has seen the most startling reversals of fortune the world has ever known, but nothing quite like the fall of Napoleon.

A little house on the Ile d'Aix near Rochefort in the Bay of Biscay, a modest dwelling has just been dedicated as a public museum. It is the house in which Napoleon spent his last hours on French soil, defeated yet still free, and hopeful of again recovering his fortunes.

Cottage on the Islands

From Waterloo he fled to Rochefort, and from there to this cottage on the island, hoping for a vessel to convey him to America. But English warships led by the Bellerophon and commanded by Captain Frederick Lewis Maitland, closed in to blockade the coast and make his flight impossible.

It was planned therefore, that he should be taken secretary on board Danish sloop and secreted in a cask covered in the ballast, with tubes so constructed as to convey air for his breathing. When, however, it was considered that contrary winds might hold up the sloop under the observation of the English ships for so long as to cause the prisoner to emerge and reveal himself, the scheme was abandoned, as being likely to deprive him of the good treatment which voluntary surrender would ensure him.

Rescued from Distraction.

Finally, Napoleon sat down and wrote a letter to the Prince Regent:

July 15, 1815

Your Royal Highness: I am a victim to the factions which distract my country, and to the enmity of the greatest powers of Europe. I have terminated my political career, and I have come, like Themistocles, to throw myself upon the hospitality of the British people. I put myself under the protection of their laws, which I claim from your Royal Highness, as the most powerful, the most constant, and the most generous of my enemies. NAPOLEON.

On a table in the house which now becomes a museum there lies today the rough draft of this letter. There, too, is the bed he slept in, and the furniture he used. The house and contents have been rescued from destruction by Baron Gourgaud, whose grandfather bore the original letter to England, and afterwards accompanied his master into exile.

But there is nothing more absorbing in Napoleonic literature than Captain Maitland's story of the Emperor's life on the Bellerophon. He was a prisoner on the ship for three weeks, during which time the government had to decide, what should be done with him, and it was there he learned that he was to be imprisoned on St. Helena.

A General Farewell

When she reached Torbay with Napoleon aboard, the Bellerophon was daily haunted by thousands of people in boats, and the pressure became so heavy and attempts so hard to prevent that boats from warships had actually to charge the invading crowd.

No person became a general favorite. The midshipmen liked him; the officers gilded and respected him. It was said that when he was taken off the ship to go on board the ship which was to convey him to his rock of captivity, a deep gloom settled on the crew of the Bellerophon.

Napoleon became a general favorite for 19 years in his soil, and was then removed to London to Paris. Today the little house on the Ile d'Aix shares the appeal made to the popular mind by the granite tomb in Paris.

100 BILLIONS LIFE INSURANCE

In Force on Americans by the End of Next Year

New York, N.Y.— A net total of 100 billion dollars of life insurance in force on Americans probably will have been attained by the end of 1929.

This statement is based on facts disclosed in a survey being prepared for the 72nd annual convention of the Association of Life Insurance Presidents here December 13 and 14, says George T. Wight, secretary and manager.

This means, says Mr. Wight, that whereas 79 years up to the end of 1923, were required to reach 50 billions this total will have been doubled in only seven years additional, 1922 to 1929.

"Fifteen years ago," he recalls, emphasizing the general economic significance of the increase, "when American life insurance was 70 years old, this fund of legal reserve and insurance protection amounted to 20 billion dollars. Few life insurance executives then visualized the reaching of the 100 billion dollar milestone before 1960."

The annual net accretions to the fund in these days, after allowances for death claims and endowment payments and lapses, he explains, amounted to little more than one billion. During the world war, however, this annual net increase doubled and tripled, and immediately after the close of the war it jumped still higher. For the last six years it has ranged from six to eight billions annually. The total amount outstanding at the end of 1927 was more than 81 billions, the survey shows.

NO GUESSING IN BUSINESS TODAY

And You Can't Be Dishonest and Yet be a Big Success

San Francisco—"You cannot be dishonest and you cannot guess in business today. You have to be fair and you have to know your stuff."

This was the keynote of the address delivered by Ford A. Allen, assistant to the president of the General Motors Corporation of Detroit Mich., at the luncheon of the San Francisco Electrical Development league at the Palace Hotel.

Speaking of the trends and policies of modern business, Allen declared that "yesterday" is the most useless word in the modern business man's vocabulary, because the situations change so rapidly that he must always look ahead. Allen pointed out that nearly every business had employed radical changes in the last several years.

"Drug stores used to sell drugs," he said, "now they are combination stores. Grocery stores sell meats and butchershops sell groceries. Hardware stores sell radios and music stores sell washing machines. They have to because they are forced by changing conditions."

Analyzing the success of General Motors Allen declared that there was nothing mystic about it.

"We have been forced to play fair with five great groups, namely 200,000 employees 20,000 field representatives 70,000 stockholders 4,600 firms that furnish us with supplies and the public" Allen said.

"The old slogan that the buyer beware has given way to the seller beware. We also find we have to know every integral part of our business. Nobody in business today can guess. We used to turn out so many cars and let the public prove their worth.

"Now we test and prove our own products and the products of our competitors as well. Every business man today should know his own business and his competitors' business as well."

Concerning the future of the automobile business, Allen said the question is often raised, when will the automobile business come to the point of saturation.

"We are developing foreign markets and we expect a substantial increase in that market with the new national administration for the next four years" he said.

STEEL CABLES FOR DEEP SEA FISHING

Miami, Fla., By C. P.)— Steel cables to permit fishing at a depth of two miles, and dynamite to use in blasting fish in deep water are among materials aboard the Ara, the yacht Mr. and Mrs. J. Vanderbilt will use on their round the world cruise, which in search of unknown sea specimens.

Preparation of the palatial 313 foot craft for the eight months voyage indicate that this will be one of the most ambitious ventures of its kind ever undertaken. There are scores of jars and tanks aboard for keeping specimens.

Mr. Vanderbilt is captain, pilot and navigator of the craft, as well as field will be the sole occupant of the chart room. The Ara will sail for Panama, later setting a course through the Pacific.

EMMANUEL CHURCH HELD ANNUAL TEA

Most attractive were the rooms at Emmanuel Church yesterday afternoon when the annual tea was given by the women of the church. The tea room was decorated in yellow and white. The tea table, where Mrs. Rowsome poured tea, was adorned with yellow candles in silver holders. Mrs. H. Thompson, and Mrs. Ketcheson were in charge here, and assisting with the tea were Mrs. E. Barlow, Mrs. T. Hallman, Mrs. J. Clarke and Mrs. Weese.

The little tea tables arranged around the room, carried out the same color scheme. The home cooking table at which Mrs. Price was convenor, was charmingly done in green and white. Miss Thompson assisted in selling the delectable goods offered here. Some clever needlework was on display at the fancy work table over which Mrs. Shirland presided, assisted by Mrs. Ivers and Mrs. J. Sigby. The color scheme here was in heliotrope and white.

DON'T SEND IN FALSE NEWS TO THE NEWSPAPER

For You Can be Sued and Pay Heavy Damages For It

A case which is of considerable importance not only to newspaper publishers but to the general public as well, has just been decided by the supreme court of Alberta. It seems a circus company telegraphed a news item from Kamloops, B.C., to the Calgary Herald, to the effect that a large sum of money would be invested by the company in a moving picture project in Calgary. Naturally the information was considered of sufficient interest to the people of the city The Calgary Herald, therefore, printed the despatch, which later turned out to be nothing more than an invention of the publicity agent attached to the circus. The Herald brought action against the company and succeeded in securing a favorable verdict, with costs. Defendants were also awarded damages by the judge, who declared that their conduct "constituted a deliberate fraudulent and unfortunately a successful attempt to impose as an item of news something which they apparently conjured up and exploited for their own purpose of self-advertising."

The outcome of this case, we repeat, is of much general interest and importance. The tricks of the free publicity merchants are as manifold as they are ingenious, and it is difficult to secure immunity from their "stunts" however wary one may be. In the guise of "news" columns and columns of unpaid-for publicity are sent out to the various newspaper and magazine offices. It is true very little of this deluge of reading matter seeps through to the reader, for editors are well aware of the situation and constantly on guard. But a trick like that practiced by the circus management is hard to detect until too late. As in this case, the advance notice about impending local developments, coming right from head quarters and taken in good faith, may be reproduced.

GERMAN SOCIALISTS RAP GRAF ZEPPELIN

There seems to be sound common sense in the argument of the German Social Democrats who are opposing the construction of the first German warship to be built since the end of the Great War. Germany can ill afford to spend the money on a lone warship which would be no match for the navies of other countries, one of the leaders declares. One warship is but a beginning, however, and it could prove a starting point toward the development of a real navy. If Germany has aspirations toward naval power, a start must be made in some direction, and it is possible that this may be a start in this direction. But with the burdens of war still pressing upon her people, naval expansion would appear to be a luxury which Germany well might forego.

BELLE THEATRE

THAT'S MY DADDY WITH DENNY OUT TO PLEASE EVERYBODY

(Review)

The poor motion picture critic has been severely criticised by people who have seen big shows and have not agreed. This is especially the case when the critic didn't like a show and the offended person did.

We hope there'll be no such objections to this review. In the first place Reginald Denny is supremely popular here. In the second place the house absolutely howled at "That's My Daddy" which opened at the Belle theatre last night. And 'tis the third place this reviewer howled just as loud if not louder than everybody else at the funny incidents, clever pantomime and joyous situations which characterized the production.

Denny is better than ever if possible His new leading woman, Barbara Kent is delightfully refreshing and Lillian Rich is sedately beautiful.

Little Jane La Verne is the child marvel of the picture and operated the hearts of the audience. The others in the cast are perfectly chosen Tom O'Brien, Armad Kaltz, Mathilda Brundage, Wilson Benge, Charles Coleman and Art Currier.

Denny wrote this story and it is as perfectly suited to his peculiar talents as it would be expected to be.

Fred Newmeyer directed and Newmeyer is the man who guided Harold Lloyd to his present popularity.

REGENT THEATRE

BOB STEELE, FBO'S

21-year-old western star who has thrill led thousands throughout the country will be glad to hear of his outstanding and remarkable acting, at the Regent Theatre today in his latest picture "The Trail of Courage". This is Steele's seventh starring vehicle for FBO pictures.

At last a real reel comedienne, a girl who is hilariously funny, is offered to the movie loving public. She is Marjorie Beebe and she plays her first featured role in "The Farmer's Daughter" which had its local premiere at the Regent Theatre last night.

She is said to be red haired and despite her best not to appear so, very pretty and, this is where she differs from other female funsters, a natural comic whose every movement is a cause for laughter. Not alone Miss Beebe but a fine cast and a real story also help make this picture an entertainment worth seeing. 2 Feature Pictures.

There are 47 public swimming baths in London and 2,000,915 people bathed in them in 1926—the last year for which complete figures are available.

Appendicitis or Health

Millions of dollars have been spent in operations for appendicitis when health might easily have been restored through Chiropractic. For every disease there is a cause and the Chiropractor can discover and remove the cause of appendicitis as readily as he can remove the cause of less serious conditions. Whether the case be acute or chronic Chiropractic is most effective.

"COLLEGIATE CHATTER"

By Helen Jones

Many rusty wheels turned in the brain factory in the heads of the pupils at St. C. I. during the past two days or so. Not only was the belt of memory running but when this faculty, imagination, a most excellent substitute, took its place. It is so often very difficult to recall all that you mechanically jolted down a few months ago. The examinations are over for a while but in case your mental powers have already had too much exercise, come to the basketball game tonight and exercise your lungs.

Tonight the Girls' Senior and Junior teams play Trenton in B. C. I. "gym". The home teams have been practising energetically and it is to be hoped that they will defeat the Trenton girls. If we win this game with Trenton it will mean that we play with the Kingston district for the championship of eastern Ontario. The price for students is 15c, all others 25c. By cheering them to victory you are bringing renown to your school. Get your parents to come and support us too. They'll enjoy the game.

After the game, lunch will be served to the players and their assistants only. If you are a player, remember that the cafeteria is on the third floor.

Anyone may attend the dance, which will be held in the gymnasium after the game, by paying the quarter. If you cannot come to the game, come for the dance at least. We expect all those who came last week and others also. If you did not come last week, be one of the others.

Next week the boys basketball teams start their season of games. They would like you to support them as faithfully as you have the girls. If you enjoyed the girls' games you ought to encourage the boys.

The "Elevator" staff is busy these days preparing for their edition, which comes out in March. They organized earlier than usual this year in order to have a good chance to work up interest among the student body of the Collegiate. They have held two meetings up to date and have their next one next Thursday. They have already chosen the cover, the colour of which will be red.

The "Elevator" staff for this year is:
Staff advisor—Miss B. Billings.
Editor-in-chief — Kathryn Gallagher.
Assistant editors—

EVEN BALDWIN GETS PUZZLED

When He Delves Into the Different Aspects of Politics

Speaking before the faculty and students of the University College of Wales, Mr. Baldwin dove into the subject of the scientific, psychological and practical aspects of politics. "Scientific psychology has been of much less use to me than it might have been," said he. "When I go to economists for guidance about safeguarding I find that no two agree. If I go to others about the gold standard they all reply with different voices, and I have no guidance at all.

"When I really want help I get nothing but generalizations or ghostly abstractions, so far removed from the daily life of man that I find them absolutely useless.

"If we politicians are so ignorant may we not say that the scientific man is sometimes a little vague and sometimes a little contradictory?

"We have to legislate for vast, complex communities which, alas, are one amongst other communities. We look to the learned for inspiration and knowledge, to the churches for inspiration and holiness. We make the best use we can of the mixture we get from both these quarters." (Laughter.)

"But," continued the prime minister, "it is with man we have to deal and not with machine abstractions, or what is called the economic man.

"We have to deal with men swayed by passions good and bad and by ignorance, and ignorance played upon. They are elements forever outside the scope of science, but they are forces of primary importance to us, because it is upon the reaction of these forces that the very health of the life of this state must depend.

"Political problems are not a product of the intellect alone.

"I do not believe there exists the most austere scholar who has not, at times, sometimes inside him the ramblings of those elemental feelings and impulses which in mankind grow into love and religion or hatred and war. Those are the forces with which your politicians have to deal."

A part of Southern India has the enormous rainfall of almost 500 inches a year.

Form News—Dorothy Boyle.
Girls' Sports—Jean MacLaurin.
Boys' Sports—Farley Faulkner.

The Teachers Badminton Club will be started tomorrow afternoon. Will the teachers please remember this. The badminton court has been laid out on both gymnasium. There is also a volley ball court so that the gymnasium floors look like a "conventional" design in black and white.

The Girls' Athletic Society has purchased a piano for the gymnasium. It is being used for the folk dances during P. T. Dances and skip for dancing after basketball games.

GULLS HELPED TO SAVE GOLF COURSE

When the gulls returned to London this autumn they found a new kind of food supply in the parks and on the many golf courses in the Thames Valley.

Over the greensward millions on millions of daddy-long-legs flitted in the mellow sunshine, and millions more of their grubs, the leather-jackets, poked their noses above the turf.

Flocks of gulls at Richmond and Fulwell took advantage of the sight and invited relatives to the feast. On the fulwell golf course a golfer, all unwitting that he was playing a benefactor, hit a gull with a ball driven from the tee and brought it down.

The gull's crop was found to be filled with leather-jackets. These troublesome creatures destroyed the roots of the grass on very many golf greens a few years ago when there was a plague of them. They are a pest very hard to deal with; and if gulls can help they will become the patron-saints of golfers.

DAVIS RECALLS PRINCESS PAT'S CAPTAIN LASH

And How the Captain Ordered the Prince of Wales

(By BOB DAVIS of the Winnipeg Tribune.)

Do you see that shoe, broad shouldered man standing at the entrance of the fruit store?" asked the citizen with whom I was rambling down the main street.

"The one with the cane over his arm?"

"No, the fellow buying the grapes. He's paying for them now; grey felt hat.

"I see the man you mean. What about him?"

"He was of the Princess Pat's. Related from this town. One of the first."

"Very few of them came back, I understand."

"That's right. But wait till I tell you. His name is George Herbert Lash, acting captain in 42nd Forty, seventh Battalion Infantry at the taking of Valenciennes, November 6, 1918."

"Now come along with the human history." I urged,confident that he had something up his sleeve.

"All on that line. When the Canadians began the attack on a sixteen mile front an order was given that the barrage being laid down was not to shell Valenciennes, which contained many non-combatant civilians. To Acting Captain Lash was given the task of taking a bridgehead so that the Second Division could cross through and enfilade the town. He soon discovered that progress was quite impossible because of the fact that a large building on the edge of the town was occupied by the enemy operating from the tower. There was nothing to do but attack at that point. Such orders. Otherwise the bridgehead was not attainable.

"About that period in the proceedings a young man in the uniform of a British captain suddenly appeared upon the scene with the announcement that he had lost his unit. He saluted Acting Captain Lash, but Lash asked if there was anything he could do to be of assistance. 'Yes,' replied Lash, 'go and tell Lieutenant-Colonel Callum, who is in support with brigade trenchmortars , and tell him to blow hell out of that building from which the enemy is sniping. Tell him to knock the damned thing down, orders of his orders from elsewhere.'

"The British captain saluted, hustled away, found McCallum, delivered the Lash order word for word and returned with a verbal report of his action. 'Is there anything more I can do for you?' he inquired, 'Not at the moment,' answered Lash, 'but you'd better stick around in case anything occurs. You are sure you gave him my message just as I gave it to you?' The Briton assured him that even to the slightest inflection he had communicated the order of the Canadian officer.

"In the meantime the tower on the communal building was rocked to its deep foundations and the enemy fired. The ambitious runner who still considered himself under the orders of Captain Lash, also fired. And found pending further developments. At the moment when the Forty-seventh Battalion was ready to proceed there appeared upon the scene a British staff officer who, upon spotting the runner captain who had lost his unit promptly engaged him in earnest conversation. In the midst of which both withdrew from the Lash jurisdiction and disappeared.

"During a lull in the rout that followed the capture of the bridgehead an officer from McCallum's battery had a short conversation with Acting Captain Lash. 'What did you mean by sending those profane orders to us?' he inquired. 'Your runner blew in and shot the stuff with an unmistakable ring of his voice. Told that you said to knock the damned thing down—blow hell out of it. Was that right?' Lash reiterated his command with

Have You A Skin Trouble?

PAY heed to early symptoms of skin disease! At the first sign of any unpleasant rash, irritation or eruption, anoint it with Zam-Buk. This quickly soothes and heads off disease. Where skin is already diseased with eczema or is poisoned, sore or ulcerated, Zam-Buk is the one genuine healing balm that gets right at the root of the trouble. Zam-Buk expels disease, and grows new clear skin.

Zam-Buk's ever-ready character and exceptional healing, soothing and antiseptic value have won for it a permanent place in over a million homes.

Get a box of this great herbal balm to-day, and keep it always handy.

Mrs. W. Campbell, of Bonny River Station, P.E.I., writes:—"Your wonderful ointment cured my daughter's face and arms after everything we knew before we came across Zam-Buk. This has proved and healed my girl's skin in a surprising way."

trills and rallied everything.

"'Well, you might be,' said Lash's informant, 'surprised to know that attached to the Canadian contingent there is a certain popular young Englishman listed in the Army Register as Captain Windsor, and he also has—and perhaps more popularly known at least in civil life—the title Prince of Wales. And that's the person you selected as a runner between the forty-seventh Battalion and Lashes and McCallum.

"Did he deliver my message?" asked Lash.

"He certainly did, profanity and all. I call him a true soldier when it comes to obeying orders. You got to give it to him for that.I'll this ever leaks out in civil life, caught and understood. When the visiting throng thinned out the Prince asked the citizen if there had not been before—perhaps at Valenciennes, France, November 6, 1918.

GROW FUNGI IN HEATED CAVES

Sullivan, Mo., Oct.—Taking advantage of the fact that mushrooms, a delicacy in the Missouri Ozarks, farmers have developed mushroom culture to an art.

In the rooms of one of the large natural caves near Sullivan there are more than 5,000 lineal feet of mushroom beds. They are raised in production of the edible fungi and farmers are realizing comfortable profits from both mushrooms and spawn. Until recently the latter was obtained almost solely from French and English manufacturers.

Although subject to various insect attacks and generally difficult to grow mushrooms have been produced commercially in cellars and buildings prepared especially for their culture. Where caves are accessible, the difficulty and cost of culture is materially reduced. Numerous experiments were made in the Ozark caves without success until recently when learned how to control the air currents. A scientific study of the temperature, air currents, and the peculiarities of moisture which course through parts of the cavernous rooms was undertaken with painstaking results, and beds became profitable. It was found that rock walls and the natural rock beds were the best protection against the strong currents of wind that frequently swept through the caves.

The mushrooms are grown from spawn which is sprinkled into the fine pulverized dirt and rock strata surrounding three or four weeks later. They continue to grow from the spawn for six months, after which the beds are dismantled. All dirt used in raising the mushrooms is hauled in from the outside, and after one crop is produced it is hauled out and fresh dirt brought in for another crop. It requires about six months to exhaust the humus in the black river-bottom dirt that is used.

Better Than Any Diet

EAT less attention to what you eat; not one person in a thousand need diet; but every one needs indigestion. Acidity, flatulence, heartburn are symptoms caused by excess stomach acid, and food fermentation.

Following a hearty meal, a hearty dinner, a little "Pape's Diapepsin" instantly neutralizes every acidity, stops that fermentation, and soothes and tones the acid sour stomach lining as if by magic. Your stomach is sick, and completely upset, a special point of getting a 60-cent package of Pape's Diapepsin" from your druggist today, and so follow the example of millions all over the world who use "Pape's Diapepsin" to end indigestion and allied stomach troubles.

With "Pape's Diapepsin" handy you can eat and enjoy whatever you fancy without fear of indigestion because it relieves all at any rate, it's worth the trial, for lots of folks have found a new freedom at the table.

JILTED SUITOR BROKE RECORD

Although His Heart is Still Intact, the Gramaphone Suffered

Birmingham, Eng. — Beware of the strange-looking phonograph record. It may be the yoke of a bailiff serving you with a summons or may bear a surprise similar to one received recently by a young man of Birmingham, who was rejected by his finance yesterday in the sound-box.

The young man found a letter and a phonograph record in his mail one morning. The letter explained that the girl did not care to break the engagement personally, nor did she relish of a "cold and callous letter" spread to her. He placed the record on the phonograph, turned on the machine and listened.

"I have come to the conclusion.... utterly unsuited....foolish to go on ....returning your ring...."

The girl's voice rasped. The young man put on a new needle.

"Don't take it too hard....wisest thing.... cave us misery."

He listened carefully until the record ended, then he took it off the machine, and calmly smashed is to bits.

The girl received the pieces the next day, and with them a note.

"The record is broken," it said, but my heart is not.

BIG ARMISTICE DAY IN IRELAND IN 1929

Many more poppies were sold in Ireland for this year's annual celebration of Armistice Day than ever before notes a Chicago News correspondent in Dublin. Despite the rain larger numbers attended the memorial services held in every Irish town.

The whole nation, north and south has come to regard Ireland's share in the World War as glorious and the old animosities between those who took different sides about it are disappearing.

Here and There

More than 20,000 acres of Indian lands, which include some of the best agricultural areas in the Peace River district, are likely to be thrown at auction in the near future. This action will in all probability follow a survey that is being made in the north country by W. Morrison, Inspector of Indian Agencies for Saskatchewan and Alberta, with headquarters at Regina.

A new industry—badger farming—may be started in Saskatchewan by John Rothenberger, farmer, of Vanguard. Last spring Mr. Rothenberger caught a bald-face and four pups. He built a large pen, about 15 feet long and 4 feet wide. During summer he fed the badgers until they are now almost tame and are said to be larger than any badger running wild. Their coats are in excellent condition and offers of $15 for each skin have been received.

A new world record was set by the Canadian Pacific Railway recently when a train of grain more than a mile in length was operated between Broughton and Kindersley in Saskatchewan. It was the longest and heaviest grain train in history, consisting of 135 loaded grain cars, each approximately 36 feet, in length, a water car, a caboose and engine. The gross weight was 8,722 tons and the total contents of the cars were 202,000 bushels of grain.

The enthusiasm of the citizens of Quebec is so infectious that it has an easy matter to interest visitors in winter sports, stated J. G. Strathdee, vice-president and manager of the Chateau Frontenac, in giving a forecast of this winter's programme. Skating, skiing and tobogganing will be pursued as usual; the dog derby will most certainly take place; and the ice carnivals and storming of the citadel will probably be repeated again he said. Mr. Strathdee mentioned the splendid co-operation given the winter activities at the Chateau Frontenac by the Quebec Winter Sports Association.

The number of disciples of Isaac Walton, Canadian and American, who have piled rod and reel in Canadian waters during the past season is greater than ever before, states A. O. Seymour, general tourist agent of the Canadian Pacific Railway at Montreal in announcing the winners of the C.P.R. Montreal-Lac camp fishing trophy competitions. Phillip Peterman of Lansing, Michigan, won the Nipigon River contest for speckled trout, and Reginald Eberhart of Chicago won the French River "muskey" prize, and "Theodore Link" of Chicago caught the largest bass entered in Devil's Gap camp competition.

England will have enough Canadian apples shortly to keep the doctor away for the next year, if there is any truth in the proverb, for the fruit crop in the old country this autumn are carrying many boxes of souvenir apples shipped by Canadians to their friends overseas. This has been the custom for the past few years and according to J. B. Martin, manager of the foreign department of the Canadian Pacific Express Company, it is becoming increasingly popular. So great has been the demand for fresh Canadian apples that arrangements have been made for shipment to Europe that practically throughout the year there will have standard these boxes for shipping and special rates are granted by the express company.

AS FIRE ALARM DOG WAS POOR

Chicago—As a fire alarm Chippie the Dog is both a success and a failure. To begin with, Chippie is mongrel, is the property of Mrs. Mary Lokso who lives in Maple Street, about three-quarters of a mile from the business district of West Chicago.

Early yesterday Chippie noticed flames bursting from the roof of the house next door occupied by Mrs. Lokso's son. Chippie barked loudly, and rushing to the bedside of his mistress tugged with his teeth at the bed clothing. Mrs. Lokso awoke and saw the fire.

She seized a kerosene lamp and acted in a manner not to be recommended.

He was so enthused that he got tangled up in her feet and Mrs. Lokso fell to the floor. The kerosene lamp exploded and set that house on fire.

Not dismayed Chippie ran out of the house and, in the meantime Mrs. Lokso's family of the younger Lokso. In the meantime Chief of Department Vince Sullivan had sent the fire from afar. Turning inan alarm, he rushed to the scene on his motorcycle.

The home of Chippie's mistress was burned to the ground. The home of the younger Lokso suffered $1,200 damage. There were no casualties.

The dog is pretty well satisfied with his work.

London will become quite a city of lovely rose gardens if many people follow the example of Mrs. Alec Tweedie, who reports she has just had her own turf in order on top of Devonshire House, where she has planted innumerable roses ready for the spring, while even balconies have ambitious gardening schemes now, and one of those at Grosvenor House, belonging to an American, actually has a miniature lily pond on it.

Experiments with new methods of iceless refrigeration are being made at New York University.

TODAY'S THOUGHT

"If he did not succeed, he at least failed in a glorious undertaking."

LIFE INSURANCE STEADILY INCREASE

It is reported that in the month of October $55,743,000 of new paid-for ordinary life insurance was purchased in this country, constituting a record for any single month, and being an increase of $5,000,000 over the previous highest month's business, which was experienced last May. The October sales are 18 percent greater than in October last year, and every provision shares in the gain. These figures do not tell the whole story, either, for they refer to the business done by only 84 percent of the Canadian life insurance companies.

The news is most gratifying. There is no safer or more satisfactory form of saving than life insurance, apart from the principal object for which it is taken out—namely, as a means of protecting surviving dependents. It has great moral value also, for ordinary life insurance is essentially an unselfish act, a recognition of an obligation and the fulfilment of a duty. The country which has a large volume of life insurance shows itself to be a land of conscientious and prudent citizens.

THE WORLD CANNOT NOW TURN BACKWARD

Those who are dissatisfied with the present social and industrial system find a certain fascination in contemplating — from afar — movements intended to provide a retreat from the hurly-burly — to bring back simplicity to life and to produce rules of conduct which are the reverse of those of the competitive principle.

No individual has attracted more attention to himself as a prophet of this school than the Indian mystic Gandhi. That he is a good and sincere man, who regards it as his mission to restore contentment and peace to a disordered world, and especially to his beloved native country, no one doubts. That there are many attractive features in the mahatma's doctrine is also admitted; the highest morality, combined with tenets which are merely the practical application of Christian doctrine, characterize his true followers. But in setting themselves against the advance of civilization they are inviting doom.

The little colony gathered around Gandhi, less than three hundred men, women and children, live austere lives of self-denial, hard work and poverty. Their influence is felt by millions of Indian people, but what are they achieving, beyond setting an inspiring example of virtuous living? The spinning and weaving, the farming operation at which they spend long hours of toil barely supply their very simple needs.

If all lived this sort of life, what would it profit the world? Yet they are logical enough, in turning away from modern industrial methods, to confine themselves strictly to hand labor. As Mr. Maurice Colbourne puts it in his book, Unemployment or War, there is no alternative to abandoning machinery but a reversion to medievalism. His plea that the machine be made the real servant of humanity, instead of humanity being made the servant of the machine, meets the problems which are so disgressing to idealists of the Gandhi type.

If these would only co-operate in the effort to reform economic methods with the aid of the machinery which modern progress supplies, instead of attempting to scrap the machinery, they would be doing more valuable service than by attempting the impossible. Humanity cannot be stopped in its forward march, but there is certainly need of better direction, and it is to men with deep insight, and the universal mind, that one looks for such direction.

THREE WEALTHY MEN HAVE DIED RECENTLY

Men of vast wealth have recently been brought to the attention of the curious by their death. Payne Whitney who died eighteen months ago has renewed attention by the filling of an appraisal of his estate which is valued at $1 ,000,000. This is said to be the largest ever put through the New York courts.

Whitney died suddenly when playing golf, which is a dangerous game according to records. He had 39 motor cars, of which four were Rolls-Royce, four Lincolns and four Fords. He left Peter Dunn of the "Dooley" books half a million besides having given him nearly a million previously.

But he had few books and they not of much account. He owed a clothing bill when he died of $2,321 and as he had 22 overcoatsas this is moderate. He left forty-five millions in charity, his two children get an interest in 27 millions, his wife in 54 millions and at their death the whole of the money goes to the granddaughter.

This wealth is nothing compared with that of Thomas Fortune Ryan who died last week leaving half a billion. He was 77 years of age and does not seem to have taken the same care of himself that Mr. Rockfeller exerts. Mr. Ryan kept $40,000,000 in his cash account. He made his fortune largely in traction interests in New York and afterwars in Ohio.

Another perhaps more picturesque figure, is Arnold Rothstein who was killed in New York on November 4th. He has been discovered by the police to be the man "higher up" for whom they have been looking for years. A search of his apartments revealed the most elaborate records of all his transactions. All the data were set down with the utmost care, every one of his big criminal transactions having been docketed and indexed and put away in his cabinets. This man's millions were made of all kinds of thuggery, dope selling, booze running and every form of organized crime. His death, evidently not anticipated, will provide evidence to convict many crooks.

OTHER MEN'S THOUGHTS

Good progress is being made in finding winter employment for the British harvesters who are anxious to stay in Canada. There appears to be fair demand on Alberta farms for winter help, provided men are prepared to accept a low rate of wages and board. There is a praiseworthy disposition in evidence to give the newcomers from Great Britain every chance to make good. Once they have been aided over their first winter in this country they will be better qualified to cope with conditions. They will be more experienced in work on the farm. They will be in a position to determine whether they will take up farming as a permanent means of livelihood. Calgary Herald.

HE ISN'T CONSTIPATED ANY MORE

Thanks to Kellogg's wonderful ALL-BRAN

Mr. Grimalade wrote, of his own accord, to tell us how much he liked ALL-BRAN. He said, among other things: "I was troubled with constipation. I tried many kinds of bran, but found them unsatisfactory. Now I eat ALL-BRAN regularly and it is all due to the use of your products. I will recommend ALL-BRAN to anyone that is bothered with constipation."

Sold by Grocers everywhere.

COMPANIONATES 1 ANNIVERSARY

Kansas Couple State That They Are More Than Happy

Girard, Kas.— As their first wedding anniversary draws near, Josephine Haldeman-Julius and Aubrey Roelle declare their companionate marriage is one of genuine happiness.

"A year old and healthy soon," says the 19-year-old wife, blinking back to November 22, 1927, when she and Roelle secured a united front to remain, childless until compatibility is proved and to be terminated by mutual agreement if they find each other incompatible. The union was hailed by many as courageous and denounced by more, as perilous to the institution called the family.

"It has been a year of fulness and wholesome expression of our emotions," the wife continues. "And it is genuinely happy."

"Josephine means more to me than she did even a year ago," speaks up her 21-year-old husband. "There has been no diminution of our affections. We have been able to live full and complete lives, instead of suffering inhibitions from Puritanical ideals."

Miss Haaldeman-Julius she plans to be, her maiden name until she is ready to settle down to keeping house — is completing the senior year in high school, while her husband works at his father's creamery.

A part of the week the companionate couple lives at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Emanuel Haldeman-Julius and the rest of the time they spend in their own home.

Mr. Haldeman-Julius, a prosperous publisher, announced at the time of their marriage that he would continue to support her until she completes her schooling, which is to include college.

Haldemand-Julius is an intimate friend of Judge Ben Lindsey of Denver, who advocated companionate marriage long before Josephine and Aubrey embarked on it.

MOON MADNESS IS NOT A MYTH

Tokyo, (By C. P.)— Moon madness is not a myth, declares Captain Toyosaku Sekine, veteran commander of steamships in the European trade. It is a legend in the Far East that moon madness has caused the death of many a sailor who kept evening watch on ships crossing the Indian Ocean from Singapore. But it is more than a legend, according to Captain Sekine. "Look at the log books and you will find it verified there," he will tell you.

"The moon seems to exert a strange, mystical power as it shines on the Indian Ocean. It possesses a peculiar brightness that seems to penetrate to the brain like some weird intoxicant. It seems twice as large as anywhere else in the world and as it climbs it seems so close that one can reach out and touch it with extended arms, the captain said.

It is on such nights as this that the men pacing the bridge go mad and cast themselves into the sea. As the ship glides smoothly over the mirror-like surface of the ocean and the full moon of a summer's night seems hanging on the mast even strong men must fight to keep free of the magic spell, the sailor continued. The magic of the night gets into their veins and they are carried into a world as strange as that of the ancient mariner. Nothing is real to them. They know not whether they are living or dead.

About People

In 1911 when in England on Imperial conference business and to attend the King's coronation, the late Rt. Hon. Andrew Fisher, one-time-(and then) Australian Premier, caused a controversy by refusing an honorary degree from the University of Oxford. He declared that the distinction was "snobbishness" and Commoners in London changed him with "playing to the gallery."

Through recent general elections the premiership of Sweden has fallen to Arvid Lindman for a second time in the 25 years' career. The switch is from a Liberal government back to by the retiring premier, Carl Ossian Lindman, to a government of the extreme right. Lindmans career has some of the fluctuatingcreams of that of ex-Premier Ekman, the first man in Sweden to rise to the premiership from the humble ranks of stonecutter. Premier Lindman returned from the navy with the honorary title of admiral, was elected in 1904 to the First Chamber as a protectionist and a Conservative and in 1911 became the leader of the Second Chamber. Ekman now holds the balance of power as head of a small group.

APPENDICITIS A SURGICAL CONDITION

Perhaps you wonder why I talk about appendicitis so frequently. It is a well recognized condition and if an operation is performed early, practically every case recovers.

Yet appendicitis is increas ng, and deaths therefrom are more frequent than ever before.

Why?

Because folks are always looking for the "regular" symptoms of appendicitis and often help to persuade the physician to wait also. Often they allow the pa n to come more than seven times.

As you know the usual symptoms begin with a pain in the abdomen which gradually gets over to lower right side and remains there, then there is vomiting or a feeling of nausea; then tenderness of the abdomen over the region of the appendix; then rigidity or "tightening" of the abdominal wall over the appendix region; and finally a rise in temperature.

Dr. Herbert A. Bruce has been calling the attention of the profession to a number of cases where these regular "official" symptoms were not all present, and owing to delay in operating, these cases were beyond help by the time the operation was performed.

These cases were thought to be "acute indigestion."

Dr. Bruce's suggestion is that the physician should call the surgeon in consultation at the very beginning of the trouble, and not wait for a "regular" condition, calling in a surgeon is the same as calling in an eye specialist, or ear specialist or a nerve specialist, when indicated.

ALDERMAN, 1929

D. W. ROLLINS

To the Electors of Belleville:

I respectfully solicit your support as a candidate for Aldermanic honors in the Electionsof Monday, Dec. 3rd.

Belleville has now been my home more than seven years. As president and general manager of Belleville Eclectric & Stamping Ltd., I have been endeavoring to build up here a manufacturing industry that would, in turn, give employment to a considerable number of our people and assist in the development of the city.

Our success has surpassed our expectations for our business has shown a satisfactory increase from year to year and 1928 will be the best in our history. We look for still more important expansion in the years to come. We have established at Belleville without question selling any local stock subscriptions or asking for financial assistance of any kind. Our factory now occupies the whole of the ground floor in what was formerly the Waste & Smith Stove Works.

I feel that I can serve the interests of Belleville citizens in the Council and likewise as active participant in its deliberations. I therefore solicit your support and influence at the polls next Monday.

Faithfully yours

Just For The Feminine Reader

FOR THE ECONOMICAL WIFE

We published some uses for flour sacks a short time ago, and another useful article is the sugar bag. That it may be made into useful articles. We know of women who wash the sacks, then rip them open and make nice soft dish towels. Another woman uses them as the foundation for a lamp shade. This was stretched tightly over the frame and a design painted on, traced from a cut from a magazine. We have seen paper pictures pasted on but the edges sometimes curl when this is done. The shade is then covered with shellac and sprinkled with that colored beady stuff ; we do not know the correct name for it), and when it was done and wired and hung over the top of the bed, it presented a most charming appearance when the light shone through it. Pretty curtains may be made also with the addition of colored borders of cretonne or checked gingham.

GIRLS WASTE VITALITY IN DAY DREAMS

Miss Christine Jope-Slade, the novelist, in an article in the London Sportsman, criticises the deliberate dopping of young girls with "sloppy love literature."

It detains young woman workers. "In the lotus land where it's everlastingly the afternoon when she might meet him," and "continues to put women to sleep in illusion.

"I was in a big solicitor's office to day and the chief was telling me that it is impossible to get girls with any genuine ambition for work; they are delivered up to their dusty dreams of tomorrow; their salaries go in dressing and preparation for it.

"The feminine mind to-day, tickled and perpetually irritated by the romantic tradition, finds it increasingly difficult to get down to business life, its responsibilities and tremendous possibilities."

People deplored the terrible waste of feminine vitality and potentiality in the Victorian age, and said: "look what a girl of today can do."

Yet the love literature which was served out to her by her own sex was bobbing her as effectively as the old "Lyre" of the Victorians once did. And while women "dope and drowse," men go on quietly and comfortably with life.

THE QUALITY OF BEING A GOOD LISTENER

Much has been said and written about women as talkers; the ability of womankind along conversational lines has been made the subject of as many so-called jokes as has the poor abused mother-in-law. This popular contention are not going to consider this aspect of the case but the question of good listeners. This is a highly commendable quality both in men and women. Also especially appreciable is when nothing is more flattering to them than that they be listened to with attention. We have all met with people who during the course of conversation pay not the slightest attention to what the other fellow" is saying but are just waiting for the moment when they can seek the centre of the floor themselves. Such conduct is not only discourteous but makes the person most unpopular. An enlarged eye is usually the underlying cause, a person of this type looms so important in his own eyes that the conversation of others is merely to be endured till he has an opportunity to express his own lofty thoughts, when he usually does at great length. Man's vulnerable point is that he is susceptible to flattery, has been aimed conceded so you women who are especially interested in pleasing the male of the species should bear in mind that he loves to do the talking himself, provided he is assured of an attentive listener. This is one of the reasons why many highly intellectual men will be attracted to some silly little flapper who apparently has not a brain in her head but who is wise enough to hang on his every word with rapt attention as though he were the pivot around which the universe revolved. No man is proof against such subtle flattery.

Some Helpful Hints For Busy Housewives

An "appointment" calendar for the year will help remind one of holidays and affairs in time to prepare for them.

Pork punctures in the skin of spices for baking or a icing cut round the centre will prevent their bursting.

Ice boxes should be scrubbed at least once a week with hot water and soda. A clean ice box means good health for the family.

The pan in which milk has been boiled will wash out easily if a cover is put over the pan as soon as the milk is poured out and before the steam escapes. Allow the pan to cool before taking off the cover. Then fill with cold water and let soak until ready to wash.

Matches should be kept in a metal container, high out of reach of tiny hands, never on the side of the range as many thoughtless women do. Keep the lid on the box between meals as a stray mouse cannot cause trouble.

UGANDA NOW IS A MODERN LAND

Forms of responsible government in Uganda where the legislators are native, to be witnessed by the Prince of Wales are thus described: In parliament the king of Uganda presides, sitting on a dais covered with leopard skins, the minister on a chair by his side. Chiefs who catch the Speaker's eye speak of the condition of their territory and perhaps call for some amendment of the law as applied to their own people.

The parliament possesses officers of state—the minister of justice, the minister of agriculture, the minister of finance and so forth—to whom all decisions are entrusted, in conference with the king and his prime minister.

Uganda, under its parliament, is day by day advancing to agonies of civilization unbelievable twenty-five years ago. Apart from parliamentary progress the native chiefs buy their clothes from London and ride in motor cars. Even the far flung tribes of the country who boast no clothes at all to speak of, ride bicycles with an air of nonchalance.

Gay Adventurers By Mildred Barbour

"Constance!"

She paused as three voices spoke her name. Bellefonte's famous hostess, Harry's confident, the Baroness's confidante.

"I know just what each of you is going to say," she exclaimed. "You're going to say you left all along that I was joking. Well, I wasn't. I'm not Constance Kerr—I'm Sheila Allen. And I'm going back to Paris by the next train to find Constance, for I'm beginning to think something dreadful has happened to her."

CHAPTER VIII

"I'M LEAVING."

Sheila's declaration that she was leaving for Paris on the first train, to find Constance Kerr, met with looks of utter incredulity from the Baroness and Bellefonte. Harry Edmonds, however, surprised her by patting her hand and saying, in sympathetic tones:

"Tell me maid to pack your things at once. I'll go with you, if you think you'll need help."

He and the Baroness and Bellefonte aside and walked with Sheila to the foot of the stairs. When she came to her room, he rejoined the others.

"What now?" gasped the Baronne. "Did you hear what she said."

"I know—I know," returned Harry impatiently.

"And you are going to Paris too, Sir," Sheila said, touched her forehead significantly. His eyes widened, but finally he nodded.

"I see," he murmured. "Yes, it is quite clear now. Her conduct in the past month has been that of one who had a secret to hide. When she left Paris on the first train, to find Constance Kerr, met with looks of utter incredulity from the Baroness and Bellefonte. Harry Edmonds, however, surprised her by patting her hand and saying, in sympathetic tones:

"Tell me maid to pack your things at once. I'll go with you, if you think you'll need help."

REGINA ROUGH ARE LIGHTER THAN EASTERN CANADA WINNERS

Will Play Hamilton Tigers In Hamilton This Saturday Afternoon

MAY SURPRISE CATS

Not Weight Alone Which Has Put the Bengals Where They Are

While the average weights of the 30 Regina players who will compete in the Dominion senior final at Hamilton next Saturday, "registers" at 185 pounds, it is likely that Vere Benobomb, giant inside wing, will not get into action, and his absence will reduce that weight by just enough so that each Rough Rider will then tip the beam at 181 1-2. Mr. Benobomb is just 43 years of age, and he thus has Ernie Cox and Edd Emerson backed right off the stage. If the western giant doesn't care to tackle the "Tigers" he will carry 235 pounds around in a managerial capacity and will find a way to make his presence felt. Benobomb claims that he is not old at all, in fact, he maintains that he is 43 years young, but he has been a long time travelling along the rocky football trail, and during thatstrip he saw much. For instance he helped Regina rosters and players count the score on that memorable day in 1924 when the Queen's Univers ity machine mowed down the western champions at the University of Toronto stadium, the final count being a mere 59 to 0, that kind of a thing could happen only once, in the opinion of the Rough Rider veteran, and he's counting back on the old saying that best, regain the glory that was lost. This Regina team is said to be light and fast, another "Orbin" aggregation, spurred on by the knowledge that it has nothing to lose and the world to win. The Rough Riders may be far more dangerous than most people in the east imagine.

Two Sides to Every Story

It is the general opinion that the Tigers won their games because of preponderance in weights, but if weight is everything in football, it is time for a change. Tigers are no heavier than most teams who have won titles in the past, and they are not as "hefty" as some who have reached the top. Montreal in 1919; University of Toronto, 1920; Argos, 1921; Ottawa, 1925 and 1926, and Balmy Beach in 1927 overall mammoth teams but the cry was never raised that superior weight alone had given them the honors. Why, then be critical of Tigers? As a matter of plain fact, "Gear" Elford and Art Denman are the two lightest inside wings in the east, while Ken Walker, "Pep" Leadley and Jimmy Simpson weigh all around the 160-pound mark. These men, all regulars, have starred in nearly every game and Elford is one of the greatest plungers Tigers have. Absolute harmony and the will to give their best put Tigers on the top rung.

SUGGEST CHANGE IN N.H.L. GAMES

In these days when apprehension is play 4 games with the other clubs in their section each season, and four being expressed in some quarters that professional hockey is on the road to domination by the United States Clubs of the National Hockey League, it is interesting to note that there is a rumble coming from some of the Unit ed States Clubs regarding the present schedule arrangements. Their chief racing seems to be that they want more games with the Canadian teams which are all big drawing cards across the border.

Under the present arrangement, with two sections and each club playing 44 games, the teams in a section division. This means that the team in the American group play only two home games with each club in the Canadian section and three home games with the Canadian Clubs.

The move has not taken any tangible form, but some of the American clubs are suggesting a change. They would hold to the present system of divisions but would have three games each around, which would mean a 54-game schedule for all clubs instead of 44 as now. However, those suggesting the change would switch the play-off arrangements, having only a final series between the two sectional winners with second and third clubs in each division sharing in the proceeds from the play-offs.

Your Eyes and Our Service

By J. A. McFEE, Optometrist Belleville

The Optometrist regards his profession as important?

Yes, he sees such surprising benefit in so many cases that he considers his profession as important as any other.

Do the eyes usually receive equal attention with other parts of the body?

Scarcely. It is known that there is a tremendous amount of abnormal vision in every community which demands correction.

The Optometrist can only suggest that these er rors receive attention?

Yes. While he realizes the great benefit his profession is rendering it could be, he must await the conviction and action of those needing his services.

The patient must take the first step towards improvement then?

Yes, the ethical Optometrist can offer no price inducements or in any way urge a person to become a patient.

HOLDOUT GOALIE SIGNS CONTRACT

New York, Nov. 28— Roy Worters, crack goalie of the Pittsburg Pirates in the National Hockey League, signed a contract today after holding out from the start of the season. Jimmy Leonard, former lightweight champion and new owner of the Pirates, announced here. Leonard said Worters signed at the club's figure, which was considerably less than the $8,000 the goalie had demanded as a single season's salary.

Leonard said, however, that Worters will not play for Pittsburg. He will be traded to the club offering the most cash and player strength. Worters is considered one of the outstanding goal tenders of the league.

"I have an offer from the New York Americans, the retired champion said, "of Al Ier the goalie we borrowed, and $20,000 for Roy. I would prefers more than money, however, and since they won't give me Norman Hines or Johnny Sheppard, one of the Detroit Wonders, will go to the highest bidder in cash and players. Boston had made me an interesting offer."

The Americans have sought Worters' services for some time and loaned Miller, a sub-goalie, to Pittsburg when Worters refused to sign in expectation that the goalie would be made Worters was suspended recently by President Calder, head of the league, and clubs in the circuit were warned not to negotiate with him without Pittsburgh's consent.

ST. MICHAEL'S FOR O.H.A.

Toronto, Nov. 30— St. Michael's hockey club of this city will again have a hockey team in the Ontario Association after a lapse of 5 years if their application is passed by the new O.H.A. executive Friday night. The St. Michael's club in 1909 and 1910 won the O. H. A. senior championship, and in 1912, 1914 and 1915 were runners up. They won the Allan Cup in 1909. Father Jack Spratt, one-time star forward player on the old team, and coach of the Owen Sound Greys, Dominion junior champions in 1928, will coach the team. University of Toronto, Kitchener and Preston are the only junior teams so far entered in the O. H. A. race.

COULD NOT HIT

New York, Nov. 30th.—Strange as it may seem, batters of the New York Yankees and the Philadelphia Athletics were the first in the American league when sent up to the plate as pinch batters this summer.

The statistics show that the Athletics were seventh in pinch batting and the Yankees eighth.

The A's obtained only 15 hits by pinch hitters in 120 times at bat, while the Yankees benefited by safe blows only 16 times in 102 efforts.

The White Sox were the best pinch batters. Their average shows 29 safe blows in 98 attempts.

SPORTOGRAMS

Due to Wednesday night's loss to the C. N. R., the Acmnie squad are out of the race for the City Industrial Basketball League honors. They failed to get going in their best form at the start of the season, and were unable to make up the lead the others had on them. The C. N. R. have first place practically clinched, but it is still a fight for the second position between Stephens-Adamson and the American Optical. The winners and the team in second place play off at the end of the schedule, which will be in another week for the championship of the city.

The league this year has been the best yet, and several new players of more than passing note have been discovered. Belleville Intermediate O.A.B.A. team this year should be the strongest in several years, and will make the Queen's, R. M. C. and Kingston teams hustle to keep from representing this group again this year.

And still there seems to be great doubt among those who should know as to where the Belleville juniors and intermediates will play their hockey next winter. If the weather is with us right now and the boys have got out at least every night getting their wind ready for a hard campaign on the ice. Two or more games will be played before putting on the skates does a world of good to any team, in fact there is no exception to the rule.

The Intelligencer Black Hawks will play their home games on the Trenton ice if there is room available, here this winter. This team is entered in the Bay of Quinte league and having practically the same men. to their staff will make it interesting for the Belleville and Napanee this year. There is a possibility of Marmora coming into the league this winter, although nothing definite has been done as yet.

Toronto Leafs are next to the New York Americans, the second team of the league. They manage to win all their games at home by fairly substantial leads, even, defeating the Maroons, which is something unprecedented on Canadian ice, and they stood the Canadiens on their heads in one game. Yet when they go away from home, they fall dismally. But when they do strike their stride on the ice out of town styles—watch them step!

And also, just in passing, it seems about time for a meeting to be called of the executive of the Belleville and District Hockey League. The league was certainly a success last year, and it would be too bad for it to die a natural death after the work which has been put into it to build it up. So let's get some action, soon.

BASKETBALL

A very exciting game of basketball was staged in the Y.M.C.A. on the City League at the Y.M.C.A. when the Robins and Larks met, the Larks winning out by the score of 18—17. Both teams had only five players and this made the game a very close checking affair. The Larks were also leading at the half way mark by 13—11. For the winners Miss Curry and Miss Davies shared the honors for high scoring each having 8 baskets. And for the losers Miss Crul was the leading scorer with 4 baskets.

The Line-ups:

LARKS: forwards Irene Hallman and V. Wheeler; centre L. Curry; R. L. guards P. Melchior and J. Miles.

ROBINS: forwards, A. Wilkins, F. Davidson; centre G. Crul; guards T. Warham and P. Davie.

GO TO HENLEY

Ottawa, Nov. 30— At the annual meeting of the Ottawa Rowing Club, Dr. P. D. Ross announced that the club's eightoared crew won the Canadian Henley next summer, he would finance the cost of the winning crew to Henley, England. He also promised a contribution of $500 to the club if the oarsmen need a like amount. Bert Brisco was elected president.

UMPIRE IS SOLD

Los Angeles Cali., Nov 30— George Magerkurth, Pacific Coast league umpire, has been sold to the National league for the reported price of $2,500.

George Clayton of St. Louis was fined $50 for stealing a 15-cent package of cigarettes.

Sir William Cockerling of Hull, England, escaped trial for tax fraud by paying $3,000,000.

The Western Canada ski championships of combined skiing events will be held in Banff again this season in conjunction with the Banff winter carnival, due to take place next February, it has been decided upon. Such famous skiers will probably be in attendance as Nelson of Revelstoke, Telfson of Vancouver, last year's Canadian representative at the Olympic games,—and Nordmee of Canmore.

"Once upon a time there were sixty foxes who didn't wear panties and didn't wear sozes, but they all went travelling in nice big horses."

A pretty idea A. A. Milne's famous nursery rhyme is inspired by a shipment of airy black and silver foxes who passed through the Windsor Street Station recently en route to Switzerland from Calgary. They were "under the wing" of the Canadian Pacific Express, who say that the animals got their diet of raw meat regularly.

The case of a motorist being stricken with "buck fever" and putting his car into the ditch on his Nipigon district. While driving along the highway between Nipigon River Bungalow Camp and Port Arthur the motorist was startled when a deer appeared on the road before him. Whether he tried to chase the animal or forgot to turn the wheel, he does not recall, but when he recovered his senses he and his car were in the ditch. Little damage was done.

The building of more than 400 miles of new branch lines, with 71 new stations and additional buying sums up in brief the construction programme of the Canadian Pacific Railway in Western Canada during the past summer, announced by D. C. Coleman, Vice-President, Western Lines. By this means hundreds of farmers had been brought closer to the transportation facilities, and thousands of acres of rich agricultural land made more easily and profitably attractive from the settlers' viewpoint.

"I can say, without any hesitation, that there is no better opportunity to the world for farming at the present time. Land, transportation facilities, and there are indications that there is better stability and prosperity than can be found in any other country," said A. D. P. Archibald, director in charge of the Dominion Experimental Farms Service, addressing the Young Men's Canadian Club in Montreal. Dr. Archibald said that farming in Canada are worth $1,167,000,000, which is equal to the fisheries, mines and forests all put together.

"The province of Alberta generally will receive more game fish than ever before, was the opinion of J. A. Robb, superintendent of fish culture in the Department of Marine and Fisheries, who returned from a trip to Alberta. The whitefish hatchery just opened by the Dominion Government at Lesser Slave Lake, will help his commercial fishing, he said, while trout in the neighbourhood of Banff, the Rocky Mountains resort, will be greatly improved by the advanced fry and fingerling rate fish that have been placed in the streams. The hatchery at Banff, he added, will be extended slightly.
